NUNTON, a parish now united with Bodenham, in the hundred of Downton, Wilts, 2½ miles from Salisbury, and 82 from London. The population was included with Bodenham.

NUNTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Ayton, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York. 3½ miles from Gisborough, and 250 from London; containing 17 houses and 132 inhabitants.

NUNWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Brodin, in East Medina liberty, Isle of Wight, Hants, where is the handsome seat of sir W. Oglander, bart.

NUNWICK, a small hamlet in the parish and liberties of Ripon, west riding of York, in the neighbourhood of Ripon; containing 4 houses and 27 inhabitants.

NURSLING, a parish in the hundred of Buddlesgate, division of Fawley, Hants, 3 miles from Rumsey, and 76 from London; containing 56 houses and 487 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

NUTCOMB, a hamlet in the parish of East Allington, Stanborough hundred, Devon, 2½ miles from Kingsbridge, and 206 from London. Population included in the return from East Allington.

NUTFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Reigate, Surry, 10 miles from Croydon, and 19½ from London; containing 80 houses and 524 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

NUTHALL, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, 4½ miles from Nottingham, and 128½ from London; containing 88 houses and 370 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*

NUTHAMPSTEAD, a hamlet in the parish of Barkway, hundred of Edwintree, Herts, 7 miles from Standon, and 33 from London; containing 28 houses and 152 inhabitants.

NUTHURST, a parish in the hundred of Singlecross, rape of Bamber, Sussex, 3½ miles from Horsham, and 39 from London; containing 77 houses and 465 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the Bishop of Chichester.

NUTHURST, a hamlet in the parish of Hampden in Arden, hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 8 miles from Birmingham, and 108 from London. Population included with Hampden in Arden.

NUTLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Preston Candoven, hundred of Bermondspit, division of Basingstoke, Hants, 5 miles from Basingstoke, and 50 from London; containing 13 houses and 110 inhabitants.

NUTLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Maresfield, hundred of Rushmanden, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 8 miles from East Grinstead, and 36 from London, on the south border of Ashdown Forest. Population was returned included with Maresfield; and has a fair on the 4th May.

NYDE or ICA, a small river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Ouse at Nunnunckton.

NYMET TRACEY. See BOW, Devonshire.

NYMET ROWLAND. See NIMET ROWLAND, Devonshire.

NYEND SOLARS. See NEEN SOLARS, Salop.

NYMPSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stroud, and 106 from London; containing 93 houses and 523 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the king.

NYMPHBANK, a considerable fishing-bank in St. George's channel, lying about 10 leagues off the coast of Waterford, province of Munster, Ireland, and abounds with cod, ling, skate, bream, and whiting.

OADBY, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 3 miles from Leicester, and 93 from London; containing 126 houses and 624 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

OAKE, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 5½ miles from Taunton, and 150 from London; containing 26 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11l. 5d.

OAKEFIELD. See WOKEFIELD, Berks.

OAKFORD, a parish in the hundred of Witheredge, Devon, situated on a small river that runs into the Ex, 2½ miles from Bampton, and 166 from London; containing 81 houses and 408 inhabitants; was antiently noted for its store of oak timber. It is a rectory, value 21l. 12s. 8d. in the patronage of Lord Rivers.

OAKFORD CHILDS. See OKEFORD CHILDS, Dorset.

OKEHAM or OKEHAM, the county town of Rutland, situated in the rich valley called the vale of Cadmas, 16 miles from Leicester, 95½ from London by Bedford, and 96½ by Dunstable; consisting of 2 townships or manors called the Lords Hold and the Deans Hold, the former manor being under the earl of Winchelsea, who holds an annual court at which the parish officers are chosen, and to which all the inhabitants must appear to pay one penny, and all freeholders, copyholders, and wasteholders, pay their acknowledgments: the latter manor is under the Dean of Westminster, who holds a triennial court, and is chiefly copyhold. The Lords Hold, contains 218 houses and 056 inhabitants; and the Deans Hold, 130 houses and 537 inhabitants, including the adjoining hamlets of Barleythorpe, and Brooke. The church is dedicated to Allsaints, and is a spacious structure with a nave, chancel and side aisles; the tower containing a clock and a good ring of bells, is terminated by a lofty spire, which is seen at a considerable distance. The outer walls of its castle and ditch are still remaining, but the castle itself has been long demolished, the building which is now called the castle, was built with the materials of the old one. It is now the hall where the assizes are held, and the public business of the county transacted.—The castle was first built by Walkelin de Ferrers, son of the earl of Derby, soon after the conquest, but is now the property of the earl of Winchelsea. There has long been a custom that the first time any peer of the realm comes within the precinct of this Lordship, he forfeits a shoe from the horse he rides on to the lord of the castle or manor, unless he chuses to commute for it; several horse shoes, gilt and of curious workmanship, are in consequence nailed on the castle hall door, some of them being stamped with the names of the donors. This custom appears to have been derived from its former owners, the Ferrers, whose arms were 3 horse shoes. The town has some well endowed almshouses. The living is a vicarage, value 28l. 3s. 1d. in the patronage of lord Rivers.—The noble mansion of the earl of Winchelsea, is in the neighbourhood near Burleigh on the hill, built of fine free stone which was brought from Clipsham, the most northerly part of the county, and Ketton. The N. and S. fronts are exactly similar being 196 feet in length, the E. and W. fronts are also similar but only 96 feet long. The grand terrace to the south commands a fine prospect of rich country, with fine vales and hanging woods. This terrace being nearly 300 yards long and 30 wide, is supposed to exceed every thing of the kind in the kingdom, from whence is a descent by several flights of steps. To the north is the grand entrance which is singular and grand; a noble court is entered by two handsome lodges, 800 feet therefrom in a straight line to the hall door—to the left of which is a very extensive uniform suit of stables, and on the right suitable offices, answering in point of uniformity. From the offices a beautiful circular colonnade of great length, supported by Doric Columns, runs up to the house. On the first floor is a fine painted room called the saloon, and some of the paintings are extremely well executed, representing the history and battles of Julius Cæsar. The library is very extensive, and has a choice collection of books, some curious subjects in anatomy and natural history, and many valuable family portraits.

OAKHAMPTON, a borough, market town, and parish in the hundred of Lifton, Devon, situated near the source of the small river Oak or Oke, in a valley about 1 mile from the borders of Dartmoor, 21 miles from Exeter, and 195 from London; containing 264 houses and 1430 inhabitants; of whom 223 were returned as being employed in various trades. The church is situated on a hill, 1 mile from the town, and in the market place is an antient chantry chapel. In the suburbs are the ruins of its antient castle, dismantled by Henry 8th. on the attainder of Henry Courtnay, marquis of Exeter. The chief fuel of this town is the peat or turf, cut from Dartmoor. It has a small manufactory of serges.

It is a very antient borough, and is governed by a mayor, burgesses, recorder, 8 aldermen, 8 common council, town clerk, &c. and sends 2 members to parliament, the number of voters being about 180; the returning officer is the mayor, who is chosen annually by the corporation, from among the 8 aldermen or principal burgesses. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 23d March, 17th May, 6th July, and 5th August. It is a vicarage, value 29*l.*—Polwhele's Devonshire.

Oakhamsoke, a name of a division in Rutlandshire, being the western side of the county bordering on Leicestershire.

Oakingham. See Wokingham, Berks.

Oakley, a parish in the hundred of Stodden, Bedfordshire, 4 miles from Bedford, and 54 from London; containing 68 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*

Oakley, a parish in the hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 5 miles from Thame, and 50 from London; containing 57 houses and 305 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 17*s.*

Oakley Great, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 5 miles from Manningtree, and 62 from London; containing 104 houses and 769 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* and is in the patronage of St. John's College, Cambridge.

Oakley Little, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 3½ miles from Harwich, and 64 from London; containing 26 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 11*s.*

Oakley Great, a parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, 5 miles from Kettering, and 79 from London; containing 42 houses and 189 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Oakley Little, a parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, 5½ miles from Kettering, and 79½ from London; containing 24 houses and 113 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Oakley, an extra parochial chapelry, in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 3 miles from Tamworth, and 118 from London; containing 4 houses and 27 inhabitants.

Oakley, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Eye, and 92 from London; containing 44 houses and 298 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* united with Brome.

Oakover, a parish in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 3 miles from Ashborne, and 143 from London; containing 8 houses and 43 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Oakley, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, 4½ miles from Malmsbury, and 91 from London; containing 75 houses and 363 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Oakthorpe, a township in the parish of Church Gressly, in the hundred of Repton and Gressly, Derby, 5 miles from Burton, and 122 from London; containing 61 houses and 281 inhabitants.

Oare, a hamlet in the parish of Chievely, hundred of Faircross, Berks, 5 miles from Newbury, and 61 from London. Population included with Chievely.

Oare, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, lathe of Scray, Kent, 2 miles from Feversham, and 46 from London; containing 33 houses and 182 inhabitants.

Oban, a village in the parish of Kilmore, shire of Argyle, Scotland, situated on a fine bay in the sound of Mull, hid from the western ocean by the island of Kerrera, containing about 586 inhabitants. The bay is of a semicircular form from 12 to 24 fathoms deep, and capable of containing 500 sail of merchantmen—and this village has risen from a single house originally a store room, erected by a trading company at Renfrew. It has a regular ferry to Kerrera island, and from thence to Achnocraig in the isle of Mull; in the vicinity of the village are immense rocks of breccia or puddingstone, some of them are excavated to a great depth, particularly one about half a mile south of the village.

Oborne, a parish in the hundred and division of Sherborne, Dorset, half-a mile from Sherborne, and 116 from London; containing 26 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

Oby, a parish united with Ashby, in the hundred of west Flegg, Norfolk, near Caister, and 126 miles from London. Population included with Ashby.

Ochil Hills, a range of lofty mountains beginning in the parish of Dumblane, in Perthshire, Scotland, and stretching for many miles in an eastern direction into Fifeshire, the whole affording excellent sheep pasturage; the highest is Benecloch, which rises 2420 feet above the level of the sea. These hills abound in minerals, and in many parts quantities of fragments of lava have tumbled down their sides, amongst which are found agates, rock chrystals, and other precious stones. They also possess veins of copper, silver and lead—which have been worked to very considerable extent. Cobalt has likewise been found in different parts equal to that imported from Saxony.—Arsenic and iron have also been found, and of late years extensive beds of coal have been wrought.

Ochiltree, a parish in the shire of Ayr, Scotland, 11 miles from Ayr, on the road to Dumfries; containing 206 houses and 1308 inhabitants. It is watered by the rivers Lugar and Coyle, and has several ruins of antique castles.

Occlestone, a hamlet in the parish of Middlewich, hundred of Northwich, Chester, 2 miles from Middlewich, and 165 from London; containing 15 houses and 85 inhabitants.

Occold, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 86 from London; containing 56 houses and 397 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

Oak, the name of a hundred in Bucks, in the northern part of the county, and bounded by the river Isis, at the N. W.

Ockbrook, a parish in the hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 5 miles from Derby, and 122 from London; containing 161 houses and 827 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Ocke, a river in Berkshire, which runs into the Thames at Abingdon, and another of the same name in Devonshire, runs into the Towridge below Hatherleigh.

Ockel, a river which rises in the parish of Assint, Sutherlandshire, Scotland, and after a course of about 40 miles through Rossshire, falls into the Frith of Dornock.

Ockenden North, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 7 miles from Romford, and 11 from London; containing 33 houses and 243 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Ockenden South, a parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing, and 8 from Romford; containing 90 houses and 466 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 53*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Ockham, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, 6 miles from Guildford, and 24 from London; containing 92 houses and 473 inhabitants. This is supposed to have been the native place of William Ockham, a celebrated philosopher, and scholar of Duns Scotus, whose principles he controverted; he pleaded for the poverty of the clergy, and obtained from the Pope the title of the Invincible Doctor; he died in Germany, about the year 1347. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*

Ockle Pitchard, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 7 miles from Hereford, and 128 from London; containing 35 houses and 187 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 19*s.*

Ockley, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Surrey, 6 miles from Dorking, and 29 from London; containing 76 houses and 592 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*; in the patronage of Clare Hall Cambridge.

Ockleton. See Orleton, Worcester.

Ockridge, a hamlet in the parish of Bisley, in Gloucestershire.

Odcombe, a parish in the hundred of Houndborough, Somerset, 3 miles from Yeovil, and 125½ from London; containing 70 houses and 428 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church, Oxford.

Oddeston, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Shackerston, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 10 miles from Hinckley, and 109 from London; containing 34 houses and 181 inhabitants.

Oddingley, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 2 miles from Droitwich, and 117 from London; containing 22 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Oddington, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 2 miles from Stow in the Wold, and 80 from London; containing 81 houses and 421 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

Oddington, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 5 miles from Bicester, and 57 from London; containing 35 houses and 158 inhabitants. It is noted for a well of astringent water, said to be a cure for cattle which catch the flux, called the Ottmoor evil, from their grazing on that moor. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.*, and is in the patronage of Trinity college, Oxford.

Oddrode, a village in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, near Sandbach, and 158 miles from London; containing 148 houses and 917 inhabitants.

Odell, a parish in the hundred of Willy, Bedfordshire, 7 miles from Bedford, and 57 from London; containing 63 houses and 361 inhabitants.—Has a fair on Whit. Tuesday.—It is a rectory, value 19*l.*

Odiham, the name of a hundred in Hampshire, in the north eastern part of the county, and to the east of Basingstoke.

Odiham, a market town and parish in the hundred of Odiham, Hants, situate at the side of a chalk-hill, 24 miles from Winchester, and 42 from London; containing 184 houses and 1058 inhabitants; of whom 582 were returned as being employed in trade and manufactures. The keep of an antient castle is still to be seen here, in which David King, of Scotland, was kept prisoner; and the ruins of Queen Elizabeth's palace, the King's barns, &c. still exhibit proofs of its former greatness. It was formerly a free borough, belonging to the bishop of Winchester. It has a free school for 20 boys, and an almshouse for 12 poor persons. The poorer class of inhabitants are chiefly employed in spinning worsted, or winding silk. At the extremity of the town is a convenient wharf on the Basingstoke canal, which conveys all kind of goods to and from London. This was the native town of Lilly, the grammarian. It is a vicarage, value 23*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*; and is in the patronage of the chancellor of the church of Sarum.

Odsey, the name of a hundred in Herts, at the northern extremity of the county, bordering on Cambridgeshire.

Odstock, a village in the hundred of Cawdon and Cadworth, Wilts, 2½ miles from Salisbury, and 82 from London; containing 26 houses and 118 inhabitants.

Offa's Dyke, an immense intrenchment thrown up by Offa, a Saxon king, in the 8th century, to defend England from the incursions of the Welch, and continued on a line upwards of 150 miles, it is still visible along the borders of Wales, particularly near Wrexham.

Offchurch, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 5 miles from Warwick, and 78 from London; containing 48 houses and 267 inhabitants. At this place

Offa, king of the Mercians, is supposed to have had a palace. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Offenham, a parish in the hundred of Blackenhurst, Worcester; situated on the banks of the Avon, 2 miles from Evesham, and 99 from London; containing 63 houses and 264 inhabitants.

Offerton, a hamlet to Altrincham, in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, near Altrincham, and 178 miles from London; containing 60 houses and 351 inhabitants.

Offerton, a hamlet in the parish of Hope, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 4 miles from Tideswell, and 160 from London; containing 4 houses and 30 inhabitants.

Offerton, a township in the parish of Houghton-le-Spring, in Easington Ward, Durham, 6 miles from Sunderland, and 266 from London; containing 32 houses and 77 inhabitants.

Offham, a parish in the hundred of Larkfield, Lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 4 miles from Maidstone, and 30 from London; containing 44 houses and 251 inhabitantss It is a rectory, value 6*l.*; and is in the patronage of the king.

Offley, a parish in the hundred of Hitchin, Herts, 3 miles from Hitchin, and 34 from London; containing 124 houses and 602 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

Offley Little, a hamlet to the foregoing, and about half-a-mile distant. Population included therewith.

Offley High, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 3 miles from Eccleshall, and 148 from London; containing 82 houses and 523 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Offlow, the name of a hundred in Staffordshire, lying on the eastern side of the county, bordering on Derby, and Warwickshire.

Offord Darcy, a parish in the hundred of Joseland, Hunts, 4 miles from St. Neot's, and 56 from London; containing 44 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

Offord Cluny, a parish near the foregoing, containing 33 houses and 156 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Offton, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, 4 miles from Needham-market, and 74 from London; containing 39 houses and 264 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.*

Offwell, a parish in the hundred of Collyton, Devon, 2 miles from Honiton, and 156 from London; containing 60 houses and 302 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

Ogbourne St. Andrew's, a parish in the hundred of Selkley, Wilts, 2 miles from Marlborough, and 77 from London; containing 83 houses and 434 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value 15*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

Ogbourne St. George's, a parish in the hundred of Selkley, Wilts, 4 miles from Marlborough, and 78 from London; containing 85 houses and 406 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are the vestiges of some Roman encampments, called Barbury and Liddington Castle. Here was also a priory of benedictines, a cell to the abbey of Bec, in Normandy.—It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

Ogbourne Massey, a hamlet in the parish of Ogbourne St. Andrew's, half-a-mile distant; the population included with that parish.

Ogle, a hamlet in the parish of Walton, in Castle Ward, Northumberland, near the river Pont and on the banks of the Blythe, 13 miles from Newcastle, and 289 from London; containing 20 houses and 122 inhabitants. On an eminence formerly stood a stately castle, but there are hardly any remains of it now to be seen Ogmore, a hamlet to Ewenny, in the hundred of Ogmore, Glamorganshire. Wales, 5 miles from Bridgend—it was antiently a place of note, and gave name to the hundred. It is mentioned in Caradoc's history of Wales, as having a castle as early as the time of William Rufus, the keep and outer walls only of which are remaining; at a small distance from it are several pits filled with water, said to have sunk spontaneously, one of them is deemed unfathomable; it is circular, and is about 7 feet in diameter. One of the lords of Ogmore castle founded a priory of benedictines in the neighbourhood.

Ogmore, a river which rises on the borders of Brecknock, and running south falls into the Severn sea, a few miles west of Cowbridge.

Ogwell East, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 1¼ mile from Newton Bushell, and 188 from London; containing 58 houses and 256 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

Ogwell West, a parish also in the same hundred, ¾ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 7 houses and 53 inhabitants. It is united with east Ogwell.

Oich, a lake in the middle of the great vale of Inverness, about 4 miles long; its banks slope gently to the water forming a number of beautiful bays, and it contains several small islands covered with wood.

Oich, a river which rises from the eastern extremity of the above lake, and after a course of 5 miles falls into the Loch Ness. The river Tarff runs into the same lake, about 400 yards from the mouth of the Oich, forming a beautiful peninsula on which fort Augustus is built.

Okeford Fitzpain, a parish and formerly a market town, in the hundred of Sturminster, Newton division of Sherborn, Dorset, 3½ miles from Sturminster, and 108 from London; containing 81 houses and 476 inhabitants.

Okeford Shillings. See Shillingston, Dorset.

Okeford Child, a parish in the hundred of Redlane, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 5 miles from Blandford, and 108 from London; containing 107 houses and 498 inhabitants. The rectory is divided into 2 medieties, the one value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and the other 7*l.*

Okeford, a hamlet in the parish of Marshfield, in Gloucester, and the population returned therewith.

Okeham and Okehampton. See Oakham, Rutland, and Oakhampton, Devon.

Okeney, a hamlet in the parish of Emberton, in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 3 miles from Newport Pagnell, and 53 from London. Population included with Emberton.

Okewood, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Wootton, Surry, 2½ miles from Dorking, and 25 from London. Population returned with Wootton. It was antiently situated in an extensive wood of oaks.

Okington, a parish in the hundred of Northstow, Cambridge, 4 miles from Cambridge, and 54 from London; containing 42 houses and 284 inhabitants.

Old. See Wold, Northamptonshire.

Oldborough or Oldbarrow, a village in the hundred of Blackenhurst, Worcester, being a peninsula in Warwickshire, 1½ mile from Henley in Arden, and 103 from London; containing 19 houses and 113 inhabitants.—There is an antient tumulus here, whence it is supposed to have been named; and several warlike weapons have been dug up curiously shaped out of flint.

Oldbury on the Hill, a parish in the hundred of Grumbalds Ash, Gloucester, 4 miles from Tetbury, and 103 from London; containing 54 houses and 239 inhabitants.

Oldbury on Severn, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Thornbury, Gloucester, situated on the river Severn near Aust Passage, 2 miles from Thornbury, and 123 from London; containing 89 houses and 452 inhabitants.

Oldbury, a hamlet in the parish of Bridgnorth, hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, 2 miles from Bridgnorth, and 137 from London; containing 16 houses and 107 inhabitants.

Oldbury, a hamlet in the parish of Mancetter, in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 2½ miles from Atherstone-on-Stour, and 107 from London; containing 6 houses and 40 inhabitants.

Old Castle, a parish in the hundred of Abergavenny, Monmouth, 8 miles from Abergavenny, and 142 from London, on the borders of Hereford; containing 15 houses and 83 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Oldford, a hamlet in the parish of Stratford, Middlesex, situated on the river Lea, across which passed the Roman military way; it had anciently a stately manor-house, the gateway of which is still remaining.

Oldford, a small village in the hundred of Frome, Somerset, 1½ mile from Frome, and 104 from London: had antiently a ford over the Frome.

Oldham, a township in the parish of Prestwich, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 6 miles from Manchester, and 186 from London; containing 1212 houses and 12,024 inhabitants; viz. 5946 males, and 6078 females, of whom 5936 were returned as being employed in various manufactures of Manchester goods. Fair, 2d May.

Oldhamstock, a parish situated partly in the shire of Berwick, and partly in that of Haddington, Scotland, the village is finely situated as a fishing station, 7 miles from Dunbar, on the road to Berwick. The parish contains 124 houses, and 575 inhabitants. On the site of the antient castle of Dunglass, is an elegant modern building, the seat of Sir James Hall; near it is an old chapel still in tolerable repair.

Oldland, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bitton, hundred of Langley and Swineshead, Gloucester, 6 miles from Bristol, and 108 from London; containing 618 houses and 3103 inhabitants, viz. 1490 males, and 1613 females; of whom 596 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 308 in agriculture.

Oldmoor, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Morpeth, Northumberland, 3 miles from Morpeth, and 294 from London; containing 9 houses and 59 inhabants.

Old Park, a hamlet in the parish of Whitworth, Darlington Ward, Durham, 6 miles from Durham, and 254 from London; containing 2 houses and 20 inhabitants.

Oldstead, a hamlet in the parish of Kilburn, in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Thirsk, and 219 from London; containing 20 houses and 114 inhabitants.

Oldswinford, a parish in Halfshire hundred of Worcester, in which the borough of Stourbridge is situate, 128 miles from London; containing 705 houses and 3766 inhabitants, viz. 1848 males, and 1918 females; of whom 3439 were returned as being employed in trade, and 137 in agriculture. See Stourbridge. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Oldveston, a parish in the hundred of Langley and Swineshead, Gloucester, 10½ miles from Chipping Sodbury, and 124 from London; containing 164 houses and 899 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 24*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Bristol.

Olfcoat, a hamlet in the parish of Ashborne, hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, 1 mile from Ashborne, and 140 from London; containing 48 houses and 420 inhabitants.

Ollerset, a hamlet united with Beard and Whittle, in the parish of Glossop, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 5 miles from Chapel-en-le-Frith, and 170 from London. Population included with Beard.

Ollerton, a hamlet in the parish of Peover, hundred of Bucklow, Cheshire, 3 miles from Knutsford, and 170 from London; containing 44 houses and 244 inhabitants.

Ollerton, a market town in the hundred of Bassel-law, Notts, 13 miles from Newark, and 138 from London; containing 93 houses and 439 inhabitants. The market is on Friday

Olney or Oulney, a market town and parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 5 miles from Newport Pagnell, and 56 from London; situated on the river Ouse, and containing 444 houses and 2003 inhabitants, viz. 872 males and 1131 females, of whom 1928 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, particularly that of bone lace, for which it has long been noted.—The church has a beautiful spire steeple, the only one in the county. The market is on Monday, though now greatly reduced. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Olrick, a parish in the shire of Caithness, Scotland, 4 miles from Thurso, and 18 from Wick; containing 215 houses and 1127 inhabitants. The sea coast is rugged and shelving, affording a safe harbour at Dunnet and Muskle Bay. The parish in general is fertile, and in a high state of cultivation. In the southern part is lake Durran, about 3 miles in circumference; there are here several subterraneous buildings called Pictish houses, and on the summit of the hill of Olrick are the vestiges of a watch tower.

Ombersley, a hamlet in the parish of Black Torrington, Devon.

Ombersley, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 5 miles from Worcester; containing 283 houses and 1696 inhabitants, of whom 168 were returned as being employed in various trades. The parish is very extensive being nearly 12 miles in circumference, and has 17 hamlets annexed to it. It has a good charity school, and is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

Ompton, a hamlet in the parish of Kneesal, in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 11 miles from Newark, and 135 from London; containing 11 houses and 69 inhabitants.

Onecote, a township in the parish of Leek, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 4 miles from Leek, and 155 from London; containing 151 houses and 615 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are several rich copper mines, the property of the Duke of Devonshire.

Onehouse, a parish in the hundred of Stow, Suffolk, 1¼ mile from Stow Market, and 78 from London; containing 21 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

Ongar, the name of a hundred in Essex, on the western side of the county, lying around Chipping Ongar.

Ongar Chipping. See Chipping Ongar, Essex.

Ongar High, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, 7¼ miles from Epping, and 25 from London; containing 101 houses and 741 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 39*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

Oney, a river in Herefordshire, which falls into the Lug, at Leominster.

Oney, a river in Salop, which falls into the Teme, at Ockley Park.

Onibury, a parish in the hundred of Munsow, Salop, 5 miles from Ludlow, and 148 from London; containing 71 houses and 359 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

Openshaw, a hamlet in the parish of Manchester, in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 2 miles from Manchester, and 182 from London; containing 61 houses and 339 inhabitants.

Oransay. See Colonsay, Scotland.

Orbe-in-mor-assynt, a lofty mountain in the parish of Assynt, Sutherland, Scotland.

Orby, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Wainfleet, and 137 from London; containing 53 houses and 183 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

Orcades, the antient name of the Orkneys. See Orkney.

Orchard East, a hamlet in the parish of Stourminster, in the hundred of Sixpenny-Handley, division of Shaston, Dorset, 5 miles from Shaftesbury, and 106 from London; containing 33 houses and 166 inhabitants.

Orchard West, a hamlet in the parish of Stourminster, in the hundred of Sixpenny-Handley, division of Shaston, Dorset, 3 miles from Stourminster, and 108 from London; containing 21 houses and 120 inhabitants.

Orchard Portman, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 1½ mile from Taunton, and 145 from London; containing 19 houses and 131 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

Orchardley, a small hamlet in the parish and hundred of Frome, Somerset. 1½ mile from Frome, and 106½ from London; containing 3 houses and 32 inhabitants.

Orcheston St. Mary's, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 7 miles from Amesbury, and 84 from London; containing 24 houses and 133 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

Orcheston St. George's, a parish in the hundred of Heytesbury, Wilts, 6½ miles from Amesbury, and 83 from London; containing 30 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Ordiquhill, a parish in the shire of Banff, Scotland, 6 miles from Cullen, and 45 from Aberdeen; containing 111 houses and 510 inhabitants.

Ordsall, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 1 mile from Retford, and 144 from London; containing 120 houses and 560 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

Ore, a parish in the hundred of Baldstow, rape of Hastings, Sussex, lying between Battle and Hastings, 63 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 243 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.*

Orford, a borough and market town in the parish of Sudborn, hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, situated near the confluence of the rivers Ore and the Alde, 5 miles from Aldborough, and 90 from London; containing 83 houses and 751 inhabitants. It is an ill-built town, but was once a place of considerable trade, till the sea throwing up a dangerous bar at the mouth of the harbour, it was choaked up and the town fell to decay. It is incorporated under a mayor, recorder, 8 portmen, and 12 burgesses. Of the castle there at present only remains the keep, its shape being a polygon of 18 sides, described within a circle whose radius is 27 feet; it is flanked by three square towers, placed at equal distances, each tower measuring in front nearly 22 feet, and projecting from the main building 12 feet; they are embattled and overlook the polygon whose height is 90 feet, and the thickness of the walls at bottom 20 feet; at the lower part they are solid, but above are interspersed with galleries and small apartments. It was proposed some years ago to take these remains down for the materials, but it being a necessary sea mark, particularly for ships coming from Holland, who by steering so as to make the castle cover or hide the church, avoid a dangerous sandbank called the Whiting, government interfered and prevented the demolition; the time of its erection and the founder have never been ascertained, but it seems to be of Norman origin, from its being coigned and in some places cased with Caen stone. This town gives the title of earl to the family of Walpole.—The market is on Monday.—Fair, 24th June.—Orford is a chapel of ease to Sudborn. Orfordness, lat. 52°. 4′. 30″. long. 1°. 28′. 1″. east.

Orforth, a hamlet in the parish of Binbrook St. Mary's, in the hundred of Walshcroft, division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 5 miles from Market Raisin, and 150 from London; containing 3 houses and 14 inhabitants.

Orgreave, a hamlet in the parish of Rotherham, wapentake of Strafforth and Tick-hill, west riding of York, 3 miles from Rotherham, and 158 from London; containing 9 houses and 45 inhabitants.

Orgrove or Oxgrove, a hamlet in the parish of King's Bromley, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 4 miles from Litchfield, and 122 from London; containing 22 houses and 104 inhabitants.

Orinsay, a small island of the Hebrides, betwixt Borreray and North Uist, and separated from the latter by a narrow sound, which is dry at low water.

Orkney Islands, the Orcades of the Antients. They are separated from the main land of Scotland by the Pentland Frith, which is 10 miles broad; and are in number about 30, many of them being uninhabited, producing only sheep pasture; the principal inhabited islands are Pomona, Hoy, North Ronaldsay, South Ronaldsay, Sanday, Stronsay, Eday, Westray, Shapinshay, Burray, Walls, &c.; the whole is divided into 18 parochial districts, containing 4475 houses inhabited by 24,445 persons, viz. 10,848 males and 13597 females, of whom 2370 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 14,586 in agriculture. The straights between them called Voes by the inhabitants, have exceeding rapid currents, and near the island of Swinna are two very dangerous whirlpools. The general appearance of the islands is hilly and rocky, and in some places sandy and barren, their chief produce being barley and oats: the climate in summer is moist and cold, but in winter there is never much snow, and it is of very short continuance. During the months of June and July, the inhabitants can see to read distinctly at midnight; and in December and January, the days are extremely short, the sun being only 4 hours above the horizon, and through the greater part of the winter all communication with the main land is impracticable. Agriculture is in a very backward and rude state; here the crops of oats are sown late in March or early in April, and barley in the beginning of May; the summer is employed in preparing fuel from turf and peat, and the crops are reaped from the latter end of August till the end of September, if it should remain later, it is generally from the gales preceeding the autumnal Equinox. Little is done during the winter months, except fishing on the coast, and during the summer kelp is the staple commodity of the Orkney's. Except juniper, wild myrtles, heath, and a shrub called Cyor-hordon, there is scarcely a tree or plant to be seen. There are no rivers, but the whole district is well supplied with lakes and rivulets which even turn mills and produce delicious trout and some salmon. The land animals are small horses, sheep, black cattle, swine, rabbits, red deer, and other game; the sheep are very numerous, but as they mostly run wild on the hills, suffering all the severities of hunger and cold, they are a very puny breed, and 5s. is reckoned a fair price for one ready for slaughter; but their wool is excellent, notwithstanding their scarcity of food; they are very prolific and produce mostly 2 and often 3 lambs at a time. Goats are not common to the islands; the heaths abound with partridges, grouse, heathcocks, plovers, and other game. The wild birds, are, in various kinds of eagles, geese, ducks, herons, hawks, gulls, soland geese, swans, gannets, &c. The eagles are very large and mischievous, and according to the laws of the islands, he that kills an eagle is entitled to a hen from every house in the parish where it was killed. The king's falconer visits the island annually to fetch away the young hawks and falcons, for which he has a salary and can claim a hen or a dog from every house in the country, except from particular exemptions. The sea coast swarms with otters and seals, besides plenty of cod, ling, haddock, herrings, and most kind of fish, and some whales; on the shores are found large quantities of shell fish; and corals, ambergrease, sponge, and spermaceti, are sometimes thrown ashore. But the greatest curiosity are those Phascoli, commonly known by the name of Molucca or Orkney beans, being a sort of fruit supposed to come from the West Indies; and sometimes exotic fowls have been driven on the coast in tempestuous weather; a single Laplander has been seen more than once in his slender canoe, driven hither by storms and adverse winds. The language is English with a strong Scottish accent, and the gentry like those of the main land are civilized and very hospitable; the lower class are remarkably superstitious, and produce many bold, active, and hardy sailors for the British service. They are here inured to great fatigue and are very adventrous, both in fishing and in climbing rocks after sea fowls, which they catch in the following manner: they row their boat under the rock where they descry the nests, and being provided with a large net, to the upper corners of which are fastened two ropes, which are lowered down by men on the top of the rocks, they hoist up the net opposite the cliffs where the birds are sitting, when the boatmen below make a noise with a rattle, which frightens the birds and drives them into the net. In other places the men lower each other by a single rope from the top of the precipice, to the place where their prize is. The prevalent distempers are mostly those occasioned by the moisture of the climate, such as rheumatisms, consumptions, agues, &c. for the cure of the latter they use a diet drink of bitters and antiscorbutics infused in ale. Their chief trade is supplying with provisions the vessels which touch upon the coast in northern voyages, and the East India fleet in time of war, when they pass this way to avoid privateers. They are also visited by the busses in the herring fishery, which barter tobacco, wine, brandy, and grocery, for provisions. The produce of its kelp has been calculated at about 3000 tons per annum, at the rate of about 6*l.* per ton. The Isles of Orkney and Shetland compose one stewardry, and send one member to the Imperial parliament. The right of superiority was dismembered from the crown by the union parliament, and granted for a certain consideration to the earl of Morton, who was by queen Anne appointed hereditary steward and justiciary, but at the abolition of hereditary jurisdictions it became vested in the crown, but as the earl of Morton possessed the patronage of the stewardry, that nobleman long possessed the office of steward and sheriff. Lord Dundas acquired the superiority some years since by purchase from the earl of Morton. He is authorized to appoint certain judges called bailiffs, one in every island and parish, who has power to hold courts, try civil causes to the value of 10*l.* scots, or 16*s.* 8*d.* sterling, as well as superintend the manners of the inhabitants; but all other matters are referred to the decision of the steward or his deputy at Kirkwall, the court town. The early accounts of these islands are involved in fable. They were first described by Mela, and Pliny the elder states their number to be about 40; again by Solinus they are stated not to have had a single inhabitant, but to have been overgrown with rushy grass. According to Ossian, the Orkneys were a distinct kingdom, having powerful monarchs of their own. It is probable that the Picts possessed these islands till the subversion of the Pictish kingdom by Kenneth II.; and that they continued annexed to the Scotish crown until 1099, when they were assigned to the king of Norway, and were again transferred to the Scotish crown in the middle of the 13th century, after which they were frequently disturbed by the pretensions of the Norwegians till 1470, when James III. of Scotland married Margaret, daughter of the king of Norway, when they were finally given up in lieu of dowry.—Pennant's Tour.

ORLESTON, a parish in the hundred of Ham, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 5 miles from Ashford, and 59 from London, near Romney Marsh; containing 33 houses and 209 inhabitants. Fair on Holyrood day. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.*

ORLETON, a parish in the hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 5 miles from Leominster, and 142 from London; containing 95 houses and 507 inhabitants. Fair 14th April. It is a curacy.

ORLETON, a hamlet in the parish of Eastham, hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 5½ miles from Tenbury, and 128 from London; containing 17 houses and 89 inhabitants.

ORLINGBURY, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Northampton, 2½ miles from Wellingborough, and 70 from London; containing 55 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

ORLINGBURY, the name of a hundred in Northamptonshire, lying in the centre of the county, between Wellingborough and Kettering.

ORMESBY, ST. MARGARET'S, and ORMESBY ST. MICHAEL'S, an united parish in the hundred of East Flegg, Norfolk, 3½ miles from Caistor, and 128 from London; the former containing 58 houses and 445 inhabitants; the latter 31 houses and 219 inhabitants. The united living being a vicarage, value 10*l.* 10*d.* with Scrowtby annexed, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich.

ORMESBY, a parish in Langborough West wapentake, north riding of York, near Stokesley, and 240 from London; containing 74 houses and 357 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

ORMISTOUN, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, on a branch of the river Tyne, 9 miles from Edinburgh, and 4 from Dalkeith; containing 176 houses and 756 inhabitants. The village is neatly built on a rising ground, consisting of two parallel rows of houses, having a spacious street between them. It is mostly a farming village, the only branches of manufacture being a distillery and starch work. Near it is Ormistoun Hall, the delightful seat of the earl of Hopetoun, in the gardens of which is a yew tree supposed to be 300 years old, the trunk of which is eleven feet in circumference. At the hill of Doderidge Law, are the vestiges of a Danish camp.

Ormsby South, a parish in the hundred of Hill, parts of Lindsay, Lincoln, 4½ miles from Spilsby, and 138 from London; containing 37 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

Ormsby Nun, a parish in the hundred of Ludborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Louth, and 158 from London; containing 12 houses and 79 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.*

Ormside Great, a parish in East ward, Westmoreland, 1½ mile from Appleby, and 270 from London; containing 31 houses and 171 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.

Ormskirk, a market town and parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 12 miles from Liverpool, and 210 from London; containing 583 houses and 2554 inhabitants, viz. 1149 males and 1405 females, of whom 389 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. The church is an ancient Gothic structure, having a square tower, and at a small distance, in the same church-yard, a spire steeple. It is supposed that the tower and steeple were built by two sisters of the name of Orme, the one being for a tower and the other for a steeple; but the credulous maintain that the spire originally stood upon the tower. The town has many handsome shops and buildings, possessing a good trade, particularly from its connection with the inland navigation. The market is on Thursday. Fairs, Whit Monday and Tuesday, and 8th September. At Latham hall, in the neighbourhood, is the mansion of the earl of Derby, having very extensive grounds, and noted for its mineral spaw call Maudlin's Well; although so far from the sea, it used to cast up marine shells in such quantities that they were troublesome to the drinkers, but it was at length prevented by laying mill stones on the spring. In the grounds are a suite of commodious almshouses with a neat chapel annexed. The living is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the earl of Derby.

Oronsay, a small fertile island of the Hebrides, in the parish of Jura and Colonsay, being separated from the latter by a narrow channel. The walls of an ancient priory are still standing here.

Orpington, a parish in the hundred of Rookesley, lathe of Sutton, Kent, 4 miles from Bromley, and 13½ from London; containing 102 houses and 693 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* with Cray chapel annexed.

Orphir, a parish in the Island of Pomona in Orkney, containing 152 houses and 864 inhabitants. The small island of Cava containing 19 inhabitants, belongs to this parish. Here are several chalybeate springs, quarries of iron ore and slate.

Orr, a small river in Fifeshire, Scotland, which rises in the parish of Beath, and after running a course of 15 miles, falls into the Leven, about 3 miles from its mouth.

Orrell, a hamlet in the parish of Sephton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 4 miles from Liverpool, and 209 from London. The population included with Aintree.

Orrell, a township in the parish of Wigan, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster 1½ mile from Wigan, and 200 from London; containing 533 houses and 1883 inhabitants.

Orsett, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 3 miles from Grays, and 27 from London; containing 125 houses and 511 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Orston, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 4 miles from Bingham, and 120 from London; containing 71 houses and 351 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

Orton, a parish in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Carlisle, and 302 from London; containing 39 houses and 173 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

Orton Longville, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, 2½ miles from Peterborough, on the banks of the Nen, and 80 from London; containing 38 houses and 197 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

Orton Waterville, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, 3 miles from Peterborough, and 80 from London; containing 49 houses and 270 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

Orton on the Hill, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 4 miles from Atherstone, and 111 from London; containing 62 houses and 303 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Orton, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, 3¼ miles from Kettering, and 78 from London; containing 18 houses and 83 inhabitants.

Orton, a market town and parish in East ward, Westmoreland, 8 miles from Appleby, and 274 from London; containing 291 houses and 1230 inhabitants. The church is an extensive old building, with a tower steeple. There are two free-schools in this town. Dr Burn, the author of The Justice of Peace, and joint editor of the History and Antiquities of Westmoreland and Cumberland, was vicar of this parish for 30 years. The market is on Wednesday. Fairs, 2d May, and the Friday before Whit Sunday. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

ORWELL, a parish in the hundred of Wetherley, Cambridge, 6 miles from Royston, and 43 from London; containing 68 houses and 375 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

ORWELL, a river, commonly called Ipswich water, which rising in the middle of Suffolk, runs south-east by Ipswich, whence it is navigable, and uniting with the Stour from Manningtree, forms the fine harbour at Harwich. Above Ipswich it takes the name of Gipping. Its winding banks are beautifully variegated with lawns, parks, cornfields, and elegant mansions. Packet boats sail to and from Harwich to Ipswich every tide, a distance of 10 miles.

OSBALDESTON, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Blackburn, and 212 from London; containing 41 houses and 252 inhabitants.

OSBALDWICK, a parish in the liberty of the Ainstey of York, 2 miles from York, and 198 from London; containing 21 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.*

OSBASTON, a hamlet in the parish of Market Bosworth, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 7 miles from Hinckley, and 106 from London; containing 30 houses and 152 inhabitants.

OSBOURNBY, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Folkingham, and 110 from London; containing 68 houses and 343 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 5*d.*

OSGATHORPE, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 5 miles from Loughborough, and 114 from London; containing 64 houses and 318 inhabitants.

OSNEY ISLE, Oxford is formed by the river Isis, in the meadows near Oxford, where a magnificent abbey was erected by Robert D'Oiley, at the instigation and with the consent of Editha his wife; part of its stately walls are still to be seen, converted into the outhouses of a water-mill standing on its site.

OSGODBY, a a hamlet in the parish of Kirkby, hundred of Betisloe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Bourn, and 100 from London; containing 10 houses and 55 inhabitants.

OSGODBY, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Market Raisin, and 152 from London; containing 33 houses and 123 inhabitants.

OSGODBY, a township in the parish of Hemingbrough, wapentake of Ouze and Derwent, east riding of York, 7 miles from Howden, and 185 from London; containing 33 houses and 146 inhabitants.

OSGOLDNESS, the name of a wapentake, in the west riding of York, near the eastern extremity of the county, and bounded on the north by the river Aire.

OSLISTON, a township in the parish of Sutton, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 132 from London; containing 42 houses and 263 inhabitants.

OSMASTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Brailsford, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 10½ miles from Derby, and 136 from London; containing 52 houses and 225 inhabitants.

OSMASTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of St. Werburgh, Derby, in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, 2 miles from Derby, and 125 from London; containing 21 houses and 114 inhabitants.

OSMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Collifordtree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Melcombe Regis, and 124 from London; containing 52 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 2*d.*

OSMOTHERLEY, a township in the parish of Ulverstone, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Ulverstone, and 270 from London; containing 45 houses and 218 inhabitants.

OSMOTHERLEY, a parish in the wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 10 miles from Thirsk, and 235 from London; containing 131 houses and 534 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

OSPRINGE, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, lathe of Scray, Kent, near Feversham, and 47 miles from London; containing 109 houses and 645 inhabitants. A stream of water runs across the village. King Henry III. founded an hospital called Maison de Dieu, or God's House, some slight remains of which are to be seen on the north side of the street, and on the south side stood an hospital for lepers. This was also a Roman military station. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of St. John's College Cambridge.—Hasted's Tour.

OSSETT, a township and chapelry in the parish of Dewsbury, Aybrig wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Wakefield, and 187 from London; containing 656 houses and 3424 inhabitants, viz. 1665 males, and 1759 females, of whom 1001 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

OSSINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 8 miles from Newark, and 132 from London; containing 35 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

OSTER HILL, a high tumulus near West Haddon, in Northamptonshire, supposed to have been named from Publius Ostorius, the Roman prætor.

OSSULTON, the name of a hundred in Middlesex, being the south-eastern part of the county, bounded by the Thames on the south, and the small river Lea on the east, including the metropolis.

OSTWICK, a village situated in the parishes of Ross and Ganton, Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Hedon, and 189 from London; containing 19 houses and 109 inhabitants.

OSWALD'S, ST. a township in the parish of St. John's Lee, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Hexham, and 286 from London. Population included with St. John's Lee.

Oswaldkirk, a parish in the wapentake of Rydall, north riding of York, 4 miles from Helmesley, and 214 from London; containing 33 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

Oswaldslow, the name of a hundred in Worcester, being the centre of the county round Worcester.

Oswaldwhistle, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Blackburn, and 209 from London; containing 457 houses and 2710 inhabitants, viz. 1349 males and 1361 females, of whom 951 were returned as being employed in various trades.

Oswestry, the name of a hundred in Salop, being the north western extremity of the county, and bordering on Denbighshire.

Oswestry, a market town and parish in the hundred of Oswestry, Salop, 17 miles from Shrewsbury, and 182 from London; containing 1153 houses and 5839 inhabitants, viz. 2787 males and 3052 females, of whom 463 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. It is pleasantly situated on an eminence between Wan's and Offa's Dyke, which run parallel to each other at about two miles distance. From its situation it was much harassed during the conquest of Wales by Edward I., and during the barons wars king John set fire to the town; it was soon afterwards rebuilt and again destroyed by Llewellyn in the year 1233. The town gates were fixed according to the four cardinal points, which are all down, and but few vestiges of the walls are now to be seen. The ancient name of Oswaldstre, that is Oswald's cross, is supposed to have been derived from Oswald, king of Northumberland, who was killed here in a battle with Penda, king of Mercia, before which time it was called Maserfield. The church, which was without the walls, is an extensive building, having a handsome but plain tower: Leland supposes it to have been once the chapel of a monastery. Near the church-yard is St. Oswald's Well, formerly noted for several cures. In 1794 a large handsome building was erected within about a mile of the town, by authority of parliament, for the relief and employment of the poor of that and eleven other neighbouring parishes. The parishes are represented at a weekly court by 16 directors, who are chosen out of, and elected by, the householders, of whom Oswestry sends 5, and each of the others 1. It has also a newly erected and commodious free grammar school, well endowed. The town has a considerable trade, much benefited by the canal which communicates with the Severn, the Dee, and Mersey. The corporation consists of 12 aldermen and 15 common-council. The high steward and town clerk are in the appointment of the lord of the manor; the mayor, recorder, and murenger, are elected by the body corporate; the coroner for the town is an annual office, held by the same person the year succeeding the mayoralty. The quarter sessions are held at the usual times. The market is on Wednesday. Fairs, 15th March, 12 May, Wednesday before Midsummer, 15th August, Wednesday before Michaelmas day, and 10th December, for horses, cattle, sheep, flannel and all kinds of provision. The church is a vicarage, rated at 23*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*

Osyth, St. a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 10 miles from Colchester, and 61 from London, near the sea coast; containing 226 houses and 1668 inhabitans. It is a curacy.

Otford, a parish in the hundred of Codsheath, lathe of Sutton, Kent, 3 miles from Seven Oaks, and 21 from London; containing 83 houses and 497 inhabitants. It is noted in history as the place where Offa, king of Mercia, defeated Lothaire, king of Kent, in 793, when Offa, to atone for the blood shed in this battle, gave Otford to Christ Church, Canterbury, as the deed runs "for pasture for the archbishop's hogs." Fair, 24th August. The church was formerly a chapel to Shoreham.

Otham, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, situated near the river Len, 2 miles from Maidstone, and 36¼ from London; containing 35 houses and 277 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Othery or Ottery, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 5 miles from Bridgewater, and 135 from London; containing 70 houses and 384 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

Otley, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, 6 miles from Woodbridge, and 77 from London; containing 36 houses and 415 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

Otley, a market town and parish in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 10 miles from Leeds, and 205 from London, on the banks of the river Wharf; containing 513 houses and 2332 inhabitants, of whom 500 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. The church has lately been neatly repaired, and contains several handsome monuments. The river abounds with excellent trout, eels, smelts, and sometimes salmon. The market is on Tuesday, and is generally well supplied. Fairs, 1st August and 15th November. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

Otterbourne, a township in the parish of Hursley, in the hundred of Buddlesgate, division of Fawley, Hants, 4½ miles from Winchester, and 66 from London; containing 70 houses and 440 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are several handsome gentlemen's seats.

Otterburn, a hamlet in the parish of Kirby Malhamdale, in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewerosse, west riding of York, 5 miles from Settle, and 228 from London; containing 5 houses and 26 inhabitants.

OTTERBURN, a township in the parish of Elsdon, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 32 miles from Newcastle, and 308 from London; containing 62 houses and 364 inhabitants. This place is noted in history for the battle between the English and Scots in 1388, wherein Henry Percy, surnamed Hotspur, was taken prisoner, and Douglas the Scots general, killed. The action of this battle is recorded in the delightful old ballad of "Chevy Chase." This village is situated on the river Rhead, and on the south side of the Cheviot Hills; entrenchments and scattered tumuli are still to be seen here.

OTTERDEN, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 11 miles from Maidstone, and 45 from London; containing 22 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

OTTERFORD, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 6 miles from Taunton, and 141 from London; containing 36 houses and 259 inhabitants.

OTTERHAM, a parish in the hundred of Lesnewth, Cornwall, 4 miles from Camelford, and 224 from London; containing 27 houses and 141 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

OTTERHAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Cannington, Somerset, 6 miles from Bridgewater, and 147 from London; containing 27 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.*

OTTERHAM-WHARF, a hamlet in the parish of Upchurch, in Kent, and included therewith.

OTTERINGTON NORTH, a parish in the wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 3 miles from Northallerton, and 222 from London; containing 9 houses and 42 inhabitants

OTTERINGTON SOUTH, a parish in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, near the preceding, 4½ miles from Northallerton; containing 31 houses and 144 inhabitants.

OTTERTON, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 6 miles from Exmouth, and 154 from London. It is named from its situation on the river Otter, which falls into the sea near this place. It contains 187 houses houses and 920 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 22*l.*

OTTERY, ST. MARY'S, the name of a hundred in Devonshire, towards the eastern point of the county, adjoining to Honiton.

OTTERY ST. MARY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Ottery, Devon, situated on the river Otter, 8 miles from Honiton, and 167 from London; containing 513 houses and 2410 inhabitants, viz. 1174 males and 1241 females, of whom 645 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 1539 in agriculture. Market on Tuesday. Fairs, Tuesday se'nnight before Easter, Whit Tuesday, and 15th August. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* in the patronage of the King.

OTTRINGHAM, a parish in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 3½ miles from Patrington, and 190 from London; containing 125 houses and 622 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

OUGHTERBY, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkbampton, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Carlisle, and 306 from London; containing 21 houses and 117 inhabitants.

OULPEN, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Badgworth, hundred of Berkeley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Wootton, and 104 from London; containing 35 houses and 188 inhabitants.

OULTON, a hamlet to Little Budworth, in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 7 miles from Nantwich, and 171 from London; containing 6 houses and 52 inhabitants.

OULTON, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Aylsham, and 119 from London; containing 67 houses and 351 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 5*s.*

OULTON, a parish in the hundred of Mutford and Lothingland, Suffolk, 2 miles from Lowestoffe, and 114 from London; containing 60 houses and 522 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

OULTON, a township in the parish of Rothwell, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Wakefield, and 188 from London; containing 268 houses and 1223 inhabitants.

OULSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Stamfordham, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 12 miles from Newcastle, and 288 from London; containing 7 houses and 37 inhabitants.

OULSTON, a township in the parish of Coxwold, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 8 miles from Thirsk, and 220 from London; containing 44 houses and 212 inhabitants.

OULSWICK, a hamlet in the parish of Monks Risborough, in the hundred of Aylesbury, Bucks, 4 miles from Wendover, and 36 from London. Population included with Risborough.

OUNDLE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Polebrook, Northampton. It is almost surrounded by the river Nen, and is 16 miles from Stamford, and 77½ from London. It contains 376 houses and 1956 inhabitants, of whom 301 were returned as being employed in various trades. The houses in general are well built, and the church is neat. There is a good free school and almshouses, supported by the Grocers' Company of London. There are 2 good stone bridges over the river, the one on the road to Thrapston and the other to Yaxley. That called the North Bridge is worthy of notice, from the number of its arches and the causeway leading to it. There is a good charity-school for 30 boys, and another for 12 girls. Market on Saturday. Fairs, 25th Feb. Whit Monday, and 21st August. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with Ashton chapel annexed, in the patronage of the king.—Bridge's Northamptonshire.

Ouseburn Great, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Aldborough, and 210 from London, near the river Ouse. The population of this parish was omitted to be returned.

Ouse and Derwent, the name of a wapentake, at the west extremity of the east riding of Yorkshire, bordering on York Ainstey.

Ounsberry Topping, a very steep and high verdant mountain, near Gisborough, in the north riding of York, commanding a most delightful prospect. It is a well known land mark at sea; from a rock near the summit a spring issues recommended for bad eyes.

Ouse Great, a river which rises in Northamptonshire, and running through the counties of Bucks, Bedford, and Cambridge, dividing the latter from Norfolk, falls into the German sea, at Lynn Regis. It is navigable above Downham where there is a a good harbour for barges.

Ouseburn Little, a hamlet in the parish of Great Ouseburn, in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 12 miles from York, and 210 from London; containing 45 houses and 182 inhabitants.

Ousefleet, a township in the parish of Whitgift, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 8 miles from Howden, and 168 from London; containing 47 houses and 207 inhabitants.

Ouse Little, a river which rises in Suffolk, and separating that county from Norfolk, falls into the Great Ouse near Downham.

Ouse, a large river in Yorkshire, which rises in Wensley Dale, where it is called the Ure, running to Aysgarth, where there is a deep cascade, reaches Middleham, and at Aldborough, where it receives the Swale, changes its name to Ouse. It runs past York, Cawood, Selby, Howden, and at the junction of the Trent with it, again changes its name to Humber and falls into the German ocean at Spurnhead, about 20 miles below Hull. This river, from its source to its mouth, receives a great number of smaller rivers, having their rise in almost every part of Yorkshire: it is joined in its course by the Cover at Middleham; by the Skell at Ripon; by the Swale at Aldborough; by the Nidd at Nunmonckton; by the Foss at York; the Wharf at Cawood; the Haddlesey Canal at Selby, which connects the Aire and Calder navigation by a shorter distance to Leeds; by the Derwent at Barmby; the Aire at Armin; the Don, or Dutch Cut at Goole; the Trent with all its tributary streams at Adlingfleet; the Weighton Canal at Bromfleet; the Anxholme at Ferriby, and the River Hull at the port of the same name. Besides the above, the secondary rivers again receive others; the Wharf receives the little river Cock near Tadcaster; the Hertford and the Rye fall into the Derwent; the Aire receives the Calder at Castleford; the Sheaf falls into the Don at Sheffield; the Rother at Rotherham; the Dearne at Conisburgh; and the Went near Cowick.

Ousthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Pocklington, in the division of Beacon Wilton, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, near Pocklington, and 169 miles from London; containing 2 houses and 15 inhabitants.

Ousthorpe, a small village in the parish of Eastrington and wapentake of Howdenshire, east riding of York. It has only 3 families. The population was returned with Gilberdike.

Ouston, a hamlet in the parish of Chester-le-street, in Chester ward, Durham, 9 miles from Durham, and 267 from London; containing 9 houses and 48 inhabitants.

Outchester, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Bamborough, Northumberland, 2 miles from Belford, and 326 from London; containing 24 houses and 152 inhabitants.

Outhorpe, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 7 miles from Nottingham, and 119 from London; containing 23 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Outnewton, a hamlet in the parish of Easington, in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 4½ miles from Patrington, and 197 from London; containing 8 houses and 35 inhabitants.

Ousby, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkland, in Leath ward, Cumberland, 7 miles from Penrith, and 290 from London; containing 47 houses and 253 inhabitants.

Outerside, a hamlet in the parish of Aspatria, in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 5 miles from Wigton, and 307 from London; containing 50 houses and 269 inhabitants.

Outseats, a hamlet in the parish of Hathersage, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 12 miles from Bakewell, and 164 from London; containing 38 houses and 186 inhabitants.

Outwell, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, on the banks of the Nen, 5 miles from Wisbeach, and 86 from London; containing 46 houses and 228 inhabitants.

Outwell, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 5 miles from Downham, and 89 from London; containing 89 houses and 440 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Ovenden, a township in the parish of Halifax, in Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Halifax, and 196 from London; containing 856 houses and 4513 inhabitants, viz. 2155 males and 2358 females, of whom 3081 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures worth, Cambridge, 8 miles from Cambridge, and 58 from London; containing 144 houses and 689 inhabitants. The rectory, value 51*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.* is a sinecure belonging to Trinity College, Cambridge, and the vicarage, value 19*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* is also appropriated to that college.

Over, a parish in the hundred of Pap-

OVER, a parish in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, situated on the river Weaver, 3 miles from Middlewich, and 167 from London; containing 108 houses and 881 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chester.

OVER, a tything in the parish of Frampton, hundred of Langley and Swineshead, Gloucester, near Chipping Sodbury, and 114 miles from London; containing 29 houses and 177 inhabitants.

OVER, a small hamlet adjoining Gloucester city, in the hundred of Dudstone and King's Barton, the population of which was returned included in Highnam and Linton.

OVERBURY, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 5 miles from Tewksbury, and 101 from London; containing 85 houses and 425 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.* with Alston, Teddington, and Washbourne chapels annexed, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

OVERS, the name of a hundred in Salop, at the southern extremity of the county, and bordering on Worcestershire.

OVERSLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Alcester, in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 1 mile from Alcester, and 102 from London; containing 29 houses and 143 inhabitants.

OVERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Spelloe, Northampton, 3½ miles from Northampton, and 69 from London; containing 36 houses and 173 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

OVERSTOWEY, a parish in the hundred of Cannington, Somerset, 7½ miles from Bridgewater, and 148 from London; containing 88 houses and 468 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

OVERSTRAND, or OXTROND, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, near Cromer lighthouse, and 127 miles from London; containing 19 houses and 117 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 2*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

OVERTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Benefield, hundred of Polebrook, Northampton, 5 miles from Oundle, and 85 from London. Population included with Benefield.

OVERTON, the name of a hundred in Hampshire, in the northern part of the county near Whitchurch.

OVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Overton, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 8 miles from Basingstoke, and 53 from London; containing 228 houses and 1130 inhabitants. It was anciently a borough and market town, and sent 2 members to parliament, but through neglect lost its charter. An excellent trout stream rises in the parish of Ash, and flows with such a current by this village, as to drive several mills; one of them, a silk mill is a very curious piece of machinery in the form of an oblong square; the rest are corn mills. The church is a neat building standing on an eminence about ¼ of a mile from the centre of the village. Fairs 4th May, Whit Monday, 18th July, and 2d October, chiefly for sheep and lambs. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* with Tadley chapel annexed.

OVERTON. See ORTON LONGUEVILLE, Hunts.

OVERTON, a hamlet in the parish of Malpas, hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, near Malpas, and 165 miles from London; containing 12 houses and 97 inhabitants.

OVERTON, a township in the parish of Lancaster, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, 3 miles from Lancaster, and 239 from London; containing 69 houses and 322 inhabitants.

OVERTON. See MARKET OVERTON, Rutland.

OVERTON EAST, a parish in the hundred of Elstub and Everley, Wilts, 6 miles from Marlborough, and 80 from London; containing 43 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 23*l.* 5*d.* with Alton chapel annexed.

OVERTON WEST, a hamlet in the parish of Marlborough, hundred of Selkley, Wilts, 3 miles from Marlborough, and 78 from London; containing 33 houses and 180 inhabitants.

OVERTON, a hamlet in the parish of Prestbury, Gloucester. See PRESTBURY.

OVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Maylor, Flintshire, Wales, near the Dee, 8 miles from Wrexham, and 183 from London; containing 271 houses and 1233 inhabitants, of whom 67 were returned as being employed in various trades. Fairs, Monday before Holy Thursday, 11th June, 29th August, and 18th October.

OVERTON, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from York, and 203 from London; containing only 7 houses and 44 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

OVING, a parish in the hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 5 miles from Aylesbury, and 45 from London; containing 34 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the king.

OVING, a parish in the hundred of Box and Stockbridge, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 2 miles from Chichester, and 61 from London; containing 69 houses and 464 inhabitants.

OVINGDEAN, a hamlet in the parish of Rottingdean, hundred of Youngsmeer, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 2½ miles from Brighton, and 58 from London; containing 8 houses and 85 inhabitants.

OVINGHAM, a parish in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 10 miles from Newcastle, and 286 from London; containing 46 houses and 253 inhabitants. The church is an ancient building almost as large as a cathedral, and is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

OVINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 3¼ miles from Clare, in Suffolk, and 53 from London; containing 16 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* with Albright chapel annexed.

OVINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, lying between East Dereham and Watton, 93 miles from London; containing 27 houses and 198 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

OVINGTON, a township in the parish of Ovingham, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 10 miles from Newcastle, and 286 from London; containing 72 houses and 344 inhabitants.

OVINGTON, a parish in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 2½ miles from Alresford, and 60 from London; containing 29 houses and 150 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

OVINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Gilling, in Gilling West wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Bernard Castle, and 240 from London; containing 25 houses and 157 inhabitants.

OU LOCH, a beautiful lake in the shire of Argyle, Scotland. See AU LOCH.

OWDEBY. See OADEBY, Leicester.

OWDESWELL, a small hamlet in the parish of Whitington, in Gloucestershire.

OWER MOINE, a parish in the hundred of Winfrith, division of Blandford, Dorset, 12 miles from Wareham, and 122 from London; containing 53 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

OWER, a village in the Isle of Purbeck, Dorsetshire, 4 miles from Corfe Castle, in the neighbourhood of which are many stone quarries. Two islands in the bay of Pool belong to this village, viz. Fursey and St. Helen's, or Green Island. The latter was formerly joined to it by a bridge, it consists of about 20 acres of land and once had a chapel.

OWERSBY, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Market Raisin, and 154 from London; containing 60 houses and 312 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

OWMBY, a village in the hundred of Aslacoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 10 miles from Lincoln, and 144 from London; containing 27 houses and 153 inhabitants.

OWRAM NORTH, a township in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 2 miles from Halifax, and 197 from London; containing 982 houses and 4887 inhabitants, viz. 2318 males and 2569 females, of whom 1332 were returned as being employed in the various trades and manufactures peculiar to this part of Yorkshire.

OWRAM SOUTH, a township also in the parish of Halifax, 1½ mile from that town; containing 650 houses and 3148 inhabitants, viz. 1523 males and 1625 females, of whom 1404 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

OWSDEN, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 5 miles from Newmarket, and 57 from London; containing 50 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

OWSLEBURY, a township in the parish of Twyford, in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 6 miles from Winchester, and 65 from London; containing 94 houses and 503 inhabitants.

OWSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 6 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 100 from London; containing 43 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

OWSTONE, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Gainsborough, and 156 from London, on the river Trent, and in the Isle of Axholme; containing 179 houses and 917 inhabitants.

OWSTONE, a parish in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 3 miles from Doncaster, and 170 from London; containing 35 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.*

OWTHORNE, a parish in the wapentake of Holderness, South division, east riding of York, on the coast, 4 miles from Patrington, and 197 from London; containing 19 houses and 89 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

OXBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Swaffham, and 88 from London; containing 51 houses and 296 inhabitants. Fair, 25th March. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Gonvil and Caius College, Cambridge.

OXCLIFF, a hamlet in the parish of Lancaster, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, 1½ mile from Lancaster, and 239 from London. The population included with Heaton.

OXCOME, a small village in the hundred of Hill, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Horncastle, and 144 from London; containing 5 houses and 32 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*

OXENHALL, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Darlington, Durham, where are the famous Hell Kettles, which are 3 deep pits full of water, supposed to have been originally the old Coal Pits, and filled by water flowing in from the river Tees by a subterraneous passage; others imagine them to have been occasioned by an earthquake, which is recorded in the Chronicle of Tynemouth, under the year 1179.

OXENDON, a parish in the hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, 2½ miles from Market Harborough, and 81 from London; containing 67 houses and 281 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

OXENHALL, a parish in the hundred of Botloe, Gloucester, 1 mile from Newent, and 108 from London; containing 62 houses and 313 inhabitants. It is an impropriation, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Oxenton, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Tewkesbury, Gloucester, 3 miles from Tewksbury, and 103 from London; containing 25 houses and 150 inhabitants.

Oxessby. See Oaksey.

Oxenholme, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 1 mile from Kendal.

Oxford City of, the county town of Oxfordshire, seated at the confluence of the rivers Isis and Cherwell, 20 miles from Buckingham, 9 from Dorchester, and 55 from London, by High Wycombe; containing 14 parishes, 1902 houses, inhabited by 12,107 persons, viz. 6126 males and 5981 females, of whom 1948 were returned as being employed in trade. The city is pleasantly seated on a gentle rising ground, in the midst of meadows, and was antiently surrounded with walls and defended by a strong castle. It appears to have been burnt four times by the Danes; on its surrender in 1067 to the conqueror, he gave it to Robert D'Oyley, who is supposed to have erected the walls and castle, which from its ruins appears to have been of great extent and strength. In this castle the Empress Maud was so closely besieged by King Stephen, that she only escaped by passing in disguise on foot across the Isis, which was frozen and through his army to Wallingford; part of its remains are now converted into the county gaol, and a prison for debtors: on the summit of the mount is the entrance to a large vaulted apartment, with a well in the centre, anciently used as the keep-dungeon. King Henry the first erected a palace here on a spot called Beaumont, on the west side of the city, the remains of which are still to be seen, and King Richard I. was born in it. The origin of the university as at first established is involved in obscurity, but all historians agree that it was in a very early period—Camden mentions that Oxford was the seat of learning, in the time of the Britons. When Alfred reduced the Danes, that prince is said to have founded 3 colleges or halls here, but he is supposed to have been the restorer rather than the founder. The first college endowed with a regular and permanent income was that of Baliol, in 1269. History mentions that in the reign of King John, there were 3000 students in this city, who all suddenly left the place and retired to Reading, Cambridge, Salisbury, and other towns, owing to the king's severity, in ordering two scholars to be hanged without the walls, at the instance of the citizens on suspicion of their having accidentally killed a woman; but the inhabitants being soon sensible of their loss, sued for pardon on their knees at Westminster, before the Pope's Legate, and submitted to public penance in all the churches of Oxford. After an absence of five years the scholars having obtained new privileges for their more effectual protection, returned to Oxford. The beauty of this city in magnificent buildings, is unequalled in the world. The university consists of 20 colleges and 5 halls:—First, Baliol College, founded in 1269, by sir John Baliol, of Bernard castle, father of John Baliol, King of Scotland; mostly rebuilt in the reigns of Henry VI. and VII. It consists of a master, 12 fellows, 14 scholars, and 18 exhibitioners. The entrance into the court is by a handsome gothic gateway, on the north side of which stands the chapel, adorned with many beautiful paintings on glass; and a new building has of late been added to the south west angle, through the munificence of the Rev. William Fisher, late fellow of this college.—Second, Merton College, erected in 1267, by Walter de Merton, bishop of Rochester and lord chancellor of England, being transferred from the college at Merton, in Surry; it consists of a warden, 24 fellows, and 14 postmasters. The chapel which is also the parish church of St. John's, is a handsome Gothic edifice, having a tower and 8 bells, south of this chapel is a small old quadrangle, part of which forms the library, and contains many curious manuscripts. The new quadrangle was erected in 1610, the back of which commands a most beautiful prospect over the meadows. The terrace formed on the city wall in the gardens of the college, is much frequented.—Third, University College, this is supposed to have been the principal college or hall founded by Alfred, but was principally restored by William, archdeacon of Durham, who left a considerable legacy thereto in 1249, as well as by the contribution of Walter Shirlaw, bishop of Durham, and Henry Percy, earl of Northumberland; it consists now of a master, 12 fellows, and 17 scholars. It has been greatly enlarged by the benefaction of Dr. John Radcliff, and has chambers for two fellows, students in medicine, who have a handsome salary for 10 years, half of which time they are to travel beyond seas for their improvement. In the common room is a marble bust of King Alfred, by Wilton, reckoned one of the best pieces of modern sculpture, in the university.—Fourth, Exeter College, founded in 1314, by Walter Stapledon, bishop of Exeter; it consists of a rector, 25 fellows, one scholar, and 2 exhibitioners, principally elected out of the diocese of Exeter.—Fifth, Oriel College, founded in 1324, by Adam de Brome, almoner to Edward II. A tenement called L'Oriélle or Le Oriele, was given to it by Edward III. from whence it is supposed to have had its name.—That king also granted to the college, the hospital of St. Bartholomew, near Oxford. It maintains a provost, 18 fellows, and 13 exhibitioners, and the whole number of students is about 140.—Sixth, Queen's College, founded in 1340, by Robert de Eglesfield, chaplain to Queen Phillippa, consort of Edward III. The present edifice was begun in 1672 by sir Joseph Williamson, knight, and finished by the handsome legacy of Mr. Mitchell, of Richmond; who founded 8 additional fellowships, 4 scholarships, and 4 exhibitioners, in this college; the members are a provost, 24 fellows, &c. and the whole number of students amounts to about 200. The custom of ushering in a boars head with a song or carrol on christmas day, is now peculiar to this college, but it was formerly practiced all over the kingdom.—Seventh, New College, or Winchester college, was founded in 1379, by the great William Wykeham, and endowed for a warden, and 70 fellows. The chapel of this college, is far superior to any other in the university. The anti-chapel is supported by two pillars of fine proportions. The entrance to the choir is by a beautiful Gothic screen, 100 feet long, 35 broad, and 65 high. The approach to the altar is by a noble flight of marble steps. The communion table is enclosed by a handsome iron rail work, and covered with a pall of crimson velvet. The stalls are remarkably elegant in the light Gothic stile. The windows of the anti-chapel, contain the portraits of the Patriarchs, Prophets, Saints, as large as life, to the number of 64, and 50 smaller above them, which are as old as the chapel itself. The west window is divided into two ranges, the lower having seven compartments, each near three feet wide and twelve high, and having representations of temperance, fortitude, faith, hope, justice, prudence, and charity; over them in a space ten feet wide and eighteen high, is represented the nativity of our Saviour, and the portraits of the two artists sir Joshua Reynolds, and Mr. Jarvis, are introduced as shepherds paying adoration to the new born infant. The windows on the N. side of the chapel, contain in the lower range the chief persons recorded in the old testament, and in the upper the twelve apostles. The two other windows are filled with pictures of our blessed Saviour, the virgin Mary, and the twelve Apostles. The windows on the S. side of the chapel, representing various Saints and Martyrs, were painted by Price, in 1740. In this chapel is shewn the Crozier of the founder, almost the only one of the kind remaining in the kingdom, it is of silver gilt near seven feet high, ornamented with the figures of angels, and the titular saints of the cathedral at Winchester.—Eighth, Trinity College, was founded by sir Thomas Pope, in 1594, on the site of a college erected by the Prior and Monks, of Durham. It consists of a president, 12 fellows, and 12 scholars. Dr. Bathurst, president of this college, adorned it with rebuilding the beautiful chapel, in 1694; and it contains an excellent library.—Ninth, Lincoln College, founded by Richard Fleming, bishop of Lincoln, who obtained a licence of Henry VI. in 1427, to make All Saints church Collegiate, and to found a college for a rector and 7 scholars; it was finished in 1475, by Rotherham, bishop of Lincoln, afterwards archbishop of York, and now consists of a rector, 12 fellows, &c. The chapel was erected in 1632; the windows are of painted glass. The roof consists of compartments of cedar, embellished with the arms of the different founders. There are 8 figures of cedar representing Moses, Aaron, the four Evangelists, St. Peter, and St. Paul, placed at each end of the reading desk.—Tenth, Worcester College, founded in 1714, by sir Thomas Coke, of Bentley, in Worcestershire; which has had several endowments since, and now consists of a provost, 20 fellows, 17 scholars, &c. It was originally called Gloucester College, being a seminary for educating the novices of Gloucester monastery, and at the reformation was converted into a palace for the bishop of Oxford.—Eleventh, St. John's College, was founded in 1557, by sir Thomas White, alderman of London, on the site of St. Bernard's college, for a president, 50 fellows, 2 chaplains, 2 clerks, 6 choristers, &c. It consists of two courts, in the first are the chapel and hall on the north, and the president's chambers on the east. The chapel has a handsome screen and altar, and over the communion table is a beautiful piece of tapestry. The choir service is here performed in the evening only. On the north wall of this chapel, is a marble urn, containing the heart of Dr. Rawlinson, enclosed in a silver vessel. The east and the west side of the second court each exhibit a beautiful doric colonnade, the columns being of a remarkable species of stone, said to be dug at Fifield, in Berks; in the centre of each are porticos, having a profusion of embellishments, over these on each side, are two good statues in brass of Charles I. and his Queen. The upper stories of the south and east side form the library, the window of which has several curious paintings in glass. The second court was mostly erected by archbishop Laud, in 1595, with the materials of a Carmelite Friary, on Gloucester green.—Twelfth, All Souls College, founded in 1438, by Henry Chicheley, archbishop of Canterbury, for a warden, and 40 fellows, besides 2 chaplains, 9 clerks and choristers. The chapel is a stately pile, and the anti-chapel containing several remarkable monuments, is 70 feet long and 30 broad, The entrance to the inner chapel is by a grand flight of marble steps, through a screen constructed by sir Christopher Wren. On each side of the altar are two inimitable vases, representing in their bas relief the institution of the two sacraments. Between the windows are various saints in chiaro scuro: and it has a noble and well arranged library. There is a curious ceremony performed at this college annually, on the 14th January, called the Mallard

Nig't, being the commemoration of the discovery of a mallard of an extraordinary size, in a drain, when digging the foundation. An elegant entertainment is provided in the evening, and a merry old song is always sung, set to ancient music.—Thirteenth, Magdalen College, founded in 1458, by Wm. of Wainfleet, bishop of Winchester, for a president, 40 fellows, 30 scholars, &c. It is adorned with the figures of the founder, Wm. of Wykeham, St. Mary Magdalen, Henry III. and St. John the baptist. In the west window of the anti-chapel are some fine remains of painted glass, and the windows of the chapel contain the representation of saints, apostles, &c. In the confusion of the civil wars the choir windows were taken down and concealed, but being discovered by some of Cromwell's troopers, those fanatics placed them along the cloisters, and jumping upon them in their jack boots, entirely destroyed them. The altar piece is a beautiful representation of the last judgment, and underneath a painting, supposed to be by Guido, of Christ bearing the cross. Through the centre of the building is the entrance to a beautiful lawn, stocked with deer; there is also a meadow in the college precincts, of about 13 acres, surrounded by a pleasant walk called the Water Walk, it being washed by the branches of the Cherwell, and shaded with hedges and lofty trees.—Fourteenth, Brazen Nose College, founded in 1509, by William Smith, bishop of Lincoln, and Richard Sutton, knight, of Prestbury, in Cheshire, for a principal, and 15 fellows. The present establishment is 5 fellows, 32 scholars, and 12 exhibitioners. In the centre of the first quadrangle, are statues of Cain and Abel. The east window of the chapel contains some good painted glass, by Pearson. Its singular name appears to have been derived from the founders having erected it on the site of two antient halls, one of which was called Brazen Nose Hall, which had acquired its name, from the students who were removed from a seminary or temporary university at Stamford, having an iron ring fixed in a nose of brass, and serving as a knocker to the gate.—Fifteenth, Corpus Christi College, founded in 1516, by bishop Fox, lord privy seal to Henry VII. and VIII. It has a well furnished library, and a curious collection of pamphlets, manuscripts, &c. The Crozier of the founder is here shewn, but not so curious as that of Wykeham, at New college. The present members of this society are a president, 20 fellows, 2 chaplains, 20 scholars, 4 exhibitioners, and 6 gentlemen commoners.—Sixteenth, Christ Church, founded by Cardinal Wolsey, in 1525; but in 1529, when he fell into disgrace, Henry VIII. seized upon the foundation and suspended it for three years, when he re established it under his own name, and in 1546 translated the episcopal see hither from Oseney; and the church of St. Frideswide, was constituted a cathedral by the name of Christ's church. This foundation has remained in the same form ever since, except that queen Elizabeth converted the grammar scholars into students, and ordained that their vacancies should be supplied from Westminster school. It consists of a dean, 8 canons, 100 students, 8 chaplains, 8 singing men, and as many choristers, a school-master, organist, &c. The building contains four quadrangles, the front extending 382 feet, and terminates at each end with two corresponding turrets; in the centre is the grand entrance, a most magnificent Gothic building, having a beautiful tower, which contains the bell called great Tom, on the sound of which every night at nine the students of the university are enjoined by statute, to repair to their respective societies. The grand quadrangle is 264 feet by 261 in the clear, the east and north sides of which contain the chambers of the dean and four of the canons, and the greater part of the south side is formed by the hall; the entrance to which is by a stately staircase of stone, is 180 feet in length, and 80 high, having 8 windows on each side. It is ornamented with the portraits of most of the eminent men, who have been educated at this college. The roof is a noble frame of rafter work, beautified with about 300 coats of arms, properly blazoned. Round the whole area of the grand quadrangle is a spacious terrace, and in the centre a bason and fountain with the statue of Mercury. Over the grand entrance is the statue of queen Anne, and over the arch in the north-east angle, that of bishop Fell, and opposite on the south-east is a statue of Cardinal Wolsey. The church towards the east of the grand quadrangle is the cathedral formerly the church of St. Frideswide's monastery, erected in 1200, on the site of which monastery the college was erected; several of the windows contain beautiful specimens of painted glass, which have been collected together from the wreck of the civil wars. At the west end of the north aisle, is the painting of St. Peter delivered out of prison, executed in the year 1700, by John Oliver, in the 80th year of his age. The tower contains 10 bells, which together with that called great Tom, were brought from Oseney Abbey. Peckwater Court, founded by Dr. Radcliff, consists of three uniform sides each having 15 windows in front, and is perhaps the most elegant edifice in the university. On the front side of this court is a magnificent library supported by Corinthian pillars, but what was originally intended to be a Piazza, has been altered to the more convenient reception of General Guise's collection of paintings, and the great collection of books belonging to the college. East of this stands Canterbury court, formerly a distinct college, which has of late years been handsomely rebuilt. Seventeenth, Jesus College, founded in 1571, by queen Elizabeth, and endowed by Hugh Price treasurer of St.

David's, for a principal, 8 fellows, and 8 scholars, which has been since raised to 19 fellows, and 18 scholars, besides exhibitioners.—Eighteenth, Wadham College, founded in 1613, according to the will of Nicholas Wadham, of Merrifield, in Somerset, for a warden, 15 fellows, 15 scholars, 2 chaplains, and 2 clerks. In the east window of the chapel is a fine painting of the passion of our Saviour, and at the lower part of the altar is a singular and curious painting on cloth.—Nineteenth, Pembroke College, founded in 1620, by Thomas Tesdale, of Glympton, in Oxford, and Richard Wightwick, rector, of Ilsley, Berks. It was originally Broadgate-hall, and received its present name from the earl of Pembroke, who was chancellor of the university at the time the college was founded. Twentieth, Hertford College, formerly called Hart Hall, founded in 1312 by Walter Stapleton, bishop of Exeter, as an appendage to Exeter College, but it was converted into a separate college in 1740, principally from the endowment of Dr. Richard Newton, for a principal, two senior fellows, besides juniors, and students. Of the numerous halls, hostels, or inns, which were originally the only academical houses possessed by the students, only five at present remain; these societies are neither endowed or incorporated. They are subject to the respective principals, whose salary arises from the room rent of the house. The principals are appointed by the chancellor of the university, that of Edmund-Hall excepted, which is dependent on Queen's College. First, Alban Hall, is contiguous to Merton College, erected by Robert de St. Alban, a citizen of Oxford. Second, St. Edmund's Hall, situated to the east of Queen's College, established in the reign of Edward III., and consigned to Queen's College in 1557. Third, St. Mary Hall, originally the parsonage house of the rectors of St. Mary, which being appropriated by Edward III. to Oriel College, the house also came into their possession. Fourth, New Inn Hall, was granted to students by John Trillock, bishop of Hereford in 1545. Fifth, Magdalen Hall, situated to the west of Magdalen College, the greater part of it is the grammar school, for the choristers of Magdalen College, and was erected for that purpose only by William of Wainfleet, but other buildings being added, it grew by degrees into an academical hall.—The university is governed by a chancellor, usually a nobleman, chosen by the students for life; a high-steward, named by the chancellor, and approved by the university, who is also for life; a vice chancellor, always in orders, and the head of a college, who exercises the chancellor's power, keeps the officers and students to their duty, and appoints four pro-vice-chancellors, out of the heads of colleges, to officiate in his absence; two proctors, who are masters of arts, chosen yearly out of the several colleges in turns, to keep the peace, punish disorders, oversee weights and measures, order scholastic exercises, &c., a public orator, who writes letters by order of convocation, and harangues princes and other great men who visit the university; three esquire-beadles, who carry gilt silver maces, and three yeomen beadles with plain ones, who attend the vice chancellor, apprehend all delinquents, and conduct the preachers to church and the lecturers to school; and a verger who carries a silver rod before the vice chancellor. Among the other public buildings of Oxford, worthy of notice, are the following churches: All Saints, situated in High-street, an elegant modern structure, in the same style as the new churches in London, beautified within and without with Corinthian pilasters, and finished with an attic story and ballustrade; although it is 72 feet long, 42 wide, and 50 high, there is no pillar in the church. St. Peter's in the east, standing near the High-street, was partly built by St. Grymbald, near 800 years ago. It was formerly the university church, and the heads of houses attend the sermons in it every Sunday afternoon during Lent; the tower, east end, and crypt, are curious pieces of antiquity; it was repaired and beautified throughout in 1760. St. Mary's is situated about the middle of the north side of the High-street, it was rebuilt in its present state in the reign of Henry VII., and consists of three ailes, with a spacious chancel. The pulpit is placed in the centre of the middle aile, at the west end of which is the vice-chancellor's throne, below which are placed the two proctors; seats descending on each side are for the doctors and heads of colleges, and those underneath for the young noblemen; in the area on benches the masters of arts; and at the west end, with a return to the north and south, are galleries for the under graduates and bachelors of arts. The tower, with its spire, is 180 feet high, richly ornamented and containing six large bells, which are sounded for scholastic exercises, congregations, convocations, &c. The other public buildings are, the Theatre, which was built at the expence of archbishop Sheldon in 1668, and is a magnificent edifice in the form of a Roman theatre, not circular, but flat on one side, and the roof 90 feet by 70, rests on the walls without pillars. Round the wall which formerly enclosed the theatre, stood the Arundelian marbles, now removed into the schools, which monuments were collected in Greece and Asia, principally by Thomas earl of Arundel, to which were added in 1755 above 100 statues and busts by the countess of Pomfret, which were originally purchased by lord Lempster, from the Arundelian collection. Ashmole's Museum, the lower part of which is an elaboratory, and the upper a repository of natural and artificial curiosities, given by Elias Ashmole, together with the MSS. of his father-in-law, sir William Dugdale. This museum was principally collected by the two Tradescants, of Lambeth, father and son, and left by will to Ashmole. There in which is laid down every Parish and Place containing upwards of 40 Houses

OXFORDSHIRE

Cooper del. et sculp.

London, Published Jan.y 1, 1808, by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars is a catalogue of the Tradescantian museum published, which is now very scarce. The Clarendon Printing House, erected in 1712, from the profits of the sale of lord Clarendon's History of the Rebellion, given by him to the university. The building called The Schools, forms a magnificent quadrangle, three sides of the upper story of which contain the picture-gallery. The Bodleian Library, is a large lofty structure, said to contain the greatest number of books of any library in Europe, except the Vatican. The Radcliffe Library, founded by the will of Dr. Radcliffe, was erected in 1749. The Astronomical Observatory begun in 1771, we finished at the expence of 30,000*l.* under the directions of the trustees of Dr. Radcliffe's estate. The Physic Garden was first founded by Henry Danvers, earl of Danby, in 1632. Its library was erected by Dr. Sherrard, who also endowed a professorship, and furnished the garden with many curious plants. The principal bridges are, Magdalen Bridge, over the river Cherwell, at the foot of which stands Magdalen College, at the entrance of the city from the London road: High Bridge in the western suburb, over the Isis: and Folly Bridge over the Isis, in the southern suburb, leading to Abingdon, in Berks. They are all built of stone. The principal street is that called the High-street, running from Magdalen Bridge to Cairfax Church, extremely wide, clean, and well-paved. In Fish-street, leading from Cairfax to Folly Bridge, is the Town-hall, where the assizes and sessions are held; a very neat and commodious edifice, partly erected at the expence of Thomas Rowney, esq. On Folly-bridge formerly stood a tower, called Friar Bacon's Study. The Corporation of Oxford consists of a mayor, high steward, recorder, four aldermen, eight assistants, two bailiffs, a town clerk, two chamberlains, and 24 common council. At the coronation of the kings and queens of England, the mayor officiates in the buttery, and has for his fee a large gilt bowl and cover. The city and university send each two members to the imperial parliament. The Thames or Isis is navigable for barges to London, and has a canal navigation running parallel with the Cherwell, to Banbury, and thence joins the Birmingham, Warwick, and Coventry canals. In Port meadow, at a small distance from the city annual races are held. Of late years Oxford has been embellished with a noble market-place. The markets are on Wednesday and Saturday. Fair, called St. Giles, merely nominal, 1st September. The observatory, stands in Lat. 51. 45. 38. Long. 1. 15. west.—Oxford Guide.

OXFORDSHIRE, an inland county of England, bounded on the north by Warwickshire and Northamptonshire, on the east by Buckinghamshire, on the south by Berkshire, and on the west by Gloucestershire. In shape it is very irregular, and extends in length about 48 miles, and in breadth 25; containing 450,600 acres of land, having about 150,000 acres arable, and 230,000 in pasturage, the remainder being uncultivated wastes and woodlands. It is divided into 14 hundreds, viz. Bampton, Banbury, Binfield, Bloxham, Bullington, Chadlington, Dorchester, Ewelme, Langtree, Lewknor, Pirton, Ploughley, Thame, and Wootton, having one city and university, two boroughs Banbury and Woodstock, and ten market towns, viz. Bampton, Bicester, Burford, Chipping-Norton, Deddington, Henley, Islip, Thame, Watlington, and Witney; the whole county contains 207 parishes, 20,599 houses inhabited by 109,620 persons, viz. 53,786 males and 55,834 females, of whom 16,346 were returned as being employed in trade, manufacture, or handicraft, and 33,109 in agriculture. The soil of the northern part is chiefly strong, partly arable and partly pasturage; south of this is an extensive tract, the hilly part of which has a shallow stony soil, the bottoms are clayey, and the sides of the rivers afford excellent pasturage; the south-west corner contains the noted forest of Whichwood; below which, nearer to the Isis, the soil is low and wet, and chiefly in pasturage; round the city of Oxford the soil is various, and near Stanton St. John there is a considerable tract of woodland. Between the Thame and the Chiltern hills it is mostly arable, bordered by a range of downs. The wide tract of the Chilterns, consists of chalk, with loam and clay intermixed; but very full of flints, and covered in a great measure with beech wood. The principal rivers are the Tame and Isis, forming one stream, anciently called the Thamesis, and the boundary between Berkshire and this county. The Isis, an inconsiderable stream rising in Buckinghamshire, joins the Thames at Dorchester, the Cherwell rising in Northamptonshire falls into the Isis at Oxford. The Evenlode rising in Worcestershire and into the Isis about six miles above Oxford, and the Windrush rising in the Cotswold hills in Gloucestershire also joins the same river about five miles west of Oxford. The produce is chiefly like that in most of the midland farming counties. Much butter and cheese is made, and numerous calves reared for the London market, which it also supplies with great quantities of corn and malt. The greatest want of this county is fuel, since the diminution of its woods. The climate is in general cold, particularly to the west, where its fences are chiefly stone walls. The climate of the Chiltern district is moist. The principal manufactures are those of blankets at Witney, shag at Banbury, and gloves and polished steel at Woodstock, and the employment of the poorer class is lace-making and spinning. Two of the greater Roman roads run through this county. The Icknild-street enters it at Goring from Berks, and passes north-north-east to Bucks, about six miles south east of Thame; and the Akeman-street, a consular crosses the county to Burford. Besides these there are several vicinal ways, the crest of one of which is seen pointing toward Otmoor, on the London road, about a mile on this side Hedington. Oxfordshire was anciently inhabited by the Dobuni, and the Romans annexed it to the province of Flavia Cæsariensis. During the heptarchy it belonged to Mercia, and is now included in the Oxford circuit, diocese of Oxford, and province of Canterbury. It sends nine members to parliament. The gross amount of the assessment under the property tax for 1806, was 1,217,133*l.* The amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 103,559*l.*, at the rate of 4*s.* 8*d.* in the pound, and the average of deaths for 10 years appears to have been as 1 to 51 of the existing population.

Oxhill, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5½ miles from Shipston on Stour, and 69 from London; containing 51 houses and 298 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 10*s.*

Oxley, a small hamlet to Wolverhampton, in Staffordshire, and included therewith.

Oxlinch, a small hamlet in the parish of Standish, Gloucester.

Oxna, a small inhabited island of Shetland, in the parish of Tingwall, 4 miles west of the town of Scalloway.

Oxnam or Oxenham, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, on the borders of England, 4 miles from Jedburgh, and 50 from Edinburgh; containing 145 houses and 688 inhabitants. The parish is watered by numerous rivulets, all of which abound with trout. The great Roman road from Boroughbridge to the Lothians, can be traced the whole length of the parish, and there are three vestiges of ancient fortifications or castles.

Oxnam, a river in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, rising in the parish of Oxnam, and after a course of 12 miles falls into the Teviot, about half a mile below Crailing church.

Oxnead, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, near Aylsham, and 117 miles from London; containing only 5 houses and 54 inhabitants.

Oxney, a river island in Kent, between Tenterden and Rye, formed by the divided streams of the Rother, being about 7 miles long and three broad, containing three parishes, viz. Wittrisham, Stone, and Smallhithe.

Oxney, a small hamlet to Peterborough in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton. The population of which was returned included with Peterborough.

Oxspring, a hamlet in the parish of Penistone, in Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Barnsley, and 176 from London; containing 50 houses and 219 inhabitants.

Oxtead, a parish in the hundred of Tandrige, Surry, 3¼ miles from Godstone, and 26 from London; containing 92 houses and 644 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 6*d.*

Oxton, a hamlet in the parish of Woodchurch, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 15 miles from Chester, and 195 from London; containing 26 houses and 137 inhabitants.

Oxton, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 5 miles from Southwell, and 130 from London; containing 130 houses and 697 inhabitants. It is a prebendary in two portions, value 22*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.* and 24*l.* 10*s.*

Oxton, a hamlet to Tadcaster, in the Ainstey of York, situated on the river Wharf, half a mile from Tadcaster, and 190 from London; containing 12 houses and 49 inhabitants.

Oxtrond. See Overstrand, Norfolk.

Oxwich, a parish in the hundred of Swansea, Glamorgan, Wales, situated on a point of land called Oxwich Point, 13 miles from Swansea, and 220 from London; containing 47 houses and 202 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

Oxwich, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 3½ miles from Fakenham, and 107 from London; containing 6 houses & 61 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

Oyne, a parish in the district of Garioch, shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 8 miles from Inverurie, and 52 from Montrose; containing 120 houses and 518 inhabitants. It is watered by the Don, Ury, Shevock, and the Gadie, all of which contain trout. There are the ruins of a Druidical temple here of great extent.

Oystermouth, a parish in the hundred of Swansea, Glamorgan, Wales, 6 miles from Swansea, and 209 from London; containing 168 houses, and 715 inhabitants; the ruins of its ancient castle formerly belonged to the Lord Gower, but now to the Duke of Beaufort. It is a curacy.

Ozendike, a hamlet in the parish of Ryther, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York.

Ozleworth, a parish in the hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 6 miles from Tetbury, and 105 from London; containing 22 houses and 133 inhabitants.

PABAY, a small island of the Hebrides, about 8 miles from Barray, 1½ mile long and 1 broad, and inhabited by three families.

PABBA, a small island 2 miles from the isle of Sky, being about a mile long and 3½ broad; it is uninhabited, and only used for the pasturing of cattle.

PABBAY, one of the isles which compose the district Harris. It is nearly circular, and is about 2½ miles in diameter, of a conical shape, the south-west side is very productive, but the north-west being exposed to the spray of the Atlantic, is very barren.

PACKINGTON, a parish partly situate in the hundred of Repton and Gressly, Derbyshire, and partly in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 1 mile from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 114 from London; containing 114 houses and 563 inhabitants.

PACKINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Weeford, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 3 miles from Litchfield, and 115 from London; containing 25 houses and 193 inhabitants.

PACKINGTON GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 5 miles from Coleshill near Meriden, and 97 from London; containing 42 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.*

PACKINGTON LITTLE, a parish near the foregoing, 4½ miles from Coleshill; containing 25 houses and 140 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

PACKWOOD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Wasperton, hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 4 miles from Warwick, and 88 from London; containing 55 houses and 305 inhabitants.

PADBURY, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, near the river Ouse, 2½ miles from Buckingham, and 53¼ from London; containing 84 houses and 459 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

PADDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, situated on the north side of Hyde Park Corner, and reckoned a part of the metropolis; it contains 324 houses and 1881 inhabitants, of whom 160 were returned as being employed in trade. The church is an elegant modern structure, erected in 1790, near the site of the old church on an eminence surrounded by venerable elms. Its figure is composed of a square of about 50 feet, the centers on each side of the square are projecting parallelograms, which furnish recesses for the communion table, vestry, and two staircases; the roof terminates in a cupola and vane. Although it joins the metropolis there are still many rural spots in the parish, but the new buildings are here rapidly encreasing in every direction. A branch of the Grand Junction Canal furnishes a daily conveyance during the summer season from the wharf and bason, to Uxbridge, every morning at eight o'clock, and returns from thence about eight in the evening. The boats are fitted up with every convenience, and afford refreshments of tea, coffee, &c. on the journey, and carry sometimes from 30 to 40 passengers. The fare 4*s.* 6*d.* each person. It was at one time in contemplation to have established a regular market for cattle, hay, and corn here, but this project has been given up. In the neighbourhood are many handsome seats. The church is a perpetual curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of London.

PADDLESWORTH, a village in the hundred of Loningborough, lathe of Shepway, Kent, near Snodland, and 3 miles from West Malling; containing 8 houses and 42 inhabitants.

PADIHAM, a township and chapelry in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3½ miles from Burnley, and 213 from London; containing 382 houses and 2118 inhabitants, viz. 1056 males and 1062 females; of whom 965 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. It has a neat chapel of ease.

PADLEY NETHER, a hamlet in the parish of Hope, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 5 miles from Tidswell, and 165 from London; containing 5 houses and 28 inhabitants.

PADSTOW, a sea port, market town and parish in the hundred of Pydar, Cornwall, situated on the left bank or the river Alan or Camel, 30 miles from Launceston, and 243 from London; containing 182 houses and 1332 inhabitants, of whom 783 were returned as being employed in trade. Its Cornish name was Lodeneck, or Laffenac, and by the Saxons it was called Adelston. Its modern name is a contraction of Petrockstow, the church, an ancient structure, being dedicated to the first Saint Petrock. In the fifth century a monastery was founded here, but the Monks being much annoyed by the incursions of the Danes, they removed to Bodmin. At the mouth of the Camel is a convenient harbour for vessels of 500 tons burthen at high water, but it is rather difficult of access, having rocks on the east side and a bar of sand on the west. Padstow has a tolerably good trade to London and way, enters from Bucks near Bicester, and Bristol, and exports great quantities of slate. It has also a small fishery for herrings, and during the season is much frequented for sea bathing, having the accommodation of a good machine. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 29th April, and 2d October. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 3*s.* 4d. — Polwhele's Cornwall.

PADWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Theale, Berks, 9 miles from Reading, and 46 from London; containing 44 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PAGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Aldweck, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 5 miles from Chichester, and 68 from London; containing 101 houses and 652 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

PAGLESHAM, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, near Wallasea Island, 4 miles from Rochford, and 43 from London; containing 75 houses and 341 inhabitants. The island is separated from this parish by a narrow creek. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* patron the bishop of London.

PAGNELL. See NEWPORT PAGNELL, Bucks.

PAILINGE, a hamlet in the township of Spotland, parish of Rochdale, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, adjoining Rochdale, and 197 miles from London. The population of which are included with Spotland.

PAILTON, a hamlet in the parish of Monks Kirby, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 7 miles from Rugby, and 91 from London; containing 84 houses and 389 inhabitants.

PAINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Haytor, Devon, on the sea coast, 4 miles from Brixham, Torbay, and 195 from London; containing 246 houses and 1575 inhabitants, of whom 268 were returned as being employed in trade. It is a very pleasant rural village, and contains several genteel lodging-houses, occupied by the families of officers in his Majesty's navy. It is a vicarage, value 52*l.* 1*s.*

PAINSHAW, a township in the parish of Houghton-le-Spring, in Easington Ward, Durham, 9 miles from Durham, and 269 from London; containing 267 houses and 1399 inhabitants.

PAINSWICK, a parish in the hundred of Bisley, Gloucester, 3 miles from Stroud, and 105 from London; containing 625 houses and 3150 inhabitants, viz. 1441 males and 1709 females, of whom 259 were returned as being employed in various trades, and 321 in agriculture.

PAISLEY, a town in the shire of Renfrew, Scotland, situated on the river Whitecart, 6½ miles west of Glasgow, and 46 from Edinburgh; containing 2474 houses and 31,179 inhabitants, viz. 14,413 males and 16,766 females; of whom 11,486 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, and 770 in agriculture. It is a place of considerable antiquity, but has only of late years risen to its present importance and population; for in the beginning of last century in Crawford's history of Renfrew, it was described as consisting of only one principal street about half-a mile long, but it may now be ranked among the largest towns in Scotland. The Old Town, on the west bank of the river occupies an extent of about a mile square, and the New Town and abbey on the opposite side is very extensive, and communicates with the Old Town by three handsome bridges. This part of the town is very handsomely built in general, and was feued some years ago by the Marquis of Abercorn; the streets are laid out in a regular manner, but not at right angles; near the center of one of the principal streets, the Marquis has erected one of the handsomest inns in the kingdom, a little to the south of which is the abbey church, formerly the only one in the town; when entire, it appears to have been a noble building, and consisted of several places of worship; the great north window is now in ruins, and only the chancel remains, which is divided into a middle and two side isles, having very lofty pillars and pointed arches; above these are another range of pillars much larger, being the segment of a circle and above a row of arched niches. The outside of the building has a profusion of ornaments, particularly about the north and west doors. By the side of the church is the aisle or burying place of the Abercorn family, wherein is a small vaulted chapel; in this chapel is the monument of Marjery Bruce, daughter of king Robert Bruce, and near it are the graves of Eliz. Mair and Ephemia Ross, both consorts to Robert II. This chapel has a remarkably strong echo, which, when the door is slammed, is equal to a loud clap of thunder, and the notes of a musical instrument are resounded in the most agreeable manner. The abbey of Paisley, of which the church is now the only remain, was founded in 1160, for Cluniac Monks; it was afterwards raised to the rank of an abbey: in 1484, it was considerably enlarged and beautified, and the whole precincts were surrounded with a wall of hewn stone, which stood till 1781, when it was taken down and the materials employed in the new building; this abbey was supported by tythes from 28 different parishes. The town house is a very handsome building of cut stone, having a lofty spire and clock; and the butcher market having an elegant front of hewn stone, is extremely commodious. Paisley is the first manufacturing town in Scotland, and many of the streets, lanes, and alleys, are named from the various branches carried on in each; previously to 1760, the manufactures consisted principally of coarse linens and handkerchiefs, which were afterwards succeeded by those of lawn and gauze, and a sort of thread introduced from Holland

It has been computed that there have been no fewer than 5000 persons employed at one time here, in the gauze branch, and as many more as winders, warpers, clippers, &c. in the silk manufacture; at present the manufacture of silk has greatly declined, whilst those of muslin, thread, and cotton, have increased. There are also several tanneries; and manufactories of soap, candles, tape and ribbons; the yearly produce of which in 1789, was reckoned at 660,335*l.* Two of the cotton mills in the Abbey Parish or New Town, contain 22,572 spindles, and employ nearly 1000 persons; in this district there is also a calico printing work, several bleachfields, and a copperas work. Paisley is governed by 3 bailies, of which the senior is in the commission of the peace, a treasurer, town clerk, and 17 counsellors, annually elected. It was erected into a burgh of barony, under the Abbot of Paisley, which, at the reformation, came into the Hamilton family, now represented by the Marquis of Abercorn, from which he takes the title of baron; in the neighbourhood was anciently a very extensive forest, but little more than 100 acres now remain covered with wood. The district abounds with many curious and useful minerals, as well as coal, limestone, and freestone. About half-a-mile west of Paisley stands the little village of Marwelton, at which is an extensive gauze manufactory, and near it may be traced the site of a convent, founded in the 12th century; about two miles distant on an eminence stands a ruined tower, the remains of Crookstow Castle. The river Cart was rendered navigable in the year 1791, to the Clyde by the assistance of a short canal, avoiding Inchinnon bridge, and removing some rocks and shoals.—Pennant's Tour and Lettice's Letters.

Pakefield, a parish in the hundred of Mutford and Lothingland, Suffolk on the coast, 12 miles from Yarmouth, and 112½ from London, containing 56 houses and 282 inhabitants: lying on the shore of the German ocean. It has been considerably diminished by the encroachment of the sea. The church consists of two ailes nearly uniform, with a steeple standing at the west end of the south aile, containing five bells. There is a quaker's meeting at this town, which has been established for more than 150 years. The trade of this place consists in a small fishery for herrings. The living is a rectory, value 14*l.*

Pakenham, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 3½ miles from Bury St. Edmunds, and 74 from London; containing 89 houses and 681 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

Paldie or Paldiekirk, a small village in the parish of Fordoun, Kincardineshire, Scotland, 8 miles from Stonehaven, noted for an annual fair held here for three days.

Palethorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Edwinstow, hundred of Basset Law, Notts, 2 miles from Ollerton, and 137 from London; containing 10 houses and 73 inhabitants.

Palgrave, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 5 miles from Eye, and 94 from London, on the banks of the Waveney; containing 82 houses and 580 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

Palgrave, a hamlet in the parish of Sporle, hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 2 miles from Swaffham, and 95 from London. Population returned included with Sporle.

Pamber, a township and chapelry in the parish of Sherborn, hundred of Barton Stacey, division of Andover, Hants, 5 miles from Basingstoke, and 47 from London; containing 62 houses and 238 inhabitants.

Pamington, a tything in the parish of Aston or Caron, 2 miles from Tewksbury, and and 102 from London; containing 22 houses and 104 inhabitants.

Pampisford, a parish in the hundred of Chilford, Cambridge, 7 miles from Cambridge, and 45 from London; containing 35 houses and 202 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Panbride, a parish in the shire of Forfar, situated on the sea coast, at the mouth of the Frith of Tay, 12 miles from Dundee; containing 446 houses and 1583 inhabitants. At the East and West Havens, are harbours for small vessels. The parish is watered by a considerable stream at the bottom of a valley, called Battie's Den, over which is thrown a high bridge on the turnpike road from Dundee to Arbroath. The parish contains the villages of East and West Havens, Panbride, Shrine, and Muirdrum.

Pancras, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, 1½ mile from London, lying on the right of the road to Highgate and Hampstead. It is a very extensive parish, and includes one third of Highgate, and the hamlets of Kentish Town, Battle Bridge, Cambden Town, Somers Town, and Tottenham-court-road, and all the street to the west as far as Cleaveland-street and Rathbone-place, containing 4178 houses and 31,779 inhabitants, viz. 14,009 males and 17,770 females, of whom 3279 were returned as being employed in various trades, handicrafts, and manufactures. It is the favourite residence of the French emigrants, and the church and church-yard have long been noted as the burial place of such Roman Catholics as die in London and its vicinity, almost every stone exhibiting a cross and the initials R. I. P. (Requiescat in Pace, May he rest in Peace,) the church-yard was enlarged in 1793. In the parish are several chapels of ease, a Roman catholic chapel and the burial grounds belonging to the parishes of St. James, St. Andrew's, Holborn, St. George the Martyr, and St. George's Bloomsbury. The Foundling Hospital, the Small-Pox Inoculation Hospital, with a building attached thereto for the reception of patients with the natural small pox, removed from the Cold Bath Fields, are in this parish. At Camden Town stands the Veterinary College, instituted in 1791; a noble building 650 feet in front: it is governed by a president, 11 vice presidents, and 24 directors, and has a treasurer, professor, secretary, &c.; a school for the instruction of pupils in the veterinary science is under the direction of the professor, and diseased horses are admitted into the infirmary upon certain terms: This establishment is thought to be so beneficial that it has been assisted by parliament. Pancras is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's. Here is the site of one of Cæsar's camps, according to Dr. Stukeley.

Pancras Wick, a hamlet in the parish of Bradworthy, in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 3½ miles from Holdsworthy, and 217 from London; containing 41 houses and 330 inhabitants

Panfield, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 2 miles from Braintree, and 42 from London; containing 58 houses and 292 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 10*s.*

Pangbourn, a parish in the hundred of Reading, Berks, 6 miles from Reading, and 45 from London; containing 78 houses and 592 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Pannall, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Knaresborough, and 210 from London; containing 147 houses and 789 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 5*s.*

Pannanach, a village in the parish of Glenmuick, shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, noted for its mineral waters, which issue from the side of a hill, and are said to resemble the Seltzer waters of Germany, being strongly impregnated with aerial acid. Several houses are erected here for the accommodation of those persons who come to drink the waters, and it has a public and private bath.

Pant, a river in Essex, which falls into the Blackwater below Little Braxted.

Panton, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Wragby, and 142 from London; containing 10 houses and 86 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Panxworth, a hamlet in the parish of Ranworth, hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, near Acle. The population of which was included with Ranworth.

Papa Stour, a small island of the Shetlands, in the parish of Walls and Sandness, about two miles long and one broad. It contains about 300 inhabitants, who are mostly employed in the fisheries, and on its shores are several excellent harbours for the fishing craft.

Papa Stronsay, a small island of the Orkneys, on the north-east side of Stronsay, about 3 miles in circumference. It is extremely fertile, and has two ruinous chapels on it.

Papa Westray, an island of the Orkneys, lying about three miles on the north side of Westray, and 25 from Kirkwall; containing about 240 inhabitants. It is about 4 miles long and 1 broad. The chief employment is fishing and burning kelp.

Pap Castle, a township in the parish of Bridekirk, in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 2 miles from Cockermouth, and 300 from London; containing 61 houses and 283 inhabitants. From the antiquities dug up here, it is supposed to have been a Roman station.

Papplewick, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, situated in the forest of Sherwood, 8 miles from Nottingham, and 132 from London; containing 180 houses and 709 inhabitants. It has long had a considerable branch of the cotton manufacture. It is a curacy.

Papworth, the name of a hundred in Cambridge, lying on the western side of the county, and borders of Huntingdon.

Papworth Agnes, a parish in the hundred of Papworth, Cambridge, 4 miles from Caxton, and 53 from London; containing 9 houses and 80 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

Papworth Everard, a parish near the foregoing, containing 21 houses and 111 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

Parbold, a hamlet in the parish of Eccleston, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Chorley, and 208 from London; containing 43 houses and 255 inhabitants.

Parham, a parish united with Hatcheston, in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Framlingham, and 86 from London; containing 48 houses and 399 inhabitants. It is a vicarage.

Parham, a parish in the hundred of West Easewrith, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 6 miles from Arundel, and 54 from London; containing 8 houses and 51 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Paris or Pary's Mountain, near Amlwch, Anglesea, Wales, 1 mile in length and half a mile in breadth, rising about 8 miles distant from the town. Its appearance is wild and barren in the extreme, all vegetation being precluded by the sulphureous fumes which arise from the roasting heaps and smelting houses of the copper mines, which extend their destructive effects for several miles round. The name is British, and signifies a small mountain by the sea.

Park, a hamlet in the parish of Broad Windsor, Dorsetshire, and is included therewith.

Park, a hamlet in the parish of Haresfield, Gloucestershire, near Stroud, and included therewith.

Parkgate, a sea-port and hamlet in the parish of Great Neston, hundred of Wirral, Chester, on the banks of the Dee, 12 miles from Chester, and 193 from London; where the packets sail to the coast of Ireland. The population was returned included with Neston.

PARKSON, a hamlet to Poole in the hundred of Cogdean, division of Shaston, Dorset, 1 mile from Poole, and 105 from London; containing 41 houses and 206 inhabitants.

PARLEY WEST, a parish in the hundred of Bradbury, division of Shaston, Dorset, 7 miles from Poole, and 100 from London; containing 39 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 6*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

PARLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Aberford, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Aberford, and 186 from London; containing 41 houses and 180 inhabitants.

PARNDON GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Harlow, Essex, 6 miles from Waltham Abbey, and 19 from London; containing 55 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

PARNDON LITTLE, a parish united with the foregoing, 1½ mile distant, and contains 11 houses and 62 inhabitants.

PARR, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Prescott, and 197 from London; containing 220 houses and 1183 inhabitants, of whom 431 were returned as being employed in various trades.

PARRACOMB, a parish in the hundred of Sherwell, Devon, 8 miles from Barnstaple, and 190 from London; containing 64 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

PARRET, a river which rises in the southern part of Somersetshire, near Langport, it is augmented by the Ordred and Ivel, and 4 miles farther it is joined by the Thone, and passing the town of Bridgewater, falls into the Bristol channel at Bridgewater bay.

PARRETT NORTH. See PERRETT NORTH, Somerset.

PARSKHAM, a parish in the hundred of Shebbear, Devon, 4 miles from Black Torrington, and 201 from London; containing 107 houses and 584 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PARSONBY, a hamlet in the parish of Plumbland, Cumberland, and included therewith.

PARSON DROVE, a parish in the isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, 4 miles from Wisbeach, and 93 from London; containing 63 houses and 454 inhabitants.

PARTENHALL. See PERTENHALL, Bedford.

PARSONS GREEN, a hamlet in the parish of Fulham, Middlesex, 4 miles from London.

PARTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bucklow, Chester, situated on the banks of the river Mersey, 4 miles from Altrincham, and 183 from London; containing 65 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PARTNEY, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Spilsby, and 136 from London; containing 55 houses and 261 inhabitants. Fairs 1st and 25th August, 18th September, and 18th October. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

PARTON, a township in the parish of Morcsby, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, and is a port capable of receiving small ships, 1½ mile from Whitehaven, and 305 from London; containing 92 houses and 360 inhabitants.

PARTON, a hamlet in the parish of Aikton, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Wigton, and 302 from London; containing 17 houses and 98 inhabitants.

PARTON, a parish in the stewardry of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, 14 miles from Kirkcudbright, containing 89 houses and 426 inhabitants. It is watered by the rivers Dee and Ken, which unite about half a mile from the village. It contains seven small lakes well stocked with trout. Near the church is a strong mineral spring.

PARWICK, a township and chapelry in the parish of Ashborn, hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, 5 miles from Ashborn, and 145 from London; containing 89 houses and 450 inhabitants.

PASSENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 1 mile from Stoney-Stratford, and 53 from London; containing 123 houses and 685 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

PASTON, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 5 miles from North Walsham, and 129 from London; containing 52 houses and 226 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

PASTON, a parish in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 2 miles from Peterborough, and 84 from London; containing 16 houses and 55 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Peterborough.

PASTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kirknewton, in Glendale ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Wooller, and 330 from London; containing 19 houses and 135 inhabitants.

PASTROW, the name of a hundred in Hampshire, on the north western side of the county and borders of Wilts.

PATCHAM, a parish in the hundred of Dean, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Brighton, and 52 from London; containing 30 houses and 286 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

PATCHING, a parish in the hundred of Brightford, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 4½ miles from Arundel, and 60 from London; containing 22 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

PATH-HEAD, a village in the parish of Dysart, shire of Fife, Scotland, situated on the side of a hill facing the Frith of Forth, 2 miles from Kircaldie, and containing 320 houses and 2082 inhabitants, the greater part of whom are employed in the various branches of weaving. It was formerly particularly noted for its manufactories of nails; and in 1792, there were 43 smiths who made annually about six millions of nails, to the value of 1300*l.* It has a considerable annual fair for woollen and linen cloths, held on the first Wednesday in August.

PATNEY, a parish in the hundred of Elstub and Everley, Wilts, 4 miles from Devizes, and 85 from London; containing 26 houses and 130 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

PATRICK BROMPTON. See BROMPTON PATRICK, west riding of York.

PATRICKS BOURNE, a parish in the hundred of Bridge and Petham, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3¾ miles from Canterbury, and 58 from London; containing 45 houses and 213 inhabitants. The church is a very ancient building. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

PATTENHAM. See PUTNAM, Herts.

PATTERDALE a township united with Hartsop in the parish of Barton, in West ward, Westmoreland, 8 miles from Ambleside, and 282 from London; and contains, including Hartsop, 62 houses and 264 inhabitants. It is a very recluse situation, and near it is Grisdall mountain.

PATTINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, near Bridgenorth, and 139 miles from London; containing 12 houses and 82 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

PATTINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Seisden, Stafford, 5½ miles from Wolverhampton, and 135 from London; containing 152 houses and 750 inhabitants.

PATTISHALL, a parish in the hundred of Towcester, Northampton, near Towcester, and 62 miles from London; containing 134 houses and 551 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

PATTISHALL, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 6 miles from Wolverhampton, and 136 from London; containing 28 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PATTISWICK, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Fering, hundred of Lexden, Essex, 2 miles from Coggeshall, and 42 from London; containing 85 houses and 266 inhabitants.

PATTON, a township in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, near Kendal, and 262 miles from London; containing 9 houses and 77 inhabitants.

PATTRINGTON, a market town and parish in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 9 miles from Hedon, and 109 from London, seated on a branch of the Humber; and containing 161 houses and 891 inhabitants. The church is well built and has a lofty spire. It had formerly the advantage of a commodious harbour, and the town was much more populous, but its haven, a mile distant, will now only admit vessels of very small burthen. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 26th March, 18th July, and 6th December, for all kinds of pedlary and provisions. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* in the patronage of Clare Hall, Cambridge.

PAVENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedfordshire, 6 miles from Bedford, and 56 from London; containing 57 house and 447 inhabitants.

PAULERSPURY, a parish in the hundred of Cleley, Northamptonshire, 3 miles from Towcester, and 56 from London; containing 182 houses and 859 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

PAULING, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk, 18 miles from Norwich, and 129 from London; containing 27 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 2*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PAUL'S ST. or PAULCHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 3 miles from Penzance, and 292 from London; containing 611 houses and 2937 inhabitants, viz. 1356 males and 1581 females, of whom 556 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 261 in agriculture.

PAUL'S WALDEN, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 2½ miles from Stevenage, and 30 from London; containing 152 houses and 758 inhabitants.

PAULTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Chewton, in the hundred of Chewton, Somerset, 8 miles from Wells, and 117 from London; containing 193 houses and 1019 inhabitants.

PAUNSTON, a hamlet in the parish of South Sidenham, Devonshire.

PAUNTLEY, a parish in the hundred of Botley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Newent, and 118 from London; containing 41 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PAUPERHAUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Rothbury, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, near Rothbury, and 304 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 76 inhabitants.

PAWLETT, a parish in the hundred of North Petherton, Somerset, near the river Parret, 4½ miles from Bridgewater, and 140 from London; containing 62 houses and 429 inhabitants.

PAXTON GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 2 miles from St. Neot's, and 58 from London; containing 35 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

PAXTON LITTLE, a parish united with the foregoing, in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 1¼ mile from St. Neot's, and 57½ from London; containing 44 houses and 223 inhabitants.

PAXTON, a small village on the banks of the Tweed, in the shire of Berwick, Scotland, containing about 270 inhabitants.

PAYHEMBURY, a parish in the hundred of Hayridge, Devon, 4½ miles from Honiton, and 160 from London; containing 67 houses and 416 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

PAYTHORNE, a township in the parish of Gisburn, in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 10 miles from Skipton, and 226 from London; containing 34 houses and 198 inhabitants.

PEAK FOREST, a township and chapelry in the parish of Hathersage, and hundred of High Peak, Derby, containing 126 houses and 607 inhabitants. The High Peak, which gives name to the hundred is a rocky, rough, mountainous, and barren tract, being the extended angle of the county of Derby, running north-west by Chapel-in-le-Frith. Its mineral productions are various and valuable, and lead, the most important, has been dug in abundance, but many of the mines are now exhausted. Iron ore is chiefly found on the north-eastern side, and coals are very plentiful. The many natural curiosities of this district, are the general attractions of all travellers for pleasure, and its assemblage of curiosities, or Wonders of the Peak, have been frequently described both in prose and verse. Poole's Hole is a remarkable subterranean cavern, about a mile from the crescent at Buxton; the entrance is so low and narrow, that it is necessary for the visitor to stoop, but at the distance of 30 yards a spacious cavern opens, from the roof and sides of which, water continually dropping, congeals into large pillars and masses on the floor, forming a fantastic variety of figures. On reaching what is denominated the Flitch of Bacon, which is a large icicle depending from the roof, the cavern becomes again contracted, but a little farther it expands to a much greater height and width, till the visitor arrives at a large massy column of stalactites called Mary Queen of Scots' Pillar, from its having been visited by that unfortunate princess during her stay at Buxton. To explore this place farther, which few travellers do it is necessary to descend a few yards by very slippery and uneven steps; at first the path at bottom is tolerably even and level, but at the distance of about 20 yards the passage rises with a perpendicular ascent, 240 feet, extremely difficult and dangerous; from the guides placing a light at the extremity, it has a singularly beautiful effect to those who stand below. The return is by the bottom of the cavern, passing under the queen of Scot's pillar, by which an opportunity is given of ascertaining the dimensions of this awful recess in every part. The Lady's Pillar and Curtain, the Eye of St. Andrew's Needle, Break Back Passage, Poole's Chamber and Closet, the names given to beautiful incrustations, successively arrest the attention in this long passage, which is 460 yards to queen Mary's pillar, and 100 yards beyond it. The guides are generally old women, who being habituated to these damp passages, experience no danger from them. Behind Pool's Hole, on the edge of a vast hill, is a collection of whimsical habitations, called Ash-Hillocks, originally Limekilns, and now inhabited by a numerous set of industrious labourers. The Marvel Stone, situated about three miles from Buxton, in the road to Chapel-in-le-Frith, is a rock nearly 180 feet long and 80 broad, rising in the highest part about three feet from the surface of the ground, it is indented with innumerable channels or gutters, each from 9 inches to 13 feet long, and from 5 inches to 5 feet wide; there are also many irregular holes; the gutters run north and south, but none of them go quite across the stone, and in the whole area, there can scarcely be found 4 feet square without a hole or a channel, and the whole evidently the work of nature. Chee Tore lies on the right of the road to Tidesweil, five miles from Buxton, near the river Wye: one of the rocks is 360 feet high. Eldon Hole is a horrid fathomless chasm, in the middle of a high hill, its mouth is about 40 yards by 20, and it is hedged round to prevent accidents. Peak Hole, or as it is vulgarly called the Devil's A— apeak, near Castleton, the approach is truly grand, a river issuing from its mouth, and a range of rocks soaring their heads to the skies. The entrance is about 42 feet high and 120 wide, within are various cottages, and numbers of women and children are seen employed at their spinning wheels. After passing the Flitch of Bacon, a large incrustation hanging on one side, a small door is come to, through which is afforded a most stupendous view; passing a narrow passage, the river presents itself, on which there is a boat in which the spectator is conveyed along the stream, lying at full length till he approaches a most stupendous vault, 270 feet long, 210 wide, and 120 high, a winding but shallow part of the stream is then passed upon the guides' shoulders to Roger Rain's house, so called from the drops of water incessantly filtrating through every part of it; passing on to the Chancel and the Devil's Cellar, the passenger proceeds by a sandy hillock, descending gradually 150 feet, and at the Halfway house a fine transparent stream of water is passed, and thence through numerous regular and beautiful arches to the hanging rock; the extremity of this wonderful place is 2250 feet from its entrance, and 621 feet beneath the surface of the hill. For the rest of the wonders of the Peak see Matlock. Chatsworth. Buxton, &c.—Sullivan's Tour and Pilkington's Views of Derbyshire, and Guide to the Watering Places, 1806.

Peak, in the county of Cork, province of Munster, Ireland, near Aghabollogue, at which place a great number of subterraneous rooms or caverns were discovered in 1755, some of which contained considerable quantities of human skeletons.

Peakirk, a parish in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 4 miles from Market-Deeping, and 88 from London; containing 30 houses and 132 inhabitants. This place had anciently a considerable monastery, but having often suffered from the Danes it was removed to Croyland. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 3*s.* 11*d.* and united with Glynton, is in the patronage of the deanand chapter of Peterborough.

Peale, a hamlet in the parish of Deane, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Bolton-le-Moor, and 179 from London. The population of which was omitted to be returned to parliament.

PEALS, a hamlet in the parish of Alwinton, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Rothbury, and 312 from London; containing 6 houses, and 38 inhabitants.

PEAMONT, a small village in the parish and hundred of Exminster, Devon.

PEASEMARSH, a parish in the hundred of Goldspur, rape of Hastings, Sussex, near Rye, and 59½ miles from London; containing 83 houses, and 611 inhabitants. Fair Thursday after Whitsun week. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of Sydney College, Cambridge.

PEASEMORE, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, near Newbury, and 58 miles from London; containing 54 houses, and 266 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.*

PEASENHALL, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 4 miles from Saxmundham, and 94 from London; containing 86 houses, and 532 inhabitants. It is a curacy united with Sibton.

PEATLING MAGNA, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 7 miles from Lutterworth, and 90 from London; containing 31 houses, and 170 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.* united with Willoughby Waterless.

PEATLING PARVA, a parish in the same hundred, and 1½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 20 houses, and 117 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

PEBMARSH, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 3 miles from Halstead, and 49 from London; containing 78 houses, and 423 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

PEBWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 3 miles from Campden, and 93 from London; containing 116 houses, and 579 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 7*d.*

PECKFORTON, a township in the parish of Bunbury, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 4½ miles from Tarporley, and 168 from London; containing 44 houses, and 260 inhabitants.

PECKHAM EAST, a parish in the hundred of Twyford, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 5 miles from Maidstone, and 29 from London; containing 167 houses, and 1327 inhabitants.

PECKHAM WEST, or LITTLE PECKHAM, a parish in the hundred of Littlefield, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 4 miles from Tunbridge, and 30 from London; containing 58 houses, and 388 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

PECKHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Camberwell, in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, near Camberwell, and 3 miles from London; the population was included with Camberwell. Fair 22d of August, for 3 days.

PECKLETON, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 5 miles from Hinckley, and 104 from London; containing 44 houses, and 290 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

PECKWITH, UPPER and LOWER, two small hamlets in the parish of Corsham, hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 5 miles from Chippenham, and 98 from London; the population was included with Chippenham.

PEDMORE, a parish in Halfshire hundred, Worcester, 1½ mile from Stourbridge, and 122 from London; containing 51 houses, and 306 inhabitants. It has a charity school, and the church is an ancient Saxon building. The living is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.*

PEDWARDINE, a hamlet in the parish of Brampton Bryant, in the hundred of Wigmore, Hereford, 7 miles from Ludlow, and 145 from London. The population was included with Boresford.

PEELE, a hamlet in the township of Horton, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester.

PEELE, formerly called Holm, a small town in the Isle of Man, situated on the western side of the island. It is a straggling place on the sea shore, the harbour is neglected and the pier destroyed, but it has a very spacious and commodious bay. Here are the remains of two churches, the one dedicated to St. Patrick, and the other called St. Germain's, which is the cathedral. The castle and the cathedral of St. Germain stand on Peele Island, which is an extensive and lofty rock, encircled by the sea. Here are scattered about the ruins of St. Patrick's church, the armoury, the episcopal palace, and the lord's mansion. The channel which divides this island from the main land, is very deep, at high water, but at low water it is fordable, and was formerly joined to the main land by a strong stone quay. The walls of the castle enclose an irregular polygon, containing an area of about two acres; they are flanked with towers, built of a rough grey whinstone, but coigned and faced in many parts with a red grit: this contrast of colours has a pleasing effect. The walls of the cathedral are also built in a similar manner, but the whole building is extremely ruinous, much of it being unroofed and out of repair. Beneath the eastern part is the ecclesiastical prison. During the turbulent reign of Henry VI. Eleanor, duchess of Gloucester, was imprisoned in the castle, under the pretext of having applied to witches to be informed when her husband, who was uncle to Henry, should be king.

PEEBLES, a royal borough and the county town of the shire of Peebles, or Tweedale, pleasantly situated on the banks of the Tweed, over which it has an elegant bridge of five arches. It lies 22 miles south of Edinburgh, and contains 397 houses and 2068 inhabitants, viz. 963 males and 1125 females, of whom 336 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, principally in that of woollens. The town is well built, and in its neighbourhood the scenery is truly picturesque and beautiful. It is divided into two parts, called the New and Old Town, by the Eddlestone or Peebles water. On an eminence adjoining the town, embosomed with wood, is the castle of Nidpath, the seat of the duke of Queensbury; and on an eminence on the east stands the castle of Horseburgh. Peebles is governed by a magistracy and town council of 18 persons, and unites with Lanark, Linlithgow, and Selkirk in returning one member to parliament. This town is much noted for the excellence of its beer.

PEEBLES-SHIRE or TWEED-DALE, Scotland, bounded on the east and south-east by the shires of Berwick and Selkirk, on the south by Dumfries, on the west by Lanark, and on the north by Midlothian, being about 36 miles in length and about 10 in breadth. It contains one royal borough, Peebles, and is divided into 16 parochial districts, the whole containing 1682 houses inhabited by 8735 persons, viz. 4160 males and 4575 females, of whom 886 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture and 2013 in agriculture. It is a hilly country, and is watered by the rivers Tweed, Yarrow, Leithen, and several small streams; on the banks of which the soil is fertile and adapted to every kind of husbandry, but the greater proportion is in pasturage, and the hills are covered with innumerable flocks of sheep, famous for the excellence of their wool. All the rivers and small lakes contain salmon and trout. Being an agreeable country, it is adorned with numerous seats of the nobility and gentry, and contains some esteemed mineral springs. It abounds with coal and limestone, and iron and lead ores are found in many of the parishes.—Fullarton's General View of Peebles.

PEGGLESWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Dowdswell, Gloucester, near the Cotswold hills, 12 miles from Gloucester.

PEGSWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Bothall, in Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 1 mile from Morpeth, and 292 from London; containing 34 houses and 158 inhabitants.

PEGWELL, a hamlet to Ramsgate, in the parish of St. Lawrence, Kent, from which it is situate about one mile west, and is seated on a spacious bay of the same name. Belle Vue, an inn here, is a handsome building, delightfully situated; it is much resorted to by parties from Margate, Ramsgate, and Broadstairs. In the vicinity is Belmont, the seat of Lord Darnley.

PELDON, a parish in the hundred of Winstree, Essex, 5 miles from Colchester, and 47 from London; containing 40 houses and 313 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

PELHAM BRENT, a parish in the hundred of Edwintree, Herts, on the borders of Essex, 5 miles from Standon, and 31 from London; containing 30 houses and 208 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PELHAM FURNEAUX, another parish in the same hundred of Herts, and 1½ mile distant from the foregoing, nearer Standon, containing 100 houses and 529 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

PELHAM STOCKING, a third parish, near the two former, containing 22 houses and 109 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

PELSHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Walsall, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2 miles from Walsall, and 128 from London; containing 43 houses and 477 inhabitants.

PELTON, a township in the parish of Chester-le-street, in Chester ward, Durham, 7½ miles from Durham, and 267 from London; containing 108 houses and 509 inhabitants.

PELYNT, a parish in the hundred of West, Cornwall, 4 miles from West Looe, and 237 from London; containing 89 houses and 630 inhabitants. Fair, 11th June. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

PEMBERTON, a township in the parish of Wigan, in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 1½ mile from Wigan, and 198 from London; containing 397 houses and 2309 inhabitants, viz. 1131 males and 1178 females, of whom 1366 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

PEMBRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Stratford, Hereford, 6 miles from Kineton, and 150 from London; containing 288 houses and 1036 inhabitants. It is situated near the river Arrow, and has a small manufacture of woollen cloth. Formerly it was a market town. Fairs, 12th May and 22d November. It is a rectory, value 36*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

PEMBROKE, a borough and market town consisting of two parishes, in the hundred of Castle Martin, Pembrokeshire, Wales, situated on a branch of Milford Haven, 10 miles from Haverford West, and 250 from London; containing 323 houses and 1842 inhabitants, of whom 316 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. It consists of one long street, and has two churches, St. Mary's and St. Michael's, and a third St. Nicholas, in the suburbs. It is watered by two small rivers, over which are handsome bridges. It was anciently surrounded by walls, and had a magnificent castle seated on a rock at the west end of the town, supposed to have been erected by Arnulph, son of Roger de Montgomery, earl of Shrewsbury, in the reign of William Rufus; but having been destroyed several times, it was rebuilt in its present form by Owen, son of Cadwgan ap Blethyn. It is of Norman architecture. The principal tower, of great height, is perfect, with its stone vaulted roof remaining, the walls in some parts are 14 feet thick. In the civil wars it was a garrison for the crown, and made a brave defence against the parliamentary forces. The corporation consists of a mayor, bailiffs and burgesses, and in conjunction with Tenby and Whiston, this town sends one member to parliament. The number of voters being about 500. The returning officer is the mayor. It has given the title of earl to several noble families, and Edward VI., conferred it on the family of Herbert, who enjoy it at present. Three miles from Pembroke in a creek of Milford Haven, is Carew castle, once a place of amazing strength, belonging to the princes of South Wales. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 14th May, Trinity Monday, 10th July, and 25th September. St. Mary's is a vicarage not in charge, and St. Michaels is a vicarage, value 4*l.* united with St. Nicholas.

Pembrokeshire, a county in South Wales, bounded on the north-east by Cardiganshire, on the east by Carmarthenshire, and on the other sides by the Irish sea. It is very irregularly shaped both towards the land and sea, and difficult of admeasurement, it however may be estimated to be in length about 30 miles, and its extreme breadth about 27. It contains 335,600 acres of land, about 140,000 acres being arable, 160,000 pasturage, and of the remainder about 8000 acres appear to be totally unfit for cultivation. This county is divided into seven hundreds, viz. Castle Martin, Dewsland, Dungleddy, Kemess, Kilgerron, Narberth, and Roose, and contains one city, St. David's; one borough, Haverford west; six market towns, Fishguard, Kilgarron, Newport, Pembroke, Tenby, and Whiston; the whole containing 145 parishes, 11,869 houses inhabited by 56,280 persons, viz. 25,406 males and 30,874 females, of whom 4346 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 20,088 in agriculture. A great part of the county is plain, and tolerably fertile, consisting of rich meadow and arable land; the north-eastern part alone is mountainous, but it yields good pasturage for sheep. The southern part produces large crops of grain, and contains coal and culm, and the coast abounds with iron stone. Its exports are oxen, hogs, salt, butter, and cheese. Its principal rivers are the Cleaddy East and West, which unite and fall into Milford Haven. The sea coast is in general hilly, with steep cliffs. The whole is tolerably well watered, but some parts of the coast is in want of fresh water during the summer season, particularly where limestone is found at a moderate depth. The climate is reckoned very temperate. There is a peculiarity in the dress of the Pembrokeshire women, who even in the midst of summer, wear a heavy cloth gown, and instead of a cap, a large handkerchief wrapt over their heads and tied under the chin. In the other parts of Wales, the women as well as the men, wear large beaver hats with broad brims flapping over their shoulders. There is a cot on mill near Haverford West, a forge at Blackpool, and iron and tin works on the Tivy. Some years since an attempt was made to introduce the linen manufacture, but it did not succeed. Pembrokeshire was anciently inhabited by the Dimetae, and is now included in the north-west circuit, in the province of Canterbury, and diocese of St. David's, and returns three members to parliament, one for the county, and one each for Haverford West and Pembroke. The amount of assessment under the property tax in 1806 was 322,705*l.* and the amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 18,213*l.* at the rate of 11*s.* 8½*d.* in the pound. The average scale of mortality according to the registered burials for ten years, appears to have been as 1 to 70 of the existing population.

Pemsury, a parish in the hundred of Washlingstone, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3 miles from Tunbridge, and 33 from London; containing 103 houses and 742 inhabitants. Fair on Whit Tuesday. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 8*s.*

Penalth, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Trellage, in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, on the banks of the Wye, 2 miles from Monmouth, and 131 from London; containing 70 houses and 360 inhabitants

Penalth, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Towyn, hundred of Estimaner, Merionethshire, Wales, 4 miles from Machynleth, and 209 from London; containing 87 houses and 554 inhabitants.

Penbrook, a hamlet in the parish of South Parrot, hundred of Beaminster, Dorset, near Crewkerne.

Pencarreg, a parish in the hundred of Carthinog, Carmarthen, Wales, 4 miles from Lampeter, and 204 from London; containing 190 houses and 824 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.*

Penboyr, a parish in the hundred of Elvet, Carmarthen, Wales, 5 miles from Newcastle, and 222 from London; containing 175 houses and 776 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

Pencaitland, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, 12 miles from Edinburgh; consisting of the villages of Pencaitland, Easter and Wester, Nisbit and Winton, containing 228 houses and 925 inhabitants. It contains several mineral springs, and abounds with coal, freestone, and limestone.

Pencombe, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Bromyard, and 130 from London; containing 69 houses and 391 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Pencoyd, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Selleck, hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, 6 miles from Ross, and 127 from London; containing 29 houses and 157 inhabitants.

Pendene Vau, on the coast of the Bristol channel, Cornwall, near Morvah, and 3 miles from St. Just, has an unfathomable cave into which the sea flows at high water.

Pendennis, a peninsula situated at the mouth of Falmouth haven, Cornwall, about 1¼ mile in compass, on which Henry VIII. erected a castle opposite to that of St. Maw's, which he also built. In the reign of queen Elizabeth, it was fortified, and served as the governor's house. It is one of the largest castles in the kingdom, standing on a high rock, and is much stronger than that of St. Maw's, by land.

PENDERCOTES. See BEVERCOTES, Notts.

PENDERYN, a parish in the hundred of Devynnock, Brecon, Wales, 7 miles from Merthyr Tydvil; containing 140 houses, and 730 inhabitants.

PENDLEBURY, a township in the parish of Eccles, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 5 miles from Manchester, and 190 from London; containing 75 houses and 437 inhabitants.

PENDLETON, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 2 miles from Clitheroe, and 213 from London; containing 155 houses and 914 inhabitants.

PENDLETON, a township in the parish of Eccles, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Manchester, and 188 from London; containing 558 houses and 3611 inhabitants, viz. 1787 males, and 1824 females, of whom 2229 were employed in trade and manufactures, particularly of the various Manchester goods.

PENDOCK, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 4 miles from Upton, and 106 from London; containing 48 houses and 211 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

PENDOMER, a small village in the hundred of Houndborough, Somerset, 5 miles from Crewkerne, and 127 from London; containing 13 houses and 95 inhabitants.

PENDRAGON CASTLE, situated on the banks of the Eden, to the south of Kirby Stephen, Westmoreland.

PENGELLY, a hamlet in the parish of Breage, near Helston, in Cornwall.

PENHOW, a parish in the hundred of Caldicot, Monmouth, 7½ miles from Newport, and 140 from London; containing 27 houses and 138 inhabitants. The castle of which the present remains are very insignificant, was anciently one of the six that encompassed the forest of Wentwood. Its situation is extremely wild and romantic. Contiguous to it is the church, a small ancient building. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*—Coxe's Tour in Monmouthshire.

PENHURST, a village in the hundred of Netherfield, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 4 miles from Battle, and 59 from London; containing 11 houses and 81 inhabitants.

PENISTONE, a parish in Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 8½ miles from Barnsley, and 134 from Sheffield; containing 101 houses and 493 inhabitants. The church is a very handsome structure, and in the town is a well endowed grammar-school. Fairs, Thursday before 28th February, last Thursday in March, Thursday before Old May Day, and after Old Michaelmas Day.

PENK, a river in Staffordshire, which falls into the Sow, a little below Stafford.

PENKETH, a hamlet in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Prescott, and 197 from London; containing 64 houses, and 326 inhabitants.

PENKRIDGE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, situated on the river Penk, over which it has a stone bridge, 4 miles from Brewood, and 129 from London; containing 235 houses and 1582 inhabitants. The town is very ancient, and supposed to have been the Pennocrucium of the Romans. The church has a square tower, containing 5 bells. This place is not noted for any particular trade or manufacture. Market on Tuesday. Fairs, 30th April, and 10th October, a great horse fair.

PENLLECH, a parish in the hundred of Commitmaen, Carnarvon, Wales, 6 miles from Pwllheli; containing 41 houses and 252 inhabitants.

PENMACNO, a parish in the hundred of Nant Conway, Carnarvonshire, Wales, 4 miles from Bettus; containing 173 houses and 574 inhabitants. The village is built almost in a circle round the church. Fairs, 22d August, and 21st September.

PENMAEN, a parish in the hundred of Swansea, Glamorganshire, Wales, 215 miles from London; containing 31 houses and 131 inhabitants.

PENMAEN MAWR, a mountain in Carnarvonshire, Wales, near Aberconway, 242 miles from London. It is 1400 feet perpendicular from its base, and to travellers extremely dangerous, lying on the road to Holyhead. In 1772, a good turnpike road was attempted to be carried over it, but from its situation, close to a frightful precipice, it was found impracticable to render it permanent and safe, and a stone wall was erected to secure the traveller, about 5 feet high, on arches, bedded in strong mortar, but with such little foundation, that a large portion of it is continually falling into the Irish sea, which breaks just before the wall close to the road. It is impossible to depict a more dangerous situation. On the summit stands Braich y Ddinas, or the arm of the city, an ancient fortification encompassed with a strong treble wall, and within each wall the foundations of numerous towers all round, and of equal dimensions.

PENMARK, a parish in the hundred of Dinas Powis, Glamorganshire, Wales, 6 miles from Cardiff, and 168 from London; containing 75 houses and 424 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Gloucester.

PENMON, a parish in the hundred of Tyn-daethwy, Anglesey, Wales, 4 miles from Beaumaris, and 253 from London; containing 36 houses and 168 inhabitants. The ruins of a priory of black canons are still observable here in a part of the refectory and the church. In the neighbourhood are several mill-stone quarries, and many limekilns. Near them is a well, enclosed with a wall, having two entrances, and stone seats. At Baron Hill is the seat of viscount Bulkeley. It is a curacy.

PENMORVA, a parish in the hundred of Eflionyeld, Carnarvon, Wales, between Crickeith and Harlech, on an estuary of the Irish sea called Traeth Mawr. It contains 174 houses and 750 inhabitants. Fairs, 20th August, 25th September, and 12th November. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* with Dolbenmaen chapel annexed, in the patronage of the bishop of Bangor.

PENMYND, a village in the hundred of Tyndaethwy, Anglesey, Wales, 4 miles west of Beaumaris; containing 76 houses and 400 inhabitants. It is chiefly remarkable as the birth-place of Owen Tudor.

PENN, a parish in the hundred of Burnham, Bucks, 2¾ miles from High Wycombe, and 26 from London; containing 133 houses and 927 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

PENN, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 2 miles from Wolverhampton, and 129 from London; containing 140 houses and 700 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

PENNANT, a hamlet in the parish of St. Clear's, Cornwall.

PENNANT, a parish in the hundred of Llanfyllin, Montgomery, Wales, 2 miles from Llangynog, and 190 from London; containing 153 houses and 630 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph.

PENNARD EAST, a parish in the hundred of Whitestone, Somerset, 5 miles from Shepton Mallet, and 120 from London; containing 103 houses and 644 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* with West Bradley chapel annexed.

PENNARD WEST, a parish in the hundred of Glaston, Somerset, 2½ miles from Glastonbury, and 21 from London; containing 122 houses and 727 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PENNARTH, a parish in the hundred of Swansea, Glamorganshire, Wales, 2½ miles from Oystermouth, and 208 from London, near a point of land formerly the eastern boundary of Oxwich bay, and had formerly a strong castle. It contains 63 houses and 314 inhabitants.

PENNINGHAM, a parish in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, at the north-eastern extremity of the county; on the river Cree, 3 miles from Newtown Douglass; containing 574 houses and 2569 inhabitants, viz. 1143 males and 1426 females, of whom 201 were returned as being employed in trade, and 241 in agriculture. Upon the banks of the Cree stands the thriving village of NEWTOWN DOUGLASS. At the end of the town, over the river, is thrown a beautiful bridge. The Moss of Cree in the neighbourhood, is a morass, about 4 miles square, appearing to have been formerly an arm of the sea.

PENNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 1 mile from Ulverstone, and 271 from London; containing 53 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PENNINGTON, a township in the parish of Leigh, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 5 miles from Newton, and 197 from London; containing 368 houses and 1759 inhabitants, of whom 441 were returned as being employed in various trades.

PENNYCUICK, a parish in the shire of Edinburgh, Scotland, on the borders of Peebles, 9 miles from Edinburgh, situated on the river Esk, and containing 311 houses and 1705 inhabitants; of whom 670 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly at an extensive cotton mill in the neighbourhood. The church, which stands at the east end of the village, is a neat building, having a portico supported by doric pillars. Pennycuick house is an elegant modern building, commanding a beautiful view of the valley and river; on the opposite side of which is an obelisk to the memory of Allen Ramsay, who frequently resided here.

PENPONT, a parish in the shire of Dumfries, Scotland, 14 miles from Dumfries; containing 194 houses and 966 inhabitants. The whole parish is extremely mountainous, some parts being 3500 feet above the level of the sea, and the hill called Glenquhargen Craig, composed of brownish Basaltes, rises almost perpendicular to the height of 1000 feet.

PENRICE, a parish in the hundred of Swansea, Glamorgan, Wales, situated near the sea coast, 187 miles from London; containing 59 houses, and 289 inhabitants. Part of the ruins of Castle Pen Rees, are still to be seen, and on part of its site is the modern Penrice castle. It has a very good harbour. Fairs, 17th May, 17th July, 17th September, and 1st December. It is a curacy.

PENRITH, a market town and parish in Leath ward, Cumberland, 17 miles from Carlisle, and 283¾ from London; containing 670 houses and 3801 inhabitants, viz. 1697 males, and 2104 females, of whom 1020 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. This town was originally claimed, and continued a long time in the possession of the Scots; but it being disputed by the English, it was twice burnt in the reigns of Edward III. and Richard II. when it had a castle erected to check the depredations of the Scots. The church is a large and handsome structure, mostly new built, except the lower part. Its roof is supported by pillars, consisting each of one entire stone dug out of a neighbouring quarry. In the church-yard are two ancient rude stone obelisks, set up at each end of what is called the Giant's Grave, and said to have been erected to the memory of Sir Owen Cæsarius, a famous warrior, who destroyed the robbers and wild beasts that infested Inglewood forest; and the credulous believe that his body reached from one pillar to the other, being nearly 5 yards. The town-house in the market-place is built of wood, and embellished with the figures of bears climbing up a ragged staff. It has a good free school, a charity school, and 2 Sunday schools, with several meeting houses for Presbyterians and Quakers. Its principal manufactures are those of check and fancy waistcoat pieces. On the north bank of the river Emont, are two caves or grottos, dug out of the solid rock, and very extensive. The passage to them is narrow and dangerous, and from some iron gates having been formerly taken from hence, it is supposed they were intended as a place of safety during the incursions of the Scots; but strange stories are told of their having been the abode of a giant. This town suffered greatly by the plague in 1380, and again in 1598, where it is recorded by an inscription on the vestry wall, that 2260 persons died thereof; but the register only accounts for 680 burials. The markets are on Tuesday and Saturday. Fairs, 8th June, and 5th August. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.—Housman's Tour and Hutchinson's Cumberland.

PENRITH OLD, a hamlet in the parish of Lazonby, in Leath ward, Cumberland, 5 miles north of Penrith. The remains of its ancient buildings are very considerable, and it is supposed to have been a Roman station, and a very extensive town before the growth of New Penrith.

PENRITH, a parish in the hundred of Kilgerron, Pembrokeshire, Wales, 9 miles from Cardigan, and 240 from London; containing 48 houses and 214 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* in the patronage of the prince of Wales.

PENROSE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Lantillio Cresseney, in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 7 miles from Monmouth, and 237 from London; containing 63 houses and 312 inhabitants.

PENROOSE, a small hamlet near the Land's End, in Cornwall.

PENRUDDOCK, a hamlet in the parish of Greystock, Leath ward, Cumberland.

PENRYN, a borough and market town in the parish of St. Gluvian's, hundred of Kerriar, Cornwall, situated on an eminence at the mouth of the river called the King's Road that runs into Falmouth harbour, 3 miles from Falmouth, and 266½ from London; containing 294 houses and 2324 inhabitants, viz. 1919 males, and 1404 females, of whom 197 were returned as being employed in trade; but its principal business is in the pilchard and Newfoundland fisheries. Here is a market-house, town-hall, assembly-room, &c. The town is extremely well watered, having streams running through the streets: on these there are 4 grist mills and 1 paper-mill. There are several good breweries here which supply the shipping at Falmouth; and it is reckoned the granary of the south-western part of the county having considerable warehouses generally well stored with flour and grain from the Isle of Wight and Hampshire. It was anciently surrounded by a wall, and defended by a strong castle. It is now governed by a corporate body, consisting of 12 aldermen, 12 common council men, a recorder, steward, and other officers, and has sent representatives to parliament ever since the 1st of queen Mary. The right of election is in the mayor, portreeve, aldermen, and inhabitants at large, paying scot and lot. The manor of Penryn Forryn has a court of record, and the steward holds pleas to any amount, and proceeds by bailable capias in all cases above 10*l.* The market days are on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. Fairs, 1st May, 7th July, and 21st December.

PENSAX, a hamlet in the parish of Lindrige, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 14 miles from Worcester, and 130 from London; containing 68 houses and 469 inhabitants.

PENSET CHACE, near Wolverhampton, Staffordshire, in which there is a salt-spring.

PENSFORD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Publow, hundred of Keynsham, Somersetshire, 6 miles from Bristol, and 116 from London; containing 61 houses and 306 inhabitants, and had formerly a manufactory of woollen cloth. Fairs, 6th May, and 8th November.

PENSHURST, a parish in the hundred of Somerden, lathe of Sutton, Kent, near the river Medway, 3½ miles from Tunbridge, and 31½ from London; containing 160 houses and 1128 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood is Penshurst house and park, memorable for being the native place of sir Philip Sidney.

PENTLAND FRITH, the straight which separates the main land of Scotland from the Orkney isles. It is only 12 miles over, but in it the sea runs with such impetuous force by the meeting of so many currents, that no wind is able to bear a vessel against them, and it dashes with such violence against the rocks, that the spray is carried some miles over land, and falls like a shower of rain. The navigation is extremely dangerous from the several whirlpools about the island of Stroma and the Skerries. On the latter which lie nearly in the middle of the Frith, is a light-house.

PENTLAND HILLS, a ridge of hills which begin about 4 miles west of Edinburgh, and extend toward the western border of Mid Lothian, the whole covered with the richest pasturage.

Pensham, a small hamlet in the parish and hundred of Pershore, Worcester, ½ mile from Pershore.

Pentlow, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 5 miles from Sudbury, and 60 from London on the river Stour; containing 40 houses and 275 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Pentney, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 7 miles from Lynn, and 90 from London; containing 49 houses and 285 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Penton Mewsey, a parish in the hundred and division of Andover, Hants, 3 miles from Andover, and 66 from London; containing 38 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*

Penton Grafton, a hamlet in the preceding parish, and ½ mile distant; containing 48 houses and 345 inhabitants.

Pentonville, a hamlet in the parish of St. James, Clerkenwell, in the division of Finsbury, Middlesex, adjoining to Islington, and situated on a pleasant eminence, the population of which was included with the return of Clerkenwell. The chapel is a very elegant building, containing a fine altar-piece, and it has a spacious burial ground. There is also another chapel, called Eden chapel.

Pentraeth, a township and chapelry in the parish of Llandisfnan, hundred of Tyndaethy, Anglesey, Wales, 5 miles from Beaumaris; containing 125 houses and 567 inhabitants. Fairs, 5th May, Friday after Trinity, 16th August, 3d October, and 12th November.

Pentridge, a parish in the hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 12 miles from Derby, and 136 from London; containing 102 houses and 670 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

Pentridge, a parish in the hundred of Cranborne, division of Shaston, Dorset, 3 miles from Cranborne, and 96 from London; containing 45 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Penwortham, a parish in the hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 1 mile from Preston, and 215 from London; containing 180 houses and 1049 inhabitants, of whom 517 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is a curacy.

Penyard, a hamlet in the parish of Weston, hundred of Graytree, Hereford, 2 miles from Ross, and 120 from London. Population included with Weston.

Penwith, the name of a hundred in Cornwall, being the south-western extremity of the county, from Redruth to Penzance and the Land's End.

Penzance, a sea port and market town in the parish of Madron, hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 3 miles from Marazion, and 289 from London; containing 667 houses and 3382 inhabitants, viz. 1356 males, and 2026 females, of whom 382 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. The town is well built, and several ships belong to the port although the harbour will not admit large vessels, it being almost dry at low water. It has several meeting houses for Dissenters, and a Jew's synagogue. The surrounding country abounds in metallic ore, and it is said that veins of lead, copper, and tin are to be discovered in the sea at low water. The different tin mines furnish a considerable traffic and employment here, and that called the Wherry mine, is 30 fathom deep. In 1595, the town was burnt by the Spaniards, but it was soon after rebuilt, and made a coinage town. The market is on Thursday. Fairs, Trinity Thursday, and Holy Thursday.

Penzelwood, a parish in the hundred of Ferris Norton, Somerset, 3 miles from Wincanton, and 106 from London; containing 41 houses and 265 inhabitants

Peopleton, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 3 miles from Pershore, and 106 from London; containing 42 houses and 214 inhabitants.

Peover Little, a hamlet in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 2 miles from Knutsford, and 170 from London; containing 20 houses and 131 inhabitants.

Peover Over, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Rosthern, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 3½ miles from Knutsford, and 169 from London; containing 78 houses and 451 inhabitants.

Peover Nether, another hamlet in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, 4 miles from Knutsford, and 168½ from London; containing 38 houses and 256 inhabitants.

Pepperharrow, a parish in the hundred of Godalming, Surry, 2½ miles from Godalming, and 36 from London; containing 22 houses and 111 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Perancuthno, a parish in the hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 1½ mile from Marazion, and 285 from London; containing 112 houses and 506 inhabitants.

Perivale, a parish in the hundred of Elthorne, Middlesex, sometimes called Little Greenford, situated on the northern side of Great Ealing, and Castlebare hill, 7 miles from London; containing 5 houses and 28 inhabitants; but the name more properly means that rich vale of arable land extending from Heston, near Hounslow, to Harrow on the Hill and Pinner. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*

Perlethorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Edwinstow, Nottinghamshire.

Perranarworthal, a township in the parish of St. Stithian's, hundred of Kerriar, Cornwall, 5 miles from Truro, and 262 from London; containing 125 houses and 884 inhabitants.

Perianzabullo, or St. Perran in the Sands, a parish in the hundred of Pydar, Cornwall, 4 miles from St. Michael's, and 254 from London; containing 284 houses and 1389 inhabitants, of whom 249 were returned as being employed in various trades. From the many encroachments of the sea, the inhabitants have been forced to leave their church.

Perrott North, a parish in the hundred of Handborough, Somerset, 2 miles from Crewkerne, and 130 from London; containing 83 houses and 426 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

Perrott South, a parish in the hundred of Beaminster, division of Bridport, Dorset, 3 miles from Crewkerne, and 129 from London; containing 48 houses and 251 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

Persebridge, on the river Tees, west of Darlington, Durham, supposed to be a corruption of Priests'-bridge, near which are the ruins of a chapel where priests were formerly stationed to officiate. See Pierce-Bridge.

Pershore, the name of a hundred in Worcestershire, lying near the center of the county, but blended with the hundred of Oswaldslow.

Pershore, a market town, consisting of two parishes, in the hundred of the same name, Worcester, 9½ miles from Tewkesbury, and 103 from London, near the junction of the Avon with the Bow; containing 408 houses and 1910 inhabitants, of whom 285 were returned as being employed in various trades. The parish is of great extent, having several manors and chapelries within its limits. The church of Holy Cross has a lofty square tower, containing eight bells, and the church contains several ancient monuments. The church of St. Andrew's is small, and has a square tower with 6 bells. The chief manufacture is that of stockings. The main street is near ¼ mile long. Here was formerly an extensive abbey of Benedictine monks. The market is on Tuesday. Fairs, Easter Tuesday, 26th June, first Monday in August, and the Tuesday before the 1st November. St. Andrew's is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster; and Holy Cross a curacy, under the church of St. Andrew's.

Pertenhall, a parish in the hundred of Stodden, Bedford, 3 miles from Kimbolton, and 60 from London; containing 38 houses and 190 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.*

Perth, the capital of the shire of Perth, Scotland, situated on the south-west bank of the river Tay, 28 miles from Edinburgh; containing 1353 houses and 14,878 inhabitants, viz. 6723 males, and 8155 females, of whom 3535 were returned as being employed in trade, manufacture, and handicrafts, and 728 in agriculture. The streets and houses are mostly disposed on a regular plan, an advantage which it probably derives over the other burghs, from the level plain in which it stands. The entrance to the town is by an elegant new bridge. The main street is full of lofty and well built houses, and is inhabited by the chief merchants of the place. Most of the streets appear to be named from various branches of trade and manufacture, probably originally carried on in them. Watergate-street running parallel with the Tay, consists mostly of old buildings, at the south end of which is the palace of the Gowrie family, the scene of the famous conspiracy against James VI. It is now occupied as barracks. The town-house and tolbooth are situated at the foot of the High-street, and in the middle of the same street stands the guildhall. Several of the incorporated trades have halls, but that of the glovers, is by far the most elegant. The church in which John Knox harangued when preaching the reformed religion, still stands, being divided into three, called the East, West, and Middle kirks. At the head of the High-street has been erected of late years, a very elegant chapel of ease. In that part called the New Town, began in 1798, is a Circus and Terrace of elegant houses: these stand on the site of a monastery of black friars, in which James I. of Scotland, was murdered by the earl of Athol. The new stone bridge, erected in 1771, is the most beautiful structure of the kind in North Britain, and is from the design of Mr. Smeaton. It consists of 10 arches, but one of them is a land arch. The clear way is 589 feet; the extent of the arches 730 feet; and the whole length of the bridge 906 feet; its breadth 22 feet within the parapets. The piers are founded 10 feet beneath the bed of the river, upon oaken and beechen piles, and the whole expence was 26,000*l.* At the east end of the bridge is the burgh of barony of Kinnoul. A little to the north-west of the new town are very extensive and convenient barracks for cavalry. There were formerly many religious houses here, but they were mostly destroyed at the reformation. The quays are very convenient for the loading and unloading vessels, but those of large burthen are obliged to unload at Newburgh. From all the ancient historians it appears that Perth was formerly a place of great trade. The salmon fishery on the Tay, is very extensive, the annual rent of which is about 7000*l.* per annum. The salmon are sent to London, packed in ice, or pickled, a smack sailing every third or fourth day during the season. The staple manufacture of Perth is linen, but of late years that of cotton has been introduced, and is daily increasing; and it is computed that upwards of 1500 looms are employed in the town. There are also extensive manufactures of leather, boots, shoes, gloves, &c. It has two public banks. The grammar school of Perth has long been accounted one of the best in Scotland, and has produced many eminent statesmen and scholars. It has a Literary Society, and a Society of Antiquaries. The manners of Perth are gay, and the inhabitants have their assemblies, plays, and every amusement peculiar to so extensive and opulent a town. The gentlemen of the Perth hunt have their meetings here, and fill the town with bustle during its continuance. In its municipal capacity Perth is a royal borough, joining with Dundee, Forfar, Cupar, and St. Andrew's, in sending one member to the imperial parliament. It is governed by a provost, who exercises the office of sheriff and coroner; three bailies, a dean of guild, treasurer, and town council, the greater part of whom are elected from the trades. In some of the neighbouring villages are considerable bleach and print fields. The title of earl of Perth, is in the Drummond family; in 1745, became forfeited, but has been since revived. The only houses of note are the castle of Balhourie, the ancient seat of the earls of Kinnoul; Pit-thevelen the seat of the lords Oliphant; and Fewe-house. The town divides a spacious plain into what is called the North and South Inches, each being about a mile and half in circumference; the right of pasturage therein belongs to the inhabitants, and is used for various recreations, particularly the exercise of the goff, and the South Inch is surrounded with an avenue of high trees.—Gilpin's and Pennant's Tour. Lettice's Letters.

Perthshire, one of the largest counties of Scotland, bounded on the east by the shire of Forfar, on the south-east by the Frith of Tay and the shires of Kinross and Fife; on the south by the Forth and the shires of Clackmannan and Stirling; on the south-west by Dumbarton; on the west by Argyle; and on the north by Inverness and Aberdeen; reaching 77 miles in a straight line, and 68 miles from the Frith of Forth on the south, and the forest of Athol on the north; being an extent of 5000 square miles, or 4,068,640 English acres. It comprehends the districts of Athol, Braidalbain, Monteath, Stratherne, Stormont, Balquhidder, Gowrie, Rannoch, and Perth Proper; but little attention is now paid to these divisions, and it is more naturally divided into the highland and lowland district; the former containing 18 parochial districts, and the latter 58. The whole containing 23,582 houses, inhabited by 126,366 persons, viz. 58,808 males, and 67,558 females, of whom 22,775 were returned as being employed in trade, manufacture, and handicraft, and 24,404 in agriculture. In so great an extent of surface, the appearance of the country must be greatly diversified, and it exhibits scenes of rugged and striking magnificence, contrasted with the most beautiful ones of cultivation. The soil also, has all the varieties of Scotland; the coarse and loamy being prevalent on the banks of the river, and a sandy soil on the sides of the hills. In many places are extensive mosses, abounding with lakes and rivers lying between lofty mountains. The principal rivers are the Tay and Forth. The former rises on the borders of Argyle, and forming Loch Tay, passes southerly, receiving several small rivers. Some of the highest mountains in Scotland are in this county: Benlawers rises on the side of Loch Tay, and is 4015 feet above the level of the sea; Benmore, at the head of lake Glendochart, is 3903 feet high; Shichallion, in the district of Rannoch, is 3564, besides several others of considerable elevation. The climate of the county partakes of all its variety of soil and surface. The vallies are in general warm and early in their vegetation; the northern parts are cold, but of more equal temperature than on the coast. The mildness of the climate is obvious, when it is a known fact, that in some of the Grampian vallies barley has been reaped in good order, 9 weeks after it was sown. Horticulture is making a rapid progress in Perthshire, and the Carse of Gowrie has long been famous for its fruit. From the trunks of trees often discovered beneath the mosses of the flat ground, and on the tops of the hills, it must have been formerly covered with wood. The fir wood of Rannock, is very extensive, and in several parts there are considerable forests; and the plantations of Larix have of late considerably encreased. The minerals of Perth are few, but coal is found in the southern part of it, and at Culross, the inhabitants claim the invention of extracting tar therefrom. Lime stone is wrought in many parts of the highland districts, some of it taking a fine polish equal to marble. The mountains on the north and west are chiefly granite. In Monteath there is a ridge of steatites, or soap rock, 3 feet thick, and extending upwards of 4 miles in length; it is a very valuable clay, and is similar to that wrought at Stourbridge.

Perton, a parish in the hundred of Hitchin, Hertford, 3 miles from Hitchin, and 37 from London; containing 94 houses and 481 inhabitants.

Pertwood, a decayed parish in the hundred of Warminster, Wilts, 2½ miles from Hindon, and 98 from London; containing 3 houses and 15 inhabitants.

Peterborough, a city in the hundred of Nassaburgh, or Peterborough liberties, Northampton, 6½ miles from Stilton, and 78½ from London; containing 727 houses and 3449 inhabitants, viz. 1571 males and 1878 females, of whom 735 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, and 181 in agriculture. This city is situated on the northern side of the river Nen, on the borders of Huntingdonshire, its ancient name being Medeshamsted; and from a monastery erected about the year 660, dedicated to St. Peter, it was afterwards called Peterborough. After the monastery had flourished about 200 years, it was totally destroyed by the Danes, and continued in ruins during a century, when Ethelwold, bishop of Winchester, with the assistance of king Edgar, and his chancellor Adulf, (who afterwards turned monk and was made abbot of this house) rebuilt it in the most magnificent and stately manner; the abbots of which were mitred and sat in parliament. At the dissolution by Henry VIII. it was converted into a cathedral, for a bishop, dean, and six canons, eight choristers, a master, two schoolmasters, 20 scholars, six almsmen, and other officers. There was a dependant hospital on the abbey, founded by Abbott Benedict, who had been chancellor to Thos. à Becket. The cathedral suffered much during the civil wars, but a few years ago it was thoroughly repaired. The building is a noble structure, 409 feet long and 203 broad; the west front is supported by stately pillars, and the windows are adorned with some very fine paintings on glass; the choir has a most magnificent appearance, and the chapel of St. Mary is curiously adorned with carved work. Amongst other monuments is one to the memory of Catharine of Arragon, wife of Henry VIII. and another to the memory of Mary Queen of Scots, both of whom were buried here. There is only one parish church, exclusive of the cathedral, which contains nothing remarkable. Many of the buildings are extremely neat, and the streets regular; near the cathedral is a good market house, over which are held the assizes and sessions for the hundred. It has a well endowed charity school, for 20 boys and 40 girls. The trade in corn and timber, is very considerable, and the stocking manufacture is carried on here to great extent. This is reckoned the least city, and the poorest bishoprick in England; but the jurisdiction of the place called Peterborough Soke or Liberty, extends over 52 towns and hamlets in the neighbourhood, in all which places the civil magistrates appointed by commission from the king are invested with full powers as judges of assizes, and accordingly hold their quarterly sessions of the peace, &c. The city is governed by a mayor, recorder, 6 aldermen, and 8 common council. It sends 2 members to parliament, who are chosen by the inhabitants paying scot and lot; and the dean and chapter who are lords of the manor, appoint the returning officers. The air is esteemed unhealthy, from its situation near the fens. Near the city is Caerdyke, an ancient foss made by the Romans for draining the fens. The market on Saturday is very plentifully supplied. Fairs, 10th July for cloth, cattle, and pedlary, and on the 2d and 3d October. St. John Baptist church is a vicarage, not in charge, in the patronage of the bishop of Peterborough. Bridge's Northamptonshire.

Peterborough, a village in the county of Mopaghan, province of Ulster, Ireland.

Peterculter, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 8 miles from Aberdeen, containing 207 houses and 871 inhabitants. It is watered by the river Dee, and has a considerable branch of paper manufactures.

Peterchurch, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, situated on the river Doier, in the golden vale, 10 miles from Hereford, and 145 from London; containing 140 houses and 702 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Peterhead, a sea port town and parish in the district of Buchan, shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, situated on a Peninsula, connected with the country on the north-west by an Isthmus only 800 yards broad, 24 miles north-east of Aberdeen; containing 826 houses and 4491 inhabitants, viz. 1933 males and 2558 females, of whom 914 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, and 583 in agriculture. The town is built nearly in the form of a cross and is divided into four districts, connected by continued streets, these are called, the Kirktown, Rontreads, Keith Inch, and Peterhead; the houses are built of Granite, and have a very pretty appearance; near the head of the principal street, stands an elegant town house, having a spire and clock. The Keith-Inch, divides the harbour into a north and south haven; this point of land was formerly separated from the town, but the erection of a high pier has now prevented its being overflowed by the sea. The north harbour has a pier of large rough stones, chiefly used for laying up the fishing craft during winter. The south harbour is a very capacious bason, sheltered by two newly erected piers. Upon the Keith Inch, are many elegant houses, and on the south side an old castle erected in the beginning of the 6th century; near it is a small fort, with a guard-house, and a mounted battery. The manufactures of thread, woollen cloth, and cotton, have been established here for some time and are carried on to a great extent. Peterhead is a burgh of barony, governed by a bailie and 8 councellors; and is held of the merchant maiden hospital, of Edinburgh. Peterhead is much frequented during the summer season both for sea bathing, and for drinking the waters of the mineral well on the south of the town, called the Mine Well, so called from its sparkling in a glass like Champagne. It has been long esteemed for disorders of the stomach, nervous affections, and female complaints, and is recommended by Dr. Laing in cases of scrophula.—Lat. 57. 30. 33. north long. 1. 39. west.

Peter's St. Le Port, a market town in the south-eastern part of the Island of Guernsey; it consists principally of one long and narrow street; the mouth of the harbour is defended by rocks, and on each side is a castle; the one called the old, the other Castle Cornet. In this town the Governor generally resides. The harbour has a very good road from whence vessels may sail with any wind, and from the roads, pass under the guns of the castle up to the town. The pier is a noble work, formed of vast stones joined together with great art and regularity, and being handsomely paved on the top with large smooth flag stones, guarded by parapets, it forms a very pleasant promenade. Castle Cornet, situated on a rock which commands both the town and harbour, is separated from the land by an arm of the sea, about 600 yards wide, and not fordable but at low water.

PETER'S ST. a parish in the Isle of Thanet, Kent, 2 miles from Ramsgate, and 72 from London, near the sea; it is a member of the port of Dover, and contains 356 houses and 1568 inhabitants.—Fairs, 5th April, and 10th July.

PETERLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Great Missenden, Bucks.

PETERSFIELD, a borough and market town in the parish of Buriton, hundred of Finchdean, division of Alton, Hants, situated on the river Loddon, 17 miles from Portsmouth, and 55 from London; containing 192 houses and 1159 inhabitants, of whom 748 were returned as being employed in various trades. The chapel of ease is a neat building, and the town having been incorporated by Queen Elizabeth, is governed by a mayor and common council, and sends 2 members to parliament; the returning officer is the mayor, who is chosen at the lord of the manor's court. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 10th July, and 11th December.

PETERSHAM, a parish united with Kew, hundred of Kingston, Surry, 9 miles from London, on the banks of the Thames; containing 59 houses and 422 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are many elegant villas, particularly Petersham Lodge, formerly belonging to the duke of Clarence; the pleasure grounds are spacious and beautiful, extending to Richmond Park, a small part of which has been added to them by a late grant from his Majesty, including the mount, whereon (according to tradition) Henry VIII. stood to behold the signal for Anu Boleyn's execution. The church was formerly a chapel of ease to Kingston, till 1769, when by act of parliament this parish and Kew, were united in one vicarage.—Lysons's Environs of London.

PETERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Wentlodge, Monmouth, situated on the coast, 8 miles from Newport, and 155 from London; containing 19 houses and 85 inhabitants.—It is a curacy.

PETERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Dinas Powis, Glamorganshire, Wales, 6 miles from Cardiff, and 166 from London; containing 46 houses and 220 inhabitants.

PETERSTOW, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 4 miles from Ross, and 125 from London; containing 37 houses and 240 inhabitants.

PETERSTOW or PETERSTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Burnham Overy, near Burnham Market, Norfolk.

PETHAM, a parish in the hundred of Bridge and Petham, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3½ miles from Canterbury, and 58 from London; containing 78 houses and 414 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, annexed to Waltham.

PETHERTON NORTH, the name of a hundred in Somerset, lying around Bridgewater.

PETHERTON NORTH, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Somerset, 3 miles from Bridgwater, and 137 from London; containing 436 houses and 2346 inhabitants, viz. 1159 males and 1187 females, of whom 479 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, and 1189 in agriculture. It consists principally of one long street, and many of the houses are well-built; the parish is very extensive including 17 villages, and formerly had a very considerable corn market on Saturday. It is a vicarage, value 27*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.*—Fair, 1st May.

PETHERTON SOUTH, the name of a hundred in the same county, in the Southern part thereof, between Ilminster and Crewkerne.

PETHERTON SOUTH, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Somerset, situated on the river Perrot, about 12 miles from North Petherton, and 137 from London; containing 346 houses and 1674 inhabitants, of whom 444 were returned as being employed in trade. It has a good stone bridge over the river. The principal manufacture is that of Dowlas. The market is on Thursday. Fair, 5th July.

PETHERWIN SOUTH, a parish in the hundred of East Cornwall, 3 miles from Launceston, and 213 from London; containing 124 houses and 699 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* united with Trewen, and is in the patronage of the University of Oxford.

PETHERWIN NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 5 miles from Launceston, and 213 from London; containing 145 houses and 672 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the duke of Bedford.

PETROX ST. See DARTMOUTH, Devon

PETROCKSTOW, a parish in the hundred of Shebbear, Devon, 9 miles from Hatherleigh, and 209 from London; containing 75 houses and 467 inhabitants.

PETSOE, a hamlet in the parish of Emberton, hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Olney, and 53 from London. Population included with Emberton.

PETT, a parish in the hundred of Guestling, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 3 miles from Hastings, and 63 from London; containing 36 houses and 185 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

PETTAUGH, a parish in the hundred of Thredling, Suffolk, 9 miles from Ipswich, and 78 from London; containing 31 houses and 204 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

PETTERIL, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the Eden, near Carlisle.

PETTERIL CROOK, a township in the parish of Hesket, in Leath Ward, Cumberland,

7 miles from Carlisle, and 294 from London; containing 60 houses and 349 inhabitants.

PETTINAIN, a parish in the shire of Lanark, Scotland, situated on the river Clyde, 5¼ miles from Lanark, and 7 from Biggar; containing 91 houses and 430 inhabitants. The haughs on the banks of the river are extremely fertile, from their being often overflowed, but the general face of the parish is hilly and only fit for pasture. The only mansion of note is Westraw, the seat of the earl of Hyndford.

PETTISTREE, a parish in the hundred of Wilford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Woodbridge, and 80½ from London; containing 35 houses and 241 inhabitants.

PETTON, a hamlet in the parish of Baschurch, hundred of Pimhill, Salop, 6 miles from Ellesmere, and 171 from London; containing 4 houses and 35 inhabitants.

PETTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bampton, Devon, 1½ mile from Bampton, and 165 from London. Population included with Bampton.

PETTY, a parish in the shire of Inverness, Scotland, lying on the south side of the Moray Frith, 7 miles from Inverness; containing 382 houses and 1585 inhabitants.

PITTYCUR, a harbour in the shire of Fife, Scotland, situated on the Frith of Forth, about a mile west of Kinghorn; it is the usual landing place of the passage boats from Leith.

PETWORTH, a market town and parish in the hundred of Rotherbridge, rape of Arundel, Sussex, near the river Arun, 12 miles from Arundel, and 50 from London; containing 396 houses and 2264 inhabitants, viz. 1086 males and 1176 females, of whom 230 were returned as being employed in various trades, and 212 in agriculture. This place is chiefly remarkable for a magnificent seat of the earl of Egremont, antiently belonging to the Percy's, earls of Northumberland, and came with the estate to the duke of Somerset, who married the heiress of that noble house. From sir William Wyndham who married a daughter of the duke, it came to the present nobleman. This mansion was built by the duke of Somerset, on the site of the old one; the apartments are spacious, noble, and richly furnished: among the curiosities in the Armoury, is shewn a sword, said to be that which belonged to the famous Hotspur. The church is a neat building, and has several monuments of the Percy family. The market is on Saturday, and is generally well supplied. Fairs, Holy Thursday, and November 20th. It is a rectory, value 41*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.*

PEVENSEY, the name of a rape in Sussex, stretching across the centre of the county, between the rapes of Lewes and Hastings.

PEVENSEY, a parish in the hundred of Burleigh Arches, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 5½ miles from Hailsham, and 62 from London, situated on a small river which falls into a bay called Pevensey harbour; containing 98 houses and 752 inhabitants. It has the ruins of a once magnificent castle, originally belonging to Robert earl of Morton, brother of William the Conqueror. Afterwards it remained in the possession of the crown, till Henry III. granted it to the Bretons, earls of Richmond, from whom it reverted to the crown. The Pelham family rented it till some years since, when it was given up to Spencer Compton, ancestor to the earl of Northampton; and now belongs to lord George Cavendish. It appears to have been anciently situated on an island by the sea, but is now 2 miles distant therefrom; the walls are circular and of great thickness. This castle has often made a conspicuous figure in early history; and was that near which William of Normandy landed on his expedition against England. In the reign of Henry IV. the duke of York was confined therein a prisoner. The church is an old building. In the neighbourhood have been recently erected several Martello towers.—It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* and in the patronage of the Chancellor of Chicester. Fair 5th July.

PEVES, a river in Cheshire, which falls into the Wever, near Northwich.

PEVERELL OF PEVERELL POINT, a hamlet in the parish of Bradford, Dorsetshire, near Swanwich bay; the population of which was included with Bradford.

PEWSEY, a hamlet in the parish of Buckland, hundred of Ganfield, Berks, 3 miles from Farrington, and 64 from London; containing 16 houses and 65 inhabitants.

PEWSEY, a parish in the hundred of Kinwardstone, Wilts, 6 miles from Great Bedwin, and 76 from London; containing 222 houses and 1179 inhabitants, of whom 102 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

PEWSHAM, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 1 mile from Chippenham, and 93 from London; containing 25 houses and 139 inhabitants.

PEYTON, a hamlet in the parish of Boxford, Suffolk, with which the population was included.

PHILLACK, a parish in the hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 5 miles from St. Ives, and 272 from London; containing 272 houses and 1475 inhabitants, of whom 320 were returned as being employed in various trades. It has a considerable copper work.

PHILLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 4½ miles from Falmouth, and 264 from London; containing 66 houses and 315 inhabitants.

PHOSIDE, a township in the parish of Glossop, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 6 miles from Chapel-en-le-Frith, and 173 from London; containing 192 houses and 972 inhabitants, including Kinder, an adjoining hamlet.

Pickenham North, a parish in the hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 2 miles from Swaffham, and 91 from London; containing 20 houses and 193 inhabitants.

Pickenham South, a parish united with the foregoing, and 1 mile distant therefrom; containing 14 houses and 120 inhabitants.

Pickering, the name of a lyth, in the north riding of York, near the eastern extremity of the riding, west of Scarborough.

Pickering, a market town and parish in Pickering lyth, north riding of York, 26 miles from York, and 222 from London; containing 351 houses and 1994 inhabitants. This town is situated on a hill, in the mountainous district of Blackmoor. It had formerly a very strong castle, the ruins of which are now only remaining. The lord of the Manor holds a court the 2d and 3d Monday after Easter, and the 1st and 2d Monday after Michaelmas. The church is a very large building, and in the parish are several dissenting meeting houses. The market is on Monday. Fairs, Monday before 13th February, Monday before 12th May, 25th September, and the Monday before 22d November; all for cattle.—It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

Picket, a hamlet in the parish of South Perrot, Dorsetshire, and included therewith.

Pickhill, a parish in Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 11½ miles from Aldborough, and 220 from London; containing 68 houses and 375 inhabitants.

Pickmere, a river in Cheshire, which falls into the Peyer, near Morbury.

Pickmore, a hamlet in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 2 miles from Northwich, and 175 from London; containing 27 houses and 148 inhabitants.

Pickwell, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 5 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 100 from London; containing 25 houses and 121 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.*

Pickworth, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Folkingham, and 109 from London; containing 30 houses and 156 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

Pickworth, a parish united with Great Casterton, in the hundred of East, Rutland, 7 miles from Stamford, and 93 from London; containing 21 houses and 116 inhabitants. It was formerly a considerable town, but even the church is gone to decay.

Picton, a hamlet in the parish of Guilden Sutton, hundred of Broxton, Chester, 4 miles from Chester, and 184 from London; containing 12 houses and 96 inhabitants.

Picton, a hamlet in the parish of Crathorne, Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from Stokesley, and 249 from London; containing 18 houses and 91 inhabitants.

Picts Wall, of which there are still some remains both in Northumberland and Cumberland, was erected by the Romans from Carlisle to Newcastle-upon-Tyne, reaching from the Irish sea to the German ocean, a length of 80 miles, to prevent the incursions of the Scots and Picts. The emperor Adrian first built it of earth, after which Severus built it of stone, having turrets at every mile, which were garrisoned; yet the Picts several times broke through it. It was about eight feet thick and twelve high.

Piddinghoe, a parish in the hundred of Holmstrough, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 1½ mile from Newhaven, and 53 from London; containing 34 houses and 194 inhabitants.

Piddington, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 4 miles from Bicester, and 54 from London; containing 69 houses and 310 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the parishioners.

Piddington, a township and chapelry in the parish of Horton, hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 5 miles from Northampton, and 60 from London; containing 88 houses and 382 inhabitants.

Piddle, a river in Dorsetshire, which falls into the British Channel, at Poole, giving name to several villages on its banks, viz.

Piddleton, the name of a hundred in the division of Dorchester, Dorset, lying on the northern side of the county, to the east of Dorchester, Piddletown or Puddletown, a parish in the hundred of Piddletown, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 5 miles from Dorchester, on the south bank of the river Piddle, and 115 from London; containing 151 houses and 909 inhabitants. Formerly it was much more considerable, and had a market; the church is a very large and ancient building.—Fair on Easter Tuesday.

Piddlehinton, a parish in the same hundred of Dorsetshire, 4½ miles from Dorchester, and 117 from London; containing 60 houses and 263 inhabitants.

Piddletrenthide, a parish in the hundred of Cerne Tetcombe, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 5 miles from Dorchester, and 120 from London, over the source of the river Piddle; containing 90 houses and 449 inhabitants. The church is a very large ancient building. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Winchester.

Piddle North, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 6 miles from Worcester, and 12 from London; containing 20 houses and 103 inhabitants. It it a rectory, value 9*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

Pidley, a hamlet in the parish of Somersham, hundred of Hurstingston, Hunts, 5 miles from Ramsey, and 64 from London; containing 40 houses and 264 inhabitants.

Pierce Bridge, a hamlet in the parish of Gainford, Darlington Ward, Durham, 5 miles from Darlington, and 240 from London; containing 44 houses and 193 inhabitants. It has a bridge over the river Tees, supposed to have been originally built by two priests who erected a chapel here for the devotions of passengers, and that its name was originally Priests'-Bridge.

Pigdon, a hamlet in the parish of Mitford, in Morpeth Ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Morpeth, and 294 from London; containing 10 houses and 47 inhabitants.

Pightlesthorne or Pitstone, a parish united with Ivinghoe, in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, ½ mile from Ivinghoe, and 32 from London; containing 60 houses and 275 inhabitants.

Pigs Street, a hamlet in the parish of King's Stanley, Gloucestershire.

Pilham, a parish in the hundred of Corringham, division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 3½ miles from Gainsborough, and 147 from London; containing 15 houses and 81 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Pilkington, a township in the parish of Prestwich, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 4 miles from Manchester, and 180 from London; containing 975 houses and 5786 inhabitants, viz. 2861 males and 2925 females, of whom 3824 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 162 in agriculture.

Pillaton, a parish in the hundred of East Cornwall, near Launceston, 216 miles from London; containing 35 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*

Pilland, a hamlet in the parish of Pilton, hundred of Braunton, Devon, near Barnstaple.

Pillerton Hersey or Nether, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 3 miles from Kineton, and 87 from London; containing 46 houses and 232 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Pillerton Priors or Over, a parish in the same hundred, ¼ mile distant; containing 31 houses and 151 inhabitants.

Pillesdon or Pilston, a parish in the hundred of Whitchurch, division of Bridport, Dorset, situated at the extremity of the county, and on the borders of Devon, 3 miles from Beaminster, and 140 from London; containing 13 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Pilling, a township and chapelry in the parish of Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 4 miles from Garstang, near the sea shore, and 231 from London, containing 118 houses and 718 inhabitants; remarkable for an extent of moss in its neighbourhood, which in January 1744-5, moved and did considerable mischief.

Pilleth, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Llangunllo, hundred of Kefenlys, Radnor, Wales, near Presteigne, and 155 miles from London; containing 14 houses and 66 inhabitants.

Pilsey, a hamlet in the parish of Edensor, hundred of High Peak, Derby, near Bakewell, and 153 miles from London; containg 40 houses and 156 inhabitants.

Pilsworth, a township in the parish of Middleton, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 6 miles from Manchester, and 186 from London; containing 70 houses and 418 inhabitants.

Pilton, a parish in the hundred of Braunton, Devon; it is situated on the opposite side of the river and joined by a bridge to Barnstaple, 193 miles from London; containing 87 houses and 831 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Pilton, a parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, situated on the river Nen, 4 miles from Thrapston, and 80 from London; containing 20 houses and 90 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

Pilton, a parish in the hundred of Wrandike, Rutland, 4 miles from Uppingham, and 85 from London; containing 10 houses and 43 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 17*s.* 5*d.*

Pilton, a parish in the hundred of Whitestow, Somerset, 2 miles from Shepton Mallet, and 117 from London; containing 146 houses and 780 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* with Walton chapel annexed.

Pimhill, the name of a hundred in Salop, in the northern part of the county, lying between Wem and Oswestry.

Pimperne, the name of a hundred in the division of Blandford, Dorset, towards the northern side of the county, and south of Stourminster Newton.

Pimperne, a parish in the hundred of Pimperne, division of Blandford, Dorset, 2½ miles from Blandford, and 101 from London; containing 62 houses and 316 inhabitants. It was formerly much more considerable. Its church contains several vestiges of Saxon antiquity. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

Pinbury, a hamlet in the parish of Duntisbourne, Gloucester, with which it was returned, 12 miles from Gloucester.

Pinchbeck, a parish in the hundred of Elloe, parts of Holland, Lincoln, near the river Glen, 2½ miles from Spalding, and 99 from London; containing 293 houses and 1538 inhabitants, of whom 81 were returned as being employed in trade. It is a vicarage, value 40*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

Pinchingthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Guisborough, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, near Stokesley, and 244 miles from London; containing 50 houses and 92 inhabitants.

Pinchpool, a hamlet in the parish of Windrush, Gloucester.

Pinenden Heath, near Maidstone, Kent, where most of the great meetings of that county have been held from the earliest times, and where the sheriff still holds his county court monthly, and takes the poll for the county members, by way of form; for after a few votes are polled, they adjourn to Maidstone. The county house is a poor mean cottage.—Hasted's Kent.

PINHOE, a parish in the hundred of Wonford, Devon, 2 miles from Exeter, and 170 from London; containing 81 houses and 353 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Exeter.

PINNER, a township and chapelry in the parish of Harrow, hundred of Gore, Middlesex, 2 miles from Harrow, and 12 from London; containing 140 houses and 761 inhabitants.

PINNOCK, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 5 miles from Winchcombe, and 90 from London; containing 26 houses and 125 inhabitants. There being no church, the rectory, value 3*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* is united with Didbrooke.

PINNOCK, ST. a parish in the hundred of West Cornwall, 3 miles from Leskeard, and 225 from London; containing 55 houses and 302 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*

PINSWELL, a hamlet, and formerly a chapelry, in the parish of Cubberley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Cheltenham.

PINVIN, a hamlet in the parish of St. Andrew's, Pershore, hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 2 miles from Pershore, and 105 from London; containing 25 houses and 136 inhabitants.

PINXTON, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 6 miles from Mansfield, and 136 from London; containing 99 houses and 463 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PIPE, a parish united with LYDE, in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 3 miles from Hereford, and 138 from London; containing 26 houses and 119 inhabitants.

PIPE RIDWARE, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 6 miles from Litchfield, and 124 from London; containing 15 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PIPE-HILL, a hamlet in the parish of St. Michael's Litchfield, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 1¼ mile from Litchfield, and 117 from London; containing 16 houses and 95 inhabitants.

PIRBRIGHT, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, 4½ miles from Guildford, and 34 from London; containing 58 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PIREHILL, the name of a hundred in Staffordshire, being the north-western point of the county, bordering on Cheshire and Salop.

PIRFORD, a parish in the hundred of Godly and Chertsey, Surry, 6 miles from Guildford, and 25 from London; containing 33 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PIRTON, the name of a hundred in Oxfordshire, toward the southern extremity of the county, between the hundreds of Ewelme and Lewknor.

PIRTON, a parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 1 mile from Watlington, and 45 from London; containing 55 houses and 295 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Christ Church.

PIRTON, a hamlet in the parish of Churchdown, Gloucester, between Gloucester and Cheltenham.

PIRTON, a hamlet in the parish of Lydney, Gloucester, on the banks of the Severn, 8 miles from Chepstow.

PIRTON, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, near Pershore, and 103 miles from London.

PISHILL, a parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 4 miles from Henley, and 39 from London; containing 21 houses, and 96 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PITCAIRN GREEN, a newly-erected village, in the parish of Redgorton, shire of Perth, Scotland. It is daily advancing in trade and population.

PITCAITHLY, a village in the parish of Dumbarney, in the shire of Perth, Scotland, situated in a corner of the vale of Strathmore, much esteemed for 5 medicinal springs, which are reckoned extremely efficacious in scrofulous, herpetic, and scorbutic complaints: the accommodation for the visitors to which are extremely good.

PITCHCOT, a hamlet in the parish of North Marston, hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 4½ miles from Aylesbury, and 44 from London; containing 4 houses, and 21 inhabitants.

PITCHFORD, a parish in the hundred of Condover, Salop, 6 miles from Shrewsbury, and 156 from London; containing 30 houses, and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

PITCHLEY, a parish in the hundred of Orlingbury, Northampton, 4 miles from Wellingborough, and 71 from London; containing 75 houses, and 361 inhabitants. The place is noted for an annual fox-hunt, supported by the subscriptions of the neighbouring gentry. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

PITCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Bruton, Somerset, 2 miles from Bruton, and 111 from London; containing 68 houses, and 326 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PITLOCHRY, a village in the parish of Moulin, Perthshire, Scotland, in the great military road from Perth to Inverness; containing about 30 families, and 160 inhabitants.

PITMINSTER, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 4 miles from Taunton, and 141 from London; containing 178 houses, and 1070 inhabitants, of whom 605 were employed in various trades. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

PITNEY, the name of a hundred in Somerset, near the center of the county, between Ilchester and Langport.

PITNEY, a parish in the hundred of Pitney, Somerset, 2 miles from Somerton, and 127 from London; containing 42 houses, and 243 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

Pit-ford, a parish in the hundred of Spelhoe, Northampton, 5 miles from Northampton, and 70 from London; containing 76 houses, and 339 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 19*s.* 7*d*

Pitsligo, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, on the coast of the Moray Frith, 2 miles from Fraserburgh, and 30 from Aberdeen; containing 286 houses, and 1256 inhabitants, of whom 86 were employed in trades. It contains the fishing villages of Pittaly and Rosehearty. The castle is an ancient building, formerly the seat of the lords Pitsligo, a title belonging to the Forbes family; the last of whom, who bore the title, was attainted in 1745.

Pitstone. See Pightlesthorne, Bucks.

Pittenweem, a royal borough and seaport, in the shire of Fife, Scotland, lying on the coast of the Frith of Forth, 1½ mile from Anstruther, and 20 from Kirkcaldy; containing 184 houses, and 1072 inhabitants, of whom 100 were employed in trade, principally in the salt and coal works in the neighbourhood, the whole parish lying on a field of excellent coal. Near the town is a remarkable Cave or Weem, communicating by subterraneous passages, about 150 feet in length, with the ruins of an old priory.

Pittington, a parish in Easington ward, Durham, 4 miles from Durham, and 264 from London; containing 40 houses, and 220 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 2*d* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Durham.

Pitton, a township in the parish and hundred of Alderbury, Wilts, 3 miles from Salisbury, and 79 from London; containing 113 houses, and 468 inhabitants.

Pittsea, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 5½ miles from Billericay, and 28 from London; containing 32 houses, and 211 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Pixam, a hamlet in the parish of Powick, Gloucestershire, near Gloucester.

Pixley, a parish in the hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 4 miles from Ledbury, and 125 from London; containing 16 houses, and 107 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Plaches, a hamlet in the parish of East Ham, near Plaistow, Essex.

Pladda, a small island on the east side of the isle of Arran, Scotland, and about 1 mile distant therefrom, on which is a newly-erected light-house, with 2 lights.

Plainmeller, a hamlet in the parish of Haltwhistle, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 1 mile from Haltwhistle, and 314 from London; containing 25 houses, and 126 inhabitants.

Plaistow. See Ham, East and West, Essex.

Plaitford, a parish in the hundred of Alderbury, Wilts, 10 miles from Salisbury, and 78 from London; containing 46 houses, and 2[illegible] inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Plawsworth, a township in the parish of Chester le Street, in Chester ward, Durham, 4 miles from Durham, and 265 from London; containing 41 houses, and 177 inhabitants.

Plaxtol, a township and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Wrotham, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3 miles from Sevenoaks, and 25 from London; containing 52 houses, and 442 inhabitants.

Playden, a parish in the hundred of Goldspur, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 1 mile from Rye, and 62 from London; containing 25 houses, and 179 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Playford, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, 3½ miles from Ipswich, and 72 from London; containing 24 houses, and 216 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Pleasley, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 4 miles from Mansfield, and 142 from London; containing 84 houses, and 473 inhabitants. Fairs 6th May, and 26th of October. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

Pleasington, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 1½ mile from Blackburn, and 210 from London; containing 101 houses, and 614 inhabitants.

Plesby, a parish in the hundred of Dunmow, Essex, 6 miles from Chelmsford, and 35 from London; containing 43 houses, and 246 inhabitants. This place was the ancient seat of the constables of England, and had a castle, often noticed in history. It was the residence of Thomas of Woodstock the turbulent uncle of Richard I. The church is a neat building, and is a curacy.

Plinlimmon, one of the highest mountains of Wales, in Cardiganshire, and from whence several of the principal rivers in South Wales derive their sources: but it is more frequently called Snowdon, which see.

Plimsgate, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, lying on the south eastern coast, between Orford and Aldborough.

Plouchill, a parish in the hundred of West Budleigh, Devon, 5 miles from Crediton, and 182 from London; containing 60 houses, and 274 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Ploughley, the name of a hundred in Oxfordshire, lying on the eastern side of the county and borders of Bucks.

Plumbland, a parish in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 5 miles from Cockermouth, and 305 from London; containing 58 houses, and 350 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*

Pluckley, a parish in the hundred of Calehill, lathe of Scray, Kent, 4½ miles from Ashford, and 51 from London; containing 74 houses, and 572 inhabitants. Fair 5th December. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury. Lat. 51.° 10′ 30″ Long. 0° 45′ 14″ East.

Plumstead, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Holt, and 117 from London; containing 22 houses, and 149 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king, as duke of Lancaster.

PLUMBLEY, a hamlet in the township of Rover, in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 3 miles from Knutsford, and 172 from London; containing 55 houses, and 303 inhabitants.

PLUMPTON WALL, a township and chapelry partly situate in the parish of Lazonby, and partly in that of Heskett, in Leath ward, Cumberland, 6 miles from Penrith, and 289 from London; containing 40 houses, and 206 inhabitants.

PLUMPTON STREET, a township in the parish of Heskett, in Leath ward, Cumberland, 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 55 houses, and 319 inhabitants.

PLUMPTON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Michael, Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 1 mile from Garstang, the population of which was included with Westby.

PLUMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Green's Norton, Northampton, 5 miles from Towcester, and 64 from London; containing 10 houses, and 56 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

PLUMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Street, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Lewes, and 47 from London; containing 34 houses, and 229 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

PLUMPTON, a hamlet in the parish of Spofforth, in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Wetherby, and 198 from London; containing 35 houses, and 191 inhabitants.

PLUMSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Lesness, lathe of Sutton, Kent, near Woolwich, containing 210 houses, and 1166 inhabitants, of whom 204 were employed in trade. It has a very neat church, and was formerly a market town. The southern part of the parish is hilly, and covered with wood, taking in the north side of Shooter's-hill. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

PLUMSTEAD GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 4¼ miles from Norwich, and 114 from London; containing 46 houses, and 219 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich.

PLUMSTEAD LITTLE, a parish in the same hundred, and 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 31 houses, and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* united with Witton.

PLUMTREE, a parish in the hundred of Rayridge, Devon, 2½ miles from Collumpton, and 160 from London; containing 72 houses, and 275 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of Oriel College, Oxford.

PLUMTREE, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliffe, Nottingham, 5 miles from Nottingham, and 120 from London; containing 49 houses, and 209 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.*

PLUNGAR, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 9 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 113 from London; containing 35 houses, and 157 inhabitants.

PLYMOUTH, a sea port, borough, and market town, in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, situated at the mouths of the Tamar and Plym, which here fall into a bay of the Channel, called Plymouth Sound, 43 miles from Exeter, and 215½ from London, by Ashburton and Ivy-bridge, and 228 by Totness. It contains 4447 houses, and 43,194 inhabitants; viz. 18,016 males, and 25,178 females, of whom 7308 were employed in various trades, manufactures, and handicrafts. The mouth of the Tamar is called Hamoaze, and that of the Plym, Catwater; and the sound is capable of receiving 1000 sail of shipping. It appears formerly to have consisted of two small fishing villages, called Sutton Vautort, and Sutton Prior, but from its convenient and double harbour, it rose to be a place of consequence, and is now one of the most considerable sea ports in the kingdom, defended by several strong batteries and a citadel, erected in the reign of Charles II. opposite to Nicholas island, which contains a large store-house, and 5 regular bastions. In the reign of Edward III part of this town was burnt by the French; and in the reign of Henry IV. 600 houses were also destroyed by the same enemy.—During the civil wars, Plymouth adhered to the parliament, and was besieged for several months by the royal army. At the restoration, Charles II. erected a strong fort, between the sea and the town, to serve as well for the defence of the coast as a check upon the inhabitants. It contains two parish churches, and although there are several meeting-houses, they have each so large a care of souls, that till of late years the parish clerks were in deacons' orders, to enable them to perform the sacerdotal functions. It has a large custom-house, a charity-school, several hospitals, exclusive of a general military and marine hospital, and an extensive workhouse. The town is well supplied with fresh water, which was first brought from a place 7 miles distant, at the expence of sir Francis Drake, a native of this place. Between the town and the sea is a high hill, called the Haw, having a delightful plain on the top, and affording a most charming prospect. Opposite to Plymouth, is Mount Edgecumbe, the charming seat of the earl of that title. This mount, commanding the town of Plymouth, was garrisoned for Charles I. and considerably annoyed the town. Between Mount Edgecumbe and Plymouth, are erected two baths, and near them an elegant assembly and breakfasting room. That part of Plymouth called the dock, which lies about 1½ mile from the town, at the mouth of the Tamar, was first designed as a wet and dry dock, in the reign of William III. and to which two others have since been added, with all the conveniencies necessary for building and repairing ships of war; the docks being dug out of a mine of slate, and lined with Portland stone. Near the docks are erected ranges of storehouses for the arms, rigging, sails, &c. with houses for all the various officers of the different departments to live in. Here are also commodious barracks, and, with the numerous shops and buildings, the dock yards are now nearly as large as the town itself. There is also a neat little theatre here. Plymouth is divided into 4 parts, viz. the parish of Charles, St. Andrew's, Stoke Damerells, and that part called Stonehouse, half way between Plymouth and Dock. For accommodating the great intercourse and distance between the extremities of the town, there are 4-wheeled chaises, drawn by one horse, for regular hire, similar to the hackney coaches of the metropolis. The choice of the church lecturers, every 3 years, is vested in the corporation, which was constituted in the reign of Henry VI. to consist of a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 24 common councilmen. The mayor is elected by a jury of 36 persons, chosen by 4 others, of whom the mayor and aldermen chooses 2, and the common council the other 2. It has also a recorder and town-clerk. It returns 2 members to parliament, and is termed an admiralty borough. The markets are on Monday, Thursday, and Saturday; the toll of which, being very considerable, belongs to the corporation. Fairs 28th January, and 21st September. At the entrance of Plymouth sound lies a very large and dangerous rock, called the Edystone, covered at high water, but at low water bare: on this is erected a light-house, of stone, about 80 feet high. See EDYSTONE. St. Andrew's is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 15*l.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the mayor and corporation; with Stonehouse, Budock, and Pancras chapels annexed; and Charles church is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the mayor and commonalty. The Blockhouse flagstaff, Lat. 50. 22. 56. Long. 4. 9. 11. West.—Polwhele's Devonshire.

PLYMPTON, the name of a hundred in Devonshire, lying on the southern side of the county and shore of the English Channel, bounded on the west by the Plym.

PLYMPTON EARLS, or PLYMPTON MAURICE, a borough, market-town, and parish in the hundred of Plympton, Devon, 5 miles from Plymouth, and 217 from London; containing 83 houses, and 604 inhabitants. It was formerly called Plympton Thomas, out of respect to Thomas a Becket. The town consists of 2 irregular streets, and has a guild-hall supported on stone pillars, and a good free-school erected in 1664, in the same building, beneath which is held the corn-market. This is one of the stannary towns for stamping tin, and is a very ancient borough, governed by a recorder, mayor, and 7 aldermen; a bailiff, and 2 serjeants at mace; and sends 2 members to parliament, the right of election being in the mayor, bailiff, and freemen, and in the sons of freemen, the number of voters being about 104. The returning officer is the mayor. The market is on Saturdays; there is also a market for all kinds of cattle the second Wednesday in every month. The town is well supplied with fish from the neighbouring sea-port towns, almost every day. Fairs 25th February, 5th April, Holy Thursday, 12th August, and 29th October, for cattle, pedlary, &c. It is a curacy.—Polwhele's Devonshire.

PLYMPTON ST. MARY'S, a parish in the hundred of Plympton, Devon, adjoining the preceding; containing 245 houses and 1562 inhabitants. It was once the mother church to Plympton Maurice, and had a priory of black canons, founded by one of the Saxon kings. It is a curacy.

PLYMSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Plympton, Devon, situated near the sea and the river Plym, opposite to Plymouth, 2½ miles from Plympton, and 218 from London; containing 286 houses and 1633 inhabitants, of whom 139 were employed in various trades. It is a curacy.

POCKLEY, a township in the parish of Helmsley, Rydall wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Helmsley, and 224 from London; containing 42 houses and 228 inhabitants.

POCKLINGTON, a market-town and parish in the division of Wilton Beacon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, situated on a small stream that falls into the Derwent, 16½ miles from Howden, and 193 from London; containing 367 houses and 1502 inhabitants. Market on Saturday. Fairs, 7th March, 6th May, 5th August, and 8th November.

PODIMORE, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 2 miles from Ilchester, and 120 from London; containing 25 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

POINTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Horethorne, Somerset, 3 miles from Sherborne, and 119 from London; containing 27 houses and 157 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

POINTON, a hamlet in the parish of Sempringham, hundred of Aveland, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Folkingham, and 105 from London; containing 56 houses and 266 inhabitants.

POLEBROOK, the name of a hundred in Northampton, lying on the eastern side of the county, around Oundle.

POLEBROOKE, a parish in the hundred of Polebrooke, Northampton, 2 miles from Oundle, and 80 from London; containing 52 houses and 241 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Peterborough.

POLEING, a parish in the hundred of Poleing, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 2½ miles from Arundel, and 62 from London; containing 23 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

Polesden, a hamlet in the parish of Great Bookham, near Leatherhead, Surry.

Polesworth, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 5 miles from Atherstone, and 112 from London; containing 278 houses and 1355 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the king.

Polington, a hamlet in the parish of Charminster, near Dorchester, Dorsetshire.

Pollard's Lands, a hamlet in the parish of St. Andrew's, Auckland, in Darlington ward, Durham, 2 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 257 from London; containing 17 houses and 82 inhabitants.

Pollecott, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 6 miles from Aylesbury, and 44 from London; population included with Ashenden.

Pollington, a township in the parish of Snaith, in Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 2¼ miles from Snaith, and 173 from London; containing 75 houses and 378 inhabitants.

Polshot, a parish in the hundred of Melksham, Wilts, 3 miles from Devizes, and 90 from London; containing 56 houses and 308 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

Polsted, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Nayland, and 58 from London; containing 101 houses and 655 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.*

Poltimore, a parish in the hundred of Wonford, Devon, 4 miles from Exeter, and 170 from London; containing 46 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* united with Huxham.

Ponder's End, a hamlet in the parish of Enfield, Middlesex; 8¼ miles from London; containing several good houses, and has a dissenting meeting-house. The population was returned included with Enfield.

Ponsonby, a parish in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Egremont, and 302 from London; containing 13 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a Curacy.

Pontarddylais, a village in the county of Carmarthen, situated on the borders of Glamorgan, 9 miles from Swansea, and 212 from London. Its name in Welsh signifies the bridge over the Dulas, on the banks of which river the village stands, on the road from Swansea to Carmarthen. Population not returned.

Pontefract, a borough and market town in Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, situated about 2 miles from the river Aire, 16¼ miles from Sheffield, and 178 from London; containing 700 houses and 3144 inhabitants, viz. 1417 males and 1727 females, of whom 446 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, and 204 in agriculture. Its ancient name is said to have been Kirkby, and it had a strong castle, formerly belonging to the earls of Lancaster. Thomas earl of Lancaster was beheaded here by order of Edward II., soon after the battle of Boroughbridge. Richard II. was some time kept prisoner here, and finally murdered in the round tower: and the earl of Rivers, and sir Richard Grey, were beheaded here by order of Richard III. During the civil wars it was garrisoned for the king, and after a vigorous defence was taken by the parliamentary army, and soon after demolished. Its remains now consist only of the lower story, having several dungeons and a winding staircase. Within the castle was a chapel, afterwards made collegiate and which continued as such until the general suppression of monasteries. In the neighbourhood stood a Cluniac priory, and two others of black and white friars. The parish church, situated near the remains of the castle, was formerly a very handsome building, but was greatly damaged during the civil wars. It was in the form of a cross, with a well proportioned tower in the middle, crowned with a magnificent lanthern, but being much injured by cannon shot during the siege of the castle, it was soon after blown down. In 1649 the parliament gave a grant of 1000*l.* to be raised from the sale of materials from the castle, towards repairing the church, and a plain building has since been erected. The inhabitants of the town still bury in the church yard, but divine service is performed in a chapel adjoining the market place, which is very spacious, at the bottom of which stands the town hall, lately rebuilt. This town has sent two members to parliament ever since the 23d of Edward I. The right of election is in the resident inhabitants, who are householders, and are in number about 620. Pontefract is a corporation, consisting of a mayor, recorder, and twelve aldermen, who are all in the commission of the peace. The market cross, called St. Oswald's cross, was pulled down in 1755, and a handsome dome erected in its place, supported by a colonnade of Doric pillars. In the neighbourhood is a good course for horse races, which are very fully attended. The market is on Saturday, plentifully supplied with all kinds of provisions, cloth, and hardware. Fairs, on the Saturday before Palm Sunday, and the Saturday after St. Andrew's Day, both for cattle; there are also small fairs for cattle every fortnight, on the Saturday after those at York. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s* 8*d.* having the chapel of St. Giles annexed, in the patronage of the king.

Ponteland, a parish in Castle ward, Northumberland, 7½ miles from Newcastle, and 284 from London; containing 74 houses and 327 inhabitants. It is situated on the river Pont, and appears to have been the ancient Roman station called Pons Ælii, having a bridge erected over the river by Ælius Hadrianus. The church is an ancient building in the form of a cross, and is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Merton College, Oxford.

Pontesbury, a parish in the hundred of Ford, Salop, 8 miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 389 houses and 2053 inhabitants, of whom 169 were returned as being employed in various trades. Previous to the Reformation, its church was collegiate for a dean and three prebendaries. It is a curacy.

Pontesford, a hamlet in the parish of Pontesbury, in the hundred of Ford, Salop, 1 mile nearer Shrewsbury. The population was included with Pontesbury.

Pontisbright, a hamlet in the parish of Tey Magna, Essex.

Ponton Great, a parish in the hundred of Grantham, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Grantham, and 111 from London; containing 68 houses and 411 inhabitants.

Ponton Little, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, ¼ of a mile distant from the foregoing, containing 20 houses and 102 inhabitants.

Pontop, a hamlet in the parish of Lanchester, in Chester ward Durham, 7 miles from Durham, and 267 from London; noted for its collieries in the neighbourhood.

Pontypool, a market town in the parish of Trevethan, hundred of Abergavenny, Monmouth, 9 miles from Newport, and 150 from London; containing 338 houses and 1472 inhabitants. This place has long been noted for its manufacture of japanned ware, to which it gives name, but is now considerably on the decline. It is placed on the edge of a steep cliff, overhanging the Avon Lwyd, and on the slope of a declivity under impending hills. This town, which has risen in the course of the last century, owes its existence to the mineral treasures which lie in the surrounding country. Immense quantities of iron ore and coal are found here. The invention of rolling iron into plates, and the art of tinning was first introduced here by the great grandfather of Capel Hanbury Leigh, esq. who has an elegant house at this place. The town consists of two streets, but has no church or any religious meeting houses. It has the advantage of a canal, lately cut from Newport, which falls into the mouth of the Usk. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 22d April, 5th July, and 10th October.—Coxe's Tour in Monmouth.

Pont y Prydd, a small village in Monmouthshire, 10 miles from Caerphilly, and where a very remarkable bridge was built over the Taafe, which, like many other rivers in the same county, is almost dry in summer, but in winter exceeds all bounds; the bridge consists of one arch, the span of which is 145 feet: this stupendous work was finished in 1750, and was erected by an ingenious country mason.

Poola hamlet in the parish of Menheniott, in the hundred of East, Cornwall, lying on the great western road to Penzance, 265 miles from London. Population included with Menheniott.

Pool, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge, and 210 from London; containing 83 houses and 412 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*

Pool, a township in the parish of Otley, in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 2 miles from Otley, and 204 from London; containing 34 houses and 182 inhabitants.

Pool, a hamlet in the parish of Acton, hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 2½ miles from Nantwich, and 167 from London; containing 24 houses and 181 inhabitants.

Poole Over, a hamlet in the parish of Eastham, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 7½ miles from Chester, and 187½ from London; containing 16 houses and 89 inhabitants.

Pool, a borough, sea-port, and market town in the hundred of Cogdean, division of Shaston, Dorset, 6 miles from Wimborn, and 106 from London; containing 949 houses and 4751 inhabitants, viz. 2091 males and 2570 females, of whom 608 were returned as being employed in trade, manufacture, and handicraft. It is supposed to have taken its name from the bay or pool of water called Loxford, which encompasses it except on the north; and it lies on the borders of a very narrow dreary heath, being a peninsula joined to the parish of Lanford, by a neck of land. It appears to have been a considerable port in the time of the Romans, and a Roman military way may be still traced from hence to Wimborn. This town was formerly much resorted to by foreign merchants, particularly those of Spain, and some ancient buildings still remain of timber and plaster. During the civil wars it was a garrison for the parliament, and did considerable mischief to the neighbouring towns. The church dedicated to St. James was formerly a chapel of ease to Lanford. The body is part of the original structure: the aisles have since been added, and in 1785 had additional galleries built therein. It contains several neat monuments, and has a handsome mahogany altar piece put up in 1755. The tower erected in 1500, has not the appearance of a finished building, and contains one great and small bell. There are several meeting houses for dissenters of various persuasions. The town is about three quarters of a mile long and half a mile broad, and consists of three or four considerable streets, running nearly from north-east to south-west, beside a cross street parallel with the quay, with several intersecting lanes. The buildings are generally low, but of late years the town has received several handsome additions. The old town-hall, in Fish street, was built in 1572, beneath which is the prison: but the new town-hall, erected in market street, 1761, is an elegant building, with convenient shambles underneath. The great cellar or king's hall, or woolhouse, stands on the quay, and is an edifice of some antiquity.

which has been partly rebuilt; adjoining thereto is Salisbury prison, an ancient building: besides a large workhouse in West-street, there are several almshouses and a good free school. The chief traffic is in the Newfoundland trade and fishery, which proves an excellent nursery for the navy. The exports in provisions, nets, cordage, sailcloth, and wearing apparel, for the consumption of the planters and servants, are very great. The imports are cod, salmon, oil, seal-skins, furs, &c. There are constantly employed about 230 sail of shipping belonging to this port, with 1500 hands; of which about 140 are in the foreign trade, and the remainder coastwise. The harbour is reckoned the best and safest in the channel, as the ground is every where soft, and water sufficient at spring tides for vessels of 16 feet draught to come up to the quay. It has very good anchorage in Swanage bay, and in the bay of Studland, just without the harbour. A little east of the entrance of the harbour is a shifting sand bar, for which vessels generally take a pilot at Studland; the water on this bar is about 19 feet at high water, and 12 or 13 at low. There is a long narrow neck of land which projects from the north-east part of the Isle of Purbeck, called South haven point, and another from the main land of Dorsetshire called North haven point. The distance between these is about a quarter of a mile, forming the entrance to the bay and harbour of Pool. Facing this entrance lies Brownsea Island, which divides the stream. It was formerly a barren spot with only 1 house, and an old castle, intended for the defence of the harbour, but having been purchased and improved by the late Humphrey Sturt, esq. it is now converted into a most delightful spot, and the site of the castle has many additional buildings upon it. The quays have been very much enlarged and improved at different times; the great quay is 192 feet long, at the east end of which stands the custom house; the new quay is 34 feet long. On the Ham side of the harbour there are quays to careen ships, to throw out and take in ballast, with several slips for building. The communication across the harbour, is by means of a large passage boat, which is hauled by a rope stretched from one side to the other; each passenger pays one halfpenny, and every family 4*d*. annually. Ham was formerly noted for its beds of oysters, which were pickled and sent to London, and on the corporation forbidding the fishermen to leave the shells on the shore, they afterwards opened them in boats on the mud near the strand, and threw the shells there, by which that hill of shells was raised, which, at low water, is surrounded by the sea, and called the oyster bank. The bay, originally called Luckford Lake, contains several other islands besides Brownsea, viz. Furzey, St. Helens, Long Island, Round Island, Grove Island, Stone, Pelham, and Horse Island, entirely full of mud-banks, intersected by various channels, none of them even passable at high water, except by boats lightly laden. This borough is governed by a mayor, recorder, aldermen, sheriff, coroner, town clerk, and an indefinite number of burgesses. The mayor is admiral within the liberty, and is chosen from among the burgesses; after he has passed the chair he is always an alderman. From among the aldermen are chosen three justices, the mayor and recorder being of the quorum. The court of admiralty has been very anciently held here; it was sometimes kept on the quay, or over the passage, at a place called Bromehill. The town sessions are held by the mayor and justices of the peace four times a year. When any criminal causes are to be tried, one of the judges of the circuit comes hither in his way to Dorchester and holds the assizes, but civil causes are generally tried at Dorchester. Market on Thursday and Monday. Fairs, 1st May and 2d November. Here are two passage boys, which sail to Portsmouth every Monday, and two from Swanage in the Isle of Purbeck to Poole every Monday and Thursday. It is a curacy.—Hutchin's Dorsetshire.

POOLE, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, near Malmsbury, and 94 miles from London; containing 25 houses, and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l*. 12*s*. 6*d*. in the patronage of the king as duke of Lancaster.

POOLE'S HOLE. See BUXTON and PEAK, Derbyshire.

POOLE WELSH. See WELSH POOLE, Montgomery, Wales.

POOLTON, GREAT and LITTLE, two hamlets in the parish of Bromborow, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 11 miles from Chester, and 191 from London; the former containing 34 houses and 178 inhabitants; and the latter 18 houses and 87 inhabitants.

POOLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Barton, in West ward, Westmoreland, situated at the foot of Ulswater, 4 miles from Penrith, and 284 from London. It has a stone bridge across the water to Dunmallet, in Cumberland. It has a small fish market. The population of this place was omitted to be returned.

POORTON, a parish in the hundred of Beaminster, division of Bridport, Dorset, 3 miles from Beaminster, and 134¾ from London; containing 16 houses and 75 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l*. 11*s*. 5*d*.

POPHAM, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Mitcheldever, division of Basingstoke, Hants, 7 miles from Basingstoke, and 52 from London; containing 5 houses and 48 inhabitants.

POPLAR, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, and formerly a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Stepney; containing 756 houses and 4493 inhabitants, viz. 2229 males and 2264 females, including Blackwall, of whom 1009 were returned as being chiefly employed in trade. Its name is derived from the great number of poplars which anciently grew here. That part next the river called Poplar or Stepney Marsh, on the Isle of Dogs, is the richest piece of marsh land in England; it is neither an island nor a peninsula, but an head of land formed by the serpentine course of the river Thames; across it has lately been cut a canal, by means of which the circuitous navigation is avoided. This district not only raises the largest oxen, but its grass is esteemed a great restorative of all distempered cattle. In this marsh was an ancient chapel, called the chapel of St. Mary, supposed to have been originally an hermitage, founded for the purpose of saying mass for the souls of mariners: on its site is now erected a farm house. When our sovereigns resided at Greenwich, the royal kennel of hounds was kept here, from which circumstance the place itself is supposed to have received its name. The East India Company has erected a neat almshouse here for men and women; and that company having given the ground for erecting the church, and been at the greater part of the expense in rebuilding it in 1776, they have the patronage of the living alternately with Brazen Nose College, Oxford.—Lysons's Environs of London.

Poppleton Nether, a parish in the liberty of the Ainstey of York, 3 miles from York, and 202 from London; containing 42 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a vicarage in the patronage of the dean and chapter of York.

Poppleton Upper, a parish three quarters of a mile from the foregoing, containing 43 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

Poringland Great, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 4½ miles from Norwich, and 106 from London; containing 36 houses and 248 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Poringland Little, a parish half a mile from the foregoing, containing 10 houses and 79 inhabitants. Its church has long since been demolished, and is now a curacy united with How rectory.

Portadown, a town in the county of Armagh province of Ulster, Ireland, pleasantly situated on the river Bann, 65 miles from Dublin. It has a very extensive linen manufacture, and the Newry canal falls into the river about a mile from the town.

Port Aethwy, a ferry in Anglesey, Wales, opposite to Bangor. This is the most general ferry into the island, and it is computed that about 15,000 head of cattle annually pass the straight of Menai here, exclusive of sheep and hogs.

Portaferry, a town in the county of Down, province of Ulster, Ireland, seated on the rapid ferry of Strangford, 80 miles from Dublin. It carries on a considerable trade, and has many vessels belonging to its port. From the neighbouring hills are some delightful prospects over Lake Strangford, the country, and the Isle of Man.

Portarlington, a town partly situated in King's and partly in Queen's county, province of Leinster, Ireland, and pleasantly seated on the river Barrow, 36 miles south-west of Dublin.

Portbury, the name of a hundred in Somersetshire, being the most northern point of the county, terminated by the Bristol Channel and river Avon.

Portbury, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, 7 miles from Bedminster, and 120 from London; containing 92 houses and 509 inhabitants. Formerly a market town. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* Fair Whit Monday.

Portchester, a parish in the hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, 2½ miles from Fareham, on the north side of Portsmouth harbour, anciently called Port Peris, and a sea port before Portsmouth. It contains 102 houses and 917 inhabitants, and it is pretended that Vespasian landed here. Its ancient castle was erected to command the harbour, the walls of which formed a square of 440 feet, containing an area of four acres; they are six feet thick, and in many places 16 feet high, having 13 towers besides the keep, which has four. It is of very great antiquity; but its age and founder are both unknown. In the reign of Edward IV. the castle and town, together with the forest, were settled on queen Margaret, as part of her dower, but the castle is now private property, rented by the crown and appropriated to the purpose of confining French prisoners of war. Towards the south-east part of the area is the parish church, a building of antiquity. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* Lat. 50. 50. 18. Long. 1. 6. 35. west.

Porteasy, a small fishing village in the parish of Rathven, shire of Banff, Scotland, 2 miles east of Buckie, containing 44 houses and 173 inhabitants.

Porteskewett or Parsenet, a parish in the hundred of Caldicot, Monmouth, 6 miles from Chepstow, and 131 from London, near the mouth of the Wye; containing 29 houses and 216 inhabitants. Before the building of Chepstow, this was the only port in the county.

Portgate, a hamlet in the parish of St. John's Lee, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 1½ mile from Hexham, and 282 from London; containing 4 houses and 20 inhabitants. Its name is derived from having a gate here formerly through the Picts wall, the ruins of which are still observable.

Portinscales, a township in the parish of Crosthwait, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 2¾ miles from Keswick, and 292 from London; containing 60 houses and 282 inhabitants.

Portisham, a parish in the hundred of Ugglescombe, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 1¼ mile from Abbotsbury, and 126 from London; containing 108 houses and 490 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

Portishead, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, situated on a point of the Bristol channel, 9 miles from Bristol, and 122 from London; containing 62 houses and 387 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 32*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the mayor and burgesses of Bristol.

Port-Glenone, a town in the county of Antrim, province of Ulster, Ireland, pleasantly seated on the river Bann, 105 miles from Dublin. At the end of the town is a bridge over the river, which unites the counties of Antrim and Derry.

Portland, Isle of, in the hundred of Culliford Tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, situated 3 miles south of Weymouth, but is in reality only a peninsula, joined to the main land by the Chesil Bank, which is a heap of pebbles thrown up by the sea, reaching from Abbotsbury to Portland. The pebbles contiguous to Portland, are nearly of the size of an egg, but gradually diminish till they are lost in fine gravel; many of them are beautifully veined and others quite transparent. It contains 311 houses and 1619 inhabitants, of whom 415 were returned as being employed in various trades. The parish contains seven hamlets, viz. Chesil, Fortunewell, Rayfourn, Wakeham, West Town, East Town, and Southwell. It has a new lighthouse, which is a conical edifice 63 feet high, with a geometrical staircase to the top. Near it stands the signal house. On the southern part of Portland are the remains of Pow and Arrow Castle, near which is also the ruins of the old church close to the cliff said formerly to have stood in the centre of the island. The quarries at the west end of the island afford excellent stone, which has been used in most of the modern magnificent buildings of the country; it was first brought into repute in the reign of James I. Its castle, together with that on the opposite shore of Weymouth, was built in the reign of Henry VIII. when he made a general fortification on the coast. Near the lighthouse is a remarkable cavern, from which the water rises up like a fountain. Portland Race is a dangerous eddy of two currents in the calmest season. Portland Bill is the southern extremity of the island, on which stands both the old and new lighthouses. The creek that runs on the inside of the beach by the passage house is called the Fleet, terminating at the distance of about 2 miles from the passage, on the borders of which is a handsome edifice belonging to George Gould, esq. of Upway. Behind the Portland arms inn are the traces of a Roman encampment. The stone quarries supply the principal employment for the labouring class, who are a robust and hardy race. In 1792, the pier, with part of the land nearly half a mile square, was washed into the sea. The church is a rectory, value 13*l.* 2*s* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester. The lighthouse, Lat. 50. 31. 22. Long. 2. 26. 59. west.

Portlock, a hamlet in the parish of Alwhington, hundred of Shebbear, Devon, situated on the Bristol channel, near Hartland Point, 4 miles from Bideford.

Portlemouth, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, 4 miles from Kingsbridge, and 211 from London, on the coast opposite the Mewstone rock; containing 46 houses and 298 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Bolton.

Portlock, a parish and formerly a market town in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, situated at the bottom of a commodious bay, 7 miles from Minehead, and 170 from London; containing 116 houses and 600 inhabitants. At the western corner of the bay, forming a concave of nearly three miles from point to point, the quay is situated, having a small pier. The chief trade is in some small vessels employed in fetching coals and lime from Wales. In the centre of the bay is a decoy for wild fowl. This town had formerly an extensive chase, and a palace in which the Saxon kings resided. Its weekly market has long since been discontinued, and it has now only three in the year, which may be more properly called fairs, viz. Thursday before the 12th May, ditto before the 9th October, and before the 12th of November. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king. Long. 3. 32. west. Lat. 51. 14. north.

Portmoak, a parish in the shire of Kinross, Scotland, 5 miles from Kinross, and 25 from Edinburgh; containing 258 houses and 1151 inhabitants. The soil of this parish is very fertile, particularly around Loch Leven. It contains two villages, Portmoak and Kinnesswood. On the banks of the lake near the mouth of the river Leven, stands a ruinous monastery, and on St. Serf's Isle in the loch, are the ruins of a priory.

Portnockie, a fishing village in the parish of Rathven, shire of Bauff, Scotland, 4 miles east of Porteasy; containing 80 houses and 243 inhabitants.

Porto Bello, a small village about 3 miles south-east of Edinburgh, on the coast of the Frith of Forth, its inhabitants being chiefly employed in making salt, and stone ware. Of late a number of neat and commodious dwelling-houses have been erected for the convenience of sea-bathing.

Port Patrick, a sea-port town and parish in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, situated on the coast of the Irish sea, 107 miles from Edinburgh, and 487 from London; containing 206 houses and 1090 inhabitants. Forty years since it contained only 100 inhabitants, and in 1790, only 512: This increase has arisen since the erection of the harbour, and the establishment of the regular passage-boats to Donaghadee, on the Irish coast, whence it is distant only 21 miles. The town is delightfully situated, and surrounded on all sides, except the south, by a ridge of small hills in the form of an amphitheatre.

The harbour was formerly very small, being a mere inlet between two ridges of rock, but it has now one of the finest quays in Britain, with a reflecting light-house, and is the station of four packet-boats, which sail regularly with the mails and passengers; and a considerable number of trading vessels belong to the town. A tolerable traffic is carried on in the importation of black cattle and horses from Ireland, which has averaged for several years to the number of 11,000 head of cattle, and 2000 horses. This place is much frequented for bathing during the summer season. On the brink of a tremendous precipice stands the castle of Dunskey, the property of sir David Hunter Blair.

Portree, a parish in the Isle of Sky, shire of Inverness, Scotland, which includes the islands of Raasay and Ronay; containing 411 houses and 2246 inhabitants, viz. 1030 males, and 1216 females, of whom 121 were returned as being employed in trade, and 411 in agriculture. It contains several fresh water lakes, abounding with salmon: that called Loch Leathan, forms a most beautiful cascade. In the rocks are many caves of great extent, several of them being covered with stalactitical incrustations. The town of Portree is small but thriving, and well adapted for trade and fishery. It has two cattle fairs in May and July. Its harbour is spacious, with excellent anchorage.

Portreeth, a small sea-port in Cornwall, on the Bristol channel, 4 miles from Redruth.

Portsburgh, a suburb of Edinburgh, without the royalty, but under the civil jurisdiction of the magistrates and council of the city.

Portsdown, the name of a hundred and division of Hampshire, on the south-eastern point of the county, near Portsmouth and Havant.

Portsdown, a hamlet in the parish of Portsea, in the hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, 4 miles from Portsmouth, and 69 from London; remarkable for an extensive hill, and a large fair on the 15th June.

Portsea, an island in the hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, and on which Portsmouth stands, being about 14 miles in circumference, and surrounded at high water on all sides by the sea, but united to the northern extremity of the main land by a bridge which was formerly defended by a strong fortress. The town and parish of Portsea contains 4393 houses, inhabited by 25,387 persons, viz. 11,696 males and 13,691 females, of whom 3441 were returned as being employed in trade manufacture and handicraft (exclusive of Portsmouth). The town is built on what was formerly called Portsmouth Common, and was only suffered to be erected at first with the express condition that the houses should be thrown down on the landing of an enemy. Vide Portsmouth. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 1*s.*

Portslade, a parish in the hundred of Fishergate, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 1½ mile from New Shoreham, containing 48 houses and 284 inhabitants. This village has partly risen out of the ruins of the parish of Aldrington, which the encroachments of the sea has entirely destroyed, not a house of which is remaining; and its rectory, value 6*l.* 4*s.* is a sinecure. Portslade is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.*

Portsmouth, a sea port, borough, market town, and parish in the hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, 74 miles from London; containing 1130 houses inhabited by 7859 persons, viz. 3148 males and 4691 females, of whom 958 were returned as being employed in trade, handicraft, and manufacture, but the population of Portsmouth and Portsea, which may be called one town, (See Portsea) is 33,226 persons, of which number upwards of 3000 are constantly employed in the dock-yards. This town was anciently defended by a wall of timber covered with earth, and with bastions and forts of hewn-stone. But in the reign of queen Elizabeth it was strongly defended by new works; at the restoration of king Charles II. great improvements were made, by the establishment of new docks; several forts were strongly fortified in the modern manner, since which time each succeeding sovereign has made further improvements and additional works, that it is now the most regular fortress in Britain. About one mile south, near the sea, is South Sea Castle, originally a blockhouse, built by order of Henry VIII., and surrounded by a fort erected in the reign of Charles II. The whole repaired and strengthened in the beginning of his present majesty's reign. South west of the castle, and communicating by a bridge is a battery faced with stone, being a garrison subordinate to Portsmouth, and within these few years many additional works have been constructed by order of government, so that it is reckoned almost impregnable by land as well as by sea. The dock-yard containing the warehouses for keeping all kinds of military and naval stores, is the most complete in the world, and possesses all the various manufacturies necessary for supplying its different naval equipments. The docks and yards, in short, resemble a distinct town, there being particular rows of dwellings, built at the public expence, for all the principal officers, who are under a separate government from the garrison. The principal machinery of the yard, particularly that for making blocks, consists of steam engines on a very extensive scale. In the yard some hundreds of convicts are daily brought from the hulks in Langston harbour, and employed in many useful branches of rigging, &c. The streets of the town are mostly narrow and dirty, but always in a bustle, the consequence of the town being wholly supported by the fleets and armed vessels which during the war are constantly at anchor here. And in peace it is the general rendezvous of the India fleet. Close to the shore is the signal post, which is continually making signals to the ships lying at Spithead, as well as the telegraph, conveying intelligence and receiving orders from the Admiralty in the course of eight minutes. The whole of the walls round the town are planted with cannon, and on some of them are very pleasant walks, particularly on the east side and near the sea, commanding a beautiful prospect. The church, with its tower, cupola, and lantern, may pass as a stately edifice, but the style of its architecture is not remarkable for any beauty. From the continual influx of strangers, both house rent and lodgings are dear, as well as all the necessaries of life. There are about 120 taverns and alehouses in the town, 60 of them being on that part called Portsmouth Point, the grand resort of the sons of Neptune. The civil government is vested in a mayor, aldermen, recorder, bailiffs, and common-council, and the town sends two members to parliament. The right of election being in the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, and the number of voters being about 110. The returning officer is the mayor. Here is a deputy governor and a garrison, with a division of marines stationed in very commodious barracks. It has also a port admiral, and all the various officers of the revenue. On the south sea beach are several commodious bathing machines. The mouth of the harbour is not so broad as the Thames at Westminster, and is defended, on the Gosport side, by four forts and a strong platform of cannon. The dock-yard suffered severely by fire in 1763, and in in 1770 a dreadful conflagration took place, the damage of which was estimated at 100,000*l.* On the 7th of December 1776, the rope house was destroyed by an incendiary called John the Painter, for which he was executed, and the mischief at that time was computed at 60,000*l.* The spot where the Royal George of 100 guns sunk in 1782, only a few hundred yards from the shore, is marked by two buoys fastened to the head and stern of the wreck. The markets are on Thursday and Saturday, as well as a small one on Tuesday. The fair, which begins on the 10th of July and continues 14 days, is a scene of every species of vice and depravity. Here are two Banks. The church is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* The observatory, Lat. 50. 48. 2. Long. 1. 5. 58. west.—Warner's Hants, Housman's Tour, &c.

Portsoy, a sea port town in the shire of Banff, Scotland, situated in the parish of Fordyce, 6 miles from Cullen, and 7 from Banff. The town and parish containing 617 houses and 2747 inhabitants, of whom 860 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is situated on a point of land projecting into the Moray Frith, forming a safe harbour for moderate sized vessels. It carries on a considerable trade in the manufacture of thread and fine linens for the London and Nottingham Markets, and has a number of vessels employed in the fisheries. This parish contains a quarry of stone called Portsoy marble; it is a curious mixture of red, green, and white, and is wrought into various ornaments. The neighbourhood also produces green Asbestos, which has been sometimes wrought into cloth. It also produces a curious sort of Febit Spar.

Portwilliam, a small village in the parish of Mockrum, shire of Wigton, Scotland. It is regularly built and contains a small barrack for the military and custom-house officers who are stationed here. In 1793 it contained 220 inhabitants.

Portswood, a small village 2¼ miles from Southampton, Hants, on the road to Portsmouth, noted for a magnificent structure erected by general Stibbert in 1776. The situation commands a charming prospect, and the grounds are laid out in the most magnificent stile. The house contains a capital collection of paintings by the most celebrated ancient and modern masters. A farm house near it, on the west side of the Itching, was formerly a priory of black canons, founded by Henry I.

Postlingford, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 2 miles from Clare, and 57 from London; containing 32 houses and 253 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.*

Postcombe, a hamlet in the parish of Adwell, hundred of Lewknor, Oxford, 5 miles from Thame, and 40 from London; containing 31 houses and 135 inhabitants.

Postgrove, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 6 miles from Dunstable, and 40 from London; containing 29 houses and 157 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Postlinch, a hamlet in the parish of Newton Ferris, on the Channel near Holberton, Devon.

Postling, a parish in the hundred of Hayne, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 2½ miles from Hythe, and 65 from London; containing 22 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Postlingworth. See Poslingford, Suffolk.

Postlip, a hamlet in the parish of Winchcomb, Gloucester.

Postwich, a parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 4 miles from Norwich, and 113 from London; containing 23 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Potten, a market town and parish in the hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, 3½ miles from Biggleswade, and 48¼ from London; containing 239 houses and 1103 inhabitants. The town is pleasantly situated although in a very barren and sandy soil. The buildings are modern, as this town and Biggleswade were in 1785 both burnt down in one day, and the inhabitants remained for some time under tents in the neighbourhood. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, third Tuesday in January and July, and on Good Friday. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* patron, the king.

POTTER HANWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 5 miles from Lincoln, and 130 from London; containing 67 houses and 303 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

POTTER HEIGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk, 12 miles from Norwich, and 121 from London; containing 58 houses and 321 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

POTTERN and CANNING, the name of a hundred in Wilts, near the centre of the county, round Devizes.

POTTERN, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Wilts, 3 miles from Devizes, and 83 from London; containing 182 houses and 826 inhabitants. It has a good charity-school. The living is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

POTTER NEWTON, a township in the west riding of York, situated between Leeds and Chapel Allerton, 198¼ miles from London; containing 106 houses and 509 inhabitants.

POTTERS BAR, a hamlet on the borders of Enfield Chase, in the hundred of Edmonton, Middlesex, 3 miles from Barnet on the north road, and 14 from London.

POTTERS MARSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Barwell, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 2 miles from Hinckley, and 100 from London; containing 3 houses and 18 inhabitants.

POTTERSPURY, a parish in the hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 2¼ miles from Stony Stratford, and 55 from London, on the road to Towcester; containing 139 houses and 698 inhabitants. Its name is derived from several potteries which are established near it. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 6*s.*

POTTERS-STREET, a hamlet in the parish of Harlow, Essex, 21 miles from London.

POTTOE, a hamlet in the parish of Whorlton, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Stokesley, and 237 from London; containing 36 houses and 174 inhabitants.

POTTROSE, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the Irthing, near Denton.

POTTSHRIGLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 4 miles from Macclesfield, and 170 from London; containing 55 houses and 369 inhabitants.

POUGHILL, a parish in the hundred of Stratton, Cornwall, 1 mile from Stratton, and 222 from London; containing 49 houses and 297 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* patron the king.

POULTON, a hamlet to Pulford, in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, 4 miles from Chester, and 178 from London; containing 19 houses and 105 inhabitants.

POULTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, near the mouth of the river Wyre, 6½ miles from Kirkham, and 235 from London; containing 191 houses and 769 inhabitants. It is situated near the sea coast, and having a canal navigation to most of the principal rivers of the county, stands very convenient for trade, and the sea bathing is reckoned very little inferior to that of Scarborough. Market on Monday. Fairs, 13th February and 2d May. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

POULTON, a township and chapelry to Lancaster, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 1¼ mile from Lancaster, and 239 from London, on the shore of Morecambe bay; containing 87 houses and 423 inhabitants.

POULTON, a township in the parish of Warrington, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, three quarters of a mile from Warrington, and 174 from London; containing 77 houses and 417 inhabitants.

POULTON, a hamlet in the parish of Misterton, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 2 miles from Lutterworth, and 82 from London. Population returned included with Walcot.

POULTON, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 4 miles from Cricklade, and 88 from London; being a detached part of the county surrounded by Gloucestershire; containing 58 houses and 306 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

POUNDHAM a hamlet in the parish of Twyford, in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 6 miles from Buckingham, and 54 from London; containing 16 houses and 75 inhabitants.

POUNDSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Lesnewth, Cornwall, 4 miles from Stratton, and 220 from London; containing 109 houses and 617 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

POWDER, the name of a hundred in Cornwall, lying on the south-eastern side of the county, and shore of the English channel from Falmouth to Fowey.

POWDERHAM, a parish in the hundred of Exminster, Devon, 2 miles from Topsham, and 172 from London; containing 47 houses and 175 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 27*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* Powderham castle, the seat of lord viscount Courtenay, is a very handsome ancient structure, originally built for the protection of the coast.

POWERSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Godderthorne, division of Bridport, Dorset, 4 miles from Bridport, and 131 from London; containing 162 houses and 802 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Salisbury.

POWICK, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, near the river Teme, 3 miles from Worcester, and 116 from London; containing 205 houses and 1172 inhabitants. It is a very pleasant village, and the living is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 2*s.* 7*d.* with Mordeford chapel annexed.

POWNOLL, a township in the parish of Norbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 3 miles from Stockport, and 171 from London, containing 177 houses and 1122 inhabitants.

Poxwell, a small village united with the parish of Warmwell, in the hundred of Winfrith, division of Blandford, Dorset, 4 miles from Melcomb Regis, and 123 from London; containing 9 houses and 66 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

Poynings, a parish in the hundred of the same name, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 4 miles from Brighton, and 50 from London; containing 21 houses and 173 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Poynton, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 3 miles from Macclesfield, and 169 from London; containing 75 houses and 432 inhabitants.

Preenchurch, a parish in the hundred of Condover, Salop, 9 miles from Shrewsbury, and 156 from London; containing 21 houses and 84 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Prees, a parish in the hundred of North Bradford, Salop, 5 miles from Whitchurch, and 155 from London; containing 460 houses and 2653 inhabitants, viz. 1299 males, and 1384 females, of whom 241 were returned as being employed in trade. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

Premnay, a parish in the district of Garioch, shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, situated on the north side of Bennochie hill, 24 miles from Aberdeen; containing 115 houses and 486 inhabitants. It is watered by the river Gadie.

Prendergast, a parish in the hundred of Dungleddy, Pembrokeshire, Wales, ¾ mile from Haverfordwest, and 268 from London; containing 172 houses and 814 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*

Prendick, a hamlet in the parish of Alnham, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Alnwick, and 310 from London; containing 10 houses and 61 inhabitants.

Prenton, a hamlet in the parish of Great Babbington, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 14 miles from Chester, and 194 from London; containing 20 houses and 81 inhabitants.

Presall, a township in the parish of Lancaster, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 6 miles from Garstang, and 233 from London; containing 117 houses and 533 inhabitants.

Prescott, a market town and parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 8 miles from Liverpool, and 198½ from London; containing 708 houses and 3465 inhabitants, including the village of St. Helen's, viz. 1676 males, and 1789 females, of whom 1471 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. The town has long been celebrated for the making of watches, and the various cotton branches. The church is a handsome building, having a steeple 52 yards high, allowed to be the completest in the nty, containing 6 good bells. The market is on Tuesday. Fairs, 2d June, and 21st October. The living is a vicarage, value 24l. 10s. in the patronage of King's college, Cambridge.

Prestbury, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 2½ miles from Macclesfield, and 169 from London; containing 82 houses and 466 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

Prestbury, a parish in the hundred of Deerhurst, Gloucester, 2 miles from Cheltenham, and 94 from London; containing 118 houses and 485 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* This sequestered situation is much resorted to during the season at Cheltenham. The hotel is most tastefully fitted up; with large gardens adjoining.

Presteigne, or Llan Andrew, a market town and parish in Radnorshire, Wales, pleasantly situated in a rich vale, on the banks of the river Lug, near its entrance into the county of Hereford, 14 miles from Leominster, and 151 from London by Worcester; containing 194 houses and 1057 inhabitants. It was once an inconsiderable village, but by the countenance of Martin, bishop of St. David's, it soon eclipsed the borough town, & is at present the best built place in the county; but its original grandeur far exceeded its present appearance. About a mile from the bridge, on an elevated bank stands an ancient mansion, called Stapleton Castle, commanding a fine view of the vale of Radnor. On the west side of the town, formerly the site of a castle, is a pleasant eminence called the Warden Walks, presented to the inhabitants by lord Oxford, on the summit of which is a bowling green. The church contains a well-wrought tapestry altar-piece, representing our Saviour's entry into Jerusalem. In this town are held the assizes, and the county gaol stands here. The market is on Saturday, and is well supplied with corn. Fairs, 25th June, and 11th December.—Lipscomb's Tour in South Wales.

Presthute, a parish in the hundred of Selkley, Wilts, near Marlborough, and 76 miles from London; containing 100 houses and 496 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Prestick, a burgh of barony, in the parish of Monktown, shire of Ayr, Scotland, 2½ miles from Ayr; containing 66 houses and 266 inhabitants. It was privileged by James VI. to elect annually a provost, 2 bailies, &c. and to grant franchises for several trades, as well as a weekly market; but most of these rights have fallen into disuse.

Preston, a township in the parish of Daresbury, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, seated on an eminence, 5 miles from Warrington, and 180 from London; containing 61 houses and 333 inhabitants.

Preston, a township in the parish of St. Bees, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 2 miles from Whitehaven, and 305 from London; containing 328 houses and 1886 inhabitants, of whom 116 were returned employed in various trades.

PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Colliford Tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Weymouth, and 124 from London; containing 85 houses and 385 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.*

PRESTON BAGGOTT, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 7 miles from Stratford on Avon, and 101 from London; containing 38 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.*

PRESTON BISSETT, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 4 miles from Buckingham, and 56 from London; containing 73 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

PRESTON CANDOVER. See CANDOVER PRESTON, Hants.

PRESTON CRAPES, a parish in the hundred of Fawsley, Northampton, 5 miles from Daventry, and 68 from London; containing 75 houses and 380 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 5*s.*

PRESTON LITTLE, a small hamlet to the foregoing. Population included therewith.

PRESTON GOBBALLS, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of St. Giles, in the liberties of Shrewsbury, Salop, 2¼ miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 58 houses and 313 inhabitants.

PRESTON KIRK, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, lying between the royal boroughs of Haddington and Dunbar; containing 296 houses and 1471 inhabitants. It is watered by the river Tyne, and in the neighbourhood are the ruins of a very extensive building called Hailes's Castle.

PRESTON PANS, a town and parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, situated on the coast of the Frith of Forth, at the eastern extremity of the county, separated from Mid Lothian by the burn of Ravenshaugh; containing 260 houses and 1964 inhabitants, of whom 345 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly in those of salt, stone, and earthen ware, as well as in the making of bricks and tiles. A manufactory of oil of vitriol, aqua fortis, and spirit of salt has also been established. The town was formerly called SALT PRESTON, and is a burgh of barony, and a port of the custom-house. It has long been noted for its oyster fishery, and those dredged near the doors of the salt-pans, have been particularly esteemed. The harbour called Morrison's Haven, is situated to the west of the town, and has 10 feet water at spring tides; being esteemed one of the safest harbours in the Frith. Near the ancient village of Preston is the field where the battle of Preston Pans was fought in September 1745, with such great success on the part of the rebel army.

PRESTON PATRICK, a township and chapelry in the parish of Burton, in Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 3¼ miles from Burton, and 253 from London; containing 69 houses and 385 inhabitants.

PRESTON RICHARD, a township in the parish of Heversham, in Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 6 miles from Kendal, and 256 from London; containing 63 houses and 296 inhabitants.

PRESTON ON STOURE, a parish in the hundred of Decrhurst, Gloucester, 6 miles from Campden, and 96 from London; containing 60 houses and 267 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

PRESTON UPON TEES, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Stockton, Durham, 2 miles from Stockton, and 246 from London; containing 11 houses and 64 inhabitants.

PRESTON WILDMOORS, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Wellington, and 145 from London; containing 56 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

PRESTON ON WYE, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 8 miles from Hereford, and 143 from London; containing 45 houses and 219 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

PRESTON WYNNE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Withington, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 6 miles from Hereford, and 136 from London; containing 25 houses and 119 inhabitants.

PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Crowthorne, Gloucester, 2 miles from Cirencester, and 87 from London; containing 34 houses and 141 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, near Gloucester, and 106 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Gloucester.

PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, lathe of Seray, Kent, 1 mile from Feversham, and 46½ from London; containing 24 houses, and 220 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Preston, lathe of St. Augustine's, Kent, 6 miles from Canterbury, and 61 from London; containing 61 houses and 418 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

PRESTON, a borough, market town, and parish in the hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, situated on the river Ribble, 15 miles from Wigan, and 216 from London; containing 2169 houses and 11,887 inhabitants, viz. 5415 males and 6472 females, of whom 1419 were returned as being employed in various trades, principally in the cotton manufacture, which is carried on here very extensively. This town is said to have sprung from the ruins of an ancient city called Ribchester, now a village in the neighbourhood, and to have received its modern name (a corruption of Priests' Town), from the number of religious who resided in it. The town is very well built, having a very handsome and extensive town-hall, with a suit of assembly-rooms annexed, erected some years since at the expence of the earl of Derby. The new prison on the Howardian plan, is a very extensive and commodious building. Here are 2 charity schools, the one for 25 boys, the other for as many girls. The town has a bank. In the neighbourhood are some very pleasant walks, and on its common, on which are the traces of a Roman military way, are frequently held horse races. It is governed by a mayor, recorder, aldermen, 4 sub-aldermen, 17 common council men, and a town-clerk. It returns 2 members to parliament, the number of voters being about 600. The returning officers are the mayor and 2 bailiffs. The river here is only navigable for small vessels which come coastways from Liverpool and other parts; and by canal navigation it has communication with most of the principal rivers in England. The markets are on Wednesday and Friday for fish, vegetables, butter, eggs, &c. and on Saturday for all kinds of provisions. Fairs, 27th March, 7th September, and the first Saturday after 6th January. Every 20th year a kind of jubilee is held, called Preston Guild, which begins the last week in August, and continues a month; the last was held in 1802. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 3*s.* 11*d.*—Pennant's Tour.

Preston, a hamlet in the township of Piddington, in the parish of Horton, hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 4½ miles from Northampton, and 62 from London; containing 9 houses and 70 inhabitants.

Preston, a hamlet in the parish of Ellingham, in Bamburgh ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Alnwick, and 317 from London; containing 8 houses and 50 inhabitants.

Preston, a hamlet in the township of Whitley, parish of Tynemouth, Castle ward, Northumberland, 1 mile from Shields, and 284 from London; containing 83 houses and 431 inhabitants.

Preston, a parish in the hundred of Martinsley, Rutland, 1 mile from Uppingham, and 90 from London; containing 54 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Preston, a parish in the hundred of Stone, Somerset, 2 miles from Yeovil, and 123 from London; containing 46 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

Preston, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 7 miles from Sudbury, and 62 from London; containing 59 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* in the patronage of Emanuel college, Cambridge.

Preston, a parish in the hundred of Preston, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 1¼ mile from Brighton, and 54½ from London; containing 31 houses and 222 inhabitants. The living is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* united with Hove.

Preston, a parish in Holderness, east riding of York, 1½ mile from Hedon, and 184 from London; containing 109 houses and 681 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* in the patronage of the sub-dean of York.

Preston, a township in the parish of Wensley, Hang West wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Leyburn, and 238 from London; containing 59 houses and 260 inhabitants.

Preston, a township in the parish of Keppax, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 8 miles from Pontefract, and 186 from London; containing 74 houses and 413 inhabitants.

Preston, a parish united with Bonkle, in Berwickshire, Scotland, on the banks of the river Whittader, 12 miles from Berwick; containing 127 houses and 674 inhabitants.

Preston le Skerne, a hamlet in the parish of Great Aycliff, in Darlington ward, Durham, 12 miles from Durham, and 250 from London; containing 23 houses and 119 inhabitants.

Prestwich, a parish in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 4 miles from Manchester, and 184 from London; containing 208 houses and 1811 inhabitants, of whom 929 were returned as being chiefly employed in the various Manchester manufactures. It is a rectory, value 46*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* and is united with Oldham.

Prestwich, a hamlet in the parish of Ponteland, in Castle ward, Northumberland, 7¼ miles from Newcastle, and 284 from London; containing 25 houses and 122 inhabitants.

Prestwold, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Loughborough, and 108 from London; containing 9 houses and 62 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, discharged from first fruits and tenths.

Prestwood, a hamlet in the parish of Ellastone, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 6 miles from Uttoxeter, and 141 from London; containing 13 houses and 80 inhabitants.

Priddle, a river in Dorsetshire, rising near Alton, and flowing south-east falls into Poole Haven, near the mouth of the Frome.

Priestholm, an island at the end of the Menai, Straight, Carnarvonshire, Wales, much frequented by Puffins; on this island stood a priory of black nuns.

Priddy, a hamlet in the parish of Westbury, hundred of Wellsforum, Somerset, 4 miles from Wells, and 125 from London; containing 20 houses and 119 inhabitants.

Primrose or Carrington, a parish in the shire of Edinburgh, Scotland, on the banks of the South Eske, containing 64 houses and 329 inhabitants. It gives title of viscount to the earl of Roseberry.

PRIMROSE HILL, Middlesex, lying between Kilburn and Hampstead, has also been called GREEN-BERRY-HILL, from the names of the three persons who were executed for the assassination of sir Edmundbury Godfrey, whom they brought hither after they had murdered him at Somerset house, and left him with his sword stuck in his body.

PRINCES HARWELL. See HARWELL, Berks.

PRINCES RISBOROUGH. See RISBOROUGH, Bucks.

PRIORS ASH, a parish in the hundred of West Kingsbury, Somerset, 6 miles from Taunton, and 150 from London; containing 29 houses and 155 inhabitants.

PRIORS CLEEVE, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, near Evesham, and 98 from miles London; containing 62 houses and 267 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

PRIORS DITTON, a parish in the liberty of Wenlock franchise, Salop, 5 miles from Bridgnorth, and 142 from London; containing 133 houses and 620 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*

PRIORS HARDWICK. See HARDWICK PRIORS, Warwick.

PRIORS LEE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Shiffnal, hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Shiffnal, and 116 from London; containing 290 houses and 1399 inhabitants, of whom 221 were returned as being employed in trade.

PRIORS MARSTON, a township in the parish of Priors Hardwick, hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 4 miles from Southam, and 79 from London; containing 119 houses and 538 inhabitants.

PRISTON, a parish in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 5 miles from Bath, and 108 from London; containing 46 houses and 314 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

PRITTLEWELL, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 1¼ mile from Leigh, and 40 from London; containing 241 houses and 1213 inhabitants. Fair 15th July. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of London.

PRIVETT, a hamlet in the parish of West Meon, hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 5 miles from Bishop Waltham, and 62 from London; containing 28 houses and 185 inhabitants.

PROBUS, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 2½ miles from Grampound, and 250 from London; containing 194 houses and 1013 inhabitants. A branch of Foy Haven formerly came near this place, but there are no signs of it at present. The church formerly collegiate, is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

PROMHILL, a hamlet in the parish of New Romney, partly situated in Kent, and partly in Sussex, 3 miles from Lydd. It was formerly a neat little town, but was swallowed up by the sea in the reign of Edward I.

PRUDHOE, a township in the parish of Ovingham, in Tindal Ward, Northumberland, near the river Tyne, 4 miles from Bywell, and 8 from Newcastle; containing 73 houses and 380 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are the ruins of a very ancient and noble castle.

PUBLOW, a parish united with Pensford, in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 6¼ miles from Bristol, and 114 from London; containing 141 houses and 786 inhabitants, PUCKERIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Standon, in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, 6 miles from Ware, and 27 from London. It was formerly a market town.

PUCKINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Abdick, Somerset, 3 miles from Ilminster, and 133 from London; containing 28 houses and 171 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

PUCKLECHURCH, the name of a hundred in Gloucester, in the southern point of the county and borders of Somerset.

PUCKLECHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Pucklechurch, Gloucester, 8 miles from Bristol, and 107 from London; containing 121 houses and 542 inhabitants. This was once a royal village and the residence of several of our Saxon kings, some traces of whose residence may still be seen. The church is a small building, situated on an eminence. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* with Westerleigh and Abston chapels annexed, PUDDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 11 miles from Bedford, and 61 from London; containing 70 houses and 415 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PUDDINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Shotwick, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, situated on the banks of the Dee, six miles from Chester, and 186 from London; containing 20 houses and 139 inhabitants.

PUDDINGTON, a village near Crawys Morchard, hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 6 miles from Crediton, and 186 from London; containing 28 houses and 135 inhabitants.

PUDDLETON and PUDDLETRENCHARD. See PIDDLETOWN and PIDDLETRENSHIDE, Dorset.

PUDLESTONE, a parish in the hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 4 miles from Leominster, and 134 from London; containing 31 houses and 174 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* united with the rectory of White.

PUDSEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Calverley, in Morley, wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Bradford, and 197 from London; containing 850 houses and 4422 inhabitants, viz. 2132 males and 2240 females, of whom 1752 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. In 1748, a considerable establishment of Moravians was made here, mostly by emigrants from Germany. The building appropriated to their use consists of a chapel, refectory, dormitory, school, &c. on the same plan as at FULNECK, which see.

PULBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of West Easewrith, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 4 miles from Petworth, and 50 from London; containing 227 houses and 1334 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.*

PULFORD, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Chester, 5 miles from Chester, and 185 from London, on the road to Wrexham; containing 37 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

PULHAM, a parish in the hundred of Buckland Newton, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 7 miles from Sherborn, and 114 from London; containing 11 houses and 81 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

PULHAM, a parish in the hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harleston, and 100 from London; containing 118 houses and 861 inhabitants. Fair, 14 days before Whit Monday. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

PULHAM ST. MARY MAGDALEN, a hamlet and chapelry in the foregoing, ¼ mile distant; containing 103 houses and 767 inhabitants.

PULLOX-HILL, a parish in the hundred of Flitt, Bedfordshire, 8 miles from Luton, and 39 from London; containing 15 houses and 317 inhabitants. About a century past a gold mine was discovered in the parish, but it did not answer the expence of working it. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.*

PULVERBATCH, a parish in the hundred of Condover, Salop, 9 miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 73 houses and 439 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

PUNCHESTON, a parish in the hundred of Kemess, Pembrokeshire, Wales, 15 miles from Cardigan, and 284 from London, containing 38 houses and 183 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

PUNCKNOWLE, a parish in the hundred of Ugglescombe, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Abbotsbury, and 130 from London; containing 60 houses and 267 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.*

PURBECK ISLAND, in Dorsetshire, near Corfe Castle, which though called an island is a peninsula nearly oval, formed by the river Frome and the sea; and in the time of James I. was a forest abounding in game: it is eminent for its stone, much used in London for paving, which is very profitable to the place, and employs a number of vessels in conveying it to London. It also contains several rocks of good marble; variegated with several colours.

PURFLEET, a hamlet in the parish of West Thurrock, hundred of Chafford, Essex, on the banks of the Thames, 3 miles from Gray's Thurrock, and 21 from London; it is chiefly inhabited by the persons employed at the numerous chalk pits, belonging to a company that carry on a considerable traffic in lime. The walks among the vast caverns are romantic, and the views from the tops of the hills delightful. There is a public magazine for gunpowder here, which is deposited in detatched buildings, bomb proof, and each guarded from lightening by conductors.

PURITON, a parish in the hundred of North Petherton, Somerset, near Bridgewater, and 140 miles from London; containing 58 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* united with Woolavington, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

PURLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Dengy, Essex, 3 miles from Maldon, and 39 from London; containing 102 houses and 709 inhabitants. Fair, Whit Tuesday. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* annexed to the provostship of Oriel College, Oxford.

PURLEY, a parish in the hundred of Theale, Berks, 4 miles from Reading, and 41 from London; containing 27 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* and the patron is the King.

PURLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Sanderstead, hundred of Wallington, Surry, 1½ mile from Croydon, and 11 from London.—Population included with Sanderstead.

PURSLOW, the name of a hundred in Salop, forming the south-western extremity of the county, bordering on Radnor, and Montgomery.

PURSTON JAGLIN, a township in the parish of Pontefract, in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 2 miles from Pontefract, and 176 from London; containing 42 houses and 127 inhabitants.

PURTON, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 3 miles from Wootton Basset, and 86 from London; containing 271 houses and 1467 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 22*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

PUTFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Buckland Brewer, hundred of Shebbear, Devon, 4 miles from Black Torrington, and 200 from London; containing 18 houses and 139 inhabitants.

PUTLEY, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 4 miles from Ledbury, and 124 from London; containing 29 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

PUTNEY, a parish in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, situated on the banks of the Thames, 4¼ miles from London, and seperated from Fulham by a bridge over the river. It contains 626 houses and 2428 inhabitants, viz. 1117 males and 1311 females. The church is an old Gothic structure; at the east end of the south aisle is a chapel built by bishop West, the roof of which is adorned with rich Gothic tracery. It has a square tower, and six bells. In the road from Wandsworth to Richmond is a new cemetery, the ground of which was given to the parish in 1763, by Dr. Pettiward. This place gave birth to the unfortunate Thomas Cromwell, earl of Essex, whose father was a blacksmith here; and also to Dr. West, bishop of Ely, an eminent statesman of the same reign, whose father was a baker. In 1647, Putney was Oliver Cromwell's head quarters and his military councils are said to have been held in the church, round the communion table. On the borders of Putney heath are several elegant mansions, the residence of opulent merchants and tradesmen of the Metropolis. One of the Roman military roads may be traced between this place and Richmond. The church is a perpetual curacy. Lysons's Environs of London.

PUTTENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Dacorum, Herts, 5 miles from Tring, and 34 from London; containing 24 houses and 130 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

PUTTENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Godalming, Surry, 4 miles from Guildford, and 36 from London; containing 67 houses and 357 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the king.

PUTTON, a small hamlet in the parish of West Chickerill, Dorset, on the coast of the channel.

PWLLHELY, a market town in the parish of Llannor, hundred of Dinnlaen, Caruarvonshire, Wales, situated on a bay of the Irish sea, 6 miles from Newin, and 245 from London; containing 137 houses and 717 inhabitants. It has a good harbour for vessels of 60 tons. Edward the black prince made it a free borough, and it is governed by a bailiff. It is tolerably well built; about 5 miles distant is Carn Madryn, the remains of a strong fortress built by the sons of Owen Gwynedd. The Market is on Wednesday, generally well supplied with corn.—Fairs, 13th May, 19th August, 24th September, and 11th November.

PYDAR, the name of a hundred in Cornwall, lying on the western side of the county, and shore of the Bristol Channel, from Padstow to St. Agnes.

PYECOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Poyning, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 5 miles from Brighton, and 49½ from London; containing 17 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the king.

PYLLE, a parish in the hundred of Whitestone, Somerset, 3½ miles from Shepton Mallet, and 118 from from London; containing 29 houses and 150 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

PYWORTHY, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 1½ mile from Holdsworthy, and 215 from London; containing 89 houses and 499 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 27*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

QUADRAGE, a hamlet in the parish of Holdsworthy, Devon, ½ a mile from Holdsworthy.

QUADRING, a parish in the hundred of Kirton, parts of Holland, Lincoln, 7½ miles from Spalding, and 109 from London; containing 112 houses and 506 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

QUAINTON, a parish in the hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 6 miles from Aylesbury, and 45 from London; containing 147 houses and 750 inhabitants. The village, consisting of one street, is situated at the foot of a hill, commanding a most extensive prospect. The church is an ancient large building, on a rising ground at the eastern extremity of the village, its church-yard containing one of the largest elm trees in England. The tower as well as the church is embattled, and at the four corners are grotesque figures. In the chancel are several elegant monuments: at the end of the chancel is a free school, and contiguous to the church-yard is an alms-house, endowed by Richard Winwood, Esq. secretary of state to king Charles I. who has a very handsome monument in the church. It was formerly a market town, and much noticed for horse races. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 12*s.* in the patronage of the duke of Montague.—Lipscomb's Tour.

QUANTOXHEAD EAST, a parish in the hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 12 miles from Bridgewater, and 153

from London; containing 52 houses and 262 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

QUANTOXHEAD WEST, a parish in the same hundred of Somersetshire, ¾ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 31 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.*

QUANTOX HILLS, an extensive ridge which runs from east Quantoxhead through a rich country, south, as far as the vale of Taunton. It has a fine distinct prospect of the Welch coast, as well as of the channel.

QUARENDON, a hamlet and formerly a chapelry in the parish of Bierton, hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 1½ mile from Aylesbury, and 42 from London; containing 11 houses and 55 inhabitants.

QUARFF, a parish in the Shetlands, situated on the Mainland, united with the islands of Bressay, Burra, Havera, House, and Noss; it contains about 180 inhabitants.

QUARFORD, a township in the parish of Alstonfield, in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 6 miles from Leek, and 147 from London; containing 169 houses and 737 inhabitants.

QUARLES, an extra parochial hamlet in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, near Walsingham, and 114 miles from London; containing 2 houses and 12 inhabitants.

QUARLEY, a parish in the hundred and division of Andover, Hants, 7 miles from Andover, and 70 from London; containing 34 houses and 147 inhabitants. On a hill in the parish, are considerable traces of a Roman encampment. The living is a rectory, value 15*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

QUARLTON, a hamlet in the parish of Bolton-le-Moors, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Bolton, and 169 miles from London; containing 41 houses and 357 inhabitants.

QUARNDON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of All Saints, Derby, hundred of Morleston, 3 miles from Derby, and 129 from London; containing 59 houses and 238 inhabitants.

QUARR, a hamlet in the parish of Worth, in the isle of Purbeck, Dorsetshire.

QUARR, lying between Newport and St. Helen's, in the Isle of Wight, has some small remains of a once magnificent abbey of Cistertians: only a part of the walls are to be traced in the outbuilding of a farm. Its name is supposed to be derived from the adjacent stone quarries.

QUARRELTOWN, a village in the neighbourhood of Paisley, in the shire of Renfrew, Scotland, noted for its coal mines, there being five distinct strata of that mineral.

QUARRINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kelloe, Easington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Durham, and 258 from London; containing 23 houses and 112 inhabitants.

QUATFORD, a parish united with Erdington, in the hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, situated on the river Severn, 1½ mile from Bridgnorth, and 137½ from London; containing 19 houses and 89 inhabitants.

QUAIT, a parish in the hundred of Stoddeston, Salop, 3½ miles from Bridgnorth, and 135½ from London; containing 44 houses and 300 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 5*s.*

QUEDGELEY, a parish in the hundred of Whitestone, Gloucester, 3½ miles from Gloucester, and 108 from London; containing 21 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the duke of Manchester.

QUEENBOROUGH, a borough and market town, situated at the west end of the Isle of Sheppey, Kent, at the mouth of the Medway, 45 miles from London; containing 128 houses and 545 inhabitants. The houses are neat, uniform, and regularly built. The church is an ancient building though plain; the chancel is separated from the church by a scrooll work of iron, and has a neat altar piece; the tower contains five bells. The chief employment here is in fishing, principally that of oysters; but it has a small copperas manufactory. Near the centre of the town is a newly-erected Guildhall, very neatly finished and supported by four columns; beneath which is held the trifling market, and it contains also the town gaol. Here was anciently a castle called Sheppey Castle, at the mouth of the Swale, which was pulled down about the year 1650, the most of which only remains. This place is a distinct liberty of itself, under its own magistrates, who hold quarterly courts and general sessions, every half year; and it is governed by a mayor, 4 jurats, and two bailiffs; the mayor being chosen annually from among the jurats and the senior jurat being justice of peace for the borough. It returns 2 members to Parliament, the right of election being in the mayor, jurats, bailiffs, and burgesses, in number about 150. The preponderating power in this borough appears to have been long in the admiralty and ordnance boards, until the election in 1802. The market is on Monday, but is almost disused. Fair, 5th August, at which the price of wool for the county is generally settled. The church is a perpetual curacy, in the patronage of the corporation.—Hasted's Kent.

QUEENBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 6 miles from Leicester, and 102 from London; containing 90 houses and 429 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

QUEENBY, a hamlet in the parish of Hungarton, hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 7 miles from Leicester, and 97 from London. Population included with Hungarton.

QUEEN CAMEL, a parish in the hundred of Catash, Somerset, 6½ miles from Castle Carey, and 122 from London; containing 94 houses and 584 inhabitants. It was formerly a considerable town, having two markets weekly, till it was almost destroyed by fire, about two centuries since. Fair, 25th Oct.

QUEENHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Ripple, hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 3 miles from Tewkesbury, and 107 from London, near the river Severn; containing 21 houses and 101 inhabitants.

QUEEN'S COUNTY, a county in the province of Leinster, Ireland, bounded on the north and west by King's County and part of Tipperary, on the east by Kildare and part of Carlow, and on the south by Kilkenny; being about 25 miles square, containing 50 parishes, and about 15,048 houses, and 82,000 inhabitants. The capital of the county is Maryborough, which sent 2 members to the Irish parliament, before the union: of late years this county is much improved in cultivation, it being formerly full of woods and impassable bogs.

QUEENSFERRY, a royal burgh, in the shire of Linlithgow, Scotland, on the coast of the Frith of Forth, 9 miles west of Edinburgh; containing 77 houses and 454 inhabitants. It consists of one irregular street of small houses, chiefly inhabited by seafaring people, excepting a soap manufactory, which has been long established here, but its principal support is the ferry over the Frith, at most times safe and expeditious. It is supposed to have been named from its patroness, Margaret, queen of Malcolm Canmore, who much frequented this passage. It is governed by a provost, 1 land, and 2 sea bailies, a dean of guild and town council, and unites with Stirling, Dumfermlin, Inverkeithing, and Culross, in returning one member to parliament.

QUEENSFERRY, NORTH, a small village on the opposite coast of the Frith of Forth.

QUENDON, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 9 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 36 from London; containing 21 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

QUENINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Brightwell's Barrow, Gloucester, 2 miles from Fairford, and 82 from London; containing 57 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

QUENNY, a river in Salop, which falls into the Ony, at Hawford Chapel.

QUERNMOOR, a township in the parish of Lancaster, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 2 miles from Lancaster, and 258 from London; containing 87 houses and 490 inhabitants.

QUETACRE. See WHITACRE, Norfolk.

QUICK, a hamlet in the parish of Saddleworth, west riding of York.

QUIDDENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Guilteross, Norfolk, 1 mile from Harling, and 94 from London; containing 10 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*

QUINTON, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 5 miles from Campden, and 95 from London, containing 83 houses and 538 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

QUINTON, a parish in the hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 4 miles from Northampton, and 61 from London; containing 21 houses and 92 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

QUITHIOCK, a parish in the hundred of East Cornwall, 4 miles from Callington, and 219 from London; containing 91 houses and 587 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 11*s.*

QUIVOX ST. a parish in the shire of Ayr, Scotland, on the banks of the Ayr, 3 miles from Ayr, and 8 from Irvine; containing 304 houses and 2079 inhabitants, viz. 958 males, and 1112 females, of whom 1015 were employed in various trades, and 758 in agriculture. In this parish is the thriving village of Wallace Town, which contains about 1000 inhabitants. On the banks of the Ayr, are 2 very elegant modern mansions.

QUORNDON, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Barrow, hundred of West Goscote Leicester, 1¼ mile from Mountsorrel, and 106 from London; containing 244 houses and 1257 inhabitants.

QUOTHQUON, a parish in the shire of Lanark, Scotland, united with Libberton, which see,

QUOTHQUON LAW, a hill in the parish of Libberton, shire of Lanark, Scotland, about 60 feet above the Clyde, on which is a large rough stone, hollow in the middle, called Wallace's Chair.

RAA RAD

RAASAY, a considerable island of the Hebrides, lying between the main land of Scotland, and the Isle of Sky, about 12 miles long, and from 2½ to 5 broad. It is annexed to the parish of Portree, and the shire of Inverness. At the north end stands Castle Broichin, situated on a lime-stone rock, which was the chief seat of the ancestors of the lairds of Raasay.

RABBIT ISLAND, in the county of Kerry, province of Munster, Ireland, lying west of Innisfallen. It is chiefly remarkable for its quarries of lime-stone.

RABY, a hamlet in the parish of Staindrop, in Darlington ward, Durham, and separated from Staindrop, by a rivulet that runs into the Tees. It contains 35 houses and 213 inhabitants. Raby Castle, the seat of the earl of Darlington, is a most magnificent but irregular built mansion. It was erected by John De Neville, about the year 1378, and was once the property of the see of Durham. In the reign of Edward III. it was permitted to be embattled and made a fortress. It was, at different times, in the possession of the Bulmers, the Cliffords, and the Nevills: a tower, at present bearing the name of the former, and a gateway that of the latter. It is surrounded with a deep moat, and lofty walls; the building, exclusive of the court, covering an acre of ground. The south front is built after a design of Inigo Jones, and the whole of the numerous apartments, are furnished in the most elegant manner; the extensive grounds and plantations being equal to the magnificence of the mansion. In the autumn of 1806, the prince of Wales, on a visit here, was received with all the splendour and hospitality for which this castle was noted in feudal times.

RACKENFORD, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 8 miles from Tiverton, and 171 from London; containing 68 houses and 340 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

RACKHEATH, a hamlet adjoining Norwich, in the hundred of Taverham, Norfolk; containing 31 houses and 189 inhabitants.

RACTON, a parish in the hundred of Westbourn and Singleton, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 6 miles from Chichester, and 67 from London; containing 16 houses and 111 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* united with Lordington, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Chichester.

RADBOURN, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 3 miles from Derby, and 129 from London; containing 46 houses and 270 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

RADBOURN LOWER and UPPER, 2 small hamlets in the parish of Ladbrook, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Southam, and 79 from London; containing 6 houses and 32 inhabitants.

RADBROOK, a hamlet in the parish of Quainton, in Gloucestershire, and included therewith:

RADCLIFFE, or RATTLEY, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 1½ mile from Buckingham, and 58 from London; containing 47 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

RADCLIFFE, a parish in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 5½ miles from Manchester, and 186 from London; containing 451 houses, and 2497 inhabitants, viz. 1276 males, and 1221 females, of whom 1584 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 5*d.*

RADCOT, a hamlet in the parish of Clanfield, hundred of Bampton, Oxford, situated near the river Isis, over which it has a bridge to Farringdon, being distant from that place 2½ miles, and 3½ from Bampton in the Bush. It contains 6 houses, and 31 inhabitants.

RADFIELD, the name of a hundred in the county of Cambridge, on the eastern side of the county, south of New-market.

RADFORD SEMELEY, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 4 miles from Warwick, and 86 from London; containing 74 houses and 400 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 16*s.*

RADFORD, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow Notts, 1½ mile from Nottingham, and 125½ from London; containing 454 houses and 2269 inhabitants, viz. 1114 males and 1155 females, of whom 1205 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the King.

RADFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Church Enstone, hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 5 miles from Woodstock, and 57½ from London. Population included with Enstone.

RADIPOLE, a parish in the hundred of Colliford Tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 2 miles from Melcombe Regis, and 126 from London; containing 26 houses and 151 inhabitants. In this parish is situated the borough of Melcombe Regis, the church being a rectory, rated at 11*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* but it is now called the rectory of Melcombe Regis, with Radipole chapel annexed.

RADLEY, a parish in the hundred of Hormer, Berks, 2 miles from Abingdon, and 53 from London; containing 46 houses and 368 inhabitants. It is a Donative.

RADLOW, the name of a hundred in the county of Hereford, on the eastern point of the county, and borders of Worcester, reaching from the Malvern-hills to the city of Hereford.

RADMELL. See RODMELL, Sussex.

RADNORE, a hamlet in the parish of Cannock, hundred of Cuttleston, Stafford, situate in Cannock chace, 5 miles from Litchfield, and 123 from London; here, in the most solitary part of the forest, was erected a priory of Cistercians, in the reign of King Stephen, which was afterwards erected into an abbey, but removed to Stoneleigh in Warwickshire.

RADNAGE, a parish in the hundred of Desborough, Bucks, 5 miles from Wickham, and 34 from London; containing 58 houses and 306 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

RADNOR, a hamlet consisting of only 2 houses in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, situated on the river Dane, opposite to Congleton.

RADNOR, NEW, or MAESYFED-NEWYOLD, a borough and market-town, in Radnorshire, Wales, situated at the narrow entrance of a pass between 2 high pointed hills, 24 miles from Hereford, and 159 miles from London, by Worcester; containing 68 houses and 347 inhabitants. The town was formerly defended by a strong castle, and surrounded by a square wall with 4 gates, remnants of which are still visible, but the castle was destroyed and the town nearly burnt to the ground by Owen Glyndower, in the reign of Henry IV. It consists of one irregular built street. It was formerly the chief place in the county, and was a borough by prescription till the reign of Queen Elizabeth, who granted it a charter with many privileges, together with a manor containing 14 townships, and a jurisdiction extending 10 or 12 miles in circuit. The church stands on an eminence above the town, and is a very small edifice. The town-hall is a mean building. The corporation consists of a bailiff and 25 burgesses, and jointly with Rhayader and Knighton, sends one member to parliament. The town has a court of pleas for all actions without limitation, but the assizes are held at Presteigne. In the neighbourhood is a cataract, called Water break neck, so named from its precipitous descent into a vast hollow, surrounded by craggy declivities. The market is on Saturday. Fair October 18. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king. Lipscomb's Tour.

RADNOR OLD or MAESYFED-HEN a parish 2 miles from New Radnor, and sometimes called Pen-y-craig, from its situation on the summit of a high rock; it contains 75 houses and 355 inhabitants. The church is a large stone building, consisting of a Nave and Chancel. It has a remarkably large font, rudely carved on the outside. It is a rectory, value 35*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

RADNORSHIRE, a county of South Wales, bounded on the north by Montgomeryshire, on the east by Shropshire and Hereford, on the south and south-west by Brecknockshire, and on the north-west by Cardiganshire, being nearly triangular. Its greatest length is about 31 miles, and its breadth about 26, containing 326,400 acres of land, of which 85,000 are arable and 150,000 pasturage. It contains 1 borough, New Radnor, and two other market towns, Knighton and Presteigne. It is divided into six hundreds, viz. Colwyn, Kevenlys, Knighton, Paincastle, Radnor, and Rhaiadr, the whole containing 52 parishes, 3675 houses, inhabited by 19,050 persons, viz. 9347 males 9703 females, of whom 889 were employed in trade and manufacture, and 8620 in agriculture. It sends two members to parliament, one for the county, and one for the borough of New Radnor. The amount of assessment under the property tax in 1806, was 118,025*l.*; and the total amount of the poors rates in 1803, 10,982*l.* being at the rate of 5*s.* 8¼*d.* in the pound. This county lies in the diocese of St. David's, and province of Canterbury. The river Wye, which separates it from Brecknockshire, rises in Plynlimmon Hill, very near the source of the Severn, crossing the north eastern corner of the county, and giving name to the town of Rhaidergowy, or the fall of the Wye, where it is precipitated in a cataract, and thence flows into Herefordshire. Into the Wye flow several rivulets, crossing the county from the north, of which the principal is the Ython. Radnor has proportionally more cultivated land than most of the Welsh counties; its eastern and southern parts being tolerably level and productive of corn; the other parts are rude and mountainous, and chiefly employed in the rearing of cattle and sheep. The north-western angle is quite a desert, and almost impassable. The three principal towns lie in a cluster on the eastern side. The woods and hills abound with excellent game, and its copious streams with salmon, trout and grayling. The assizes are held at Presteigne.

RADSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 2 miles from Brackley, and 65 from London; containing 24 houses and 128 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RADWAY, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, near Southam, and 84 miles from London; containing 43 houses and 237 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 12*s.* and in the patronage of the king.

RADWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Bletsoe, hundred of Willey, Bedford, 5¾ miles from Bedford, and 55½ from London; containing 23 houses and 128 inhabitants.

RADWELL, a hamlet in Baldock, in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, situated on the river Rhea, 1¼ mile from Baldock, and 38½ from London; containing 10 houses and 58 inhabitants.

RADWINTER, a parish in the hundred of Freshwell, Essex, 4 miles from Saffron Walden and 42 from London; containing 135 houses and 650 inhabitants. Through this parish passed the Roman military road, called Ermine Street. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

RAFFORD, a parish in the shire of Elgin, Scotland, situated on the eastern bank of the river Findhorn, 5 miles from Forres and 18 from Fochaber; containing 222 houses and 1030 inhabitants. In this parish is a curious relic of antiquity, being a standing pillar near Forres, called Sweaos Stone. Its height above ground is 23 feet, and about 12 or 15 below, 3 feet 10 inches broad, and 1 foot 3 inches thick. On one side are numbers of rude figures of animals and armed men, with colours flying, some appear bound as captives, and others as conquerors. On the opposite side was a cross, included in a circle and raised above the surface of the stone. At the foot of the cross are two gigantic figures, and on one of the sides is some elegant fretwork. It is supposed to have been erected in memory of the peace, concluded between Malcolm and Canute in 1012, upon the final retreat of the Danes from the province of Moray, and the gigantic figures are supposed to represent those monarchs. Some years since when the ravages of time, had threatened its fall, lady Ann Campbell caused it to be set upright, and supported with several steps of freestone.

RAGLAND, the name of a hundred in the county of Monmouth, on the eastern side of the county, and borders of Gloucestershire, south of Monmouth.

RAGLAND, a parish in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, situated between Monmouth, and Usk, 139 miles from London; containing 95 houses and 510 inhabitants. Its castle is the most modern building of the kind in the county: it was once a place of great strength; and remarkable for having held out in the Royal cause under the marquis of Worcester, to the end of the civil wars of Charles I. It is a very extensive and noble ruin; near it are the remains of the citadel, a large octagonal tower encircled by a separate moat, and formerly joined to the castle by a drawbridge. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the duke of Beaufort.—Coxe's Tour in Monmouthshire.

RAGLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Arrow, near Alcester, Warwick, and included therewith.

RAGNALL, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Dunham, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 4 miles from Tuxford, and 139 from London; containing 29 houses and 155 inhabitants.

RAHENEY, a village in the county of Dublin, Ireland, 4 miles north from the metropolis.

RAINE, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 1¼ mile from Braintree, and 40 from London; containing 60 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

RAINFORD, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prescot, hundred of west Derby, Lancaster, 4 miles from Prescot, and 201 from London; containing 232 houses and 1185 inhabitants.

RAINHAM, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 4 miles from Romford, and 16 from London; containing 82 houses and 444 inhabitants. The marsh land on the banks of the Thames, distant about a mile, is extremly rich, and affords pasture to a number of cattle. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

RAINHAM, a parish in the hundred of Milton, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 3 miles from Chatham, and 31 from London; containing 119 houses and 722 inhabitants. It consists of one principal street, and the church contains several ancient monuments, particularly an elegant marble statue of one of the earls of Thanet, and under the chapel is a vault belonging to the same family. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*

RAINHAM EAST, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 4 miles from Fakenham, and 106 from London; containing 17 houses and 148 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

RAINHAM SOUTH, a parish ½ mile distant from the foregoing, and containing 13 houses and 100 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

RAINHAM WEST, another parish near the former, containing 56 houses and 262 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* united with Hoighton.

RAINHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Prescot, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, two miles from Prescot, and 199 from London; containing 80 houses and 402 inhabitants.

RAINOW, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 3 miles from Macclesfield, and 169 from London; containing 242 houses and 1390 inhabitants.

RAINTON EAST, a township in the parish of Houghton-le-Spring, in Easington Ward, Durham, 5 miles from Durham, and 267 from London; containing 61 houses and 294 inhabitants.

RAINTON WEST, another village in the same parish three-quarters of a mile distant from the foregoing, and 266 from London; containing 110 houses and 435 inhabitants.

RAINTON, a township in the parish of Topcliffe, Halliked wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Aldborough, and 213 from London; containing 68 houses and 331 inhabitants.

RAISEN MIDDLE, a parish in the hundred of Walsheroft, Lindsay division Lincoln, 1½ mile from Market Raisen, and 151 from London; containing 96 houses and 464 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* and the vicar is entitled to the tythe of home-brewed ale.

RAISEN MARKET, a market town and parish in the hundred of Walsheroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 12 miles from Lincoln, and 150 from London; containing 131 houses and 774 inhabitants. It is situated near the source of the river Ankolm, which is navigable. The market is on Thursday. Fair 6th October. It is a vicarage value 10*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

RAISEN WEST, a parish 1½ mile from the foregoing, containing 31 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s* 10*d.*

RAIT, a small village in the parish of Kilspindie, shire of Perth, Scotland, situated half way on the old road from Perth to Dundee.

RAITHBY, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1½ mile from Spilsby, and 135½ from London; containing 36 houses and 149 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RAME, a parish in the hundred of East, Cornwall 3¼ miles from Plymouth Dock, and 226 from London; containing 137 houses and 904 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

RAMHEAD, a projecting point of land on the south coast of Cornwall, in the preceding parish, 4 leagues north-east from the Eddystone Lighthouse, and 15 leagues east from the Lizard. Lat. 50°. 18′. 51″. Long. 4°. 12′ 29″. west.

RAMPISHAM, a parish in the hundred of Tollesford, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 5 miles from Beaminster, and 132 from London; containing 61 houses and 265 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* and is united with North Wraxall.

RAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Northstow, Cambridge, 6 miles from Cambridge, and 56½ from London; containing 97 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.*

RAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Basset Law, Notts, 4 miles from Retford, and 141 from London; containing 65 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 3*d.*

RAMSBURY, the name of a hundred in Wilts, on the eastern side of the county, bordering on Berkshire.

RAMSBURY, a parish, and once a market town, in the hundred of Ramsbury, Wilts, 5 miles from Hungerford, and 70 from London, near the river Kennet; containing 379 houses and 1963 inhabitants, of whom 500 were returned as being employed in various trades. It has long been noted for its excellent beer, great quantities of which are sent to London. This was anciently the see of a bishop united to Sherborn, and afterwards translated to Old Sarum. Many Roman antiquities have been found in the neighbourhood. The church is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* with Baydon chapel annexed.

RAMSDEN, a hamlet in the parish of Wilcot, hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 2½ miles from Witney, and 68 from London; containing 61 houses and 335 inhabitants.

RAMSDEN BELLHOUSE, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 3 miles from Billericay, and 26 from London; containing 49 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.*

RAMSDEN CRAYS, a parish in the same hundred, half a mile distant from the foregoing, containing 49 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

RAMSAY, a town and chapelry in the parish of St. Maughold's, Isle of Man, situated at the north-eastern coast of the island, 16 miles from Douglas, containing about 300 houses and 1610 inhabitants. The bay, which is spacious, affords good anchorage; but the present harbour is bad and only fit for small vessels. Near it is a lighthouse, the lower part of which is used as a prison. It has a neat chapel of ease erected about the year 1706. The mother church of St. Maughold, is situated near a celebrated promontory called St. Maugholds's Head. The entrance of the town is defended by a fort well planted with cannon. The lighthouse, Lat. 54°. 17′. and Long. 4°. 26′. west.

RAMSEY, alias MISELTOE, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 3 miles from Harwich, and 68 from London; containing 74 houses and 595 inhabitants. The church is a vicarage, value 15*l.* in the patronage of the king. In Malden water is Ramsey Island, which lies in this parish.

RAMSEY, a market town in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 11 miles from Huntingdon, and 68¾ from London, consisting principally of one long street, situated in the midst of fen lands; containing 341 houses and 1894 inhabitants. During the existence of its once extensive abbey it was called Ramsey the Rich. It afterwards became so poor that it lost its market for nearly a century. All that now remains of its once magnificent abbey, are the ruins of a gateway, and a statue of the founder Alwin, earl of the East Angles, cousin to king Edgar and son of Athelstan, holding a key and staff, or batoon, the symbols of his office. The abbot sat in parliament, and held the barony of Broughton. Geoffry de Mandeville, after expelling the monks, fortified the abbey for a castle, and was killed in a battle near the church, being shot by an arrow. The free-school, which was formerly well endowed with lands in the fens, is now in a ruinous state, and the ground mostly overflowed. A charity school for girls was founded here by John Dryden, a relation of the celebrated poet of that name. To the north of the town is a lake called Ramsey Mere, abounding in pike, perch, and eels. The market is on Saturday, and is well supplied with every kind of provision. Fair, 22d July. The church is a curacy.

RAMSEY, an island on the coast of Pembrokeshire, Wales, formerly the station for passengers to and from Ireland. It is about three quarters of a mile long, and half a mile broad. It forms the north point of St. Bride's bay. Carnaroot Point, the south-east angle of Ireland, is 16 leagues distant. Lat. 51. 55. Long. 5. 20. west.

RAMSGRAVE, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Blackburn, and 210 miles from London; containing 51 houses and 298 inhabitants.

RAMSGATE, a hamlet in the parish of St. Lawrence, in the Isle of Thanet, Kent, 5 miles south of Margate, and 73 from London, pleasantly situated in a valley, commanding a delightful prospect of the British Channel. Anciently it was but a mean fishing village, but it now contains 639 houses and 3110 inhabitants, viz. 1411 males and 1699 females, of whom 345 were returned as being employed in various trades. It has acquired its present respectability from its inhabitants about a century back entering largely in the Russian and East country trade, and, of late years from its fashionable resort as a sea bathing place. Many handsome buildings have been erected, and even a spacious new street for the accommodation of its numerous summer visitors, being the great rival of Margate. The pier built of Portland and Purbeck stone, at the expence of several hundred thousand pounds, is the most magnificent structure of the kind in the kingdom. It extends 800 feet into the sea before it forms an angle, and is 26 feet broad at the top. Its south front is a polygon, its angles five on a side, each 450 feet, with octagons of 60 feet at the ends, and the entrance 200 feet: this great work was began in 1749. This harbour is capable of admitting vessels of 500 tons. The pier forms the grand promenade. The bathing place lies in front of a long line of high chalky rocks at the back of the pier, composed of a reddish sand, soft and pleasant to the feet; it is furnished with machines in the same manner as at Margate. The rooms for the accommodation of the bathers are commodious, and there are four warm salt water baths, also a plunging and shower bath, with convenient rooms attached. The assembly-room is a neat fabric, near the harbour; with all the various coffee, tea, billiard, card, &c. rooms annexed; the whole is under the direction of the master of the ceremonies at Margate. There are several good hotels, and numerous lodging houses suited to every sort of company. The library in the high street is valuable and extensive, and adjoining it is an extensive stationary and toy shop. There is also another spacious and elegant library in Cliffe-street, Sion-hill. It has a handsome chapel erected in 1785, and consecrated by the archbishop of Canterbury in 1795, besides which there are several meeting-houses. The town is well paved, lighted, and watched; and has a court of request for the recovery of small debts. In addition to the many improvements within the last ten years, a new stone lighthouse has been built on the west head, furnished with patent lamps and reflectors, a handsome house for the harbour master, and various offices. A dry dock has also been formed with convenient suits of store-houses. About half a mile distant is East Cliffe Lodge, an elegant Gothic villa, enjoying the most picturesque views. The markets are on Wednesdays and Saturdays, supplied with every article of provision. The windmill, Lat. 51. 19. 49. Long. 1. 24. 20. east.

RAMSHOLT, a parish in the hundred of Wilford, Suffolk, near Woodbridge, containing 13 houses and 152 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RANBY, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Horncastle; containing 15 houses, and 68 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*.

RAND, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1¼ mile from Wragby, and 145 from London; containing 22 houses and 130 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l*. 5*s*. united with Fulnerby.

RANDWICK, a hamlet in the parish of Standish, hundred of Whitestone, Gloucester, 3 miles from Stroud, and 105 from London; containing 120 houses and 856 inhabitants.

RANGEWORTHY, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Thornbury, Gloucester, 2 miles from Wickwar, and 110 from London; containing 48 houses and 230 inhabitants.

RANSKILL, a hamlet in the parish of Blythe, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 5½ miles from East Retford, and 150 from London; containing 45 houses and 208 inhabitants.

RANTON, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 3½ miles from Stafford, and 143 from London; containing 54 houses and 300 inhabitants.

RANWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Acle, and 120 from London; containing 55 houses and 327 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l*. in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

RAPHOE, a small post town in the county of Donegal, province of Ulster, Ireland, 14 miles from Strabane, and 24 from Londonderry, at the foot of the Gorey mountains.

RASCATE, the name of a hundred in Gloucester, near the centre of the county, between Cirencester and Cheltenham.

RASKELF, a township in the parish of Easingwold, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 13 miles from York, and 212 from London; containing 71 houses and 338 inhabitants.

RASTRICK, a township in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Huddersfield, and 192 from London; containing 408 houses and 2053 inhabitants, viz. 1032 males and 1021 females, of whom 573 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

RATCLIFF, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 7 miles from Leicester, and 100 from London on the river Wreake; containing 21 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l*. 16*s*. 8*d*.

RATCLIFF CUEEY, a hamlet in the parish of Great Sheepey, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 2 miles from Atherstone, and 106 from London; containing 45 houses and 198 inhabitants.

RATCLIFF, a hamlet in the parish of Shadwell, hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, near the Thames, and about half a mile east of the Tower; containing 925 houses and 5666 inhabitants, viz. 2550 males and 3116 females, of whom 1309 were returned as being employed in various trades, manufactures, and handicraft.

RATCLIFF ON SORE, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, situated on the banks of the Sore, 8 miles from Loughborough, and 116 from London; containing 155 houses and 761 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*.

RATCLIFF ON TRENT, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, situated on the banks of the Trent, 8 miles from Nottingham, and 116 from London, on the borders of Leicestershire; containing 33 houses and 156 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l*. 12*s*. 6*d*.

RATHBY, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 4½ miles from Leicester, and 100 from London; containing 37 houses and 180 inhabitants.

RATHKEALE, a town in the county of Limerick, province of Munster, Ireland, situated on the river Deel, 14 miles from Adair. Its name implies it to have been once a Fort in a Wood, and several remains of fortifications are to be found in the town. There are also the ruins of an ancient priory.

RATHMELTON, a small post town, situated on Rathmelton Bay, in the county of Donegal, province of Ulster, Ireland, 20 miles west of Londonderry.

RATLEY, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5 miles from Kineton, and 79 from London; containing 45 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 12*s.* in the patronage of the king.

RATLINGHOPE, a parish in the hundred of Purslow, Salop, 3 miles from Church Stretton, and 158 from London; containing 38 houses and 223 inhabitants.

RATTERY, a parish in the hundred of Stanborough, Devon, 3 miles from Totness, and 198 from London; containing 47 houses and 451 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 10*s.*

RATTLESDEN, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 3 miles from Stow Market, and 79 from London; containing 98 houses and 814 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

RAVELY, GREAT and LITTLE, two hamlets in the parish of Upwood, hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 3 miles from Ramsey, and 66 from London; containing 31 houses and 191 inhabitants.

RAVENDALE EAST, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Grimsby, and 163 from London; containing 10 houses and 55 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5l.

RAVENDALE WEST, a hamlet to and adjoining the foregoing, containing 5 houses and 21 inhabitants.

RAVENGLASS, a market town in the parish of Muncaster, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, situated at the mouths of the rivers Irt and Eske, where they unite and form a harbour near the Irish sea, 24 miles from Cockermouth, and 284 from London. The town is well built, has a good charity school, and an extensive fishery. The population of this place was omitted to be returned. The market is on Saturday, and its fairs are the 8th June and 5th August.

RAVENHALL, a parish in the hundred of Witham, Essex, 2 miles from Witham, and 39 from London; containing 102 houses and 542 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

RAVENINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 4 miles from Beccles, and 111 from London; containing 24 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RAVENSDEN, a parish in the hundred of Barford, Bedford, 4 miles from Bedford, and 54 from London; containing 33 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.*

RAVENSTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Nobottle Grove, Northampton, 9 miles from Northampton, and 73 from London; containing 84 houses and 390 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Christ Church College, Oxford.

RAVENSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 5 miles from Newport Pagnell, and 55 from London; containing 73 houses and 381 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

RAVENSTONEDALE, a parish in East ward, Westmoreland, 5 miles from Kirby Stephen, and 260 from London; containing 224 houses and 1138 inhabitants. The church is a small but neat structure rebuilt in 1744, and has a square tower containing three bells. There is a handsome meeting house, for Calvinistic dissenters, whose minister has established a Sunday school. The grammar-school was rebuilt in 1758, and was originally well endowed. Many of the men, women, and children are employed, during the the winter, in knitting worsted stockings for the market at Kendal. On the top of Wild Boar Fell, a remarkable high mountain, there is often a curious phenomenon called a Helm Wind, being a rolling cloud floating sometimes for several days, when every other part of the sky is perfectly serene, from whence issues a violent hurricane down the sides of the hill, threatening destruction to all before it. The church is a perpetual curacy, in the patronage of the earl of Lonsdale, who is lord of the manor.—Monthly Magazine, 1801.

RAVENSWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Chester-le-street, in Chester ward, Durham, 5 miles from Gateshead, and 271 from London; containing 34 houses and 160 inhabitants.

RAVENSWORTH. See KIRBY RAVENSWORTH, north riding of York.

RAVINGSTON, a parish situated partly in the hundred of Repton, and Gresslv, Derbyshire, and partly in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 117 from London; containing 108 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of the king.

RAUCEBY, NORTH and SOUTH, two united parishes in the hundred of Flexwell, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Sleaford, and 118 from London; containing 48 houses and 287 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 11*d.*

RAUGHTON, a township in the parish of Dalston, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, near Carlisle, and 302 miles from London; containing 44 houses and 206 inhabitants.

RAUNDS, a parish in the hundred of Higham Ferrers, Northampton, 3¼ miles from Higham Ferrers, and 68 from London; containing 179 houses and 890 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the king.

RAWCLIFF, a township in the parish of St. Michael's, Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 3 miles from Garstang, and 224 from London. It consists of two hamlets called Upper and Lower; the former containing 99 houses and 494 inhabitants, and the latter 86 houses and 413 inhabitants.

RAWCLIFF, a township in the parish of Snaith, in Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, situated on the river Aire, 2 miles from Snaith, and 176 from London; containing 226 houses and 920 inhabitants. It is a chapelry.

RAWDON, a township in the parish of Guisely, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Bradford, and 201 from London; containing 217 houses and 1115 inhabitants.

Rawmarsh, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 2¼ miles from Rotherham, and 160 from London; containing 210 houses and 1011 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Rawreth, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 6 miles from Rochford, and 32 from London; containing 33 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

Raydon, a parish in the hundred of Sansford, Suffolk, 8 miles from Ipswich, and 62 from London; containing 73 houses and 367 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with Southwold chapel annexed.

Rayleigh, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 4 miles from Rochford, and 35 from London, situated upon a creek called Hadley bay; it contains 164 houses and 897 inhabitants. It has a fair on Trinity Monday, and is a rectory, value 17*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

Rea, a river in Worcestershire and Staffordshire, which falls into the Tame, near Yarnton Hall.

Read, a township in the parish of Whally, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 7 miles from Haslingden, and 210 from London; containing 42 houses and 311 inhabitants.

Reading, the name of a hundred in Berks, bounded on the north by the Thames, and the south and east by the Kennet, which joins the Thames at Reading.

Reading, a borough and market town, in the hundred of Reading, Berks, situated on the river Kennet, which joins the Thames a little below the town, 37 miles from London. It consists of three parishes, and contains 1751 houses and 9742 inhabitants, viz. 4642 males and 5100 females, of whom 2496 were returned as being employed in trade. Its name is supposed to have been derived from the British word Redin, signifying fern which formerly abounded here. Each parish has its church; and the town contains several meeting houses. There is a neat stone bridge over the river, erected in 1788. Reading sends 2 members to parliament, who are chosen by the inhabitants paying scot and lot, the number of voters being about 650. It is governed by a mayor (who is the returning officer), recorder, 12 aldermen, and 12 burgesses, &c. Here are constantly held the Lent assizes, and the Epiphany county sessions. The nomination of the county members is made at this town, but the election is held at Abingdon. In 1785, an act of Parliament was obtained for new paving the streets, which together with the new market, on the west side of the old market place, erected in 1800, has greatly improved the town; and many of the streets are wide, and some of the houses handsome. The Kennett, in passing through the town, exclusive of the main stream, has two branches which fall into it, on which are several considerable flour mills. Great quantities of corn, flour, and timber, are conveyed hence to London by barges. Its principal manufactures are sacking, sail cloth, blankets, ribbons, and pins. On Bullmarsh Heath there are annual horse races, the third Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, in August. Here is also a small theatre. The principal market days are on Saturday, for corn, cattle, and provisions; and on Wednesdays, for provisions, poultry, fruit, vegetables, &c.—Its fairs are Candlemas day for horses, May day for horses and cows, and on St. James's and St. Matthew's days for all kinds of cattle and goods, and on the latter a statute fair. St. Giles's is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the King. St. Lawrence's, is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of St. John's College, Oxford: and St. Mary's, a vicarage, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the king.—Coates's History of Reading.

Rearsby, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 7 miles from Leicester; containing 87 houses and 445 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

Reaveley, a hamlet in the parish of Ingram, Coquetdale Ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Wooler, and 316 from London; containing 10 houses and 55 inhabitants.

Reay, a parish partly situated in the shire of Sutherland, and partly in that of Caithness, Scotland, 6 miles from Thurso; containing 437 houses and 2406 inhabitants. It is watered by the rivers Halladale and Forse. The hill of Beinn-Reay, is computed to have an elevation of a mile perpendicular.

Reculver, a parish in the hundred of Bleangate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 8 miles from Canterbury, and 64 from London; containing 44 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is separated from the Isle of Thanet, by the rivulet called the Yenlade, which runs into the sea, and it is supposed to have been the Regulbium of the Romans. The kings of Kent, are said to have had formerly a palace here. It is remarkable for its church, an ancient structure, having two spires, called the two sisters; a noted land mark to mariners. It was erected by the Abbess of Feversham, who caused its lofty spires to be called the sisters, in memory of her affection for a sister who was wrecked here in company with her, and died a few hours afterwards of fear and fatigue. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

Redbornstoke, the name of a hundred in Bedford, on the western side of the county, bordering on Bucks.

Redbridge, the name of a hundred in Hants, on the western side of the county, west of Southampton.

Redburn, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 4 miles from St. Alban's, and 25½ from London; containing 239 houses and 1153 inhabitants. It consists of a street near a mile in length; in the neighbourhood were anciently several religious houses. It has fairs, the Wednesday after New Year's Day, and on Easter and Whit Wednesday. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 5*s.*

Redcar, a parish in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, near Stokesley, and 240 miles from London; containing 115 houses and 431 inhabitants.

Reddich, a hamlet in the parish of Tardebigg, near Bromesgrove, Worcestershire, noted for its manufactory of needles. Fair, 1st Monday in August.

Reddish, a township in the parish of Manchester, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Manchester, and 183 miles from London; containing 75 houses and 436 inhabitants.

Redenhall, a parish in the hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harleston, and 101 from London; containing 260 houses and 1459 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* with Harleston chapelry annexed.

Redgorton, a parish in the shire of Perth, Scotland, situated on the banks of the Tay and Almond, 4 miles from Perth; containing 286 houses and 2009 inhabitants, of whom 715 were returned as being chiefly employed in manufactures. Cromwell Park is an extensive cotton and printfield; the hamlet of Stanley has a cotton work, and Pitcairn-Green and Battleby, are chiefly inhabited by cotton weavers.

Redgrave, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Botesdale, and 87½ from London; containing 78 houses and 530 inhabitants. Its church is reckoned worthy the attention of the curious, and many of its monuments for beauty of marble and sculpture, are not to be exceeded by any in the kingdom. The church has lately been adorned with a neat new steeple, of white brick. The living was one of the early preferments of Cardinal Wolsey. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* and is united with Botesdale.

Redisham Great, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bungay, and 104 from London; containing 19 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Redisham Little, a hamlet in the parish of Ringfield, 1 mile from the foregoing.

Redlingfield, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Eye, and 86 from London; containing 24 houses and 212 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Redmarley Dabitot, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, near Upton, 115½ miles from London; containing 126 houses and 689 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Redmarshall, a parish in Stockton Ward, Durham, 3 miles from Stockton, and 251 from London; containing 9 houses and 60 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* and the patron is the bishop of Durham.

Redmill, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 11 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 112 from London; containing 54 houses and 301 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Rutland.

Redmire, a township and chapelry in the parish of Wensley, Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Leyburn, and 240 from London; containing 70 houses and 320 inhabitants.

Redruth, a market town and parish in the hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 4 miles from Truro, and 263 from London; containing 648 houses and 4924 inhabitants, viz. 2287 males and 1637 females, of whom 948 were returned as being employed in trade, it being situated in the midst of many productive mines. Besides the church of St. Uny without the town, it has a methodist and quakers meeting houses. The market is on Tuesday and Friday, and its fairs are second May and 5th September. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

Redwick, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, near the Severn, 9 miles from Bristol, and 124 from London; containing 22 houses, and 137 inhabitants Redwick, a hamlet in the parish of Major, hundred of Caldicot, Monmouth, 7 miles from Caerleon, and 247 from London; containing 35 houses and 171 inhabitants.

Redworth, a township in the parish of Heighington, Darlington Ward, Durham, 7 miles from Darlington, and 250 from London; containing 69 houses and 322 inhabitants.

Reed, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 4 miles from Royston, and 33 from London; containing 30 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Reede, a parish in the hundred of Thingoe, Suffolk, 7 miles from Bury, and 66 from London; containing 30 houses and 161 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 2*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Reedham, a parish in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Yarmouth, and 220 from London; containing 46 houses and 376 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.*

Reedness, a township in the parish of Whitgift, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Howden, and 178 from London; containing 104 houses and 520 inhabitants.

Reepham, a market town and parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, seated on the river Eyne, 13 miles from Norwich, and 113 from London; containing 40 houses and 284 inhabitants. It is remarkable for having had antiently three churches, one in Reepham, another in Whitwell, and another in Hacton, (two villages adjoining) all in one church-yard; the latter was burned down about the year 1500. The chief trade of this little town is in malt. The market is on Saturday; and it has a fair 29th June. St. Michael's and St. Mary's is a united rectory, value 18*l.* 1*s.*

Reigate, the name of a hundred in the county of Surry, lying on the southern side of the county, between the hundreds of Wooten and Tandridge, and bordering on Sussex.

Reigate or Rygate, a borough, market town and parish in the hundred of Reigate, Surry, 13 miles from Kingston, and 21 from London; containing 407 houses and 2246 inhabitants, of whom 234 were returned as being employed in trade. The town is seated in a pleasant valley called Holmsdale, and its name is supposed to have been derived from a Saxon word signifying the course of a river, it being seated on a branch of the Mole. A gate and some small remains are still to be seen of Holms Castle, built by the earls of Warren, and in which the turbulent barons are said to have held frequent meetings. This castle was forfeited by Lord Monson, during the civil wars. In the reign of King William it was granted to lord Somers. The beautiful modern mansion called the Priory, was built on the site of its ancient Friary erected by the earl of Warren and Surry, in the reign of King John. The market house was formerly a chapel, dedicated to Thomas à Becket. This borough has sent members to parliament ever since the 23d of Edward I. the right of election being in the freeholders of the borough. The town gives title of baron to the earl of Peterborough. The neighbourhood abounds with fullers earth and medicinal springs. Market on Tuesdays, besides a monthly one on Wednesday: and its fairs are Whit Monday, and 14th September. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*—Manning's Surry.

Reith, a township in the parish of Grinton, Gilling west wapentake, north riding of York, 8 miles from Richmond, and 242 from London; containing 200 houses and 1128 inhabitants. It has fairs the Friday before Palm Sunday, Friday se'nnight before 12th May, Friday before 12th August, and Friday se'nnight before 22d November.

Remenham, a parish in the hundred of Beynhurst, Berks, 2 miles from Henley, and 34 from London; containing 56 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of Jesus College, Cambridge.

Rempston, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliffe, Notts, 11 miles from Nottingham, and 118 from London; containing 57 houses and 324 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

Remney, a river separating Glamorgan and Monmouthshire, which falls into the mouth of the Severn near Cardiff.

Rendcomb, a parish in the hundred of Rapsgate, Gloucester, 6 miles from Cirencester, and 95 from London; containing only 28 houses and 174 inhabitants, although the parish is nearly 7 miles in compass. The church is a handsome structure, erected in the reign of Henry VIII. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Rendham, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 4 miles from Framlingham, and 92 from London; containing 39 houses and 367 inhabitants. It is a vicarage not in charge.

Rendlesham, a parish in the hundred of Loes, Suffolk, 4½ miles from Woodbridge, and 81 from London; containing 27 houses and 216 inhabitants; this was the residence of several of the Kings of the East Angles, and in the reign of Edward I. was a market town. The living is a vicarage, value 24*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the King.

Renfrew, the county town of Renfrewshire, Scotland, pleasantly situated on the river Cart, 5 miles west of Glasgow, and 3 north of Paisley. It consists of one narrow street about half-a mile long, with several bye lanes; containing 426 houses and 2031 inhabitants, viz. 962 males and 1069 females, of whom 292 were returned as being employed in trade; but the commerce of the town is very inconsiderable, although its local situation is well adapted thereto; the principal branch of trade is in the manufacture of thread, but there are also extensive soap and candle works, and about 100 looms employed in the silk and muslin weaving. The town is of great antiquity, and was made a royal borough by king Robert II. who had a palace there. It has received several charters and grants from succeeding princes, and is now governed by a provost, two bailies, and 16 counsellors, who have the management of a revenue of about 360*l.* per annum, arising from various lands and fisheries. In conjunction with Glasgow, Dumbarton, and Ruthergien, it sends one member to the British Parliament.

Renfrewshire, a county of Scotland, sometimes called Strathgryfe, from its lying on the banks of the river Gryfe, bounded on the east by Lanarkshire, on the south by Ayr, and on the remaining sides washed by the Frith of Clyde, which forms several excellent creeks and bays; the whole extent is about 28 miles in length, and from 10 to 24 in breadth. It contains 17 parochial districts, one royal burgh Renfrew, and several large towns, as Paisley, Greenock, and Port Glasgow, besides a number of populous villages, the whole containing 7857 houses and 78,058 inhabitants, viz. 36,068 males and 41,988 females, of whom 21,746 were returned as being employed in various trades, handicraft and manufacture, and 3894 in agriculture. The face of the country is varied with hill and dale, wood and water, but the greater part of the soil is barren and inclining to moor; on the banks of the Clyde it is fertile, and noted for the excellence of its grass. The inhabitants are much devoted to trade, and most of the towns and villages are engaged in the cotton and linen manufactures. The vicinity of the populous town of Paisley presents a most diversified scene, of beautiful villas, corn-fields, hills, dales, and patches of wood.—Lettices Letters.

Renhold, a parish in the hundred of Barford, Bedford, 3 miles from Bedford, and 56

from London; containing 34 houses and 245 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

Rennington, a township in the parish of Embleton, Bamborough Ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Alnwick, and 313 from London; containing 58 houses and 252 inhabitants.

Renwick, a parish in Leath ward, Cumberland, situated on the river Raven, 3 miles from Kirkoswald, and 295 from London; containing 38 houses and 201 inhabitants. Its church was rebuilt in 1733; and is a curacy.

Repham, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Lincoln, and 137 from London; containing 32 houses and 183 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Repps, a parish in the hundred of West Flegg, Norfolk, near Caistor, and 123 miles from London; containing 29 houses and 182 inhabitants. It is a curacy, with Bastwick chapel annexed.

Repton, the name of a hundred in the county of Derby, being the southern point of the county, divided from Staffordshire by the Trent.

Repton, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, 4 miles from Burton on Trent, and 124 from London; containing 228 houses and 1424 inhabitants, of whom 224 were returned as being employed in trade. It was formerly much more populous, and was once a market town, as appears from a stone cross still standing in a broad street near the church, which is a handsome Gothic building, with a high spire. It contains many handsome monuments. At the east end is a free school, part of its walls appearing to have belonged to the ancient monastery here. The living is a curacy, with Bretby chapel annexed.—Pilkington's Derbyshire.

Reston, a parish in the hundred of Louth Eske, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Louth, and 150 from London; containing 9 houses and 50 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Retford East, a borough, market town and parish, in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, situated near the river Idle, 7 miles from Tuxford, and 145 from London; containing 421 houses and 1948 inhabitants. The town is tolerably well built, has a good free grammar school and a town hall, in which the sessions are held for the town and county, and beneath are very convenient shambles. This town receives considerable benefit from its great thoroughfare on the north road. The environs abound in hop plantations, and a canal to the Trent passes near the town. It is incorporated under two bailiffs, a steward, and 12 aldermen, and sends two members to parliament; the returning officers being the two bailiffs; the right of election is in the corporation and an indefinite number of freemen. Its market is on Saturday, and is well supplied with hops, corn, malt, and provisions: and its fairs are 23d March, and 2d October. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 5*s.*

Retford West, a parish near the foregoing, and to which it communicates by a stone bridge over the river Idle, and contains 127 houses and 483 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the corporation.

Revelstock, a township and chapelry in the parish of Yealmpton, hundred of Plympton, Devon, 6 miles from Modbury, and 213 from London: containing 75 houses and 417 inhabitants.

Revesby, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 12 miles from Boston, and 129 from London; containing 99 houses and 498 inhabitants.—The seat of sir Joseph Banks here, was formerly a Cistertian Abbey. It is a curacy.

Rewe, a parish in the hundred of Wonford, Devon, 4½ miles from Exeter, and 173 from London; containing 19 houses and 129 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

Reydon, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 2 miles from Southwold, and 106 from London; containing 40 houses and 317 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with Southwold chapel annexed.

Reymerstone, a parish in the hundred of Mitford, Norfolk, 5 miles from East Dereham, and 96 from London; containing 31 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

Rhayader-Gwy, or Gowy, a market town in the parish of Nantmel, Radnorshire, Wales, 25 miles from Presteigne, and 178 from London; containing 79 houses and 374 inhabitants. It is situated on the river Wye, near a cataract whence it takes its name Rhaidr, signifying a fall of water. It is divided into four streets in the form of a cross, and anciently had a very considerable castle; part of the foundations may be still traced, especially to the south-east of the town, where it has a deep trench cut out of the solid rock, leading to the river. The quarter sessions were formerly held in this town, and a county gaol was also erected here on the site of the present meeting-house; but from the inability of the place to afford the necessary accommodation to the judges, the sessions have been long held at Presteigne (which has also another county gaol). In the center of the town stands the hall, a handsome modern square building of stone erected in 1768. The church is a respectable, modern structure, in the form of an oblong square, with a quadrangular stone tower and turrets. At the upper end of the town near the parsonage house, is a new built free school. On the Aberystwith road is a new stone bridge of one arch, the basis of which is formed by cutting through a hard rock called the Cataract. Near the town is a vast desert with dreary and irregular paths and mountains. The market on Wednesday is abundantly supplied with all kinds of provisions. Its fairs are 6th and 27th August, 26th September, first Wednesday after 10th October, and 3d December, for all kinds of cattle. It is a curacy.—Lipscomb's Tour in Wales

Rhoe Mickle, one of the Shetland isles belonging to the parish of Delting, situated on the south side of the main land; it is about 24 miles in circumference, and contains 14 houses and 83 inhabitants.

Rhonhouse, a village in the parish of Kelton, stewardry of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, 19 miles from Dumfries; containing 51 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is particularly noted for its annual fair or mart, held on the 17th June, O. S. on Kelton hill, much frequented by horse and cattle dealers. The village has also a weekly cattle market on Mondays, from October to January.

Rhoscolyn, a parish in Anglesey, Wales, 6 miles from Carnarvon, and 256 from London; containing 98 houses and 461 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bangor.

Rhuabon, a parish in Denbighshire, Wales, 6 miles from Wrexham, and 186 from London, near the Ellesmere canal; containing 964 houses and 4483 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph.

Rhuddlan, a village in Flintshire, Wales, 3 miles from Disert, and 220 from London; containing 89 houses and 594 inhabitants. It was formerly one of the most respectable towns in North Wales. It is situated on a flat in the midst of the vale of Clwyd, and was the residence of several of the Welsh princes. Detached towers of its once important castle are still standing. In 1283, queen Eleanor of England, was here delivered of a princess, where the king kept his Christmas; and in the same reign a parliament was also held here. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph. —Pennant's Tour.

Ribbesford, a parish in the hundred of Doddington, Worcester, 1 mile from Bewdley, and 128 from London; containing 14 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is the mother church of Bewdley, and is a rectory, value 27*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* with Bewdley chapel annexed.

Ribbey, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 4 miles from Kirkham, and 229 from London; containing 59 houses and 307 inhabitants.

Ribble, a river which rises in the west riding of Yorkshire, crosses Lancashire, and falls into the Irish sea below Preston.

Ribchester, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 6 miles from Blackburn, and 215 from London; containing 232 houses and 1172 inhabitants, of whom 567 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is supposed to have been the Regodunum of the Romans. The rectory, value 39*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* is an impropriation, belonging to the bishop of Chester.

Ribleton, a hamlet in the parish of Preston, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 1 mile from Preston, and 217 from London; containing 28 houses and 152 inhabitants.

Ribston Great, a hamlet in the parish of Hunsingore, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Wetherby, and 198 from London; containing 20 houses and 121 inhabitants.

Ribston Little, a hamlet in the parish of Spofforth, ¾ mile distant from the foregoing, containing 39 houses and 181 inhabitants.

Riby, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Caistor, and 163 from London; containing 29 houses and 158 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*

Riccall, a parish in the wapentake of Ouze and Derwent, east riding of York, 4 miles from Selby, and 185 from London; containing 127 houses and 517 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* belonging to the prebend thereof in York cathedral.

Richard's Castle, a parish in the hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 7 miles from Leominster, and 144 from London; containing 75 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

Richborough, a hamlet to Elmerton, in the hundred of Preston, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 9 miles from Sandwich, and 67 from London. This was the Rutupium of the Romans, and a place of great importance till destroyed by the Danes in 1010. Some remains of its castle are still to be seen overgrown with ivy. Upon an eminence near the castle are the relics of an amphitheatre of turf.—Hasted's Kent.

Richmond, a parish in the hundred of Kingston, Surry, beautifully situated on the banks of the Thames, 8 miles from London; containing 823 houses and 4628 inhabitants, viz. 1969 males and 2659 females, of whom 541 were returned as being employed in trade. It was anciently called Sheen, which signifies in Saxon resplendent, from the beauty of its situation. The royal palace here was long the favourite residence of the British monarchs, but the site is now occupied by private houses held on lease under the crown. In the reign of Henry VIII. here were two parks, which appear soon afterwards to have been joined together. The new or great park, being 8 miles in circumference, and containing 2253 acres, was made by Charles I. The great lodge was built by sir Robert Walpole, at the expence of 14,000*l.* when he was ranger, in the reigns of George I. and II. The stone lodge was built by George I. after a design of the earl of Pembroke. In 1768, a very commodious observatory was erected near the park by his present majesty, and furnished with all kinds of astronomical instruments, on the most extensive scale. Part of the land is now converted into a dairy and grazing farm, and the remainder consists of gardens laid out with great taste, and adorned with many fanciful and grotesque buildings. The banks along the Thames form a noble terrace, extending the whole length of the gardens, in the south-east quarter of which a road leads to a sequestered spot in which is a cottage, a favourite retreat of her majesty. Many curious foreign and domestic birds and beasts are also kept here. These gardens are open to the public every Sunday, from Midsummer till towards the end of autumn. The church which was repaired and enlarged in 1750, has a square tower and 8 bells. At the west end of the north aile lie the remains of Thomson the poet, for many years a resident in Kew-foot Lane. There is a brass tablet, with an inscription to his memory, erected by the earl of Buchan, in 1792. Here is also interred the Rev. Gilbert Wakefield. An elegant stone bridge of five semi-circular arches, was built across the Thames, and finished in 1777. In the vineyard are queen Elizabeth's alms-houses, which formerly stood under the hill, for eight poor women: there are also alms-houses for ten poor men. On Richmond-hill there are likewise alms-houses for ten poor women, endowed by Duppa, bishop of Winchester, who lived here in a retired manner after the exile of Charles II. At the Marsh gate, distant 1¼ mile, are 9 alms-houses, endowed in 1758, for maiden women. The town runs up the hill above a mile from East Sheen to the new park, with the royal gardens sloping to the banks of the Thames. The summit of the hill commands a most beautiful and extensive prospect; at the foot of which is the seat of the duke of Buccleugh. The green is surrounded by lofty elms, at one corner of which is the Theatre-royal, open during the summer season. The church is a curacy, and was formerly a chapel to Kingston.—Lysons's Environs of London.

Richmond, a borough, market town, and parish, in the north riding of York, situated on the east side of a steep hill, by the side of the river Swale, which encompasses near half the town. It is 25 miles from Rippon, and 234 from London; and contains 559 houses and 2831 inhabitants, viz. 1213 males and 1648 females, of whom 457 were returned as being employed in various trades. Anciently the town was surrounded with walls, and had a strong castle erected by Alan, earl of Bretagne, nephew to William the Conqueror, who created him earl of Richmond, and bestowed upon him five wapentakes, and upwards of 100 parishes in the district called Richmondshire, for his gallantry in commanding the rear guard at the battle of Hastings. In the north part of the town stood a house of Grey-friars. Over the river is a good stone bridge. The Swale was held sacred by the Saxons, because, when first converted to christianity, upwards of 10,000 persons were baptised in it, by Paulinus, archbishop of York. The borough sends two members to parliament. It has 13 free companies of tradesmen, who annually choose the mayor on Hilary-day. The corporation consists of a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen, and 24 common council men. The right of election is in the burgage holders, having right of pasturage in a common field called White Cliff Pasture. Number of voters about 270. The town was annexed to the dutchy of Lancaster in the reign of Richard II. and the dukedom of Richmond was by Charles II. conferred on his natural son Charles Lenox, in whose descendants it yet remains. Many of the houses are well built of freestone, and the streets are paved. It has a good trade in yarn stockings and seamen's woollen caps. This place is also noted for its annual horse races. The market on Saturdays is well supplied with provisions and cattle, and its fairs are the Saturday before Palm Sunday, first Saturday in July, and September 14. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Rickerby, a hamlet in the parish of Stanwix, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 1 mile from Carlisle, and 305 from London; containing 12 houses and 85 inhabitants.

Rickinghall Inferior, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 2 miles from Botesdale, and 84 from London; containing 59 houses and 427 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

Rickinghall Superior, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 2 miles from Botesdale, and 84 from London; containing 117 houses and 565 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*

Rickling, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 4 miles from Saffron Walden, and 38 from London; containing 77 houses and 371 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Rickmansworth, a market town and parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, situated on the river Calne, at the south-western extremity of the county, 2½ miles from Watford, and 17 from London; containing 490 houses and 2975 inhabitants, viz. 1477 males, and 1498 females. It is a town of no trade, and is governed by two constables and two headboroughs. It has a charity-school and two alms-houses. Market on Saturdays; and its fairs are 20th July, Saturday before the 3d Monday in September, and on 24th November. The church is a vicarage, value 16*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Riddlesworth, a parish united with Garthorpe, in the hundred of Guilteross, Norfolk, 4 miles from East Harling, and 96 from London; containing only 13 houses and 67 inhabitants.

Ride, a hamlet in the parish of Binsted, in the Isle of Wight, situated on an eminence, 9 miles from Newport, and lying opposite Portsmouth, the view of Spithead gives the most pleasing effect. In the vicinity are a number of pleasant houses, frequented by respectable families during the summer season. Ride possesses many superior advantages to Cowes, as the beach is a beautiful sand, and so gently sloping, that at low water a boat cannot approach within 100 yards of the quay, and the passengers are landed in a cart.—Bullar's Isle of Wight.

Ridge, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 3½ miles from Barnet, and 14½ from London; containing 59 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Ridgmont, a parish in the hundred of Redbornestoke, Bedfordshire, 3 miles from Woburn, and 44 from London; containing 113 houses and 581 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* and is united with Segenhoe.

Ridgwell, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 5 miles from Clare, and 52 from London; containing 75 houses and 483 inhabitants. It was anciently of greater extent, and was a market town. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of Catherine Hall, Cambridge.

Ridley, a hamlet to Haltwhistle, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, near Haltwhistle, and 315 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 191 inhabitants.

Ridlington, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walsham, and 125 from London; containing 27 houses and 144 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Ridlington, a parish in the hundred of Martinsley, Rutland, 2½ miles from Uppingham, and 91 from London; containing 48 houses and 178 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Gainsborough.

Rigsby, a hamlet in the parish of Alford, hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1 mile from Alford, and 140 from London; containing 19 houses and 104 inhabitants.

Rigton, a township in the parish of Kirby Overblow, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Wetherby, and 198 from London; containing 78 houses and 414 inhabitants.

Rillington, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 4½ miles from Malton, and 221 from London; containing 84 houses and 380 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Rilstone, a township and chapelry in the parish of Burnsall, wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 7 miles from Settle, and 228 from London; containing 99 houses and 487 inhabitants.

Rimington, a parish in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 6 miles from Settle, and 236 from London; containing 99 houses and 457 inhabitants.

Rimpton, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, near Taunton, and 146 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

Rimswell, a hamlet in the parish of Owthorne, Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 4 miles from Patrington, and 197 from London; containing 22 houses and 107 inhabitants.

Ringfield, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bungay, and 106 from London; containing 21 houses and 194 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* and is united with Little Redsham.

Ringland, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 7 miles from Norwich, and 116 from London; containing 32 houses and 264 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 6*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Ringmer, a parish in the hundred of Ringmer, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 2½ miles from Lewes, and 48 from London; containing 163 houses and 897 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Ringmore, a parish in the hundred of Ermington, Devon, 3 miles from Modbury, and 210 from London; containing 54 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

Ringshall, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, 3 miles from Needham Market, and 75 from London; containing 43 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

Ringstead, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 5 miles from Burnham, and 127 from London; containing 47 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Christ church college, Cambridge.

Ringstead, a parish in the hundred of Higham Ferrers, Northampton, 4 miles from Higham Ferrers, and 69 from London; containing 86 houses and 454 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Ringswold, or Ringjole, a parish in the liberties of Dover, Kent, 6 miles from Dover, and 73 from London; containing 58 houses and 293 inhabitants. Between it and Deal on the coast is Walmer Castle. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* Lat. 51°. 11′. 8″. Long. 1°. 22′. 30.″east.

Ringwood, a market town and parish, in the division of New Forest, Hants, situated on the east side of the Avon, 17 miles from Romsey, and 90¼ from London: containing 671 houses and 3222 inhabitants, viz. 1524 males and 1698 females, of whom 909 were returned as being employed in various trades, &c. Many of the houses as well as the church are well built. This town has long been celebrated for the excellence of its ale, of which it exports considerable quantities: It also trades in leather, stockings, druggets, and some narrow cloths. The neighbouring meadows are frequently overflowed by the several streams into which the river is here divided. The market is on Wednesday, and its fairs are 10th July, and 11th December. It is a vicarage, value 75*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* with Harbridge chapel annexed, in the patronage of King's college, Cambridge.

RIPLEY, a township in the parish of Pentridge, hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 10 miles from Derby, and 136 from London; containing 194 houses and 1091 inhabitants. Fair, 23d October.

RIPLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Send, hundred of Woking, Surry, 6 miles from Guildford, in the road to Portsmouth, and 23¼ from London. It is a handsome little village, and has a neat chapel of ease. The population was returned included with Send.

RIPLEY, a market town and parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, situated on the river Nidd, 4 miles from Knaresborough, and 215 from London; containing 56 houses and 270 inhabitants. Market on Fridays, and fair 25th August. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*

RIPPINGALE, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Bourne, and 102 from London; containing 100 houses and 488 inhabitants.

RIPPLE, a parish in the hundred of Cornilo, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 2¾ miles from Deal, and 71 from London; containing 19 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

RIPPLE, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 4 miles from Tewksbury, and 108 from London; containing 130 houses and 679 inhabitants. It has a good charity school, and is a rectory, value 42*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Worcester.

RIPPLESMERE, the name of a hundred in Berks, at the eastern side of the county around Windsor Great Park.

RIPPON, a borough, market town, and parish, in the west riding of York, situated between the river Ure, and a small stream called the Skell, 6 miles from Boroughbridge, and 222 from London; containing 509 houses and 3211 inhabitants, viz. 1470 males, and 1741 females, of whom 618 were returned as being employed in various trades. The church is collegiate, under a dean, sub-dean, six prebends, 2 vicars, &c. It was formerly ornamented with steeples, but that in the middle, called St. Wilfrid's, being blown down in 1660, and doing considerable damage to the chancel, the others were removed soon after. The body was new built in Leland's time by one of the prebendaries, and the whole church has of late years been much improved. In the days of popery this church was noted for a straight passage leading into a close vaulted room, so contrived, that none could pass through it but such as were favoured. This passage was called St. Wilfrid's Needle, and was used to prove the chastity of any woman suspected of incontinence. There are several good endowments here belonging to the town, as hospitals and grammar-schools, particularly two hospitals, the one for widows, and the other for old maids. There are two good stone bridges, the one over the Ure of 13 arches is very stately. The market place is accounted one of the finest squares of the kind in England, and adorned with an obelisk, erected by John Aislabie, chancellor of the exchequer in the reign of George I. Its noted manufacture of spurs has long since fallen to decay, but two extensive cotton mills have been erected of late years, and employ a number of hands. On a common in the neighbourhood are some annual well-attended horse-races. The corporation consists of a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen, and 24 assistants. It sends 2 members to parliament, elected by the burgage holders, the number of voters being about 150, and the returning officer the mayor. The market is on Thursday, and its fairs are the 20th day after Christmas, Old May Day, first Thursday in June, All Souls Day, and 22d November. The town has the advantage of a navigable canal, and has a public bank.

RIPTON ABBOTTS, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 4 miles from Huntingdon, and 63 from London; containing 40 houses and 327 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* united with Weanington.

RIPTON KINGS, a parish 1½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 21 houses and 171 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the king.

RISBRIDGE, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, being the south-western point of the county, bordering on Cambridge and Essex.

RISBOROUGH, or MONKS RISBOROUGH, a market town and parish in the hundred of Aylesbury, Bucks, 4½ miles from Wendover, and 37 from London; containing 167 houses and 768 inhabitants. It received the name of Monk's Risborough, from its being assigned to the monks of Canterbury, by Eschevine, bishop of Dorchester, and there was an adjoining parish called Princes Risborough, where, according to tradition, Edward the black prince had large possessions. It contains 317 houses and 1554 inhabitants, and is a township belonging to the parish of Monks Risborough. The market is on Saturday, and a fair on Good Friday. It is a rectory, value 0*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

RISBY, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Glandford Brigg, and 157 miles from London; containing 48 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Roxby.

Risby, a parish in the hundred of Thingoe, Suffolk, 3 miles from Bury St. Edmund's, and 74 from London; containing 48 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

Rishangles, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 85 from London; containing 31 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

Rishton, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Blackburn, and 210 miles from London; containing 182 houses and 1051 inhabitants.

Rishworth, a township in the parish of Halifax, in Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 1½ mile from Halifax, and 197 from London; containing 159 houses, and 960 inhabitants.

Risley, a parish in the hundred of Stodden, Bedford, 10 miles from Bedford, and 60 from London; containing 108 houses and 576 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

Risley, a hamlet in the parish of Wilne, in the hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 7 miles from Derby, and 127 from London; containing 43 houses and 223 inhabitants.

Rissington Great, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 6 miles from Stow, and 76 from London; containing 63 houses and 349 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 5*s.*

Rissington Little, a parish in the same hundred, 1½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 47 houses and 227 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the King.

Ritton, a hamlet in the township of Nether Whitton, parish of Hartburn, and Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Morpeth, and 297 from London; containing 17 houses and 82 inhabitants.

Rivaux, a township in the parish of Helmsley, in Rydall division, north riding of York, 2¼ miles from Helmsley, and 224 from London; containing 42 houses and 223 inhabitants. Here was formerly a stately abbey.

River, a parish in the hundred of Bewsborough, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, near Dover, containing 68 houses and 555 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.*

Riverhead, a village in the hundred of Codsheath, lathe of Sutton, Kent, half-a-mile from Seven Oaks, and 22½ from London; containing 129 houses and 750 inhabitants. It takes its name from the head of the river Darent, in the neighbourhood. Near this village is Montreal, the residence of Lord Amherst, situated in the valley of Holmesdale. This house is called Montreal, from the late noble possessor having acquired from his military talents great honour in America, at a place of that name in 1760. This modern and elegant erection was completed in 1775, in the most superb stile. In the park is a column to perpetuate the happy meeting of the noble lord and his brother, who after having been engaged on different services in distant parts of the globe during the German war, met each other, on this their native spot.

Rivington, a township in the parish of Bolton-le-Moors, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 5 miles from Bolton, and 201 from London; containing 101 houses and 519 inhabitants; this place is noted for a peak on a very high hill, commanding a prospect of vast extent; it was used as a watch tower during the civil wars, and is now much resorted to in summer by parties of pleasure: here is a grammar school founded by the bishop of Durham, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Rixton, a township in the parish of Warrington, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Warrington, and 180 from London, on the banks of the Mersey; containing 154 houses and 861 inhabitants.

Roach, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 5 miles from St. Austle, and 247 from London; containing 183 houses and 954 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

Road, a township in the parish of Beckington, hundred of Frome, Somerset, 4 miles from Frome, and 109 from London; containing 188 houses and 927 inhabitants. Fair Monday after 29th August.

Roade, a township and chapelry in the parish of Collingtree, hundred of Cley, Northampton, 6 miles from Northampton, and 59 from London; containing 82 houses and 345 inhabitants.

Roath, a parish in the hundred of Kibbor, Glamorganshire, Wales, 1 mile from Cardiff, and 161 from London; containing 42 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a vicarage.

Robberindale, a township in the parish of Melling, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 7 miles from Lancaster, and 245 from London; containing 41 houses and 229 inhabitants.

Roberton, a parish situated in the western extremities of the shires of Roxborough and Selkirk, 5 miles from Hawicke; containing 123 houses and 620 inhabitants. The parish is watered by the rivers Borthwick and Ale, and is in a high state of cultivation.

Roboldsay, a small hamlet in the parish and hundred of Whitchurch, Dorsetshire.

Roborough, the name of a hundred in Devon, at the south-western extremity of the county, lying between the rivers Tamer and Plym.

Roborough, a parish in the hundred of Fremington, Devon, 4 miles from Black Torrington, and 193 from London; containing 73 houses and 461 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*

Roccliffe, a hamlet in the parish of Aldborough, Claro wapentake, west riding of York; 2 miles from Aldborough, and 210 from London; containing 32 houses and 206 inhabitants.

Rochester, a parish in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 4 miles from Uttoxeter, and 140 from London; containing 162 houses and 899 inhabitants. It is a vicarage; value 4*l.*

Rochdale, a market town and parish in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, situated in a valley or dale by the side of the river Roche, whence its name, 12 miles from Manchester, and 197 from London; containing 1672 houses and 9,031 inhabitants, viz. 4430 males and 4601 females, of whom 5045 were chiefly employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly in those of woollen, cotton and hats. Over the river is a neat stone bridge of 3 arches. The town consists of one long street, and the church stands upon a remarkable eminence, to which you ascend from the lower part of the town by a flight of 118 steps. It has a square tower with 8 bells, and a set of chimes, and in the church is a good organ. The hills called Blackstone Edge, under which the town lies, are for the greater part of the year, covered with snow, and the whole abound with excellent coal; besides the mother church, there is a neat chapel, a methodist and dissenting meeting houses, and a well endowed school for 30 boys, besides several charitable institutions. The parish is divided into several townships. It has a very large market on Tuesdays, and its fairs are 14th May, and 7th of November.

Roche, a river in Lancashire, which falls into the Irwell at Pilkington-park.

Rochester, a city containing 3 parishes in the lathe of Aylesford, Kent, situated in an angle of the river Medway, 7¼ miles from Maidstone, and 30 from London; containing 940 houses and 5645 inhabitants, exclusive of Stroud, viz. 2481 males and 3164 females, of whom 783 were employed in trade. It was called by the Britons Dourbrys, by the Romans Durobrivae, and by the Saxons Raffcaster from whence its present name. A church was first erected here about the year 600, by Ethelbert king of Kent, which was rebuilt about the 11th century by bishop Gundulph, and consecrated in 1130 by the archbishop of Canterbury, in the presence of Henry I. The present steeple was erected about the year 1749. Gundulph's Tower or the castle on the north side of the cathedral, is supposed to have been originally erected by that bishop, as a repository for the archives and treasures of the see. It was originally 60 feet high, but is now much reduced. The walls are 6 feet thick and enclose an area of 20 feet square. It was divided into 5 floors or stories of unequal height. The bridge over the Medway was formerly of wood, but toward the end of the 14th century it being in a ruinous state, the present one of stone was erected, at the joint expence of sir Robert Knolles and lord Cobham, who also contributed donations of land, which have been followed by many considerable benefactions, toward keeping the same in repair. This bridge is 560 feet long and 15 broad. It is formed with 11 arches, the largest being about 40 feet wide. The last repairs of the city walls and castle, appear to have been in the reign of Edward VI. from which time they have been suffered to go to decay. Several attempts have been made to pull the castle down, but it was found too durable to pay for the expence of rescaling the stones. This castle is so lofty that it may be seen at the distance of 30 miles. In the reign of Henry the III. an hospital for Lepers was founded here, and it being situated between Rochester and Chatham, its chapel is now used as a place of Worship for the latter town. The 2 towns are connected by a long row of buildings on a gentle eminence called the Bank. In the cemetery on the north side of the cathedral is the church belonging to the parish of St. Nicholas. The present fabric was erected about the year 1620. It is a very substantial building, the walls being of great thickness and supported on all sides by buttresses; it consists of a nave and 2 side ailes, which are separated by 2 ranges of lofty columns, from which spring the arches supporting the roof. At the entrance into the high street next the bridge, at a small distance from the town quay on the left, are the remains of St. Clement's church, now converted into dwelling-houses, and the parish is united with that of St. Nicholas. The episcopal palace is at Bromley, no bishop having resided here since the reformation. The town-hall erected in 1687, is a handsome brick structure, supported by stone columns of the Doric order, the area is paved with Purbeck stone, at the back part of which is the city gaol. The entrance to the hall is by a spacious staircase, the cieling of which as well as that of the hall, is curiously ornamented. Here the city business is transacted, and the assizes for the county sometimes held. The clock-house was built in 1686, at the expence of sir Cloudesley Shovel, who also gave the clock: the whole repaired and beautified at the city's expence in 1771. At the bottom of Cheldgate street stand a large and commodious poor house. The main street is wide and well paved, in it formerly stood the Corn-market cross. Near the Custom-house is a building founded for the reception of 6 poor travellers, who being neither Thieves nor Proctors, are to receive one night's lodging, food and 4*d.* each. Near this is a free school founded by sir Joseph Williamson, secretary of state to Charles II.

The river Medway has an excellent oyster fishery, and the mayor holds an admiralty court relating to the river, annually. The Roman road, called Watling-street, passes through this town from Shooter's-hill to Dover. The coporation consists of a mayor, 11 aldermen and 12 assistants, termed common-council-men, and a recorder and town-clerk. The mayor, recorder, senior aldermen, and late mayor, are justices of the peace, who are empowered to hold sessions and to hear and determine felonies committed within their limits, as well as to punish delinquents. The city sends 2 members to parliament, who are elected by the freemen at large. The number being above 600. The market is on Fridays, and its fairs are 30th May and 11th Dec. Lat. 51°. 26′. Long. 1°. 10″. West. —Hasted's, Kent.

Rochester, a township in the parish of Elsdon, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 25 miles from Corbridge, and 303 from London; containing 85 houses and 379 inhabitants.

Rochford, the name of a hundred in the county of Essex, on the south eastern shore of the county, bounded on the north by the Crouch, and the south by the Thames.

Rochford, a market town and parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, situated on a small river that runs into the Crouch 15 miles from Billericay, and 39 from London; containing 180 houses and 1228 inhabitants, of whom 111 were employed in trade, but the town has no manufacture. This place is rendered remarkable on record for its Laxless court held at twilight on the Wednesday morning after Michaelmas day, on a hill called Kings-hill, in the open air, where all the business is transacted in whispers and a coal used instead of pen and ink. Absentees forfeit double their rent. This place gives title of earl to the Zulestein family. The market is on Thursdays for cattle, corn, poultry, &c. And its fairs are Tuesday and Wednesday in Easter week, and the first Wednesday and Thursday after Michaelmas day. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*—Morant's Essex.

Rochford, a township and chapelry in the parish of Tenbury in Worcestershire, although situated in the hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 2 miles from Tenbury, and 132 from London; containing 47 houses and 258 inhabitants.

Rock, a township and chapelry in the parish of Embleton, in Bamburgh ward, Northumberland, situated on a commanding eminence, 4 miles from Alnwick and 314 from London; containing 30 houses and 160 inhabitants.

Rock, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 4½ miles from Bewdley and 124 from London; containing 62 houses and 352 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

Rockbear, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 6 miles from Exeter, and 162 from London; containing 78 houses and 419 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Exeter.

Rockburn, a parish in the hundred of Fordingbridge, New Forest division, Hants, 2½ miles from Fordingbridge, and 94 from London; containing 77 houses and 370 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the duke of Manchester.

Rockingham, a market town and parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, situated in the forest of Rockingham, on the river Welland, 5½ miles from Uppingham, and 83 from London; containing 49 houses and 213 inhabitants. Its forest was formerly noted for its extensive iron works, and it was reckoned one of the largest and richest in the kingdom. According to a survey made in 1641, its extent was 14 miles in length, and 5 in breadth. William the Conqueror erected a castle here, which was garrisoned by sir Lewis Watson, for king Charles I. who was created in 1644, Baron Rockingham. It is now the seat of lord Sondes. Its market on Thursdays is very inconsiderable. Fair 25th September. It is a curacy.

Rockfield, a parish in the hundred of Skenfreth, Monmouth, 2 miles from Monmouth, and 133 from London; containing 42 houses and 248 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value 4*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*

Rockhampton, a parish in the hundred of Langley and Swineshead, Gloucester, 2 miles from Thornbury, and 120 from London; containing 26 houses and 160 inhabitants.

Rockland, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 115 from London; containing 35 houses and 272 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of Queens college, Cambridge.

Rockland, All-saints and St. Andrews, an united parish, in the hundred of Shropham, Norfolk, 6 miles from East Harling, and 100 from London; containing 58 houses and 352 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Rockland St. Peters, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 5 miles from Watton and 101 from London; containing 32 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*

Rockliffe Castle, a hamlet in the parish of Church Rockliffe, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 4 miles from Carlisle, and 308 from London; containing 61 houses, and 296 inhabitants.

Rockliffe Church, the parish of the foregoing, half mile distant, containing 47 houses and 222 inhabitants.

Rockwardine, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 11 miles from Shrewsbury, and 150 from London; containing 366 houses and 1913 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RODBOROUGH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Minchin Hampton, hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 1 mile from Stroud, and 102 from London; containing 322 houses and 1658 inhabitants, of whom 393 were employed in various trades.

RODBURN CHENEY, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 2½ miles from Swindon, and 85 from London; containing 85 houses and 451 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.*

RODDAM, a hamlet in the parish of Ilderton, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland 4½ miles from Wooler, and 320 from London; containing 18 houses and 92 inhabitants.

RODDEN, a hamlet in the parish of Boynton in Wilts, situated in the hundred of Frome, Somersetshire, 2 miles from Frome and 103 from London; containing 36 houses and 200 inhabitants.

RODDON, a river in Shropshire, which falls into the Terne, near Withington and Roddington.

RODE NORTH, a hamlet to Gawsworth, in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 3 miles from Congleton, and 164 from London; containing 42 houses, and 256 inhabitants.

RODDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, on the river Roding, 6 miles from Shrewsbury, and 156 from London; containing 71 houses and 372 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

RODMARTON, a parish in the hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 5 miles from Minching Hampton, and 94 from London; containing 65 houses and 305 inhabitants, and is a rectory value 18*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

RODMELL, a parish in the hundred of Holmstrough, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Lewes, and 52 from London; containing 36 houses and 256 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 6*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester.

RODMERSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Milton, lathe of Scray, Kent, 11 miles from Rochester, and 40 from London; containing 39 houses and 237 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 30*l.*

RODNEY STOKE, or STOKE GIFFARD, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 5 miles from Axbridge, and 126 from London; containing 37 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

RODSLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Longford, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 9 miles from Derby, and 135 from London; containing 27 houses and 115 inhabitants.

RODSTOCK or RADSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Kilmersdon Somerset, 8½ miles from Bath, and 113 from London; containing 28 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 11*s.*

ROEHAMPTON, a hamlet in the parish of Putney, near Putney Common, Surry, containing many handsome villas. It has a very neat chapel, over the altar of which is an excellent painting of the Lord's Supper.

ROGART, a parish in the shire of Sutherland, Scotland, 10 miles from Dornock; containing 349 houses and 2022 inhabitants. The parish is about 10 miles square, and is composed of two valleys about 5 miles distant from each other.

ROGERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Wentloodge, Monmouth 2¾ miles from Newport, and 150 from London; containing 91 houses and 447 inhabitants.

ROGIATE, a parish in the hundred of Caldicote, Monmouth, on the banks of the Severn, 8 miles from Newport, and 140 from London. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 6*s.* and is united with Ifton.

ROKEBY, a parish in Gilling west wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Barnard Castle, and 243 from London; containing 28 houses and 185 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

ROLLESBY, a parish in the hundred of West Flegg, Norfolk, 6 miles from Caistor, and 125 from London; containing 46 houses and 420 inhabitants.

ROLLESTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Billesdon, hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 9 miles from Leicester and 90 from London; containing 9 houses and 43 inhabitants.

ROLLESTON, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 3 miles from Southwell, and 126 from London; containing 51 houses and 265 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

ROLLRIGHT GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 3 miles from Chipping Norton, and 77 from London; containing 75 houses and 403 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Brazen-nose college, Oxford.

ROLLRIGHT LITTLE, a hamlet to the foregoing 1½ mile distant containing 5 houses and 29 inhabitants.

ROLVENDEN, a parish in the hundred of Rolvenden, lathe of Scray, Kent, 2¾ miles from Tenterden, and 60 from London; containing 144 houses and 889 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester. Lat. 51°. 3′. 5″. Long. 0°. 37′. 50″. east.

ROMALDKIRK, a parish in Gilling West wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from Barnard Castle, and 253 from London; containing 65 houses, and 276 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 58*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

ROMANBY, a township in the parish of North Allerton, a division of Allertonshire, north riding of York ½ mile from Northallerton, and 225 from London; containing 54 houses and 250 inhabitants.

ROMANSLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 5 miles from South Moulton, and 187 from London; containing

28 houses and 156 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*

Romford, a market town in the parish of Hornchurch, Havering liberty, Essex, 12 miles from London, containing 522 houses and 3179 inhabitants, viz. 1433 males and 1746 females, of whom 461 were employed in trade, and 517 in agriculture. The chapel is a neat building, and it has also a dissenting meeting house, and several charitable foundations. This town together with Havering and Hornchurch, form the liberty of Havering Att Bower, an ancient demesne of the crown, and endowed with many privileges, such as holding a quarter session; having 2 justices and a high steward, who sits as justice of the peace to try felonies and trespasses, also a coroner, high and petty constables, clerk of the market, and inferior officers. On Whit Tuesday, a Court Leet is held annually by the justices and tenants to choose the different officers of the liberty. The sessions are held in a spacious court-house in the market place, where all business relative to the liberty is transacted. Here are cavalry barracks. Market on Mondays for hogs, Tuesdays for calves, sheep, and lambs, and on Wednesdays a general market for cattle corn, and provision. Its fair is held on Midsummer day, and two days following.

Romiley, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, near Altrincham, and 170 miles from London; containing 150 houses and 825 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Romney New, a borough and market town, in the lathe of Shepway, Kent, 7 miles from Hithe, and 71¼ from London; containing 122 houses and 755 inhabitants. This place has risen out of the ruins of Old Romney, though of such antiquity, that it is recorded to have been a flourishing town at the time of the conquest, having 5 parishes. The chief trade of this place is grazing cattle on Romney marsh, in the middle of which on a hill, stands the town. This marsh is a rich tract of land of about 50,000 acres, situated in the south-east part of the county, and defended from the encroachments of the sea, by an embankment or wall 3 miles in length, 20 feet high, 20 feet broad at the top, and near 300 feet at the bottom. Towards the sea, it is defended by piles and stakes at the expence of about 4000*l.* per annum, which is raised by an assessment on the proprietors of the marsh. This is called Dymchurch Wall, along which there is a good road for carriages. The corporation consists of a mayor, jurat, chamberlain, recorder, and town-clerk, and is one of the cinque ports, but its harbour has long been destroyed; near the church is a hall, newly built, where the court of the Cinque Ports are held: the members of this port are, Old Romney, Prom-hill, Lydd, Orlaston and Dungeness. It sends two members to parliament, the right of election being in the mayor, jurats, and commonalty; and the number of voters about 80: the returning officer is the mayor. The market is on Thursdays; and it has a fair 21st August. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of All Souls college, Oxford. The steeple, lat. 50°. 59′. 7″. Long. 0″. 56′. 22″. east.

Romney Old, a member of the Cinque Port of New Romney, from which it is distant about a mile; containing 19 houses and 109 inhabitants. It was once a place of note, and a sea port at the mouth of the Rother, but the river changing its course to Rye, and the sea receding, it has long since fallen to decay.

Romsey or Rumsey, a market town and parish in the hundred of King's Somborne, division of Andover, Hampshire, 7 miles from Southampton, and 73 from London; containing 849 houses and 4271 inhabitants, viz. 2021 males and 2243 females, of whom 618 were employed in various trades. It is situated on the river Test, which falls into Southampton bay and the canal from Southampton to Andover passes through the town. It was formerly noted for its monastery of Benedictines, founded by king Edgar, and the daughter of king Stephen was abbess thereof, when she was married to Matthew count D'Alsace; but after living with him 10 years, and having two children, she returned and immured herself in this place. The church formerly belonging to the nunnery, is a noble edifice, built in the form of a cross, and arched with stone of beautiful Saxon architecture, it contains several curious and ancient monuments, but the most singular curiosity is an apple tree, growing on the leads of the roof which produces good fruit; the origin of this tree is not remembered by the oldest inhabitant. The corporation consists of a mayor, recorder, 6 aldermen, and 12 capital burgesses. The principal trade of the town is in the manufacture of sacking and paper, and it has long been noted for the excellence of its ale. It has an almshouse for six widows, and a charity and free school. The market is on Saturdays, and is very large, for corn. Its fairs are Easter Monday, 26th August and 8th November, for cattle, cheese, and pedlary. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Winchester.—Warner's Hampshire.

Romsley, a hamlet in the parish of Bridgnorth, hundred of Stoddesden, Salop, near Bridgnorth, and 139 miles from London; containing 21 houses and 134 inhabitants.

Ronaldshay North, a small island of the Orkneys, about 2 miles long and 1 mile broad, 2 leagues north of Sanday Isle. It belongs to the parochial district of Cross and Burness, and contains about 420 inhabitants.

Ronaldshay South, the most southern of the Orkney Islands, being about 6 miles long and 3 broad, of a level surface and tolerably fertile. It has several excellent harbours, particularly at the village of St. Margaret's Hope. It contains about 1615 inhabitants.

Ronay, an island of the Hebrides lying between the main land of Scotland, and the Isle of Sky, belonging to the parish of Portree, being about 4 miles long and 2 broad, and is tolerably fertile.

Roothing, or Roding Barnish, a parish in the hundred of Dunmow, Essex, 3 miles from Dunmow, and 34 from London; situated as well as the 7 following villages, on the river Roothing or Roding; it contains 16 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Roothing Aythorp, a parish in the same hundred of Essex, ¾ mile distance from the foregoing, containing 33 houses and 259 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Roothing High, another parish in the same hundred, and near the foregoing containing 68 houses and 378 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

Roothing Leaden, another parish near the foregoing; containing 23 houses and 159 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Roothing Margaret, another parish containing 32 houses and 144 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Roothing White, another parish containing 58 houses and 381 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.*

Roothing Abbott, another parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, 9 miles from Epping, containing 37 houses and 205 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 10*s.*

Roothing Beauchamp, a parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 31 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is rectory, value 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Rope, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 2 miles from Nantwich, and 166 from London; containing 14 houses and 79 inhabitants.

Ropesley, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, Lincoln, 4 miles from Grantham and 109 from London; containing 68 houses and 321 inhabitants.

Ropley, a townhip in the parish of Bishops Sutton, division of Alton, Hants, 7½ miles from Alton, and 54 from London; containing 129 houses and 642 inhabitants.

Roscommon, a county of Ireland, in the province of Connaught, bounded on the east by the counties of Leitrim, Longford, and Meath, on the north by Sligo and Leitrim, on the south by Galway, and on the west by part of Galway, and Mayo, being about 47 miles in length, and from 9 to 29 in breadth, containing 17,140 houses and 86,000 inhabitants. It is a very fruitful county and yields exceilent corn, as well as pasturage, yet there are some extensive bogs; the face of the country is tolerably level, having but few hills. The chief town is Athlone, but the assizes are held at Roscommon, the shire town, situated 69 miles west north-west of Dublin.

Roscrea, a town in the county of Tipperary, province of Munster, Ireland, 59 miles from Dublin; about 2 miles distant are the singular ruins of Monaincha Abbey, situated in the center of the bog of Monela, on an island of about 3 acres, the ruins belonged to a Culdean monastery, and consists of two chapels and the priory church, and abbots apartments adjoining; there are several watch towers in the neighbourhood.

Roseacre a hamlet in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 3 miles from Kirkham and 226 from London; the population of which was included with that of Theale.

Rose-ash, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 5 miles from South-Moulton, and 176 from London; containing 59 houses and 397 inhabitants.

Rosedale East, a township in the parish of Middleton, in Pickering Lythe, north riding of York, near Pickering, and 226 miles from London; containing 51 houses and 257 inhabitants.

Rosedale West, a hamlet in the parish of Lastingham, in the division of Rydall, north riding of York, 9 miles from Pickering, and 234 from London; containing 26 houses and 117 inhabitants

Roseden, a hamlet in the parish of Ilderton, in Coquetdale-ward, Northumberland, 2½ miles from Wooler, and 226 from London; containing 9 houses and 59 inhabitants.

Rosehearty, a hamlet in the parish of Pitsligo, shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 4 miles from Fraserburgh; containing 42 houses and 213 inhabitants, mostly employed in the fishery.

Rose-market, a small village, in the hundred of Roos, Pembrokeshire Wales, 4 miles from Haverford-west. It was once a considerable town, and had a market in the reign of Henry I. When the sea overflowed a part of Flanders, a number of Flemings retired here and introduced the woollen manufactures; near it are the remains of Rose Castle, which was founded by them. It contains 76 houses and 317 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, and the patron is the Prince of Wales.

Rosmarkie, a parish in the shire of Ross, Scotland, lying on the shore of the Frith of Cromarty, 14 miles from Inverness; containing 271 houses and 1289 inhabitants, of whom 300 are residents of the town and 450 of the town of Chanonry, about 1 mile distant; to which it is united as a parochial district by charter of James II. under the name of Fortrose, which see. The coast is bold and rocky, and has many frightful precipices. The cliffs are covered with ivy; many of which are hollowed into extensive cavities, upwards of 50 yards under the land.

Rosneath, the most westerly parish of Dumbartonshire, being a peninsula in the form of a parallelogram, about 7 miles long and 2 broad, formed by Loch Long, the Frith of Clyde, and Loch Gair; it contains 124 houses and 632 inhabitants. The duke of Argyle had a large and elegant castle here, which was destroyed by fire in 1802.

Roslington, a village in the parish of Doncaster, in Doncaster Soke, west riding of York, adjoining to Doncaster, and containing 45 houses and 247 inhabitants.

Roslin, a hamlet in the parish of Lasswade, in the shire of Edinburgh, Scotland, remarkable for its ancient chapel and castle. The chapel was founded in 1446 by St. Clair, prince of Orkney and duke of Oldenburgh; the outside is curiously ornamented with sculpture. The roof is supported by 2 rows of pillars, the capitals of which are enriched with foliage, and a variety of figures, and amongst others, a cherub blowing the Highland bagpipe. The castle is seated on a peninsulated rock, on a deep glen, and accessible only by a bridge of great height: this was the favourite seat of the great family of Sinclair. It gives title of earl to the Wedderburn family.

Roslyston, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, 5 miles from Burton, and 123 from London; containing 49 houses and 255 inhabitants.

Ross, a market town and parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, seated on an eminence on the banks of the Wye, 12 miles from Hereford, and 115 from London; containing 521 houses and 2347 inhabitants, viz. 1094 males and 1253 females, of whom 481 were employed in trade. It was formerly noted for its manufacture of iron, but is now chiefly famous for its cyder. It was made a free borough by Henry III. the bishops of Hereford being its lords, where they had a castle and prison. The man of Ross celebrated by Pope, was John Kyrle, esq. who resided here, and spent his income in acts of utility and benevolence; he constructed a broad causeway at the west end of the town, raised the spire of the church 100 feet and enclosed a piece of ground with a stone wall, in which he sunk a reservoir: he died in 1724. The town is governed by a serjeant and 4 constables. It has two good charity schools. The market is on Thursdays, and its fairs are, Ascension day, Corpus Christi, from 20 to 25th July, October 10, and December 11, well supplied with cattle and provision. The rectory and vicarage are united, rated at 38*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Hereford, with Brompton and Weston chapels annexed.

Ross, a parish in Holderness, east riding of York, 5 miles from Patrington, and 198 from London; containing 46 houses and 272 inhabitants.

Ross or New Ross, a populous thriving town in the county of Wexford, province of Leinster, Ireland, seated on the river Barrow, 8 miles from Waterford, and 67 from Dublin. It has a considerable traffic in the export of provisions. The river is navigable for large vessels up to the quays, and forms an excellent harbour. It has a ferry across the river to Ross-Ibracan, a small hamlet of Kilkenny.

Ross Carbery, a small town in the county of Cork, province of Munster Ireland, seated on a bay of the ocean, 20 miles from Kinsale, and 152 from Dublin.

Ross Island, an island of about 100 acres, situated in the lake of Killarney, Munster, Ireland.

Ross-shire, a county of Scotland, bounded on the north by Sutherland, on the east by the ocean and the small county of Cromarty, on the south by Inverness, and on the west by the ocean, being nearly 80 miles in length and about the same number in breadth; containing three royal boroughs, Dingwall, Tain, Rosemarkie, and divided into 39 parochial districts, containing 11,014 houses and 52,291 inhabitants, viz. 24,143 males and 28,148 females, of whom 4589 were returned as being employed in various trades, and 23,097 in agriculture. The aspect of this county is rugged and mountainous, and many parts are covered with snow the whole year, but on the banks of the Lochs and Friths, there are many fertile spots. The lochs give rise to numerous rivers, the principal ones being the Conon, Orrin, Beaulieu, and Ockel, which afford plenty of fish. Most of the valleys are covered with wood, and the forest of Alfrag is now 20 miles long. Great numbers of black cattle, sheep and goats are fed on the hills, which also abound with game. The inhabitants mostly speak Gaelic, and wear the Highland dress. It sends one member to parliament.

Rosskeen, a parish in the shire of Ross, on the coast of the Frith of Cromarty, 12 miles from Dingwall; containing 498 houses and 2074 inhabitants. The parish extends 10 miles along the Frith, and at the village of Invergordon it has a convenient harbour, and a ferry to Cromarty.

Rosthern, a parish in the hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 3¼ miles from Knutsford, and 177 from London; containing 65 houses and 235 inhabitants.

Rostrevor, a village in the county of Down, province of Ulster, Ireland, seated on Carlingford bay, and well defended from the severity of the weather. At the lower end it has a quay for vessels which can ride at anchor a few yards from the shore. It has considerable salt work, and a pottery of white earthen ware.

Rothbury, a market town and parish in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, situated on the river Coquet, 29 miles from Newcastle, and 306 from London; containing 146 houses and 760 inhabitants. The church font is remarkable for its curious sculpture, and near the town are the appearances of a Roman station called Old Rothbury. It has a charity school, and a tolerable market on Fridays, with a fair on Trinity Monday. It is a rectory, value 58*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Rother, a river which rises in Sussex, and forms the boundary of that county from Kent for a short distance, and falls into the English Channel at Rye. Also the name of another river in Derbyshire and Yorkshire, which falls into the Don at Rotherham.

Rotherby, a parish in the hundred of East Gosco'e, Leicester, 6 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 105 from London; containing 18 houses and 95 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Rotherfield Grays, a parish in the hundred of Benfield, Oxford, 2½ miles from Henley-upon-Thames, and 37½ from London; containing 151 houses and 677 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Trinity College, Oxford.

Rotherfield Pepard, another parish in the same hundred as the preceding, and three quarters of a mile distant therefrom; containing 70 houses and 317 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Jesus College, Oxford.

Rotherfield, a parish in the hundred of Rotherfield, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 12 miles from Tunbridge Wells, and 44 from London; containing 269 houses and 1963 inhabitants. It has fairs the 18th June and 20th October; and is a rectory, value 27*l.* 12*s.* in the patronage of lord Abergavenny.

Rotherham, a market town and parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, situated near the conflux of the Rother and Don, 6 miles from Sheffield, and 158 from London; containing 678 houses and 3070 inhabitants, viz. 1448 males and 1622 females, of whom 968 were returned as being employed in trade and manufactures, particularly in those of iron and steel, and in a very extensive brewery. The church is a large building in the form of a cross, and it had an ancient chapel on the bridge over the Don. The bridge is now handsomely built of stone. Here is a bank. The market on Monday, is very considerable for cattle and corn, and its fairs are Whit Monday and 1st December. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

Rotherhithe, a parish in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, on the banks of the Thames, and sometimes reckoned a part of the borough of Southwark, 1½ mile east of London Bridge; containing 1690 houses and 10,296 inhabitants, viz. 4787 males and 5509 females, of whom 2059 were returned as being employed in various trades; principally in boat building, ship-chandlery, and the various avocations attendant on the navigation of the river Thames. Its ancient name was Red Rose Haven, but it is now generally called Redriff. The church is a plain building erected in 1714 by brief and subscription. It is a rectory, value 18*l.*

Rotherstuorpe, a parish in the hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 3 miles from Northampton, and 63 from London; containing 44 houses and 197 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 5*s.*

Rotherwick, a parish in the hundred of Odiham, and division of Basingstoke, Hampshire, 5 miles from Basingstoke, and 44 from London; containing 62 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Rothes, a parish in the shire of Moray, Scotland, on the north bank of the river Spey, 10 miles from Fochaber, containing 379 houses and 1521 inhabitants, but the village of Rothes contains only 300 inhabitants. Near the church, on the side of the hill, is a quantity of elegant red and white agate, capable of the highest polish.

Rothley, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 2 miles from Mount Sorrel, and 102 from London; containing 145 houses and 775 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 5*d.*

Rothley, a hamlet in the parish of Hartburn, in Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 20 miles from Newcastle, and 296 from London; containing 29 houses and 160 inhabitants.

Rothwell, a township in the parish of Giggleswick, in Staincliff and Ewcross wapentakes, west riding of York, 2½ miles from Settle, and 230 from London; containing 57 houses and 306 inhabitants.

Rothsay, a royal borough and parish in the isle of Bute, Scotland, 70 miles from Edinburgh; containing 592 houses and 5231 inhabitants, viz. 2495 males and 2736 females, of whom 4347 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly in the cotton branch. It has an excellent harbour at the bottom of an extensive bay, and a large herring fishery. About 40 years ago this town was considerably on the decline, but many new streets have been of late years built, and it is now in a thriving state. The ruins of its ancient castle are so completely covered with ivy, that few of its walls can be seen. The bedchambers and banqueting rooms of Robert the II. and III., the last Scotish monarchs, who inhabited this venerable pile, are still pointed out. It now belongs to the family of Bute, long the hereditary constables of the kingdom. Rothsay unites with Ayr, Irvine, Inverary, and Campbelltown in sending one member to the British parliament, and gives the Scotish title of Duke to the heir apparent of the crown.—Lettices's Letter.

Rothwell, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Grimsby, 170 miles from London; containing 32 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Rothwell, the name of a hundred in Northampton, on the north-western side of the county and borders of Leicestershire.

Rothwell, a parish in the hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, situated on the side of a rocky hill, 3½ miles from Kettering, and 78½ from London; containing 328 houses and 1409 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town, but the market house is gone to decay. The houses are mostly thatched. It has a fair the week after Whitsuntide, and is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.* with Orton chapel annexed.

ROTHWELL, a parish in Agbrigg wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Wakefield, and 188 from London; containing 341 houses and 1689 inhabitants. Here is the goal for the liberty of Pontefract. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 13*s.*

ROTTENDEN, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 7 miles from Billericay, and 30 from London; containing 72 houses and 419 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 32*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

ROTTINGDEAN, a parish in the hundred of Youngsmere, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 4 miles from Brighton on the road to Newhaven, and 56 from London; containing 89 houses and 543 inhabitants. It is remarkable for its wells which are commonly believed to be empty at high water, but rise as the tide declines. Of late it has been much frequented by company during the bathing season, particularly by those who prefer retirement to the bustle of Brighton, for whose accommodation many new lodging houses have been built, and several bathing machines. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.*

ROTTINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Bees, in Allerdale Ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 4 miles from Egremont, and 300 from London; containing 6 houses and 48 inhabitants.

ROUDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Shropham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harling, and 96 from London; containing 8 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the King.

ROUGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 3 miles from Bury St. Edmunds, and 71 from London; containing 70 houses and 607 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

ROUGHLEEBOOTH, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Colne, and 112 miles from London; containing 117 houses and 684 inhabitants.

ROUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Horncastle, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Tattersall, and 134 from London; containing 23 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* united with Haltham on Baine.

ROUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 6¼ miles from Aylsham, and 123 from London; containing 37 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

ROULSTON, a parish in the hundred of Ewias Lacey, Hereford, near the branch of the Monnow and borders of Monmouthshire, 12 miles from Hereford, and 142 from London; containing 24 houses and 138 inhabitants

ROUNDHAY, a hamlet in the parish of Berwick in Elmet, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Leeds, and 197 from London; containing 14 houses and 84 inhabitants.

ROUSAY, one of the Orkney Islands, about 9 miles long and 4 broad, lying to the north-west of the main land, consisting mostly of a range of hills; it contains 772 inhabitants, chiefly employed in the fisheries.

ROUSLENCH, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 6 miles from Alcester, and 109 from London; containing 44 houses and 231 inhabitants.

ROUSTON, a parish in the hundred of Flexwell, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 5 miles from Sleaford, and 121 from London; containing 19 houses and 100 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*

ROUTH, a parish in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 3 miles from Beverley, and 187 from London; containing 17 houses and 115 inhabitants.

ROWBARROW, the name of a hundred in Dorsetshire, being the south-eastern division of the Isle of Purbeck.

ROWBARROW, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 3 miles from Axbridge, and 134 from London; containing 37 houses and 249 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bristol.

ROWBOUND, a hamlet in the parish of Castle Sowerby, in Leath Ward, Cumberland, 2 miles from Heskett, and 296 from London; containing 18 houses and 104 inhabitants.

ROWDE, a parish in the hundred of Pottern and Canning, Wilts, 2 miles from Devizes, and 90 from London; containing 178 houses and 796 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.*

ROWELL, a hamlet in the parish of lower Guysting, hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 5 miles from Winchcombe, and 90 from London; containing 7 houses and 41 inhabitants.

ROWINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 5 miles from Warwick, and 95 from London; containing 151 houses and 852 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

ROWLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Bakewell, hundred of High Peak, Derby, near Bakewell, and 152 miles from London; containing 25 houses and 101 inhabitants.

ROWLEY, a parish in the wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 4 miles from South Cave, and 180 from London; containing 53 houses and 347 inhabitants.

ROWLEY KING'S, a township in the parish of Dudley, in Worcester, although situated in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 5 miles from Dudley, and 122 from London; containing 731 houses and 5027 inhabitants, viz. 2901 males and 2136 females, of whom 4700 where returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures.

ROWNER, a parish in the hundred of Titchfield, division of Portsdown, Hants, 5 miles from Fareham, and 75 from London; containing 14 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.*

Rowston West, a hamlet in the township of Rudby, in the parish of Hutton, in Allertonshire, north riding of York, 7 miles from North Allerton, and 232 from London; containing 50 houses and 226 inhabitants.

Rowston East, a village in Langborough wapentake, ½ mile distant from the preceding; containing 20 houses and 109 inhabitants.

Rowsley, a hamlet in the parish of Bakewell, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 2 miles from Bakewell, and 150 from London; containing 38 houses and 218 inhabitants.

Roxburgh, a shire of Scotland, bounded on the north by Berwickshire, on the east and south by England, and on the west by Dumfries and Selkirk, comprehending the ancient districts of Teviotdale and Liddisdale, so named from the rivers Teviot and Liddall which run through them. It is divided into 31 parishes, containing 6,156 houses and 33,682 inhabitants, viz. 15,813 males and 17,869 females; of whom 3,964 were returned as being employed in various trades, and 7,148 in agriculture. The north and western part of the county is mountainous, but the east and south is tolerably level and fertile, and the whole abounds with romantic scenery. Beside the rivers Tweed, Teviot, and Liddall, it is watered by the Ale, Jed, Slittrick, Rule, and Kail, which fall into the Tweed; and the Hermitage, Tweeden, Tmnis, Kershope, and Blackburn, which together with the Liddall, fall into the Solway Frith. The rivers Tyne and Coquet, also rise in this county. Roxburgshire contains one royal borough, viz. Jedburgh, and several considerable towns as Kelso, Hawick, Melrose, Castletown, and the small but ancient town of Roxburgh, which is the seat of the courts, although most of its privileges have been transferred to Jedburgh. It is observed that this county was much more populous before the Union, on account of the predatory war carried on between the Scots and English, and that this and the neighbouring shire of Berwick, could in 24 hours produce 10,000 men, armed and accoutred; it has become better cultivated by the attention paid to the sheep and woollen manufactories. Like other cultivated countries it is ornamented with many seats of the nobility and gentry, has several remains of old castles and fortifications, which had been in use in the border wars. This county produces a good deal of freestone. Roxburgh sends one member to parliament.—Somerville's Statistical Account.

Roxburgh, a parish and formerly the county town of Roxburghshire, Scotland, pleasantly situated on the banks of the Teviot, on a gentle declivity, 4 miles from Kelso; containing 71 houses and 381 inhabitants.—It is divided by a small rivulet, into the upper and nether towns. The ruins of its ancient castle stand about two miles west of the village, near which was placed the old city of Roxburgh, on a rising ground opposite Kelso. The south walls of the castle impended over the Teviot; and in its neighbourhood, stood a magnificent Friary of Cistercians. There is an observatory or summer-house on the top of Dun's Law, commanding a most extensive and varied prospect.—Along the banks of the Teviot are several caves of considerable extent, used in ancient times of warfare, as places of concealment. Near the Tweed are two springs of a remarkable petrifying quality.—Pennant's Tour, and Dr. Douglas's Account of Kelso.

Roxby, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 162 from London; containing 48 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is united with Risby.

Roxby, a parish in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, near Stokesley; containing 33 houses and 190 inhabitants.

Roxham, a village united with Ryston, in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, near Downham; containing only 3 houses and 29 inhabitants.

Roxholme, a hamlet in the parish of Leasingham, hundred of Flexwell, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Sleaford, and 118 from London; containing 9 houses and 49 inhabitants.

Roxton, a parish in the hundred of Barford, Bedford, 8 miles from Bedford, and 58 from London; containing 66 houses and 465 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

Roxwell, a township and chapelry in the parish of Writtle, hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 3½ miles from Chelmsford, and 29 from London; containing 126 houses and 669 inhabitants

Roydon, a parish in the hundred of Harlow, Essex, 5 miles from Epping, and 22 from London; containing 67 houses and 423 inhabitants. It was formerly much more populous, and had a charter for a market and fairs. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* Here stand the ruins of Nether-Hall, the ancient seat of the Colts.

Roydon, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Waltham, Essex, near Waltham Abbey; containing 40 houses and 244 inhabitants.

Roydon, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 1 mile from Diss, and 92 from London; containing 59 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

Roydon, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 4 miles from Lynn, and 96 from London; containing 18 houses and 114 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.*

Royston, a market town and parish on the northern border of Hertfordshire, partly situated in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, and partly in that of Armingford, Cambridge, 38 miles from London; containing 270 houses and 1831 inhabitants. Its name is supposed to have been derived from Roysia a famous lady, by some called the countess of Norfolk; who erected a cross on the road side; after which in the reign of Henry II. a priory of black canons was founded near it, whence it was called Roysias Town, and Richard I. granted it a fair and market. The church of the priory is the parish church, which consists of a nave and side aisles, containing a square tower with five bells. The town was nearly destroyed by fire in the reign of Henry IV. and suffered much by it in 1747. It formerly contained 5 parishes, and there were two hospitals besides the priory. A few years since an ancient chapel was discovered in a cavern near the market place, which had been dug out of the chalky rock, and had an entrance from the top. It has a good grammar school erected in 1716, by subscription. Royston is noted for its species of crow, which visits the neighbourhood only in winter, and returns back in spring; they are supposed to breed in Sweden. The market is on Wednesdays; and its fairs are the Wednesdays in Shrove, Easter, and Whitsun weeks, the first Wednesday in July, and the Wednesday after 10th October. The vicarage which is rated at 10*l.* in the King's books, is very valuable. Salmon's, Herts.

Roystone, a parish in Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Barnsley, and 174 from London; containing 80 houses and 360 inhabitants. It has a large and well-built church, having a roof of curious carved work, supposed to have been brought from the priory of Monk Breton. It has a good free grammar school, well endowed with houses and lands.

Royton, a township in the parish of Prestwich, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 4 miles from Manchester, and 185 from London; containing 390 houses and 2719 inhabitants, of whom 1471 were returned as being principally employed in manufacture.

Ruabon, a parish in Denbighshire, Wales, pleasantly seated on an eminence, 5½ miles from Wrexham, containing 964 houses and 4483 inhabitants. The church is a very ancient building, having an organ, and several good monuments, particularly of the Wynne family, whose mansion is in the neighbourhood. Its fairs are the last Friday in February, 22d May, and 30th November.

Ruan Major, a parish in the hundred of Kerriar, Cornwall, 7 miles from Helstone, and 283 from London; containing 85 houses and 142 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 10*s.*

Ruan Minor, a parish 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 67 houses and 317 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.*

Ruanlanyhorn, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from Tregony, and 253 from London; containing 62 houses and 329 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Ruardean, a township and chapelry in the parish of Walford, in Herefordshire, although situated in the hundred of St. Briavells, Gloucester, 6¾ miles from Newnham, and 120 from London; containing 179 houses and 845 inhabitants.

Ruckinge, a parish in the hundred of New Church, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 5 miles north-west of New Romney; containing 43 houses and 279 inhabitants.

Ruckland, a parish united with Farforth and Maidenwell, in the hundred of Louth Eske, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Louth; containing 7 houses and 30 inhabitants.

Ruckley, a hamlet in the parish of Acton Burnel, hundred of Condover, Salop, near Shrewsbury; containing 14 houses and 82 inhabitants.

Rudby, a hamlet in the parish of Hutton, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Yarm, and 243 from London; containing 13 houses and 80 inhabitants.

Ruddington, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliffe, Notts, 4¼ miles from Nottingham, and 120 from London; containing 249 houses and 868 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Rudford, a parish in the hundred of Botloe, Gloucester, 5 miles from Gloucester, and 111 from London; containing 15 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Gloucester.

Rudgeley, a market town and parish in the hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 7 miles from Litchfield, and 131 from London; containing 413 houses and 2030 inhabitants, of whom 1884 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly in those of hats and felts. The town is well-built, and many of the houses are handsome. Being situated on the banks of the Staffordshire canal, which forms a chain of communication with most of the principal rivers of the kingdom; it carries on a considerable traffic. The church is situated a little to the north of the town. The market is on Tuesdays; and its fairs are 5th June, and 20th October, for cattle, &c. The living is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 2*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Litchfield.

Rudham East, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 5 miles from Fakenham, and 113 from London; containing 108 houses and 572 inhabitants. Fairs, 17th May, and 2d October. The church is a rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Rudham West, ½ mile distant from the above, containing 39 houses and 298 inhabitants.

Rudheath, a hamlet in the parish of Middlewich, and hundred of Northwich, Chester, 4 miles from Middlewich, and 170 from London; containing 50 houses and 264 inhabitants.

RUDLAN, a parish in the hundred of Rudlan, Flintshire, Wales, 11 miles from Holywell, and 118 from London; containing 89 houses and 594 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph.

RUDSTON, a parish in Dickering lythe, east riding of York, 5 miles from Bridlington and 203 from London; containing 78 houses and 390 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York. There is a remarkable pillar in the churchyard, which is supposed to have been set up by the Britons.

RUDWICK, a parish in the hundred of west Easewrith, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 5 miles from Horsham, and 30 from London; containing 128 houses and 750 inhabitants. It has a fair on Trinity Monday, and is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.*

RUDYARD, a hamlet in the parish of Leeke, in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, near Leeke, and 154 miles from London; containing 16 houses, and 109 inhabitants.

RUFFORD, a township and chapelry in the parish of Croston, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 5½ miles from Ormskirk, and 215 from London; containing 151 houses and 853 inhabitants. Fair 1st of May.

RUFFORD, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 2 miles from Ollerton, and 138 from London; containing 40 houses and 265 inhabitants.

RUFFORTH, a parish in the Ainstey of York, 5 miles from York, and 204 from London; containing 50 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

RUGBY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Dunchurch, and 84 from London; containing 278 houses and 1487 inhabitants. It was anciently written Rocheberie, signifying a castle, or house on a rock, and is situated near the grand junction canal. The church has a square tower and 5 bells, with a set of chimes. The town is irregularly built, mostly of wooden houses. It has a free grammar school and several almshouses. The churchyard contains several eccentric inscriptions. The market is on Saturday, and its fairs are 2d Tuesday after twelfth-day, 17th February, 31st March, 15th May, 7th July, 21st August, Monday before Michaelmas, and Monday before 27th October, 2d November, and Tuesday before 21st December. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*

RUISHTON, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 3 miles from Taunton, and 141 from London; containing 46 houses and 518 inhabitants.

RUISLIP, a parish in the hundred of Elthorn, Middlesex, 4 miles from Uxbridge, and 16 from London; containing 201 houses and 1012 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.*

RUM, an island of the Hebrides, in the parish of Small Isles, annexed to the shire of Argyle, 7 miles west of the isle of Eigg; it is about 8 miles long, and nearly the same broad, and contains 500 inhabitants. The surface is hilly and mountainous, and appears to have been once a forest well stocked with deer and birds of prey. Many of the hills are of great elevation, but entirely barren.

RUMBOLDSWICK, a hamlet adjoining Chichester, in the hundred of Box and Stockbridge, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 62 miles from London; containing 43 houses and 224 inhabitants.

RUMBURGH, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3¼ miles from Halesworth, and 105 from London; containing 38 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

RUMNEY, a parish in the hundred of Wentloodge, Monmouth, situated on the river Rumney, 3 miles from Cardiff, and 156½ from London; containing 39 houses and 235 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Bristol.

RUMWORTH, a township in the parish of Dean, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 2 miles from Bolton, and 196 from London; containing 129 houses and 700 inhabitants.

RUNCORN, a parish in the hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 7 miles from Warrington, and 186 from London; containing 220 houses and 1379 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

RUNCTON NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 3½ miles from Lynn, and 100 from London; containing 34 houses and 251 inhabitants. The rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.* is united with Hardwick and Sechey, and is in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

RUNCTON SOUTH, a parish united with Wallington, in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 4 miles from Downham, and 88 from London; containing 13 houses and 111 inhabitants.

RUNHALL, a parish in the hundred of Forehoe, Norfolk, near Wymondham, 100 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.*

RUNHAM, a parish in the hundred of East Flegg, Norfolk, 3 miles from Caistor, and 122 from London; containing 54 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

RUNNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Milverton, Somerset, 2½ miles from Wellington, and 151 from London; containing 17 houses and 82 inhabitants.

RUNTON, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Holt, and 124 from London; containing 50 houses and 312 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Runwell, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 7 miles from Billericay; containing 36 houses and 243 inhabitants. It is rectory, value 13*l.*

Ruscomb North and South, two villages forming a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish and hundred of Sonning, Berks, 5 miles from Reading, and 34 from London; containing 27 houses and 170 inhabitants.

Rushall, a parish in the hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harleston, and 101 from London; containing 30 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.*

Rushall, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 1 mile from Walsall, and 127 from London; containing 87 houses and 485 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 5*s.*

Rushall, a hamlet in the parish of Charlton, hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 10 miles from Ludgershall, and 80 from London; containing 32 houses and 157 inhabitants.

Rushbrook, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bury St. Edmund's, and 70 from London; containing 27 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

Rushbury, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, 4 miles from Stretton, and 155 from London; containing 83 houses and 356 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

Rushcliffe, the name of a hundred in the county of Notts, being the southern point of the county, divided from Leicestershire by the river Soar.

Rushden, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 4 miles from Baldock, and 33 from London, containing 44 houses and 253 inhabitants.

Rushden, a parish in the hundred of Higham Ferrers, Northampton, 1 mile from Higham Ferrers, and 64 from London, containing 159 houses and 818 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Rushden. See Rushton, Stafford.

Rushford, a parish in the hundred of Guiltcross, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Thetford, and 78 from London; containing 21 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Rushmere, a parish in the hundred of Mutford and Lothingland, Suffolk, 4 miles from Lowestoffe, and 110 from London; containing 16 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Rushmere, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Ipswich, and 72 from London; containing 56 houses and 287 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Rushmore, the name of a hundred in Dorsetshire, on the south eastern coast of the county, lying west of the isle of Purbeck.

Rushock, a parish in Halfshire hundred, Worcestershire, 4 miles from Bromsgrove, and 120 from London; containing 30 houses and 174 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Rushton All Saints and St. Peter's, two parishes united, in the hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, 3½ miles from Kettering, and 78 from London; containing 75 houses, and 454 inhabitants. All Saints is a rectory, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* and St. Peter's is a rectory, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Rushton St. James, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Leeke, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 5 miles from Leeke, and 159 from London; containing 54 houses and 264 inhabitants.

Rushton Spencer, another hamlet in the same parish, ½ mile distant from the former; containing 60 houses and 294 inhabitants.

Rushton, a small hamlet to Wareham, in Dorsetshire, 111 miles from London.

Rushulme, a township in the parish of Manchester, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Manchester, and 185 miles from London; containing 123 houses and 726 inhabitants.

Rushland, a hamlet in the parish of Coulton, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 5 miles from Hawkeshead, and 271 from London; the population of which was returned with that of Haverthwaite.

Ruskington, a parish in the hundred of Flexwell, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Sleaford, and 119 from London; containing 98 houses and 483 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

Rusper, a parish in the hundred of Singlecross, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 5 miles from Horsham, and 30 from London; containing 67 houses and 399 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Rustington, a parish in the hundred of Poleing, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 3 miles from Arundel, and 63 from London; containing 44 houses and 261 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester.

Ruston East, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk, 12 miles from Norwich, and 121 from London; containing 104 houses and 486 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

Ruston Parva, a parish in Dickering lythe, east riding of York, 3 miles from Great Driffield, and 200 from London; containing 18 houses and 94 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Ruswarp, a township in the parish of Whitby, in the wapentake of Langbarough, north riding of York, 1 mile from Whitby, on the banks of the Esk, and 246 from London, containing 203 houses and 1565 inhabitants.

Rutherglen, a royal borough, in the Published January 1.1808, by T. Phillips Bridge Street Blackfriars London.

Cooper del.et sculp.

shire of Lanark, Scotland, 2¼ miles from Glasgow; containing 347 houses and 2437 inhabitants. It is of great antiquity, and was formerly of much larger extent than now, the foundation of streets being often found in the fields; it now consists only of one principal street and a few lanes. Near Dins Dyke lane stood the castle, celebrated for its sieges during the troublesome age of Robert Bruce. The church is a new building erected in 1794. In conjunction with Glasgow, Renfrew, and Dumbarton, it sends one member to the British parliament, and gives title of earl to the duke of Queensberry. The fairs of this town have long been famous for the shew of Lanarkshire horses, esteemed the best for draught in Scotland. The parish, extending for 3 miles on the south bank of the Clyde, is a most beautiful district, containing several handsome mansions. It abounds with coal, freestone and iron.—David Ure's History of Rutherglen and East Kilbride.

Ruthin, a market town and parish in Denbighshire, Wales, situated on an eminence in the vale of Clwyd, 210¼ miles from London; containing 243 houses and 1115 inhabitants. The church, a handsome building, was made collegiate in 1310, and here was a monastery of White Friars. This town was formerly surrounded with walls, but it has now little more than a broad ill-built street, leading to the market-house, near which stands the town-hall. It has a good free-school, and the new town gaol is a commodious building. Ruthin is nearly a mile in length, and is a borough governed by two aldermen, but sends no members to parliament. The markets are on Mondays and Saturdays, and its fairs March 19th, and Friday before Whitsunday. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster.

Rutlandshire, a county, bounded on the north-east by Lincolnshire, on the south and south-east by Northamptonshire, and on the west by Leicestershire; being the smallest county in England. It is of an oval figure, in length about 15 miles, and in breadth 12; containing 128,000 acres of land. It is divided into 5 hundreds, viz. Alstoe, East, Martinsley, Oakhamsoke and Wrandike, containing 2 market towns, Oakham, the county town, and Uppingham; 50 parishes, 3274 houses, inhabited by 16,356 persons, viz. 7978 males, and 8378 females; of whom 1923 were employed in trades and manufactures, and 3995 in agriculture. The total amount of the property tax in 1806 was, 19,0023*l.* The amount of the poor rates in 1803, was 12,674*l.*, and was at the rate of 3*s.* 5*d.* in the pound: the average scale of mortality for 10 years appears to have been as 1 to 51 of the existing population. It sends 2 members to parliament, and lies in the diocese of Peterborough. It is supposed to have received its name from the red colour of the soil; being in many parts a sort of ruddle used in staining the fleeces of the sheep. This county has a pure air and fertile soil, and is beautifully varied in its surface with gentle swells and depressions. The rising grounds run east and west, with vallies intervening, above ½ mile wide. It abounds in clear soft springs, gushing from the sides of the hills; the soil is various, but generally fertile: that of the east and south east parts is mostly shallow, upon a limestone rock, the other parts are a strong loam with red earth or clay. The products of this county are chiefly corn and sheep; and some of the finest wheat in the kingdom is grown in its fields, which is generally sold for seed. The rich vale of Catmose is particularly noted for its fertility, running from the western side to the center of the county. It is crossed by the little river Wash, which rises in Leicestershire and joins the Welland a little below Stamford. This latter river divides the south-eastern side of the county from Northamptonshire. The south-western part was formerly entirely occupied by the forest of Lifield, a part of which still remains in its original state and is stocked with deer. Rutland has no manufactures of any consequence. Anciently this county was the residence of the Coritani, and afterwards a part of the Saxon kingdom of Mercia. The gentlemen's seats in it are few, Burleigh is the chief.

Ruyton, a parish in the hundred of Oswestry, Salop; 8 miles from Oswestry, and 171 from London; containing 134 houses, and 721 inhabitants.

Ryaber, a river in Denbigh and Montgomeryshire, which falls into the Tanot near Llanyader.

Ryal, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Stamfordham, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 14 miles from Newcastle and 290 from London; containing 20 houses 128 inhabitants.

Ryal, a parish in the hundred of East, Rutland, 3 miles from Stamford, and 89 from London; containing 82 houses and 397 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 17*s.* with Essenden chapel annexed.

Ryarsh, a parish in the hundred of Larkfield, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 5 miles from Maidstone, and 29 from London; containing 50 houses and 262 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*s.*

Ryburgh Magna, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 3 miles from Fakenham, and 105 from London; containing 53 houses and 377 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, value 14*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* united with the parish of Ryburgh Parva, 1 mile distant, containing 14 houses and 94 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Rydal, the name of a wapentake, in the north riding of York, to the west of the river Derwent, dividing it from the east riding at Malton.

Rydal, a township in the parish of Grassmere, in Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 8 miles from Ambleside, and 276 from London; containing 51 houses and 250 inhabitants. The Rydal Water is a beautiful lake, being about a mile in length, surrounded with rocks and woods.

RYDE. See RIDE, Hants.

RYE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Gostrow, rape of Hastings, Sussex, situated on a cliff at the mouth of the Rother, 63 miles from London, through Maidstone; containing 389 houses and 2187 inhabitants, viz. 960 males and 1227 females, of whom 307 were returned as being employed in trade. This place is not one of the original cinque ports, but together with Winchelsea was annexed to them before the reign of Henry III. In the reign of Edward III. it was strongly fortified and surrounded with a wall, and a part of one of its towers still remains, converted into the gaol. The church, built of stone, is one of the largest in the county; the houses are tolerably well built of brick, but, excepting some few modern ones, are mostly old fashioned. In the center of the town is a handsome market-house and public-hall. There is a settlement of French refugees here, mostly fishermen, who have their own minister, paid by the archbishop of Canterbury; and many of the inhabitants are baptists, methodists and quakers, the former have a neat small meeting-house, and the methodists have of late built a handsome chapel. It is a great misfortune that the harbour here has been so much damaged by the sea and neglected, though of late it has been considerably improved, by a new channel being cut to the sea, and putting a dam of very singular construction across the old one, under the direction of Dr. Pape, vicar of Pen. The corporation is held by prescription, and consists of a mayor, jurats and freemen, and ever since the reign of king Edward III. this place has sent 2 members to parliament. A store-house, called the Friary, was formerly a church belonging to the Augustines. The town is well supplied with water by pipes from 2 hills on the land side. Here is a free grammar-school, erected in 1644, besides a good free-school for teaching poor children. It has the advantage of a public bank. Its markets are on Wednesdays and Fridays; and its fairs on Whit Monday and 10th August. The living is a vicarage, value 42*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* The steeple lat. 50°. 57′. 1″. Long. 0°. 44′, east.

RYEHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Burstwick, wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 4 miles from Hedon, and 187 from London; containing 31 houses and 214 inhabitants.

RYEHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Wragby, in Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Barnsley, and 177 from London; containing 28 houses and 142 inhabitants.

RYHOPE, a township in the parish of Bishopwearmouth, in Easington ward, Durham, 3 miles from Sunderland, and 273 from London; containing 55 houses and 254 inhabitants.

RYLE, GREAT and LITTLE, hamlets in the parish of Whittingham, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 18 miles from Morpeth, and 208 from London; containing 28 houses and 161 inhabitants.

RYLE, a small hamlet in the parish of Whitchurch, in Dorsetshire.

RYME, a parish in the hundred of Yetminster, division of Sherborne, Dorset, 5 miles from Sherborne, and 122 from London; containing 24 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.*

RYND, a parish in the shire of Perth, Scotland, situated at the confluence of the rivers Erne and Tay, 5 miles from Perth; containing 75 houses and 403 inhabitants. The ruins of an extensive monastery are to be seen at a place called Orchard Nook, on the banks of the Tay.

RYTHER, a parish in the wapentake of Barkston Ash, west riding of York, 7 mile from Selby, on the banks of the Ouse, and 188 from London; containing 52 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

RYTON, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, 7 miles from Gateshead, and 283 from London; containing 243 houses and 1317 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 42*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

RYTON, a parish in the hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, 5 miles from Shiffnal, and 145 from London; containing 30 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 18*s.* in the patronage of the king.

RYTON, a township in the parish of Kirby Misperton, in Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 3 miles from Malton, and 220 from London; containing 31 houses and 193 inhabitants.

SABRIDGEWORTH, or SAWBRIDGWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, 4¼ miles from Bishop Stortford, and 25¼ from London; containing 179 houses and 1687 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town, and has fairs on the 23d April and 19th October. The living is a vicarage, value 17*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

SACOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 4 miles from Ware, and 24½ from London; containing 35 houses and 255 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

SADBERGH, a township in the parish of Haughton, in Stockton ward, Durham, 3½ miles from Darlington, and 246 from London; containing 80 houses and 391 inhabitants.

SADDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4 miles from Market Harborough, and 86 from London; containing 49 houses and 241 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the king.

SADDLEWORTH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Rochdale, Lancashire, and included therewith.

SAFFRON WALDEN, a market town and parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 12 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 42 from London; containing 657 houses and 3181 inhabitants; viz. 1491 males and 1690 females, of whom 367 were employed in trade. The town is irregularly built, and not paved. The church is a fine old Gothic building, in which a number of eminent men have been buried. It has a Presbyterian, a Baptist, and a Quakers meeting, with several well-endowed almshouses and a free-school. A considerable traffic is carried on in malting, and its name is supposed to be derived from the great quantities of saffron formerly cultivated here. This town was incorporated by Edward VI. and is governed by a mayor and aldermen. The keep of its antient castle, built originally by Geoffrey de Mandeville, is still to be seen, the ruins of which now belong to lord Braybrook. On the green behind the castle, is a singular work, called the Maze, consisting of a number of concentric circles, with 4 outworks issuing from the 4 sides, all cut in the chalk, and supposed by Dr. Stukely to have been a British place of exercise for the soldiery. Audley End, the seat of lord Braybrook, stands on the site of a priory of Benedictines, and was once a royal palace of great magnificence and extent, but part of it has been pulled down; considerable improvements were made here by the late owner, lord Howard of Walden, who built a stone bridge over the river. The market is on Saturday, and its fairs are the Saturday before Midlent, and on the 1st of November. It is a vicarage, value 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SAHAM TONY, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 2 miles from Watton, and 93 from London; containing 123 houses and 659 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of Winchester College.

SAINT, a river in Carnarvonshire, Wales, which falls into the Menai, at Carnarvon.

SAINTBURY, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 2 miles from Campden, and 90 from London; containing 25 houses and 152 inhabitants.

SALCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 1 mile from Sidmouth, and 160 from London; containing 56 houses and 300 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

SALCOT, a parish in the hundred of Winstree, Essex, 8 miles from Witham, and 45 from London; containing 18 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SALE, or SALL, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 2 miles from Reepham, and 114 from London; containing 40 houses and 291 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

SALEBY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Atford, and 142 from London; containing 35 houses and 211 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.*

SALEHURST, a parish in the hundred of Henhurst, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 6 miles from Battle, and 50 from London; containing 196 houses and 1611 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.*

SALFORD, the name of a hundred in Lancashire, being the south-eastern part of the county, divided from Cheshire by the Mersey.

SALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 4 miles from Woburn, and 46 from London; containing 46 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* and is united with Hulcote.

SALFORD, a township in the parish of Manchester, in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, half a mile from Manchester; containing 2204 houses and 13,612 inhabitants, viz. 6558 males, and 7053 females, of whom 6487 were returned principally employed in the various trades and manufactures peculiar to Manchester.

SALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 2 miles from Chipping Norton, and 76 from London; containing 50 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

SALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 3 miles from Alcester, and 100 from London; containing 157 houses and 788 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l*.

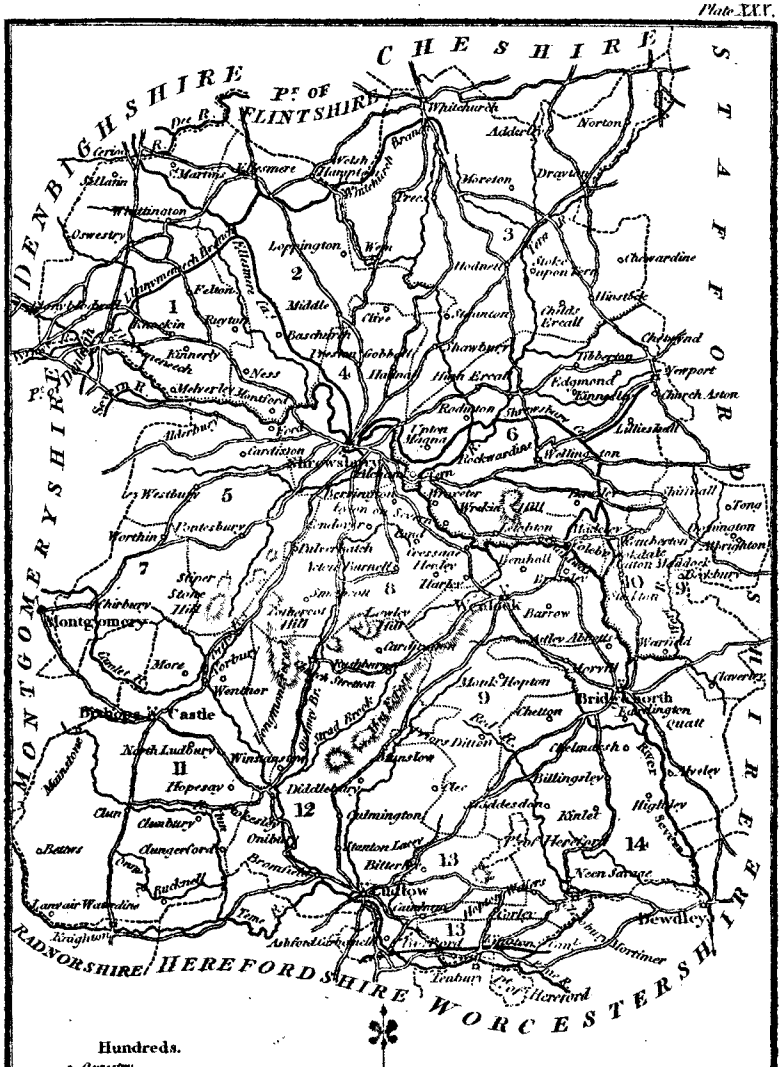
SALING GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Hinchford, Essex, 3 miles from Braintree, and 42 from London; containing 37 houses and 280 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l*.

SALISBURY, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Preston, and 213 from London; containing 41 houses and 1664 inhabitants.

SALISBURY, a city in the hundred of Underditch, Wilts, situated in a valley, 80½ miles from London; containing 1489 houses and 7668 inhabitants, viz. 3412 males, and 4256 females, of whom 2323 were returned as being employed in various trades. It was originally built on a hill, a situation chosen by the Britons. The original cathedral was finished in a most splendid manner, by bishop Roger, in the reign of king Stephen, but the bishop's castle being seized and garrisoned by the king, the bishops and canons resolved to remove where they would be less disturbed; and the present site of the cathedral was chosen by bishop Poore, in the reign of Henry III. The church was begun in 1220, and finished in 6 years. The body of the building is supported by 10 pointed arches on each side, resting on clusters of the lightest pillars; each transept has three such arches, forming as many chapels, and the choir has 7 arches. The chapter-house is an octagonal building, with a clustered pillar in the middle, the frieze all round, under the windows, having reliefs of scripture history in tolerable preservation. The cloister on the south is the largest and most magnificent in England. On the north side of the church in the yard, stands a strong square tower. The west front and buttresses of the cathedral all round have been filled with statues. In the nave, choir and transepts, are many handsome and ancient monuments of the earls and bishops of Salisbury. The whole cathedral has of late years undergone a thorough repair, and received many improvements. The east window is of painted glass, the subjects being the elevation of the brazen serpent, and the resurrection; the former by Mr. Pearson, and the gift of the earl of Radnor in 1781, is comprised in 3 compartments, consisting of 21 figures, admirably executed. That of the resurrection was designed by sir Joshua Reynolds. The window is 23 feet in height, and is comprised in 3 compartments, consisting principally of one figure, being a full length of our Saviour, just risen from the tomb; in the left compartment is a distant view of mount Calvary and the crosses. The windows on each side are painted in mosaic, as well as those on the north and south sides, of what was called the Lady Chapel. This cathedral is the tallest in England, and the middle spire is 410 feet high: the bells 8 in number are in the detached tower before noted. The whole building cost upwards of 26,000*l*. To this cathedral belong a bishop, dean, precenter, chancellor, 3 arch-deacons, subdean, sub-chaunter, 45 prebendaries, 6 of whom being residentiary are stiled canons, 4 vicars, 6 singing men, 8 choristers, and other inferior officers. Bishop Poore, who began the cathedral, founded the hospital of St. Nicholas, near Harnham-bridge, for a master, 8 poor women and 4 men. On the south side of this hospital is a chapel standing in an island, and on the north an old barn, where once stood the church of St. Martin, removed into the city on account of the floods. The great bridge in this suburb called Harnham-bridge, was built by bishop Bingham in 1245, which brought the great western road this way to the detriment of Wilton. In the north-east part of the city was the collegiate church of St. Edmund, memorable for the rigorous star chamber prosecution carried on against Sherfield, for defacing in a fit of intemperate zeal, certain paintings in the east window. In the city also stood a house of Grey Friars Trinity hospital founded in the reign of Richard II. is still in being, and maintains a master and 12 poor men. The church of St. Thomas was built by bishop Bingham as a chapel of ease to the cathedral, and contains several handsome monuments; it is ornamented with a well adorned tower, 50 yards high to the top of the stone work, the finishing above being of wood covered with lead. In the tower are 8 bells with a set of chimes. On the east side of the tower is a dial near 10 feet square, and on the south side are 2 figures in niches of Thomas à Becket and the Virgin Mary with our Saviour in her arms. The Infirmary is in the parish of Fisherton, and is a large brick building. The market place is very extensive, and since the removal of the old council-house, has been converted into a handsome open square. In the south-east corner stands the new council house, begun in 1788. This magnificent structure stands on the site of the old Guildhall, it was erected at the expence of the earl of Radnor and completed in 1795. It is a square building of white brick, with a grand doric portico, at the entrance to the two courts of law on the west side, and a large bow window projecting from the great room on the east. The principal entrance is on the north, with a flight of steps leading to the door through a noble facade, consisting of 4 doric columns; the whole building is surrounded by a rich cornice and the angles of each front are ornamented with handsome rustic work in stone. It consists of only one floor, on which are the 2 courts, a council room, a grand jury room, and several apartments for the offices of the corporation. In the courts (occupying the whole of the left wing) the assizes and the sessions of the peace are held for the city, county and close, one of them being distinguished by a mitre cut in stone over the great door, in the place in which the bishop holds his courts. The council room is



DENBIGHSHIRE
Pt of FLINTSHIRE
CHESHIRE
STAFFORDSHIRE
SHROPSHIRE
MONTGOMERYSHIRE
RADNORSHIRE
HEREFORDSHIRE
WORCESTERSHIRE
Whitchurch
Norton
Adderley
Moreton
Drayton
Oswestry
Loppington
Wem
Hodnet
Shawbury
Wellington
Wrockwardine
Shrewsbury
Montgomery
Bridgnorth
Ludlow
Newport
Tibberton
Edgmond
Church Aston
Lilleshall
Tong
Shifnall
Oakengates
Wenlock
Barrow
Much Wenlock
Madeley
Coalbrookdale
Broseley
Worfield
Morville
Kenley
Billingsley
Highley
Kinlet
Stottesdon
Cleobury Mortimer
Neen Savage
Newley
Tenbury
Worcester
Kidderminster
Bewdley
Knighton
Presteigne
Leominster
Hereford
Ross
Ledbury
Malvern
Great Malvern
Upton upon Severn
Tewkesbury
Pershore
Evesham
Droitwich
Bromsgrove
Alcester
Stratford upon Avon
Shipston upon Stour
Banbury
Brewood
Penkridge
Stafford
Eccleshall
Newcastle
Market Drayton
Whitchurch
Ellesmere
Oswestry
Llanymynech
Welshpool
Llanfair Waterdine
Clun
Bishops Castle
Church Stretton
Much Wenlock
Wellington
Shifnal
Bridgnorth
Kidderminster
Bewdley
Worcester
Droitwich
Bromsgrove
Redditch

75 feet in length, and 24 feet in height and width, and forms the right wing of the building. In this chamber is held the court of common council and the corporation entertainments. The mayor's chair, of mahogany, is a beautiful piece of carving, and was presented to the corporation by the honourable W. H. Bouverie. The Poultry Cross, as it is called (to distinguish it from 2 other ancient crosses which formerly stood in this city) is situated just without the south-west corner of the market place. Salisbury was first incorporated by Henry III. and increased so much after the desertion of Old Sarum, the building of the cathedral, and the turning the western road through it by a grant from Edward III. that it soon became one of the most thriving cities in England. It is governed by a mayor, high steward, recorder, deputy-recorder, 24 aldermen, &c. It has a considerable manufacture of flannels, and the cloths called Salisbury whites, and an extensive traffic in bone-lace, and cutlery. The streets are in general spacious, and built at right angles. Four rivers meet near the city, and the waters of 3 of them, viz. the Nadder, Willy and Avon, run through the streets, in canals lined with brick, but there is no stream through that part of the town inhabited by the butchers, where water is the most wanted. There are no vaults in any of the churches, nor any cellars in the town, the soil being so moist that the water rises up in the graves dug in the cathedral. Salisbury sends 2 members to parliament. There is a concert here every other Thursday during the winter, and once a month during the summer, well supported, and at which all strangers are admitted gratis: there is also an assembly every other Thursday during the winter, and a neat little theatre. The races are commonly held in the month of August, and continue 3 days being generally well attended. In the evening of each day there is a concert or ball at the assembly room. Here are 3 charity schools, in which 170 children are taught and clothed. The markets are on Tuesday and Saturday, and its fairs are the Tuesday before 6th January for cattle, Tuesday after 25th March for clothes, Whit Monday and Tuesday for horses and pedlary, and the Tuesday after the 10th October for hops, cheese, &c. Entering the city on the right is the seat of H. P. Wyndham, esq. and on the banks of the Avon on the left is Longford castle, the seat of the earl of Radnor, built in the reign of James I. It is of a triangular form with round towers at each corner, the rooms although not large are pleasant and elegantly decorated, the gallery contains some admirable pictures by the first masters. The canal from Salisbury joins that from Andover, near Romsey, communicating with Southampton. The living of St. Thomas is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter. St. Martin's is a rectory, value 11*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.* and St. Edmunds a curacy in the gift of the bishop.—Britton's Wilts.

Salisbury Plain, distant from Salisbury about 6 miles, is a very extensive open country, with few villages and inhabitants, and formerly much infested by robbers, extending in length from Winchester to Salisbury 25 miles, from thence to Dorchester, 22 miles, and thence to Weymouth 6, being in the whole near 50 in length. On this plain is the famous monument of Stone-henge, and traces of many old Roman and British camps, &c. Stonehenge consists of 4 ranges of enormous stones placed one within the other, the two outermost of which are circular, the inner oval; some of the stones are computed to weigh 30 or 40 tons, and consist of an impost upon two uprights.—See Amesbury. Britton's Wilts.

Salkeld Great, a parish in Leath ward, Cumberland, situated on the banks of the river Eden, 2½ miles from Kirkoswald, and 290 from London; containing 58 houses, and 285 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.

Salkeld Little, a hamlet in the parish of Addingham, in Leath ward, Cumberland, ½ mile from the foregoing, and containing 21 houses and 119 inhabitants. On the summit of a hill in the neighbourhood is a large circle of stones, called Long Meg and her Daughters, being 77 in number; long Meg is about 15 feet above the ground, and the rest about 10, some are of blue and grey limestone, some of granite and others of flint.

Salmondby, a parish in the hundred of Hill, and parts of Lindsay, Lincoln, 3 miles from Horncastle and 141 from London; containing 15 houses and 77 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

Salop or Shropshire, an inland county of England, bounded on the north by Denbighshire, a detached part of Flintshire, and by Cheshire; on the east by Staffordshire; on the south by Worcestershire and Herefordshire; and on the west by Radnorshire, Montgomeryshire and Denbighshire. It lies nearly within 52°. and 53°. north latitude, and 2° and 3° west longitude from London. It is about 50 miles in length from north to south, 42 in breadth, from east to west, 218 in circumference, and contains 1328 square miles, and 849,940 acres, or about a forty-fifth part of England and Wales. Its shape is an irregular parallelogram. This county contains fifteen hundreds or divisions, viz. Oswestry, Pimhill, Bradford north, Bradford south, and Brimstry, on the north-east side of the Severn; the liberty of Shrewsbury, the franchises of Wenlock, and the hundred of Stottesden, extending on both banks of that river; the hundreds of Ford, Chirbury, Condover, Munslow, Overs, Purslow, and the honour of Clun, on the south-west side of the Severn. Shropshire is in part in the three dioceses of Hereford, of Litchfield and Coventry, and St. Asaph. There are in this county 262 churches, of which 229 are parochial. The air of Shropshire is generally very salubrious, the coal and iron mines forming no exception, though these, perhaps, may in some degree prove injurious to the health of the miners, but by no means so much as many other mineral works. There are mines of lead-ore, of a good quality, on the western side of the county, which have been productive. In some of these mines, tools, judged to be Roman, have been found, a few of which are preserved in the library of Shrewsbury free school. Calamine is also met with, and the rock at Pimhill is strongly tinctured with copper. Symptoms both of copper and lead appear in the Cardington hills. Coal of an excellent quality is found on the eastern side of the county, particularly in the parishes of Wellington, Lilleshall, Wrockwardine, Wombridge, Stirchley, Dawley, Little Wenlock, Madeley, Barrow, Benthall, and Brosely, which promise a great and lasting supply for the extensive iron manufactures in the neighbourhood, for domestic use, and for exportation. In this district are the following iron works. On the south side of the Severn are Willey, Broscley, Calcot, Benthall, and Barnett's Leason; on the north of that river is Madeley Wood, Coalbrookdale, Lightmoor, Horsehay Old Park, Kesley, Snedshill, Donnington, Queen's Wood, and Wrockwardine Wood. These works employ about 6000 hands, and about 260,000 tons of coal are raised annually in this district. In the year 1802 there were on the different iron and coal works 180 fire engines, and thirty years preceding there were not more than 20. This county is also well supplied with lime, and in general the lime-stone is at no great distance from coal; it is also well supplied with building stone. At Pitchford near Shrewsbury, a mineral pitch is found exuding from a red sand-stone, and near Jackfield, south of the Severn is carried forward the manufacture of coal tar; and in the hundred of North Bradford, are found several salt springs. The river Severn runs through the county from north-west to south-east, and is navigable the whole way, neither lock nor weir being upon it from Pool-quay in Montgomeryshire to the mouth of the Avon near Bristol, a distance of 155 miles. The other rivers are the Camlet, the Teine, the Clun, and several smaller streams. In this county are several lakes or meres, covering from 40 to 116 acres of ground. The roads, both turnpike and private, are generally bad, particularly in the clayey part of the county. Accommodation by canal navigation in Shropshire is very considerable by means of the Shropshire, the Shrewsbury, and the Ellesmere canals. The Shropshire canal may be called a system of water levels and inclined planes; its general direction is from north to south, and it commences in the Severn at Coalport. It was completed in the year 1792, and is said to have cost only 45,000*l.* The Shrewsbury canal commences in that town and terminates in the Shropshire canal; it was completed and opened in 1797. The Ellesmere canal is, rather than one, a system of canals, distributed over that extensive and fertile district of country, which lies between the banks of the Severn and the Mersey, and between the skirts of north Wales and the borders of Staffordshire; this canal unites the rivers Severn, Mersey and Dee, and opens a communication by water to the ports of Liverpool and Bristol. There are 17 market towns in Shropshire, and 9 towns or villages, which have fairs but not markets. Various branches of the flannel manufacture are carried on near Shrewsbury; and at Coalport and Caughley are manufactures of China ware of great excellence, the blue and white, and the blue, white and gold China made there is in many instances equal to that from the East. This county, according to the returns of the population made to the House of Commons in 1801, was stated to contain 31,182 inhabited, and 929 empty houses; 34,501 families, 82,563 males, 85,076 females, 45,046 persons employed in agriculture, 35,535 mechanics, and 70,504 persons not comprized in either of those classes, making the total number of persons, 167,639. The gross amount of the assessment on this county by the returns under the Property Tax Act in 1806 amounted to 1,530,060*l.* and the amount of the Poor's Rate in 1803 was 83,477*l.* at the rate of 3*s.* 11½*d.* in the pound. The average scale of mortality for 10 years appear to have been as 1 to 53 of the existing population.

SALPERTON, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Northleach; containing 35 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.*

SALT, a hamlet in the parish of St. Mary's, Stafford, hundred of Pirehill, Staffordshire, adjoining to Stafford; containing 55 houses, and 370 inhabitants.

SALTASH, a borough and market town, in the parish of St. Stephen, and hundred of East, Cornwall, situated on the right bank of the Tamar, 220 miles from London; containing 153 houses and 1150 inhabitants. It lies about 3 miles from Plymouth Dock, to which there is a ferry over the river called the Crimble Passage. The town consists of 3 streets, and has a considerable trade in malt. The government is vested in a mayor and aldermen, by charter of Charles II. who hold the manor of the duchy of Cornwall, and keep a court of admiralty. It possesses many privileges, and has jurisdiction on the Tamar to the mouth of the port, claiming anchorage of all vessels that enter the harbour, and their coroner sits upon all bodies found drowned in the river. It has returned two members to parliament ever since the reign of Edward VI. The returning officer is the mayor. The market is on Saturday, and its fairs are 2d February and 25th July.—Polwhele's Cornwall.

SALTBY, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 7 miles from Grantham, and 117 from London; containing 40 houses and 185 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* in the patronage of the duke of Rutland.

SALTCOATS, a sea-port town in the shire of Ayr, Scotland, 5 miles from Irvine, situated partly in the parish of Stevenson, and partly in that of Ardrossan; containing 400 houses and 2325 inhabitants. It has an excellent harbour, but has only of late years become a place of note, having 140 years ago only four houses. About the year 1700, a valuable stratum of coal was first worked in the neighbourhood by sir Robert Cunningham, who also erected several large pans for the manufacture of salt, which is now carried on to a great extent. There are no magistrates or any local police in the town; neither is there a market. No tonnage is paid here for vessels; a shore bailiff levies small anchorage dues, and carries into execution such regulations as are necessary.

SALTERFORTH, a township in the parish of Barnoldswick, in Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Colne, and 121 from London; containing 77 houses and 398 inhabitants.

SALTFLEET, or SALTFLEETBY ST. PETER'S, a market town and parish in the hundred of Louth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 12 miles from Louth, and 165 from London, on a creek of the German ocean; containing 40 houses and 230 inhabitants. The market is on Saturday. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* in the patronage of Oriel college.

SALTFLEETBY EAST, or ST. CLEMENT'S, a parish in the same hundred with the foregoing, and 2 miles distant; containing 19 houses and 114 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

SALTFLEETBY WEST, or ALLSAINTS, a parish about a mile from the former, and 9 from Louth; containing 32 houses and 148 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford.

SALTFORD, a parish in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 6 miles from Bath, and 113 from London; containing 54 houses and 223 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Chandos.

SALTHILL, a hamlet in the hundred of Burnham, Bucks, near Eton, on the road to Bath, 21¼ miles from London, and 1 from Slough; remarkable for its fine situation, and for being the spot to which the scholars of Eton make their procession triennially, called the Montem, when a public collection is made from the company for the benefit of the captain of the school, who is generally elected a member of King's college, Cambridge. This collection often amounts to 1000*l.*

SALTHOUSE, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 4 miles from Holt, and 123 from London; containing 48 houses and 201 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

SALTMARSH, a village in the parish of Howden, in the division of Howdenshire, east riding of York, on the banks of the Ouse, 4 miles from Howden; containing 35 houses and 160 inhabitants. The ancient family of Saltmarsh reside here, where they have been seated above 800 years.

SALTON, a parish in the liberty of St. Peter, York, near New Malton, and 200 miles from London; containing 24 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

SALTON, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, 4 miles from the county town, on the banks of the Salton and Tyne, which here unite; containing in both the villages of East and West Salton, 175 houses and 768 inhabitants. In the beginning of the last century, the art of making pot barley, and the weaving of Holland cloth, was introduced, through the patriotism of the lady of Henry Fletcher, of Salton, who travelled into Holland with two expert mechanics, disguised as her servants, and procured models of the machinery. Near Salton Hall is a mineral spring somewhat resembling the Bristol Wells.

SALTWOOD, a parish in the lathe of Shepway, Kent, 1 mile from Hythe, and 70 from London; containing 49 houses and 283 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 34*l.* with Hythe chapel annexed, in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

SALWARP, a parish in the hundred of Halfshire, Worcestershire, 3 miles from Droitwich, and 116 from London, near a river of the same name, which falls into the Severn at Worcester. It contains 55 houses and 348 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

SAMBORN, a hamlet in the parish of Coughton, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 4 miles from Alcester, and 107 from London; containing 95 houses and 526 inhabitants.

SAMBOURNE, a small hamlet in the parish and hundred of Warminster, Wilts, the population of which was included with Warminster.

SAMFORD, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, lying on the southern side of the county between the rivers Orwell and Stour.

SAMLESBURY, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Preston, and 213 from London; containing 255 houses and 1664 inhabitants.

SAMPFORD GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Freshwell, Essex, 5 miles from Saffron Walden, and 44 from London; containing 98 houses and 597 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* with Hempsted chapel annexed.

SAMPFORD LITTLE, another parish in the hundred of Freshwell, Essex, 1 mile distant from the foregoing, and containing 59 houses and 346 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

Sampford Arundel, a parish in the hundred of Milverton, Somersetshire, 2 miles from Wellington, and 151 from London; containing 66 houses and 319 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*

Sampford Brett, a parish in the hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 4 miles from Watchet, and 154 from London; containing 30 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*

Sampford Courtney, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, situated on the river Taw, 5 miles from Oakhampton, and 200 from London; containing 171 houses and 960 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 47*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

Sampford Peverell, a parish in the hundred of Halberton, Devon, 5 miles from Tiverton, and 160 from London; containing 143 houses and 763 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Sampford Spiney, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Plympton, in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, 3 miles from Tavistock, and 200 from London; containing 32 houses and 205 inhabitants.

Sampson St. a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from Fowey, and 236 from London; containing 33 houses and 169 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Sancton, a parish in the division of Hunsley Beacon, east riding of York, 2 miles from Weighton, and 190 from London; containing 43 houses and 282 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

Sanda, a small island on the coast of the peninsula of Kintyre, belonging to the parish of Southend, being about 1½ mile in length and ½ mile in breadth. Here are the remains of an ancient chapel, dedicated to St. Columba.

Sandal, a hamlet in the parish and soke of Doncaster, west riding of York, near Doncaster, 158 miles from London; the population of which was included with the little village of Wheatley.

Sandal, a parish in Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 2 miles from Wakefield, and 185 from London; containing 167 houses and 765 inhabitants. Here are the remains of a castle, anciently belonging to the earls of Warren. The church is a handsome building, and is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Sanday, one of the Orkney isles, about 12 miles long, and 9 broad, lying to the north-east of the isles of Eday and Stronsay, from which it is separated by a channel about 2 miles wide. It contains two parishes, Crosskirk and Ladykirk, and 1772 inhabitants, their chief employment during summer being the making of kelp.

Sandbach, a market town and parish in the hundred of Northwich, Cheshire, situated on a small stream called the Wheelock, which runs into the Dane, and near the navigable canal, 162 miles from London; containing 379 houses and 1844 inhabitants, of whom 1210 were returned as being employed in various trades. The church has a lofty steeple, and the town is famous for good ale. In the market place are two stone crosses, with figures emblematical of our Saviour's passion. The market is on Thursday, and its fairs are on Easter Tuesday, and the first Tuesday after the 10th September. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* Norden's Cheshire.

Sanderingham, a parish united with Babingley, in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 5 miles from Lynn, and 108 from London; containing 6 houses and 48 inhabitants.

Sanderstead, a parish in the hundred of Wallington, Surry, near Croydon; containing 33 houses and 204 inhabitants. It has a most delightful prospect. In this parish is Purley, which was the seat of Bradshaw, president at the trial of Charles I. and late the residence of J. H. Tooke, where he wrote his philological work called "The Diversions of Purley." It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

Sandford, a hamlet in the parish of Cumnor, in the hundred of Sonning, Berks, 2½ miles from Abingdon, and 57 from London; containing 23 houses and 122 inhabitants.

Sandford, a township in the parish and hundred of Crediton, Devon, 3 miles from Crediton, and 183 from London; containing 320 houses and 1742 inhabitants.

Sandford, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 3½ miles from Oxford, and 51 from London; containing 32 houses and 178 inhabitants.

Sandford Orcas, a parish in the hundred of Horethorne, Somerset, 4 miles from Sherborne, and 120 from London; containing 48 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

Sandgate, a hamlet in the parish of Folkstone, in the hundred of Folkstone, and lathe of Shepway, Kent, 2½ miles from Hythe, and 73 from London; situated under a lofty and steep hill, a few yards from the sea. Here is a castle erected in the reign of Henry VIII. having a few guns mounted. On the cliffs are several strong batteries recently erected.

Sandhoe, a hamlet in the parish of St. John's Lee, in Tyndal ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Hexham, and 285 from London; containing 34 houses and 198 inhabitants.

Sandhurst, a small parish in the hundred of Sonning, Berks, near Blackwater, 29 miles from London, and on the borders of Windsor forest; containing 34 houses and 222 inhabitants.

Sandhurst, a parish in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, 3 miles from Gloucester, and 109 from London; containing 83 houses and 365 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, in the patronage of the bishop of Bristol.

SANDHURST, a parish in the hundred of Salbrittenden, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 8 miles from Cranbrook, and 56 from London; containing 116 houses and 887 inhabitants. Fair, 25th May. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

SANDHUTTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Thirsk, in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Thirsk, and 226 from London; containing 61 houses and 240 inhabitants.

SANDHUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Bossall, in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 7½ miles from York, and 206 from London; containing 34 houses and 170 inhabitants.

SANDIACRE, a parish in the hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 7½ miles from Derby, and 122 from London; containing 83 houses and 405 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

SANDLEFORD, a tything in the parish of Newbury, in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 2 miles south of Newbury; containing 4 houses and 22 inhabitants.

SANDON, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 3 miles from Chelmsford, and 31 from London; containing 47 houses and 342 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Queen's college, Cambridge.

SANDON, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 4 miles from Royston, and 34 from London; containing 92 houses and 595 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's.

SANDOWN, in the Isle of Wight, 2 miles south of Brading. The fort is a regular square, flanked by 4 bastions, and encompassed by a wet ditch. It was erected by Henry VIII. to command the bay, about 3 leagues from Portsmouth, and maintains a small garrison.

SANDOWN CASTLE. See SANDWICH.

SANDRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 2¼ miles from St. Alban's, and 22¼ from London; containing 98 houses and 581 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

SANDWICH, a cinque port, borough, and market town, in the hundred of Eastry, and lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 68 miles from London; situated on the river Stour, 2 miles from the sea, and containing 1287 houses and 6506 inhabitants, viz. 2966 males and 3540 females, of whom 1000 were employed in various trades. It was formerly of much more consequence than at present, and had 3 parish churches; but the harbour is now choaked up with sand so that only small vessels can sail up a winding stream. Being walled and surrounded with a ditch, before the use of cannon it was a place of great strength. Part of the walls are still remaining. Here was the staple for wool, removed from Queenborough, in the reign of Richard II. and in the time of queen Elizabeth some Flemings set up a manufacture of woollen cloth, but its chief trade is now in malting. The town is governed by a mayor, recorder, 12 jurats, and 24 common council men, and being the principal cinque port, the mayor carries a black knotted staff, whilst the others carry white ones. The members belonging to Sandwich are Fordwich, Deal, Ramsgate, Reculver, Sarre, Stoner and Walmer. It sends two members to parliament, and gives title of earl to the family of Montague. Here is an hospital for six poor men and as many women, under the patronage of the mayor and jurats. There is also another hospital for 12 persons, dedicated to St. Thomas. Over the town hall is the council chamber. It has also a custom house, a quay, and two charity-schools. Before the gates are two barrows placed at equal distances, and supposed to have been Roman. From hence to Hythe the French coast opposite is visible all the way. Sandown castle, in the neighbourhood towards Deal, was built by Henry VIII. and composed of four lunettes of very thick arched work of stone, with many port-holes for heavy cannon. In the middle is a great round tower, with a cistern at top, and underneath an arched cavern, bomb proof. A fosse encompasses the whole, over which there is a passage by a draw-bridge. The market days are Wednesdays and Saturdays, and it has a fair the 4th December. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the archdeacon of Canterbury. Lat. 51. 16. 30. Long. 1. 20. 15. east.—Hasted's Kent.

SANDWICK, a parish united with Stromness, in Orkney, Scotland, situated at the west end of the isle of Pomona; containing 175 houses and 970 inhabitants. The coast is about 18 miles in extent. The island abounds with slate, lead, and iron. Several tumuli here were opened in the presence of sir Joseph Banks, in 1772.

SANDWITH, a hamlet in the parish of St. Bees, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Whitehaven, and 305 from London; containing 48 houses and 180 inhabitants.

SANDY, a parish in the hundred of Biggleswade, Bedfordshire, 2½ miles from Biggleswade, and 47½ from London; containing 108 houses and 615 inhabitants. Here is a very extensive rabbit warren, the property of sir Philip Monnoux, the produce of which is reckoned the most delicate in the kingdom.

SANKEY, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, adjoining to Prescott, and 197 miles from London; containing 86 houses and 431 inhabitants.

SANQUHAR, a royal borough in the shire of Dumfries, Scotland, seated on the river Nith, and on the border of Ayrshire, 27 miles from Dumfries, and 33 from Ayr. It consists principally of one long street, and contains 468 houses and 2350 inhabitants, viz. 1054 males, and 1296 females, having about 200 persons employed in the woollen trade, and the manufacture of stockings and carpets. It is governed by a provost, 3 bailies, dean of guild, treasurer, and 11 councillors, and joins with the burghs of Dumfries, Annan, Kirkcudbright, and Lochmaben, in sending one member to parliament. The parish contains excellent pasturage, and is watered by the Nith and several small rivulets.

SANTON, a township in the parish of Irton, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Egremont, and 304 miles from London; containing 45 houses and 251 inhabitants.

SANTON DOWNHAM, a village in the hundred of Lackford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Brandon, and 80 from London, on the banks of the Ouse; containing 8 houses and 57 inhabitants.

SAPCOTE, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 3 miles from Hinckley, and 96 from London; containing 106 houses and 555 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

SAPEY OYER, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 7 miles from Bromyard, and 128 from London; containing 55 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.*

SAPEY PRITCHARD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Clifton, hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 6 miles from Bromyard, and 126 from London; containing 40 houses and 236 inhabitants.

SAPISTON, a parish in the hundred of Blackbourne, Suffolk, 3 miles from Ixworth, and 80 from London; containing 29 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the duke of Grafton.

SAPPERSDEN, a parish in the hundred of Bisley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stroud, and 88 from London; containing 82 houses and 351 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.*

SAPPERTON, a parish in the hundred of Grantham, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Folkingham, and 110 from London; containing 14 houses and 79 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.*

SAREDON, a hamlet in the parish of Shareshill, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 4 miles from Penkridge, and 128 from London; containing 46 houses and 241 inhabitants.

SARK, a river on the borders of Scotland, which falls into the Eden, below Milner hill.

SARK, a small island in the English channel, dependent on Guernsey, about 2 miles in length, and containing about 300 inhabitants. The island is surrounded with steep rocks, and the air is in general serene and free from fogs and damps, and remarkably healthy. It produces most kinds of grain in sufficient quantities for the consumption of its inhabitants. It also abounds with ducks, mallards, woodcocks, and various wild fowl, with great plenty of rabbits. The trade is chiefly to Bristol, and its manufactures principally knitting of stockings, gloves, and waistcoats, or Guernsey jackets for the sailors. The French seized and kept possession of this island till the reign of queen Mary. Lat. 49° 30′. Lon. 2° 52′ west.

SARNESFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Stretford, Hereford, 8 miles from Kineton, and 147 from London; the population of which was omitted to be returned. It is a rectory value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the University of Oxford.

SARRATT, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 3 miles from Rickmansworth, and 17 from London; containing 62 houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

SARRE, a small village and a member of the port of Sandwich, in the isle of Thanet, Kent, half way between Thanet and Canterbury, and 64 miles from London. It was once a place of some repute, and had anciently a haven, where there is now only a small brook. Fair, 14th October.

SARSDON, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 3 miles from Chipping Norton, and 74 from London; containing 20 houses and 92 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

SARUM NEW. See SALISBURY, Wilts.

SARUM OLD, or OLD SALISBURY, an ancient borough, in the parish of Stratford under the Castle, hundred of Underditch, Wilts, 1¼ mile from Salisbury; and though, as Walker says, it once covered the summit of a high steep hill, is now reduced to a single house, with some ruins of a castle and intrenchments. After the Norman conquest it was conferred on the Devereux family. Edward III. gave it to William Montacute, in whose family the title of Earl of Salisbury became extinct, in the reign of Edward IV. King James bestowed the earldom on Robert Cecil, son of lord Burleigh, when that family sold the borough in 1690, to governor Pitt, for 1500*l.* The governor's nephew, the great earl of Chatham, was born at the manor house, and his descendant, Thomas Pitt, (lord Camelford), afterwards possessed it, who was killed in a duel in 1804. It still preserves the privilege of sending two members to parliament, who are elected by the proprietors of certain adjacent lands. The election is usually held under a temporary house, erected under a large tree. The fortification of Old Sarum consists of a very high hill, surrounded by three lines of trenches, completely commanding the surrounding country. Its history is fully treated in Mr. King's Munimenta Antiqua.—Oldfield's Boroughs.

SATHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Averham, hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 2 miles from Southwell, and 126 from London; containing 11 houses and 64 inhabitants.

SATLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Lanchester, in Chester ward, Durham, 5 miles from Walsingham, and 266 from London; containing 17 houses and 73 inhabitants.

SATTERLEIGH, a parish united with War-leigh, in the hundred of South Moulton, Devon, 4 miles from South Moulton, and 184 from London; containing 12 houses and 64 inhabitants.

SATTERTHWAIT, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Hawkshead, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 3 miles from Hawkshead, and 273 from London; containing 56 houses and 274 inhabitants.

SATWELL, a village in the hundred of Moreton, Berks, 2 miles from Wallingford, and 47 from London; containing 25 houses and 68 inhabitants.

SAUCETHORPE, a village in the hundred of Hill, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 3 miles from Spilsby, and 137 from London; containing 20 houses and 130 inhabitants.

SAUGHALL GREAT, LITTLE, and MASSEY, 3 small villages in the parish of Shotwick, and hundred of Wirrall, Chester, near Chester, and 183 miles from London; the former containing 44 houses and 147 inhabitants; Little Saughall 8 houses and 48 inhabitants; and the latter 20 houses and 98 inhabitants.

SAUGHE, a river in Carnarvonshire, which runs into the Irish sea, south of Tiemor Point.

SAUL, a parish in the hundred of Whitstone, Gloucester, 6 miles from Stroud, and 108 from London; containing 72 houses and 349 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the vicar of Standish.

SAUNDBY, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 2½ miles from Gainsborough, and 150 from London; containing 15 houses and 100 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

SAUNDERTON, a parish in the hundred of Desborough, Bucks, 2 miles from Princes' Risborough, and 38 from London; containing 25 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford.

SAVOCK, a river in Lancashire, which falls into the Ribble, near Lea.

SAUTHY, a river in Carmarthenshire, which falls into the Muthy, near Llangadock.

SAWBRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Wolfhamcote, in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, near Rugby. The population included with Wolfhamcote.

SAWBRIDGWORTH. See SABRIDGEWORTH, Herts.

SAWDON, a hamlet in the parish of Brompton, in Pickering Lythe, north riding of York, 14 miles from Malton, and 231 from London; containing 23 houses and 120 inhabitants.

SAWLEY, a parish in the hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 8 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 145 houses and 720 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SAWLEY, a parish in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 5 miles from Clitheroe, and 220 from London; containing 95 houses and 552 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SAWLEY, a township in the parish and liberties of Rippon, west riding of York, 4 miles from Rippon, and 218 from London; containing 86 houses and 438 inhabitants.

SAWSTON, a parish in the hundred of Whittlesford, Cambridge, 7 miles from Cambridge, and 49 from London; containing 94 houses and 466 inhabitants. On the right is the seat of J. Huddleston, esq. built with materials from Cambridge castle. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

SAWTRY ALL-SAINTS, ST. ANDREW'S, and ST. JUDITH'S, three villages in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, 10 miles from Huntingdon, and 69 from London. The parish of All-Saints contains 66 houses and 453 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* St. Andrew's contains 29 houses and 151 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 8*l.* 1*s.*; St. Judith's contains 38 houses and 186 inhabitants.

SAXBY, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 3½ miles from Melton Mowbray, and 107 from London; containing 23 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.*

SAXBY, a parish in the hundred of Aslacoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 10 miles from Lincoln, and 144 from London; containing 16 houses and 69 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

SAXBY, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Barton, and 165 from London; containing 38 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.*

SAXELBY, a village in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 3½ miles from Melton Mowbray, and 107 from London; containing 20 houses and 82 inhabitants.

SAXENDALE, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bingham, Notts, 8½ miles from Nottingham; containing 14 houses and 68 inhabitants.

SAXHAM GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Thingoe, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bury St. Edmunds, and 76 from London; containing 34 houses and 226 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*

SAXHAM LITTLE, a parish adjoining the foregoing; containing 25 houses and 194 inhabitants. The living, value 8*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* is united with the preceding.

SAXILBY, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Lincoln, and 140 from London; containing 85 houses and 389 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

SAXLINGHAM NETHERGATE, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 8 miles from Norwich, and 101 from London; containing 57 houses and 429 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, value 13*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

SAXLINGHAM THORPE, ½ mile distant from the former; containing 18 houses and 136 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SAXMUNDHAM, a market town and parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 19 miles from Ipswich, and 89 from London; containing 103 houses and 855 inhabitants. It is situated on a commanding hill; the streets are narrow and not paved, but in general the houses are well built. The church is a large structure; and there is also a dissenting meeting-house. It has no particular manufacture. The market is on Thursday, and its fairs are on Holy Thursday, and 23d September. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

SAXTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 2 miles from Framlingham, and 90 from London; containing 52 houses and 391 inhabitants.

SAXTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aylsham, and 119 from London; containing 30 houses and 316 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

SAXTON, a parish in the wapentake of Barkston Ash, west riding of York, near Tadcaster, and 188 miles from London; containing 71 houses and 362 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SCAFFWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Bawtry, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 1 mile from Bawtry, and 152 from London; containing 20 houses and 112 inhabitants.

SCAGGLETHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Settrington, and wapentake of Buckrose, east riding of York, 3 miles from Malton, and 220 from London; containing 31 houses and 200 inhabitants.

SCALBY, a hamlet in the parish of Blacktoft, and wapentake of Howdenshire, east riding of York, 7 miles from Howden, and 190 from London; containing 11 houses and 66 inhabitants.

SCALBY EAST AND WEST, an united parish in Eskdale Ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Carlisle, and 309 from London; containing 86 houses and 468 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.

SCALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 3½ miles from Melton Mowbray, and 108 from London; containing 68 houses and 333 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

SCALTHWAITRIG, a village in Kendal Ward, Westmoreland, 2 miles from Kendal, and 262 from London; containing 49 houses and 250 inhabitants.

SCAMBLESBY, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 7 miles from Louth, and 146 from London; containing 45 houses and 272 inhabitants.—It is a curacy.

SCAMMONDEN, a township and chapelry in the parish of Huddersfield, in Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, near Huddersfield; containing 98 houses and 626 inhabitants.

SCAMPSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Rillington, in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Malton, and 223 from London; containing 37 houses and 201 inhabitants.

SCAMPTON, a parish in the wapentake of Lawress, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 5 miles from Lincoln, and 139 from London; containing 24 houses and 123 inhabitants; and is a rectory, value 8*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

SCARBOROUGH, a sea port and borough town in Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 22 miles from New Malton, and 214 from London, by Lincoln; containing 1615 houses and 6688 inhabitants, viz. 2730 males and 3958 females, of whom 1173 were returned as being principally employed in trade.—Scarburgh, or the town on the Scar or cliff, situated on the coast of the German ocean, is almost inaccessible, except towards the west; it is well-built and spacious, but from its romantic situation, regularity cannot be expected in it. A fine range of buildings on the cliff, commands a charming view. It has a very commodious quay, and one of the best harbours in the kingdom; and has a number of vessels employed in the coal trade, from Newcastle to London. Corn, dried fish, and other articles, are sent coast-ways; and the fisheries for cod, ling, soles, haddocks, herrings, &c. employ many hands. There is also a manufactory of sail cloth, three rope walks, and several ship yards, where vessels of 600 tons are built. In history it was long noted for its castle, which is now little more than a mass of ruins; it had a stately tower, which served as a land mark to mariners, but was nearly destroyed during the civil wars. A barrack has been lately erected here, with a very strong battery of 18 pounders. Scarborough has got an excellent hospital for the widows of poor seamen, maintained by a rate on vessels, and a small deduction from seamen's wages. There is but one church in this large town, and as it rose out of the ruins of one destroyed in the civil wars, it contains nothing remarkable; in summer prayers are read every morning: there are likewise several places of worship for different sectaries. The chief support of the place is from the great resort of people, in the hottest months of the year, to drink the waters, which are purgative and diuretic. The Spa, as it is called, is about ¼ mile south of the town on the sands, at the foot of a high cliff, and rises upright out of the earth near the level of the spring tides, which often overflow it; it consists of two wells, discovered about two centuries back; one of them is more purgative, and the other more chalybeate, though they are both impregnated with different proportions of the same principles. The qualities of the water are a compound of vitriol, iron, alum, nitre, and salt, very transparent; when they are poured from one glass to another, they throw up a number of air bubbles, a proof that they contain much fixed air; from two to four half pints is the quantity usually drank, which is found serviceable in hectic fevers, in nervous, hysteric, and hypochondriacal disorders, in the scurvy, rheumatism, asthma, &c. A person under the name of Governor, resides during the season at the Spa, and receives a subscription of 7*s*. 6*d*. from each person, one-third of which is appropriated to the water servers and attendants, and the rest to the corporation. In 1737, this famous Spa was near being lost, from a sudden sinking of the earth, supposed to have been caused from the weight of the solid earth at the top of the cliff, pressing upon and into the swampy bog beneath, and thereby raising the sands on which are the public walks and the spa wells, near 7 yards above their former level; but as the wells rose the water ceased running and was gone; after a diligent search, however, and clearing away the ruins, the spa spring was again found not anyways impaired by the disaster. There are many lodging houses, and two or three good boarding houses, in Scarborough; and provisions, particularly fish, are at a reasonable price. The assembly room is commodious, but has nothing to distinguish it for either beauty or elegance. There is also a small neat theatre, which has generally a good company attached to it. It has also two circulating libraries. Scarborough is a town corporate, governed by 2 bailiffs, a recorder, 2 coroners, 4 chamberlains, and 36 common councilmen, and has sent two members to parliament ever since the reign of Edward I. The returning officers are the two bailiffs.—There are many agreeable rides and walks round the town, and excursions are frequently made to Hackness, the seat of the late sir R. B. Johnson, bart.—Wykeham, the seat of Mr. Langley—Brompton, the residence of sir George Cayley, bart.—and Castle Howard, the seat of the earl of Carlisle. The market days are on Thursday and Saturday; and its fairs are on Holy Thursday, and 22d November. The living is a vicarage, value 13*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. Lat. 54. 18. long. 5. west. History of Scarborough, and Guide to the Watering places.

Scarcliff, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 7 miles from from Chesterfield, and 143 from London; containing 86 houses and 452 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l*. in the patrouage of the king.

Scarcroft, a township in the parish of Thorner, in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Leeds, and 197 from London; containing 146 houses and 659 inhabitants.

Scargill, a hamlet in the parish of Barningham, in Gilling west wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Barnard Castle, and 140 from London; containing 19 houses and 104 inhabitants.

Scarisbrick, a township in the parish of Ormskirk, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Ormskirk, and 219 miles from London; containing 192 houses and 1154 inhabitants.

Scarle South, a small village in the hundred of Newark, Notts, on the borders of Lincolnshire, 5 miles from Newark, and 121 from London; containing 25 houses and 119 inhabitants.

Scarle North, a parish in the hundred of Boothby-Graffo, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 6 miles from Newark, and 122 from London; containing 64 houses and 303 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l*. 17*s*. 2*d*.

Scarning, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 2 miles from East Dereham, and 103 from London; containing 56 houses and 439 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l*. 19*s*. 2*d*.

Scarrington, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Orston, in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 3 miles from Bingham, and 122 from London; containing 32 houses and 152 inhabitants.

Scarsdale, the name of a hundred in Derby, being the north-eastern division of the county, around Chesterfield.

Scartho, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Grimsby, and 168 from London; containing 34 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l*. 10*s*. 10*d*.

Scawby, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 154 from London; containing 83 houses and 518 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Scawthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Scotter, hundred of Corringham, Lincoln, near Gainsborough; the population of which was included with that of Scotter.

Scawton, a parish in Rydall division, north riding of York, 3¼ miles from Helmsley, and 225 from London; containing 31 houses and 129 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 2*l*. 19*s*. 2*d*.

Scenferth, the name of a hundred in Monmouth, being the north-eastern point of the county, divided from Hereford, by the Monnow.

School Aycliff, a hamlet in the parish of Heighington, in Darlington ward, Durham, 6 miles from Darlington, and 249 from London; containing 7 houses and 41 inhabitants.

Scilly Islands, a group of islands distant from the land's end, about 30 miles; of which only five or six are inhabited. The chief of them is St. Mary's, which has a good port, and contains about 700 inhabitants, its greatest length being about 2½ miles, and the breadth 1½: the hills are rocky, rising in some places to a great height, and are enriched with mineral stores; the valleys are fertile, and the fields like those in Cornwall, inclosed with stone walls: this island has a small garrison. About 1¼ mile southwest from the garrison, lies St. Agnes Island, on which is a very high and strong lighthouse, seen in the night at a great distance, by which ships going out of, or coming into the two channels, avoid falling in with the rocks, lying thicker about this than any other of the islands. Abont 3½ miles north of St. Agnes Island, lies the Island of Tresco, the capital town of which is called the Dolphin (probably from Godolphin), consisting of a church and about a dozen houses, built of stone. One mile from the easternmost part of Tresco, lies the Island of St. Martin, upon the extremity of which at the outermost part stands a day mark, next the entrance of Crow Sound, and as conspicuous by day as the lighthouse of St. Agnes is by night; it is a round building of rockstone tapering towards the top.—About half-a-mile from the west side of Tresco Island, lies Bryor Island, which is inhabited by several families. On these several Islands are many remains of druidical antiquities. The inhabitants employ themselves in fishing, burning kelp, and as pilots; some of the islands produce excellent corn, and most of them plenty of rabbits, herons, swans, and various water fowl.

SCOLE, alias OSMONDSTON, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 1¼ mile from Diss, and 89 from London; containing 37 houses and 300 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l*.

SCOON, a parish in the shire of Perth, Scotland, situated on the east bank of the Tay, 1 mile from Perth; containing 319 houses and 1670 inhabitants: the village of Scoon is noted for its palace, once the residence of the Scottish kings; here also was formerly an abbey belonging to the Culdees, destroyed at the reformation. In the church of the abbey was antiently preserved the famous stone, said to have served Jacob as his pillow, in the plain of Luz; it was brought to Scoon by Kenneth II. where it was used as the coronation seat of every Scottish monarch, till 1296, when Edward I. carried it to England. It still continues as an appendage to the coronation chair in Westminster abbey. The seat of the earl of Mansfield here, as lord viscount Stormont, is pleasantly situated on an extensive lawn, sloping gently to the Tay; it is of ancient architecture, more remarkable for its strength than elegance; in the drawing-room is some good old tapestry, and in one of the bedchambers a scripture piece in needle work, the production of queen Mary, during her confinement in Loch Leven castle; about 70 yards north of the palace is a small eminence called the Boots-hill, the common tradition of which is, that at the coronation of a king, every man who assisted brought so much earth in his boot, that he could see the king crowned standing on his own land; and that after the ceremony, they cast the earth out upon this hill. Upon this hill was erected a fine parish church, now taken down except the aisle, which is used for the burying place of the Murrays. The village itself is regularly built, having two broad streets and several lanes.—Pennant's and Mc. Nayr's Tours.

SCOONIE, a parish in the shire of Fife, otherwise called LEVEN, from its principal village situated at the mouth of the Leven, 10 miles from Kirkcaldy, and 8 from Cupar; containing 303 houses and 1681 inhabitants.

SCOPWICK, a hamlet in the parish of Kirby, wapentake of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 10 miles from Lincoln, and 123 from London; containing 36 houses and 183 inhabitants.

SCORBROUGH, a parish in the division of Bainton Beacon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 4 miles from Beverley, and 188 from London; containing 11 houses and 61 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l*.

SCORTON, a township in the parish of Catterick, Gilling east wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Richmond, and 234 from London; containing 90 houses and 439 inhabitants, SCORTHROP, a hamlet in the parish of Kirby Malham-dale, wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, 5 miles from Settle, and 230 from London containing 14 houses and 90 inhabitants.

SCOTBY, a township in the parish of Witherall, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 2 miles from Carlisle, and 302 from London; containing 52 houses and 275 inhabitants.

SCOTFORTH, a township to the parish of Lancaster, in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, near Lancaster; containing 94 houses and 462 inhabitants.

SCOTHERN, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 5 miles from Lincoln, and 139 from London; containing 72 houses and 328 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l*. 5*s*. 2*d*. in the patronage of the king.

SCOTLAND, is that part of the Island of Great Britain, which lies north of the river Tweed, and is bounded on all sides by the sea, except on the south-east where it is joined to England, extending about 280 miles in length. It is of various breadths, in some places 150 miles, and in others not more than 30. It contains an area of 27,794 miles, having about 12,151,471 acres of cultivated, and 14,218,224 acres of uncultivated land, the remainder of the surface being occupied by rivers and lakes. It is divided into 33 shires or counties, viz. Aberdeen, Argyle, Ayr Banff, Berwick, Bute, Caithness, Clackmanan, Cromarty, Dumbarton, Dumfries Edinburgh, Elgin, Fife, Forfar, Haddington, Inverness, Kincardine, Kinross, Kirkcudbright, Lanark, Litlithgow, Nairn Peebles, Perth, Renfrew, Ross, Roxburgh, Selkirk, Stirling, Sutherland, Wigton, and the Orkney and Shetland Isles the whole containing 294,373 houses, i Published June 1, 1808 by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars, London.

Gapar Sculpt.

habited by 1,599,068 persons, viz. 734,581 males and 864,487 females, of whom 293,373 were returned as being employed in trade, manufacture, or handicraft, and 365,516 in agriculture. Scotland is naturally divided into two great divisions, Highlands, and Lowlands, and it may again be divided into three parts, which we shall call the north, middle, and south divisions, the first or northern division is separated from the middle by a chain of lakes, stretching from the Moray Frith to Loch Linnhe; the second or middle division is separated from the southern by the Friths of Forth and Clyde, and the great canal in the northern; it presents nothing to the eye but an assemblage of vast mountains, bordered however on the north-east and east coasts, with vales and level tracts tolerably fertile; the middle division, also contains many ranges of mountains, particularly the Grampians, stretching from Aberdeenshire to the Atlantic ocean. In these two divisions which comprehends more than two thirds of Scotland, the arable land bears but a small proportion to the mountainous regions, which are of such ruggedness and sterility as nearly to defy the efforts of human industry. The eastern coast of the middle division and a great part of the southern, bears a resemblance to England; and in the southern division may be seen every sort of rural variety; having in many parts verdant plains watered by copious streams, and covered with innumerable flocks of cattle; some of the tracts abounding with prospects of the most romantic kind. The principal ridges of mountains are the Grampians; the Pentland-hills, in Lothian; the Lammermuir-hills, in Berwickshire; the Ochils, in Fife and Perthshire; and the Cheviot-hills, on the English borders. Several single mountains are upwards of 4000 feet above the level of the sea. The rivers are numerous, and descending from so elevated a country to the sea, are in general rapid and precipitous, and their innumerable cascades, heighten the beauty of the scenery; the most considerable are those of the middle division, the Spey rising in the mountainous district of Lochaber, rushes furiously into the eastern sea; and the Tay discharges into the ocean below Dundee a greater quantity of water, than perhaps any other river of Britain. In this district too, the Dee, Don, and Esk, are very large rivers. In the southern district are the rivers Forth, Clyde, and Tweed, and the numerous rivers which empty themselves into the Irish sea and Solway Frith; the Ayr, Girvan, South Dee, Nith, Annan and Liddal. The northern division contains the Beaulieu, Naver, and Conon, besides several inferior streams. The lakes or lochs are very numerous and extensive, the chief are Loch Lomond, Lochaw, Loch Tay, Loch Ness, Loch Shin, Loch Lochay, Loch Naver, Loch Leven, &c. the whole abounding with excellent and various kinds of fish. The ancient forests have been greatly diminished, yet there are considerable remains in the districts of Marr, and Glentanar, Rannoch, Glenmore, and Strathspey; and in Rosshire. The fir is the most common timber. The soil consists of every variety in nature, and its general character in point of fertility is much inferior to England. The highlands of Scotland have been compared with the Moorlands of Yorkshire, and of late the principal nobility and gentry have formed themselves into a society, called The Highland Society of Scotland, giving premiums and various encouragements for the improvement of the waste lands, and the amelioration of the breeds of black cattle and sheep. The soil produces wheat, rye, barley, oats, peas, and beans, flax, hemp, hay, potatoes, &c. and almost every sort of crop in common with England, although not in such perfection, and at times precarious with the season. Apples and several fruits, are also produced in great abundance. Juniper shrubs grow naturally on the hills, and the whortle or blae berries (vaccinium myrtillum) grow on the highest mountains, in the greatest abundance. At present it cannot boast of mines of the most precious metals, but considerable quantities of gold and silver have been found at different times; no mines are now wrought solely for silver, but the lead mines are exceedingly rich in that metal. Iron ore is abundant. Copper has also been discovered in many places, and of late a very rich mine of antimony has been opened in Westerkirk, in Dumfrieshire; the other metallic substances are cobalt, bismuth, manganese, &c. In the southern and middle districts coal is abundant, but none has been yet discovered north of the Tay; limestone, freestone, and slates, are found in every district; and many of the marbles prove equal in colour and polish, to those of Italy. Pearls are found in the great horse muscle, a native of the northern rivers; the sapphire is found in several places of different shades, from a deep red to a transparent white, and of equal hardness with the oriental. The topaz is found in the Highland mountains, and the ruby and hyacinth, mixed with the sand on the sea shore. At Portsoy is found that singular kind of granite called Moses' tables, which when polished, the marks in it resemble the Hebrew characters on a white ground; besides these there are many curious and rare fossils:—amongst the districts of metalic ores, there are many springs of mineral impregnation, and the chalybeate waters are very numerous; and at Moffat and near Edinburgh, are sulphureous springs. The wild animals of Scotland, are the fox, badger, otter, stag, wild roe, hare, rabbit, wild cat, hedge-hog, weasel, and other small quadrupeds; but the wild ox, beaver, and wolf, now no longer exist; the domestic animals are similar to those of England but the native breeds of black cattle and sheep, are considerably smaller in size, but very delicious in food; of the domestic animals peculiar to this country, is the colley, or true shepherd's dog; of the feathered tribe, that beautiful bird called capercailzie, or cock of the wood, is found, but it is now exceeding rare; the ptarmigan, the black game, and grouse are abundant in the heathy mountains; and the low grounds produce partridges, snipes, plovers, and various other birds. The Scots are represented in the imperial parliament by 16 peers, elected by the nobility, at the calling of every parliament, who sit and vote in the house of lords. To the house of commons, Scotland sends 45 members, viz. 30 commissioners or knights of the shires, and 15 from the different districts or royal boroughs. The military establishment of Scotland, consists of a lieutenant-general, three major-generals, and the staff, who are under the commander in chief. There are four forts, which by the articles of union are to be kept constantly in repair, viz. Edinburgh, Stirling, Dumbarton, and Blackness; besides which there are several other forts, which are kept as barracks for soldiers, such as forts George, Augustus, William, Charlotte, &c.; and by a late act of parliament, the militia laws have been extended to Scotland. The line of division into Highlands and Lowlands, forms also a great distinction, in the language, dress, manners, and customs of the inhabitants; whilst the Lowlanders, partly resemble the English and French; the Highlanders have a country of their own. The chief peculiarities which the Lowlanders retain, are the amusements of the Golf and Curling, the former has been practised generally in Scotland for several hundred years, and is now almost introduced into every part of the world; the latter requires considerable strength, and is performed with large stones from 20 to 100lbs. which the competitors hurl a great distance to a mark. Dancing is also a favourite amusement of this country, particularly reels adapted to the strathspays, and other pieces of national music. The established religion is the Presbyterian, as settled at the revolution, and confirmed by the union; it is modelled principally after the Calvinistical plan established at Geneva, and on a general principle of an equality of Ecclesiastical authority among its Presbyters; on this principle the revenues of the clergy approach pretty near to an equality; none of the stipends being more than 200*l.* per ann. and none less than 50*l.* There are the Ecclesiastical courts, viz. The General Assembly, Provincial Synods, Presbyteries, and Kirk Sessions, the latter is the most inferior court, composed of the minister, elders, and deacons, of every parish, these have the superintendance of the poor, visit the rich, and assist the clergyman in his clerical functions. The education of all classes is much attended to in Scotland, and in the reign of William and Mary, it was established that there should be a school and school-master in every parish. In most of the large towns there are academies established on very liberal plans, and Scotland has five universities, viz. St Andrew's; and King's College, in Old Aberdeen; Marischal College, in New Aberdeen; and colleges at Edinburgh and Glasgow. The currency of sterling money in England and Scotland is the same.—Sir John Sinclair's Stat. Account, and Chalmer's Caledonia.

SCOTLAND, a small hamlet, situated ½ mile north of Corfe castle, in the isle of Purbeck, Dorsetshire.

SCOTTER, a parish in the hundred of Corringham, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Gainsborough, and 157 from London; containing 151 houses and 666 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Peterborough.

SCOTTON, a parish in the hundred of Corringham, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 5½ miles from Gainsborough, and 156 from London; containing 50 houses and 242 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SCOTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Catterick, in Hang east wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Richmond, and 231 from London; containing 16 houses and 70 inhabitants.

SCOTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Farnham, in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 2 miles from Knaresborough, and 216 from London; containing 49 houses and 220 inhabitants.

SCOTTOW, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, near Aylsham, and 118 miles from London; containing 48 houses and 376 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich. Fair, on Easter Tuesday.

SCOULTON, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 2 miles from Watton, and 92 from London; containing 41 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

SCRAFTON, a hamlet in the parish of Coverham, in Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Middleham, and 231 from London; containing 22 houses and 107 inhabitants.

SCRAY, the name of a lathe in Kent, being the center division of the county, lying between the lathes of Aylesford and St. Augustine.

SCRAVINGHAM, a village in the wapentake of Buckrose, east riding of York, near Richmond, and 230 miles from London; containing 25 houses and 140 inhabitants.

SCRAPTOFT, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 3½ miles from Leicester, and 93 from London; containing 25 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*s.*

SCREDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Aswardhurn, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2½ miles from Sleaford, and 114 from London; containing 47 houses and 222 inhabitants.

It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

Scremby, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1 mile from Spilsby, and 134 from London; containing 34 houses and 185 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

Screveton, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 11 miles from Nottingham, and 128 from London; containing 36 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 19*s.* 1*d.*

Scrivelsby, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Horncastle, and 136 from London; containing 12 houses and 92 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* The manor of this place is held by grand serjeanty, the owner of it performing the office of champion of England, at the coronation of the king.

Scriven, a township in the parish of Knaresborough, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Knaresborough, and 213 from London; containing 171 houses and 814 inhabitants.

Scroody, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 2½ miles from Bawtry, and 148 from London; containing 48 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Scropton, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 5 miles from Burton, and 132 from London; containing 85 houses and 476 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Scruton, a parish in Hang east wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Bedale, and 228 from London; containing 80 houses and 379 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 5*d.*

Sculthorpe, a parish in the hundred of Gaflow, Norfolk, 2 miles from Fakenham, and 110 from London; containing 68 houses and 352 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.*

Sculcoats, an out-parish, forming the suburb to the town of Kingston upon Hull, in the east riding of York, 175 miles from London, by Lincoln; containing 912 houses and 5448 inhabitants, viz. 2339 males, and 3109 females, of whom 830 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Scunthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Froddingham, in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Glandford Brigg, and 159 miles from London; containing 54 houses and 169 inhabitants.

Seaborough, a hamlet in the parish of Wayford, in the hundred of Crewkerne, Somerset, 3 miles from Crewkerne, and 130 from London; containing 18 houses and 82 inhabitants.

Seabrook, a hamlet in the parish of Cheddington, hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 1 mile from Ivinghoe, and 34 from London; containing 10 houses and 62 inhabitants.

Seackleton, a hamlet in the parish of Hovingham, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Malton, and 218 from London; containing 24 houses and 130 inhabitants.

Seacroft, a hamlet in the parish of Whitchurch, in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 4½ miles from Leeds; containing 15 houses and 70 inhabitants.

Seaford, a borough and parish in the hundred of Flexborough, rape of Pevensey, Sussex; standing near the sea, 63 miles from London; and containing 146 houses and 847 inhabitants. It was formerly a large town, and had 4 churches and chapels till it was burnt by the enemy. Its inhabitants are mostly employed in fishing, but of late years it has been much resorted to as a bathing place. It possesses the privileges of a cinque port, which it acquired from Charles I. and has sent two members to parliament, with the exception of a few omissions, ever since the 26th o Edward I. The right of election is in the inhabitants, housekeepers, paying scot and lot, and the returning officer is the bailiff, who is the head of the corporation, which also consists of 12 jurats, and an indefinite number of freemen. Near the town towards Alfreston, are to be seen several ancient tumuli. Fairs, 15th March, and 25th July. Lat. 50°. 50′. Long. 16′. east. Its forts have lately been put into a good state of defence, and it has a small garrison.

Seagrave, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 3¼ miles from Mount Sorrell, and 107 from London; containing 67 houses and 301 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Seagry, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, 4 miles from Malmsbury, and 93 from London; containing 35 houses and 233 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

Seaham, a parish in Easington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Sunderland, and 270 from London; containing 17 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 5*d.*

Seal, a parish and curacy, in the hundred of Codsheath, lathe of Sutton at Hone, Kent, 14 miles from Maidstone, and 2 from Seven Oaks; containing 203 houses and 993 inhabitants. It was formerly a chapelry to Kemsing. Fair, 6th June.

Seal, a parish in the hundred of Farnham, Surry, 3½ miles from Farnham, and 35 from London; containing 58 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Seals, Nether and Over, two hamlets forming a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 120 from London; containing 183 houses and 906 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Seals, Isle of, on the northern point of Anglesea, in Wales. It is small and rocky, and much frequented by seals. It has a good light-house.

Seamer, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Carlton, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 1½ mile from Stokesley, and 244 from London; containing 49 houses and 249 inhabitants. Fair, 15th of July.

Seamer, a river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Ure between Norton and Bainbridge.

Seamer, a parish in Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 3 miles from Scarborough, and 215 from London; containing 95 houses and 515 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*

Searby, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 153 from London; containing 49 houses and 244 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Sear Green, a hamlet in the parish of Chesham, hundred of Burnham, Bucks, 1½ mile from Chesham, and 30 from London; containing 31 houses and 224 inhabitants.

Seasalter, a parish in the hundred of Whitstable, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, near the sea, 4 miles from Feversham, and 50 from London; containing 75 houses and 419 inhabitants. It has fairs 25th March, 24th June, 29th September, and 25th December. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

Seatmoorthow, a small village in the parish of Brigham, near Cockermouth, Cumberland.

Seaton, a township in the parish of Camberton, in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 5 miles from Cockermouth, and 307 from London; containing 129 houses and 562 inhabitants.

Seaton, a parish in the hundred of Colyton, Devon, 7 miles from Lyme, and 150 from London; containing 269 houses and 1497 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 7*d.* with Bere chapel annexed. Fair, 1st March.

Seaton, a river in Cornwall, which rises near Leskeard, and after a course of 12 miles, falls into the sea. Near its mouth formerly stood a town of the same name, long since swallowed up by the encroachments of the sea.

Seaton, a hamlet in the parish of Seaham, in Easington ward, Durham, 5½ miles from Sunderland, and 270 from London; containing 19 houses and 96 inhabitants.

Seaton, a parish in the hundred of Wrandike, Rutland, 2½ miles from Uppingham, and 87 from London; containing 75 houses and 358 inhabitants.

Seaton Carew, a township in the parish of Stranton, in Stockton ward, Durham, 2 miles from Hartlepool, and 256 from London; containing 65 houses and 263 inhabitants. Of late it has been much frequented as a bathing place. There are several commodious lodging houses here, and an inn newly erected on an extensive scale.

Seaton Delaval, a hamlet in the parish of Earsdon, in Castle ward, Northumberland, near Tynemouth, 286 miles from London; containing 46 houses and 240 inhabitants. It has a port of artificial construction like Cullercoats, contrived by Sir Ralph Delaval. Charles II. made him collector and surveyor of his own port, and it still bears his name. It admits only vessels of small burthen.

Seaton North, a hamlet in the parish of Woodhorn, in Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Morpeth, and 296 from London; containing 43 houses and 182 inhabitants.

Seaton Ross, a parish in the wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 5 miles from Market Weighton, and 198 from London; containing 78 houses and 385 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the duke of Leeds.

Seavington St. Mary's, and Seavington St. Michael's, two adjoining parishes in the hundred of South Petherton, Somerset, 3 miles from Ilminster, and 132 from London; containing 68 houses and 372 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.*

Sebergham High, a parish in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Heskett Newmarket, and 296 from London; containing 96 houses and 434 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Carlisle.

Sebergham Low, a hamlet in the preceding parish, and adjoining thereto; containing 55 houses and 308 inhabitants.

Seckington, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 4 miles from Tamworth, and 116 from London; containing 20 houses and 130 inhabitants. On a hill near the church, are the vestiges of a circular fort. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 16*s.*

Sedbergh, a market town and parish in the wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, situated at the bottom of the Houghill Fells, on the borders of Westmoreland, 271 miles from London; containing 360 houses and 1639 inhabitants. It has a market on Wednesday, and its fairs are 20th March, and 29th October. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

Sedgberrow, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 4 miles from Evesham, and 93 from London; containing 36 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

Sedgbrook, a parish in the hundred of Winnibrigs and Threw, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Grantham, and 115 from London; containing 33 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* divided into 2 moieties, in the patronage of the king.

Sedgfield, a parish, and formerly a market town, in Stockton ward, Durham, 11 miles from Durham, and 256 from London; containing 301 houses and 1184 inhabitants. It has a well endowed alms-house. The rectory value 73*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* is in the patronage of the king.

SEDGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 6 miles from Burnham, and 125 from London; containing 82 houses and 598 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich.

SEDGHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Earsden, in Castle ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Newcastle, and 282 from London; containing 20 houses and 97 inhabitants.

SEDLESCOMB, a parish in the hundred of Staple, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 2 miles from Battle, and 55 from London; containing 63 houses and 510 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* Here is a medicinal spring, similar to Tunbridge Wells.

SEDSLEY, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 3 miles from Wolverhampton, and 128 from London; containing 1710 houses and 9874 inhabitants, viz. 5072 males and 4802 females, of whom about 1000 were returned as being employed in the various manufactures of plough, cart, and fire-irons, horse-shoes, hinges, nails, and buckles. It is also famous for a peculiar kind of coal. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*

SEDGWICK, a hamlet in the parish of Heversham, in Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 5 miles from Kendal, and 255 from London; containing 35 houses and 161 inhabitants.

SEEND, a township in the parish and hundred of Melksham, Wilts, 2 miles from Melksham, and 92 from London; containing 169 houses and 976 inhabitants. This village is very pleasantly situated, and till within these few years the high road to Bath passed through it, which has been altered to avoid a steep hill.

SEETHING, a parish in the hundred of Loddon, Norfolk, 4 miles from Bungay, and 110 from London; containing 65 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SEIGHFORD, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 2 miles from Stafford, and 142 from London; containing 131 houses and 841 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

SEISDON, the name of a hundred in Staffordshire, being the south western extremity of the county, bordering on Salop and Worcester.

SEISDON, a hamlet in the parish of Trysle, in the hundred of the same name, Stafford, 6 miles from Wolverhampton, and 130 from London. Near it is Apewood Castle, the remains of an ancient fortification, on a lofty round promontory.

SELBOURNE, a parish in the hundred of Selbourne, and division of Alton, Hants, 4 miles from Alton, and 50 from London; containing 125 houses and 762 inhabitants. Here was anciently a priory for Black canons, and a house for Knights templars. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford.

SELBY, a market town and parish in Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, situated on the west bank of the Ouse, 12 miles from York, and 178½ miles from London; containing 419 houses and 2851 inhabitants, of whom 2000 were returned as being employed in various trades. This town has been greatly improved of late years by a canal which connects the Ouse with the Aire and Calder by a shorter cut. There are several large ships built here, and a pretty good trade is carried on to London. Here has lately been erected one of the completest and handsomest timber bridges in the kingdom, over the river Ouse, particularly admired for the quickness of dispatch used in admitting vessels through it by means of a swivel in the center, which although estimated to weigh 70 tons or upwards, can be opened and shut in a minute, by means of working on balls, similar to cannon balls. A benedictine abbey was founded here by William the Conqueror. The conventual church, belonging to which is now the parish church, and is a fine specimen of the architecture of that period. King Henry I. was born at this town. The market is on Monday. Fairs, Easter Tuesday, 22d June, and 10th October. It is a curacy.

SELKIRK, a royal borough, and the county town of Selkirkshire, Scotland, situated on a rising ground on the banks of the Etterick, 11 miles from Hawick, and 36 from Edinburgh; containing 396 houses and 2093 inhabitants, of whom 314 were employed in various trades. The town is but poorly built, and has nothing of its former importance. The extent of the parish is about a square of 10 miles, partly in Selkirk, and partly in Roxburghshire; it is mostly hilly, and only adapted for pasturage. It is governed by 2 bailies, a dean of guild, treasurer, and 10 counsellors; and unites with Lanerk, Linlithgow, and Peebles, in sending 1 member to parliament. Selkirk gives title of earl to a branch of the Douglas family.

SELKIRKSHIRE, a county of Scotland, bounded on the north by Peebles, on the east by Berwick, on the east and south-east by Roxburgh, on the south-west by Dumfries, and on the west by Peebleshire, being 20 miles in length, and 10 in breadth. It was formerly called the Sheriffdom of Etterick forest, being covered by an extensive wood, stocked with herds of deer, kept by the Scottish princes for the chace. The wood is now nearly cut down, and the deer supplanted by numerous flocks of sheep. Besides the Tweed, this county is watered by the Etterick and Yarrow. Upon a peninsula, formed by the Yarrow, stands the ruinous castle of Newark, the supposed birth-place of Mary Scot, the Flower of Yarrow. This shire contains two towns, viz. SELKIRK and GALASHIELS. It has only two parishes, lying entirely within its bounds, whilst five or six others lie partly in this and partly in the neighbouring shires, but according to the census taken by government, it was found to contain 986 houses and 5070 inhabitants, viz. 2356 males, and 2714 females, of whom 583 were returned as being principally employed in trade and manufacture, and 1023 in agriculture.

SELELEY, the name of a hundred in Wilts, lying on the eastern side of the county around Marlborough.

SELLACK, a parish in the hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, near the Wye, 5 miles from Ross, and 126 from London; containing 60 houses and 480 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

SELSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Easebourn, and rape of Chichester, Sussex, 2 miles from Midhurst, and 61 from London; containing only 11 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 15*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of Brazen Nose college, Oxford.

SELLING, a parish in the hundred of Boughton Bean, lathe of Scray, Kent, 2¼ miles from Feversham, and 49 from London; containing 71 houses and 500 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SELLINGE, a parish in the hundred of Street, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 7 miles from Ashford, and 62 from London; containing 50 houses and 361 inhabitants. Fairs, 21st May, and 11th October. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.*

SELMESTON, a parish in the hundred of Rushmonden, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, near Uckfield, and 45 miles from London; containing 17 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.*

SELSIDE, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, near Kendal, and 260 miles from London; containing 37 houses and 192 inhabitants.

SELSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, 12 miles from Nottingham, and 136 from London; containing 158 houses and 833 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

SELSEA, or SELSEY, a parish in the hundred of Manhood, rape of Chichester, Sussex, situated on a peninsula, formed by an inlet of the sea called Selsea Harbour, 8 miles from Chichester; containing 81 houses and 564 inhabitants. It was formerly a considerable town, and the see of a bishop, created by Edilwach, king of Sussex, in favour of Wilfrid, the exiled bishop of York. It was removed to Chichester in 1075. It is now a vicarage, value 8*l.*

SELWORTHY, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 2 miles from Minehead, and 167 from London; containing 82 houses and 418 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

SELWOOD, Somersetshire, was a wood in the eastern part of the county, from which the neighbourhood was called Selwood [illegible]; and the chief town in it is called to this day Frome Selwood. It was about 15 miles long, and 6 broad.

SEMER, a parish in the hundred of Cosford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Hadleigh and 66 from London; containing 41 houses and 203 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value [illegible] 7*s.* 1*d.*

SEMINGTON, a tything in the parish of Steeple Ashton, hundred of Whorlsdon, Wilts, near Trowbridge, and 95 miles from London; containing 48 houses and 200 inhabitants.

SEMLEY, a parish in the hundred of Downton, Wilts, 4 miles from Shaftesbury and 96 from London; containing 78 houses and 493 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

SEMPRINGHAM, the remains of a parish in the hundred of Aswardhun, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Folkingham and 105 from London; containing only 5 houses and 34 inhabitants. This village has fallen to decay since the dissolution of its ancient monastery. The church which is a mile from any house, is a vicarage, value 2*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* with Poynton Chapel annexed.

SENCE, a river which rises in Leicestershire, and passing through Warwickshire, falls into the Anker, opposite Atherstone.

SEND, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, 4 miles from Guildford and 26 from London; containing 191 houses and 1024 inhabitants, including the hamlet of Ripley. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* with Ripley chapel annexed.

SENNAN, a township in the parish of Buyan, hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 9 miles from Penzance and 298 from London; containing 80 houses and 431 inhabitants.

SEPHTON, a parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 4 miles from Ormskirk and 206 from London; containing 75 houses and 483 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

SESSAY, a parish in the division of Allertonshire, north riding of York, near Northallerton, 230 miles from London; containing 57 houses and 292 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SETBY, a village in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Wragby and 141 from London; containing 16 houses and 95 inhabitants.

SETCHLEY, a village in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 5 miles from Lynn and 91 from London; containing 9 houses and 110 inhabitants. It was formerly much more considerable.

SETMURTHY, a hamlet in the parish of Brigham, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent Cumberland, 3 miles from Cockermouth and 300 from London; containing 22 houses and 164 inhabitants.

SETTLE, a market town in the parish of Giggleswick, wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, situated on the river Ribble, among the hills which separate the counties of York and Lancaster, 6½ miles from York and 203 from London; containing 231 houses and 1136 inhabitants, of whom 993 were employed in trades and manufactures. The town is irregularly built at the base of a lime-stone rock which rises 300 feet above the level of the town, and the parish church is at Giggleswick, on the opposite side of the river, over which there is a stone bridge. The market place is spacious and well attended on Thursdays, and there is also a good market town for cattle every fortnight. Its fairs are the Thursday before Good Friday for cattle; three fortnight fairs every other Friday from thence till Whitsuntide also for cattle; 26th April for sheep; Whit-Tuesday for woollen cloth and pedlary; 19th August for leather and cattle; 20th August for sheep and wool; the day following for woollen cloth and pedlary, and the first Tuesday after 27th October for cattle. In the neighbourhood are several vestiges of Roman fortifications, and on the top of an adjacent moor is Malham Tarn a lake abounding with trout. Upon the road near the town is the curious phenomenon of the ebbing and flowing well; a square reservoir of stone 4 feet by 3, is placed over it, and in this trough the water generally rises and falls about a foot in 10 or 15 minutes.—Housman's Tour.

SETTRINGTON, a parish in the wapentake of Buckrose, east-riding of York, 4 miles from Malton and 220 from London; containing 76 houses and 414 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 42*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* and in the patronage of the Duke of Bridgewater.

SEVEN, a small river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Derwent near Wickham.

SEVENHAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 5 miles from Cheltenham and 90 from London; containing 73 houses and 349 inhabitants; the church is built in the form of a cross, with a low embattled tower in the middle. It is a curacy.

SEVENHAMPTON, a tything in the parish and hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 1 mile from Highworth and 76 from London; containing 40 houses and 187 inhabitants.

SEVEN OAKS, a market town and parish in the hundred of Codsheath, lathe of Sutton at Hone, Kent, situated near the river Darent, 23½ miles from London; containing 411 houses and 1403 inhabitants. It is supposed to have derived its name from 7 remarkable oaks which stood near it when first built. The town is well built, and has a good free grammar school, and an alms-house erected by Sir Wm. Rumpsted, who had been a deserted child, and having been found in Seven Oaks, afterwards became Lord Mayor of London. At the end of the town is Knowle Park, the seat of the Duke of Dorset, originally built by Thomas Bourchier, archbishop of Canterbury, it afterwards belonged to the crown, and lay a considerable time neglected, till it was obtained in the reign of James I. by Thomas Sackville, earl of Dorset. The building is quadrangular, and is a noble pile of architecture, covering with its adjacent building above 5 acres of land. It consists of two large courts, leading into a spacious hall, beyond which is another court leading to the garden. The whole of the galleries and chambers are furnished with pictures, the best performances of the most celebrated masters. The park is finely diversified with scenery, and the whole of the grounds laid out with the greatest taste. The market is on Saturday, and its fairs are the 10th July and 12th October. The rectory is valued at 13*l.* 6. 8*d.* in the king's books, and the vicarage at 15*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*—Hasted's, Kent.

SEVERN, a river which rises in the mountain of Plynlimmon, in Montgomery and Cardiganshire, Wales, and flows first across the south side of Montgomeryshire, turning northward and entering Shropshire, above the Brythen hills at its confluence with the Wirnew. In its course it flows by Welshpool, Shrewsbury, Bridgnorth, Worcester, Tewksbury and Gloucester, and, entering the sea, its mouth is called the Bristol Channel. By canal navigation it communicates with the Thames, by Stroud and Cirencester, to Letchlade.

SEVERN THE VALE OF, a spacious and extensive vale in Gloucestershire, which borders both sides of the river of that name, and whose fertile pastures furnish the kingdom with that cheese for which the county is so justly famous.

SEVERNSTOKE, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 3 miles from Upton and 112 from London; containing 123 houses and 583 inhabitants. It is curacy.

SEVINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Chart, lathe of Scray, Kent, situated near the river Stoure, 2 miles from Ashford; containing 12 houses and 85 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 8*l.* 14*s.*

SEWARDSTONE, a hamlet in the parish and half hundred of Waltham, Essex, 1 mile from Waltham and 12 from London; containing 91 houses and 495 inhabitants.

SEWERBY, a township in the parish of Bridlington, in Dickering lathe, east riding of York, 1 mile from Bridlington on the shore and 209 from London; containing 58 houses and 279 inhabitants.

SEWSTERN, a hamlet in the parish of Buckminster, hundred of Framland, Leicester, 7 miles from Grantham and 112 from London; containing 50 houses and 221 inhabitants.

SHABBINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 2 miles from Thame and 45 from London; containing 33 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

SHACKELWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Hackney, in Middlesex.

SHACKERSTON, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 10 miles from Hinckley and 109 from London; containing 59 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value 5*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*

SHADFORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Pittington, in Easington ward, Durham, 3½ miles from Durham and 260 from London; containing 47 houses and 184 inhabitants.

SHADINGFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 3½ miles from Beccles and 107 from London; containing 17 houses and 187 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

SHADOXHURST, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, lathe of Scray, Kent, 2½ miles from Ashford and 56 from London; containing 30 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* in the patronage of the king SHADWELL, a parish in the hundred of Ossulston, Middlesex, situated near the banks of the Thames, about 2 miles east of London bridge, mostly occupied by seafaring persons; it contains 1550 houses and 8828 inhabitants, viz. 3622 males and 5206 females, of whom 973 were employed in trades. The church is a rectory, in the patronage of the dean of St. Paul's.

SHADWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Thornor, in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 4½ miles from Leeds and 196 from London; containing 34 houses and 141 inhabitants.

SHAFTOE, EAST and WEST, two small hamlets in the parish of Hartburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 293 miles from London; containing 14 houses and 76 inhabitants.

SHAFTON, a hamlet in the parish of Felixkirk, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Barnsley and 175 from London; containing 42 houses and 174 inhabitants.

SHAFTESBURY, a borough and market town, consisting of 3 parishes in the hundred of Redland, and division of Sherborn, Dorset, situated on a high hill, 10 miles from Blandford and 101 from London; containing 502 houses and 2159 inhabitants, viz. 863 males and 1296 females, of whom 396 were chiefly employed in trades. It is supposed by Camden to have been founded by Alfred. It is recorded to have been a populous city, and had 12 churches before the conquest, only 3 of which now remain, viz. St. Peter's, the holy Trinity, and St. James's, none of them containing any thing worthy of note. The houses are tolerably well built, and many of them of free-stone. Here is a presbyterian meeting-house, a free-school and 2 alms-houses. In the corn market is a neat town hall, in which the quarter sessions are held. Water is so scarce here, that the inhabitants used to be supplied with it from Melsomb, and the grant for fetching their water from that village, was for an acknowledgement of a singular kind. On the Monday before Holy Thursday, the corporation went in procession, having a large quantity of plate carried before them, called a [illegible] (similar to the London garland on May day) dressed with flowers and peacocks feathers. When the procession arrived at the mansion-house, the whole was presented together with a calf's head and a pair of gloves to the lord or his steward, who received it with great formality, and distributed [illegible] beer to the populace, after which the plate was again delivered to the mayor, who returned with it in procession to the town. In the reign of George I. a Mr. Benson, one of the members of parliament, presented the town with engines, by means of which the water was raised 300 feet perpendicular, and conveyed to a large cistern in the middle of the town, from a distance of two miles; yet even this is laid aside, and there are several large reservoirs dug to preserve the rain water, and the poor get their living to this day by supplying the town therefrom. Shaftesbury is a corporation consisting of a mayor, recorder and 12 capital burgesses. The mayor, preceding mayor, and recorder, are justices of the peace for the borough. The mayor is elected by the common council from the burgesses. This borough has returned 2 members to parliament, from the reign of Henry III. except during the reigns of Henry VII. VIII. and Edward VI. The right of election is in the inhabitants paying scot and lot, and the returning officer is the mayor. The chief manufacture of the town is that of shirt buttons, which are mostly made by women and children. The market is on Saturday, and is well supplied with all kinds of provisions. Its fairs are, Saturday before Palm Sunday, Midsummer day, and 22d November. St. Peter's is a rectory, value 11*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*; St. James's a rectory, and the Holy Trinity a rectory, value 4*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* all in the patronage of the earl of Shaftesbury.—Hutchins's Dorsetshire.

SHALBOURN, a parish in the hundred of Kintbury Eagle, Berks, 3 miles from Hungerford and 66 from London, on the borders of Wilts; containing 92 houses and 502 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

SHALBOURN, WEST, a hamlet adjoining to the foregoing, although situated in the hundred of Kindwardstone, Wilts; containing 52 houses and 272 inhabitants.

SHALDEN, a parish in the hundred of Odiham, and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 2 miles from Alton and 48 from London; containing 26 houses and 158 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SHALFLEET, a parish in west Medina liberty, Isle of Wight, Hants, 4 miles from Yarmouth and 11½ from Newport; containing 107 houses and 626 inhabitants. It has a large church of Norman Architecture, and the windows contain some painted glass. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

SHALFORD, EAST and WEST, a parish in the hundred of Blackheath, Surry, 1 mile from Guildford; containing 115 houses and 634 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*

SHALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 3 miles from Braintree and 43 from London; containing 146 houses and 644 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.*

SHALSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 3 miles from Brackley and 60 from London; containing 32 houses and 158 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

SHANKLIN, a hamlet in the parish of Bonchurch, in the liberty of east Medina, Isle of Wight, 18 miles from Newport; this village, together with Bonchurch, contains 33 houses and 174 inhabitants.—Shanklin Chine is one of those fissures common on this part of the coast, gradually widening and growing deeper till it reaches the shore, where its width is about 180 feet, and its height 270; on the ledges of its declivity which have a safe descent to the sandy shore below, are some cottages.—Windham's Picture of the Isle of Wight.

SHANKTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4½ miles from Market Harborough and 86 from London; containing 8 houses and 34 inhabitants.

SHANNON, a river on the west coast of Ireland, and the largest in that kingdom, issuing from Lough Allen, in the county of Leitrim, and running from north to south, dividing the provinces of Leinster and Connaught, it then turns south-west and passes the city of Limerick, falling into the Atlantic Ocean, between the counties of Clare and Wicklow.

SHAP, a parish in West ward, Westmoreland, 5 miles from Orton and 279 from London; containing 161 houses and 878 inhabitants. It is situated near the source of the Loder, and had once a famous monastery of Premonstratensian canons; it stood about a mile west of the church, but there are now only some ruins of it remaining. In the neighbourhood are many vast stones, like pyramids, placed almost in a direct line for a mile together, from 10 to 12 yards distance, of such an immense weight that carriages now in use could not move them; they are supposed to have belonged to the Druids. Fair 4th May. It is a curacy. Burn's Westmoreland.

SHAPINSHAY, one of the Orkney islands, 3 miles north of the main land, being 7 miles long and 5 broad; and containing 159 houses and 744 inhabitants, mostly employed in making kelp.

SHAPWICK, a parish in the hundred of Bradbury, division of Shaston, Dorset, on the river Stour, 2 miles from Spelisbury and 4 from Blandford; containing 79 houses and 408 inhabitants. It had formerly a priory, and was a market town. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

SHAPWICK, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, near Bridgwater, and 142 miles from London; containing 67 houses and 399 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is united with Ashcot.

SHARESHILL, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Penkridge, hundred of Cuttleston, Stafford, 5 miles from Wolverhampton and 135 from London; containing 41 houses and 200 inhabitants. The body of the church was rebuilt about 60 years since, and only the tower and a few monuments were preserved from the old church; the latter are of a very ancient date; near the entrance of the village are the traces of several Roman encampments.

SHARNBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 8 miles from Bedford and 58 from London; containing 101 houses and 585 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

SHARNFORD, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 4 miles from Hinckley and 96 from London; containing 77 houses and 373 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

SHARPERTON, a hamlet in the parish of Alwhinton, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Rothbury and 313 from London; containing 21 houses and 99 inhabitants.

SHARPLES, a township in the parish of Bolton-le-Moors, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, containing 160 houses and 873 inhabitants.

SHARRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 3 miles from Holt and 116 from London; containing 46 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* united with Saxlingham.

SHASTON. See SHAFTESBURY, Dorset.

SHAUGH, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Plympton, Devon, near Plympton, and 217 miles from London; containing 72 houses and 480 inhabitants.

SHAVINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Wybunbury, hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 5 miles from Nantwich, and 159 from London; containing 29 houses and 189 inhabitants.

SHAW, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 1 mile from Newbury and 56 from London, near the river Lamborn; containing 96 houses and 422 inhabitants, including Donnington. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

SHAW, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Melksham, Wilts.

SHAWBURY, a parish in the hundred of north Bradford, Salop, 7 miles from Shrewsbury, and 168 from London; containing 132 houses and 661 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value 7*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

SHAWBURY, a village in the hundred of Pimhill, Salop, 3 miles from Ellesmere, and 180 from London; containing 57 houses and 290 inhabitants.

SHAWDON, a hamlet in the parish of Whittingham, in Coquetdale Ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Alnwick, and 310 from London; containing 18 houses and 91 inhabitants.

Shawell, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 2 miles from Lutterworth, and 82 from London; containing 43 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* in the patronage of the king.

Shaws, a village near Naworth in Cumberland, noted for a medicinal fountain called Hobwell, impregnated with sulphur, issuing from the foot of a rock.

Shearsby, a hamlet in the parish of Knaptoft, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 9 miles from Leicester, and 88 from London; containing 61 houses and 249 inhabitants.

Shebbear, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the north-western side of the county, nearly surrounded by the river Torridge.

Shebbear, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Devon, 7 miles from Hatherleigh and 207 from London; containing 126 houses and 744 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Sheen, a parish in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 7 miles from Leek, and 154 from London; containing 64 houses and 362 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Sheen, a hamlet in the parish of Richmond, Surry, which once stood ½ mile to the north-west of the old palace at that town, Here Henry V. founded a convent of Carthusians, in which Perkin Warbeck sought an asylum. The last remains of it was taken down in 1770, and the whole hamlet, consisting of 18 houses was at the same time demolished, and made into a lawn, in addition to the king's inclosure.

Sheen East, a hamlet in the parish of Mortlake, Surry, seated on an eminence near the Thames, between Richmond and Roehampton. Here was the seat of sir W. Temple.

Sheephall, a parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 2 miles from Stevenage, and 29 from London; containing 28 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

Sheepshead, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Loughborough, and 110 from London; containing 478 houses and 2627 inhabitants, of whom 1493 were employed in various trades. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Sheepster, a hamlet in the parish of Brickleigh, hundred of Roborough, Devon, 6 miles from Plymouth, and 221 from London; containing 18 houses and 99 inhabitants.

Sheepwash, a hamlet in the parish of Bothal, in Morpeth Ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Morpeth, and 294 from London; containing 8 houses and 58 inhabitants.

Sheepwash. See Shipwash, Devon.

Sheepy Magna, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 3 miles from Atherstone, and 105 from London; containing 77 houses and 385 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in two portions.

Sheepy Little, a hamlet in the foregoing parish ½ mile distant, containing 17 houses and 82 inhabitants.

Sheering, a parish in the hundred of Harlow, Essex, 8 miles from Epping, and [illegible] from London; containing 71 houses and 342 inhabitants. The church is situated on a rising ground, and had formerly a chapel of ease dedicated to St. Nicholas. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford, Sheerness, a market town situated on the north-west point of Sheppey Island, where the Medway joins the Thames, 46½ miles from London, in the parish of Minster; containing 666 houses and 4139 inhabitants exclusive of 1422 dwelling within the fortress and dockyard, and in which are not included any mariners or soldiers. In 1667 this place was taken by the Dutch, and some slight fortifications destroyed, but it has now a regular fortification and garrison, under a governor, lieutenant-governor, fort-major, and other officers, and has such a line of heavy cannon, commanding the mouth of the river, as to bid defiance to any force that may attempt to pass it. The town contains several good streets, but the inhabitants are chiefly those whose business obliges them to reside here: here is an ordnance office, with apartments for the different officers, all ordnance stores being delivered here to the fleet staying at the Nore; here is also a yard for building ships, and a dock intended chiefly for repairing ships that may meet with any sudden accident. It has a neat chapel of ease to the mother church. The market is on Saturday.

Sheet, a hamlet to Petersfield, hundred of Finch Down, and division of Alton, Hants, ½ mile from Petersfield, and 54¼ from London; containing 45 houses and 247 inhabitants.

Sheffield, a market town in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, situated at the junction of the rivers Don and Sheaf, 160 miles from London; containing 6518 houses and 31,314 inhabitants, viz. 15,483 males, and 15,831 females, of whom 9643 were chiefly employed in trade and manufacture, particularly in all kinds of hardware; for which this town is celebrated throughout Europe. It has rather a singular appearance, from its occupying a long hill, and extending over the adjoining vallies, being almost enveloped in smoke, from its numerous fire engines, foundries, &c. The three churches which are erected on a hill, have a fine effect, their spires overtop the whole town, and are still more majestic at a small distance, by the intervening atmosphere being almost continually thickened with sooty exhalations. The extent of the town, each way, is about three-quarters of a mile; several of the streets are wide and open, and the whole generally clean. The slaughter-houses are well constructed, being built close to the river. Over each of the rivers is a good stone bridge; that over the Don, called the Lady's Bridge, consists of three arches, and was widened and repaired in 1768. That over the Sheaf consists of 1 arch, and was erected in 1769, by Edward, duke of Norfolk. On the eastern side of the Sheaf stands the duke of Norfolk's hospital, erected in 1670, consisting of 2 quadrangles of 18 chambers in each, for 18 poor men and 18 poor women. It has a neat chapel. Here is another hospital, erected in 1703, for the benefit of 16 poor cutler's widows, and a good charity and free grammar schools. There are 8 different meeting-houses for dissenters; 1 for Quakers, and a Roman Catholic chapel. In the north-eastern part of the town, anciently stood a strong castle, between the rivers Don and Sheaf; it was of a triangular form, and had a strong breast work before the gates, which were palisadoed; there was a trench, 12 feet deep and 18 wide, having a wall round it 5 yards thick. After this castle surrendered to the parliament forces, in 1644, it was demolished, and few of its vestiges are now to be seen. The market place is very extensive and commodious, erected by the duke of Norfolk, who is nearly the sole proprietor of the town. Here is a neat theatre and an assembly room. In the south-east corner of Trinity church-yard is the old town-hall, where all public business and the sessions are held. This town has long been noted for its manufacture of cutlery, there being constantly employed about 600 master cutlers; and from the convenience of the two rivers, and adjoining coal mines, the whole of the heavy work has of late years been performed by mechanism, and its workmen have made such improvements in their trade, that they are now able to undersell every other market in the world. The nature of their manufactures gives the town a very sombre appearance, and the houses all look black from the continual smoke. The river Don being navigable within 3 miles of the town, conveys the manufactures of this place to that part for exportation. On the south-side of Trinity church-yard, is the cutler's hall, erected in 1725. The corporation of cutlers are styled "The Company of Cutlers of Hallamshire," and is governed by a master, 2 wardens, and 2 assistants; but the public affairs of the town are under 7 of the principal inhabitants, who are termed regents or collectors, 4 of them being of the established church, and 3 dissenters. The town is well supplied with water, by means of pipes, and at a moderate rate. Here are 2 banking houses. The market days are Tuesday and Saturday, and its fairs are the Tuesday after Whitsun week, and 26th November. The old church of the Holy Trinity, a fine ancient Gothic structure, is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* The new churches are curacies, in the patronage of the vicar. —Housman's Tour, and Aikin's Tour round Manchester.

Shefford, a township in the parish of Campton and hundred of Clifton, Bedford, 9 miles from Bedford, and 41 from London; containing 90 houses and 474 inhabitants.

Shefford, Great or East, a parish in the hundred of Kintbury Eagle, Berks, near Hungerford, 63¼ miles from London; containing 97 houses and 492 inhabitants. In the church-yard are the remains of an ancient cross.

Shefford West, a small hamlet in the foregoing parish, containing 9 houses and 70 inhabitants.

Shelfertswold, or Shepherdswell, a parish in the hundred of Bewsborough, and lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 9 miles from Canterbury, and 63 from London; containing 44 houses and 212 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* and is united with Colrede.

Shelbrook, a hamlet in the parish of South Kirby, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Doncaster, and 169 from London; containing 15 houses and 91 inhabitants.

Sheldon, a village in the hundred of Hayridge, Devon, near Collumpton, and 162 miles from London; containing 22 houses and 128 inhabitants.

Sheldon, a hamlet in the parish of Bakewell, and hundred of High Peak, Derby, 3½ miles from Bakewell, and 156 from London; containing 28 houses and 127 inhabitants.

Sheldon, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 5 miles from Birmingham, and 110 from London; containing 69 houses and 365 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Sheldwich, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 2½ miles from Feversham, and 49 from London; containing 67 houses and 410 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

Shelfanger, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 3 miles from Diss, and 94 from London; containing 42 houses and 382 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.*

Shelf, a village in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, near Halifax, and 196 miles from London; containing 253 houses and 1306 inhabitants.

Shelford Great, a parish in the hundred of Thriplow, Cambridge, 2½ miles from Cambridge, and 53 from London; containing 83 houses and 570 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Shelford Little, another parish in the same hundred, and near the preceding; containing 47 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

SHELFORD, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 3 miles from Bingham, and 127 from London; containing 91 houses and 418 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the earl of Chesterfield.

SHELLEY, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, 2 miles from Ongar, and 23 from London; containing 32 houses and 169 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 15*s.*

SHELLEY, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, near Manningtree, and 60 miles from London; containing 19 houses and 137 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHELLY, a township in the parish of Kirkburton, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Huddersfield, and 182 from London; containing 104 houses and 416 inhabitants.

SHELLINGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Ganfield, Berks, 2 miles from Farringdon, and 65 from London, containing 53 houses and 253 inhabitants. Near the village stands Shellingford Castle. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

SHELLOW BOWELLS, a parish in the hundred of Dunmow, Essex, 5 miles from Chelmsford, and 25 from London; containing 20 houses and 104 inhabitants. The derivation of its name appears to be from a Saxon word Schelæwe, signifying a hedge-hog, and its additional name from the family of Bowells, or Bowles, who anciently possessed the manor. Its small church was rebuilt in 1752, and is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*—Morant's Essex.

SHELSLEY BEAUCHAMP, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, near the river Teme, 10 miles from Worcester, and 122 from London; containing 36 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.*

SHELSLEY KINGS, a parish united with the preceding, and ¼ mile distant therefrom; containing 38 houses and 233 inhabitants.

SHELSLEY WALSH, a third parish in the same hundred, and situated on the opposite side of the river Teme, about 1 mile distant from Shelsley Beauchamp; containing 32 houses and 67 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of lord Foley.

SHELTON, a parish in the hundred of Stodden, Bedford, 4 miles from Kimbolton, and 63 from London; containing 18 houses and 100 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.*

SHELTON, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 12 miles from Norwich, and 100 from London; containing 26 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* and is united with Hardwick.

SHELTON, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 4¼ miles from Newark, and 120 from London; containing 15 houses and 73 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Salisbury.

SHENFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 1 mile from Brentwood, and 19 from London; containing 76 houses and 549 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

SHENLEY, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 3½ miles from Fenny Stratford, and 48½ from London; containing 31 houses and 464 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

SHENLEY, a parish in the hundred of Dacorum, Herts, 5 miles from Barnet, and 16 from London; containing 125 houses and 729 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

SHENNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Tewksbury, Gloucester, 6 miles from Banbury in Oxfordshire, and 78 from London; containing 67 houses and 300 inhabitants. This parish is a detached part of the county, surrounded by Oxfordshire.

SHENSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 3 miles from Litchfield, and 121 from London; containing 239 houses and 1309 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.*

SHENTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Market Bosworth, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 5 miles from Hinckley, and 104 from London; containing 35 houses and 177 inhabitants.

SHENTON, a parish in the hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, near Bridgenorth, and 139 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 163 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

SHEPARDINE, a hamlet in the parish of Rockhampton, near Thornbury, Gloucester.

SHEPPEY, an island in Kent, situated at the mouth of the Thames and Medway, separated from the main land of the county by the Swale. It is about 21 miles in circumference, and the principal places in it are Sheerness and Queenborough, which see. Its name is supposed to be derived from the number of sheep formerly bred on it. It yields good corn, but is bare of wood, and the water is indifferent except at Sheerness, where wells sunk below the bottom of the sea produce excellent water.

SHEPPERTON, a parish in the hundred of Spelthorne, Middlesex, 4 miles from Staines on the banks of the Thames; and 18 from London; containing 137 houses and 731 inhabitants. A detached part of this parish remains in Surry, from the Thames having altered its course, and it now passes over the foundation of its ancient church. Near the bridge over the river at Walton are Cæsar stakes, supposed to be the remains of those drove into the river by the Britons to prevent Cæsar's army from fording it; one of these is preserved in the British Museum. It is recorded that the learned Erasmus passed much of his time in the parsonage house, his preceptor being rector of the parish. The living is a rectory, value 26*l.*

SHEPHERD'S BUSH, the remains of a comment on the Uxbridge road, 3 miles from London, formerly much noted for the robberies committed on it. Several modern houses are now erecting, and a great part of it is enclosed and cultivated. It belongs to the village of Hammersmith.

Shepreth, a parish in the hundred of Wetherley, Cambridge, 7 miles from Cambridge, and 44 from London; containing 42 houses and 202 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 11*s.* 1*d.*

Shepton Beauchamp, a parish in the hundred of South Petherton, Somerset, 3 miles from Ilminster, and 132 from London; containing 75 houses 439 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Shepton Mallet, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Whitestone, Somerset, 10½ miles from Frome, and 115¼ from London; containing 1105 houses and 5104 inhabitants, viz. 2810 males and 2794 females, of whom 4448 were employed in various kinds of woollen manufacture, in which it carries on a considerable trade, as well as in knit stockings. The town is situated on several small hills, and the streets are narrow and irregularly built. The church is a large building with a square tower at the end containing 6 bells, but there are several meeting-houses for various sectaries, similar to all the manufacturing towns. Towards the centre of the town stands the Market Cross, erected in 1500, a curious structure of 5 arches supported by pentagonal columns. The manor of the town is annexed to the duchy of Cornwall. The market is on Friday, and its Fair 8th August. It is a rectory, value 33*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*—Collinson's Somersetshire.

Shepton Montague, a parish in the hundred of Ferris Norton, Somersetshire, 4 miles from Winchester, and 112 from London; containing 68 houses and 365 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.*

Shepton George, a hamlet in the parish of Bradstock, in the hundred of Goderthorne, and division of Bridport, Dorset, 3 miles from Bridport, and 131 from London; containing 41 houses and 217 inhabitants.

Shepway, the name of a lathe in Kent, being the south-eastern division of the county, including the coast from Dover to the Kent-ditch, near Rye.

Sheraton, a hamlet in the parish of Monk Hesledon, Easington ward, Durham, 7 miles from Durham, and 260 from London; containing 25 houses and 99 inhabitants.

Sherbeap, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the north-west side of the county, nearly surrounded by the river Tortidge.

Sherborne, the name of a hundred and division of Dorsetshire, lying at the north-western extremity of the county, around Sherborne.

Sherborne, a market-town and parish in the hundred and division of Sherborne, Dorset, 17 miles from Dorchester, and 116¼ from London; containing 555 houses and 3159 inhabitants, viz. 1381 males and 1778 females, of whom 1169 were employed in various trades and manufactures, principally in those of woollen cloth and silk. Anciently it was a bishopric, but in the 11th century the see being removed to Salisbury, the cathedral was converted into an abbey. It was originally a noble structure, but in the reign of Henry VII. a quarrel happening between the monks and inhabitants, the latter set fire to the building, and great part of it was burned down. At the dissolution of Monasteries, it was made parochial, and is now the finest parish church in the west of England. The inside is beautifully decorated, and contains many Saxon monuments of kings and nobility. Near the church is a free-school, built and endowed by Henry VI. and an almshouse for 16 men and 8 women. The town is pleasantly situated on the declivity of a hill near the borders of the White Hart Forest, and is divided into 2 parts, called Sherborne and Castleton, by the river Ivel: that part called Castleton, had a strong castle, erected by Roger the III. bishop of Salisbury, but that prelate having taken part with the Empress Maud, king Stephen seized it for himself, and it continued annexed to the crown till the reign of Edward III. when it was again restored to the bishops. In the civil wars of Charles I. it was the first castle besieged by the parliament forces, and the last that held out for the prince. Only the ruins of this castle are now to be seen. Castleton, exclusive of Sherborne, contains 26 houses and 125 inhabitants. The mansion called Sherborne Castle is a beautiful structure, the seat of lord Digby. Near Sherborne is White-hart Forest, so named from a beautiful white hart therein, which king Henry ordered the huntsmen to desist pursuing, and strictly forbade any one killing it. Notwithstanding which a neighbouring knight, one Thomas De la Linde, hunted and killed the favourite hart, which so enraged the king, that a fine was long levied upon the land of the offender, and paid into the Exchequer by the name of the White-hart-silver. The markets are on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, and are well supplied; its fairs are the day before Holy Thursday, 18th and 26th July, and the first Monday in October, O.S. The church is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* and is in the patronage of the king. Gough's and Hutchinson's Dorsetshire.

Sherborne, a parish in the hundred and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 3 miles from Basingstoke, and 47 from London; containing 90 houses and 520 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

Sherbourne, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 7 miles from Burnham, and 120 from London; containing 11 houses and 100 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Sherbourne, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 2½ miles from Warwick and 93 from London; containing 38 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHERBURN, a township in the parish of Pittington, Easington ward, Durham, 3 miles from Durham, and 262 from London; containing 72 houses and 332 inhabitants.

SHERBURN, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 12 miles from Malton, and 210 from London; containing 60 houses and 288 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.*

SHERBURN, a parish in Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, 8 miles from Pontefract, and 185 from London; containing 197 houses and 953 inhabitants. Here is a good hospital, and a well endowed free-school with exhibitions to St. John's college Cambridge. The church is an ancient building, recorded to have been built out of the ruins of a palace, belonging to king Athelstan. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.* and belongs to the prebend of Fenton in York cathedral.

SHERFIELD, a parish in the hundred and division of Odiham, Hants, 4 miles from Basingstoke, and 42 from London; containing 88 houses and 494 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

SHERFIELD ENGLISH, a parish in the hundred of Thorngate, and division of Andover, Hants, 5 miles from Romsey, and 78 from London; containing 66 houses and 324 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

SHERFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Stokenham, hundred of Coleridge, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge, and 208 from London; containing 57 houses and 380 inhabitants.

SHERFORD, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 2 miles from Fakenham, and 110 from London; containing 13 houses and 75 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

SHERFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Burton Hastings, near Coventry, Warwick.

SHERIFFHALES, a parish partly situated in the hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, and partly in that of South Bradford, Salop, 4½ miles from Newport, and 130 from London; containing, in Staffordshire 120 houses and 616 inhabitants, and in Salop 24 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

SHERIFFLENCH, a hamlet in the parish of Churchlench, hundred of Blakenhurst, Worcester, 5 miles from Evesham and 100 from London; containing 10 houses and 55 inhabitants.

SHERIFF-HUTTON, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 10 miles from York, and 209 from London; containing 108 houses and 597 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are the remains of an ancient castle, formerly belonging to the earls of Westmoreland. It has a fair 14th September, and is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

SHERRINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Holt, and 124 from London; containing 81 houses and 392 inhabitants. It is a vicarage.

SHERMANBURY, a parish in the hundred of Windham, and rape of Bramber, Sussex, 9 miles from Horsham and 44 from London; containing 40 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

SHERRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Newport-Pagnel, and 52 from London; containing 127 houses and 671 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

SHERRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 7 miles from Warminster, and 91 from London; containing 29 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

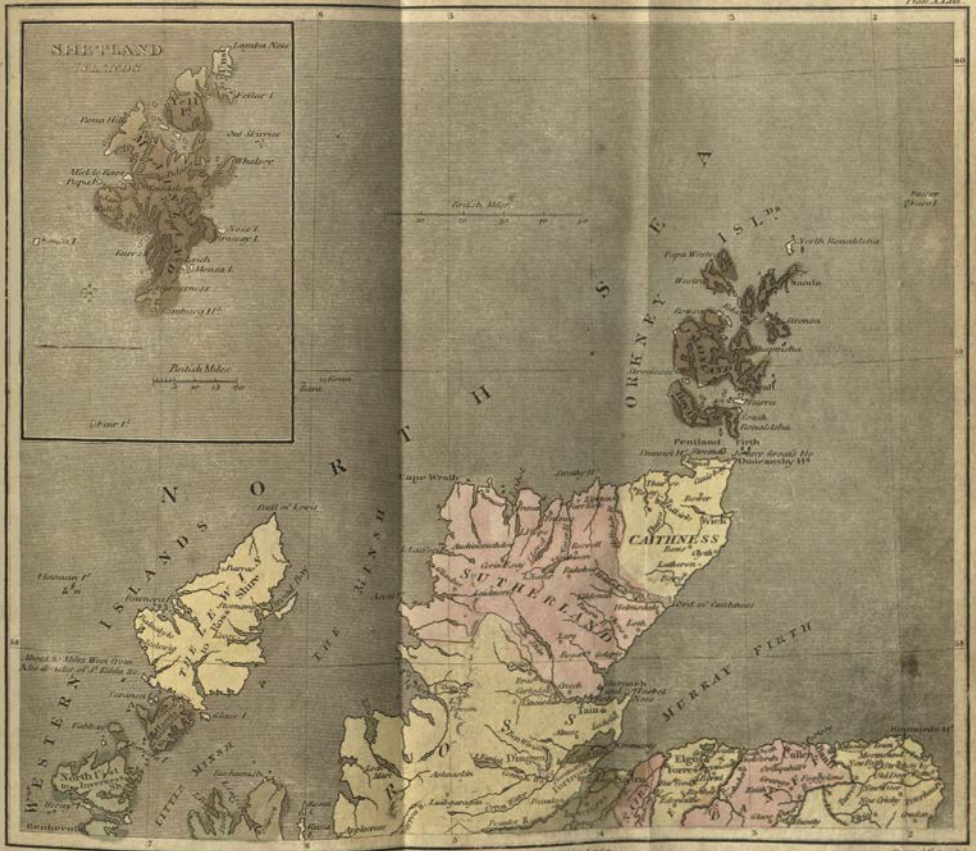
SHERSTON, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 4 miles from Malmsbury, and 99 from London; containing 189 houses and 892 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 2*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Gloucester.

SHERSTON, LITTLE, a village united with the foregoing; containing 17 houses and 100 inhabitants.

SHERWELL, the name of a hundred in Devon, being the extensive point of the county to the north-east.

SHERWELL, a parish in the hundred of Sherwell, Devon, 3½ miles from Barnstaple, and 196 from London; containing 90 houses and 513 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.*

SHETLAND ISLES, a number of Scottish isles, lying about 15 leagues north of the Orkneys, and 44 leagues west from Bergen in Norway. They are in number 86, but only about 40 of them are inhabited, the others being only holms or rocky islets for pasturage. The principal parishes are Aithsteng and Sandsteng, Bressay, Burray and Quarf, Delting, Dunrossness, Sandwick, Cunningsburgh, Lerwick, Nesting, Skerries, Northmavine, Tingwall, Whiteness, Weesdale, Unst, Walls, Sanness, Papa-stowr, North and South Yell, Fetlar, and the Fair and Foula Isles, the whole containing 3541 houses and 22,379 inhabitants, viz. 9945 males and 12,434 females These islands contain about 3 times as much land as the Orkneys. The climate is not good, yet it is not so bad as has been generally represented. The longest day in the island of Unst is 19¼ hours, and the shortest 4¾ hours. The spring is late, the summer short, and the autumn wet and foggy. The winter quarter sets in in October, and lasts till April, bringing continual rain and frequent storms. The sea swells and rages in such a manner, that for 5 or 6 months their ports are inaccessible. During their long and gloomy winters the Aurora Borealis is particularly splendid, and affords a light almost equal to that of a full moon. The coast is well adapted for fishing, but this branch of trade having been much neglected,



SHETLAND ISLANDS
Lambaness
Yell
Fetlar I.
Roma Hill
Out Skerries
Whalsey Mainland
Noss I.
Bressay I.
Foula I.
Fair I.
Sumburgh Ht.
British Miles
Orkney I.
NORTH SEA
ORKNEY ISLDS
North Ronaldsha
Papa Westra
Westra
Stromness
Hoy
Pentland Firth
Duncansby Ht.
Dunnet Ht.
Stroma
Swona
South Ronaldsha
Cape Wrath
Stoer H.
Butt of Lewis
Harris
Lewis
WESTERN ISLANDS
Flannan I.
Barra
Shiant I.
Sound of Harris
Loch Roag
Loch Seaforth
Loch Erisort
Loch Resort
Loch Tarbert
Loch Maddy
Uist
Benbecula
Loch Boisdale
Barra Head
Mouth of Loch Eport
Mouth of Loch Boisdale
Mouth of Loch Skiport
Mouth of Loch Uskevagh
Mouth of Loch Aline
Mouth of Loch Bay
Mouth of Loch Eynort
Mouth of Loch Hell

it was taken advantage of by the Dutch. The inhabitants indeed export great quantities of dry fish. The greater part of the coast is high and rocky, but many of the bays are flat and sandy, and abound with shell fish. They have also great numbers of Otters and seals. Sponge, Ambergris, Amber, are in common with the Orkneys. The soil, although in many partsboggy and muirish, would admit of much better cultivation, but the inhabitants are indolent, and suffer the greater part to lie almost in a state of nature. They have few trees and hardly any shrubs except juniper. The fuel is peat and turf. The black cattle are much larger than those of the Orkneys; their horses are small, but very stout and hardy; and their sheep are exceedingly delicate, and afford excellent wool. The lakes abound with water fowl; and the land with several birds of prey. The inhabitants are stout and well made, of a swarthy complexion, and marry very early; the chief requisites to begin life being a hut, a cow, a pot, fishing-tackle and a blanket. Provisions are cheaper here than in the Orkneys. As to manufacture they make a coarse cloth for their own use, and a little linen; but their chief trade is the barter of stockings with the Dutch fishermen, and through their frequent intercourse, many of the inhabitants are very fluent in the Dutch language. Near the town of Lerwick is a small fort and barracks, garrisoned by a company of invalids. It has been a matter of great dispute, from whence the inhabitants of these islands first came, but it is the general opinion that they were originally from Norway. The islands were tributary to the crown of Norway till the end of the 12th century, at which time they were again annexed to the Scottish crown, together with the Orkney's, being a dowry with the princess of Denmark, who married king James I. of Great Britain.

Shevington, a township in the parish of Standish, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 2 miles from Wigan, and 202 from London; containing 136 houses and 646 inhabitants.

Shevlock, a parish in the hundred of East Cornwall, 4 miles from Saltash and 224 from London; containing 76 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*

Shields, North, a township and seaport in the parish of Tynemouth, Northumberland, 8 miles from Newcastle, and 232½ from London, by Sunderland; on the north side of the river Tyne, containing 891 houses and 7230 inhabitants, viz. 2972 males and 4308 females, of whom 1843 were returned employed in various trades. This extensive and populous town, a few years since was little better than a dark alley with a few dirty fishing huts. Wide and airy streets are now built in every direction. Overlooking the river, to the west, stands a range of neat buildings, called Millburn-place; and to the north Dockwray-square commands a fine prospect of the river and county to the south, the houses of which are equal to any in the metropolis of London; and many elegant detached mansions have recently been erected in the neighbourhood. The church, or chapel of ease, was erected in 1659. With the daily increasing population of the town, the trade also keeps pace, and may vie even with that of Newcastle, upwards of 400 vessels loading annually at this port. It has also a well supplied market on Wednesdays.

Shields, South, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, situated on the banks of the Tyne, opposite to North Shields, and containing 1260 houses and 8108 inhabitants, viz. 3274 males and 4834 females, of whom 1063 were employed in various trades. This place, similarly to North Shields, enjoys all the advantages of trade and commerce in common with Newcastle, particularly in the coal trade, where some of the largest colliers take in their lading. A great number of trading vessels are also built here. It is noted for its extensive salt works, upwards of 200 pans being constantly employed. There are several glass works. The town consists principally of one long narrow crooked street, nearly 2 miles in extent, about the centre of which is an open square or market place, enclosed in which is the town hall. At this place was established the first laudable society for the saving of sailors from shipwreck, for which purpose there is a boat of 8oars constructed of very thin wainscoat lined with cork and a leaden keel; the men are all lashed to their seat as well as the oars: in this they will put to sea, in the most tempestuous weather and board vessels in distress. It being impossible for the boat to sink even full of water, and if upset will always recover its equilibrium. The men are rewarded by the society according to the number of lives they save. The church is a curacy.

Shiere, a parish in the hundred of Blackheath, Surry, 7¼ miles from Dorking and 30 from London; containing 183 houses and 871 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

Shiffnal or Shiffnal, a parish and market-town in the hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, 12½ miles from Wolverhampton, and 143 from London; containing 244 houses and 1111 inhabitants. This town is of very little note, and has no trade of any consequence. It is a great thoroughfare, being on the direct road from London to Holyhead. The church is an ancient building, and it has a small charity school. The market is on Friday, and its fairs are 5th August and 22d November. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Shifford, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bampton, Oxford, 2 miles from Bampton, and 68 from London; containing 7 houses and 38 inhabitants.

Shilbottle, a parish in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Alnwick, and 307 from London; containing 103 houses and 472 inhabitants, and is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.*

SHILDON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Andrew's Auckland, in Darlington ward, Durham, 3 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 254 from London; containing 24 houses and 101 inhabitants.

SHILLINGDON, a parish in the hundred of Flitt, Bedford, 8½ miles from Luton, and 40 from London; containing 80 houses and 420 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHILLINGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Exminster, Devon, 3 miles from Exeter, and 171 from London; on the river Ken, containing 12 houses and 71 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

SHILLINGFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Warborough, hundred of Ewelme, Oxford, 2½ miles from Wallingford, and 46 from London; near the river Thames, and on the border of Berkshire, the population of which is included with Warborough.

SHILLINGSTONE OKEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Cranborne, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 4½ miles from Blandford and 108 from London; containing 74 houses and 380 inhabitants.

SHILTON, a parish in the hundred of Farringdon, Berks, being a detached part of the county, surrounded by Oxfordshire, 3 miles from Burford and 70 from London; containing 40 houses and 253 inhabitants.

SHILTON, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 5 miles from Coventry, and 96 from London; containing 54 houses and 280 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the king.

SHILVINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Morpeth, in Castle ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Morpeth, and 298 from London; containing 16 houses and 96 inhabitants.

SHIMPLING, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Diss, and 97 from London; containing 25 houses and 169 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SHIMPLINGTHORNE, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 7 miles from Sudbury, and 61 from London; containing 66 houses and 441 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

SHINCLIFF, a hamlet in the parish of St. Oswald's, Durham, 2 miles from Durham, and 260 from London; on the river Wear, containing 54 houses and 244 inhabitants.

SHINFIELD, a parish where of part is situated, in the hundred of Charlton, Berks, and a part in the hundred of Amesbury, Wilts; 3 miles from Reading, and 40 from London; containing, in Berks, 96 houses and 462 inhabitants, and in Wilts, 28 houses and 155 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 3

SHIPBOURNE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Tunbridge, in the hundred of Wroxham, and lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3 miles from Tunbridge and 27 from London; containing 56 houses and 323 inhabitants. It has a fair 1st September.

SHIPDEN. See CROMER, Norfolk.

SHIPDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Mitford, Norfolk, 4 miles from East Dereham, and 97 from London; containing 172 houses and 1250 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 27*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

SHIPHAM, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 2 miles from Axbridge, and 133 from London; containing 86 houses and 493 inhabitants, the greater part of whom are miners, employed in raising lapis calaminaris; many of these mines being worked even in the streets and gardens of the houses, the usual depth of the shafts being from 6 to 12 fathoms. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 11*d.* and in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Wells.

SHIPLAKE, a parish in the hundred of Benfield, Oxford, 2½ miles from Henley and 33 from London; containing 95 houses and 476 inhabitants. This place is noted for the production of its marble. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

SHIPLEY, a parish in the hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 7 miles from Derby, and 122 from London; containing 83 houses, and 433 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHIPLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Ellingham, in Bamburgh ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Alnwick, and 317 from London; containing 19 houses and 108 inhabitants.

SHIPLEY, a parish in the hundred of West Grinstead, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 6 miles from Horsham, and 41 from London; containing 125 houses and 997 inhabitants.

SHIPLEY, a township in the parish of Kirkburton, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 4½ miles from Huddersfield, and 183 from London; containing 122 houses and 618 inhabitants.

SHIPLEY, a township in the parish of Bradford, in Morley, wapentake, west riding of York, 3½ miles from Bradford, and 200 from London; at the junction of the Bradford canal with the Leeds and Liverpool navigation, containing 196 houses and 1083 inhabitants.

SHIPMEADOW, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Bungay, and 104 from London; containing 41 houses and 442 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SHIPTON, a hamlet to Abingdon, in the hundred of Hormer, Berks, 1 mile from Abingdon, and 56 from London; containing 28 houses and 128 inhabitants.

SHIPSTON ON STOUR, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, being in a detached part of the county, surrounded by Gloucestershire, 5 miles from Moreton, and 83 from London; containing 270 houses and 1293 inhabitants. Its name is derived from its situation on the river

Stour, and its being noted formerly for being one of the greatest sheep-markets in the kingdom. The town has no trade of any consequence, but here is a large market on Fridays, and its fairs are 22d June, and the Tuesday after 10th October. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* with Tidmington chapel annexed, and the patrons are the dean and chapter of Worcester, of Jesus college, Oxford, by turns.

Shifton, a hamlet in the parish of Quainton, and hundred of Ashden, Bucks, 6 miles from Aylesbury, and 46 from London; containing 15 houses and 120 inhabitants.

Shifton or South Bellinger, a parish in the hundred of Thorngate, and division of Andover, Hants, 9 miles from Andover, and 72 from London; containing 37 houses and 297 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Shipton, a township and chapelry in the parish of Weighton, and wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 2 miles from Market Weighton, and 195 from London; containing 59 houses and 325 inhabitants.

Shipton, a hamlet in the parish of Overton, in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 5½ miles from York, and 204 from London; containing 64 houses and 341 inhabitants.

Shipton, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and liberties of Wenlock franchise, Salop, near Wenlock, and 148 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 119 inhabitants.

Shipton Moyne, a parish in the hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 3 miles from Tetbury, and 97 from London; containing 45 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

Shipton Cliff, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 5 miles from Northleach, and 87 from London; containing 47 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.*

Shipton-upon-Charwell, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 2 miles from Woodstock, and 61 from London; containing 118 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

Shipton-under-Wichwood, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 4 miles from Burford, and 77 from London; containing 85 houses and 406 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, value 39*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* belonging to the professor of civil laws in the university of Oxford.

Shirborn, a river in Warwickshire, which falls into the Sow, at Whitby.

Shirborne, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 4 miles from Burford, and 77 from London; containing 84 houses and 526 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Shircoat, a township in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, adjoining Halifax, and 196 miles from London; containing 464 houses and 2538 inhabitants.

Shirenewton, a parish in the hundred of Caldicot, Monmouth, 4 miles from Chepstow, and 135 from London; containing 107 houses and 519 inhabitants.

Shirland, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 16 miles from Derby, and 142 from London; containing 227 houses and 1008 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

Shireborn, a parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 1 mile from Watlington, and 46 from London; containing 70 houses and 313 inhabitants.

Shirehampton, a tything in the parish of Westbury-on-Trim, in the hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, 4 miles from Bristol, and 117 from London; containing 72 houses and 354 inhabitants.

Shirley, a parish situated in the hundred of Appletree, Derby; containing 50 houses and 244 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Shitlington, a parish situated in the hundreds of Clifton and Flitt, Bedfordshire, 5 miles from Hitchin, and 39 from London; containing 165 houses and 899 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* and is united with Gravenhurst, in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

Shitlington, a hamlet in the parish of Simonbourne, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Hexham, and 209 from London; containing 35 houses and 171 inhabitants.

Shitlington, a township in the parish of Thornhill, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Wakefield, and 185 from London; containing 235 houses and 1166 inhabitants.

Shitterton, a hamlet in the parish of Bere Regis, near Wareham, in Dorsetshire, and included with Wareham; about a mile distant is an obelisk, and many remains of a Roman encampment.

Shobdon, a parish in the hundred of Stretford, Hereford, 8 miles from Leominster, and 145 from London; containing 81 houses and 486 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* The church of this parish has been elegantly rebuilt, at the expence of lord viscount Bateman; a beautiful antique marble bowl serves as a font: his lordship has an elegant seat in the neighbourhood called Shobdon Court.

Shobrook, a parish in the hundred of West Budleigh, Devon, 2 miles from Crediton, and 180 from London; containing 134 houses and 686 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 36*l.*

Shocklach, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, 5½ miles from Malpas, and 169 from London, near the river Dee; containing 23 houses and 146 inhabitants.—This is called Church Shocklach, to distinguish it from a small village adjacent, called Shocklach Oviat; containing 25 houses and 141 inhabitants. The church is a very small building. It is a curacy.

SHOEBURY, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 3 miles from Southend, and 4 from London, near the sea shore; containing 20 houses and 202 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

SHOEBURY, SOUTH, another small village, lying south of the foregoing, and nearer the shore, being situated on a point of land called Shoebury Ness, 2½ miles from the rising village of Southend; it contains 16 houses and 101 inhabitants, but it is recorded to have been anciently a town of some consequence, and many remains of Danish intrenchments are still visible. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SHOLDEN, a hamlet in the parish of North Bourne, hundred of Cornilo, and lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 2 miles from Deal, and 71 from London; containing 39 houses and 238 inhabitants.

SHOOTERS HILL, in Kent, lying on the road to Dartford, 8½ miles from London. Its name is supposed to have been derived from the exercise of archery, carried on in the neighbouring woods in former times. On the summit of this hill are some pleasant houses, particularly the Bull Inn, which commands a most extensive prospect of Kent and the adjoining counties. It was some years since intended to have erected a tower here, but the plan was not pursued. This neighbourhood was formerly noted for robberies, till the road was widened, and much of the coppice wood cut down. To this place king Henry VIII. and his queen Catherine, came in great splendour from Greenwich, on May day; where they were received by a band of archers clothed in green, headed by a captain personating Robin Hood; and having exhibited their skill in archery, the company were conducted into the wood, and sumptuously regaled on venison, &c. in arbours and booths, fitted up for the occasion. On the right of the road stands a triangular tower, 482 feet above the level of the sea, which was erected by the lady of sir E. W. James, in commemoration of his conduct in the East Indies:—near it stands the Admiralty telegraph.

SHOPLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Prittlewell, hundred of Rochford, Essex, 2¼ miles from Rochford, and 41 from London; containing 5 houses and 36 inhabitants.

SHOREDITCH, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, situated on the north-eastern extremity of the metropolis, on the road to Hackney, and 1½ mile from London Bridge; containing 5732 houses, inhabited by 54,766 persons, viz. 15,755 males and 18,991 females, of whom 6,000 were returned as employed in various trades. The church is a large and noble structure; and is a vicarage, value 17*l.* in the patronage of the archdeacon of London.

SHOREHAM, a parish in the hundred of Codsheath, and lathe of Sutton-at-Hone, Kent, 4 miles from Seven Oaks, and 20 from London, near the river Darent; containing 146 houses and 828 inhabitants; here is an antique house still called Shoreham Castle. It has a charity school, and a fair on the 1st May. It is a rectory, value 34*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* and is united with Otford, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster.

SHOREHAM, NEW, a seaport, borough, and market town, in the hundred of Fishergate, and rape of Bramber, Sussex, 6 miles from Brighton, and 56 from London, on the river Adar; containing 148 houses and 799 inhabitants. The town lies about a mile within the haven, singularly built, in the centre of which is the market house, standing on Doric pillars. It has a considerable traffic, and has a custom-house, with a collector, comptroller, and inferior officers. Along the neighbouring coast, during peace, much smuggling is carried on. The church is an extensive building, and was formerly collegiate; of late it has been repaired and greatly beautified. Although it is only a tide haven, yet as it is the best upon the coast, vessels of considerable burthen come into it, as it has 18 feet water at spring tides, but does not rise higher than 12 in common, and has only 3 feet at the ebb. Beyond the town, across the river, is a timber bridge, leading to Arundel and Chichester. Here are military barracks. The town is a borough by prescription, and has sent members to parliament ever since 1298. It was disfranchised for corruption, in 1771; but soon after restored, which circumstance produced an extension of the elective franchise, to all the freeholders of 40*s.* within the rape of Bramber. Shoreham, has a considerable trade in ship-building, and is noted for the excellence of its oysters. Ella is supposed to have landed here with his three sons, in the year 477, when he defeated the Britons, and founded the kingdom of the South Saxons. Edward II. founded a house of white friars here. The market is on Saturday; and a fair 25th July. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford. The church lat. 50. 49. 59. long. 0. 16. 19. west.—Oldfield's Boroughs.

SHOREHAM, OLD, a parish in the same hundred as the foregoing, and above ½ a mile to the north, a place much decayed, and containing only 30 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* also in the patronage of Magdalen college.

SHORESWOOD, a hamlet in the parish of Norham, in the district of Norhamshire, Durham, lying in the northern extremity of Northumberland, 4 miles from Coldstream, and 337 from London; containing 48 houses and 247 inhabitants.

SHORTLAND, a small hamlet in the parish of Pluckley, lathe of Scray, Kent, 4½ miles from Ashford. The population of which was returned with Pluckley.

SHORNE, a parish in the hundred of Shamwell, and lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3½ miles from Gravesend, and 25¼ from London; containing 79 houses and 602 inhabitants. It is a pleasant romantic village, beautifully diversified with neighbouring hills and dales.—In the chancel of the church are some antique monuments, and it has a curious old octangular font, of Petworth marble. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

SHORWELL, a parish in West Medina liberty, Isle of Wight, beautifully situated in a valley, 5 miles from Newport; containing 69 houses and 492 inhabitants. Its church has a neat spire, and a stone pulpit, and contains several handsome monuments of the Leigh family. In the chancel is a stone to the memory of sir Richard Bethell, vicar, who died 1518. The rectory, value 20*l.* is a sinecure, and the vicarage, value 17*l.* 16*s.* is united with Motisfont.—Butler's Isle of Wight.

SHOSTON, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Balmborough, Northumberland, 2 miles from Belford, and 326 from London; containing 8 houses and 30 inhabitants.

SHOTLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bywell St. Andrew's, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Corbridge, and 272 from London; containing 80 houses and 434 inhabitants.

SHOTLEY, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 1 mile from Harwich, situated on the point of land formed by the rivers Stour and Orwell, lying opposite to Harwich; it contains 40 houses and 284 inhabitants. At Shotly gate is a ferry to Harwich, and a road to Ipswich.—It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

SHOTOVER, a hamlet in the parish of Horsepath, hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 3 miles from Oxford, and 52 from London; containing 14 houses and 152 inhabitants.—Here is a very steep hill, in which is found excellent ochre, an absorbent earth similar to fullers earth, and a kind of tobacco-pipe clay, much used in modelling.

SHOTSWELL, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 4 miles from Banbury, and 78 from London; containing 46 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SHOTTESBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Beynhurst, Berks, 4 miles from Maidenhead, and 30 from London; containing 17 houses and 94 inhabitants. The living is a vicarage, united with the parish of White Waltham.

SHOTTISHAM ALL SAINTS and ST. MARY'S, parishes nearly adjoining, in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 103 from London; the former, containing 57 houses and 441 inhabitants, is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*; and the latter, containing 56 houses and 350 inhabitants, is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

SHOTTISHAM, a parish in the hundred of Wilsford, Suffolk, 8 miles from Oxford, and 79 from London, on a branch of the Deban, called Shottisham creek; containing 22 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 16*s.*

SHOTTLE, a township in the parish of Duffield, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 4 miles from Derby, and 130 from London; containing 107 houses and 556 inhabitants.

SHOTTON, a township in the parish of Easington, in Easington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Durham, and 266 from London; containing 52 houses and 250 inhabitants.

SHOTTS, a parish in the shire of Lanark, Scotland, situated in the north-east corner of the county, 14 miles from Glasgow, and 28 from Edinburgh; containing 440 houses and 2127 inhabitants. It is watered by the rivers North and South Calders; and the Cramond and Avon, have their source in it. Most part of the parish is now enclosed, and has been brought into a tolerable state of cultivation. Coal and iron-stone, are here abundant.

SHOTWICK, a parish in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 5 miles from Chester, and 185 from London, on the banks of the Dee, which is nearly a mile over. Here are the ruins of an ancient castle, a palace belonging to the king of England. The church is a curacy, belonging to the dean and chapter of Chester.

SHOULDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 3 miles from Downham, and 87 from London; containing 75 houses and 466 inhabitants. Fairs, 19th September, and 10th October. It is a curacy.

SHOULDHAMTHORPE, a parish also in the same hundred of Norfolk, ¼ mile distant from the former; and containing 30 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHRAWARDINE, a parish in the hundred of Pimhill, Salop, 6 miles from Shrewsbury, and 167 from London; containing 24 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SHRAWLEY, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 7½ miles from Worcester, and 120 from London; containing 81 houses and 504 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

SHREWLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Hatton, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 2½ miles from Warwick, and 93 from London; containing 43 houses and 245 inhabitants.

SHREWSBURY, a borough and market town, consisting of five parishes, in the liberties of Shrewsbury, Salop, situated on a kind of peninsula formed by the winding of the river Severn, 155½ miles frrm London, through Coventry; containing 2597 houses, inhabited by 13,486 persons, viz. 6,068 males, and 7,418 females; of whom 6,000 were employed in various trades and manufactures, principally in that of flannels. It is a place of great antiquity, and is supposed to have been built by the Britons, on the ruins of an ancient city called Uriconium

The Britons called it Pengwerne, that is a brow of alders, from many growing in the neighbourhood, and the Saxons called it Scrobbes Byrig, or a town encompassed with shrubs. There are two fine stone bridges over the Severn. The east, called the New Bridge, is a noble structure, consisting of 7 arches, and 410 feet in length. The other is called the Welsh Bridge, from its leading into Wales, over the arch of which is the statue of Llewellin, the last prince of Wales, this being the town where the ancient princes of Powis land, or North Wales, used to reside. This bridge has a handsome gate. The streets are wide and clean, well paved and lighted, and the buildings elegant. The church of St. Alkmund was entirely collegiate, and endowed for the maintenance of 10 prebendaries; this was rebuilt in 1796, in an elegant manner. St. Mary's church was also formerly collegiate, having a dean and 9 prebendaries; it has a very high spire, which is seen at a distance, but it has been damaged by storms. St. Chad's was also collegiate as early as the reign of William the Conqueror. This ancient structure was nearly destroyed by the falling of the decayed tower in 1788, whilst it was under repair, when it was rebuilt in 1796. St. Michael's was a royal free chapel in the castle, and was granted by Henry I. to the college at Battlefield; and St. Julian's, a neat modern structure, erected in 1748 (except the tower) was also a royal free chapel, and at length annexed to St. Michael's. Here are two bridewells, and a house of industry, noted for its excellent regulations in the management of its poor; it is erected on a beautiful eminence on the opposite side of the river, and has every appearance of a noble seat. The free grammar-school is a stately building, not inferior to some of the colleges or universities, and has an excellent library, and spacious chapel. It has several exhibitions to Cambridge. An orphan house was opened in 1759, at the expence of the Foundling Hospital in London, but it was soon afterwards converted into a manufactory. The town house is an ancient building, in which the assize and sessions are held, and adjoining it is the Green Room, where the assemblies used to be held. The cross, erected in 1755, is composed of arches of groined work, supporting a reservoir of water, from whence the town is supplied, the cistern of which contains 1000 barrels of water. There are 12 trading companies, all incorporated by charters in the same manner as in London, several of them having very neat halls for transacting their business in. In the eastern suburbs of the town stood an hospital for lepers, and on the banks of the Severn stood a house of grey friars; at the end of Markwell-street a house of black friars, and on the west side of the town a house of Augustines, besides seve: a hospitals. The staple trade of Shrewsbury is in fine flannels and Welsh webs. The flannels are bought at Welshpool, in a market holden for that purpose, most of which are made in Montgomeryshire, and some are made, and more spun in the neighbouring parts of Shropshire. The flannels in Pool market are in pieces of 100 yards long on an average, and they are chiefly resold to the London merchants, who are the exporters. The webs are fabricated in Merionethshire and Denbighshire, and brought to Shrewsbury, where they are sold, in a hall where none but the members of the drapers company can enter; but of late years much of this market has been anticipated by buyers in the country, which often obliges the Shrewsbury drapers to send there themselves. Webs are about 200 yards long. The webs made in Merionethshire are about 7-8ths of a yard wide, and are called the strong or high country cloth. Those made in Denbighshire are called small or low country cloth. The former, after they are bought by the drapers, have the wool raised and sheared by men, called at Shrewsbury shearmen, or they are sent to the fulling mill to be thickened, and are then exported in bales of different sizes, some containing even 2000 yards. The ultimate markets are Holland, Germany, and America. The manufacture in Wales, by means of jennies introduced into farm-houses and other private houses, is four times as great as it was 20 years ago. A large mill for the purpose of spinning, fulling, &c. was erected at the Isle, about 5 miles from Shrewsbury, and there are also mills for dying woollen cloth in the county. A large manufactory of coarse linens, more particularly of linen thread, has lately been established in the environs of Shrewsbury. This town is also famous for the excellence of its brawn, which is sent to most parts of the kingdom, and it has for many years been noted for its delicate cakes. The greatest ornament of Shrewsbury is that beautiful tract of land between the walls of the town and the river, called the Quarries, because stones were formerly dug up there. It consists of about 20 acres of land, laid out in the most beautiful walks for the accommodation of the inhabitants, shaded with a double row of lime-trees, having a handsome alcove in the centre, the seats on one side facing the town, and on the other side the river. Besides the river Severn, the town has the advantage of a canal to Wales, with a branch to Ellesmere, and another to Madeley, with a branch to Newport. This town was incorporated by king Charles I. the corporation consisting of a mayor, recorder, steward, town-clerk, 24 aldermen, and 48 common councilmen, with inferior officers. The corporation has the power of trying causes, even such as are capital, except for treason, that are committed within their liberties; but as the assizes are held here twice a year these affairs are generally left to the termination of the judges. Shrewsbury sends two members to parliament, chosen by the free burgesses; the returning officer is the mayor. On the Monday fortnight after Whit-Sunday, the trading companies walk in procession to a place called Kingsland, on the opposite banks of the river, south of the town, where they entertain the mayor and corporation in bowers and booths, erected for that purpose. The town formerly was of great strength, being encompassed with a strong stone wall; and on the south side, where it was not defended by the river, it had a castle, built by Robert Montgomery, soon after the conquest. It was erected on a rock facing the north; only a part with two round towers remains, and the walls on the north east. The keep is now converted into a garden. It now belongs to Lord Bradford; near it was also an abbey, built by the same person, who after having spent the greater part of his days in the fatigues of war, took the monastic habit, and here ended his life. Its abbots sat as lords in parliament. The market days are on Wednesdays and Saturdays, for corn, cattle and provisions, and on Thursdays for Welsh cotton, friezes, flannels, baize, &c. Its fairs are the Saturday after 15th of March, Wednesday after Easter week; Wednesday before Holy Thursday, 3d July, 12th August, 2d October, and 12th December. About one mile distant, in a large wood, stands Boscobel house, where the Pendril's lived, who preserved king Charles II. after the battle of Worcester, and famous for the royal oak in the neighbourhood, in which the king and colonel Carles were afterwards hid, when a party of the enemy's horse was sent to search the house. Part of the oak remained till the year 1784. Near Shrewsbury is a very visible appearance of the great ancient road, called Watling-street, which ran from London to this town, and thence to the utmost borders of Wales. The churches of St. Mary's, St. Chad's, and St. Julian's are curacies, Holy Cross is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and St. Edmund a vicarage, value 6*l.* both in the patronage of the crown.

Shrewton, a parish in the hundred of Brance and Dole, Wilts, 5 miles from Amesbury and 83 from London; containing 76 houses and 269 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood is an elegant seat belonging to the earl of Ilchester. The living is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

Shrivenham, the name of a hundred in Berks, lying on the western side of the county and borders of Gloucester and Wilts.

Shrivenham, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Berks, 5 miles from Farringdon and 76 from London; containing 112 houses and 611 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* and is in the patronage of the crown.

Shropham, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, lying on the southern side of the county, between East Harling and Thetford.

Shropham, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Norfolk, 3½ miles from East Harling and 96 from London; containing 56 houses and 411 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* and is in the patronage of the mayor and aldermen of Norwich.

Shropshire. See Salop.

Shrowton. See Iwerne Courtney, Dorset.

Shuckburgh, Lower and Upper, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 4 miles from Southam and 78 from London; containing 40 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Shudy Camps, a parish in the hundred of Chilford, Cambridge, 3½ miles from Linton, and 46 from London; containing 51 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* and is in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Shurdington, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Badgworth, hundred of Dudstone, and King's Barton, Gloucester, 6 miles from Gloucester and 100 from London; containing 13 houses and 63 inhabitants.

Shurlach, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Northwich, Chester, from which it is distant 1 mile; it contains 9 houses and 49 inhabitants.

Shustock, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 2½ miles from Coleshill and 102 from London; containing 47 houses and 295 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Shute, a township in the parish and hundred of Colyton, Devon, 7 miles from Lyme and 150 from London; containing 91 houses and 558 inhabitants.

Shutford, East and West, 2 hamlets nearly adjoining, situated in the parish of Swacliff, and hundred of Banbury, Oxford, 3½ miles from Banbury and 78 from London; containing 65 houses and 267 inhabitants.

Shutlanger, a hamlet in the parish of Stoke Bruern, hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 7 miles from Stony Stratford, and 59 from London; containing 49 houses and 257 inhabitants.

Shuttington, or Shuttendon, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 3 miles from Tamworth, and 112 from London; containing 26 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Sibbertoft, a parish in the hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, 4 miles from Market Harborough and 80 from London; containing 72 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Oxford.

Sibdon Carwood, a hamlet in the parish of Clunn, hundred of Purslow, Salop, 4 miles from Bishops Castle and 157 from London; containing 12 houses and 70 inhabitants.

Sibford Ferris, and Sibford Gower, two hamlets in the parish of Swacliff, and hundred of Bloxham, Oxford, nearly adjoining, on the borders of Gloucestershire, 7 miles from Banbury, and 76 from London; the former containing 47 houses and 213 inhabitants, and the latter 84 houses and 397 inhabitants.

Sibsey, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 6 miles from Boston and 123 from London; containing 180 houses and 948 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Sibson, a hamlet in the parish of Stibbington, hundred of Normancross, Hants, situated on the river Nen, 8 miles from Peterborough and 84 from London; containing 55 houses and 324 inhabitants.

Sibson, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 6 miles from Hinckley and 105 from London; containing 41 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 18*s.* 1½*d.*

Sibthorpe, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 5 miles from Newark and 122 from London; containing 13 houses and 85 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Sibton, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Saxmundham and 93 from London; containing 55 houses and 421 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Sidbury, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 3 miles from St. Mary Ottery and 155 from London; containing 252 houses and 1253 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 28*l.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

Sidbury, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, 5 miles from Bridgnorth and 142 from London; containing 14 houses and 92 inhabitants.

Siddington, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 5 miles from Congleton and 166 from London; containing 72 houses and 423 inhabitants.

Siddington, a parish in the hundred of Crowthorne, Gloucester, 1 mile from Cirencester and 88 from London; containing 53 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the crown.

Side, a small village, united with Brimpsfield, in the hundred of Rapsgate, Gloucester, 7 miles from Cirencester and 96 from London; containing 10 houses and 41 inhabitants.

Sidenham, a parish united with Emmington, hundred of Lewknor, Oxford, 4 miles from Thame and 43 from London; containing 53 houses and 331 inhabitants.

Sidestrand, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 10 miles from Aylsham and 127 from London; containing 19 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 10*s.*

Sidlaw Hills, a ridge extending in a direction from east to west, through the shires of Perth and Angus, forming the south side of the vale of Strathmore, Sudlow being the Gaelic name for South hills. Some of these hills are 1400 feet above the level of the sea.

Sidlesham, a parish in the hundred of Manhood and rape of Chichester, Sussex, 4½ miles from Chichester and 66 from London; containing 102 houses and 805 inhabitants. The church is a handsome and stately edifice, with a good tower, having a ring of 4 bells. It has a very convenient quay, situated on Pagham harbour, for loading and unloading vessels in the coasting trade, and near it is a very powerful water-mill, having 8 pair of stones. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Sidmonton, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Kingsclere, Hampshire, 2 miles from Kingsclere and 57 from London; containing 17 houses and 116 inhabitants.

Sidmouth, a market-town and parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, situated at the mouth of the small river Sid, near the sea, 16 miles from Lyme Regis and 159 from London; containing 229 houses and 1252 inhabitants, a number of whom are principally employed in fishing. It was anciently a considerable sea port, but its harbour has long since been choked with sand. Of late years it has been much frequented as a watering-place, and several rows of neat houses have been recently erected. It has an elegant ball-room, and on the beach a commodious tea-room and shade; nearly opposite the London Inn, is a neat circular building, occupied as livery stables, having a fountain in the centre. The town is situated between two hills, and although open to the ocean, is entirely free from fogs, so that it is esteemed a very healthy as well as pleasant situation. Here formerly stood an alien priory, a cell to the Benedictine Abbey of Montbury, in Normandy. The market is on Saturdays, and its fairs are on Easter Tuesday, and the Wednesday after 1st September. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*—Polwhele's Devon.

Siggeston, a parish in the wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 3 miles from North Allerton and 230 from London; containing 23 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Sigglesthorne, a parish the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 3 miles from Hornsea, and 194 from London; containing 25 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 31*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Silbury Hill, the remains of a stupendous Roman barrow, near the village of Ave bury, hundred of Selkley, Wilts, 7 miles from Marlborough; it rises 170 feet in perpendicular height, and its form is the frustum of a cone, its diameter at the top being 105 feet, and at the bottom 500. In digging through the center of this hill in 1777, nothing was found but a rotten post and a rusty knife.

SUCHESTER, a parish in the hundred of Holdshott, and division of Basingstoke, Hants, on the borders of Berkshire, 7 miles from Basingstoke, and 45 from London; containing 57 houses and 311 inhabitants.—This is supposed to have been once a populous city, called by the Romans Segontiaci, and by the Britons Caer Segont, from thence Segontium, and by the Saxons Silcester, or the great city. Leland records the walls to have been two miles in compass, containing 80 acres of ground. They are remaining at present, and are of nine unequal sides, formed of rows of stones and flints alternately, being about 18 feet high and 15 thick: the remains of the ditches are in some places 12 yards over, with the appearance of having had four principal gates. Many British coins have been dug up at different times. Without the walls, on the north-east is a pond which was the site of an amphitheatre. A military road, called Lonbank and Grimsdike, pitched with flints, runs from the south gate to Winchester; and another, called the Portway, leads from the south gate, by Andover, to Old Sarum.—The church is a rectory, value 9*l.* 6*s.*

SILEBY, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 2 miles from Mount Sorrel, and 102 from London; containing 229 houses and 1111 inhabitants. It has a small charity school; and is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

SILFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Forehoe, Norfolk, near Wymondham, and 100 from London; containing 63 houses and 355 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SILKSTONE, a parish in the wapentake of Staincross, west riding of York, 4 miles from Barnsley, and 174 from London; containing 110 houses and 542 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

SILKSWORTH, a village in the parish of Bishop Wearmouth, Easington ward, Durham, near Sunderland, and 272 miles from London; containing 23 houses and 138 inhabitants.

SILK WILLOUGHBY, a parish in the hundred of Aswardhurn, and division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2¼ miles from Sleaford, and 109½ from London; containing 43 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

SILSDON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kildwick, wapentake of Staincliff, west riding of York, 5 miles from Keighley, and 212 from London; containing 279 houses and 1323 inhabitants.

SILSOE, a parish, and formerly a market town, in the hundred of Flitt, Bedford, ¼ mile from Luton, and 40½ from London; containing 73 houses and 447 inhabitants.—It has fairs on the 12th May and 20th September.

SILTON, a parish in the hundred of Redlane, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 7 miles from Shaftesbury, and 108 from London; containing 64 houses and 341 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

SILTON, NETHER and OVER, two small hamlets in the parish of Leek, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from Thirsk, and 230 from London; containing 56 houses and 400 inhabitants.

SILVERDALE, a village and chapelry in the parish of Warton, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 3 miles from Burton, and 247 from London; containing 35 houses and 171 inhabitants.

SILVERHILL, a strong military post commanding a most extensive view of the country, near Robert's-bridge, 6 miles from Battle, and 49 from London.

SILVERSTONE, a township in the parish and hundred of Greensnorton, Northampton, 3 miles from Towcester, and 62 from London; containing 138 houses and 386 inhabitants.

SILVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Hayridge, Devon, 7 miles from Exeter, and 175 from London; containing 254 houses and 1236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 51*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*—It has a fair on the 4th September, and Midsummer day.

SILVINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Overs, Salop, 7 miles from Ludlow, and 136 from London; containing only 10 houses and 58 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SIMONBURN, a parish in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Hexham, and 290 from London; containing 97 houses and 555 inhabitants. The rectory of this parish, rated in the king's book at 3*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* is computed to be worth 300*l.* having the chapelries of Falstow and Billingham annexed. It is in the patronage of the governors of Greenwich hospital.

SIMONSTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 5 miles from Clitheroe, and 210 from London; containing 55 houses and 298 inhabitants.

SIMONSHALL, a hamlet of, and adjoining to Wootton-Under-Edge, Gloucestershire.

SIMONSWOOD, a hamlet in the parish of Walton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Liverpool, and 208 from London; containing 46 houses and 274 inhabitants.

SINDERLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Pickhill, Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 10 miles from Aldborough, and 218 from London; containing 14 houses and 71 inhabitants.

SINFIN, a hamlet in the parish of Barrow, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 3 miles from Derby, and 123 from London; containing 12 houses and 58 inhabitants.

SINGLEBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Great Harwood, hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 3 miles from Winslow, and 53 from London; containing 18 houses and 87 inhabitants.

SINGLETON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 5 miles from Kirkham, and 230 from London; containing 61 houses and 325 inhabitants.

SINGLETON, a parish in the united hundreds of Westborne and Singleton, and rape of Chichester, Sussex, 4 miles from Chichester, and 58 from London; containing 74 houses and 445 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* with the vicarage of East Dean annexed, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Chichester.

SINNINGTON, a parish in Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 3 miles from Pickering, and 228 from London; containing 57 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SINWELL, a township in the parish of Wootton, hundred of Berkeley, Gloucester, 1 mile from Wooton, and 109 from London; containing 244 houses and 1235 inhabitants, including the adjoining village of Bradley.

SISTON, a parish in the hundred of Pucklechurch, Gloucester, 5 miles from Bristol, and 108 from London; containing 159 houses and 856 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*

SITHNEY, a parish in the hundred of Kerrian, Cornwall, 2 miles from Helstone, and 278 from London; containing 265 houses and 1420 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

SITTINGBOURNE, a parish in the hundred of Milton, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 1 mile from Milton, and 40 from London. It consists of one long street, containing 200 houses and 1347 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town, and the church is a large and handsome building, containing many ancient monuments, but several elegant ones have been much damaged, as well as the roof and inside of the church, by fire, in 1763, but it has been since repaired. It has a small charity school; and has fairs on Whit Monday, and 10th October.—The living is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.—Hasted's Kent.

SIXHILLS, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 4 miles from Market Raisin, and 150 from London; containing 23 houses and 131 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

SIZELAND, a village united with Mundham, in the hundred of Loddon, Norfolk, 5 miles from Bungay, and 111 from London; containing 7 houses and 54 inhabitants.

SKECKLING, a parish united with Burstwick, in the division of Holderness, east riding of York, 2½ miles from Hedon, and 185 from London; containing 54 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.*

SKEEBY, a hamlet in the parish of Easeby, Gillingwest wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Richmond, and 238 from London; containing 33 houses and 154 inhabitants.

SKEFFINGTON, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 10 miles from Leicester, and 90 from London; containing 29 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value, 19*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

SKEFLING, a parish in Holderness, east riding of York, 3 miles from Patrington, and 196 from London; containing 27 houses and 155 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

SKEGBY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Mansfield, hundred of Broxton, Notts, 3 miles from Mansfield, and 141 from London; containing 86 houses and 416 inhabitants.

SKEGNESS, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Spilsby, and 136 from London, on the coast; containing 23 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SKELIG or SKELIG ISLANDS, off the coast of the county of Kerry, province of Munster, Ireland. They are three in number, and it is remarked that the gannet never nestles on any place in the south of Ireland, but on one of these. A rock on the north coast of the kingdom, has the same peculiarity. The Great Skelig, lies three leagues from the shore; the others are but rocks of marble, six or eight miles west of Brayhead.

SKELLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Haughley, hundred of Stow, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Stowmarket, and 78 from London; containing 14 houses and 90 inhabitants.

SKELLINGTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Lincoln, and 137 from London; containing 47 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

SKELMERSDALE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Ormskirk, and hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Ormskirk, and 206 from London; containing 70 houses and 414 inhabitants.

SKELSMERGH, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Kendal, and 263 from London; containing 37 houses and 247 inhabitants.

SKELTON, a parish in Leath ward, Cumberland, 5½ miles from Penrith, and 288 from London, containing 61 houses and 270 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 43*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi college, Oxford.

SKELTON, a village in the parish of Howden, division of Howdenshire, east riding of York, 3 miles from Howden, on the banks of the Ouse, and 181 from London, containing 34 houses and 146 inhabitants.

SKELTON, a township in the parish of Overton, in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 3½ miles from York, and 202 from London; containing 41 houses and 203 inhabitants.

Skelton, a parish in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Gisborough, and 254 from London; containing [illegible] houses and 700 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Skelton, a parish in the liberties of Rippon, west riding of York, 3 miles from Rippon, and 219 from London; containing 46 houses and 240 inhabitants. It is a curacy Skendleby, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Spilsby, and 137 from London; containing 25 houses and 174 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

Skene, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 10 miles west of Aberdeen; containing 291 houses and 1140 inhabitants.—The Loch of Skene is about a mile long, and ½ broad, abounding with pike and eel.

Skenfreth, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Monmouthshire, 6 miles from Monmouth, and 137 from London; containing 95 houses and 444 inhabitants.

Skenfreth Castle, on the banks of the Monnow, is supposed to be the most ancient fortress in the county, and is situated in a recluse spot, surrounded by hills; it is in length about 160 feet, and its greatest breadth is 170: the walls are very strong and are flanked with five circular towers, in the centre on a small elevation is a round tower, which was the citadel. The church is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* Cox's Tour in Monmouth.

Skerne, a parish in the wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 2 miles from Driffield, and 195 from London; containing 41 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Skerne, a river in Durham, which runs into the Tees at Crossbridge.

Skerries, a small fishing town, situated on the coast of Dublin, in the province of Leinster, 17 miles from Dublin. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in fishing and making kelp from the sea-weed produced on the rocks, in the neighbourhood.

Skerries or Skerry Isles, three small islands of Shetland, lying 15 miles north-east of the isle of Whalsay, and about 20 from the main land; containing about 70 inhabitants.

Skerton, a township in the parish of Lancaster, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, containing 245 houses and 1278 inhabitants.

Skerveley, a hamlet in the parish of Hinckley, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 1 mile from Hinckley, and 98 from London; the population of which was included with Hinckley.

Skethy, a river in Merionethshire, Wales, which falls into the Irish sea.

Skeyton, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Aylesham, and 116 from London; containing 44 houses and 326 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.*

Skidbrook, a parish in the hundred of South Esk, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Saltfleet, and 163 miles from London; containing 78 houses and 298 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

Skidby, a township and chapelry in the parish of Cottingham, in the division of Hunsley Beacon, and wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 4 miles from Beverley, and 180 from London; containing 46 houses and 243 inhabitants.

Skiddaw, a high hill near Cockermouth, in Cumberland, 1090 yards above the level of the sea, and commanding an extensive prospect, even as far as Scotland.

Skilgate, a parish in the hundred of Williterton and Freemanners, Somerset, 4 miles from Wiveliscomb, and 160 from London; containing 37 houses and 226 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

Skillington, a parish in the hundred of Betislock, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 15 miles from Stamford, and 105 from London; containing 48 houses and 244 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Skiplam, a hamlet in the parish of Kildale, Rydall division, north riding of York, near Helmsley, and 230 miles from London; containing 9 houses and 70 inhabitants.

Skipsea, a parish in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 7 miles from Hornsea, on the coast, and 200 from London; containing 42 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 16*s.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

Skipton, a hamlet in the parish of Topcliff, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Thirsk, and 218 from London; containing 23 houses and 103 inhabitants.

Skipton, a market town and parish in Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, commonly called Skipton in Craven, from its situation in the midst of a rough mountainous district called Craven, on the banks of the river Aire, 14 miles from Otley, and 216 from London, by Halifax; containing 496 houses and 2305 inhabitants; of whom 656 were employed in various trades and manufactures. In this town the quarter sessions for the west riding of York, are held by adjournment. It had an ancient castle, now the mansion of the earl of Thanet, and has a free chapel. It is situated upon a high rock, and several of the chambers are hung with ancient tapestry, and it contains many family pictures. The grounds are adorned with curious walks and avenues. Skipton has a good grammar school, and a neat house and gardens for the residence of the master. The trade of this place has much encreased of late years, from the advantage of the Leeds and Liverpool canal running near it; and it has a paper mill, a glazing mill, and one for silk twist. Its market, on Saturday, is well supplied; and its fairs are 25d March for cattle, Easter Tuesday, and each succeeding Tuesday fortnight till Whitsuntide, for cattle, and Whitsun eve and Monday for cattle, and all kinds of goods; Trinity eve, Palm Sunday eve, for cloth; St. James's day, and 20th, 22d, and 23d November. The rectory, value 4*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Christ church Oxford; and the vicarage, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* is in the patronage of the dean and canons of the same.—Aikin's Tour.

SKIPWITH, a parish in the wapentake of Ouze and Derwent, east riding of York, 5 miles from Selby, and 185 from London; containing 51 houses and 247 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SKIRBEEK, the name of a hundred in the division of Holland, Lincolnshire, lying east of Boston.

SKIRBEEK, a parish in the hundred of the same name, and parts of Holland, Lincoln, 2 miles from Boston, and 116 from London; containing 180 houses and 539 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 34*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

SKIRWITH, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkland, Leath ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Penrith, and 291 from London; containing 36 houses and 189 inhabitants.

SKIRPENBEEK, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 10 miles from York, and 208 from London; containing 27 houses and 167 inhabitants.

SKY, one of the most considerable islands of the Hebrides, belonging to the shire of Inverness, being about 60 miles long and as many broad. It is divided into 7 parochial districts; containing 14,470 inhabitants, and is separated from the main land of Scotland, by a channel about 3 leagues broad, but at the ferry of Glenelly it is not more than half a mile. The coast is bold and rocky, abounding with many safe and commodious bays; the face of the country is very hilly, and some of the tops of the mountains are covered with snow in the middle of summer; the island is watered by numerous rivulets, abounding with trout and salmon, and many fresh-water lakes are stored with trout and eels. From its insular situation, the air in general is loaded with vapours, and scarcely a day thoughout the year is free from rain, which is sometimes so heavy as even to destroy the crops. The inhabitants are much subject to agues, fevers, rheumatisms and dysenteries, yet they are long lived. The soil in general is black and mossy, and better adapted for pasture than tillage, and the crooked spade is almost the sole utensil of agriculture. Sky has long been noted for an excellent breed of small cattle, numbers of which are annually sold at the fairs of Portree, (which see.) Besides the wild birds and reptiles in common with the rest of the islands, there are 3 species of serpents peculiar here, all of them poisonous. Whales and sun-fish are sometimes caught in the bays, but the chief avocation is the herring fishing. The people are strong, robust, tolerably healthy and prolific. For the most part they profess the Protestant religion, and observe the customs and language of the rest of the Hebrides, bringing up their children in the hardiest manner. Many valuable minerals have been discovered, but none have been wrought to any advantage. A valley near Loch Fallart, produces fine agates, and many of the rivulets contain topazes. The whole island belongs to two proprietors, viz. the laird of Macleod, and Lord Macdonald. Latitude 57° 35′ north, longitude 6° 20″ west.—Pennant's Tour to the Hebrides.

SKYRACK, the name of a wapentake in the west riding of York, lying between the rivers Aire and Wharfe.

SLAIDBURN, a parish in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 6 miles from Clitheroe, and 221 from London; containing 92 houses and 631 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.*

SLAIGHTHWAITE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Huddersfield, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, on the banks of the Huddersfield canal, 4 miles from Huddersfield, and 190 from London; containing 361 houses, and 2007 inhabitants, of whom 1950 were employed in the various manufactures peculiar to Manchester.

SLALEY, a parish in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Corbridge, and 275 from London; containing 125 houses and 585 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SLAPSTON, a parish in the hundred of Greens Norton, Northampton, 3 miles from Towcester, and 56 from London; containing 34 houses and 135 inhabitants.

SLAPTON, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, on the Grand Junction Canal, 3 miles from Ivinghoe, and 36 from London; containing 40 houses and 228 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

SLAPTON, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge, and 205 from London; containing 102 houses and 558 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SLAUGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Buttinghill, and rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Cuckfield, and 37 from London; containing 93 houses and 560 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* with Crawley chapel annexed.

SLAUGHTER, the name of a hundred in Gloucestershire, lying on the eastern side of the county, around Stow on the Wold.

SLAUGHTER, UPPER, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Gloucester, 3 miles from Stow, and 80 from London; containing 45 houses and 253 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

SLAUGHTER, LOWER, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, ½ a mile distant therefrom, and containing 44 houses and 198 inhabitants.

SLAUGHTERFORD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Biddestone, and hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 5 miles from Chippenham, and 98 from London; containing 26 houses and 124 inhabitants.

SLAWSTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 5 miles from Market Harborough, and 87 from London; containing 55 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.*

SLEAFORD, NEW, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Flexwell, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 16½ miles from Lincoln, and 116 from London; containing 321 houses and 1483 inhabitants, of whom 287 were employed in various trades. The church is a handsome Gothic structure, and contains several antique monuments. The bishops of Lincoln had formerly a magnificent palace here, but none of its remains are in existence. The market is on Mondays; and its fairs are Plough Monday, Easter Monday, Whit Monday, 12th August, and 10th October. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.*

SLEASORD, OLD, a hamlet in the parish of New Sleaford, in the hundred of Oswardhurst, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, ½ mile from Sleaford, and 116 from London; containing 30 houses and 126 inhabitants.

SLEAGILL, a hamlet in the parish of Morland, west ward, Westmorland, 5 miles from Appleby, and 275 from London; containing 23 houses and 114 inhabitants.

SLEAPHAM, a hamlet in the parish of St. Peter's, St. Alban's, hundred of Cashio, Herts, containing 100 houses and 486 inhabitants.

SLEBECK, a parish in the hundred of Dungleddy, Pembrokeshire, Wales, near Llanbaden and the river Clyddy, 6 miles from Narberth and 260 from London; containing 65 houses and 288 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SLEDDALE. See LONGSLEDDALE, Westmoreland.

SLEDMIRE, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Driffield and 203 from London; containing 23 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a curacy. Sir Mark Sykes has an elegant seat here.

SLEEKBURN, EAST and WEST, two adjoining hamlets, in the parish of Bedlington, Chester ward, Durham; containing 25 houses and 140 inhabitants.

SLIGO, a county of Ireland, in the province of Connaught, 25 miles in length and 22 in breadth, bounded on the east by Leitrim, on the west by Mayo, on the north and north-west by the Atlantic Ocean, and and on the south and south-west by Roscommon and Mayo. It contains 39 parishes, about 11,500 houses and 60,000 inhabitants. Besides Sligo which is the principal town, there are many considerable villages in which the linen manufacture flourishes. The soil is various in different parts, but of late the cultivation has been much improved; towards the coast it is rather boggy.

SLIGO, the county town of Sligo, seated on a bay of the same name, 25 miles from Killala and 100 from Dublin; in 1788 it contained 916 houses and 8000 inhabitants. It carries on a considerable trade; its rivers being navigable for vessels of 1200 tons, up to the very town quays.

SLIMBRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Berkeley, Gloucester, near the banks of the Severn, 6 miles from Berkeley and 110 from London; containing 117 houses and 770 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen College, Oxford.

SLINDON, a parish in the hundred of Aldwick, and rape of Chichester, Sussex, 3 miles from Arundel and 63 from London, containing 66 houses and 374 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

SLINFOLD, a parish in the hundred of West Easewrith, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 3 miles from Horsham and 35 from London; containing 75 houses and 550 inhabitants. It has a fair on Easter Tuesday, and is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* a sinecure, in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester.

SLINGSBY, a parish in Rydall division, north riding of York, 5 miles from Malton, and 220 from London; containing 91 houses and 434 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

SLIPTON, a parish in the hundred of Huxloe, Northampton, 2 miles from Thrapston, and 75 from London; containing 22 houses and 128 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

SLOLEY, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walham and 120 from London; containing 37 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SLOUGH, a hamlet, partly situated in the parish of Upton, and partly in that of Stoke, in the hundred of Stoke, Bucks, 2 miles from Windsor and 20½ from London, on the Bath road. This village is noted for its inns. Here is the residence and observatory of the celebrated Dr. Herschell, where he has for many years pursued his astronomical researches.

SLYNE, a hamlet in the parish of Bolton-le-Sands, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 1 mile from Bolton, and 277 from London; containing 54 houses and 259 inhabitants.

SMALESMOUTH, a hamlet in the parish of Simonburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Hexham, and 288 from London; containing 26 houses and 131 inhabitants.

SMALLBURGH, a parish in the hundred of Tunsted, Norfolk, 5 miles from North Walsham, and 129 from London; containing 63 houses and 699 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 4*s.*

SMALLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Morley, hundred of Morleston and Litchurch, Derby, 4 miles from Derby, and 130 from London; containing 109 houses and 618 inhabitants.

SMALLFORD, a hamlet in and adjoining to the parish of St. Stephen's, St. Alban's, and in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, containing 25 houses and 133 inhabitants.

SMALLHOLM, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, situated on the turnpike-road from Edinburgh to Kelso, about 4 miles from the latter; containing 94 houses and 445 inhabitants: at the south-west corner of the parish is a large square tower, called Sandy Knowe, forming a conspicuous land-mark at sea.

SMALL ISLES, a parish of the Hebrides, comprehending the islands of EIGG, RUM, CANNA, and MUCK, the first belonging to Inverness, and the others to Argyle; the whole containing about 1400 inhabitants.

SMARDEN, a parish and formerly a market town, in the hundred of Calehill, lathe of Scray, Kent, 12 miles from Maidstone, and 48 from London; containing 160 houses and 851 inhabitants. It has a fair 10th October; and is a rectory, value 24*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

SMEATON, a parish in Gilling-east wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from North Allerton, and 232 from London; containing 51 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SMEATON, LITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkby, in the wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 5½ miles from North Allerton, and 230 from London; containing 13 houses and 72 inhabitants.

SMEATON, a township in the parish of Wormsley, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 8 miles from Doncaster and 177 from London; containing 36 houses and 179 inhabitants.

SMEDMORE, a small hamlet in the parish of Kingston, Isle of Purbeck, Dorset, 2 miles from Cross Castle, and 117 from London; in the neighbourhood is found what the country people call coal money, being small round pieces, about two inches in diameter, having one side flat and the other convex.

SMEETH, a hamlet in the parish of Aldington, hundred of Byrcholt, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 8½ miles from Ashford and 58 from London; containing 46 houses and 296 inhabitants. Its fairs are 12th May, and 10th September.

SMEETON WESTERBY, a township in the parish of Kilworth Beauchamp, hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4½ miles from Market Harborough and 87 from London; containing 73 houses and 365 inhabitants.

SMESTALL, a river in Staffordshire, which runs into the Stour, near Stourton Castle.

SMETHCOT, a parish in the hundred of Condover, Salop, 9 miles from Shrewsbury, and 163 from London; containing 56 houses and 338 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 9*s.*

SMISBY, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gresley, Derby, 6 miles from Burton and 121 from London; containing 60 houses and 235 inhabitants. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the earl of Huntingdon.

SMITHDON, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, on the north-western extremity of the county, on the coast of the North Sea Wash.

SMITHFIELD, a hamlet and considerable pottery, in the neighbourhood of Newcastle-under-Lyne, in Staffordshire.

SMETHWICK, a township in the parish of Harborne, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 4 miles from Birmingham, and 116 from London; containing 205 houses and 1097 inhabitants.

SNAINTON, a township situated partly in the parish of Brompton, and partly in that of Ebberston, in Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 10 miles from Malton and 227 from London; containing 100 houses and 450 inhabitants.

SNAITH, a market-town and parish in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Aire, 12 miles from Pontefract, and 174 from London; containing 170 houses and 988 inhabitants. The church is a handsome antique building. The market is on Friday, and its fairs are the first Friday in April, 10th August, and first Friday in September, chiefly for flax, great quantities of which are grown in the neighbourhood. It is a curacy.

SNAPE, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 2 miles from Saxmundham and 88 from London; containing 78 houses and 402 inhabitants. Fair 11th August.—It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.*

SNAPE, a township in the parish of Well, Hang-east wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Marsham and 227 from London; containing 141 houses and 679 inhabitants.

SNARESTONE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Swepstone, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 6 miles from Ashby de-la-Zouch and 168 from London; containing 62 houses and 324 inhabitants.

SNARFORD, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Lincoln, and 140 from London; containing 8 houses and 39 inhabitants. The living is a sinecure rectory, value 4*l.* attached to the sub-deanery of Lincoln.

SNARGATE, a parish in the hundred of Longport, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 7 miles from Tenterden and 64 from London; containing 10 houses and 67 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

SNAVE, a parish in the hundred of Longport, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 3¼ miles from New Romney and 69 from London; containing 11 houses and 59 inhabitants.

SNEATON, a parish in the wapentake of Whitby Strand, north riding of York, 2 miles from Whitby and 244 from London; containing 34 houses and 173 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the king.

SNELLAND, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Wragby and 140 from London; containing 21 houses and 94 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

SNELSON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Macclesfield, Cheshire, near Macclesfield, 176 miles from London; containing 23 houses and 126 inhabitants.

SNELSTON, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 2 miles from Ashborn, and 140 from London; containing 82 houses and 443 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SNENTON, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, ¾ of a mile from Nottingham and 124 from London; containing 117 houses and 553 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SNETTERTON, a parish in the hundred of Shropham, Norfolk, 2 miles from East Harling and 95 from London; containing 83 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

SNETTISHAM, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 7 miles from Lynn and 109 from London; the church is a handsome gothic structure, and the parish was formerly much more populous, being a market town; it now contains 161 houses and 881 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SNITTER, a hamlet in the parish of Rothbury, in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 1 mile from Rothbury and 306 from London; containing 35 houses and 173 inhabitants.

SNITTERBY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Waddingham, hundred of Aslacoe and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 8 miles from Gainsborough and 150 from London; containing 55 houses and 185 inhabitants.

SNITTERFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 3 miles from Stratford-on-Avon and 92 from London; containing 126 houses and 592 inhabitants. Fair 16th July. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Worcester.

SNIZORT, a parish in the Isle of Sky, Scotland, partly intersected by an arm of the sea, called Loch Snizort, which about ¼ of a mile before it falls into the ocean, forms a small island, on which are the ruins of an old cathedral. Snizort contains 412 houses and 2144 inhabitants.

SNODLAND, a parish in the hundred of Larkfield, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3 miles from Rochester and 31 from London; containing 60 houses and 312 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Rochester.

SNORING, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Walsingham and 112 from London; containing 70 houses and 301 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* and is united with Thursford, in the patronage of St. John's College, Cambridge.

SNORING, LITTLE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, 3¼ miles from Fakenham and 4 from Walsingham; containing 53 houses and 229 inhabitants.

SNORHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Latchingdon, in the hundred of Dengey, Essex, 7 miles from Rochford and 42 from London. It was formerly a parish of itself.

SNOWDEN, a mountain in Caernarvonshire, Wales. It is the centre of a chain of mountains, stretching from Bardsay Island, in a north-easterly direction to Conway Bay. The mass of rock which goes by the name of Snowden, is composed of various cliffs of different heights, rising one above another, the highest point being 3,600 feet from the high water mark, at Caernarvon quay. It is erroneously stated, that snow is to be found all the year round upon this mountain; but the first snow that appears is about the beginning of November, and it is seldom melted till the middle of June.—Aikin's Tour in North Wales.

SNOWSHILL, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 6 miles from Evesham and 90 from London; containing 52 houses and 263 inhabitants.

SNYDALL, a hamlet in the parish of Normanton, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Pontefract and 180 from London; containing 28 houses and 127 inhabitants.

SNYTE, a river which rises in Leicestershire, and passing through Nottinghamshire, falls into the Dean at Shilton.

SOCKBURN, a parish in Stockton ward, Durham, 5 miles from Yarm and 240 from London; containing 8 houses and 34 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 3*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

SODBURY, CHIPPING. See CHIPPING SODBURY, Gloucester.

SODBURY, LITTLE, a parish in the hundred of Grumbald's Ash, Gloucester, 1 mile from Chipping Sodbury and 113 from London; containing 22 houses and 89 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are many remains of Roman and Danish fortifications.

SODBURY, OLD, a parish in the same hundred as the foregoing, Gloucester, 1 mile north east of Chipping Sodbury; containing 92 houses and 687 inhabitants. Here is the mother church of Chipping Sodbury.

Soham, or Monk Soham, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Staploe, Cambridge, 15 miles from Cambridge and 71 from London, on the borders of Suffolk; containing 444 houses and 2004 inhabitants, of whom 109 were employed in trade. It is sometimes called Monks Soham, to distinguish it from other villages of the same name in Suffolk, and for its having a monastery erected here, by Felix the Burgundian, the first bishop of the East Angles, where it was also made an episcopal See, which was afterwards removed to Dunwich. It has a good charity-school, and a small market on Saturday. Fair 20th April. It is a vicarage, value 32*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

Soham, Earls. See Earls Soham, Suffolk.

Solbe, a river in the Isle of Man, which falls into the Irish sea.

Solihull, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 7 miles from Birmingham and 108 from London; containing 480 houses and 2473 inhabitants. It was formerly a market-town, and is noted for its elegant church. It has a large fair, 29th April, 10th May, and 10th and 12th October, and is a rectory, rated at 24*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

Soho, the extensive manufactory established by Mr. Bolton, in the neighbourhood of Birmingham, from which it is distant 2 miles. There the different articles of the Birmingham trade, such as buttons, buckles, toys, cutlery, as well as the imitation of Or Moulus; steam engines on the most extensive plan and power, and the coinage of copper and stamping of dollars for government has been carried on, excelling every other manufactory in the world. The buildings of Soho now cover many acres of ground; at a small distance is a neat white edifice, the residence of the late Mr. Eginton, where the art of staining or painting glass with vitrified colours, has been brought to a degree of perfection, far superior to any of the ancient productions now remaining.

Sollershope, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 7 miles from Ross and 128 from London; containing 31 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 4*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* united with How Caple.

Solport, a township in the parish of Stapleton, in Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 8 miles from Carlisle and 312 from London; containing 52 houses and 259 inhabitants.

Solway Frith, a navigable arm of the sea, extending eastward from the Irish sea, and forming the boundary between England and Scotland for upwards of 50 miles. This Frith is also called Booness Wath, and is navigable for vessels of 100 tons, within 6 miles of its extremity. The spring tides rise 20 feet above low water mark, and the ordinary tides about 12. A number of rivers empty themselves into the Frith; on the Scottish side, the South Dee, Urr, Nith, Annan and Kirtle, while the Sark, Esk, and Liddel, uniting, form its eastern extremity. It contains various kinds of fish, particularly salmon, a peculiar method of catching which is by the leister, a kind of 4-pronged fork, fixed to a shaft from 20 to 24 feet long, which is thrown at the fish by persons as they run along the sand; much of the salmon here caught is sent pickled to London, and other places.—Pennant's Tour.

Solway Moss, an extensive morass near the river Esk, Scotland, being at the head of the Solway Frith, which, when the rivers were swollen with rain in November, 1771, burst out, and covered a great extent of the neighbouring country.

Somborne, Kings, a parish in the hundred of the same name, and division of Andover, Hants, 3 miles from Stockbridge and 68 from London; containing 152 houses and 778 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 21*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

Somborne Parva, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, and 1 mile distant therefrom; containing 8 houses and 63 inhabitants.

Somerby, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 6 miles from Melton Mowbray and 100 from London; containing 68 houses and 350 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

Somerby, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Grantham, and 113 miles from London; containing 35 houses and 194 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, rated at 11*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* and is united with Humby.

Somercoats, North, a parish in the hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1 mile from Saltfleet and 166 from London; containing 108 houses and 601 inhabitants. The living is a vicarage, rated at 9*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* united with the following parish of Somercoats, South, a parish near Louth, 2 miles distant from the foregoing, and containing 56 houses and 284 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the king as duke of Lancaster.

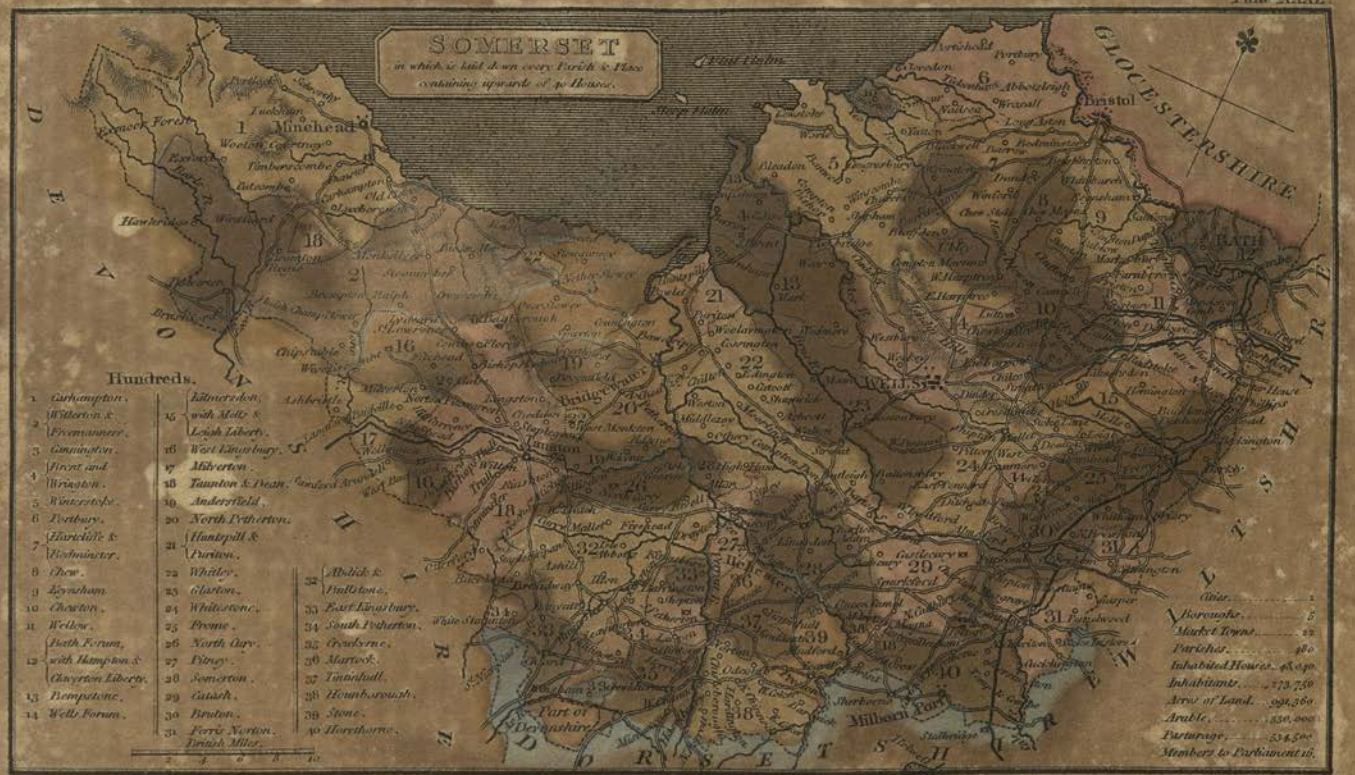
Somerford Booth, a hamlet in the parish of Congleton, and hundred of Macclesfield, Cheshire, 3 miles from Congleton and 164 from London; containing 40 houses and 250 inhabitants.

Somerford, Great, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, 3 miles from Malmsbury and 92 from London; containing 75 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* and is in the patronage of Exeter College, Oxford.

Somerford Keynes, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 4 miles from Cricklade and 88 from London; containing 43 houses and 203 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.*

Plate XXXI.



SOMERSET
in which is laid down every Parish & Place containing upwards of 40 Houses.
Hundreds.
1 Carhampton.
2 Williton & Freemanners.
3 Cannington.
4 Brent and Wrington.
5 Winterstoke.
6 Portbury.
7 Hartcliffe & Bedminster.
8 Chew.
9 Keynsham.
10 Chewton.
11 Wellow.
12 Bath Forum, with Hampton & Claverton Liberty.
13 Bempstone.
14 Wells Forum.
15 Kilmersdon, with Mells & Leigh Liberty.
16 West Enmsbury.
17 Milverton.
18 Taunton & Pitney.
19 Andersfield.
20 North Petherton.
21 Huntspill & Puriton.
22 Whitley.
23 Glaston.
24 Whitestone.
25 Frome.
26 North Curr.
27 Pitney.
28 Somerton.
29 Catash.
30 Bruton.
31 Ferre Norton.
32 Abdick & Bullstone.
33 East Enmsbury.
34 South Petherton.
35 Crewkerne.
36 Martock.
37 Tintinhull.
38 Hounsborough.
39 Stone.
40 Horethorne.
British Miles.
Cities 2
Boroughs 8
Market Towns 22
Parishes 480
Inhabited Houses 48,040
Inhabitants 273,750
Acres of Land 994,560
Arable 330,000
Parturage 534,560
Members to Parliament 16.
Published June 1st 1808 by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars London.
Cooper del.t et sculp.t

SOMERFORD LITTLE, another parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 3 miles from Malmsbury, and 94 from London; containing 38 houses and 255 inhabitants. It is a rectory, valued at 8*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

SOMERLEYTON, a parish in the hundred of Mutford and Lothingland, Suffolk, 3 miles from Lowestoffe, and 117 from London; containing 45 houses and 240 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

SOMERSBY, a parish in the hundred of Hill, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 4 miles from Horncastle, and 140 from London; containing 14 houses and 76 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*

SOMERSETSHIRE, a maritime county of England, bounded on the north by Gloucestershire, the Irish sea and the Severn; on the east by Wiltshire and Dorsetshire; on the south by Dorsetshire, and on the west and south-west by Devonshire; being 68 miles in length and 47 in breadth, containing 991,360 acres of land, having 330,000 acres arable, and 534,500 in pasturage. It is divided into 43 hundreds viz. Abdick and Bulstone, Andersfield, Bathforum, Bempstone, Brent and Wrington, Bruton, Cannington, Carhampton, Catash, Chew, Chewton, Crewkerne, Curry north, Ferris Norton, Frome, Glaston, Hartcliffe and Bedminster, Horethorne, Hounborough, Keynsham, Kilmersden, Kingsbury, Martock, Milverton, Petherton, north and south, Pitney, Portbury, Somerton, Stone, Taunton, Tintinhull, Wellow, Wellisforum, Whitestone, Whitley, Willerton, and Winterstoke. The whole containing 2 cities, Bath and Wells, (exclusive of the greater part of the city of Bristol) 5 boroughs, Bridgewater, Ilchester, Milbourne-port, Minehead and Taunton, and 22 market-towns; Axbridge, Bruton, Castle Cary, Chard, Crewkerne, Dulverton, Dunster, Frome, Selwood, Glastonbury, Ilminster, Keynsham, Langport, North Curry, Petherton, Shepton Mallet, Somerton, Stowey, Watchet, Wallington, Wincanton, Wivelscomb and Yeovil, 480 parishes, 48,040 houses inhabited by 273,750 persons, viz. 126,927 males, and 146,823 females, of whom 54,053 were employed in trade and manufactures, and 61,434 in agriculture. The amount of the assessment under the act for laying a tax on property in 1806, was 4,055,556*l.* and the amount of the poor's rates in 1803 was 151,237*l.* being at the rate of 4*s.* 2*l.* in the pound, and the average scale of mortality for 10 years appears to have been as 1 to 54½ of the existing population. It sends 16 members to parliament, is included in the western circuit, the province of Canterbury and in the diocese of Bath and Wells. The rivers of Somersetshire are numerous, but not large, their course being chiefly within the county. The principal is the Parret, which rising on the southern parts, flows northward, and is joined by the Ivel from the east, then by the Thone from the west, uniting most of the rivulets of that part and afterwards by other streams, empties itself into the Bristol channel at Bridgwater Bay; the small river Ax, from the north, passes Axbridge, and falls into the sea. On the north-east, several small streams run into the Avon, which, after washing Bath, forms the limit between Gloucestershire, and Somersetshire, dividing the city of Bristol, and terminating in the Bristol channel. Few counties contain a greater variety of soil and situation than Somersetshire; the north-eastern part is in general stony and possesses a lofty mineral tract, called the Mendip Hills, affording abundance of coal, lead, and calamine; the lead is particularly hard, and is mostly exported for making bullets and shot; the calamine is sent to Bristol, being used in the making of brass. Copper, maganese, bole, and red oker are also found in these hills, the tops of which are large swampy flats, dangerous to cross. Below them on the banks of the Ax is Cheddar, celebrated for its cheeses, which in size and richness, are said to exceed any in the kingdom. Much cheese is made in the lower parts of the county in general, and of which a great deal is exported. Many cattle of bulk nearly equal to the Lincolnshire, are fed in the luxuriant meadows about the head of the Parret. The great vale of Taunton, is peculiarly famous for its fertility, which proceeds, as the inhabitants say, from sun and soil alone without the aid of manure. Towards the center of the county, where its principal rivers unite, are fens and marshy moors of great extent, noted for the produce of geese and their feathers. On the western side is the ridge of the Quantox-hills, together with many downs and open heaths, and at the north-western extremity is the bleak steril region of Exmoor, in which are some red deer. The southern part towards Dorsetshire is high, but well cultivated. Besides these natural advantages of the county, it possesses several very valuable manufactories of Woollen cloth, although they are somewhat declined on account of the rivalship of Yorkshire and other places. The air is reckoned the most mild and healthy in England. The ancient fosseway crosses this county from Gloucestershire to Devonshire. Somersetshire was part of the extensive territories of the Belgae, in the time of the Britons, and during the Heptarchy it was a portion of the West Saxon kingdom. The seats of the nobility and gentry are too numerous to particularize. This county is celebrated for its mineral waters, particularly at BATH and BRISTOL, which see. Notwithstanding the mountainous soil of the eastern and western parts, it yields good pasturage, and by the assistance of industry, produces plenty of corn; the lower grounds except such as are boggy and fenny, yield corn and grass in great plenty. In short, the crops of corn are so considerable in this county, that it forms a considerable branch of traffic with different parts of the kingdom. Wood is exceedingly plentiful in most parts of the county, and grows to the greatest state of perfection.

Somershall, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, near Derby, and 130 miles from London; containing 19 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.* and in the patronage of the earl of Chesterfield.

Somersham, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hants, 5¼ miles from St. Ives, and 64 from London; containing 126 houses and 833 inhabitants. The bishop of Ely had formerly a magnificent palace here, but the remains of it were entirely pulled down some years since by order of the duke of Manchester. Somersham is noted for a medicinal spring. The living is a rectory, rated at 40*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* with Ridleigh and Colne chapels annexed. It is held by the regius professorship of divinity in the university of Cambridge.

Somersham, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, 4 miles from Needham Market, and 70 from London; containing 50 houses and 298 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.*

Somerton, East, a hamlet in the parish of Winterton, hundred of West Flegg, Norfolk, 5 miles from Caistor, and 129 from London; containing 13 houses and 95 inhabitants.

Somerton, West, a parish in the same hundred of Norfolk, 4¾ miles from Caistor, and 129 from London; containing 24 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Somerton, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 7 miles from Bicester, and 62 from London; containing 56 houses and 254 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

Somerton, the name of a hundred in Somerset, near the center of the county, around Somerton.

Somerton, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Somersetshire, 4 miles from Langport, and 125½ from London; containing 246 houses, and 1145 inhabitants. The town is pleasantly situated by a branch of the river Parret, on a rising ground in a very fertile part of the county; the houses are mostly low, but erected of stone, and the streets are paved. It is of great antiquity, and was formerly the county town, giving name to the county. It was often the residence of the West Saxon kings, who built a strong castle here, which was many years after used as a state prison. In it John, King of France was confined, after he was made prisoner by Edward the black prince; but there are now none of its remains. The church is an ancient edifice, and near it is an excellent free-school. The hall in which the meeting of justices is held is in the middle of the town. It has also a well endowed almshouse for 8 poor women. Near the town is an extensive moor or common, where all the inhabitants have a right to pasture their cattle. This town is governed by a bailiff and constables chosen annually from the inhabitants. The market day is on Tuesday; and its fairs are the Tuesday in Passion week, and the 3d, 6th, and 9th Tuesday afterwards. The living is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* 7*s.* and is in the patronage of the Earl of Ilchester.—Collinson's Somerset.

Somerton, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 5 miles from Clare, and 60 from London, containing 23 houses and 117 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

Sompting, a parish in the hundred of Brightford and Rape of Bramber, Sussex, 2½ miles from Shoreham, and 57 from London; containing 53 houses and 405 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.* 7*s.* with Cookham chapel annexed.

Sonning, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Berks 3 miles from Reading, and 34 from London; containing 187 houses and 1111 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

Sopley, a parish in the hundred of Christ-church, division of Newforest, Hants, 5 miles from Ringwood, and 95 from London; containing 165 houses and 840 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

Sopworth, a parish in the hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 5 miles from Malmsbury, and 100 from London; containing 33 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of the duke of Beaufort.

Sorbie, a parish in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, lying on the coast of Wigton Bay, 6 miles from Wigton, and 12 from Newton-Dougla; the parish containing about 12 miles of sea coast; 192 houses and 1091 inhabitants. It has several bays and ports, very convenient for shipping; the chief village is that called Garlieston, at the foot of the bay of the same name. Galloway-house, the residence of the earl of Galloway, is an elegant building commanding a charming prospect; the rooms are spacious, and the grounds are well laid out. There are the remains of 2 strong castles on the headlands of Crugleton and Eagerness.

Sorn, a parish in the shire of Ayr, Scotland, lying on the banks of the Ayr, 10 miles from Kilmarnock and 12 from Irvine, containing 366 houses and 2606 inhabitants, including the populous village of Catrine.

Sotherton, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Halesworth and 105 from London; containing 24 houses and 168 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, rated at 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and is united with Uggeshall.

Sotterley, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 4 miles from Beccles, and 106 from London; containing 129 houses and 254 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Soulbury, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 3 miles from Leighton Buzzard, and 44 from London; containing 101 houses and 526 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SOULBY, a township in the parish of Kirby Stephen, in East Ward, Westmoreland, 2 miles from Kirby Stephen, and 267 from London; containing 50 houses and 237 inhabitants.

SOULDERN, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 6 miles from Bicester, and 61 from London; containing 83 houses and 394 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.* and is in the patronage of St. John's college, Cambridge.

SOULDROP, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 10 miles from Bedford, and 60 from London; containing 30 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

SOUND, a hamlet in the parish of Wrenbury, hundred of Nantwich, Cheshire, 8 miles from Nantwich, and 161 from London; containing 33 houses and 192 inhabitants.

SOURTON, a hamlet in the parish of Bridestow, hundred of Lifton, Devon, 4½ miles from Oakhampton, and 199 from London; containing 56 houses and 450 inhabitants.

SOUTHACRE, a hamlet in the parish of Castle Acre, hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Swaffham, and 96 from London; near the banks of the small river Nar, which divides it from Castle Acres. It contains 8 houses and 78 inhabitants.

SOUTHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Hayes, hundred of Elthorne, Middlesex, lying on the Uxbridge road, 9¼ miles from London; and containing together with the precinct of Norwood, 117 houses and 697 inhabitants.

SOUTHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Bishops Cleeve, hundred of Cheltenham, Gloucester, 2 miles from Cheltenham, and 97 from London; containing 38 houses and 202 inhabitants.

SOUTHAM, a market town and parish in the hundred of Knightow, Warwick, 13 miles from Banbury, and 83 from London; containing 188 houses, and 935 inhabitants. It has a good market on Monday, for cattle. Its fairs are the first Monday in Lent, Easter Monday, the Monday before Whitsuntide, and the 10th of July. It is a rectory rated at 22*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SOUTHAMPTON, a borough town, consisting of 7 parishes (including Stoneham), situated at the union of the rivers Test and Itchen, which form Southampton bay, 22 miles from Portsmouth, and 77 from London. It contains many handsome and well-built streets, its ancient timber buildings daily disappearing, which are replaced by others built of brick. It contains 1509 houses, and 7913 inhabitants, viz. 3390 males, and 4523 females, of whom 1882 were employed in various trades and manufactures. The High-street, terminating at the Quay, much resembles in width, bend and beauty, the High-street of Oxford, and has a beautiful view of the river and the New Forest; and the shops may vie with any in the metropolis. The town (except the eastern part) is well paved and lighted, and regularly patroled by watchmen; conduits are disposed at proper distances, supplying the town with excellent water, brought from a great distance by means of pipes. Many new and elegant buildings have arisen within these few years; Albion-place, Moira-place, Brunswick-place, &c. are handsomely built, and chiefly occupied as lodging-houses for its numerous summer visitors, for the purposes of sea-bathing. There is also a great resort of company during the war for the friends and relations of persons embarking here for the East and West Indies. As the town occupies a kind of Peninsula, the soil of which is a hard gravel, and the streets having a gentle ascent, they are always clean and dry. The approach to the town from the London road is exceedingly striking, from the beautiful view of Southampton bay, Isle of Wight, and the scenery of the New Forest, elegant seats and rows of trees line the road on both sides; and on entering the town by one of its more fashionable streets, the view is farther heightened by that venerable remain of antiquity, the Bargate. The north front, is a semi-octagon, flanked with 2 semi-circular turrets, and crowned with large and handsome open machicolations; above the arch of entrance, on a row of sunk pannels, is a shield of relief, charged with the arms of England, Scotland, Paulet, Windham, &c. the greater part is supposed to have been erected in the reign of Edward the III. the front towards the High-street is modern and plain, and has a statue of queen Anne in the central niche. Over the arches of the two foot and carriage ways is a town-hall 52 feet by 21, with which a room for the grand jury communicates. Two lions cast in lead, guard the entrance of the Bargate, besides which there are two gigantic figures of Ascupart and his renowned conqueror Sir Bevis of Southampton. The walls with which the town was anciently surrounded are in many places quite destroyed, but in others they still present a venerable appearance; they appear to have had towers at different intervals, several of which still remain. The circuit of the walls is computed at 1¼ mile, but the whole town cannot be less than three miles round at present. The castle stands near the middle of the south part of the town and seems to have been of a semi-circular form, of which the town wall towards the sea, formed the diameter. The keep stood on a high artificial mount and from its ruins a small round tower has been constructed, from whence there is a delightful prospect. It is supposed to have been of Saxon origin. The castle is now the property of the marquis of Landsdown, of which he has now formed by considerable additions a very commodious mansion. Although there are 6 parishes (exclusive of Stoneham), it contains but 5 parish churches, viz. Holy Rood, St. Michael's, All Saints, St. Mary's, and the united parish church of St. Lawrence and St. John. That of Holy Rood is remarkable for its elegant organ and several handsome monuments. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of Queen's college, Oxford, of the real value of of about 250*l.* per annuam. St. Michael's has a high slender octagonal tower, which serves as a mark for vessels entering the harbour; here the mayor is also sworn into his office. It is a vicarage rated at 12*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the crown. All Saints is at elegant modern structure, fronting the High-street and adorned with 4 columns of the Ionic order, 36 feet high, crowned with a pediment; the angles of the front, which is 66 feet wide, are furnished on each side with Grecian pilasters; around the church runs an entablature, supported by similar pilasters; the south side is lighted by 16 windows in 2 ranges, but the north side abutting on houses has no windows. The whole length is 95 feet, breadth 61, and height to the ceiling 47. Arched catacombs, occupy the substructure of the building, where the right of burial is purchased of the parish. The turret at the east end of this noble edifice, is quite unworthy to what it belongs. It is a rectory rated at 8*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the crown. St. Lawrence, is a small church, situate in the High-street. It is a rectory rated at 7*l.* 10*s.* united with that of St. John, rated at 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in 1736, when its church was pulled down. St. Marys is a valuable benefice. It is a rectory rated at 37*l.* 5*s.* but it is a precentorship in the gift of the bishop of Winchester, worth at least 1400*l.* per annum. Its church-yard is the principal burial-ground here, and contains numerous tombs and inscriptions. A grammar school founded here in the reign of Edward VI. is in high repute, besides many well-conducted private seminaries. Among the principal charities are Thorner's almshouses, for poor widows, at the entrance of the town, an elegant structure erected in 1789. A charity-school founded by alderman Taunton for educating and apprenticing poor boys, besides several of small consequence. Near the west quay is a range of convenient baths, in which the water is changed every tide; here is also a commodious warm bath: further towards the channel is another suite of commodious and well frequented baths, having every convenience; and several bathing machines have of late been erected at the Cross-house, near Itchin Ferry. At the bottom of Orchard-street, without the bargate, is a spring of the nature of Tunbridge Wells, and used with effect for the same complaints. The public rooms are situate near the baths, and command a delightful prospect; the ball-room is spacious and handsomely decorated; here are held the summer assemblies; those in the winter are held at the Dolphin inn. A capacious and elegant theatre has been erected on the site of St. John's hospital, frequented by the Portsmouth, Chichester, and Winchester company. The town has several well furnished libraries, and three respectable banks. About ½ mile from the bar-gate stand the barracks, a newly-erected building, inclosing an area of two acres. At a small distance stands the polygon, being as yet only a part of an intended set of building, on an elegant scale. The inhabitants carry on a considerable trade with Portugal for wine and fruit, as likewise with the islands of Jersey and Guernsey; to which they send a certain quantity of wool, allowed by act of parliament. In time of war a cutter is stationed here, which sails every fortnight for those islands. Within 1½ mile of the town is Bevis Mount, supposed to have been an ancient fortification thrown up by the Saxons, under the command of sir Bevis, to oppose the passage of the Danes, who lay encamped on the other side; below the mount, the tide forms a capacious bay. This town was incorporated by Charles I. under a mayor, aldermen, recorder, sheriff, two bailiffs, common council, &c. There are for the town 11 justices of the peace, viz. the bishop of Winchester, the recorder, the new and old mayor, 5 aldermen, and 2 burgesses; all who have passed the chair are aldermen. The mayor is admiral of the liberties. This borough was made by Henry II. and by king John a county of itself; it returns 2 members to parliament, elected by the inhabitants at large, paying scot and lot; the number of voters being about 600; the returning officers are the mayor and bailiffs. In the Guildhall all causes are tried, and the general quarter-sessions held. The mayor and bailiffs have a court for the recovery of small debts, which can be held every Tuesday in the year. For an account of that beautiful and extensive tract the New Forest, See NEW FOREST.—Market on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. Fairs, 6th May, and Trinity Monday. Southampton spire, lat. 50°. 53′. 59″. long. 1°. 23′. 56″. west. Baker's Southampton Guide and Warner's Hants.

SOUTHCHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 3 miles from Leigh, and 42 from London; containing 36 houses and 291 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 27*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

SOUTHCOATS, a township in the parish of Dryfield, Holderness, east riding of York, 1 mile from Hull, and 176 from London; containing 46 houses and 235 inhabitants.

SOUTHDEAN, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, lying on the banks of the Yed, 8 miles from Yedburgh; containing 116 houses and 697 inhabitants: like the rest of the border parishes, many remains of warlike antiquity are to be discovered in various parts.

SOUTHEASE, a parish in the hundred of Holmstrough, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Lewes, and 52 from London; containing 16 houses and 108 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

SOUTHELMHAM, the name of 6 parishes nearly adjoining each other, in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, lying between Halesworth and Bungay, about 106 miles from London; St. James Southelmham, being 4 miles north-west of Halesworth, contains 34 houses and 233 inhabitants; and is a rectory, value 8*l.*—St. Margaret's, lying a mile farther north, contains 22 houses and 186 inhabitants; and is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*—All Saint's, a little to the east of the foregoing; containing 23 houses and 192 inhabitants, is a rectory, rated at 8*l.*—St. George's, is situated still further north-west, and near the river Waveney; containing 13 houses and 93 inhabitants, and is united with Allsaint's.—St. Peter's and St. Michael's, lie eastward of the foregoing, and are united; the former containing 18 houses and 129 inhabitants; and the latter, 21 houses and 190 inhabitants.

SOUTHEND, a hamlet in the parish of Prittlewell, and hundred of Rochford, Essex, situated at the mouth of the Thames, opposite to Sheerness, 3 miles from Leigh, and 42 from London. The population of which was returned with that of its parish. It is pleasantly situated on the slope of a hill, and of late years has risen into great repute as a watering place; the air is esteemed very dry and salubrious, and the water, notwithstanding its mixture with the Thames, is clear and sufficiently salt. The terrace, is a long row of houses handsomely finished with pilasters and cornices of stone, and being on an eminence has a most commanding prospect of the Nore, Medway, Sheerness, and the sea. The assembly-room is fitted up in a handsome stile; and its new theatre, is a neat little building: the library situated on the brow of the hill between what is called the Old and New Town, is an elegant building in the Gothic stile. The accommodations of Southend are very respectable, and its three principal inns are spacious and convenient. A new chapel for the use of Dissenters, has lately been opened at this place.

SOUTHEND, a small village situated on the river Ravensbourne, in the hundred of Bromley, and lathe of Sutton, Kent, 8 miles from London.

SOUTHEND, a hamlet in the parish of Nibley, hundred of Pucklechurch, Gloucester, 2 miles from Chipping Sodbury, and 115 from London.

SOUTHEND, a parish in the shire of Argyle, Scotland, lying at the extremity of the peninsula of Kintyre, 70 miles from Inverary; containing 340 houses and 1825 inhabitants. The remains of several Danish forts are still observable along the coast, that called Balemacumra, stands on the promontory of the mull of Kintyre, near the light-house; the castle of Dunaverty is built on a pyramidal rock, one side of which presents a dreadful precipice to the sea; this was one of the castles of the lords of the isles, and has frequently been the scene of much bloodshed. Near this rock is the island of Landa.

SOUTHERNBY, a hamlet in the parish of Castle Sowerby, leath ward, Cumberland, 11 miles from Penrith, and 294 from London; containing 27 houses and 157 inhabitants.

SOUTHERAY, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 6½ miles from Downham, and 86 from London; containing 94 houses and 462 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.*

SOUTHFLEET, a parish in the hundred of Axton, and lathe of Sutton, Kent, 5 miles from Dartford, and 20 from London; containing 78 houses and 508 inhabitants. This manor belonged to the bishop of Rochester, before the conquest, and the court had the power of trying and executing felons, taken within its jurisdiction; in ploughing up the adjacent fields, some stone coffins were lately found, supposed to have been deposited by the Romans; also two leaden coffins, urns, &c. which remain for the inspection of the curious, at the parsonage house. Here is an ancient free-school. The living is a rectory, rated at 31*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Rochester.

SOUTHGATE, a hamlet in the parish of Edmonton, Middlesex, situated on the skirts of Enfield Chace, 8 miles from London; containing several handsome houses.

SOUTHILL, a parish in the hundred of Wixamtree, Bedfordshire, 8 miles from Bedford, and 43 from London; containing 107 houses and 621 inhabitants. This place gives title of baron to viscount Torrington, who has a neat family seat here. The church contains a plain monument, with an inscription to the memory of admiral Byng; near it is Warden Abbey, built anciently for Cistertian monks. It is a vicarage, rated at 11*l.* 15*s.*

SOUTHILL, a parish in the hundred of East Cornwall, Devon, 2½ miles from Collington, and 217 from London; containing 79 houses and 447 inhabitants, including the borough of Callington, which is situated in this parish. The parish church is a rectory, rated at 38*l.* with Callington chapel annexed.

SOUTH MALLING, a parish in the hundred of Ringmore, and rape of Pevensey, Sussex, near Lewes, and 50 miles fom London; containing 47 houses and 348 inhabitants.

SOUTHMINSTER, a parish in the hundred of Dengey, Essex, situated at the edges of the salt marshes, lying betwen the rivers Crouch and Blackwater, on the south-eastern coast of the county, 10 miles from Maldon, and 47 from London; containing 145 houses and 1048 inhabitants. Its fairs are three days before Easter, nine days before Whitsunday, 22d September, and St. Michael's day. It is a vicarage, rated at 21*l.* in the patronage of the governors of the Charter house.

SOUTHOE, a parish in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 3 miles from St. Neots, and 59 from London; containing 38 houses and 234 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* with Halliweston chapel annexed.

SOUTHOLT, a parish united with Bedingfield, hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 5 miles from Debenham, and 87 from London; containing 23 houses and 211 inhabitants.

SOUTHOVER, a parish in the hundred of the same name, and rape of Lewes, Sussex, near Lewes, and 49 miles from London; containing 82 houses and 487 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

SOUTH REPPS, or REPPIS, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walsham, and 129 miles from London; containing 122 houses and 571 inhabitants. Fair, 25th July. It is a rectory, value 16*l.*

SOUTHROP, a parish in the hundred of Brightwell Barrow, Gloucester, 2 miles from Lechlade, and 78 from London; containing 52 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 5*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

SOUTHSTOKE, a parish in the hundred of Dorchester, Oxford, 3 miles from Wallingford, and 43 from London; containing 117 houses and 564 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 16*s.*

SOUTHSTOKE, a parish in the hundred of Avisford, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 2 miles from Arundel, and 58 from London; containing 18 houses and 106 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, rated at 11*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

SOUTHWARK, a borough in the county of Surry, and a suburb of the city of London, lying on the opposite side of the Thames, and connected with the Metropolis by London bridge; it contains six parishes, viz. St. George's, Christ Church, St. John's, St. Olave's, St. Saviour's, and St. Thomas, the whole containing 10,933 houses, inhabited by 67,448 persons, viz. 31,704 males, and 35,744 females, of whom 15,037 were employed in various trades. From its extent and population, it is equal to many cities, as well as in opulence and trade. It appears to have been a distinct corporation till 1327, when it was annexed to the city of London, whose mayor was then appointed its bailiff; some time afterwards it recovered its privileges, but future grants from the crown again annexed it to the city; and in the reign of Edward VI. for the sum of 500 marks, paid to the crown by the corporation of London, it was made one of the city wards, and named "Bridge Ward without." The lord mayor has under him a steward and bailiff, and it is governed by one of the 26 aldermen. The steward holds a court of record, every Monday, at St. Margaret's-hill, for the recovery of debts, damages, and trespasses, within his limits. The military government of the borough is under the lord lieutenant of the county. Southwark contains several good streets, but the principal is that called the Borough, High-street, commencing at London-bridge and running south to St. Margaret's-hill; this part of the street is narrow and confined, and many of its buildings on each side still exhibit the architecture of past ages; from St. Margaret's-hill, the street becomes spacious and is continued nearly in a line to St. George's church, and from thence to the stones-end, or end of the limits of the borough. On the east side of the entrance into the High-street from the bridge, in a line with the river, is Tooley-street, formerly called St. Olaves-street, and is long, narrow, and dirty; at the entrance of this street towards the Thames, stands St. Olave's church, erected in 1739, consisting of a plain body strengthened with rustic coins; the tower consists of three stages, the uppermost of which is greatly diminished; the top of the tower is surrounded by a substantial balustrade: near this church is a place called the Bridge-house, being merely store-houses for keeping materials to repair the bridge: adjoining the Bridge-house yard, formerly stood the city residence of the Abbot of St. Augustine's, in Canterbury, the site of which is now converted into a wharf. On the east side of Bridge-yard, also stood the mansion of the Abbot of Battle, in Sussex; the site whereof is now called Battle-bridge; opposite to this on the south were its spacious gardens, wherein was a labyrinth or maze; the name of this is also preserved by those streets built thereon called Maze-Pond. At a small distance from the bridge on the west side of the High-street, is St. Saviour's church, anciently called St. Mary Overy's; this is a noble Gothic structure in the form of a cathedral, and the largest parish church in the kingdom; this was originally founded by one Mary, a woman who acquired considerable riches by the ferry over the Thames, before the erection of London-bridge: that part now called Bankside, was noted for its brothels publicly licenced under the bishop of Winchester, having a prison attached to its district, called the Clink. Near St. Saviour's church is the borough market, for all kinds of provisions, but principally vegetables. Near the center of the High-street is that noble foundation St. Thomas's Hospital, instituted by Edward VI. adjoining the south side thereof is the parish church of St. Thomas's, originally erected as a chapel for the use of the hospital; and is an impropriation in the gift of the governors of the hospital, choosing one of two returned by the parishioners; nearly opposite this church is Guy's Hospital, a fine building of two quadrangles, founded by Thomas Guy, a citizen of London, for the relief of the poor, sick and lame: near the center of the borough, where the High street terminates, and it takes the name of Blackman street, stands St. George's church, at the corner of Kent-street, a handsome structure, with a lofty spire, and lately put into thorough repair. At the end of Blackman-street, called the Stones End, stands the King's bench prison, for the confinement of Debtors and others, sentenced by the court of King's bench; this building is very extensive, and surrounded with a lofty wall, surmounted with a cheveaux de frize. In Horsemonger-lane, at the bottom of Blackman-street, is the new Sessions House for the county of Surry, a very spacious and commodious prison. In this extensive and populous district, there are many alms-houses and charitable institutions. St. George's is a rectory, rated at 18*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* and is in the patronage of the crown; as well as the rectory of St. Olave's, rated at 68*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* St. Saviour's is a curacy, in the patronage of the parishioners. St. Thomas, a curacy. Christ church, a rectory, not charged in the king's books; and St. John's, is a rectory, in the patronage of the king.—Lysons's London.

SOUTHWEALD, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, situated on an eminence commanding an extensive prospect, 4 miles from Rumford, and 16 from London; containing 148 houses and 884 inhabitants; to this parish belongs the hamlet of Brentwood. It is a vicarage, rated at 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* with Brentwood chapel annexed, in the patronage of the bishop of London.

SOUTHWEEK, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Tewkesbury, Gloucester, and adjoining thereto.

SOUTHWEEK, a village 5 miles north of Portsmouth, in Hampshire, commanding an extensive view of the Isle of Wight, harbour, and of the South Downs; it contains 103 houses and 569 inhabitants.

SOUTHWELL, a market town in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, situated on the small river Greet, a branch of the Trent, 10 miles from Nottingham, and 139 from London; containing 467 houses and 2305 inhabitants; of whom 574 were employed in various trades. The town stands on a pleasant eminence, surrounded with hills. Its church, called a minster, being both collegiate and parochial, has 16 prebends, 6 vicars choral, 6 singing men, 6 choristers, 6 singing boys, &c. belonging thereto. The middle of the western part is of Saxon architecture, supposed to have been erected in the reign of Harold; the towers are principally of Norman construction, and some of its windows have been altered from the Saxon to the Norman Gothic. The chapter-house, was erected in 1377. The chapter has a peculiar jurisdiction over 28 adjoining parishes, and holds visitations twice a year, beside two yearly synods, at which all the clergy of Nottingham attend. The jurisdiction of the chapter is called the Soke of Southwell cum Scrooby. In 1784, a building to contain the library was erected, and the parade (a commodious walk extending the length of the churchyard, planted on each side with trees) was extended to the north side of the churchyard. The church contains many ancient tombs, and a fine toned organ. The tower has 8 bells. This minster suffered considerably by lightning, in 1711. Here are the ruins of a palace belonging to the archbishop of York, that was destroyed in the civil wars. There is a well endowed hospital and free school. The market is on Saturday; and its fair on Whit Monday. The vicarage, is rated at 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SOUTHWICK, or SUDDICK, a hamlet in the parish of Monkwearmouth, in Chester ward, Durham, 1½ mile from Sunderland, and 275 from London; containing 47 houses and 304 inhabitants.

SOUTHWICK, a parish in the hundred of Willybrook, Northampton, 2 miles from Oundle, and 84 from London; containing 20 houses and 104 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.*

SOUTHWICK, a parish in the hundred of Fishergate, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 2 miles from Shoreham, lying near the sea shore; containing 54 houses and 271 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 9*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

SOUTHWICK, a tything in the parish of Steeple Ashton, hundred of Worlsdon, Wilts, situated on the borders of Somersetshire, on the road to Frome, 160½ miles from London; containing 189 houses and 1146 inhabitants.

SOUTHWOLD, a sea port and market town in the parish of Reydon, and hundred of Blything, Suffolk, situated on the river Blyth, and on a point of land almost surrounded by the sea; it is 20 miles from Yarmouth, and 105 from London; and contains 266 houses and 1054 inhabitants. It is a member of the port of Yarmouth, and its creek spreads to Dunwich and Waderswick. It has a considerable trade in the herring and sprat fishing, also in salt and old beer; and has risen to its present consequence, from the decline of the once populous town of Dunwich. The bay called SOLEBAY, is remarkable in history for the sea fight in 1666, between the British and Dutch fleet, when the latter were defeated with the loss of near 70 ships, whilst the English lost only one. This part of the coast is noted for the arrival and departure of swallows, from and to the continent. The market on Thursday is well attended; and its fairs are on the Monday after Trinity Sunday, and the 24th August.

SOUTHWOOD, a decayed parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 8 miles from Yarmouth, and 115 from London; in which are now only 4 houses and 45 inhabitants.

SOUTRA, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, united with FALA, which see.

SOUTRA HILL, the westernmost hill of the Lammermuir-ridge, in Scotland, which is elevated 100 feet above the level of the sea; upon it are the ruins of an Hospital, founded by king Malcolm IV.

Sow, a river in Staffordshire, which falls into the Trent at Tixall, 3 miles east of Stafford; also another in Warwickshire, which falls into the Avon, near Stoneleigh Abbey, 4 miles from Warwick.

Sow, or Walsgrave, a parish in the liberties of Coventry, Warwickshire, 2 miles from Coventry, and 92 from London; containing 172 houses and 823 inhabitants. The living is a vicarage, in the gift of the crown.

Sowerby, a hamlet in the parish of St. Michael's Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancashire, near Garstang; the population of which was included with that of Inskip.

Sowerby, a township in the parish of Brough, hundred of East, Westmorland, 1½ mile from Brough, and 260 from London; containing 31 houses and 139 inhabitants.

Sowerby, Temple, a township in the parish of Kirby Thore, hundred of East, Westmoreland, 6 miles from Appleby, and 276 from London; containing 64 houses and 299 inhabitants.

Sowerby, a hamlet in the parish of Sigston, wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 4 miles from Northallerton, and 250 from London; containing 10 houses and 58 inhabitants.

Sowerby, a township and chapelry in the parish of Thirsk, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, ½ mile from Thirsk, and 220 from London; containing 146 houses and 639 inhabitants.

Sowerby-Bridge, a township and chapelry in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 4½ miles from Halifax, and 200 from London; containing 800 houses and 4276 inhabitants, viz. 2105 males, and 2170 females; of whom 802 were employed in various trades. It is called Sowerby-bridge, from its stately stone bridge of several arches, over the river Calder, which is navigable from hence to Wakefield.

Spaldford, a hamlet in the parish of Clifton, hundred of Newark, Notts, 4 miles from Tuxford, and 134 from London; containing 17 houses and 79 inhabitants.

Spalding, a market town and parish in the hundred of Elloe, and parts of Holland, Lincoln, situated near the mouth of the river Welland, 20 miles from Peterborough, and 97 from London; containing 712 houses and 3296 inhabitants, viz. 1558 males, and 1738 females; of whom 505 were employed in trade. The river being navigable, this town carries on a considerable traffic in coals and corn. The houses are neat, and the streets very clean. Great quantities of hemp and flax, are grown in the neighbourhood. The church is an extensive ancient building; the market place is very spacious; and here are a free grammar school, a charity school, and some newly erected alms-houses. It has a large cattle market, on Tuesday; and its fairs are, 27th April, for hemp, flax, cattle and sheep; 29th June, for merchandize, cattle, and horses; 28th August, for horses; 25th September for all kinds of goods and cattle, and on 6th December. The church is a curacy.

Spaldington, a township in the parish of Aughton and Bubwith Holm, in the division of Beacon Bainton, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 4 miles from Howden; containing 57 houses and 383 inhabitants. Here was formerly a chapel.

Spaldwick, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 4½ miles from Kimbolton, and 66 from London; containing 41 houses and 259 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* belonging to the prebend of Longstow, in Lincoln cathedral.

Spandy, a small village united with Swayton, in the hundred of Aveland, and division of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Folkingham; containing 9 houses and 59 inhabitants.

Spanton, a hamlet in the parish of Lastingham, in the wapentake of Rydal, north riding of York, 3 miles from Kirby Moorside, and 191 from London; containing 18 houses and 107 inhabitants.

Spanish Island, lying in Baltimore Bay, county of Cork, and province of Munster, Ireland.

Sparham, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 2 miles from Repham, and 110 from London; containing 49 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is rectory, rated at 9*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.*

Sparkford, a parish in the hundred of Catash, Somerset, 5 miles from Castlecary, and 121 from London; containing 44 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a rectory, valued at 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

Sparkenhoe, the name of a hundred in Leicester, being the western division of the county, bordering on Warwickshire.

Sparsholt, a parish in the hundred of Wantage, Berks, 3 miles from Wantage, and 63 from London; containing 76 houses and 410 inhabitants. It has an ancient church built in the form of a cross; its font is a curious piece of antiquity, made of porphyry. It is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* with Kingston, Lisle, and Fallar chapels annexed, in the patronage of Queen's College, Oxford.

Sparsholt, a parish in the hundred of Bountisborough, division of Fawley, Hants, 3 miles from Winchester, and 65½ from London; containing 62 houses and 440 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* 10*s.* 2*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Spaxton, a parish in the hundred of Cannington, Somerset, 4½ miles from Bridgewater, and 145 from London; containing 105 houses and 662 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 24*l.* 8*l.* 9*d.*

Speak, a township in the parish of Childwall, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 5 miles from Prescot, and 203 from London; containing 73 houses and 374 inhabitants.

Speen, a parish in the hundred of Kintbury Eagle, Berks, near Newbury, 56¼ miles from London; containing 71 houses and 408 inhabitants, exclusive of the tythings of Benham, Woodspeen, Speenhamland, and Bagnor. This was a considerable town under the Romans, and called Spinæ. The present mansion called Donnington castle, was erected out of the ruins of its ancient castrum, but demolished in the civil wars. It was once the residence of the poet Chaucer.

SPEENHAMLAND, a tything in the foregoing parish, in the hundred of Faireross, adjoining the town of Newbury, and 55½ miles from London; containing 140 houses and 712 inhabitants.

SPEETON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bridlington, Dickering lyth, East riding of York, 3 miles from Bridlington; containing 20 houses and 104 inhabitants.

SPELDHURST, a parish in the hundred of Washlingstone, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, adjoining Tunbridge Wells, 33 miles from London. It contains, including the township of Tunbridge Wells, 236 houses and 1618 inhabitants. Its ancient church was destroyed by lightening, in 1791; the living is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* 5*s.*

SPELLOE, the name of a hundred in Northampton, near the centre of the county, bounded on the south by the river Nen.

SPELSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 4 miles from Chipping Norton, and 71 from London; containing 97 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, valued at 9*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church.

SPELTHORNE, the name of a hundred in Middlesex, being the south-western extremity of the county, bounded by the Thames.

SPENITHORNE, a parish in Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Middleham, and 234 from London; containing 29 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

SPERNAL, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 2½ miles from Alcester, and 105 from London; containing 14 houses and 90 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

SPETCHLEY, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 3 miles from Worcester, and 109 from London; containing 19 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 11*d.* 3*d.*

SPETISBURY, a parish in the hundred of Loosebarrow, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 3 miles from Blandford, and 100 from London, on the river Stour; containing 96 houses and 336 inhabitants. It is a very extensive parish, but the church is a small ancient building. The living is a rectory, rated at 28*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* with Charlton chapel annexed; here is a charity-school.

SPEXHALL, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 2 miles from Halesworth, and 104 from London; containing 17 houses and 140 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 14*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SPEY, a large and rapid river in Inverness-shire, Scotland, extending from Badenoch upwards of 100 miles, and falls into the Moray Frith, at Garmouth. It gives name to the Highland district of Strathspey.

SPEYMOUTH, a parish in the shire of Moray, Scotland, situated at the mouth of the river Spey, 4 miles from Fochaber; including the thriving village of Garmouth, it contained 304 houses and 1347 inhabitants.

SPEAN, a river in the shire of Inverness, Scotland, which rises from the western extremity of Loch Laggan, and joins the Lochy at Kiltmanivaig.

SPILSBY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Bollingbroke, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 17 miles from Boston, and 132 from London, standing on the side of a hill; containing 200 houses and 932 inhabitants. The town consists principally of one street, having the market place in the centre; and a charity school for 24 boys and 16 girls. It has a good market on Monday; and its fairs are, the Monday before Whitsuntide, and the two following Mondays, if in May, otherwise no fair; and the second Monday in July. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the duke of Ancaster.

SPITHEAD, a spacious road for shipping, between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight, where the royal navy commonly rendezvous, in time of war. It is about 20 miles in extent, and capable of holding 1000 sail of vessels in the greatest security.

SPITTLE, a small hamlet near the Boughton, or suburbs of Chester; containing 15 houses and 75 inhabitants.

SPINWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Taverham, Norfolk, near Norwich; containing 9 houses and 81 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.*

SPODDEN, a river in Lancashire.

SPOFFORTH, a parish in the wapentake of Claro, west riding of York, 4 miles from Wetherby, and 198 from London; containing 137 houses and 859 inhabitants. It is a very valuable rectory, and is rated in the king's books at 73*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SPONDON, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 3 miles from Derby, and 133 from London; containing 200 houses and 865 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 6*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

SPOTT, a parish in East Lothian, Scotland, 5 miles from Dunbar; containing 119 houses and 502 inhabitants; this parish comprehends part of the district of the Lammermuir hills. On the borders of this parish was fought the battle of Dunbar, between the parliament army and the Scots, under general Leslie.

SPORLE, a parish in the hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 2 miles from Swaffham, and 95 from London; containing 91 houses and 503 inhabitants. is a vicarage, rated at 10*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

SPOTLAND, an extensive township in the parish of Rochdale, hundred of Salford, Lan.

caster, 3 miles from Rochdale, and 200 from London; containing 1672 houses and 9031 inhabitants; of whom 5045 were principally employed in the various Manchester manufactories.

SPRATTON, a parish in the hundred of Spelloe, Northampton, 7 miles from Northampton, and 72 from London; containing 175 houses and 776 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.*

STRIDLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Aslacoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 8 miles from Lincoln, and 142 from London; containing 27 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 10*s.*

SPRINGFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, ½ mile beyond Chelmsford, and 30 from London; containing 152 houses and 889 inhabitants. The church is a rectory, divided into two portions, rated at 22*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.*

SPRINGFIELD, a newly erected village, in the parish of Graitney, shire of Dumfries, Scotland, situated on a dry healthy soil on the banks of the river Sark. The streets are well-built, the houses of brick covered with slate; being on the high road from England, and within 1 mile of the seaport town of Sarkfoot, it is well adapted for trade.

SPRINGTHORP, a parish in the hundred of Corringham, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3½ miles from Gainsborough, and 148 from London; containing 36 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SPROATLY, a parish in Holderness, east riding of York, 6 miles from Hull, and 181 from London; containing 40 houses and 232 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

SPROUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Ipswich and 71 from London; containing 66 houses and 353 habitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

SPROUSTON, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, on the banks of the Tweed, near Kelso; containing 250 houses and 1105 inhabitants.

SPROWSTON, a parish in the hundred of Taverham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Norwich, and 112 from London; containing 42 houses and 248 inhabitants. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich. Fair, 2d August.

SPROXTON, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 8 miles from Grantham, and 112 from London; containing 56 houses and 260 inhabitants. The vicarage, rated at 7*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* united with that of Sallby, is in the patronage of the duke of Rutland.

SPROXTON, a township in the parish of Helmsley, Rydall wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Helmsley, and 220 from London; containing 31 houses and 213 inhabitants.

SPURNHEAD, a projecting point of land, lying at the mouth of the river Humber, being the south-east point of the district of Holderness, Yorkshire.

SPYNIE, a parish in the shire of Moray, Scotland, stretching along the banks of the Lossie, about 1 mile from Elgin; containing 203 houses and 843 inhabitants. Loch Spynie, a lake in this parish, is 3 miles long and 1 broad, and appears to have been formerly a frith of the sea; near the eastern extremity is the palace of Spynie, formerly the residence of the bishops of Moray: it has been a magnificent building, round a square court, having a gate and drawbridge on the east side, and fortified towers at the corners; some of the rooms are still pretty entire.

STADHAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Dorchester, Oxford, 3 miles from Dorchester, and 52 from London; containing 47 houses and 195 inhabitants.

STAFFA, a small island of the Hebrides, 5 leagues west of the Isle of Mull, and 3 from Icolmhill, being about a mile long and ½ mile broad. It is celebrated for its basaltic columns, much superior in beauty and grandeur to those which form the Giants Causeway, in Ireland. The Cave of Fingal, is 53 feet wide, at the entrance 117 feet high, and 250 long; the arch is composed of two unequal segments of a circle, forming a natural pediment; the mass which forms the roof is 20 feet thick at its lowest part, and has a strong resemblance to Mosaic work. The bottom of the cave is filled with the sea reaching to the very extremity, and can only be entered by a boat in very calm weather. There is another cave on a less scale, on the north side of the island.—Staffa is only accessible by a small entrance on the western side, where the surface slopes towards the sea, and then only in calm weather. Pennant's and Garnett's Tour.

STAFFIELD, a township in the parish of Kirkoswald, Leath ward, Cumberland, 8 miles from Penrith, and 292 from London; containing 55 houses and 276 inhabitants.

STAFFORD, the county town of Staffordshire, situated in the hundred of Pirehill, 12 miles from Lichfield, and 135 from London. It is a borough consisting of two parishes united, containing 710 houses and 3898 inhabitants, viz. 1921 males and 1977 females; of whom 2944 were employed in various trade. The town is situated on the banks of the Sow; the houses are well built, and covered with slate; formerly it was surrounded by a strong wall, and had four gates; it likewise had a castle erected by Ethelfleda, but there are no vestiges of it left. The church of St. Mary's has an octagonal tower, with 8 bells and chimes; the church has a good organ, and a very antique font. St. Chad's, is a old decayed building. The town-hall is a neat new building; it has also a good hospital, free school, 12 alms-houses, and a spacious market place: here are two banks. In the suburbs and on the green, were formerly several free in which is laid down every Parish & Place containing upwards of 50 Houses.

STAFFORDSHIRE
British Miles
0 4 8 12
Hundreds
1 Pirehill
2 Totmonslow
3 Cuttlestone
4 Offlow
5 Seisdon
Cities 2
Boroughs 5
Market Towns 16
Parishes 120
Houses 43,296
Inhabitants 239,153
Acres of Land 768,410
Arable 300,000
Pasture 100,000
Members of Parliament 10
Published January 1.1808. by R. Phillips Bridge Street Blackfriars London.
Cooper del. et sculp.

chapels and hospitals. It was an exempt jurisdiction, under a dean and 13 prebendaries, but the dean's house is now converted into a school. The assizes for the county are held here, and near the town is the new infirmary. It is a very ancient borough, being first incorporated by king John, and sends two members to the imperial parliament; the number of voters are about 490, and the returning officer is the mayor. This town has a considerable traffic, by means of its canal communicating with all the neighbouring counties. Its chief manufactures are cloth and shoes. The market is on Saturday; and its fairs are 10th February, 14th May, 27th June, 16th September, 2d October, and 4th December.—Shaw's Stafford.

STAFFORD, a small parish in the hundred of Collifordtree, Dorset, 2 miles from Dorchester, and 118 from London; containing 26 houses and 144 inhabitants.

STAFFORDSHIRE, a county of England, bounded on the north-east by Derbyshire, on the east by Leicestershire, on the south-east by Warwickshire, on the south by Worcestershire, on the west by Salop, and on the north-west by Cheshire. Its length from north to south is about 60 miles, and its greatest breadth 38, and contains 780,860 acres of land, having about 500,000 arable and 100,000 in pasturage. It is divided into 5 hundreds, viz. Cuttlestone, Offlow, Pirehill, Seisdon, and Totmonslow, in which are 1 city, Litchfield, 3 boroughs, Stafford, Newcastle and Tamworth, 16 market towns, viz. Abbots Bromley, Brewood, Burton, Burslem, Cheadle, Eccleshall, Leek, Longnor, Penkridge, Rudgeley, Stone, Tutbury, Uttoxeter, Walsall, Wednesbury, Wolverhampton; and 181 parishes, the whole containing 45,198 houses inhabited by 239,153 persons, viz. 118,698 males, and 120,455 females; of whom 72,465 were employed in trade, handicraft, and manufactures, and 43,950 in agricul ure. The amount of the assessment under the Act granting the property tax in 1806, was 1,840,961*l.* and the amount of money collected for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, 110,624*l.* being at the rate of 4*s.* 2*d*¼ in the pound; this country, pays 7 parts of the land tax, and sends 10 members to parliament. The average scale of mortality for 10 years, appear to have been as 1 to 48½ of the population. Its principal river is the Trent, which rises in the Moorlands near Leek, running Southerly till it meets the Thame, about 8 miles from Rudgley, on the borders of Derbyshire, thence it turns north to Burton, where it becomes navigable, and passing through the counties of Derby, Nottingham, and Lincoln, falls into the Humber, near Burton, in Lincolnshire. Besides the Severn, which enters the county, at the south-west corner and passes into Shropshire, there are several inferior streams all running into the Trent. The face of the country is various; in the northern part a range of hills extend as far as Scotland, the loftiest of them being reckoned 1500 feet above the level of the Trent. The valley along the Trent is for the most part very fertile, and beautifully adorned with seats and plantations. The great forest of Cannock in the centre, once covered with oaks, has long been a wide naked tract. Coal is abundant in various parts, supplying the numerous iron works and manufactories established at Wolverhampton, Wednesbury Newcastle, &c. This county has long been noted for its potteries, and the perfection to which it has been brought of late years renders it a very important object of commerce, both foreign and domestic. Trade is particularly assisted in this county by canal navigation, which communicates with Birmingham, Stourbridge, Bristol, Liverpool, and Hull. See CANAL, Grand Trunk. In the time of the Britons, Staffordshire was inhabited by the Cornavii; under the Romans it was a part of the division called Flavia Caesariensis; during the Heptarchy, it belonged to the kingdom of Mercia, and is now included in the Oxford Circuit, the province of Canterbury, and the diocese of Litchfield and Coventry. There are some ancien camps, and the Romans had 4 military stations, viz. Mediolanum, now Knightly; Uriconium, now Wrottesley; Uracona, now Litchfield; and Etocetum, now Barbeacon, a small village near Litchfield.

STAGSDEN, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedfordshire, 4½ miles from Bedford, containing 84 houses and 492 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.*

STAGSHAW, a small hamlet in the parish of Hexham, Northumberland, from which it is distant 2 miles; near it are the remains of Ayton Castle: here are fairs for horses on Whitsun Eve and 4th July.

STAINBROUGH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Sikston, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Barnsley, and 175 from London; containing 34 houses and 227 inhabitants.

STAINBURN, a hamlet in the parish of Workington, Allerdale Ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 1 mile from Workington, and 309 from London; containing 27 houses and 137 inhabitants.

STAINBURN, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kirby Overblow, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Otley and 200 from London; containing 54 houses and 311 inhabitants.

STAINCLIFFE, the name of a wapentake in the west riding of York, at the western extremity of the county and riding.

STAINCROSS, the name of a wapentake, in the west riding of York, near the center of the riding, around Barnsley.

STAINDROP, a parish in Darlington ward, Durham, 12 miles from Darlington, 5 from Barnard Castle, and 246 from London; containing 177 houses and 1156 inhabitants. This was formerly a market town. In the neighbourhood is the elegant mansion of the earl of Darlington, called Raby Castle. It is an irregular building, but is entirely embattled, having also several square towers, and is surrounded by a Fosse. It has a fine parade, ornamented with battlements, and was built by John de Neville, about the year 1378.

Staine, the name of a hundred in Cambridge, on the eastern side of the county, between Cambridge and Newmarket.

Staines, a market town and parish in the hundred of Spelthorne, Middlesex, situated on the banks of the Thames, 16½ miles west of London; containing 312 houses and 1750 inhabitants. The town is neat and much improved of late years, and the market-house, which stood in the centre of the street has been removed. An iron bridge was erected across the river in 1803. The name is supposed to be derived from the Saxon word Stana, a stone, from the London mark-stone, which stands above the bridge at Coln Ditch, denoting the boundary of the jurisdiction of the city of London on the river; this stone bears the date 1280. Staines is a lordship of the crown, and governed by two constables, with 4 headboroughs, chosen annually by the king's stewards. The market is on Friday. Fairs 11th May and 10th September. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* with Laleham and Ashford chapels annexed.

Stainesby, a small village on the banks of the Tees, near Yarm, North riding of York.

Stainfield, a hamlet in the parish of Haconby, hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Wragby and 141 from London; containing 14 houses and 74 inhabitants.

Stainforth, a township in the parish of Giggleswick, wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, 2½ miles from Settle, and 234 from London; containing 43 houses and 203 inhabitants.

Stainforth, a parish and curacy in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 3 miles from Thorn, on the banks of the Don, and 167 from London; containing 83 houses, and 472 inhabitants. Here commences the Stainforth and Keadby canal, passing Thorn, and entering Lincolnshire at Crowle Bridge.

Stainland, a township in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Halifax, and 190 from London; containing 344 houses and 1800 inhabitants.

Stainington, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Eggiesfield, near Sheffield, west riding of York.

Stainley, a parish in the liberties of Ripon, west riding of York, 4 miles from Ripon, and 226 from London; containing 57 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Staimore, a township in the parish of Brough, East ward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Brough, and 260 from London; containing 93 houses and 530 inhabitants.

Stainton, a hamlet in the parish of Stanwix, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 1 mile from Carlisle, and 305 from London; containing 13 houses and 63 inhabitants.

Stainton, a township in the parish of Dacre, Leath ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Penrith, and 287 from London; containing 51 houses and 247 inhabitants;

Stainton, a township in the parish of Gainford, Darlington ward, Durham, near Barnard Castle, and 244 miles from London; containing 50 houses and 272 inhabitants.

Stainton, a parish in Stockton ward, Durham, 5 miles from Darlington, and 248 from London; containing 17 houses and 104 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Stainton, a hamlet in the parish of Bishopton, Stockton ward, Durham, near Stockton, containing 18 houses and 59 inhabitants.

Stainton le Vale, or Stainton in the Hole. See Market-Street, Lincoln.

Stainton, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Wragby, and 140 from London; containing 29 houses and 166 inhabitants.

Stainton, a township in the parish of Heversham, Kendal Ward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Kendal, and 255 from London; containing 60 houses and 385 inhabitants.

Stainton le Dale, a township in the parish of Cloughton, Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 7 miles from Scarborough, and 230 from London; containing 54 houses and 271 inhabitants.

Stainton, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 9 miles from Doncaster, and 155 from London; containing 28 houses and 151 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Stair, a parish in the shire of Ayr, Scotland, on the banks of the river Ayr: here are several extensive collieries; it also affords copper, antimony, blacklead and hones.

Stalbridge, a parish and market town in the hundred of Brownshall, and division of Skerborne, Dorset, 20 miles from Dorchester, and 112 from London; containing 251 houses and 1245 inhabitants, many of whom are employed in the stocking manufacture, for which it has long been noted. Great quantities of stone are dug in the neighbourhood. The church is an ancient and extensive building. At Thornhill, distant two miles, once the seat of Sir James Thornhill, the celebrated painter, is erected an obelisk, to the memory of his patron, George I. which may be seen at a great distance. The market is on Tuesday, and its fairs are 6th May, and 4th September. It is a rectory, rated at 27*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge.

Stalham, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk; containing 77 houses and 476 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

Stalisfield, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, lathe of Scray, Kent; containing 43 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

STALLINGBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln; containing 59 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 11*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

STALMYN, a township in the parish of Lancaster, hundred of Amounderness, Lancashire; containing 94 houses and 418 inhabitants.

STAMBORNE, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex; containing 68 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* in the patronage of the king, as duke of Lancaster.

STAMBRIDGE, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex; containing 37 houses and 277 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 20*l.* in the patronage of the governors of the Charter-house.

STAMBRIDGE, LITTLE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, and containing 19 houses and 90 inhabitants.

STAMFORD, a small village in the hundred of Wixamtree, Bedford; containing 36 houses and 177 inhabitants.

STAMFORD, a borough and market town, consisting of five parishes, in the hundred of Nes, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 89½ miles from London by Hatfield, and 85¼ by Ware. It is situated on the river Welland, on the borders of Northamptonshire and Rutlandshire. The houses are well built, and chiefly of freestone, covered with slate. The five parishes contain 690 houses and 4022 inhabitants, of whom 2198 were employed in trade, exclusive of the out-parish of St. Martin's, Stamford Bridge, which is situated in Northamptonshire, on the opposite side of the Welland; yet it is reckoned a part of the town, and rated with it in the taxes: this suburb contains 107 houses and 1033 inhabitants. Some of the churches are well-built, and adorned with lofty spires; two of them are so near together as to resemble one building; St. Martin's church contains some noble monuments. This town was anciently much more considerable, and had 14 parish churches, but nearly half of that number were destroyed during the wars of the houses of York and Lancaster. There were many friaries and hospitals in the neighbourhood; one at the south end of Stamford-bridge, is now converted into an alms-house, for a warden and 12 poor men, and another for the same establishment within the town. In early times this was a strong garrison town, and had a castle on the south side of the river; there was also another castle erected within the town, but no remains are to be seen of either. In the reign of Edward III. a quarrel arising at the University of Oxford, among the students, numbers retired hither, and formed establishments for various branches of literature; but they were of short duration. The town is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 24 burgesses. It returns 2 members to parliament, the number of voters being about 500, and the returning officer is the mayor. Here the custom of borough English prevails, by which the younger son inherits from a father dying intestate. Over the Welland is a fine stone bridge of 5 arches. The town-hall at the end of the bridge, is a handsome building: it has also a neat theatre and a charity-school, and near the town is a course for horse-races. The chief trade of this town is in malt, coal, and freestone. Here is a bank. Near this town is the elegant residence of the marquis of Exeter. See BURLEIGH-HOUSE. The market days are on Monday and Friday. Fairs, Tuesday before 13th February, Monday before Midlent, ditto before the 12th May, and after Corpus Christi, August 5, and November 8.—Howlett's Lincolnshire.

STAMFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Embleton, Bamburgh ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Alnwick, and 314 from London; containing 21 houses and 122 inhabitants.

STAMFORD-BRIDGE EAST, a hamlet in the parish of Catton, division of Wilton Beacon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, on the river Derwent, 7½ miles from York; containing 29 houses and 127 inhabitants.

STAMFORD-BRIDGE WEST, an adjoining hamlet in the same parish; containing 21 houses and 123 inhabitants. This place is noted in history for a bloody battle, in which Harold defeated the Danes ten days before the arrival of William the Norman; from this it was anciently called Battle-bridge. Fair 22d of November.

STAMFORDHAM, a parish in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 10 miles from Newcastle, and 296 from London; containing 90 houses and 460 inhabitants, exclusive of several adjacent townships.

STAMFORD-HILL, a small village in Middlesex, lying between Newington and Tottenham.

STANBRIDGE, a township in the parish of Leighton Buzzard, hundred of Manshead, Bedfordshire, 2 miles from Leighton Buzzard, and 39 from London; containing 57 houses and 262 inhabitants.

STANCEL, a small hamlet in the parish of Wadworth, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, near Tickhill, 6 miles from Doncaster; containing 6 houses and 46 inhabitants.

STANDFORD, BISHOPS, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bromyard, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 3 miles from Bromyard; containing 34 houses and 186 inhabitants.

STANDFORD, REGIS, a hamlet in the foregoing township, and ½ mile therefrom; containing 12 houses and 87 inhabitants.

STANDFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Lyminge, hundred of Stouting, Kent, 9 miles from Ashford, and 63 from London; containing 29 houses and 203 inhabitants.

STANDFORD, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 3 miles from Deddington, and 66 from London; containing 60 houses and 312 inhabitants.

STANDFORD DINGLEY, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 6 miles from Newbury, and 50 from London; containing 28 houses and 133 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

STANDISH, a parish in the hundred of Whitstone, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stroud, and 106 from London; containing 93 houses and 504 inhabitants. Here is a medicinal spring. It is a vicarage, rated at 44*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury, with Sale, Randwick, and Hardwick chapels annexed.

STANDISH, a parish in the hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Wigan, and 202 from London; containing 307 houses and 1542 inhabitants, of whom 360 were employed in trade. It has a fair 29th June, and 22d November. The rectory is very valuable, and rated at 45*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

STANDLAKE, a parish in the hundred of Bampton, Oxford, 4 miles from Witney, and 61 from London; containing 100 houses and 570 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 16*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college.

STANDLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Spoondon, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 4 miles from Derby, and 126 from London; containing 55 houses and 252 inhabitants.

STANDLEY PONTLARGE, a hamlet in the parish of Toddington, hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 2½ miles from Winchcombe, and 98 from London; containing 10 houses and 44 inhabitants.

STANDON, a market town and parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, situated on the river Rib, 8 miles from Hertford, and 27 from London; containing 247 houses and 1846 inhabitants, of whom 116 were returned as being employed in trade. The church has nothing remarkable, except the chancel floor, being elevated 7 steps above the level of the church, and the altar three steps above the chancel. Through this parish passed the Roman road called Ermine-street. The market is on Friday, and it has a fair 13th October. It is a vicarage, rated at 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

STANDON, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 3 miles from Eccleshall, and 151 from London; containing 61 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

STANFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 5 miles from East Dereham, and 106 from London; containing 26 houses and 149 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

STANFORD, a parish in the hundred of Grimshoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Brandon, and 83 from London; containing 10 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 5*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

STANFORD ON AVON, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, 15 miles from Northampton, and 80 from London; containing 9 houses and 45 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 9*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

STANFORD ON SORE, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 12 miles from Nottingham, and 112 from London; containing 19 houses and 119 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

STANFORD, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 11 miles from Worcester, and 122 from London, on the borders of Herefordshire and banks of the Teme; containing 23 houses and 140 inhabitants. The church is a newly erected building, being an elegant Gothic structure of stone, situated on an eminence. About 1 mile distant are the remains of an old hermitage, called Stonehouse, some of the rooms of which are hewn out of the solid rock. It is situated in a steep ascent, surrounded by hills; on the top of it was a chapel dedicated to St. John Baptist, at whose feast here was a solemn offering, after which the assembly proceeded by stairs cut out of the rock into the chapel, where finishing their devotion, they drank of the waters of an adjacent well, famed for curing many disorders. The offertory dish is now in the possession of the Winnington family, resident at Stanford Hall.

STANFORD IN THE VALE, a parish in the hundred of Ganfield, Berks, 4 miles from Farringdon, and 64 from London; containing 124 houses and 607 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 21*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster, with Goosey chapel annexed.

STANFORD LE HOPE, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 4 miles from Grays, and 29 from London, near that part of the Thames called the Hope, below Gravesend Reach; containing 24 houses and 249 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of sir Harry Fetherstonehaugh.

STANFORD RIVERS, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, 2½ miles from Chipping Ongar, and 19 from London; containing 94 houses and 740 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

STANGROUND, a parish in the hundred of Norman Cross, Hunts, 1½ mile from Peterborough, and 80 from London; containing 109 houses and 544 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*

STANHOE, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 3 miles from Burnham, and 120 from London; containing 35 houses and 174 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 16*l.*

STANHOPE, a parish in Darlington ward, Durham, 6 miles from Wolsingham, on the banks of the Weare, and 265½ from London; it contains 698 houses and 4551 inhabitants. It is a very extensive parish, and was formerly a market town. In the neighbourhood is Stanhope Castle, the seat of the earl of Carlisle. The rectory of this parish, rated at 67*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is in the patronage of the crown, its real value being near 1000*l.* per annum.

STANION, a township in the parish of Great Weldon, hundred of Corby, Northampton, 6 miles from Kettering, and 80 from London; containing 55 houses and 248 inhabitants.

STANLEY, a township in the parish of Wakefield, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Wakefield, and 186 from London; containing 699 houses and 3260 inhabitants, viz. 1560 males, and 1700 females, of whom 426 were employed in various trades. A salubrious cold spring, in this neighbourhood, has been reckoned efficacious in many scorbutic complaints, and a bathing room has been erected over it, with a dwelling house, for the accommodation of its visitors.

STANLEY, LEONARD'S and KING'S. See LEONARD'S and KING'S STANLEY.

STANLEY, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, distant therefrom 1 mile.

STANMER, a parish in the hundred of Ringmer, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, near Lewes, and 49 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 105 inhabitants.

STANMORE GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Gore, Middlesex, 10¼ miles from London; containing 121 houses and 722 inhabitants.—The church, a plain-built structure, erected in 1632, and was removed a small distance from the site of the old one, which is marked by a tomb-stone, surrounded with firs. Stanmore Common is so elevated a spot that it is reckoned on a level with the battlements of the tower of Harrow church, and the trees are said to be a landmark from the German ocean. It is a rectory, rated at 10*l.* Lyson's Environs of London.

STANMORE LITTLE, a parish 9 miles from London, near Edgware, in the hundred of Gore, Middlesex; containing 83 houses and 424 inhabitants. This place was called Whitchurch, by its proprietor, James I. duke of Chandos, who here erected the magnificent seat of Canons. Vide EDGWARE. The church is an elegant little structure, and contains now all that remains of the magnificence of Canons. It is a curacy.

STANNEY, GREAT and LITTLE, 2 hamlets in the parish of Backford, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 5 miles from Chester, and 185 from London; containing 35 houses and 215 inhabitants.

STANNINGFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 5 miles from Bury St. Edmund's, and 69 from London; containing 34 houses and 248 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.* 0*s.* 2½*d.*

STANNINGTON, a parish in Castle ward, Northumberland, 287 miles from London; containing 250 houses and 1252 inhabitants. Its church contains some elegant paintings on glass, the gift of Sir Matthew White Ridley, in 1772. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

STANSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 5 miles from Clare, and 60 from London; containing 45 houses and 376 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

STANSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 4 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 34 from London; containing 90 houses and 673 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

STANSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Wrotham, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 11½ miles from Maidstone, and 22 from London; containing 36 houses and 249 inhabitants. It was formerly a chapelry to Wrotham, but is now a distinct curacy. Fair 12th May.

STANSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 7 miles from Sudbury, and 61 from London; containing 50 houses and 958 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

STANSTEAD ABBOTTS, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, situated in a vale, by the river Lea, 2 miles from Hoddesdon, containing 150 houses and 861 inhabitants. In this parish, on the London road, stands the Rye-house, noted in history for the supposed Rye-house plot, in the reign of Charles II.

STANTHORNE, a small village in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, near Middlewich; containing 13 houses and 120 inhabitants.

STANTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Youlgrave, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 3 miles from Bakewell, and 150 from London; containing 138 houses and 603 inhabitants. Here is a chapel of ease.

STANTON, a parish in the hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 5 miles from Derby, and 125 from London, situated near the Erwash and Derby canal; containing 73 houses and 314 inhabitants. The church is a curacy.

STANTON, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gresley, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 122 from London; containing 31 houses and 167 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STANTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Stapenhill, hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, 2 miles from Burton on Trent, and 125 from London; containing 160 houses and 798 inhabitants. Its chapel is an ancient building.

STANTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Whitchurch, division of Bridport, Dorset, 5 miles from Bridport, and 139 from London; containing 17 houses and 100 inhabitants.

STANTON, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 6 miles from Evesham, and 91 from London; containing 49 houses and 256 inhabitants.

STANTON ON ARROW, a parish in the hundred of Stretford, Hereford, 5 miles from Kineton, and 150 from London; containing 59 houses and 394 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 5*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.* and the patron is the king.

STANTON STONEY, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, three miles from Hinckley, and 98 from London; containing 87 houses and 355 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.*

STANTON UNDER BARDON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Thornton, in the same hundred, Leicestershire, 8 miles from Leicester, and 104 from London; containing 58 houses and 287 inhabitants.

STANTON, a township in the parish of Long Horsley, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Morpeth, and 296 from London; containing 38 houses and 178 inhabitants.

STANTON ON THE WOLDS, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Orston, hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 8 miles from Nottingham, and 116 from London; containing 18 houses and 93 inhabitants.

STANTON, ALL SAINTS and ST. JOHN'S, two united parishes in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 3 miles from Ixworth, and 80 from London; containing 135 houses and 728 inhabitants. The rectories are united, value 18*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*

STANTON, a township in the parish of Ellaston, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 4 miles from Ashborn, and 144 from London; containing 69 houses and 402 inhabitants.

STANTON FITZWARREN, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 2 miles from Highworth, and 78 from London; containing 30 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 10*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

STANTON ST. QUINTIN, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, 4 miles from Chippenham, and 98 from London; containing 38 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.*

STANTON ST. BARNARD'S, a parish in the hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 5 miles from Devizes, and 84 from London; containing 37 houses and 297 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* in the patronage of the earl of Pembroke.

STANTON, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 9 miles from Tewkesbury, and 113 from London; containing 52 houses and 300 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 5*s.*

STANTONBURY, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Newport Pagnel, and 52¼ from London; containing 6 houses and 39 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of earl Spencer.

STANTON DREW, a parish in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 7 miles from Bristol, and 120 from London; containing 124 houses and 660 inhabitants. A small distance from the church is an assemblage of huge stones, supposed to be the remains of some monument of antiquity. Stukeley supposes it to have been a temple of the Druids. It is a vicarage, rated at 7*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

STANTON LACEY, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, 3 miles from Ludlow, and 146 from London; containing 185 houses and 905 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* in the patronage of the king.

STANTON LONG, another parish in the same hundred, 13 miles from Ludlow; containing 38 houses and 206 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

STANTON HARCOURT, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, situated on the banks of the Thames, 4 miles from Witney, and 61 from London; containing 88 houses and 504 inhabitants. This is noted by Dr. Plot, as having some curious remains of antiquity in the seat of the Harcourt family. In the antient tower of the church are some small rooms, in one of which, it is recorded, Pope finished the 5th vol. of Homer, under the patronage of earl Harcourt. It is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Oxford, with Southley chapel annexed.

STANTON PRIOR, a parish in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 5 miles from Bath, and 112 from London; containing 26 houses and 130 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

STANTON ST. JOHN'S, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 4 miles from Oxford, and 51 from London; containing 54 houses and 349 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 16*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

STANWAY, a parish in the hundred of Lexden, Essex, 3½ miles from Colchester, and 48 from London; containing 67 houses and 422 inhabitants.

STANWAY, a parish in the hundred of Tewkesbury, Gloucester, 4 miles from Winchcombe, and 92 from London; containing 65 houses and 542 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

STANWELL, a parish in the hundred of Spelthorne, Middlesex, 2 miles from Staines, and 15 from London; containing 137 houses and 895 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

STANWICK, a parish in the hundred of Higham Ferrers, Northampton, 2 miles from Higham Ferrers, and 67 from London; containing 69 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

STANWICK, a small village in Gilling West wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Richmond, and 242 from London; containing 7 houses and 30 inhabitants.

STANWIX, a parish in Eskdale ward, Cumberland, adjoining Carlisle, on the banks of the Eden, and 306 miles from London; containing 56 houses and 337 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle. Here are the vestiges of a Roman station.

STAPELEY, a village near Nantwich, in Cheshire, containing 45 houses and 249 inhabitants.

STAPENHILL, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gresley, Derby, 1 mile from Burton, from which it is divided by the river Trent, and 126 from London; containing 100 houses and 457 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* in the patronage of the earl of Uxbridge.

STAPLE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Adisham, hundred of Downhamford, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Sandwich; containing 60 houses and 316 inhabitants. Fair 25th July.

STAPLEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Hertford, Herts, 3½ miles from Hertford, and 24½ from London; containing 21 houses and 111 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

STAPLEFITZPAINE, a parish in the hundred of Abdick, Somerset, 5 miles from Taunton, and 140 from London; containing 48 houses and 279 inhabitants. It is a rectory; value 17*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

STAPLEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 4 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 101 from London; containing 28 houses and 179 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.*

STAPLEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Newark, and 116 from London; containing 23 houses and 175 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

STAPLEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, 4½ miles from Nottingham, and 130 from London, near the canal and river Erewash; containing 155 houses and 748 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STAPLEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 7 miles from Salisbury, and 87 from London; containing 46 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 10*l.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

STAPLEFORD ABBOTTS, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, near the river Rothing, 5 miles from Chipping Ongar, and 14 from London; containing 47 houses and 320 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 16*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of the king.

STAPLEFORD TAWNEY, another parish in the same hundred of Essex, 1 mile distant from the foregoing, on the opposite side of the Rothing; containing 37 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* united with Theydon Mount.

STAPLEGATE, a village in the hundred of Westgate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, near Canterbury, and 55 miles from London; containing 46 houses and 249 inhabitants.

STAPLEGROVE, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, two miles from Taunton, and 146 from London; containing 49 houses and 319 inhabitants.

STAPLEHURST, a parish in the hundred of Marden, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 9 miles from Maidstone, and 43 from London; containing 206 houses and 1220 inhabitants. This place is noted for the salubrity of its situation. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of St. John's college, Cambridge.

STAPLETON, a parish in Eskdale Ward, Cumberland, 11 miles from Carlisle, and 315 from London; containing 32 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 1*l.* 9*s.*

STAPLETON, a parish in the hundred of Barton Regis, Gloucester, 2 miles from Bristol, and 114 from London; containing 301 houses and 1541 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STAPLETON, a village in the hundred of Wigmore, Hereford, near Ludlow; containing 26 houses and 129 inhabitants.

STAPLETON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Barwell, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 3 miles from Hinckley, and 102 from London; containing 39 houses and 190 inhabitants.

STAPLETON, a parish in the hundred of Condover, Salop, 6 miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 33 houses and 228 inhabitants.

STAPLETON, a hamlet situated in the parishes of Barton and Croft, Gilling East, wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Darlington, and 240 from London; being on the borders of Durham, containing 17 houses and 89 inhabitants.

STAPLETON, a hamlet in the parish of Darlington, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Pontefract and 177 from London; containing 15 houses and 101 inhabitants.

STAPLOE, the name of a hundred in Cambridge, lying on the eastern extremity of the county, divided from Suffolk by the river Ouse.

STARBOTTOM, a township in the parish of Kettlewell, Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 10 miles from Settle, and 242 from London; containing 36 houses and 197 inhabitants.

STARETON, a hamlet in the parish of Stoneleigh, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, and included therewith.

STARSTON, a parish in the hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 2 miles from Harleston, and 101 from London; containing 51 houses and 417 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.*

STRATFORTH, a parish in Gilling West wapentake, north riding of York, 1 mile from Barnard Castle, and 247 from London; containing 65 houses and 336 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* 10*d.*

START POINT, a cape of the English channel, 5 leagues south-west from Dartmouth. Lat. 50°. 9'. Long. 3°. 51'. west.

STATHERN, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 9 miles from Melton-Mowbray, and 113 from London; containing 85 houses and 404 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 3*s.* In the patronage of Peterhouse, Cambridge.

STAUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Stoddesden, Bedford, 5 miles from St. Neot's, and 61 from London; containing 54 houses and 272 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

STAUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 2 miles from Kimbolton, and 60 from London; containing 171 houses and 850 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.*

STAUNTON, a parish in the hundred of St. Briavells, Gloucester, 2 miles from Colford and 126 from London; containing 42 houses and 159 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

STAUNTON ON WYE, a parish in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, standing on the river Wye, 9 miles from Hereford, and 144 from London; containing 80 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

STAUNTON HARROLD, a township and chapelry in the parish of Breedon, hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Ashby De-la-Zouch, and 107 from London; containing 50 houses and 287 inhabitants.

STAUNTON WYVIL, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4 miles from Market Harborough, and 87 from London; containing 20 houses and 97 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

STAUNTON, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 6 miles from Newark, and 118 from London; containing 42 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

STAUNTON, a parish in the hundred of North Bradford, Salop, 9 miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 98 houses and 599 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

STAUNTON WHITE, a parish in the hundred of South Petherton, Somerset, 4 miles from Chard, and 143 from London; containing 44 houses and 259 inhabitants.

STAVELEY, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 5 miles from Chesterfield and 153 from London; containing 326 houses and 1653 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STAVELEY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Cartmel, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 8 miles from Ulverstone, and 262 from London; containing 51 houses and 315 inhabitants.

STAVELEY, NETHER, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 5 miles from Kendal and 265 from London; containing 29 houses and 131 inhabitants.

STAVELEY OVER, another hamlet in the same parish ½ mile distant from the foregoing, containing 41 houses and 324 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood is Winandermere.

STAVELEY, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Knaresborough, and 218 from London; containing 42 houses and 255 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

STAVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Haytor, Devon, 2 miles from Totness, and 196 from London; containing 190 houses and 1053 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 32*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

STAVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Deerhurst, Gloucester, 4 miles from Cheltenham and 99 from London; containing 28 houses and 159 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* with Bodington chapel annexed.

STAVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Fawsley, Northampton, 2 miles from Daventry, and 74 from London; containing 97 houses and 457 inhabitants. It is a small vicarage, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church, Oxford.

STAWELL, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 4 miles from Bridgewater, and 137 from London; containing 24 houses and 144 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 15*s.*

STAWLEY, a parish in the hundred of Milverton, Somerset, 6 miles from Wellington, and 155 from London; containing 21 houses and 148 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

STALEY BRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Cheshire, situated on the river Tame, 1½ mile from Ashton under Line, and 180 from London; containing 194 houses and 1055 inhabitants.

STANTON, a hamlet in the parish of Wilderby, Dickering Lyth, east riding of York, 5 miles from Scarborough, and 213 from London; containing 27 houses and 123 inhabitants.

STEANE, a parish united with Hinton, hundred of Kingsutton, Northamptonshire, near Banbury, containing only 3 houses.

STEANBRIDGE, the name of 3 small hamlets in the parishes of Painswick, Bisley, and Stroud, Gloucestershire.

STEBBING, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 5 miles from Braintree, and 40 from London; containing 192 houses and 1026 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.*

STEBBINGFORD, a small hamlet 3 miles from Dunmow, having a fair 10th July.

STECHWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Radfield, Cambridge, 2 miles from Newmarket and 60 from London; containing 56 houses and 342 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 10*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

STEDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Eastbourn, rape of Chichester, Sussex, near Midhurst, and 60 miles from London; containing 39 houses and 258 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* united with Heyshott.

STEEP, a township in the parish and hundred of East Meon, and division of Alton, Hants, 4 miles from Petersfield, and 59 from London; containing 63 houses and 414 inhabitants.

STEEPING, LITTLE, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3½ miles from Spilsby, and 131 from London; containing 44 houses and 255 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 9*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

STEEPLE, a parish united with Tyneham, hundred of Hasilor, division of Blandford, Dorset, 3 miles from Corfe Castle, and 118 from London; containing 29 houses and 206 inhabitants.

STEEPLE, a parish in the hundred of Dengey, Essex, 5 miles from Malden, and 42 from London, on a creek of the Black-water; containing 41 houses and 342 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* united with Stangate.

STEEPLE-BARTON. See BARTON-STEEPLE, Oxford.

STEEPLE-CLAYDON. See CLAYDON-STEEPLE, Bucks.

STEEPLE MAGNA, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, ½ mile from the foregoing; containing 43 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* united with Frisby.

STEEPLE-MORDON, a parish in the hundred of Armingford, Cambridge, 3½ miles from Royston, and 41 from London; containing 74 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 6*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of New college, Oxford.

STEEVLETON, PRESTON, a parish in the hundred of Pimperne, division of Blandford, Dorset, 4 miles from Blandford, and 107 from London; containing only 4 houses and 18 inhabitants.

STEETON, a hamlet in the parish of Bolton, Piercey, in the ainsty of York, 7 miles from York, and 183 from London; containing 12 houses and 77 inhabitants.

STEETON, a parish in Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Keighley, and 211 from London; containing 95 houses and 510 inhabitants.

STEIGNTON, a parish in the hundred of Roose, Pembrokeshire, Wales, near Haverfordwest, and 266 miles from London; containing 230 houses and 1291 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 9*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* united with Johnston, and is in the patronage of the prince of Wales.

STELLA, a township in the parish of Ryton, Chester ward, Durham, 5 miles from Gateshead, and 280 from London; containing 79 houses and 314 inhabitants.

STELLING, a hamlet in the parish of Great Hardness, hundred of Stouting, Lathe of Shepway, Kent, 7 miles from Ashford, and 61 from London; containing 48 houses and 206 inhabitants. It has a chapel, and fairs, Holy Thursday, and 1st November.

STENNIGOT, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 8 miles from Horncastle, and 147 from London; containing 9 houses and 73 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

STEPHENS, ST. a parish in the hundred of East, Cornwall adjoining Launceston, and 114 miles from London; containing 125 houses and 738 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STEPHENS, ST. a parish in the hundred of East, Cornwall, being the other church of the borough of Saltash, 220 miles from London; which including that borough, contains 113 houses and 1004 inhabitants. See SALTASH. The church is a vicarage rated at 26*l.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Windsor, with Saltash chapel annexed.

STEPHENS, ST. a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from St. Austle, and 245 from London; containing 342 houses and 1738 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 27*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

STEPNEY, an extensive parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, being one of the out-parishes of the city of London, 2 miles east of London-bridge; containing 4000 houses and 25,260 inhabitants, exclusive of its adjacent hamlets. This parish is greatly increased of late years, so as to produce the distinct parishes of Stratford, Whitechapel, Limehouse, Wapping, Shadwell, Ratcliffe Highway, Spitalfields, and Bethnal-green, which have all been separated from it. The bishops of London had anciently a palace here, and the market now held in Whitechapel belonged thereto. The name of Stibenhith, is mentioned in the reign of William the Conqueror. On the east side of the portico of the church, there is a stone, with an inscription purporting its being brought from the ruins of Carthage; and in the wall over the south portico, is an ancient Saxon sculpture of the Crucifixion.—Lysons's London.

STEPPINGLEY, a parish in the hundred of Redbornstoke, Bedford, 2 miles from Ampthill, and 43 from London; containing 46 houses and 264 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

STERNFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 2 miles from Saxmundham, and 88 from London; containing 36 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*

STERT, a tything in the parish of Urchfont, hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 3 miles from Devizes, and 86 from London; containing 30 houses and 130 inhabitants.

STEVENAGE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 12 miles from Hatfield, and 31 from London; containing 258 houses and 1251 inhabitants. It appears to have been anciently called Stigenhaght, and belonged to the abbey of Westminster, but at the dissolution it was granted to the bishops of London, who have enjoyed it ever since. The town is but indifferently built; the church is an ancient building, situated on a dry sandy hill; and consists of one aisle on each side, with a large chancel in the middle, and has a square tower. To the south of the town are six hills, supposed to have been the site of a Danish or Roman camp. Here is an alms-house, called All Christian Souls House, and a grammar free-school. Market on Wednesday, and its fairs are 9 days before Easter and Whitsun weeks, 15th July, and the first Friday in September. It is a rectory, rated at 35*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*—Salmon's Herts.

STEVENSON, a parish in the district of Cunningham, shire of Ayr, Scotland, 5 miles from Irvine; containing 378 houses and 2046 inhabitants.

STEVENTON, a parish in the hundred of Ock, Berkshire, 4 miles from Abingdon, and 56 from London; containing 101 houses and 537 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster.

STEVENTON, a parish in the hundred and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 5 miles from Basingstoke, and 50 from London; containing 20 houses and 153 inhabitants.

STEVINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 6 miles from Bedford, and 56 from London; containing 78 houses and 415 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

STEWARTON, a town in the district of Cunningham, shire of Ayr, Scotland, 18 miles from Glasgow; containing 430 houses and 2657 inhabitants. The town of Stewarton is equal to any in the west of Scotland, for size, regularity, and cleanliness of its streets and houses. It is seated on the water of Annock. Its chief trade is in the manufacture of bonnets. It has several well-attended annual fairs.

STEWARTON, or STEWART'S TOWN, a village in the county of Tyrone, province of Ulster, Ireland, 5 miles north of Dungannon.

STEWKLEY, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 4 miles from Winslow, and 46 from London; containing 118 houses and 680 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 9*s* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Oxford.

STEWKLEY. See STUKELEY, Hunts.

STEWTON, a parish in the hundred of Louth Eske, Lindsay division, Lincoln 5 miles from Louth, and 153 from London; containing 11 houses and 45 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

STEYNING, a borough and market town in the hundred of Steyning, and rape of Bramber, Sussex, 15 miles from Lewes, and 51 from London; containing 212 houses and 1174 inhabitants. This town is poorly built, being chiefly noted for its church, which is a small but curious Norman built structure. The tower is more modern. In this church were buried St. Cuthman and Ethelwolf, king of Wessex, father of Alfred. Its name is supposed to be derived from a Roman way, called Steyne-street, running from Arundel to Dorking, in Surry. It is an ancient borough, and sends 2 members to parliament; the number of voters being about 100. The returning officer is the constable, who is chief magistrate, and annually chosen at the court leet of the lord of the manor. The market is on Wednesday, and there is one on the second Wednesday in every month for cattle. Fairs, 9th June, 19th September, and 10th October. The Michaelmas fair is very considerable for Welsh and other cattle, sheep, hogs, and seed wheat. It is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.*

STIBBARD, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 3 miles from Fakenham, and 107 from London; containing 53 houses and 283 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* united with Colkirk, in the patronage of the marquis of Townshend.

STICKFORD, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 12 miles from Boston, and 129 from London; containing 56 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

STICKNEY, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 10 miles from Boston, and 127 from London; containing 103 houses and 495 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

STIDD, a small village in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, near Derby, on the river Dove; containing only 6 houses and 29 inhabitants.

STIDD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Ribchester, Lancashire, and included therewith.

STIDDCOT, a hamlet in the parish of Titherington, Gloucestershire.

STIFFKEY, a parish in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Walsingham, and 119 from London, on the coast; containing 43 houses and 304 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 25*l.* united with Marston.

STIFFORD, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, leading to Gray's Thurrock, 22½ miles from London; containing 39 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.*

STILLINGFLEET, a parish in the wapentake of Ouze and Derwent, east riding of York, 7 miles from Selby, and 189 from London; containing 61 houses and 304 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of York.

STILLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Redmarshall, Stockton ward, Durham, 7 miles from Darlington, and 250 from London; containing 8 houses and 69 inhabitants.

STILLINGTON, a parish in the liberties of York Ainsty, east riding of York, 11 miles from York, and 210 from London; containing 111 houses and 531 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof, in York cathedral.

STILTON, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, 6 miles from Peterborough, and 74 from London; containing 110 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is situated on the Roman highway, from Caister to Huntingdon, called Ermine Street, part of which in the neighbourhood still appears paved with stone. This village has long been celebrated for the excellence of its cheese. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

STINCHCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 2 miles from Dursley, and 109 from London; containing 74 houses and 419 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STINSFORD, a parish in the hundred of St. George, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 1 mile from Dorchester; containing 45 houses and 227 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

STIPPERLEY PARK, near Lymm, hundred of Bucklow, Cheshire, noted for its breed of sheep of extraordinary size, the fleece of which much resembles hair, besides two sheeps horns, they have two others as erect as goats.

STIRCHLEY, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, near Shrewsbury, and 158 miles from London; containing 20 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

STIRLING, an ancient town in Scotland, in that division of Lenoxshire to which it gives name, situated on the river Forth, 35 miles from Edinburgh; containing 614 houses and 5256 inhabitants, of whom 514 were returned as being employed in trade: The town stands much like the old town of Edinburgh, on the sloping ridge of a rock. It has two churches, called the East and West Kirks; the former is an elegant building. The town-house is a large building; in the council chamber is kept the jug, apppointed by law as the standard for dry measure in Scotland. There are three well endowed hospitals. The principal manufactures are of carpeting and shalloons. The palace which was the favourite residence of James V. and erected by him, is a stately building in the form of a square; the outside is curiously ornamented with grotesque figures; the grand story is now converted into barracks; and in the upper parts are rooms for the governor and other officers of the garrison. The castle, situated on a rock at the western end of the town, was anciently a place of great strength, and was much enlarged and repaired in the reign of queen Anne. This fortress has frequently been the scene of bloody contention. The foundation of the castle is a Basaltic rock, around which is a pleasant walk carried from the town, and in many places cut out of the solid rock. Stirling is governed by a provost, 4 bailies, a dean of guild, treasurer, and 14 councillors. The magistrates have also an extensive criminal jurisdiction conferred on them by everal charters. It holds a fifth rank among the Scottish royal boroughs.—Nimmo's Stirlingshire.

STIRLINGSHIRE, Scotland, formerly a part of the shire of Lenox, bounded on the north by Perthshire and the river Forth, on the east by Clackmannan and West Lothian, on the south by Lanarkshire, and on the west by Dumbarton and Loch Lomond; being 36 miles long, and on an average 12 broad. It contains one royal borough, Stirling. Its chief towns are Falkirk and St. Ninian's, and several large villages, viz. Larbert, Kippen, Kilsyth, Bucklyvie, Airth, Campsie, &c.; the whole being divided into 22 parishes; containing 7530 houses and 50,825 inhabitants, viz. 23,875 males, and 26,950 females, having 11,873 employed in trade, and 9458 in agriculture. The features of the country are rich and beautiful; the eastern district is extremely fer ile, yet there are several extensive mosses on the banks of the Forth. In former times the greater part of this county was one entire forest, the vestiges of which are still to be seen south of the town of Stirling. Being a frontier county, Stirlingshire has been the field of much contention and bloodshed; and here the heroes of Ossian performed many of their heroic exploits. The two ridges of hills called Lennox and Ochil, exhibit many volcanic appearances, particularly at Fintry and the Campsie Fells. The county abounds with coal, iron-stone, free-stone, and lime: among the more precious minerals, silver, copper, cobalt, and lead, have been discovered and wrought. It sends 1 member to the imperial parliament.

STIRTON, a township in the parish of Skipton, Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Skipton, and 217 from London; containing 27 houses and 134 inhabitants.

STISTED, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 2 miles from Braintree, and 42 from London; containing 120 houses and 679 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 22*l.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

STITCHEL, a parish united with Hume, in the shires of Roxburgh and Berwick, 4 miles from Kelso; containing 216 houses and 921 inhabitants.

STITHIAN'S, ST. a parish in the hundred of Kerrier, Cornwall, 3 miles from Penryn, and 269 from London; containing 228 houses and 1269 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 10*s.*

STITTENHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Sheriff Hutton, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 11 miles from York, and 210 from London; containing 10 houses and 77 inhabitants.

STIVICHALL, a parish in the liberties of Coventry, Warwickshire, 1½ mile from Coventry, and 90 from London; containing 22 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STIXWOULD, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Tattershall, and 135 from London, near the river Witham; containing 39 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.*

Stoakham, a hamlet in the parish of East Drayton, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, near Tuxford; containing 7 houses and 42 inhabitants.

Stobo, a parish in the shire of Peebles, situated on both sides of the river Tweed, 6 miles from Peebles; containing 56 houses and 338 inhabitants.

Stock, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 2½ miles from Billericay, and 25 from London; containing 94 houses and 503 inhabitants.

Stock, a hamlet in the parish of Himbleton, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 6 miles from Droitwich, and 112 from London; containing 34 houses and 151 inhabitants.

Stockbridge, a borough and market town in the parish and hundred of Kimgsomborne, division of Andover, Hants, 21 miles from Basingstoke, and 66 from London; containing 158 houses and 643 inhabitants. Although it returns 2 members to parliament, it is not a corporation, being a borough by prescription, and governed by a titular bailiff (who is the returning officer), a constable, and serjeant at mace. The right of election is in the housekeepers, paying scot and lot. The market is on Thursday; fairs, Holy Thursday, 10th July, and 7th October, for cattle.

Stockbridge, a township in the parish of Clifton, West ward, Westmoreland, 2 miles from Penrith, and 284 from London; containing 36 houses and 175 inhabitants.

Stockbridge, a small village near Doncaster, west riding of York.

Stockerstone, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 7 miles from Uppingham, and 96 from London; containing 11 houses and 56 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.*

Stockgaland, a parish in the hundred of Buckland Newton, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 4 miles from Sturminster, and 115 from London; containing 9 houses and 71 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

Stockland, a parish in the hundred of Whitchurch, division of Bridport, Dorset, 6 miles from Chard, and 145 from London; containing 198 houses and 988 inhabitants. The church is a large and ancient building, and the living is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.* in the gift of the inhabitants. Fair, 1st July.

Stockland, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Doulting, hundred of Cannington, Somerset, near Bridgewater, and 145 miles from London; containing 21 houses and 144 inhabitants.

Stockley English, a parish in the hundred of West Budleigh, Devon, 5 miles from Crediton, and 185 from London; containing 21 houses and 116 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* in the patronage of the king.

Stockley Pomeroy, another parish in the same hundred, and 2 miles distant from the foregoing; containing 41 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Exeter.

Stockley, a hamlet in the parish of Brancepeth, Darlington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 260 from London; containing 16 houses and 89 inhabitants.

Stocklinch, Magdalen, a parish in the hundred of Abdick, Somerset, 4½ miles from Ilminster, and 130 from London; containing 17 houses and 89 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

Stocklinch Ottersey, another parish in the same hundred, and ½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 21 houses and 119 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

Stockport, a market town and parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Cheshire, 11 miles from Macclesfield, and 173 from London, on the banks of the Mersey; containing 2572 houses and 14,830 inhabitants, viz. 6983 males, and 7847 females, of whom 14,580 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures. There are two churches; the old one called the Red church, is founded on a rock, and has a neat square tower, containing 6 bells; the other, St. Peter's, is a modern building, erected of brick, in 1766. There are several meeting-houses of Dissenters of various persuasions; and in 1806, an extensive Sunday-school was erected, capable of holding 4000 scholars. An extensive cotton manufactory, of a castle-like form, stands in the market-place, and was erected on the site of an ancient castle. The trade and manufactures of Stockport, particularly of cotton, have much increased of late, and it derives considerable benefit from the canal communication with the rivers Mersey, Dee, Ribble, Severn, Trent, &c. Over the Mersey is a neat stone bridge of one arch, founded on a red rock, erected in 1745, the old one being destroyed to prevent the approach of the rebel army. The town was once incorporated, but is now only governed by a high constable. Market on Friday, and its fairs are 4th and 25th March, 1st May, and 23d October, which are well supplied with cheese and oatmeal. The living is a rectory, rated at 70*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* but its real value is near 1000*l.* per annum. The new church of St. Peter is a curacy, under the mother church.—Norden's Cheshire.

Stockton, a borough and market town in Stockton ward, Durham, situate on the river Tees, 4 miles from Yarm, and 248 from London; containing 527 houses and 4009 inhabitants, viz. 1795 males and 2214 females, of whom 713 were employed in trade. It consists chiefly of one main street, near half a mile long and 60 yards broad, the houses being neatly built of brick. In the center of this street stands the town-house, a handsome building, with a clock and high spire. South of the town-house is a handsome column of the Doric order, 33 feet high, where the market is held. There are several inferior streets, or rather lanes, leading to the river, where there is a custom-house under the proper officers. The whole of the town is well paved. On the east side of the street is the church, a handsome brick structure, the doors and windows capped with stone. At the west end is a tower, 80 feet high, containing 6 bells. The whole was erected in 1712, previous to which it was only a chapelry to the mother church of Norton. Opposite the church is a Presbyterian meeting house. East of the church is a spacious green, or square, surrounded on 3 sides by houses, the church-yard wall forming the fourth. Within the town-house, erected in 1744, is an elegant assembly room; adjoining is a commodious piazza, for the use of the market. Here is a convenient grammar and charity school, erected in 1785 and 1786. Several alms-houses, and a public dispensary. The bridge over the Tees is an elegant structure of 5 arches, the span of the centre arch being 72 feet, 23 feet high from low water, and 21 feet broad; it was finished in 1771. In the out skirts of the town are a Quaker's meeting house, a Roman Catholic chapel, a numerous congregation of Methodists, and a small one of Baptists. Here are several manufactures of check, huckaback, damasks, sail cloth and ropes; and several vessels, from 40 to 400 tons, are annually built here. Its ancient castle was dismantled during the civil wars, and the only stone houses in Stockton have been built from its ruins. The borough is governed by a mayor, aldermen, and a recorder, who is always steward of the bishop's courts leet and baron. That part which constitutes the borough, is all freehold; and the other buildings, added to the original town, are copyhold or leasehold, under the vicar, and not within the jurisdiction of the borough; each part having its distinct constable. The market days are on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and are well supplied with corn, coals, provisions, and vegetables. Here are two banks, the Stockton and Cleveland, and the Tees banks. The church is a vicarage, under the bishop of Durham, and being made a parish by a late act of parliament, it is not in charge in the king's books, but it pays one-third part of the first fruits, tenths, &c. for the parish of Norton, as a recompence for its separation. The real value is computed at about 300*l.* per annum.—Brewster's History of Stockton.

Stockton, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 3 miles from Beccles, and 112 from London; containing 14 houses and 111 inhabitants.

Stockton, a parish in the hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, 4 miles from Bridgnorth, and 143 from London; containing 71 houses and 409 inhabitants.

Stockton, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 1¼ mile from Southam, and 83 from London; containing 43 houses and 274 inhabitants.

Stockton, a parish in the hundred of Elstub and Everley, Wilts, near Amesbury, and 78 miles from London; containing 42 houses and 224 inhabitants.

Stockton, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 13 miles from Worcester, and 124 from London; containing 28 houses and 108 inhabitants. Its church is an ancient Norman building.

Stockton, a parish in Dalmer wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from York, and 204 from London; containing 49 houses and 255 inhabitants. It is a curacy belonging to the prebend of Bugthorp.

Stockton, the name of a ward in Durham, being the south eastern division of the county, divided from Yorkshire by the river Tees.

Stockuby, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 5¼ miles from Maidstone, and 40 from London; containing 65 houses and 433 inhabitants.

Stockwith, East, a hamlet in the parish of Misterton, hundred of Corringham, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Gainsborough, and 154 from London, on the river Trent; containing 37 houses and 161 inhabitants. Fair, 4th Sep.

Stockwith West, another hamlet in the same parish, and ¼ mile distant from the foregoing, on the opposite banks of the Trent, situated in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Nottingham; containing 93 houses and 550 inhabitants.

Stockwell, a hamlet in the parish of Lambeth, Surry, 2 miles from Westminster Bridge, contains many neat mansions, and a chapel of ease, erected in 1767.

Stockwood, a parish in the hundred of Colliford Tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, near Melcomb Regis, and 125 miles from London; containing only 8 houses and 56 inhabitants.

Stoddesden, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Salop, 8 miles from Bridgnorth, and 136 from London; containing 215 houses and 1351 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* with Farlow chapel annexed.

Stodden, the name of a hundred in Bedford, being the northern extremity of the county, bordering on Northampton and Huntingdonshires.

Stoddesden, the name of a hundred in Salop, being the south eastern division of the county, bordering on Worcester and Stafford.

Stodmarsh, a parish in the hundred of Downhamford, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 4 miles from Canterbury, and 59 from London; containing 18 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the archdeacon of Canterbury.

Stody, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 4 miles from Holt, and 117 from London; containing 23 houses and 149 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* united with Hunworth, Stocumber, a parish in the hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 6 miles from Wiveliscombe, and 155 from London; containing 210 houses and 1235 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 18*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Wells.

Stoke, a parish and curacy in the hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 3 miles from Nantwich, and 167 from London; containing 20 houses and 127 inhabitants.

Stoke, a hamlet in the parish of Hope, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 5 miles from Tideswell, and 165 from London; containing 12 houses and 68 inhabitants.

Stoke, a parish in the hundred of Hoo, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 4 miles from Chatham, and 34 from London; containing 45 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

Stoke, a township and chapelry in the parish of Hinckley, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 2 miles from Hinckley, and 101 from London; containing 82 houses and 387 inhabitants.

Stoke, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 2 miles from Nayland, to which it is the mother church; containing 215 houses and 1041 inhabitants. Fairs, 24th Feb. and 1st May. It is a vicarage, rated at 19*l.* 10*d.* with Nayland chapel annexed.

Stoke, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 1½ mile from Clare, and 55 from London; containing 91 houses and 687 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Stoke, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, 1½ mile from Guildford, on the river Wey, and 31 from London; containing 135 houses and 788 inhabitants.

Stoke, a parish in the hundred of Avisford, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 2 miles from Arundel, and 58 from London; containing 18 houses and 106 inhabitants.

Stoke, another parish ¼ mile distant from the foregoing, commonly called North Stoke, on the opposite side of the Avon, in the hundred of Poleing, rape of Arundel, Sussex; containing 10 houses and 48 inhabitants.

Stoke, another village in the hundred of Bosham, and rape of Chichester, Sussex, 3 miles from Chichester, and 63 from London; containing 15 houses and 78 inhabitants.

Stoke, a parish in the liberties of Coventry, Warwickshire, 1 mile from Coventry, and 80 from London; containing 97 houses and 405 inhabitants. It is a vicarage not in charge, in the patronage of the king.

Stoke, the name of a hundred in Bucks, being the southern extremity of the county, between the Thames and Colne.

Stoke Abbotts, a parish in the hundred of Beaminster, division of Bridport, Dorset, 2 miles from Beaminster, and 139 from London; containing 90 houses and 486 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 19*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

Stoke Albany, a parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, 4 miles from Market Harborough, and 80 from London; containing 86 houses and 377 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Stoke Ash, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Eye and 86 from London; containing 34 houses and 275 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

Stoke Bardolph, a hamlet in the parish of Gedling, hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 5 miles from Nottingham, and 122 from London; containing 35 houses and 157 inhabitants.

Stoke Bishop, a tything in the parish of Stoke Gifford, hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, 5 miles from Bristol, and 113 from London; containing 226 houses and 1293 inhabitants.

Stoke Bliss, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 6 miles from Bromyard, and 132 from London; containing 33 houses and 187 inhabitants.

Stoke Bruerne, a parish in the hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 7 miles from Stoney Stratford, and 59 from London; containing 61 houses and 352 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 30*l.* in the patronage of Brazen Nose College, Oxford.

Stoke Canon, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 4 miles from Exeter, and 172 from London; containing 47 houses and 254 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

Stoke Charity, a parish in the hundred of Buddlesgate, division of Fawley, Hants, 6 miles from Whitchurch, and 59 from London; containing 18 houses and 113 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

Stoke Climsland, a parish in the hundred of East, Cornwall, 3 miles from Callington, and 218 from London; containing 214 houses and 1153 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 40*l.* in the patronage of the duke of Cornwall.

Stoke Dalborne, a parish in the hundred of Elmbridge, Surry, 8 miles from Walton-on-Thames, and 20 from London; containing 42 houses and 290 inhabitants.

Stoke Damerell, a parish in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, and sometimes reckoned a part of Plymouth, lying between it and Dock, and containing 2352 houses and 22747 inhabitants, viz. 10,075 males and 13,672 females. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

Stoke Doyle, a parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, 2 miles from Oundle and 80 from London; containing 23 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

Stoke Dry, a parish in the hundred of Wrandike, Rutland, 2¼ miles from Uppingham and 87 from London; containing 12 houses and 61 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11.. 2*s.* 1*d.*

Stoke, East, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 3¾ miles from Newark; containing 62 houses and 293 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.* 13*s.* with Sireston, Codington and Elston chapels annexed; and is in the patronage of the Chancellor of Lincoln.

Stoke Edith, a parish in the hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 2 miles from Ledbury and 129 from London; containing 47 houses and 258 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* with Westhide united.

Stoke Ferry, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 6 miles from Downham and 80 from London; containing 70 houses and 504 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Stoke Flemming, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, near Kingsbridge and 206 miles from London; containing 111 houses and 578 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 31*l.* 6*s.*

Stoke Gabriel, a parish in the hundred of Haytor, Devon, 4 miles from Totness and 200 from London; containing 90 houses and 531 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

Stoke Gifford, a parish in the hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, 5 miles from Bristol and 113 from London; containing 39 houses and 281 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

Stoke Gifford. See Rodney Stoke, Somerset.

Stoke Goldington, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 4 miles from Newport Pagnel and 51 from London; containing 132 houses and 656 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

Stoke, Golding, or Mansfield, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Hinckley, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 2 miles from Hinckley and 101 from London; containing 82 houses and 387 inhabitants. Its chapel is equal to many parish churches.

Stoke Hammond, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2½ miles from Fenny Stratford and 43 from London; containing 44 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 19*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

Stoke Holycross, or Crucis, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 5 miles from Norwich and 104 from London, on the river Yare; containing 46 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich.

Stokeintinhead, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 3 miles from Newton Abbas and 190 from London, on the shore of Babicomb bay; containing 123 houses and 574 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 56*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Exeter.

Stoke Lacey, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 3½ miles from Bromyard and 129 from London; containing 66 houses and 310 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

Stoke Lane, a hamlet in the parish of Doulton, hundred of Whitestone, Somerset, 2 miles from Shepton Mallet and 114 from London; containing 203 houses and 860 inhabitants.

Stoke Lyne, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 2½ miles from Bicester and 57½ from London; containing 66 houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a vicarage.

Stoke Mandeville, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Bierton, hundred of Aylesbury, Buckingham, 2 miles from Wendover and 37 from London; containing 74 houses and 248 inhabitants.

Stoke Newington. See Newington, Stoke, Middlesex.

Stoke, North, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Grantham and 110 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 114 inhabitants.

Stoke, North, a parish in the hundred of Langtree, Oxford, 2 miles from Wallingford and 43 from London; containing 32 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 10*s.* with Newnham Warren and Ipsden chapels annexed, in the patronage of St. John's College, Cambridge.

Stoke, North, a parish in the hundred of Bath Forum, Somerset, 3 miles from Bath and 110 from London; containing 19 houses 108 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Stoke Orchard, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bishops Cleeve, hundred of Cleeve, Gloucester, 4 miles from Cheltenham and 99 from London; containing 45 houses and 195 inhabitants.

Stoke Pero, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 6 miles from Minehead and 171 from London; containing 11 houses and 65 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Stoke Poges, a parish in the hundred of Stoke, Bucks, 4 miles from Colnbrook and 20½ from London; containing 138 houses and 400 inhabitants. Gray made the church-yard of this parish, the scenes of his beautiful elegy, and lies interred there without any memorial. It is a vicarage, rated at 50*l.*

Stoke Prior, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 1½ mile from Bromsgrove and 115 from London; containing 135 houses and 754 inhabitants. The church is a neat Saxon structure, and the parish is near 12 miles in circuit. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

Stoke Priors, a township and chapelry in the parish of Leominster, hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 2 miles from Leominster and 135 from London; containing 62 houses and 327 inhabitants.

Stoke Rivers, a parish in the hundred of Sherwill, Devon, 5½ miles from Barnstaple and 191 from London; containing 37 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

Stoke Say, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, near Ludlow and 146 miles from London; containing 96 houses and 512 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Stoke, South, a parish in the hundred of the Bath Forum, Somerset, 2 miles from Bath and 105 from London; containing 35 houses and 177 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

Stoke, South, a parish in the liberties of Grantham Soke, Lincoln, near Grantham; containing only 12 houses and 51 inhabitants.

Stoke, St. Gregory, a township and chapelry, in the parish and hundred of North Curry, Somerset, 7 miles from Langport and 156 from London; containing 181 houses and 907 inhabitants.

Stoke St. Milborough, a parish in Wenlock franchise, Salop, 6 miles from Ludlow and 149 from London; containing 89 houses and 471 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Stoke Talmage, a parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 4 miles from Thame and 48 from London; containing 29 houses and 159 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

Stoke Triston, a parish in the hundred of Ferris Norton, Somerset, 1 mile from Wincanton and 107 from London; containing 58 houses and 336 inhabitants.

Stoke Underham, a parish in the hundred of Tintinhull, Somerset, 5 miles from Ilchester and 127 from London; containing 144 houses and 766 inhabitants.

Stoke-upon-Tern, a parish in the hundred of North Bradford, Salop, 9 miles from Newport and 149 from London; containing 119 houses and 626 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

Stoke-upon-Trent, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, adjoining Newcastle, and 149 miles from London; containing 3309 houses and 16,444 inhabitants, of whom 6429 were employed in various trades and manufactures. See Newcastle. It is a rectory, rated at 41*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Stoke Wake, a parish in the hundred of Whitway, division of Sherborn, Dorset, near Blandford; containing 13 houses and 85 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*

Stoken-Church, a township in the parish of Aston Rowant, hundred of Lewknor, Oxford, 8 miles from High Wickham and 36 from London; containing 154 houses and 811 inhabitants.

Stokenham, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge and 206 from London; containing 250 houses and 1391 inhabitants. The vicarage, rated at 48*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* is in the patronage of the king, with Shirford and Churlston chapels annexed.

Stokesby, a parish in the hundred of East Flegg, Norfolk, 4 miles from Caistor and 121 from London; containing 24 houses and 194 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Herringby.

Stokesley, a market-town and parish in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from Yarm and 242 from London; containing 354 houses and 1369 inhabitants. It consists of one well-built and long street, on the banks of the Wisk, near the source of the Tees. It has a well attended market on Saturday. Fairs, Saturday before Palm Sunday, first Saturday after 4th May, and once a fortnight, till Saturday before Trinity Sunday, the first Saturday in October, and the second Saturday in November. It is a rectory, rated at 30*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

Stonar, a parish in the hundred of Ringslow, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, near Sandwich, in the road from Ramsgate; containing now only 7 houses and 33 inhabitants, it never having recovered since it was burnt and plundered by the French, in the 14th century. In the neighbourhood are some valuable salt works.

Stondon, a decayed parish in the hundred of Clifton, Bedford, 4 miles from Hitchin and 38 from London; containing only 5 houses and 29 inhabitants.

Stondon Massey, a parish in the hundred Ongar, Essex, 2 miles from Chipping Ongar and 24 from London; containing 41 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Stone, a parish in the hundred of Aylesbury, Bucks, 3 miles from Aylesbury and 43 from London; containing 103 houses and 515 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

Stone, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Berkeley, Gloucester.

Stone, a parish in the hundred of Oxney, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 5½ miles from Tenterden; containing 44 houses and 346 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 26*l.* 10*s.* and the patron is the bishop of Rochester.

Stone, another parish in the hundred of Axton, and lathe of Sutton, Kent, near Dartford, and 17 miles from London; containing 68 houses and 403 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

Stone, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 141 miles from London, on the banks of the Trent; containing 750 houses and 4701 inhabitants;

besides the advantages of the river Trent; it has a canal navigation, communicating with most of the principal towns in the adjacent counties. The church is a noble structure, with a square tower, containing 6 bells. Here is a charity and free grammar-school. It is a curacy.

STONE, a parish in the hundred of Halfshire, Worcester, 2 miles from Kidderminster, and 123 from London; containing 59 houses and 403 inhabitants. It is a vicarage rated at 15*l.* in the patronage of the king.

STONE, the name of a hundred in Somerset, lying at the south eastern extremity of the county, around Yeovil and bordering on Dorsetshire.

STONEASTON, a township in the parish and hundred of Chewton, Somerset, 5 miles from Wells, and 116 from London; containing 71 houses and 389 inhabitants.

STONEBECK, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Ripon, and 227 from London; containing 106 houses and 434 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STONEBECK UPPER, a township in the parish of Kirby Malzeard 1 mile distant from the foregoing, and containing 69 houses and 304 inhabitants.

STONEGRAVE, a village in Rydall wapentake, north riding of York; 5 miles from Helmsley; containing 19 houses and 126 inhabitants.

STONEHAM NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Mainbridge and division of Fawley, Hants, 3½ miles from Southampton, and 70 from London; containing 83 houses and 675 inhabitants. In the church is a beautiful monument to the memory of lord Hawke. It is a rectory, rated at 21*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

STONEHAM SOUTH, another parish in the same hundred, and 1½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 228 houses and 1255 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.*

STONEHAM EARLS, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, 9 miles from Ipswich and 78 from London; containing 85 houses and 875 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

STONEHAM, LITTLE, an adjoining parish in the same hundred; containing 32 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.*

STONEHENGE. See SALISBURY, Wilts.

STONEHIVE, or STONEHAVEN, a sea-port town in the parish of Dunottar, shire of Kincardine, Scotland, 15 miles from Aberdeen. It consists of 2 considerable streets containing 300 houses and 1110 inhabitants. It is a Burgh of Barony, and here the Sheriff Court of the county is held.

STONEHOUSE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Plymouth, Devonshire, lying between Plymouth and Plymouth Dock; here are very extensive barracks. Its new church or chapel was erected in 1787. This township contains 358 houses and 3407 inhabitants, being a population of 10 persons to each house, exclusive of the army and navy.

STONEHOUSE, a parish in the hundred of Whitestone, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stroud, and 106 from London; containing 240 houses and 1412 inhabitants. Here are 2 charity schools. Fairs 1st May and 29th December. It is a vicarage, value 22*l.* and the patron is the king.

STONEHOUSE, a parish in the shire of Lanark Scotland, near the banks of the Clyde and Avon, 7½ miles from Hamilton and 18 from Glasgow; containing 283 houses and 1259 inhabitants, the greater part of whom are weavers.

STONELEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, on the banks of the Sow, 2 miles from Kenilworth, and 99 from London; containing 279 houses and 1347 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* and the patron is the king.

STONERAISE, a hamlet in the parish of Westward, in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 2 miles from Wigton, and 302 from London; containing 85 houses and 434 inhabitants.

STONESBY, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 5 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 109 from London; containing 38 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

STONESFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 4 miles from Woodstock, and 66 from London; containing 69 houses and 374 inhabitants. Many Roman pavements and buildings have been discovered here of late years. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

STONYHURST, a hamlet in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Whalley.

STONY MIDDLETON, a township in the parish of Hathersage, hundred of High Peake, Derby, 4 miles from Bakewell, and 156 from London; containing 89 houses and 404 inhabitants.

STONY STRAFORD. See STRATFORD, STONY.

STONYKIRK, a parish in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, on the west coast of Lucebay, 6 miles from Port Patrick; containing 381 houses and 1848 inhabitants, including the villages of Clashank and Joscarton.

STOODELEY, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 5 miles from Tiverton, and 168 from London; containing 48 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

STOPHAM, a parish in the hundred of Rotherbridge, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 3½ miles from Petworth, and 52 from London; containing 21 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.*

STORETON, GREAT and LITTLE, 2 hamlets in the parish of Bebbington, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, lying between the rivers Dee and Mersey, 12 miles from Chester and 192 from London; containing 34 houses and 180 inhabitants.

STORNAWAY, a town and parish in the Island of Lewis, shire of Ross, Scotland. The town stands at the head of a bay of the same name, containing 538 houses and 2974 inhabitants. The chief employment of the men is in the Herring-fishery. The town part containing about 800 inhabitants, is well built, has a commodious custom-house, town-house, assembly room, and a handsome church.—On an eminence near it stands Seaforth Lodge, the residence of lord Seaforth, proprietor of the island.

STORRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of West Easewrith, rape of Arundel Sussex, 6 miles from Steyning, and 56 from London; containing 132 houses and 846 inhabitants. It was formerly a market-town, and has fairs 12th May and 22d. November. It is a rectory, value 18*l*.

STORTFORD, BISHOPS. See BISHOPS STORTFORD, Herts.

STORTHWOOD, a village in the wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, near Pocklington, containing 18 houses and 86 inhabitants.

STOTFOLD, a parish in the hundred of Clifden, Bedford 3 miles from Baldock, and 40 from London; containing 92 houses and 495 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l*. 17*s*. 1*d*. in the patronage of Trinity college Cambridge.

STOUGHTON, a hamlet in the parish of Thurnby, hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4 miles from Leicester, and 93 from London; containing 29 houses and 158 inhabitants.

STOUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Westborne and Singleton, Rape of Chichester, Sussex, 5 miles from Chichester and 61 from London; containing 101 houses and 582 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l*. 10*s*.

STOURTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kempsey, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 4½ miles from Worcester, and 109 from London; containing 55 houses and 301 inhabitants.

STOUR, a river in Kent, consisting of 2 streams, rising in the Weald of Kent, the one falling into the ocean at Reculver, and the other at Sandwich; these branches by cutting off the north-east angle of the county, form the isle of Thanet.

STOUR, a river of Staffordshire, which running through the southern angle of that county, joins the Severn in Worcestershire.

STOUR, a river which forms the boundary between Essex and Suffolk, passing Clare, Sudbury, Nayland and Manningtree and joining the Severn in Worcestershire.

STOUR, another river rising on the borders of Dorsetshire and Wilts, passing Sturminster and Blandford to Hampshire, falls into the Sea at Christ-church.

STOURBRIDGE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Halfshire, Worcester, on the banks of the Stour, 6 miles from Kidderminster, and 123 from London; containing 732 houses and 2431 inhabitants, of whom 503 were employed chiefly in different glass, iron and earthenware manufactories. It has long been noted also for its making of crucibles, from the excellence of the clay found in the neighbourhood. The church is a handsome structure, erected by public subscription, in 1742. It has a good stone bridge over the Stour, and a free school with a well chosen library, founded by Edward VI.; in the neighbouring village of Oldswinford, is a noble hospital, for the maintenance and education of 60 boys, much after the manner of the hospital of Christ Church, London. The town is an ancient borough by prescription, governed by a bailiff, with a town clerk and other officers. Market on Friday. Fairs, 29th March, 8th September, and 8th January. It has a canal, communicating with the principal rivers of the adjacent counties. Stourbridge was only a chapelry to Old Swinford, till it was made a seperate parish on the erection of its new church; which is a curacy.

STOURBRIDGE, or STURBRIDGE, the name of a field near Cambridge; on the banks of the Stour, noted for its fair kept annually on the 18th September, continuing a fortnight, under the jurisdiction of the University of Cambridge; this fair is attended by tradesmen from all parts of England, and supplied with every article of manufacture and provision, as well as all kinds of cattle.

STOURE, a river in Leicestershire, falling into the Trent, at Thrumpton.

STOURE, another in Oxfordshire, passing through Warwickshire, falls into the Avon below Stratford; another in Worcestershire, falling into the Severn, at Redstow passage.

STOURMOUTH, a village in the hundred of Bleangate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent; situated at the mouth of the Stour, 4 miles from Sandwich; containing 55 houses and 202 inhabitants.

STOURPORT, a hamlet in the parish of Lower Mitton, hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 4 miles from Kidderminster, on the banks of the Severn river, and canal.

STOURTON, a parish in the hundred of Mere, Wilts, at the head of the Stour, 2 miles from Mere, and 104 from London; containing 50 houses and 306 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 17*l*.

STOURTON, CAUNDLE, a parish in the hundred of Brownshall, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 3 miles from Stalbridge, and 116 from London; containing 55 houses and 277 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STOUTING, a parish in the hundred of Stoutling, lathe of Scopway, Kent, 7 miles from Ashford, and 62 from London; containing 36 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l*. 17*s*. 11*d*.

STOVEN, a small village in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 4 miles from Halesworth, and 106 from London; containing 15 houses and 125 inhabitants.

Stow, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 3 miles from Buckingam, and 60 from London; containing 58 houses and 311 inhabitants. The beautiful seat of the marquis of Buckingham is noted for its noble gardens, ornamented with Gothic temples, pavilions, obelisks, and expanses of water, cascades, and bridges; the various buildings are ornamented with busts, statues, and inscriptions to the memory of the most celebrated ancient and modern characters; to give even a brief account of each, would require a distinct volume; of late years these gardens have been much improved and modernized, and the mansion 900 feet in front, rebuilt on the most magnificent plan. The many beautiful paintings of the first artists, are worthy the admiration of every traveller. The church is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

Stow, a parish in the hundred of Staine, Cambridge, 5 miles from Cambridge, and 55 from London; containing 44 houses and 235 inhabitants. It is a curacy, united with Quy.

Stow, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 2½ miles from Kimbolton, and 65 from London; containing 24 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Stow, a parish in the hundred of Well, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Gainsborough, and 146 from London; containing 59 houses and 243 inhabitants.—The church is a large and ancient fabric, founded by one of the bishops of Dorchester, and rebuilt by the first bishop of Lincoln. In the park are still to be traced the foundation of its abbey, which was afterwards the bishop's palace. It is a curacy.

Stow, the remains of another parish now united with Barholm, in the hundred of Ness, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Market Deeping; containing only 2 houses and 24 inhabitants.

Stow, a hamlet in the parish of Beckley, hundred of Ballington, Oxford, 3½ miles from Oxford, and 57 from London; containing 6 houses and 33 inhabitants.

Stow, a parish in the hundred of Purslow, Salop, near Bishops Castle, and 158 miles from London; containing 30 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Stow, a parish in the southern part of Mid-Lothian, Scotland, and comprehending a small part of Selkirkshire, watered by the Gala and Tweed, and containing 1400 inhabitants.

Stow, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, in the centre of the county, around Stowmarket.

Stow Bardolph, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 2 miles from Downham and 86 from London; containing 103 houses and 574 inhabitants. Fair the Saturday after Whitsunday. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Wimbotsham.

Stow Bedon, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 4 miles from Watton and 90 from London; containing 45 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Stowell, a hamlet in the parish of Northleach, hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, near Northleach.

Stowell, a parish in the hundred of Horethorne, Somerset, 4 miles from Sherborn and 113 from London; containing 23 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value, 6*l.* 15*s.*

Stower, East and West, a parish in the hundred of Red-lane, division of Sherborn, Dorset, situated on each side the Stour, and united by a bridge; the east part contains 77 houses and 380 inhabitants, and western 31 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is 5 miles from Shaftsbury.

Stowerpaine, a parish in the hundred of Pimpern, division of Blandford, Dorset, 3 miles from Blandford and 106 from London; containing 72 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 7*l.* 18*s.* 6*d* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Salisbury.

Stower Prevost, a parish in the hundred of Redlane, and division of Sherborn, Dorset, 4 miles from Shaftesbury and 105 from London; containing 127 houses and 604 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of King's College, Cambridge.

Stowerton, a hamlet in the parish of Whichford, hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 4 miles from Shipston and 60 from London; containing 45 houses and 201 inhabitants.

Stowey, a parish in the hundred of Chew, Somerset, 9 miles from Bristol and 103 from London; containing 24 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 12*s.* in the patronage of the king.

Stowey Nether, a parish in the hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 6 miles from Bridgwater and 149 from London; containing 113 houses and 586 inhabitants.

Stowford, a parish in the hundred of Lifton, Devon, 5 miles from Launceston and 208 from London; containing 45 houses and 235 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Stowgursey, a parish in the hundred of Cannington, Somerset, 7 miles from Bridgwater and 148 from London; containing 218 houses and 1168 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* with Lilstock chapel annexed, in the patronage of Eton College.

Stowick, a tything in the parish and hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, near Henbury, containing 49 houses and 323 inhabitants.

Stowlangtoft, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 2 miles from Ixworth and 77 from London; containing 18 houses 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

STOW MARKET, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Stow, Suffolk, situated on the banks of the Orwell, 3 miles from Needham and 76 from London; containing 273 houses and 1761 inhabitants; besides the river it has a navigable canal; tammies and various kinds of Norwich stuff are manufactured here. The church is a spacious building, having a steeple with a spire, 120 feet high; it contains 8 bells. The market on Thursday is well supplied: fairs Whit Friday, and 29th of June, and a lamb fair on the 1st August. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 15*s.*

STOW-NINE-CHURCHES, a parish in the hundred of Fawsley, Northampton, 6 miles from Daventry and 66 from London; containing 65 houses and 311 inhabitants. There are two springs in this parish, reckoned medicinal. The church contains several handsome monuments. It is a rectory, rated at 18*l.*

STOW-ON-THE-WOLD, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, near the river Windrush, 10 miles from Campden and 82 from London; containing 253 houses and 1189 inhabitants. It stands in a very bleak part of the country, on a high eminence; the buildings are very irregular, and the streets but indifferently paved. Its ancient church is situated on a hill, has a lofty tower, and contains several ancient monuments. Here is an hospital, free-school, and alms-houses, all well endowed. This parish is very extensive, being 12 miles in compass, and was formerly a corporation; it is now governed by two bailiffs. Market on Thursday, and its fairs are 12th May, and 24th October, which have long been noted for the quantities of hops, cheese, and sheep, annually sold here. It is a rectory, value 18*l.*

STOWTON, a parish in the hundred of Wonford, Devon, 3 miles from Exeter and 165 from London; containing 54 houses and 318 inhabitants.

STOW UPLAND, a hamet in the parish of Stow market, hundred of Stow, Suffolk, near Stow; containing 95 houses and 709 inhabitants.

STRADISHALL, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 4 miles from Clare and 59 from London; containing 65 houses and 460 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 11*s.*

STRADSET, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 3 miles from Downham, and 82 from London; containing 22 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

STRAFFORD, a village in the hundred of Coilifordtree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Dorchester, and 117 from London; containing 26 houses and 144 inhabitants.

STRAMSHALL, a township in the parish of Uttoxeter, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, situated on a rivulet, 1½ mile from Uttoxeter; containing 30 houses and 137 inhabitants.

STRADBROOKE, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 5 miles from Harleston, and 94 from London; containing 139 houses and 1215 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* and the patron is the bishop of Ely.

STRABANE, a town in the county of Tyrone and province of Ulster, Ireland, seated on the river Mourne, near Lough Foyle, 11 miles from Londonderry, and 101 from Dublin.

STRADBALLY, a town in Queen's county, province of Leinster, Ireland, 38 miles from Dublin.

STRAFFORTH, the name of a wapentake in the west riding of York, at the eastern extremity of the riding and borders of Notts.

STRANGFORD, a seaport town in the county of Down, province of Ulster, Ireland, seated on the west side of Lough Strangford, which here has a narrow entrance, 7 miles from Down, and 80 from Dublin. The bar or entrance of the bay is about 3 miles below the town, its whole length being 17 miles, and from 4 to 5 broad; containing 54 islands, 4 of them are called Swan Islands, from the number of Swans bred there. In these islands the burning of kelp employs a number of hands.

STRANRAWER, a royal borough in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, at the head of Loch Ryan, 6 miles from Port Patrick; containing 340 houses and 1722 inhabitants, many of whom are employed in some extensive cotton and linen manufactories. Many of the houses are well built, and it has a good harbour, with a custom-house. It is governed by a provost, 2 bailiffs, and a dean of guild, and joins with Wigton, Galloway, and Whithorn, in sending a member to the Imperial parliament.

STRANTON, a parish in Stockton ward, Durham, 2 miles from Hartlepool, and 260 from London; containing 74 houses and 325 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 16*s.*

STRATFIELD MORTIMER, a parish in the hundred of Theale, Berks, 10 miles from Basingstoke, and 55 from London; containing 128 houses and 694 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Eton College.

STRATFIELD SAY, a parish in the hundred of Holdshott, division of Basingstoke, Hants, 8 miles from Basingstoke, and 53 from London; containing 71 houses and 481 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 13*s.*

STRATFIELD TURGIS, another parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing, and containing 36 houses and 190 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

STRATFORD, a parish in the Tower division, Middlesex. See Bow.

STRATFORD, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 3 miles from Saxmundham, and 87 from London; containing 21 houses and 203 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the king.

Stratford, another parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, on the river Stoure, opposite to Manningtree, and 58¼ miles from London; containing 76 houses and 302 inhabitants. It is a great thoroughfare and has a considerable manufacture; fair 11th June. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* in the patronage of the king as duke of Lancaster.

Stratford, Old, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Henley in Arden, and 100 miles from London; containing 79 houses and 366 inhabitants.

Stratford-on-Avon, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 94 miles from London by Oxford, situated on the river Avon, over which is a bridge of brick and stone, having 14 arches over the stream, besides 5 dry: the town is well built, and contains 510 houses and 2418 inhabitants, of whom 1096 were employed in trade and manufacture. The church is a noble building, with a lofty spire, having 6 bells; its origin is very ancient, but many parts of it are of modern alteration. There is also a chapel here, the gift of sir Hugh Clapton, in the reign of Henry VII. This place is particularly celebrated for giving birth to William Shakespeare, who died in 1616, and has a neat monument in the church. The noted mulberry tree which grew in the gardens of the author, was destroyed by a successor who sold it to a carpenter in the town; who justly knowing the value of every thing appertaining to the celebrated author, ingeniously worked it into various ornaments and trinkets, many of whom were bought by the corporation, and distributed as compliments to different personages of renown. In September 1796, was the first commemoration of Shakespeare's Jubilee, where an amphitheatre was erected on the plan of Ranelagh, for the reception of its visitors from all parts of the kingdom. It lasted 3 days, during which time every species of entertainment was exhibited, such as concerts, oratorios, pageants, fire-works, illuminations, &c. In the Guildhall is a large room called Shakespeare's hall, adorned with 2 excellent paintings of Shakespeare and Garrick. It was rebuilt in 1768: over the hall is a free grammar-school; there are also several good alms-houses. The chief trade is in corn and malt to Warwick. Market on Thursday; its fairs are Thursday after Lady-day, 14th May, 25th September, and the Thursday se'nnight after. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* and the patron is the duke of Dorset.

Stratford, a hamlet in the parish of Sandy, hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, 2 miles from Biggleswade, and 47 from London.

Stratford, Fenny. See Fenny Stratford.

Stratford, Stony, a market town situated partly in the parish of Calverton, and partly in that of Woolverton, hundred of Newport, Bucks, situated on the banks of the Ouse, over which it has a stone bridge to Old Stratford, in Northampton. It is a long town containing 294 houses and 1653 inhabitants; and lies 7 miles from Fenny Stratford, and 52 from London. It had formerly 2 churches or rather chapels of ease, but the one on the east side of the road was destroyed by fire, in 1742, and has not been rebuilt, yet the tower is still standing; the other dedicated to St. Giles, was rebuilt in a neat modern manner, in 1777: here is a meeting-house, belonging to a considerable sect of Baptists. It is supposed to derive its name of Stony, to distinguish it from Fenny Stratford, and from its being situated on the Watling-street, Roman paved road. The only manufacture (if it may be so called) here, is that of lace making: but the market on Friday, is well supplied with provisions, and considerable quantities of corn is sold here, forming the principal traffic and support of the place. Fairs, 20th April, 2d August, 10th October, and 12th November, for provisions, cattle, pedlary, &c. and on the Friday before Old Michaelmas day, is a statute fair.

Stratford, Long, a hamlet in the parish of Westham, hundred of Beacontree, Essex, being the first village in the county from London, and joined to Stratford Bow, by a stone bridge over the Lea, said to be the first arched stone bridge erected in England. It contains 598 houses and 3456 inhabitants. A little to the south are the remains of a Cistertian monastry.—It is a curacy.

Stratford, Toney, a parish in the hundred of Cawdon and Cadworth, Wilts, 3 miles from Salisbury, and 83 from London; containing 30 houses and 119 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 12*l.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

Stratford-under-the-Castle, a parish in the hundred of Underditch, Wilts, 4 miles from Salisbury, and 84 from London; containing 62 houses and 352 inhabitants. In this parish is situated the borough of Old Sarum. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Salisbury.

Strath, a name in Scotland, signifying a large and broad valley in contradistinction to Glen, signifying a valley of smaller extent.

Strath, a parish in the Isle of Sky, shire of Inverness, Scotland; containing 333 houses and 1748 inhabitants; comprehending the small isles of Scalpa and Pabba.

Strathaen, or more generally Strachan, a parish in the shire of Kincardine, Scotland, in the road from Brechin to Inverness, on the north side of the Grampian ridge; and containing 164 houses and 730 inhabitants.

Strathaven, a market town in the parish of Avendale, shire of Lanark, Scotland, seated on the river Avon, 7 miles from Hamilton; containing 1610 inhabitants, having a considerable cotton-manufactory. It is a burgh of barony, under a bailie, nominated by the duke of Hamilton; here are considerable fairs in January, June, and November.

STRATHBLANE, a parish in a considerable valley of the same name, in the shire of Stirling, Scotland, 40 miles from Edinburgh; containing 112 houses and 734 inhabitants. Here are the remains of two ancient fortified castles, Mugdock and Duntreath.

STRATHBOGIE, a considerable district of Aberdeenshire, lying on each side the river Bogie.

STRATHDON, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, at the western extremity of the county, 50 miles from Aberdeen; it was formerly called Invernochtie, from the situation of the church at the confluence of the Nochtie with the Don. It contains 286 houses and 1354 inhabitants. The ancient castle of Curgaff, on the road from Edinburgh to Fort George, once the hunting seat of the earl of Man, is now a small military post.

STRATHMARTIN, a parish in the shire of Forfar, on the banks of the Dighty, 4 miles from Dundee; containing 98 houses and 503 inhabitants.

STRATHMIGLO, a parish in the shire of Fife, lying on one of the small streams of the Eden, 4 miles from Falkirk, and 15 from Cupar; containing 311 houses and 1629 inhabitants.

STRATHMORE, the name of a valley which crosses Scotland from Stonehaven, in Kincardine, in the east, to the district of Cowal, in Argyle, on the west.

STRATTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, ½ mile from Biggleswade, and 44½ from London; containing 8 houses and 64 inhabitants.

STRATTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Cornwall, 7 miles from Holdsworthy, and 221 from London; containing 191 houses and 960 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king. Market on Tuesday and Saturday. Fair 19th May, 8th November, 11th December.

STRATTON, a parish in the hundred of St. George, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Dorchester, and 122 from London; containing 32 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STRATTON, a parish in the hundred of Crowthorne and Minety, Gloucester, 1¼ mile from Cirencester, and 90 from London; containing 33 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.*

STRATTON, a parish in the hundred of Highworth, Wilts, 3 miles from Swindon, and 86 from London; containing 117 houses and 596 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of Merton College, Oxford.

STRATTON AUDLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bicester, hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 2 miles from Bicester, and 57 from London; containing 69 houses and 379 inhabitants.

STRATTON-ON-FOSS, a parish in the hundred of Kilmersdon, Somerset, 7 miles from Frome, and 112 from London; containing 50 houses and 267 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the prince of Wales.

STRATTON ST. MARY'S, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 9½ miles from Norwich, and 100¼ from London; containing 98 houses and 549 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* in the patronage of Gonvil and Caius College, Cambridge.

STRATTON ST. MICHAEL'S, another parish in the same hundred, and 1 mile farther; containing 25 houses and 189 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

STRATTON STRAWLESS, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aylesham, and 115 from London; containing 25 houses and 158 inhabitants.

STREAT, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 2 miles from Glastonbury, and 127 from London; containing 87 houses and 540 habitants. It is a rectory, rated at 24*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* with Walton chapel annexed, in the patronage of lord Weymouth.

STREATHAM, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 3 miles from Ely, and 63 from London; containing 104 houses and 636 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* with Thetford chapel annexed, and the patron is the bishop of Ely, STREATHAM, a parish in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, 5½ miles from London, on the road to Croydon; containing 386 houses and 2357 inhabitants; including the hamlet of Upper Tooting. The church is a new building, and contains several curious epitaphs; formerly this parish was noted for a mineral spring of a cathartic quality. In this neighbourhood are many handsome seats. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

STREATLEY, a parish in the hundred of Flitt, Bedford, 5 miles from Luton, and 36 from London; containing 42 houses and 209 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* united with Sharpenhoe.

STREATLEY, a parish in the hundred of Moreton, Berks, 9 miles from Reading, and 46 from London; containing 106 houses and 556 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* in the the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

STREAT, a parish in the hundred of the same name, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 4 miles from Lewes, and 45 from London; containing 19 houses and 112 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*

STREETHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Littlebury, hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 3½ miles from Saffron Walden, and 46 from London; containing 7 houses and 60 inhabitants.

STRELITZ, a village in the parish of Cargill, shire of Perth, Scotland, consisting of about 80 houses, originally intended for discharged soldiers, at the conclusion of the German war.

STRENSALL, a parish in the liberties of the city of York, east riding of York, 5¼ miles from York; containing 61 houses and 297 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof, in York cathedral.

STRENSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 5 miles from Pershore, and 108 from London; containing 63 houses and 286 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

STRETFORD, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Hereford, 4 miles from Leominster, and 141 from London; containing 9 houses and 44 inhabitants.

STRETFORD, a township and chapelry in the parish of Manchester, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Manchester; containing 273 houses and 1477 inhabitants.

STRETLEY, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Notts, 4 miles from Nottingham, and 128 from London; containing 47 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STRETTON, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 6 miles from Chesterfield, and 147 from London; containing 91 houses and 440 inhabitants.

STRETTON, a parish in the hundred of Alstoe, Rutland, 8 miles from Stamford; containing 33 houses and 152 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

STRETTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Penkridge, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 3 miles from Penkridge, and 126 from London; containing 48 houses and 257 inhabitants.

STRETTON, a township in the parish of Burton-on-Trent, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2 miles from Burton, and 132 from London; containing 66 houses and 330 inhabitants.

STRETTON, CHURCH. See CHURCH STRETTON.

STRETTON-ON-FOSS, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 3 miles from Shipston-on-Stour, and 66 from London; containing 65 houses and 291 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

STRETTON-UNDER-FOSS, a hamlet in the parish of Monks Kirby, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 7 miles from Rugby, and 91 from London; containing 46 houses and 215 inhabitants.

STRETTON BASKERVILLE, a hamlet in the parish of Burton Hastings, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, near Nuneaton; containing 15 houses and 81 inhabitants.

STRETTON-ON-DUNSMOOR, another parish in the same hundred of Warwick, situated on Dunsmoor-heath, 6 miles from Rugby, and 6 from Coventry; containing 135 houses and 634 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, not in charge.

STRETTON, the name of two hamlets in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 5 miles from Leicester, the one situated in the parish of Glen; containing 3 houses and 22 inhabitants; the other, in the parish of Norton, containing 24 houses and 97 inhabitants.

STRETTON-LE-FIELD, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gresley, Derby, 8 miles from Burton, and 120 from London; containing 55 houses and 212 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

STRETTON GRANSON, a parish in the hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 6½ miles from Ledbury, and 127 from London; containing 25 houses and 178 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* with Asperden chapel annexed.

STRETTON SUGWAS, a parish in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 4 miles from Hereford, and 139 from London; containing 27 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

STRICKLAND, a parish in the hundred of Pimperne, division of Blandford, Dorset, 4 miles from Blandford, and 107 from London; containing 49 houses and 306 inhabitants.

STRICKEN, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 15 miles from Peterhead; containing 370 houses and 1520 inhabitants. It is seated on both sides the river Ugie.

STRICKATHROW, a parish in the shire of Forfar, in the vale of Strathmore, 5 miles from Brechine; containing 125 houses and 593 inhabitants.

STRICKLAND KETTLE, & STRICKLAND ROGER, two hamlets in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 3½ miles from Kendal, and 263 from London; the former containing 48 houses and 269 inhabitants; the latter, 46 houses and 250 inhabitants.

STRICKLAND, GREAT and LITTLE, two townships in the parish of Morland, in West ward Westmoreland, 6 miles from Penrith, and 280 from London; containing 60 houses and 309 inhabitants.

STRINGSTON, a parish in the hundred of Cannington, Somerset, 6 miles from Stowey, and 152 from London; containing 20 houses and 120 inhabitants.

STRIXTON, a parish in the hundred of Higham-Ferrers, Northampton, 4½ miles from Wellingborough; containing 5 houses and 57 inhabitants.

STROMA, a small island in the Pentland Frith, 3 miles from the shore of Caithness; it is about 1 mile long, and ½ mile broad; it contains 170 inhabitants.

STROMNESS, a considerable town in the island of Pomona, Orkney; containing 222 houses and 1344 inhabitants. It has an excellent harbour, and a considerable foreign trade.

STRONSEY, one of the Orkney Isles, about

7½ miles over; containing 156 houses and 924 inhabitants. There are the remains of 4 chapels on the island.

STROUD, a town and parish in the hundred of Shamwell, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, separated from Rochester, by the river Medway, over which it has a stone bridge of 11 arches. It is 28½ miles from London, and contains 196 houses and 1172 inhabitants. Its church is a handsome building, consisting of a nave and two aisles, 100 feet in length. In the south aisle is a stone chapel, the pavement of which contains several specimens of Mosaic work. The altar is a beautiful piece of Wainscoat. The remains of an ancient mansion of the Knights Templars, is still discernible in a farm-house now called the Temple-house, on the banks of the river, ½ mile from the church. Fair 28th August. It is a curacy, under the dean and chapter of Rochester. Hasted's Kent.

STROUD, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bray, Berks, 4 miles from Maidenhead, and 26 from London; containing 11 houses and 164 inhabitants.

STROUD, a market town and parish in the hundred of Bisley, Gloucester, situated on an eminence near the Stroud-water, which empties itself into the Severn, 10 miles from Gloucester, and 102 from London; containing 1033 houses and 5432 inhabitants; of whom 3711 were employed in trade and manufacture, particularly in the clothing branch, being long celebrated for the excellence of its scarlet dye, attributed to the quality of the water; on the banks of the river are several fulling mills. The Severn canal passes this town to Cirencester, and joins the Thames at Lechlade. The church is a good building, having a high spire at the west end, and a tower in the middle. The market is on Friday; and its fairs are, 12th May, and 21st August. It was anciently only a chapelry to Bisley, but is now a distinct curacy.

STROUDEND, a small hamlet in the parish of Painswick, Gloucester.

STROWAY, a river in Monmouthshire, which falls into the Ebwith, at Kirton.

STROXTON, a parish in the hundreds of Winnibriggs and Threw, Kesteven, Lincoln, near Grantham; containing 20 houses and 95 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

STRUBBY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Alford, and 144 from London; containing 35 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STRUMPSHAW, a parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 115 from London; containing 50 houses and 226 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

STURTON, a parish in the hundred of Lovedon, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Newark, and 114 from London; containing 21 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

STUDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 4 miles from Dunstable, and 30 from London; containing 22 houses and 99 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

STUDHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkhampton, Cumberland.

STUDLAND, a parish in the hundred of Rowbarrow, division of Blandford, Dorset, 3 miles from Corfe Castle, and 118 from London, being at the extremity of the Isle of Purbeck: in the neighbourhood are several curious barrows; the most remarkable is the Agglestone, or Stone Barrow, covering about an acre of ground; it is 90 feet high, and 60 feet in diameter at top: the Parish contains 73 houses and 332 inhabitants.—The church is an ancient building, and is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.* Studland bay extends to Pool harbour, and is a very safe anchorage for vessels not exceeding 14 feet draught.

STUDLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Kensworth, hundred of Dacorum, Herts, 9 miles from St. Alban's, and 29 from London; containing 39 houses and 205 inhabitants.

STUDLEY, a township in the parish of Oakley, on the borders of Buckingham and Oxford, 7 miles from Thame, and 53 from London; containing 15 houses and 90 inhabitants, in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, and 64 houses and 283 inhabitants, with the chapel, in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford.

STUDLEY, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, on the river Arrow, 4 miles from Alcester; containing 189 houses and 1037 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STUDLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Ripon, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 1 mile from Ripon, and 221 from London; containing 20 houses and 145 inhabitants.

STUKELEY, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 2 miles from Huntingdon, and 61 from London; containing 60 houses and 320 inhabitants.

STUKELEY, LITTLE, another parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 47 houses and 233 inhabitants; here passes the Roman road called Ermine-street.

STUNTLEY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 1¼ mile from Ely, and 65 from London; containing 23 houses and 125 inhabitants.

STURCHBURY, a hamlet in the parish of Helmdon, hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, near Banbury; containing 4 houses and 30 inhabitants.

STURMER, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, near Haverhill, 57 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.*

STURMINSTER MARSHAL, a parish in the hundred of Cogdean, division of Shaston, Dorset, situated on the river Stour, 4 miles from Wimborn Minster, and 104 from London; containing 118 houses and 678 inhabitants. The church is a large ancient structure, near the river; formerly it was a market town. It is a vicarage, value 31*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of Eton college, with Corfe Mullen and Lytchet Minster chapels, annexed.

STURMINSTER NEWTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, and division of Sherborn, Dorset, 8 miles from Blandford, on the banks of the Stour, and the Somerset and Dorset canals, and 111 from London; containing 308 houses and 1406 inhabitants; a number of whom are employed in the manufacture of white baize. The houses are old low buildings, those in the market place excepted; the market-house near the centre of the town is a lofty oblong building, the upper part forming warehouses, and the under part butcher's shambles; there is a good stone bridge of six arches over the river: on the opposite side formerly stood a castle. The church is very spacious, at the west-end of which has been erected a very neat and commodious gallery, entirely for the use of the choir. The market is on Thursday; its fairs are, 12th May, and 24th October. It is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* with Bagbery chapel annexed.—Hutchin's Dorset.

STURRY, a parish in the hundred of Bleangate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, on the river Stour, 2½ miles from Canterbury, and 58 from London; containing 130 houses and 657 inhabitants. Over the river is an elegant stone bridge, erected in 1777. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

STURSTON, a township in the parish of Ashborne, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 1 mile from Ashborn, and 139 from London; containing 76 houses and 365 inhabitants.

STURSTON, a parish in the hundred of Grimshoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Thetford; containing now only 4 houses and 28 inhabitants.

STURTLOW, a hamlet in the parish of Bugden, Hunts.

STURTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Horncastle, and 144 from London; containing 20 houses and 108 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

STURTON, a parish in the hundred of Well, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 8 miles from Lincoln and 142 from London; containing 51 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

STURTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kinfare, Stafford, seated on the Stour, 3 miles from Stourbridge.

STURTON-IN-THE-CLAY, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 5 miles from Retford, and 150 from London; containing 111 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of York.

STURTON, a hamlet in the parish of Garforth, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Leeds, and 190 from London; containing 13 houses and 64 inhabitants.

STUSTON, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Eye, and 92 from London; containing 31 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

STUTTERTON, a parish in the hundred of Kirton, and parts of Holland, Lincoln, 9 miles from Spalding, and 110 from London; containing 155 houses and 737 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 23*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

STUTTON, a township in the parish of Tadcaster, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, near Tadcaster; containing 47 houses and 252 inhabitants.

STYFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Bywell St. Andrew's, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 2 miles from Corbridge, and 276 from London; containing 22 houses and 111 inhabitants.

STYRRUP, a township in the parish of Harworth, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 3 miles from Bawtry, and 153 from London; containing 69 houses and 307 inhabitants.

SUBEDGE ASTON, and WESTON. See ASTON and WESTON SUBEGE, Gloucester.

SUBERTHWAITE, a hamlet in the parish of Ulverstone, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, near Ulverstone, and 270 miles from London; containing 20 houses and 90 inhabitants.

SUCKLEY, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 8 miles from Worcester, and 120 from London; containing 84 houses and 509 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 26*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* with Lulsey chapel annexed.

SUDBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Huxloe, Northampton, 3 miles from Thrapston, and 78 from London; containing 51 houses and 241 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 10*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of London.

SUDBOURN, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, near Orford, 87½ miles from London; containing 43 houses and 441 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with Orford chapel annexed.

SUDBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Lincoln, and 137 from London; containing 16 houses and 86 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

SUDBURY, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, on the river Dove, 5 miles from Uttoxeter, and 133½ from London; containing 76 houses and 536 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

SUDBURY, a hamlet in the parish of Tiddenham, Gloucester.

SUDBURY, a borough and market town, consisting of 3 parishes, in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, situated on the river Stour, 14 miles from Bury St. Edmund's, and 56 from London; containing 594 houses and 3283 inhabitants; of whom 625 were employed in trade and manufactures. The streets are tolerably well built, and there are three handsome churches; over the river is a well built stone bridge. The traffic of the town has much encreased, since the Stour has been made navigable for barges to Manningtree; it is said to have been one of the first towns in which the woollen manufactory was introduced, but it is now gone to decay. It first returned members to parliament, in 1559; and now sends two chosen by those who are free of the borough, the number of voters being about 720. It is governed by a mayor and 6 aldermen, and 24 common councilmen. Market, on Saturday. Fairs, 12th March, and 10th July.

SUDELEY, a hamlet in the parish of Winchcombe, hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 1 mile from Winchcombe, and 95 from London; containing 37 houses and 247 inhabitants.

SUDGROVE, a hamlet to, and 1 mile distant from, the city of Gloucester.

SUFFIELD, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Walsham, and 124 from London; containing 38 houses and 179 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.*

SUFFIELD, a hamlet in the parish of Hackness, in the wapentake of Whitby Strand, north riding of York, 4 miles from Scarborough, and 220 from London; containing 21 houses and 110 inhabitants.

SUFFOLK, a maratime county of England, bounded on the north by Norfolk, on the east by the German Ocean, on the south by Essex, from which it is divided by the river Stour, and on the west by Cambridge. Its shape is something in the form of a crescent, its diameter from north to south is about 30 miles, and from east to west 58; the whole area containing 1566 square statute miles, equal to 1,002,240 acres, having 600,000 in pasturage, and 250,000 arable. It is divided into 21 hundreds, viz. Babergh, Blackburn, Blything, Bosmere and Claydon, Carlford, Colnies, Cosford, Hartismere, Hoxne, Lackford, Loes, Mutford and Lothingland, Plomsgate, Resbridge, Samford, Stow, Thingoe, Thedwestry, Thredling, Wangford, and Wilford. It has seven boroughs; Aldborough, Dunwich, Eye, Ipswich, Orford, Sudbury, and St. Edmund's Bury; and 21 other market towns; viz. Beccles, Bildeston, Brandon, Botesdale, Bungay, Clare, Debenham, Framlingham, Hadley, Haverhill, Ixworth, Lavenham, Lowestoff, Mendlesham, Mildenhall, Needham, Neyland, Saxmundham, Southwold, Stow Market, and Woodbridge; the whole containing 32,253 houses and 210,431 inhabitants, viz. 101,091 males and 109,340 females, of whom 34,065 were employed in trade, &c. and 55,744 in agriculture. The amount of money levied for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 149,646*l.* being at the rate of 4*s.* 10½*d.* in the pound. The assessment under the property tax act, in 1806, was 1,731,765*l.* The average scale of mortality for 10 years, appears to have been as 1 to 54 of the existing population. Its rivers are the Waveney, Little Ouse, Stour, Deben, and Larke; the Stour is the principal, rising on the western border and passing Sudbury and Manningtree, falls into the sea at Harwich, where it meets the Orwell, and forms the harbour of Harwich. The Deben rises near Debenham, passes Woodbridge, and falls into the ocean a little to the north of Harwich. The Larke rises in the south-west, passes Bury and Mildenhall, and joins the Great Ouse, near the north-west angle of the county. The Waveney and Little Ouse, have been mentioned under Norfolk. Suffolk is in general a level country; bordering on the sea coast, it is mostly sandy; and is distributed into arable, heath, and Marshland. The arable produces excellent barley, and the heath and marshes feed vast flocks of cattle. The inland part of the county is in general a strong clayey loam, and is generally fertile; that part called High Suffolk, is extremely stiff and tenacious, and from this tract much butter and cheese is furnished to London and other markets, but the cheese is reckoned the worst in England; besides grain, great quantities of cabbages are raised for the food of cows, also hemp and some hops.—The north-western part of the county is open and sandy, and is chiefly in warrens and sheep walks, interspersed with some poor arable land. In this county the culture of turnips has of late prevailed as much as in Norfolk; the breed of the draught horses is excellent, the cows are the hornless or polled kind, reckoned to give more milk than any others of the size in England. The sheep are chiefly of the Norfolk breed. The sea shore is chiefly composed of loamy cliffs, continually falling down, and creating great changes on the coast, and even whole towns and villages have been washed away by the sea. Suffolk was formerly as distinguished for its trade and manufactures as for its agriculture, but these have long been on the decline; some thin stuffs are still made here, such as says and bunting for naval colours, and crapes. In general this county enjoys a very healthy air. It is divided into two parts, the one called the Franchise or Liberty of St. Edmund's Bury, being the western part; and the east part called Guildable-land; each part furnishing a distinct grand jury, to the county assize. Under the Romans, Suffolk was a part of the Published January 1st 1808 by R. Phillips Bridge Street Blackfriars London.

Cooper del. et sculp.

taining 141 houses and 715 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*

SUNK ISLAND, in the river Humber, south east of Hull, east riding of York, formed by a sand-bank, about 9 miles in circumference. About 2000 acres are enclosed, and produce grain; here are 4 houses and a chapel.

SUNNING. See SONNING, Berks.

SUNNING, the name of a hundred in Berks, lying at the south eastern side of the county, including the western part of Windsor forest

SUNNINGHILL, a parish in the hundred of Cookham, Berks, 5 miles from Staines and 22 from London; containing 138 houses and 700 inhabitants. It is a very pleasant village, in the most delightful part of the forest, and some wells in the neighbourhood, neatly fitted up, are much frequented during the summer season. Here are many handsome villas. It is a curacy, in the patronage of St. John's College, Cambridge.

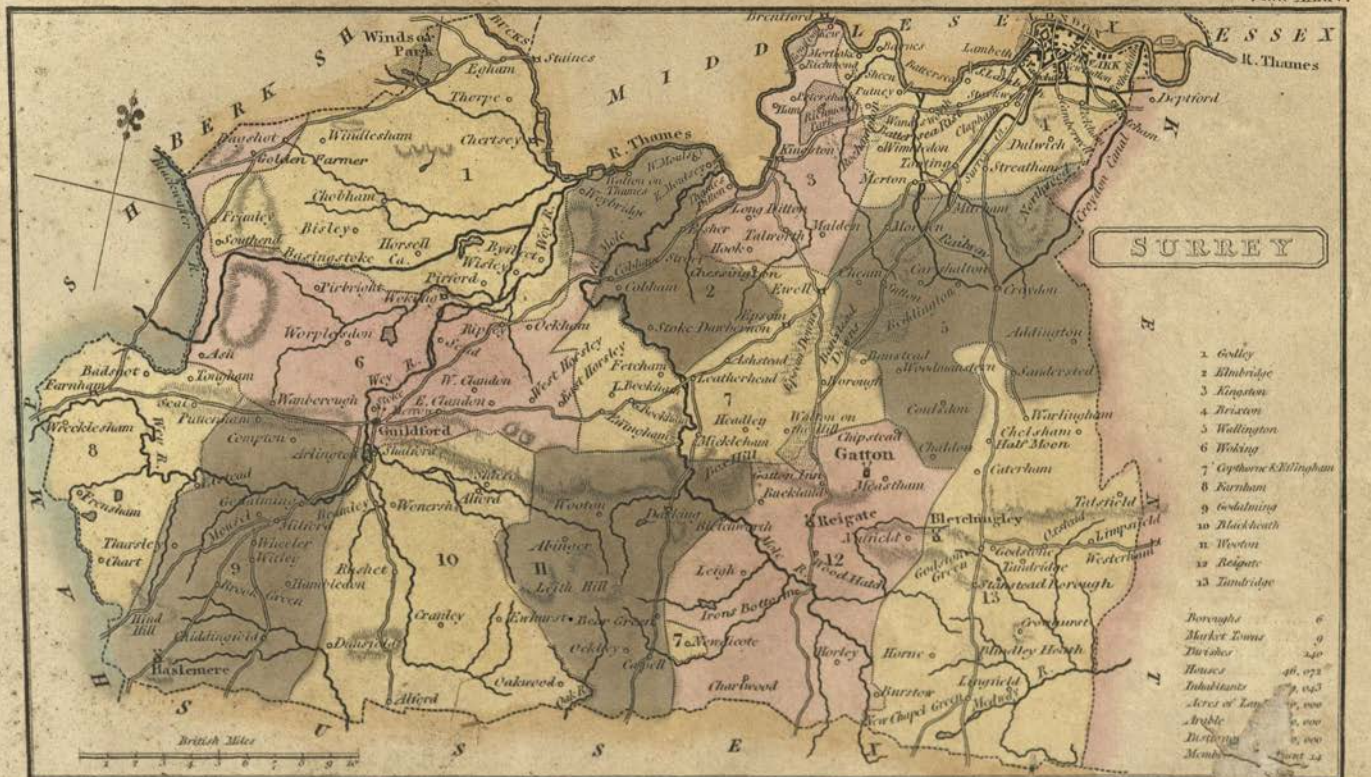
SUNNINGWELL, a parish in the hundred of Hormer, Berks, on the banks of the Thames, 2 miles from Abingdon and 57 from London; containing 34 houses and 197 inhabitants. A part of this parish is situated on the opposite side of the river, in Oxfordshire, being connected by a wooden bridge. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

SURFLEET, a parish in the hundred of Kirton, parts of Holland, Lincoln, 4 miles from Spalding and 105 from London; containing 123 houses and 609 inhabitants. The church is a handsome stone building; here is one of the largest heronries in the kingdom, and these birds are sold at the Spalding market. It is a rectory, value 27*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

SURLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 5 miles from Norwich and 110 from London; containing 46 houses and 308 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SURRY, or SURREY, an inland county of England, bounded on the north by Middlesex, and a part of Bucks, from which it is separated by the Thames; on the west by Berks and Hants; on the south by Sussex, and on the east by Kent. Its shape is oblong, being about 37 miles long and 27 broad, containing an area of 811 square statute miles, or 519,040 square acres, having 80,000 arable, 300,000 pasturage, and 90,000 uncultivated. It is divided into 13 hundreds, viz. Blackheath, Brixton, Copthorne and Effingham, Elmbridge, Farnham, Godalming, Godley and Chertsey, Kingston, Reigate, Tandridge, Wallington, Woking and Wooton; has 6 boroughs, Gatton, Haslemere, Bletchingley, Guildford, Reigate and Southwark; and 8 market towns, Chertsey, Croydon, Dorking, Epsom, Ewell, Farnham, Kingston and Woking, and 140 parishes; the whole containing 46,072, houses and 269,043 inhabitants, viz. 127,138 males and 141,905 females, of whom 42,865 were employed in trade and manufacture, and 2746 in agriculture. The amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 179,005*l.* at the rate 5*s.* 8*d.* in the pound. The assessment under the act granting the tax on property in 1806, was 3,646,783*l.* the average scale of mortality from the registered burials in 10 years, appears to have been as 1 to 41 of the existing population. Its principal river is the Wey, which rises in Hampshire, and passing Guildford, joins the Thames near Chertsey. The Mole, rising on the borders of Sussex, flows through the centre of the county, and also joins the Thames, a little below the former; near Bexhill, it sinks under ground, and rises again near 3 miles distant. Numerous rivulets from the west and south join the Wey, and from the south-east the Mole. The Wandel, a small stream, rises at Croydon, and enters the Thames at Wandsworth; it is remarkable for the numerous calico and bleachfields on its banks. On the sides of the Thames, there is a range of beautiful meadows, interspersed with numerous villas and pleasure grounds. Across the county runs an irregular ridge of hills, abounding in chalk, which once intermixed with wide open downs and sandy heaths, afforded excellent sheep pasture. Some hilly barren ground also appears at the north-western corner, towards Bagshot-heath; all these parts, however, afford intervals of fertile and well cultivated vales. Beneath the hills to the south and east, lies Holmsdale, a rough and woody tract, extending into Kent, in which the red deer are still found; the southern skirt of the county is well watered, and varied with arable, pasture and wood-land. The proportion of waste land is very great, although daily improvements are making, and many commons brought into cultivation. The rearing of house lambs for the London market, is carried to a great extent, and on the western border some hops are grown. The air is pleasant and healthy, except towards the heart of the county, where it is bleak. Surry was anciently the territory of the Regni, and under the Saxons, it was a part of the south Saxon kingdom, and is now included in the Home Circuit, the provinces of Canterbury and diocese of Winchester; it sends 14 members to parliament, two for each of the boroughs, and two for the county.—Manning's Surry.

SUSSEX, a maritime county of England, bounded on the north by Surry and Kent, on the south by the British channel, which, together with Kent, form its narrow eastern boundary, and on the west by Hampshire. Its extreme length from east to west is 70 miles, and from north to south about 28, containing an area of [illegible] statute miles, equal to 935,040 square acres, having 345,000 in pasturage, and 280,000 arable; it is divided into six rapes, or divisions in nearly equal parts from north to south, viz. Arundel, Bramber, Chichester, Hastings, Lewes, and Pevensy; and is sub-



SURREY
SURREY
SURREY

SUSSEX
Cities
Boroughs
Market Towns
Parishes
Houses
Inhabitants 169, 311
Acres of Land 956, 000
Arable 300, 000
Pasturage 350, 000
Members of Parliament 18
Rapes.
1. Chichester
2. Arundel
3. Bramber
4. Lewes
5. Pevensey
6. Hastings
British Miles.
Haslemere
Petersfield
Midhurst
Chichester
Arundel
Steyning
Horsham
Rudgwick
East Grinstead
Tunbridge Wells
Frant
Wadhurst
Mayfield
Rotherfield
Crowborough
Hartfield
Withyham
Eridge Green
Tidehurst
Mountfield Battle
Hastings
Rye
Winchelsea
Seaford
Lewes
Brighthelmston
Shoreham
Worthing
Arundel
Chichester
Bognor
Selsey Bill
Beachy Head
Rother R.
Ouse R.
Arun R.
Adur R.
Published January 1, 1808, by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars, London.
Cooper del. et sculpt.

divided into numerous small hundreds, containing one city, Chichester, 12 boroughs, viz. Arundel, Bramber, Horsham, East Grinstead, Lewes, Midhurst, Shoreham and Steyning, and fair of the Cinque ports, Hastings, Rye, Seaford and Winchelsea. The other market-towns are Brighton, Cuckfield, Hailsham and Petworth. The whole county contains 342 parishes, 25,272 houses and 159,311, inhabitants, viz. 73,797 males, and 80,514 females, of whom 19,608 were employed in trade and manufacture, and 38,923 in agriculture. The amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 206,591*l.* at the rate of 8*l.* 7½*d.* in the pound, and the amount of the assessment under the act granting a tax on property in 1806, was 1,436,513*l.* The average scale of mortality taken for 10 years, from the registered burials, appears to have been as one to 42 of the existing population. Its principal rivers are the Arun, Adur, Ouse, Rother, Rye, and Cockmere. The Arun rises on the western border, and falls into the sea, near Arundel, parallel to which flows the Adur, which falls into the sea near New Shoreham; the small river Ouse passes Lewes and falls into the sea at Seaford; the Rother forms Rye harbour, and separates the county from Kent; the northern and middle part of the county was formerly entirely covered with forests, and even at present some parts thereof are well furnished with timber. The soil is generally clay, intermixed with sandy wastes; a ridge of hills running in a north-western direction, is composed of grit-stone, lime-stone, and iron-ore. A narrow slip below the middle is a rich arable tract, to which succeeds the Downs; a range of green open hills of a Chalky soil, affording excellent pasturage for sheep, noted for the South Down mutton; towards the sea it inclines to marsh land. This county was formerly famous for iron-works, but from the consumption of charcoal, necessary for smelting the ore, on the decay of the woods, these works are now almost entirely abandoned, and are now migrated to the counties abounding both with coal and ore. Its principal products are, corn, hops, wool, cattle and timber. Oxen are more used for draught in Sussex than in any other county. The chalk hills produce great quantities of beech wood. The air of the county is various, being reckoned agueish towards the coast, but this chiefly affects strangers, altogether it may be called healthy. In ancient times it was inhabited by the Regni, during the Heptarchy it was inhabited by the South Saxons, is now included in the Home Circuit, the province of Canterbury, and diocese of Chichester, and sends 28 members to parliament.—Young's Sussex.

Sustead, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 7 miles from Aylsham, and 124 from London; containing 24 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Sutcombe, a parish in the hundred of Blacktorrington, Devon, 4 miles from Holdsworthy, and 218 from London; containing 52 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 10*s* 7*d.*

Sutherland, the most northerly shire of Scotland, extending the whole breadth of the kingdom, bounded on the north-east by Caithness, on the east and south-east by the German ocean, and the Frith of Dornoch, on the south and south-west by Ross-shire, on the west by the Atlantic ocean, and on the north by the North sea. It extends, in length 80 miles, and in breadth 40. It contains only one town and borough, Dornoch; 13 parishes; 4315 houses and 23,117 inhabitants, viz. 10,425 males, and 12,692 females, of whom 670 were employed in trade. The whole face of the county is mountainous and rocky, partly covered by forests, and partly bleak and barren heaths; the vallies are occupied by numerous lakes and rivers; the coast for the most part is bold and rocky, indented by numerous extensive bays; as ploughs are here useless, the chief instrument of culture is the caschrom, or crooked spade. The principal crops are oats and potatoes alternately; here are 3 great deer forests, and other kinds of game are found in great plenty. This county gives title of earl to the Sutherland family, and sends one member to the imperial parliament; there are no freeholders in the county, all the voters and proprietors holding of the family of Sutherland.

Sutterby, a decayed parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Spilsby; containing 5 houses and 28 inhabitants.

Sutton, a parish in the hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, 2½ miles from Biggleswade and 47½ from London; containing 68 houses and 301 inhabitants.

Sutton, a parish in the hundred of Ock, Berks, 3 miles from Abingdon and 51 from London; containing 177 houses and 1072 inhabitants.

Sutton, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 7 miles from the city of Ely and 61 from London; containing 153 houses and 944 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 10*l.* with Mepall chapel annexed, and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Ely.

Sutton, a village in the hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 8 miles from Northwich and 180 from London; containing 35 houses and 223 inhabitants.

Sutton, Great and Little, two hamlets in the parish of Eastham, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 7½ miles from Chester and 187 from London; containing 48 houses and 319 inhabitants.

Sutton, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 3 miles from Chesterfield and 168 from London; containing 96 houses and 515 inhabitants.

Sutton, a hamlet in the parish of Great Stambridge, hundred of Rochford, Essex, near Rochford; containing 9 houses and 65 inhabitants.

SUTTON, commonly called Sutton-under-Brails, a parish in the hundred of Westmoreland Gloucester, being a detached part of the county, surrounded by Warwickshire, 4 miles from Shipston-on-Stour and 60 from London; containing 43 houses and 208 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of London.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Cornilo, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 4 miles from Dover and 70 from London; containing 21 houses and 134 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 1 mile from Prescott and 197 from London; containing 336 houses and 1776 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Broughton Ashley, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, near Lutterworth.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay divison, Lincoln, 4 miles from Alford and 144 from London; containing 20 houses and 120 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk, 10 miles from Norwich, and 119 from London; containing 42 houses and 267 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of lord Abergavenny.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Caister, hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, adjoining Caister; containing 18 houses and 110 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Heston, hundred of Isleworth, Middlesex, near Hounslow.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Manningtree and 68 from London; containing 49 houses and 406 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Wilford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Woodbridge and 78 from London; containing 57 houses and 425 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Wallington, Surry, 3 miles from Croydon and 11½ from London; containing 93 houses and 579 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Rotherbridge, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 4 miles from Petworth and 53 from London; containing 47 houses and 303 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Tenbury, hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, adjoining to Tenbury; containing 36 houses and 214 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a parish in the hundred of Wilton Beacon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 5 miles from Pocklington and 197 from London; containing 43 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is commonly called Sutton-on-Derwent, being seated on that river, and is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

SUTTON, a parish in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 2½ miles from Hull and 177 from London; containing 196 houses and 1569 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SUTTON, a township in the parish of Felixkirk, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Thirsk and 224 from London; containing 62 houses and 281 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 8 miles from York and 207 from London; containing 80 houses and 449 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kirklinton, Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 10 miles from Aldborough and 218 from London; containing 19 houses and 110 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish of Brotherton, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Pontefract and 181 from London; containing 12 houses and 52 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a township in the parish of Burghwallis, Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Doncaster and 168 from London; containing 36 houses and 179 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a township in the parish of Kildwick, Staincliff wapentake, west riding of York, 3¼ miles from Skipton and 213 from London; containing 150 houses and 809 inhabitants.

SUTTON, a hamlet in the parish and liberties of Ripon, west riding of York, near Ripon; containing 18 houses and 103 inhabitants.

SUTTON, the name of a lathe in Kent, being the western division of the county, bordering on Surry.

SUTTON, ASHFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Notts, 3½ miles from Mansfield and 140 from London; containing 491 houses and 2801 inhabitants, of whom 917 were employed in trade. It is a curacy.

SUTTON-AT-HONE, a parish in the hundred of Axton, and giving name to the Lathe, in which it is situated, in Kent, 2 miles from Dartford and 17 from London; containing 126 houses and 690 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

SUTTON BASSET, a hamlet in the parish of Ashley, hundred of Corby, Northampton, 3 miles from Market Harborough, and 80 from London; containing 36 houses and 189 inhabitants.

SUTTON BENGER, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, 4 miles from Chippenham, and 97 from London; containing 86 houses and 420 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Sarum.

SUTTON BINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Houndborough, Somerset, near Crewkerne; containing only 7 houses and 65 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

SUTTON, BISHOP'S, a parish in the hundred of the same name, and division of Alton, Hants, 1 mile from Alresford and 56 from London; containing 60 houses and 379 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* with Ropley chapel annexed.

SUTTON BONNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 9 miles from Nottingham and 118 from London; containing 98 houses and 790 inhabitants.

SUTTON, CHENEY, a township and Chapelry, in the parish of Market Bosworth, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 4 miles from Hinckley and 103½ from London; containing 63 houses and 316 inhabitants.

SUTTON COLDFIELD, a market-town and parish, in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 7 miles from Warwick and 111½ from London; containing 565 houses and 2847 inhabitants, of whom 508 were employed in trade. The parish is very extensive, but the town is situated in a very bleak and barren tract of land. It has a good church, with a square tower, containing 6 bells. The town is governed by a warden and ten aldermen. Its chase (the remains of a forest) is an extensive tract. The market is on Monday, and its fairs are Trinity Monday, and 8th of November. It is a rectory, value 33*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

SUTTON COURTNEY, a parish in the hundred of Ock, Berks, 2 miles from Abingdon and 54 from London; containing 141 houses and 874 inhabitants, exclusive of the Wick. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor, with Appleford chapel annexed.

SUTTON DOWNS, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 2 miles from Macclesfield and 165 from London; containing 347 houses and 1739 inhabitants.

SUTTON, EAST, a hamlet in the parish of Sutton Valence, hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 4½ miles from Maidstone and 39 from London; containing 45 houses and 312 inhabitants.

SUTTON, FREENE, a hamlet in the parish of Sutton St. Michaels, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, near Hereford; containing 10 houses and 48 inhabitants.

SUTTON, LONG, a parish in the hundred of Somerton, Somerset, 2½ miles from Somerton; containing 132 houses and 735 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Wells.

SUTTON MADDOCK, a parish in the hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, 6 miles from Bridgnorth and 145 from London; containing 70 houses and 400 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* united with Kemberton.

SUTTON MALLETT, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 2 miles from Bridgwater and 139 from London; containing 17 houses and 151 inhabitants.

SUTTON MANDEVILLE, a parish in the hundred of Cawden and Cadworth, Wilts, 6 miles from Wilton and 90 from London; containing 51 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

SUTTON MONTIS, a parish in the hundred of Catash, Somerset, 4 miles from Castle Cary and 120 from London; containing 24 houses and 147 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

SUTTON-ON-LOUND, a parish in Scrooby liberties, Nottingham, 3 miles from Retford and 148 from London; containing 53 houses and 283 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* united with Scrooby.

SUTTON-ON-TRENT, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 8 miles from Newark and 132 from London; containing 125 houses and 614 inhabitants.

SUTTON-ON-THE-HILL, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 6 miles from Derby and 130 from London; containing 25 houses and 125 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

SUTTON VALENCE, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 4½ miles from Maidstone and 39 from London; containing 102 houses and 706 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

SUTTON VENEY, a parish in the hundred of Warminster, Wilts, 3 miles from Warminster and 95 from London; containing 136 houses and 622 inhabitants.

SUTTON WALDRON, a parish in the hundred of Redlane, division of Sherborn, Dorset, 4 miles from Shaftsbury and 105 from London; containing 35 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

SUTTON WICK, a hamlet in the parish of Sutton Courtney, hundred of Ock, Berks, 2 miles from Abingdon and 54 from London; containing 36 houses and 198 inhabitants.

SUTTON ST. MICHAEL'S, SUTTON ST. NICHOLAS, two parishes in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Hereford and 136 from London; the former containing 25 houses and 112 inhabitants; the latter 39 houses and 163 inhabitants.

SUTTON ST. MARY'S, a parish in the hundred of Elloe, parts of Holland, Lincoln, near Holbeach and 107 from London; containing 361 houses, and 1723 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 40*l.*

SUTTON ST. EDMOND'S, and ST. JAMES'S, two hamlets in the preceding parish, 2 miles distant therefrom; the former containing 64 houses and 397 inhabitants, and the latter 55 houses and 308 inhabitants.

SWABY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Alford and 142 from London; containing 36 houses and 197 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of Magdalen College, Oxford.

SWACLIFFE, a parish in the hundred of Bleangate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 4 miles from Canterbury and 59 from London; containing 10 houses and 99 inhabitants.

SWADLINCOAT, a township and chapelry in the parish of Church Gressley, hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, 4 miles from Burton; containing 44 houses and 216 inhabitants.

SWAFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 2 miles from North Walsham and 126 from London; containing 23 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SWAFFHAM, a market-town and parish in the hundred of South Greenhoe, Norfolk, 34 miles from Newmarket and 93 from London; containing 441 houses and 2220 inhabitants. The church is a handsome building, in the form of a cathedral. The vaults and aisles are supported by light pillars, forming 14 handsome arches, seven on a side, over which there are 28 neat light windows; the roof is of oak, beautifully carved. The steeple is surrounded with a new turret, the whole built of Free-stone, flint and brick; it contains 8 bells. The north aisle and steeple of this church are said to have been built, by a person who had formerly been a travelling tinker, and each window of the aisle orginally contained a painting of the tinker, his wife and three children; over this aisle is a large and lofty gallery for the church singers. On the market hill, a handsome cross has been erected by the earl of Orford, and on the west side of the hill, a subscription assembly room has been built. Its noted butter market was originally held at Dereham; this as well as the market for all kinds of provisions, of which it has a plentiful supply, is held on Saturday. Fairs 13th May, 21st July, and 3d November. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.—Blomfield's Norfolk.

SWAFFHAM BULBECK, a parish in the hundred of Staine, Cambridge, 4 miles from Newmarket and 57 from London; containing 83 houses and 540 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 10*s.* and in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

SWAFFHAM PRIORS, and SWAFFHAM ST. CYRIC, two united parishes in the hundred of Staine, Cambridge, one mile distant from the foregoing; containing 168 houses and 791 inhabitants. The vicarage is rated at 14*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*

SWAINBY, a hamlet in the parish of Pickhill, Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, on the river Leven, 5 miles from Thirsk; containing 5 houses and 40 inhabitants.

SWALCLIFFE, a parish in the hundred of Banbury, Oxford, 5 miles from Banbury, and 76 from London; containing 48 houses and 264 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford; with Epwell and Shetford chapels annexed.

SWALE, a river rising in the north western hills of Yorkshire, and falls into the Ure, about 4 miles below Boroughbridge.

SWALE, EAST and WEST, two branches of the Medway, that run into the Thames; the former, between the Isles of Grain and Sheppy, and the latter, on the east side of Sheppy; they abound with excellent oysters.

SWALECLIFF. See SWACLIFFE, Kent.

SWALLOW, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Caistor, and 160 from London; containing 18 houses and 98 inhabitants.

SWALLOWCLIFFE, a parish in the hundred of Dunworth, Wilts, near Hindon, and 96 miles from London; containing 38 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SWALLOWFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Charlton, Berks, 6 miles from Reading, and 40 from London; containing 165 houses and 890 inhabitants.

SWANAGE, a parish in the hundred of Rowbarrow, division of Blandford, Dorset, at the south-east extremity of the county and of the Isle of Purbeck, 5 miles from Corfe Castle, and 127 from London; containing 288 houses and 1382 inhabitants; this place is noted for its exportation of stone. The church is an ancient handsome fabric, and is a rectory, value 27*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

SWANBOROUGH, the name of a hundred in Wilts, lying in the centre of the county, north-west of Salisbury Plains.

SWANBOURN, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 2 miles from Winslow, and 48 from London; containing 80 houses and 529 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the king.

SWANNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 3 miles from Reepham, and 110 from London; containing 62 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* united with Woodalling, in the patronage of Trinity Hall, Cambridge.

SWANNINGTON, a parish united with Whitwich, in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 117 from London; containing 100 houses and 488 inhabitants.

SWANSCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Axton, lathe of Sutton, Kent, 2½ miles from Gravesend; containing 131 houses and 763 inhabitants; the neighbouring woods is supposed to have been the place where the Kentish men surprised William the Conqueror, being sheltered by carrying boughs in their hands, suddenly threw them away, and offered him battle, if they had not their ancient right and privileges; which he accordingly granted. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SWANSEA, a sea-port and market town in Glamorganshire, Wales, situated near the mouth of the Fowy, between two hills, midway between Bristol and Tenby, and 206 miles from London; containing 1182 houses and 6099 inhabitants, exclusive of the out parish of St. John, containing 61 houses and 322 inhabitants; the church of which is now almost dilapidated. The town, built on a semicircular, rising bank, is near a mile and half in length, and has a handsome appearance; the houses are modern and commodious, and the streets well paved. In Wind-street is the Custom house, the Lookout, the Post Office, and the Glamorgan bank. The remains of its ancient castle is now converted into a gaol and workhouse; near it is the old mansion of the lords of the manor, built round a quadrangle; the townhall is a modern fabric, near which is the new market, erected, in 1774. The High-street, or Upper town, is nearly a mile long, and contains many excellent houses. Half a mile from the town on the beach, stands the bathing house. There are also both cold and hot sea-water baths, near the Pottery, on the Strand. The church is modern and well-built, and has a plain tower with six bells. The trade of this town has been much improved by its canal; there are two extensive breweries, a pottery upon Mr. Wedgwood's plan, an iron foundry, two roperies, and a good dry dock, employing a number of hands; it has a considerable trade in the export of stone, coal, iron ore, and limestone, all found on the banks of the Towy; there are also seven large copper-houses at some distance from the town, smelting annually 45,000 ton of metal, and consuming 70,000 chaldron of coals. Swansea is a borough governed by a portreve, recorder, 12 aldermen, 2 chamberlains, and a limited number of burgesses; together with 6 other towns, Cowbridge, Loughor, Aberavan, Kensig, Neatle, and Llantrissant; it sends one member to parliament. The followers of the late Rev. Mr. Whitfield, have an elegant chapel here. In the neighbourhood are many charming villas. St. Helen's, Marino, Veranda, Skitty Lodge, Blackhill, Clinewood, &c. The markets are on Wednesday, and Saturday; fairs, 2d Saturday in May, 2d July, 15th August, and 1st October.—It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*—Warner's Tour.

SWANSWICK, a parish in the hundred of Bath Forum, Somerset, 3 miles from Bath, and 110 from London; containing 39 houses and 182 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* and is in the patronage of Oriel College, Oxford.

SWANTON, ABBOTT, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Aylsham, and 120 from London; containing 63 houses and 372 inhabitants. It is a rectory

SWANTON MORLEY, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 3 miles from East Dereham, and 104 from London; containing 67 houses and 360 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* united with Worthing.

SWANTON NOVERS, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 5 miles from Holt, and 114 from London; containing 40 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church, Oxford.

SWANTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Humbleyard, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 103 from London, containing 20 houses and 141 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

SWARBY, a parish in the hundred of Aswardhurn, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Sleaford, and 112 from London; containing 26 houses and 108 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

SWARDESTON, a parish in the hundred of Humbleyard, Norfolk, 5 miles from Norwich, and 104 from London; containing 31 houses and 277 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

SWARFORD, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 5 miles from Chipping-Norton, and 71 from London; containing 55 houses and 327 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* with Showell chapel annexed.

SWARKSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, situated on the Trent, 6 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 47 houses and 256 inhabitants.—The bridge across the Trent is supposed to be the longest in Europe, extending across the meadows near a mile to Stanton. It is a rectory, value 5*l.*

SWARLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Felton, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 11 miles from Morpeth, and 302 from London; containing 42 houses and 207 inhabitants.

SWARRATON, a parish in the hundred of Bountisborough, near Alresford, Hants; containing 12 houses and 81 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

SWAVESEY, a parish in the hundred of Papworth, Cambridge, 7 miles from Cambridge, and 57 from London; containing 168 houses and 831 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Jesus College, Cambridge.

SWAYFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Belisloe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 11 miles from Stamford, and 104 from London; containing 34 houses and 173 inhabitants.

SWAYTON, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Folkingham, and 110 from London; containing 37 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* united with Spanby.

SWEFLING, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 3 miles from Saxmundham, and 93 from London; containing 49 houses and 333 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

SWERTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Thockrington, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 9 miles from Corbridge, and 287 from London; containing 6 houses and 27 inhabitants.

SWELL, a parish in the hundred of Abdick, Somerset, 4 miles from Langport, and 133 from London; containing 22 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Bristol.

SWELL, LOWER, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 2 miles from Stow, and 84 from London; containing 54 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Christ church Oxford.

SWEPSTON, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 12 miles from Hinckley, and 111 from London; containing 84 houses and 412 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

SWETTENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, 5 miles from Congleton, and 166 from London; containing 40 houses and 237 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

SWIFT, a river in Leicestershire and Warwickshire, which falls into the Avon, near Rugby.

SWIFTGATE, a river in Gloucestershire, which falls into the Avon, below Tewkesbury.

SWILLY, a river in the county of Donnegal, province of Ulster, Ireland, which falls into Lough Swilly.

SWILLAND, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, near Needham-Market, and 75 miles from London; containing 26 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a vicarage.

SWILLINGTON, a parish in Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Leeds, and 184 from London; containing 95 houses and 491 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

SWIMBRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of South Moulton, Devon, 5 miles from South Moulton, and 186 from London; containing 163 houses and 1082 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the Chancellor of Sarum.

SWINBURN, a township in the parish of Chollerton, in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 2 miles from Chollerton; containing 75 houses and 407 inhabitants.

SWINCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Ewelme, Oxford, 4 miles from Wallingford, and 41 from London; containing 53 houses and 285 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

SWINDALE, a hamlet in the parish of Shap, Westmoreland.

SWINDEN, a hamlet in the parish of Gisburn, wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, near Gisburn; containing 9 houses and 52 inhabitants.

SWINDERBY, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 9 miles from Lincoln, and 126 from London; containing 50 houses and 251 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

SWINDON, a parish in the hundred of Cheltenham, Gloucester, 1 mile from Cheltenham, containing 27 houses and 116 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 1*s.*

SWINDON, a market town and parish in the hundred of Kingsbridge, Wilts, situated on an eminence, 10 miles from Marlborough, and 83 from London; containing 244 houses and 1198 inhabitants. This is a neat town, and the houses are well built of stone;—market on Monday; and its fairs are, Monday before 5th April, second Monday after 11th May, September, and October. It is a vicarage, value 17*l.*

SWINE, a parish in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 4 miles from Hull, and 179 from London; containing 21 houses and 204 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

SWINEFLEET, a township and chapelry in the parish of Whitgift, wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, situated on the Ouse, 5 miles from Howden, and 176 from London; containing 92 houses and 632 inhabitants. It was formerley a market town.

SWINESHEAD, a market town and parish in the hundred of Kirton, parts of Holland, Lincoln, 6 miles from Boston and 120 from London; containing 290 houses and 1544 inhabitants. Market on Thursday;—Fairs, first Thursday in June, and 2d October. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 9*s.* in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

SWINESHEAD, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 3 miles from Kimbolton, and 65 from London; containing 44 houses and 214 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*

SWINETHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Doddington, hundred of Boothby Graffo Lincoln, near Louth; containing 4 houses and 20 inhabitants.

SWINFEN, a hamlet in the parish of Weeford, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, near Litchfield, the population of which was included with that of Packington.

SWINFORD, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 4 miles from Lutterworth, and 80 from London; containing 82 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.*

SWINFORD, KING'S. See KING'S SWINFORD; Stafford.

SWINGFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Folkstone, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 4 miles from Dover, and 68 from London; containing 36 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

SWINHOE, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Balmborough, Northumberland, 9 miles from Alnwick, and 320 from London; containing 21 houses and 117 inhabitants.

SWINNA, a small island in the middle of the Pentland Frith, Scotland, being a mile long and ½ mile broad, it belongs to the parish of South Ronaldshay; and contains 5 families, employed in piloting vessels through the dangerous straight.

SWINNERTON, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 3 miles from Stone, and 143 from London; containing 132 houses and 648 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10l. 2s. 6d.

SWINSCOE, a hamlet in the parish of Blore, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 4 miles from Ashboro, and 144 from London; containing 40 houses and 203 inhabitants.

SWINSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Betisloe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 1 mile from Corby, and 106 from London; containing 59 houses and 306 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 6l. 19s. 7d.

SWINTON, a township in the parish of Masham, Hang east wapentake, north riding of York, 1 mile from Masham, and 223 from London; containing 24 houses and 174 inhabitants.

SWINTON, a township in the parish of Appleton-le-street, Rydall wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Malton, and 219 from London; containing 39 houses and 217 inhabitants.

SWINTON, a township in the parish of Wath, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 4 miles from Rotherham, and 162 from London; containing 132 houses and 473 inhabitants.

SWINTON, a parish in the shire of Berwick, Scotland, united with Simprin, 10 miles from Berwick; containing 178 houses and 875 inhabitants. The village of Swinton, contains 360 inhabitants.

SWINTROP, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 10 miles from Louth, and 163 from London; containing 14 houses and 84 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4l. 17s. 8d.

SWITHLAND, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Mount Sorrell, and 104 from London; containing 58 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10l. 4s. 7d. and is in the patronage of the king.

SWORDS, a market town in the county of Dublin, province of Leinster Ireland, 7 miles from the metropolis.

SWYRE, a parish in the hundred of Ugglescombe, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 5 miles from Bridport, and 130 from London; containing 33 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7l. 0s. 3d. in the patronage of the duke of Bedford.

SYDENHAM DAMEREL, a parish in the hundred of Lifton, Devon, 4 miles from Tavistock, and 209 from London; containing 39 houses and 199 inhabitants.

SYDERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 5 miles from Fakenham, and 113 from London; containing 48 houses and 250 inhabitants.

SYDLING, a parish in the hundred of Cerne Totcombe, division of Sherborne, Dorset, 7 miles from Dorchester, and 124 from London; containing 105 houses and 459 inhabitants.

SYERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 5 miles from Newark, and 120 from London; containing 23 houses and 109 inhabitants.

SYKEHOUSE, a township in the parish of Fishlake, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 4 miles from Thorne, and 171 from London; containing 100 houses and 497 inhabitants.

SYLEHAM, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 4 miles from Harleston, and 96 from London; containing 40 houses and 257 inhabitants.

SYLLATIN, a parish in the hundred of Oswestry, Salop, 3 miles from Oswestry and 182 from London; containing 157 houses and 701 inhabitants.

SYMINGTON, a parish in the district of Kyle, shire of Ayr, Scotland, lying on the high road from Port Patrick to Glasgow and Edinburgh; containing 132 houses and 663 inhabitants.

SYMINGTON, a parish in the shire of Lanark, Scotland, situated on the river Clyde, 30 miles from Edinburgh, and 33 from Glasgow; containing 77 houses and 308 inhabitants.

SYMONSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Whitchurch, division of Bridport, Dorset, 2 miles from Bridport, and 136 from London; containing 131 houses and 791 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 36l. 3s. 4d.

SYMONDSHALL, a tything in the parish of Kingscot, hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Wootton, and 108 from London; containing 76 houses and 336 inhabitants.

SYMPSON, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Fenny-Stratford, and 47 from London; containing 73 houses and 367 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17l. 6s. 8d.

SYRESHAM, a parish in the hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 7 miles from Towcester, and 60 from London; containing 129 houses and 587 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13l.

SYSONBY, a hamlet in the parish of Melton Mowbray, hundred of Framland, Leicester, 1 mile from Melton Mowbray; containing 11 houses and 65 inhabitants.

SYSTON, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 5 miles from Leicester and 101 from London; containing 219 houses and 1124 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 7*d.*

Syston, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Grantham, and 114 from London; containing 25 houses and 137 inhabitants.

Sywell, a parish in the hundred of Hamfordshoe, Northampton, 3 miles from Wellingborough, and 70 miles from London; containing 38 houses and 199 inhabitants.

Taafe, a rapid river in Glamorganshire, which falls into the sea at Cardiff; over this river near Caerphilly, is a stone-bridge, called Pont y Pryddall, of a single arch, 140 feet in the span, and 34 feet high, planned and executed by the untaught genius of a country mason.

Tablehurst, a small village in Sussex, between East Grinstead, and Ashdown Forest.

Tabley, Nether and Over, 2 villages in the hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 2 miles from Knutsford; the former containing 19 houses and 127 inhabitants, the latter 68 houses and 392 inhabitants.

Tackley, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 2½ miles from Woodstock, and 64 from London; containing 81 houses and 369 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of St. John's college Oxford.

Tacolneston, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 8 miles from Norwich, and 100 from London; containing 53 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Tadcaster, a market town and parish in Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, situated on the river Wharfe, 9 miles from York, and 185 from London; containing 323 houses and 1411 inhabitants. The river Wharf is the boundary of the ainsty of the city of York, and according to the population returns, there are 160 houses and 661 inhabitants, belonging to this town in that liberty. The town is well built, and has a good stone bridge over the Wharfe, built out of the ruins of its ancient castle, and it was anciently a Roman station called Calcaria. The neighbourhood produces much Limestone. The market is on Thursday, and the fairs are the last Wednesday in April, May, September and October. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*

Taddington, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bakewell, hundred of High Peake, Derby, 4 miles from Bakewell, and 156 from London; containing 85 houses and 284 inhabitants. The curacy is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Litchfield.

Tadley, a township in the parish of Overton, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 6½ miles from Basingstoke, and 51 from London; containing 119 houses and 497 inhabitants.

Tadlow, a parish in the hundred of Armingford, Cambridge, 4 miles from Biggleswade, and 40 from London; containing 18 houses and 101 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.*

Tadmarton, a parish in the hundred of Banbury, Oxford, 3 miles from Banbury, and 78 from London; containing 70 houses and 387 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 11*s.*

Tadmarton, Lower, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, and 1 mile distant therefrom.

Tain, a river in Staffordshire, which falls into the Dove, near Uttoxeter.

Tain, or Thane, a royal borough, and the county town of Ross-shire, Scotland, seated on the Frith of Dornock, 10 miles from Cromarty, containing 507 houses and 2277 inhabitants. The church is an old but elegant fabrick, and was formerly collegiate. This town has much increased of late years, from its newly erected suburb, separated from the town by a small river, over which there is a handsome bridge. It joins with Dingwall, Dornoch, Kirkwall, and Wick, in sending 1 member to the British parliament.

Tailberd, a hamlet in the parish of Shap, in Westmoreland.

Takeley, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 5 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 35 from London; containing 131 houses and 689 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of London.

TAKENHAM, a village in the hundred of Kingsbridge, Wilts, 3 miles from Wootton Bassett, and 86 from London; containing 23 houses and 124 inhabitants.

TALGARTH, a parish in the hundred of Talgarth, Brecon, Wales, 10 miles from Brecon; containing 117 houses and 522 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood is an extensive lake, abounding in pike, perch, trout, &c. Fairs 12th March, 31st May, 10th July, 23d. Sept. 3d Nov. 3d Dec. It is a vicarage, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

TALKIN, a township in the parish of Hayton, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 6 miles from Carlisle, and 310 from London; containing 50 houses and 249 inhabitants.

TALLACHDU, a parish in the hundred of Penkelly, Brecon, Wales, 170 miles from London; containing 37 houses and 176 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

TALLAND, a parish in the hundred of West Cornwall, being the mother church of the West Looe, 234 miles from London, containing including that Borough, 149 houses and 760 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

TALLANTIRF, a hamlet in the parish of Bridekirk, Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Cockermouth, and 305 from London; containing 36 houses and 182 inhabitants.

TALLATON, a parish in the hundred of Hayridge, Devon, 9 miles from Exeter, and 160 from London; containing 72 houses and 393 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 32*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*

TALLEY, a parish in the hundred of Cayo, Carmarthenshire, Wales, 7 miles from Llandelovawr; containing 164 houses and 822 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TALLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Ness, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Stamford, and 92 from London; containing 41 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.*

TALLYLYN, a parish in the hundred of Estimaner, Merionethshire, Wales, 6 miles from Machynleth, containing 101 houses and 633 inhabitants. It was formerly a chapelry under Towyn, but is now a distinct curacy.

TAMAR, a river which rises in the north of Cornwall, about 3 miles from the sea, and on being joined by the Tavy, and passing near Saltash, it forms the noble harbour of Hamoaze, below Plymouth, falling into the sea at Mount Edgecombe.

TAMBORN, a small hamlet in the parish of Whittington, hundred of Offlow, Stafford.

TAME, a river in Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire, which falls into the Thames below Dorchester; also a river in Staffordshire, which falls into the Trent near Edinghall.

TAMERTON, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Stratton, Cornwall, 8 miles from Stratton, and 220 from London; containing 75 houses and 403 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TAMERTON FOLIAT, a parish in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, 4 miles from Plymouth, and 220 from London; containing 122 houses and 747 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king, with Martinstow chapel annexed.

TAMWORTH, a borough, market town, and parish, situated partly in Staffordshire, and partly in Warwickshire, at the conflux of the rivers Tame and Anker, 117 miles from London; the western part in Warwickshire, contains 326 houses and 1663 inhabitants, and the eastern part with the church in Staffordshire contains 222 houses and 1123 inhabitants. The church is an ancient irregular building, containing several curious monuments. The houses are well built. The town is governed by 2 Bailiffs, (being one for each county) 24 burgesses, town clerk, &c. with a high steward, recorder and under steward. It was first incorporated by queen Elizabeth, and returns 2 members to Parliament, one for each part of the town, the number of voters being about 250. The returning officers are the bailiffs. This town has a considerable manufacture of narrow cloths, and is noted for good Ale. Here are 2 banking houses and a good grammar school. Tamworth castle is the seat of the Earl of Leicester. The market is on Tuesday. And its fairs are 4th May, 26th July and 24th October. It is a curacy.

TANAT, a river in Montgomeryshire, Wales, forming part of the boundary, between that county and Denbighshire, and falls into the Severn.

TANDERAGEE, a market town in the county of Armagh, province of Ulster, Ireland, 61 miles from Dublin. It has a considerable trade to Newry, by the navigable canal from thence, and here is an extensive linen manufacture.

TANDRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of the same name, 2 miles from Godstone, containing 64 houses and 381 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TANDRIDGE, the name of a hundred in Surry, being the South eastern extremity of the county, and borders of Kent.

TANFIELD, a hamlet in the parish of Chester-le-Street in Chester ward, Durham, 7 miles from Gateshead, and 269 from London; population included with Beamish.

TANFIELD, EAST, a hamlet in the parish of Kirklington, Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 9 miles from Aldborough; containing 3 houses and 26 inhabitants.

TANFIELD, WEST, a parish in Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Ripon, and 227 from London; containing 124 houses and 639 inhabitants: near the church are some remains of an ancient castle. It is a curacy.

TANGLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Tayton, hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 3 miles from Burford, and 76 from London; containing 9 houses and 51 inhabitants.

TANGLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Faccombe, hundred of Pastrow, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 4 miles from Basingstoke; containing 39 houses and 221 inhabitants. Fair 15th April.

TANGMERE, a parish in the hundred of Aldwick, rape of Chicester, Sussex, 2 miles from Chichester, and 60 from London; containing 24 houses and 136 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 5*s.*

TANKERSLEY, a parish in Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Barnsley, and 170 from London; containing 79 houses and 382 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.*

TANNADICE, a parish in the shire of Forfar, Scotland, situated on each side the south Esk, 4 miles from Brechin; containing 288 houses and 1373 inhabitants.

TANNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 90 from London; containing 22 houses and 202 inhabitants.

TANSHELF, a village in the wapentake of Osgold-cross, west riding of York, near Pontefract; containing 91 houses and 578 inhabitants.

TANSOR, a parish in the hundred of Willybrooke, Northampton, 2 miles from Oundle, and 84 from London; containing 33 houses and 167 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

TANSLEY, a township in the parish of Crich, hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, 1 mile from Matlock, and 150 from London; containing 81 houses and 381 inhabitants.

TANWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5 miles from Henley in Arden, and 106 from London; containing 310 houses and 1695 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

TANY BWLCH, a hamlet in the parish of Festiniog, Merioneth, Wales, is a beautiful romantic situation, 230 miles from London.

TAPLOW, a parish in the hundred of Burnham, Bucks, on the banks of the Thames, near Maidenhead, 25 miles from London; containing 80 houses and 422 inhabitants. It commands a fine prospect of the surrounding country; and has several elegant villas, in the neighbourhood, but the beautiful mansion of Clifden, belonging to the marquis of Thomand, once the magnificent palace of the duke of Buckingham, was destroyed by fire in 1795. The church is a rectory, value 11*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

TARTON, a township in the parish of Chesterfield, hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, near Chesterfield, and 150 miles from London; containing 31 houses and 148 inhabitants.

TARA, a village in the county of Down, province of Ulster, Ireland.

TARAH, a village in the county of Meath, Leinster, Ireland, 19 miles from Dublin.

TARANNON, a river in Montgomeryshire, which falls into the Severn, near Corfe Castle.

TARANSAY, one of the northern Harris Isles, Scotland, 4 miles long and 1 broad. Its inhabitants are chiefly occupied fishing and burning of Kelp.

TARBAT, a parish situated partly in the shire of Ross, and partly in Cromarty, Scot. being a peninsula formed by the Friths of Cromarty, and Dornoch; containing 280 houses and 1343 inhabitants.

TARBERT, a town and county of Kerry, province of Munster, Ireland, 124 miles from Dublin.

TARBOCK, a township in the parish of Huyton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Preston, and 210 miles from London; containing 73 houses and 412 inhabitants.

TARBOLTON, a parish in the district of Kyle, shire of Ayr, Scotland, 9 miles from Ayr; containing 306 houses and 1766 inhabitants, the town is neatly built; in the hamlet of Feale, are the ruins of a Clugniac monastery.

TARDEBRIGG, a parish in the hundred of Halfshire, Worcester, 3 miles from Bromesgrove and 113 from London; containing 348 houses and 1922 inhabitants (including Bordesley,) of whom 780 were returned as being employed in trade. Its church has been rebuilt, and is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

TARENT, a river in Dorsetshire, rising near Stubhampton, and falling into the Stour near Blandford, it gives name to several villages. See TARRANT.

TARLETON, a township in the parish of Croston, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 8 miles from Chorley; containing 171 houses and 1116 inhabitants.

TARPORLEY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 11 miles from Chester; and 179 from London; containing 138 houses and 674 inhabitants, who were chiefly employed in the manufacture of stockings, breeches, &c. Market on Tuesday, and its fairs are May-day, Monday after 24 August, and 11th December. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

TARRABY, a township in the parish of Stanwix, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 2 miles from Carlisle, and 306 from London; containing 24 houses and 110 inhabitants.

TARRANT GUNVILLE, a parish in the hundred of Cranborne, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 4 miles from Blandford, and 100 from London; containing 72 houses and 408 inhabitants. This as well as the 6 following villages take the name of Tarrant, from being situated near the river Tarent. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* belonging to University college, Oxford.

TARRANT HINTON, in the hundred of Pimpern, division of Blandford, Dorset, 5 miles from Blandford; containing 41 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

TARRANT KYNES, in the same hundred and division as the foregoing; containing 37 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

TARRANT LAUNCESTON, also in the same hundred; containing 13 houses and 67 inhabitants.

TARRANT MONKTON, another village, 3 miles from Blandford; containing 34 houses and 207 inhabitants.

TARRANT RAWSON, another village, ½ mile from the preceding; containing 9 houses and 32 inhabitants.

TARRANT RUSHTON, a parish in the hundred of Cranborn, division of Shaston, 3 miles from Blandford; containing 36 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*

TARRETBURN, EAST and WEST, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Simonburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, near Hexham, and 279 miles from London; containing 64 houses and 332 inhabitants.

TARRING, EAST, or NEVILLE, the remains of a parish now united with Southleighton, in the hundred of Rushmonden, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, near Uckfield; containing 7 houses and 74 inhabitants.

TARRING, WEST, a parish in the hundred of the same name, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 4 miles from Shoreham, and 59 from London; containing 81 houses and 487 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town. Fairs, 5th April and 2d October.

TARVEN, a parish in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 4 miles from Chester, and 177 from London; containing 163 houses and 768 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 11*s.*

TARVES, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, on the banks of the Ythan, 15 miles from Aberdeen; containing 410 houses and 1756 inhabitants.

TASBURGH, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 8 miles from Norwich, and 101 from London; containing 55 houses and 363 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* and is united with Rainsthorpe.

TASLEY, a parish in the hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, on the river Severn, 2 miles from Bridgnorth, and 140 from London; containing 13 houses and 83 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

TATCHBROOK BISHOPS, and TATCHBROOK MALLORY, two united parishes in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 3 miles from Warwick; containing 83 houses and 416 inhabitants. The vicarage, rated at 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* belongs to the prebend thereof, in Litchfield cathedral.

TATENHILL, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 3 miles from Burton-on-Trent, and 130 from London; containing 60 houses and 286 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 1*s.* 8d.

TATHAM, a parish in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 1 mile from Hornby, and 249 from London; containing 80 houses and 389 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 5*s.*

TATHAM IRELBY, a hamlet in the foregoing parish; containing 74 houses and 350 inhabitants.

TATHWELL, a parish in the hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Louth, and 150 from London; containing 34 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

TATSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Tandridge, Surry, 2 miles from Westerham, and 24 from London; containing 18 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 5*d.*

TATTENHALL, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, 8 miles from Chester, and 176 from London; containing 136 houses and 606 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chester.

TATTENHALL, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 2 miles from Wolverhampton, and 132 from London; containing 314 houses and 1570 inhabitants.

TATTENHOE, a village in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 2½ miles from Fenny Stratford; containing 4 houses and 31 inhabitants.

TATTERFORD, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 3 miles from Fakenham, and 108 from London; containing 10 houses and 68 inhabitants. The rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is united with TATTERSETT, another parish adjoining the foregoing, and containing 25 houses and 161 inhabitants.

TATTERSHALL, a market town and parish in the hundred of Gartree, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, on the river Bain, 8 miles from Horncastle, and 130 from London; containing 101 houses and 496 inhabitants. The church is a handsome building, in the form of a cross, formerly collegiate, some of the windows still containing some good paintings on glass. The castle was demolished during the civil wars. The Bain is navigable for barges to the Witham. The market is on Friday. Fairs, 11th May, and 25th September. It is a curacy.

TATTERSHALL THORPE, a hamlet belonging to the foregoing parish, and ¾ mile distant therefrom; containing 33 houses and 165 inhabitants.

TATTINGSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Manningtree, and 63 from London; containing 53 houses and 620 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

TATTON, a hamlet in the parish of Knutsford, Cheshire, and hundred of Bucklow, near Knutsford; containing 13 houses and 120 inhabitants.

TAUNTON, a borough and market town, consisting of two parishes, in the hundred of Taunton, Somerset, situated on the river Tone, 47 miles from Bristol, and 144 from London; containing 1146 houses and 5794 inhabitants, of whom 700 were employed in trade and manufacture. It consists of 4 principal streets, and is in length from east to west near a mile. The houses are well built, and the streets wide and clean. The church of St. James is an old building, having a square tower and 6 bells; that of St.

Mary Magdalen is a handsome structure, having a lofty tower, containing 8 bells. There are several dissenting meeting-houses, a well-endowed grammar-school, an hospital for 6 men and 10 women, and alms-houses for 13 decayed tradesmen. Here is a court-house, at which are held the Lent assizes, but no prison except a bridewell for vagrants. This town has a considerable manufacture of silks, and a good trade to Bridgewater by the Tone. Its present name appears to be derived from that river, it being called in ancient records, Tone Town. The town-hall and market-house were erected in 1773. Here are two banking-houses. It is an ancient borough by prescription; but the borough does not comprehend the whole of the town, only part of the parish of St. Mary Magdalen being within its limits. It sends two members to parliament: the right of election is in the potwallers, not receiving alms or charity; number of voters about 350. The corporation consists of a mayor, recorder, aldermen, &c. The markets are on Wednesday and Saturday, and its fairs are 17th June, and 7th July, for three days. St. Mary's is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*—Collinson's Somerset, and Tomlin's Taunton.

TAUNTON, the name of a hundred in Somerset, lying on the south-western side of the county, bordering on Devonshire.

TAUNTON DEAN, or the VALE OF TAUNTON, is a very rich tract of land, extending 30 miles; it is deemed fertile by the inhabitants from the sun and soil alone, without the aid of manure.

TAUME, a river in Yorkshire and Lancashire, which falls into the Mersey at Stopford.

TAVERHAM, a parish in the hundred of Taverham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Norwich, and 114 from London; containing 17 houses and 201 inhabitants.

TAVERHAM, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, lying north of the city of Norwich, bounded on the south and west by the river Yare.

TAVISTOCK, a borough, market town, and parish, in the hundred of Tavistock, Devon, near the river Tamer, 14 miles from Plymouth, and 206 from London; containing 472 houses and 3420 inhabitants, of whom 556 were returned employed in trade and manufacture. This town is well built, and has a large and handsome church, and is one of the stannaries. The ruins of its Benedictine abbey are still observable. It sends 2 members to parliament, the right of election being in the freeholders, inhabitants of the borough; number of voters about 110; the returning officer is the portreeve. Here is a chalybeate mineral water. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 17th January, 6th May, 9th September, 10th October, and 11th December. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Bedford.

TAVISTOCK, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the western side of the county, divided from Cornwall by the Tamar.

TAW, a river in Devonshire, rising near Throwley, in the center of the county, flows on to Barnstaple, and turning westerly, joins the Towridge at its mouth.

TAWSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Fremington, Devon, 4 miles from Barnstaple, and 190 from London, on the river Taw; containing 181 houses and 1131 inhabitants. It is a valuable living, and a rectory, rated at 69*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

TAWTON NORTH, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Devon, 3 miles from Bow, and 192 from London; containing 275 houses and 1436 inhabitants. Fairs, 2d October, and 17th December. It is a rectory, value 32*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

TAWTON, NORTH, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the north-western side of the county, bounded on the north by the river Dart.

TAWTON, SOUTH, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 4 miles from Oakhampton, and 190 from London; containing 267 houses and 1538 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

TAXALL, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 8 miles from Macclesfield, and 166 from London; containing 34 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

TAY LOCH, one of the most beautiful of the Scottish lakes, in Braidalban, Perthshire, being 15 miles long, and from 1 to 2 broad; it is from 15 to 100 fathoms deep. The waters of this lake have at times suffered violent and unaccountable agitations, particularly in September 1784.—Vide Trans. Roy. Soc. Edinburgh.

TAYNTON, a parish in the hundred of Chadlington, Oxford, 2 miles from Burford, and 75 from London; containing 60 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

TAY, a river issuing from the lake of the same name, and being joined by the Lochay, Lyon, Garrey, Tummel, Bran, Almond, &c. falls into the Frith of Tay, an arm of the sea, which divides the shire of Fife, from Perth and Angus. The salmon fishery in the Tay is very extensive, beginning in December, and finishing the 26th August.

TAYNTON, a parish in the hundred of Botloe, Gloucester, 4 miles from Newent, and 113 from London; containing 69 houses and 378 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Gloucester.

TEA, a river in Bucks, which falls into the Ouse, near Stoney Stratford.

TEALBY, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Market Raisin, and 146 from London; containing 80 houses and 469 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

TEALING, a parish in the shire of Forfar, Scotland, 8 miles from Dundee, on the road to Glammiss, by the side of the Sidlaw hills; containing 154 houses and 755 inhabitants. This parish contains many relics of antiquity.

TEAN, a hamlet in the parish of Chickley, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, near Uttoxeter.

TEARN, a river in Staffordshire and Salop, which falls into the Severn.

TEASDALE, a township in the parish of Middleton, Darlington ward, Durham, 8 miles from Barnard Castle, and 254 from London; containing 88 houses and 460 inhabitants.

TEATH, ST. a parish in the hundred of Trigg, Cornwall, 5 miles from Camelford; and 233 from London; containing 150 houses and 911 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TEATH, or TEITH, a river in Perthshire, Scotland, rising at Balquiddor, and passing several lakes to Doune, and through the vale of Blair Drummond, joins the Allan, and falls into the Forth, 3 miles from Sterling.

TEBAY, a hamlet in the parish of Orton, in East ward, Westmoreland, on the Lune.

TEDWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Chalgrove, Bedford.

TEDBURN, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 7 miles from Exeter, and 175 from London; containing 84 houses and 527 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

TEDDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Spelthorne, Middlesex, on the banks of the Thames, near Hampton, 11¼ miles from London; containing 118 houses and 699 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood are many handsome villas. It is a curacy.

TEDDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 5 miles from Thame, and 50 from London; containing 28 houses and 123 inhabitants.

TEDDINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Overbury, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, near Tewksbury, and 100 miles from London; containing 23 houses and 111 inhabitants.

TEDSTONE DELAMERE, and TEDSTONE WATER, two small villages in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 3¾ miles from Bromyard, and 124 from London; the former containing 43 houses and 245 inhabitants; and the latter 14 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a curacy, united with Edwin Loach.

TEES, a river rising on the confines of Cumberland, and dividing the counties of York and Durham, falls into the German ocean below Stockton, to which place it is navigable for vessels of large burthen.

TEETON, a hamlet in the parish of Spratton, hundred of Nobottle Grove, Northampton, 7 miles from Northampton, and 72 from London; containing 15 houses and 77 inhabitants.

TEFFONT EWIAS, a parish in the hundred of Dunworth, Wilts, 5 miles from Hindon, and 91 from London; containing 25 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

TEFFONT MAGNA, a parish in the hundred of Warminster, Wilts, ½ mile from the preceding; containing 38 houses and 199 inhabitants.

TEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Alstoe, Rutland, 6 miles from Oakham, and 101 from London; containing 29 houses and 133 inhabitants.

TEIGN, a river in Devonshire, composed of two branches, which rise nearly in the center of the county, and uniting, fall into the English channel at Teignmouth.

TEIGNMOUTH, EAST, a township and chapelry in the parish of Dawlish, hundred of Exminster, Devon, near the mouth of the Teign, 187 miles from London; containing 103 houses and 484 inhabitants. The church or chapel stands near the beach, and is a venerable pile of Saxon architecture. This place has much improved of late years, since it has become a fashionable resort for sea-bathing. The public rooms are in a neat brick building, and it has a small theatre. The bathing-machines are very commodious, and there are two good inns. It has a considerable commerce in the export of pipe-clay to Bristol, Liverpool, &c.

TEIGNMOUTH, WEST, is divided from the former by the rivulet Tame, and contains 354 houses and 1528 inhabitants. The church stands near the center of the town, and is built in the form of a cross, having its roof curiously supported by the ramifications of a wooden pillar running up the middle. It contains several neat monuments, but is only a curacy under Bishops Teignton, as the church of East Teignmouth is under that of Dawlish, the incumbents of those parishes nominating the minister, who serves these churches alternately. Here was anciently a chartered market on Sunday, but it is now held on Saturday, and well supplied with every article of provision, particularly fish. Across the Teign lies the delightful little village of Shaldon, containing several new-built lodging-houses. Fair, 29th September. It is a member of the port of Exeter. Lat. 50°. 32′. north: Long. 3°. 29′. west.

TEIGNTON, KINGS, and BISHOPS. See KINGSTEIGNTON, and BISHOPSTEIGNTON.

TEIGNGRACE, a parish in the hundred of Teignbridge, Devon, 2 miles from Newton Bushell, and 188 from London; containing 16 houses and 133 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

TEIGNBRIDGE, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the south-eastern side of the county, the river Teign passing through its center.

TELLESFORD, a parish in the hundred of Wellow, Somerset, 7 miles from Bath, and 101 from London; containing 26 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 1*s.*

TELSCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Holmstrough, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 2 miles from Newhaven, and 53 from London; containing 12 houses and 89 inhabitants.

TEME, a river in Radnor, Salop, and Worcestershire, which falls into the Severn, a mile below Worcester.

TEMPLE, the remains of a parish in the hundred of Trigg, Cornwall, 4 miles from Bodmin; containing now only 2 houses and 15 inhabitants.

TEMPLE, a hamlet in the parish of Broad-Windsor, in Dorsetshire.

TEMPLE, a hamlet in the parish of Dartford, Kent.

TEMPLE BREWEN, formerly a parish in the hundred of Flexwell, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 6 miles from Sleaford; containing only 5 houses and 40 inhabitants.

TEMPLE COOMBE. See ASHOTT'S COOMBE, Somerset.

TEMPLE COWLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Cowley, 2 miles from Oxford.

TEMPLE GRAFTON, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 3 miles from Alcester, and 100 from London; containing 46 houses and 216 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TEMPLE GUYDING. See GUYDING TEMPLE, Gloucester.

TEMPLE HURST, a village in the parish of Birkin, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Snaith; containing 24 houses and 119 inhabitants.

TEMPLE NEWSOME, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Whitchurch, west riding of York, near Leeds.

TEMPLE SOWERBY. See SOWERBY.

TEMPLETON, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 4 miles from Tiverton, and 167 from London; containing 38 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.*

TEMPSFORD, a parish in the hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, 6 miles from Biggleswade, and 51 from London; containing 78 houses and 469 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.*

TENBURY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, situated on the river Teme, dividing it from Salop, 9 miles from Leominster, and 134 from London; containing 185 houses and 905 inhabitants, exclusive of the hamlet called the Foreign; containing 44 houses and 233 inhabitants. The town is well built, and over the Teme is a neat stone bridge of 6 arches. The church has a square tower, with 6 bells. The market is on Tuesday, and its fairs are 25th April, 18th July, and 26th September. Here are annual horse races. It is a vicarage, value 21*l.*

TENBY, a sea port, market town and parish in Pembrokeshire, Wales, situated on a peninsula of land formed by the Severn, 60 miles from Swansea, and 250 from London; containing 192 houses and 844 inhabitants. The houses are neatly built of stone, and covered with blue slate. It appears to have been a place of great strength, as well as antiquity, from the remains of its walls, flanked with towers. The walls on the land side, enclosing only a part of the town, are 512 yards long, and 21 feet high, furnished with embrasures. The south wall, seated on a rock, rises 77 feet above the level of the sea at high water. Here are two batteries on commanding eminences. Tenby, of late, has become a very fashionable bathing place. The church is a spacious structure, 146 feet in length; the tower has a lofty and elegant spire of Bath stone. Its trade consists in the export of coal and culm; and the oyster and trawle fisheries have been long established. Here is a theatre, bowling green, billiard table, assembly room, &c. Excursions to the Isle of Caldy, about 3 miles from the shore, is a favourite amusement of its summer visitors. It is governed by a mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, and in conjunction with Pembroke and Wiston, sends 1 member to the British parliament. The markets are on Wednesday and Saturday. Fairs, Whit-Tuesday, 4th May, 20th July, 20th October, and 4th December. The church is a vicarage, in the patronage of the Prince of Wales. Lat. 51° 32′. Long. 5° 19′. West.

TENDRING, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 10 miles from Colchester, and 61 from London; containing 103 houses and 522 inhabitants. Fair, 21st September. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* in the patronage of Baliol College, Oxford.

TENDRING, the name of a hundred in Essex, being the eastern extremity of the county, between the rivers Colne and Stour.

TENHAM. See TEYNHAM, Kent.

TENTERDEN, a market town and parish in the hundred of Tenterden, lathe of Scray, Kent, 5 miles from Cranbrook, and 57 from London; containing 366 houses and 2370 inhabitants. The church, standing at the north end of the town, has a lofty steeple, on which formerly was a beacon, for alarming the country, in case of invasion. At the first introduction of the woollen manufacture this place had a considerable trade in weaving, but at present the grazing business is the chief occupation of its inhabitants. This is a member of the Cinque Ports, and is annexed to the town of Rye; the corporation consists of a mayor, jurats, and 12 common councilmen; and the market is on Friday. Fair, first Monday in May, for cattle and pedlary. It is a vicarage, rated at 33*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

TENTERGATE, a hamlet to Knaresborough, in the west riding of York, united with the hamlet of Scriven.

TERLING, a parish in the hundred of Witham, Essex, 2 miles from Witham, and 36 from London; containing 154 houses and 708 inhabitants.

TERREGLES, a parish in the stewartry of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, on the river Nith, opposite to the town of Dumfries; containing 104 houses and 510 inhabitants.

TERRINGTON, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 12 miles from York, and 211 from London; containing 100 houses and 463 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 23*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

TERRINGTON ST. CLEMENTS, and ST. JOHN'S, two adjoining parishes in the hundred of Freebridge Marshland, Norfolk, 6 miles from Lynn, and 90 from London; the former, containing 110 houses and 824 inhabitants, is a rectory, value 34*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; the latter, 83 houses and 408 inhabitants, and is a vicarage, value 23*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

TERWICK, a parish in the hundred of Dumpford, rape of Chichester, Sussex, near Midhurst; containing 10 houses and 91 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

TESTERTON, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Fakenham; now containing only 4 houses and 28 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.*

TESTON, a parish in the hundred of Twyford, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 35 miles from London; containing 42 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.*

TETBURY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 6 miles from Minchinhampton, on a rising ground near the borders of Wilts, and 99 from London; containing 509 houses and 2500 inhabitants. The houses are well built, and chiefly of stone. The church is a neat building, erected in 1781; the old one being so much damaged by a flood in 1770, that it was necessary to take it down. In the centre of the town stands a large market-house, at which great quantities of yarn are sold; and here is a manufactory of woollen cloth. On a common about 1 mile from the town are annual horse races, and in the neighbourhood rises the river Avon. Fairs, Ash Wednesday, and 22d July. The parish is near 10 miles in compass, and the living is very valuable; it is a vicarage, rated at 36*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

TETCOTT, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 4 miles from Holdsworthy, and 212 from London; containing 24 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 16*s.*

TETFORD, a parish in the hundred of Hill, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Horncastle, and 141 from London; containing 66 houses and 329 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

TETHERINGTON, a village in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, near Macclesfield; containing 36 houses and 226 inhabitants.

TETHERINGTON, a small village near Thornbury, Gloucester.

TETNEY, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Grimsby, and 164 from London; containing 85 houses and 440 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

TETSWORTH, a township in the parish and hundred of Thame, Oxford, 11 miles from Wycombe, and 44 from London, on the banks of the Thames, divided from Wheatley by a bridge; it contains 90 houses and 396 inhabitants.

TETTON, a hamlet in the parish of Sandbach, hundred of Northwich, Chester, 1½ mile from Sandbach, and 162 from London; containing 22 houses and 120 inhabitants.

TETWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Everton, hundred of Toseland, Hunts, near St. Neot's.

TEVERSALL, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, 5 miles from Mansfield, and 143 from London; containing 65 houses and 333 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*

TEVERSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Flendish, Cambridge, 4 miles from Cambridge, and 54 from London; containing 22 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 16*s.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

TEVIOT, a river in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, on the English borders, and falls into the Tweed, at Kelso.

TEW, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 5 miles from Doddington, and 70 from London; containing 72 houses and 402 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

TEW, LITTLE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, ¼ mile distant; containing 43 houses and 219 inhabitants, including Tew Dunse.

TEWIN, a parish in the hundred of Hertford, Herts, near a small river, 3 miles from Hertford, and 24 from London; containing 72 houses and 494 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 14*l.* and is in the patronage of Jesus College, Cambridge.

TEWKESBURY, a borough, market town and parish, in the hundred of the same name, Gloucester, on the banks of the Severn, near its junction with the Avon, 9 miles from Cheltenham, and 104 from London; containing 859 houses and 4399 inhabitants; of whom 1334 were employed in trade and manufacture, principally in those of stocking-knitting, frame-work, nails, and the manufacture of mustard and malting. The church is a Gothic structure, and one of the largest and most magnificent in England; it formerly belonged to the Mitred Abbey, founded here in the 8th century; it is built in the form of a cross, vaulted at top with stone, and supported by two rows of large round pillars. It is 300 feet long, and the great cross aisle, 120 feet; in the chancel are seven large painted windows, and it contains many splendid monuments, some of them very ancient; here lies Edward Prince of Wales, son of Henry VI. and George Duke of Clarence, brother of Edward IV. Here is a well endowed free school; an hospital founded by queen Mary, and several alms-houses, in the church-yard. The situation of the town is delightful, and almost encompassed with water, and the houses in general are well built. The magistracy of the corporation is vested in two bailiffs, who are justices of the peace, chosen annually out of 24 burgesses. This borough sends two members to parliament, chosen by the inhabitants paying scot and lot, the number of voters are about 550, and the returning officers the bailiffs. The Ham, near this place, is noted for its annual horse races. Near this town a battle was fought between the Yorkists and Lancastarians, in 1471, in which the latter were totally defeated, queen Margaret taken prisoner and sent to the tower, and her son prince Edward, was inhumanly murdered in cold blood after the battle. During the civil wars it was alternately in the hands of the royalists, and the parliamentary troops. The markets are on Wednesday and Saturday. Fairs, 7th March, 14th May, 22d June, 4th September, and 10th October. It is a curacy. Rudge's Gloucestershire, and Dydes Tewksbury.

Tewkesbury, the name of an hundred in Gloucester, lying at the northern extremity of the county, bordering on Warwickshire.

Tey, Great, a parish in the hundred of Lexden, Essex, 3 miles from Coggeshall, and 46 from London; containing 85 houses and 548 inhabitants. The church is pleasantly seated on an eminence, and has two side ailes supported by Tuscan pillars; a stone tower stands in the middle, containing 8 bells.—It is a rectory, rated at 18*l.*

Tey, Little, formerly a parish of itself, but now only a hamlet to the foregoing, and lying a little to the south of it, containing 7 houses and 36 inhabitants.

Tey, Marks, another parish in the same hundred, lying east of Little Tey; containing 38 houses and 249 inhabitants. It is called Marks Tey, from the family name of Merks, its ancient proprietors. The vicarage is not in charge, and belongs to Baliol College.

Teynham, a parish in the hundred of Teynham, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 12 miles from Chatham, and 42 from London; containing 78 houses and 422 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

Thame, a market town and parish in the hundred of Thame, Oxford, pleasantly seated on an eminence on the banks of the Thame, 10 miles from Oxford, and 46 from London; containing 435 houses and 2293 inhabitants; of whom 209 were returned employed in trade. The town consists of one large street, in the centre of which is a spacious market place. The church is a good Gothic structure. It has a free school and alms-house. In 1138. Alexander, Bishop of Lincoln, erected a monastery here, which at the general dissolution was given to the duke of Somerset. The river is navigable for barges to the Thames, at Dorchester. The market on Tuesday is well supplied with cattle. Fairs, Easter Tuesday, and Old Michælmas day. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* with Tetsworth, Towersey, and Sidenham chapels annexed.

Thame, a river which rises on the eastern side of Bucks, near Ivinghoe, crosses the county, and falls into the Thames at Dorchester, in Oxfordshire.

Thames, the most noted river of England, and navigable from its mouth to Lechlade, in Oxfordshire, a distance of 230 miles, and the tide flowing as high as Richmond in Surry, more than 70 miles from the ocean; from the depth of water at London, which is capable of navigating the largest ships, the metropolis is one of the greatest commercial ports in the universe. The water is exceedingly wholesome; and abounds with a variety of fish. Its banks westward from the metropolis, are ornamented with the most beautiful villas and pleasure grounds, and in its course it is joined by innumerable streams and rivulets, particularly the Colne, at Lechlade, the Charwell, at Oxford, the Tame and Isis, at Dorchester, near Poplar by the Lea, &c.; it is also joined by several navigable canals, viz. the Grand Junction Canal, the Oxford and Warwick Canal, at Oxford, and the Thames and Severn Canal, at Lechlade, forming a connected chain of inland navigation throughout the whole of the kingdom.

Thame, the name of a hundred in Oxfordshire, lying on the south-eastern side of the county, divided from Bucks, by a river of the same name.

Thames Ditton. See Ditton, Thames, Surry.

Thanet, Isle of, a part of the county of Kent, lying on the south shore of the Thames, 10 miles in length, from the North Foreland to Saar Bridge, and 8 miles across from Westgate to Sandwich Ferry; it is separated from the rest of the county by a narrow channel of the Stour. It contains 10 parishes, and the populous bathing places of Margate and Ramsgate; the soil is particularly fertile for grain, and the south and west parts are excellent pasture and marshland.

Thannington, a parish in the hundred of Westgate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, on the banks of the Stour, 1 mile from Canterbury; containing 51 houses and 239 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Tharston, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 9 miles from Norwich, and 100 from London; containing 49 houses and 372 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the bishop of Ely.

Thakeham, a parish in the hundred of Easteaswrith, rape of Bramber, Sussex, near Steyning; containing 69 houses and 539 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

THATCHAM, a parish in the hundred of Reading, Berks, 2 miles from Newbury, and 53 from London; containing 407 houses and 1995 inhabitants; of whom 770 were employed in trade. It was formerly a market town; and is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.* with Greenham and Midgham chapels annexed.

THAXTED, a market town and parish in the hundred of Dunmow, Essex, near the rise of the Chelmer, 6 miles from Dunmow, and 47 from London; containing 344 houses and 1894 inhabitants, of whom 575 were employed in trade. The manufacture of cutlery was formerly carried on here to a great extent, but that branch has now failed. The church is a neat and spacious building, with a tower and lofty spire, erected by John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster; the dissenters and quakers have also two neat meeting-houses. It was formerly a borough, and much more considerable than at present. Here is a charity school, and a market on Friday. Fairs, Monday before Whit Sunday, and 10th August. It is a vicarage, rated at 24*l.*

THEAKSTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Burneston, Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Bedale, and 220 from London; containing 17 houses and 73 inhabitants.

THEALE, a tything in the parish of Tilehurst, hundred of Reading, Berks, situated on the river Kennet, 4 miles from Reading.

THEALE, the name of a hundred in Berks, lying in the centre of the county, west of Reading.

THEARNE, a hamlet in the parish of St. John, Beverley, east riding of York.

THEBERTON, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Saxmundham, and 93 from London; containing 62 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

THEDDINGWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 44 miles from Market Harborough, and 85 from London; containing 34 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*

THEDLETHORPE, ALLSAINTS, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Saltfleethy, and 61 from London; containing 39 houses and 194 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 7*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

THEDLETHORPE, ST. HELENS, another parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 44 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 18*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* united with Mablethorpe.

THEDWESTRY, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, lying on the western side of the county, between Stow Market and Bury St. Edmund's.

THELBRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 4 miles from Chumleigh, and 190 from London; containing 31 houses and 155 inhabitants.

THELNETHAM, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 3 miles from Botesdale, and 83 from London; containing 65 houses and 444 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

THELVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 2 miles from Diss, and 96 from London; containing 20 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

THELWALL, a hamlet in the parish of Runcorn, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 8 miles from Northwich, and 181 from London; containing 55 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is supposed to have been anciently a large town.

THENFORD, a parish in the hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 5 miles from Banbury, and 66 from London; containing 35 houses and 155 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

THEOBALDS, a hamlet in the parish of Cheshunt, Herts, situated on the New River, 12 miles from London; noted as the favorite residence of James I. originally built by the lord treasurer Burleigh. Its park was 10 miles in circumference; but the whole of this building was taken down in 1765, and the grounds converted into farms.

THERFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 2 miles from Royston, and 35½ from London; containing 129 houses and 707 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 50*l.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's.

THETFORD, a market town consisting of 3 parishes, in the hundred of Shropham, Norfolk, on the borders of Suffolk, 19 miles from Newmarket, and 80 from London; containing 483 houses and 2245 inhabitants; of whom 307 were employed in various trades. The parish of St. Mary's, lies on the Suffolk side of the river Ouse, on which side the whole of the town is recorded to have originally stood, together with several religious houses. In the reign of Edward III. the town contained 20 churches, 8 monasteries, 6 hospitals, and 24 streets, besides numerous lanes. The principal part of the town, consisting of the parishes of St. Peter's and St. Cuthbert's, is now on the Norfolk side of the Ouse, having several extensive streets, with many handsome buildings. St. Peter's church is a neat building, and has a handsome steeple containing 8 new bells, erected in 1789; when the church was thoroughly repaired. A handsome market cross has been built, which has a neat portico and pallisades in front; it is covered with cast iron. On the site of a Cluniac priory, is an hospital and free grammar-school.—The Guildhall at which the lent assizes for the county are held, is an ancient building of black flints. It was incorporated in the reign of queen Elizabeth, under a mayor, recorder, 10 aldermen, and 20 common-councilmen; and sends two members to parliament, chosen by the corporation, the returning officer being the mayor. This town has a considerable manufacture of woollen cloth and paper, and a trade to Lynn, by the navigation of the Ouse. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 14th May, 2d August, and 15th September. The living of St. Peter's is a rectory, value 5*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* united with that of St. Cuthbert's, which is also a rectory, in the patronage of the duke of Grafton: St. Mary's, is a curacy.—Martin's Hist. of Thetford.

THETFORD, a small hamlet near Ely, in Cambridgshire.

THEYDON BOIS, a parish in the hundred of Ongar, Essex, 14 miles from London; containing 59 houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

THEYDON GARNON, another parish in the same hundred, ½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 96 houses and 517 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.*

THEDON, MOUNT, a third parish, ¾ mile farther from the preceding one, and 15½ from London; containing 25 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and is united with Stapleford Tawney.

THICKLEY, a hamlet in the parish of St. Andrew's Auckland, Darlington ward, Durham, 2 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 256 from London; containing 2 houses and 13 inhabitants.

THIMBLEBY, a parish in the hundred of Horncastle, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1 mile from Horncastle, and 140 from London; containing 49 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

THIMBLEBY, a hamlet in the parish of Osmotherley, wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 9 miles from Thirsk, and 232 from London; containing 24 houses and 163 inhabitants.

THIMBLETHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 2 miles from Reepham, and 114 from London; containing 14 houses and 70 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

THINGDON. See TINDON, Northampton.

THINGHILL, GREAT and LITTLE, hamlets in the parish of Withington, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, near Hereford.

THINGOE, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, lying on the western side of the county, around Bury St. Edmund's.

THINGWELL, a village in the parish of Woodchurch, and the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 5 miles from Parkgate; containing 10 houses and 52 inhabitants.

THIRKLEBY, a parish in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Thirsk, and 220 from London; containing 49 houses and 281 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* and is in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

THIRKLEBY, a hamlet in the parish of Kirby, Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 10 miles from Hunmanby, and 200 from London; containing 6 houses and 39 inhabitants.

THIRKLEBY, a hamlet in the parish of Swine, Holderness, wapentake, east riding of York, 5 miles from Hull, and 180 from London; containing 8 houses and 44 inhabitants.

THIRLBY, a township in the parish of Felixkirk, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3½ miles from Helmsley; contains 32 houses and 168 inhabitants.

THIRLWALL, a hamlet in the parish of Haltwhistle, Tindal ward, Northumberland, situated near the borders of Cumberland, 316 miles from London; where the Picts wall passed the river Tipple, near the Irthing. It had formerly an ancient castle. It contains 30 houses and 322 inhabitants; and is sometimes called Wall Town.

THIRN, a hamlet in the parish of Watlass, Hang east wapentake, north riding of York, 8 miles from Masham, and 227 from London; containing 26 houses and 131 inhabitants.

THIRSK, a borough, market town, and parish, in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 8 miles from Northallerton, and 223 from London, lying on each side the small river Codbeck; the one part called the Old, the other the New Town; and containing 513 houses and 2092 inhabitants; of whom 423 were returned employed in trade and manufactures, principally in coarse linens, sacking, &c. The church is a fine old building, erected out of the ruins of its castle, destroyed by Henry IV. The quakers have a neat meeting-house, and the methodists a good chapel on St. James's Green. It is a borough by prescription, and sends two members to parliament, chosen by the burgageholders of that part called Old Thirsk. The returning officer is the bailiff, who is also chosen by the burgage holders.—This town has a bank. Market, on Monday. Fairs, first Monday before Lent, 5th April, 5th August, 29th October, and first Tuesday after St. Andrew's day for cattle, cheese, linens, pedlary, &c. It is a curacy.

THIRSTONLANE, a township in the parish of Kirkburton, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Huddersfield, and 182 from London; containing 126 houses and 783 inhabitants.

THISLETON, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster.

THISLETON, or FRISELTON, a village in the hundred of Alstoe, Rutland, 8 miles from Oakham, and 92 from London; containing 29 houses and 143 inhabitants.

THIXENDALE, a hamlet in the parish of Wharram Percy, east riding of York.

THOLTHORPE, a township in the parish of Alne, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Aldborough, and 210 from London; containing 29 houses and 143 inhabitants.

THOMASTOWN, a town in the county of Kerry, and province of Leinster, Ireland, seated on a small river that falls into the Nore, 8 miles from Kilkenny, and 58 from Dublin.

THOMOND, a district of Ireland, which now contains the county of Clare, in the province of Munster.

THOMPSON, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 3 miles from Watton, and 88 from London; containing 46 houses and 383 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

THONG, NETHER and UPPER, two townships in the parish of Aldmondbury, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Huddersfield, and 183 from London; the former containing 119 houses and 679 inhabitants; the latter, 191 houses and 1033 inhabitants.

THORALBY, a township in the parish of Aysgarth, Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Askrigg, and 242 from London; containing 67 houses and 313 inhabitants.

THORESBY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 8 miles from Louth, and 145 from London; containing 22 houses and 150 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6l. 3s. 6d. and is in the patronage of the king.

THORESBY, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 8 miles from Grimsby, and 162 from London; containing 74 houses and 378 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 24l. 10s. 10d.

THORESWAY, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Market Raisin, and 154 from London; containing 10 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8l. 10s. 10d. and is in the patronage of the king.

THORGANBY, a parish in the same hundred as the preceding, 5 miles from Caistor; containing 14 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6l. 0s. 10d.

THORLBY, a hamlet in the parish of Skipton, west riding of York.

THORLEY, a parish in the division of West Medina, Isle of Wight, 1¼ mile from Yarmouth; and containing 19 houses and 128 inhabitants.

THORMANBY, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Thirsk, and 217 from London; containing 25 houses and 131 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8l. 2s. 11d.

THORNABY, a township in the parish of Stainton, Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Stockton, and 248 from London; containing 30 houses and 167 inhabitants.

THORNAGE, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 2 miles from Holt, and 117 from London; containing 45 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6l. 18s. 4d.

THORNAUGH, a parish in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 5 miles from Stamford, and 82 from London; containing 41 houses and 214 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17l. 1s. 1d.

THORNBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 2 miles from Buckingham, and 55 from London; containing 84 houses and 458 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8l. 17s.

THORNBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Corbridge, Tindal ward, Northumberland, near Corbridge, and 278 miles from London; containing 12 houses and 84 inhabitants.

THORNBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of South Kelvington, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Thirsk; containing 6 houses and 39 inhabitants.

THORNBURY, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 2 miles from Holdsworthy, and 112 from London; containing 60 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11l. 4s.

THORNBURY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Thornbury, Gloucester, situated on a rivulet that falls into the Severn, 2 miles distant; being 11 miles from Bristol, and 124 from London; containing 173 houses and 856 inhabitants; exclusive of 6 adjacent tythings, containing 2131 inhabitants. The town consists principally of one irregular street about ½ mile in length, in a low and dirty situation; the church is spacious, in the form of a cathedral, and has a high tower. Here is a free school, and 4 almshouses. The parish is very extensive, being near 20 miles in compass; the town which is a borough by prescription, is governed by a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 2 constables. Here are the remains of a magnificent palace, began by the great duke of Buckingham, in 1511, but the completion of it and a navigable canal to the Severn, was prevented by his attainder and death. The market is on Saturday; its fairs are Easter Monday, 15th August, and the Monday before St. Thomas's day. It is a vicarage, rated at 25l. 15s. 10d. and is in the patronage of Christ Church College, Oxford.—Rudder's Gloucestershire.

THORNBURY, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Bromyard, and 130 from London; containing 38 houses, and 195 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5l. 6s. 8d.

THORNBURY, the name of a hundred in Gloucester, lying in the southern part of the county, bordering on the Severn.

THORNBY, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, 11 miles from Northampton, and 73 from London; containing 40 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13l.

THORNCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Axminster, Devon, 5 miles from Axminster, and 145 from London; containing 217 houses and 1092 inhabitants. Fair, Easter Tuesday. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

THORNDON, EAST and WEST. See HORNDON, Essex.

THORNDON, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 85 from London; containing 63 houses and 326 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

THORNDON, a hamlet in the parish of Herne, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Canterbury.

THORNE, a market town and parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 7 miles from Snaith, and 167 from London; containing 569 houses and 2655 inhabitants, of whom 1282 were employed in trade. This town is situated in a very damp and marshy soil, being entirely surrounded by the rivers Don, Aire, Ouse, and the Dutch river, communicating with each other, and as well as the Stainforth and Headley canal passing the end of the town, and having a branch to Thorne wharf. The market is on Wednesday; fairs, first Monday and Tuesday after 11th June, and 11th October.—It is a curacy.

THORNEFALCON, a parish in the hundred of North Curry, Somerset, 4 miles from Taunton, and 140 from London; containing 49 houses and 157 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 10*s.*

THORNE, ST. MARGARET'S, a parish in the hundred of Milverton, Somerset, 3 miles from Wellington, and 152 from London; containing 26 houses and 143 inhabitants.

THORNEY, a parish in the Isle of Ely Cambridge, 6 miles from March, and 86 from London; containing 245 houses 1598 inhabitants. This was formerly a market town, called Thorney Abbey; and more anciently, Ankridge, from the Anchorets Monastery erected here by Sexulfus, abbot of Peterborough. Its name is supposed to be derived from its situation among thorns and bushes. It is a curacy.

THORNEY, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 6 miles from Tuxford, and 156 from London; containing 19 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

THORNEYBURN, a hamlet in the parish of Simonburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Hexham, and 290 from London; containing 42 houses and 163 inhabitants.

THORNEY, WEST, a parish in the hundred of Bosham, rape of Chichester, Sussex, and a river island, in the mouth of Chichester harbour, opposite Brackelsham bay, 5 miles from Chichester, and 67 from London; containing 10 houses and 70 inhabitants. It is a prebendary, rated at 12*l.*

THORNGAD, a parish in the hundred and division of Sherborn, Dorset, 3 miles from Sherborn, and 118 from London; containing 47 houses and 256 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

THORNGATE, the name of a hundred in Hants, lying on the western side of the county, bordering on Wilts.

THORNGRAFTON, a township in the parish of Haltwhistle, Tindal ward, Northumberland, near Haltwhistle, and 314 from London; containing 47 houses and 239 inhabitants.

THORNGUMBOLD, a hamlet in the parish of Paul, Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 2 miles from Hedon, and 185 from London; containing 40 houses and 190 inhabitants.

THORGANBY, a parish in the wapentake of Ouze and Derwent, east riding of York, 8 miles from Selby, and 190 from London; containing 57 houses and 294 inhabitants.

THORNHAM, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Eye, and 86 from London; containing 43 houses and 295 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* united with THORNHAM LITTLE, an adjacent parish; containing 17 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 4*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* and is united with the foregoing.

THORNHAM, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 3 miles from Maidstone, and 38 from London; containing 64 houses and 348 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*d.*

THORNHAM, a township in the parish of Middleton, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 8 miles from Manchester, and 188 from London; containing 114 houses and 674 inhabitants.

THORNHAM, a parish in the hundred of Smithdon, Norfolk, 4 miles from Burnham, and 124 from London; containing 99 houses and 537 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

THORNHILL, a parish in Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Wakefield, and 187 from London; containing 291 houses and 1499 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 40*l.* 7*d.*

THORNHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Morton, shire of Dumfries, Scotland, near the river Nith, 12 miles from Sanquhar. It is regularly built in two streets, intersecting each other, at which is a neat stone pillar; It contains 430 inhabitants. Here are held 4 annual fairs; the second Tuesday, O. S. in February, May, August, and November.

THORNHOLME, a hamlet in the parish of Burton Agnes, Dickering Lyth, east riding of York, 5 miles from Bridlington, and 203 from London; containing 16 houses and 81 inhabitants.

THORNLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Kelloe, Easington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Durham, and 254 from London; containing 9 houses and 56 inhabitants.

THORNLEY, or THORLEY, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, 2 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 28 from London; containing 55 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

THORNLEY, a township in the parish of Chipping, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 12 miles from Blackburn, and 221 from London; containing 76 houses and 387 inhabitants.

THORNSCOE, a village in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 7 miles from Doncaster, and 169 from London; containing 38 houses and 192 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 3 miles from Buckingham, and 57 from London; containing 14 houses and 85 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

THORNTON, a township in the parish of Norham, in Northamshire, Durham, 5 miles from Tweedmouth, and 336 from London; containing 38 houses and 212 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a township in the parish of Poulton, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 1½ mile from Poulton, and 235 from London; containing 126 houses and 617 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a township in the parish of Sephton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 7 miles from Liverpool, and 212 from London; containing 56 houses and 230 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 7 miles from Leicester, and 103 from London; containing 64 houses and 320 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 34*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.* and is united with Bagworth.

THORNTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1 mile from Horncastle, and 140 from London; containing 18 houses and 97 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a parish in the division of Bainton Bencon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 8 miles from Weighton, and 198 from London; containing 44 houses and 257 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a hamlet in the parish of Coxwold, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Easinwold; containing 9 houses and 71 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a township in the parish of Foston, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Malton, and 212 from London; containing 27 houses and 146 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a hamlet in the parish of Cundall, Halikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Aldborough; containing 5 houses and 33 inhabitants.

THORNTON, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Bradford, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Bradford; containing 489 houses and 2474 inhabitants, of whom 1763 were returned employed in various trades.

THORNTON, a parish in the wapentake of Staincliffe, west riding of York, 10 miles from Skipton; containing 215 houses and 1202 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

THORNTON, another parish in the wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, west riding of York, 10 miles from Settle, and 242 from London; containing 235 houses and 1060 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

THORNTON CURTIS, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Barton, and 165 from London; containing 35 houses and 242 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

THORNTON DALE, a parish in Pickering lyth, north riding of York, 2 miles from Pickering, and 235 from London; containing 139 houses and 731 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

THORNTON, EAST, and WEST, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Hartburn, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Morpeth; containing 16 houses and 79 inhabitants.

THORNTON IN THE MOOR, a village in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 6 miles from Chester, and 180 from London; containing 18 houses and 156 inhabitants.

THORNTON LE MOOR, a parish in the hundred of Walsheroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Market Raisin; containing 9 houses and 50 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

THORNTON LE MOOR, a township in the parish of North Otterington, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 4½ miles from Thirsk, and 227 from London; containing 47 houses and 261 inhabitants.

THORNTON LE BEANS, another village in the parish of North Otterington, 6 miles from Thirsk; containing 43 houses and 189 inhabitants.

THORNTON LE STREET, a parish in the wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 3 miles from Thirsk, and 226 from London; containing 24 houses and 112 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Christ-church college, Oxford.

THORNTON MAYES, a parish in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 4 miles from Parkgate, and 190 from London; containing 36 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

THORNTON RUST, a township in the parish of Aysgarth, Hang West wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Askrigg, and 244 from London; containing 33 houses and 130 inhabitants.

THORNTON STEWARD, a parish in Hang West wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Masham, and 229 from London; containing 44 houses and 222 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*

THORNTON WATLASS, a parish in Hang

East wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Masham, and 228 from London; containing 33 houses and 184 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

THORNVILLE-ROYAL, a hamlet in the parish of Wixley, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, near Knaresborough; containing 2 houses.

THORNWAITE, a township in the parish of Hampsthwaite, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, near Ripley, and 214 miles from London; containing 45 houses and 229 inhabitants.

THORNWOOD, a hamlet in the parish of Epping, hundred of Harlow, Essex, 2½ miles from Epping, and 19 from London; containing 38 houses and 191 inhabitants.

THOROTON, a village in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 3 miles from Bingham, and 122 from London; containing 24 houses and 110 inhabitants.

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, 3 miles from Ashborn, and 143 from London; containing 29 houses and 152 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean of Lincoln.

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Spilsby, and 130 from London; containing 38 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 3 miles from Norwich, and 112 from London; containing 70 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 5 miles from Beccles, and 114 from London; containing 11 houses and 71 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 4 miles from Newark, and 120 from London; containing 9 houses and 44 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

THORPE, a village in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, near Nottingham; containing 2 houses and 20 inhabitants.

THORPE, a parish in the hundred of Godley and Chertsey, Surry, 2 miles from Egham, and 18 from London; containing 93 houses and 485 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king. Fair, 9th June.

THORPE, a hamlet in the parish and wapentake of Howden, east riding of York, near Howden; containing 6 houses and 54 inhabitants.

THORPE, a township in the parish of Wycliff, Gilling West wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Barnard Castle, and 242 from London; containing 27 houses and 138 inhabitants.

THORPE, a township in the parish of Burnsall, Staincliff wapentake, west riding of York; 12 miles from Settle, and 220 from London; containing 37 houses and 147 inhabitants.

THORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Ashfield, hundred of Thredling, Suffolk, near Ipswich.

THORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Aldringham, hundred of Blything, Suffolk, near Aldborough.

THORPE, a hamlet in the township of Whitcliff, and parish and liberties of Ripon, west riding of York.

THORPEACRE, a township in the parish of Dishley, hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 1½ mile from Loughborough, and 110 from London; containing 50 houses and 225 inhabitants.

THORPE ARNOLD, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 2 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 106 from London; containing 17 houses and 73 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

THORPE ACHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, 3 miles from Thrapston, and 78 from London; containing 44 houses and 208 inhabitants.

THORPE ABBOTT'S, or CORNWALLIS, a parish in the hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harleston, and 96 from London; containing 20 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.*

THORPE ARCH, a parish in the liberties of York Ainstey, east riding of York, 4 miles from Tadcaster, and 193 from London; containing 63 houses and 314 inhabitants.

THORPE AUGLING, a village in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 5 miles from Pontefract, and 173 from London; containing 46 houses and 200 inhabitants.

THORPE BASSETT, a parish in the wapentake of Buckrose, east riding of York, 5 miles from Malton, and 222 from London; containing 22 houses and 145 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

THORPE BALNE, a hamlet in the parish of Balne, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Doncaster, and 167 from London; containing 16 houses and 102 inhabitants.

THORPE BULMER, a hamlet in the parish of Hart, Easington ward, Durham, 11 miles from Stockton, and 260 from London; containing 3 houses and 24 inhabitants.

THORPE BY WATER, a hamlet in the parish of Seaton, hundred of Wrandike, Rutland, 4 miles from Uppingham, and 85 from London; containing 17 houses and 100 inhabitants.

THORPE CONSTANTYNE, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 4 miles from Tamworth, and 119 from London; containing 5 houses and 62 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

THORPE LANGTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of East Langton, hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 3 miles from Market Harborough, and 85 from London; containing 49 houses and 186 inhabitants.

THORPE LE SOKEN, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 12 miles from Colchester, and 16 from Harwich; containing 142 houses and 974 inhabitants. This, as well as the two adjoining parishes of Kirby and Walton, is called le Soken, from their having peculiar privileges granted, when these parishes were chiefly inhabited by French refugees, and it was called the Liberty of the Soken. The church is a low ancient building, having a square tower with 5 bells. Here is a Methodist chapel newly erected. The remains of one of their religious houses are still observable near the church. Fairs, Monday before Whitsuntide, and 29th September, chiefly for hiring servants. The living is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* united with Kirby and Walton, all of exempt jurisdiction.

THORPE LUBBENHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Marston Trussell, hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, near Market Harborough.

THORPE MALSOR, a parish in the hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, 2 miles from Kettering, and 76 from London; containing 48 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

THORPE MANDEVILLE, a parish in the hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 5 miles from Banbury, and 70 from London; containing 34 houses and 137 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

THORPE MARKET, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walsham, and 126 from London; containing 30 houses and 147 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* with the donative of the Mediety of Bradford annexed.

THORPE MORIEUX, a parish in the hundred of Cosford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Lavenham, and 64 from London; containing 47 houses and 271 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*

THORPE ON THE HILL, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 6 miles from Lincoln, and 130 from London; containing 35 houses and 190 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

THORPE SACKVILLE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Twyford, hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 9 miles from Leicester, and 97 from London; containing 28 houses and 141 inhabitants.

THORPE SALVIN, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Laughton, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 7 miles from Worksop, and 153 from London; containing 34 houses and 180 inhabitants.

THORPE STAPLETON, a hamlet in the parish of Whitchurch, near Leeds, west riding of York.

THORPE THEWLES, a small hamlet in Stockton ward, Durham, near Grindon.

THORPE TILNEY, a small village in the hundred of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 10 miles from Sleaford, and 126 from London; containing 15 houses and 90 inhabitants.

THORPE UNDERWOOD, a hamlet in the parish of little Ouseburn, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 6 miles from Aldborough, and 206 from London; containing 24 houses and 146 inhabitants.

THORPE WEST, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Lincoln, and 140 from London; containing 9 houses and 56 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* united with East Thorpe, or Aisthorpe.

THORPE UNDERWOOD, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Rothwell, Northampton, ½ mile from Rothwell, and 79 from London; containing 2 houses and 20 inhabitants.

THORPE WILLOUGHBY, a township in the parish of Brayton, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, 2¼ miles from Selby, and 183 from London; containing 22 houses and 121 inhabitants.

THORRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 4 miles from Halesworth, and 97 from London; containing 16 houses and 125 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

THORRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 7 miles from Colchester, and 57 from London; containing 41 houses and 271 inhabitants.

THORVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Hayridge, Devon, 5 miles from Cred ton, and and 175 from London; containing 306 houses and 1108 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* with Methefex chapel annexed, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

THRANDESTON, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 93 from London; containing 41 houses and 305 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

THRAPSTON, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, situated on the river Nen, 16¾ miles from Huntingdon, and 75 from London; containing 121 houses and 675 inhabitants. Many of the houses are well built, and it has a handsome stone bridge over the river. It carries on a considerable trade by the Nen, it being navigable from Lynn to Northampton. In the neighbourhood is an elegant mansion, called Drayton-house, the residence of viscount Sackville; it is built on the ruins of an ancient castle, and has a handsome front with lofty towers at each end; before the house is a fine piece of water. The market is on Tuesday and is well stocked with hogs and butchers meat; fairs 1st Tuesday in May and 5th of August. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the king.

THREALS, a township in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amoundernes, Lancaster, 1 mile from Kirkham, and 226 from London; containing 121 houses and 675 inhabitants, including the hamlets of Roseacre and Wharles.

THRECKINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, parts of Kestoven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Folkingham, and 109 from London; containing 37 houses and 179 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* united with Stow.

THREEPLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Torpchow, Allerdale Ward, Cumberland, near Ireby.

THREDLING, the name of a hundred in Suffolk, near the centre of the county, around Debenham.

THREE CASTLE HEAD, on the coast of Cork, province of Munster, Ireland.

THREE SISTERS, three remarkable hills, on the Isthmus, between Smerewick and Ferritors Creek, in the county of Kerry, province of Munster, Ireland.

THRELKELD, a township and chapelry in the parish of Greystock, leath ward Cumberland, 5 miles from Penrith, and 288 from London; containing 68 houses and 260 inhabitants.

THRESHFIELD, a township in the parish of Linton, Staincliffe wapentake, west riding of York, 9 miles from Settle, and 225 from London; containing 41 houses and 201 inhabitants.

THRESTON, EAST and WEST, two hamlets forming one township, in the parish of Felton, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 9 miles from Morpeth, and 300 from London; containing 65 houses and 249 inhabitants.

THRIXTON, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 3 miles from Watton, containing 4 houses and 55 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

THRIGBY, a parish in the hundred of East Flegg, Norfolk, 4 miles from Caistor, and 123 from London; containing 8 houses and 63 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.*

THRIMBY, a hamlet in the parish of Morland, West ward, Westmoreland, 6 miles from Penrith; containining 8 houses and 60 inhabitants.

THRINGSTON, a township in the parish of Ashby-de-la-Zouch, hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, near Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 115 miles from London; containing 146 houses and 901 inhabitants.

THRIN, a river in Norfolk, which falls into the German Ocean, near Yarmouth.

THRIPLOW, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Cambridge, 8 miles from Cambridge, and 42 from London; containing 46 houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

THRIPLOW, the name of a hundred in Cambridge, at the southern extremity of the county, between the hundreds of Armingford and Whittlesford.

THROCKING, a hamlet in the parish of Cottered, hundred of Edwintree, Herts, 5 miles from Standon, and 31 from London; containing 10 houses and 58 inhabitants.

THROCKINGTON, a village in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 9 miles from Corbridge; containing 11 houses and 51 inhabitants.

THROCKMORTON, a hamlet in the parish of Fladbury, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 3½ miles from Pershore, and 106 from London; containing 22 houses and 150 inhabitants.

THROCKLEY, a township in the parish of Newburn, Castle ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Newcastle, and 282 from London; containing 42 houses and 188 inhabitants.

THROGGY, a river in Monmouthshire, which falls into the Severn, at Trinity Chapel.

THROP, a hamlet in the parish of Affpiddle, Dorsetshire.

THROPLE, a hamlet in the parish of Mitford, Morpeth Ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Morpeth, and 292 from London; containing 12 houses and 69 inhabitants.

THROPTON, a township in the parish of Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 2 miles from Rothbury, and 308 from London; containing 31 houses and 118 inhabitants.

THROSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Hart, Stockton ward, Durham, 10 miles from Stockton, and 258 from London; containing 9 houses and 58 inhabitants.

THROWLEY, a parish in the hundred of Feversham, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 3 miles from Feversham, and 48 from London; containing 67 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* belonging to the Prebendary thereof in St. Paul's cathedral.

THROWLEY, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 5 miles from Oakhampton, and 120 from London; containing 57 houses and 331 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* and in the patronage of the king.

THROXENBY, a hamlet in the parish of Sealby, Pickering lythe, north riding of York, near Pickering, and 225 miles from London; containing 8 houses and 48 inhabitants.

THRUMPTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Radcliff, hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 8 miles from Nottingham, and 120 from London; containing 29 houses and 121 inhabitants.

THRUPP, a village in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, near Woodstock, and 62 miles from London; containing 12 houses and 56 inhabitants.

THRUPPWICK, a hamlet in the parish of Farringdon, hundred of Hormer, Berks, near Farringdon; containing 3 houses and 25 inhabitants.

THRUSHELTON, a hamlet in the parish of Marystow, hundred of Lifton, Devon, 4 miles from Launceston, and 209 from London; containing 53 houses and 415 inhabitants.

THRUSSINGTON, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 7½ miles from Leicester, and 104 from London; containing 84 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

THRUXTON, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 6 miles from Hereford, and 141 from London; containing 11 houses and 75 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of the dean of Hereford.

THRUXTON, a parish in the division of West Medina, Isle of Wight, Hants, 9¼ miles from London; containing 19 houses and 128 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*

THRYBERGH, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 3 miles from Rotherham, and 160 from London; containing 50 houses and 247 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

THUNDERSLEY, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 10 miles from Billericay, and 36 from London; containing 59 houses and 354 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

THUNDRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, 2 miles from Ware on the river Rib, and 22 from London; containing 93 houses and 437 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* united with Ware, in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

THURCASTON, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Mount Sorrell, and 100 from London; containing 44 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

THURGARTON, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 6 miles from Aylsham, and 123 from London; containing 44 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

THURGARTON, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Notts, 4 miles from Southwell, and 128 from London; containing 62 houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

THURGARTON, the name of a hundred in Notts, lying in the centre of the county, on the western side of the Trent.

THURGOLAND, a township in the parish of Silkstone, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Barnsley, and 170 from London; containing 140 houses and 643 inhabitants.

THURLBY, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 9 miles from Lincoln, and 130 from London; containing 14 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a curacy, under the prebend of Carlton Thurlby, in Lincoln cathedral.

THURLEBEARE, a village in the hundred of North Curry, Somerset, 3 miles from Taunton, and 140 from London; containing 24 houses and 151 inhabitants.

THURLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 6 miles from Bedford, and 56 from London; containing 69 houses and 411 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.*

THURLESTON, a hamlet in the parish of Whitton, in the liberties of Ipswich, Suffolk, 2 miles from Ipswich; containing 36 houses and 210 inhabitants.

THURLESTONE, a township in the parish of Penistone, wapentake of Staincross, west riding of York, 9 miles from Barnsley, and 170 from London; containing 222 houses and 1096 inhabitants.

THURLMERE, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the Derwent, near Keswick.

THURLOW, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 5 miles from Clare, and 60 from London; containing 41 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

THURLOW, LITTLE, an adjacent parish in the same hundred as the foregoing; containing 48 houses and 348 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

THURLOXTON, a parish in the hundred of North Petherton, Somerset, 5 miles from Bridgewater, and 146 from London; containing 28 houses and 136 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

THURLSTON, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 5 miles from Hinckley, and 104 from London; containing 67 houses and 320 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.*

THURLSTON, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 5 miles from Beccles, and 114 from London; containing 56 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the corporation of Norwich.

THURLSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Stanborough, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge, and 210 from London, opposite the Berry head; containing 65 houses and 356 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 10*s.*

THURMASTON, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 3 miles from Leicester, and 99 from London; containing 22 houses and 111 inhabitants.

THURMASTON, SOUTH, another parish in the same hundred as the foregoing, and ½ mile distant therefrom; containing 106 houses and 595 inhabitants.

THURNBY, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 5 miles from Leicester, and 91 from London; containing 26 houses and 155 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* and is united with Stoughton.

THURNE, a parish in the hundred of West Flegg, Norfolk, 5 miles from Caistor, and 119 from London; containing 16 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 5*l.*

THURNHAM, a township situated in the parishes of Lancaster and Cockerham, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, 4 miles from Lancaster, and 234 from London; containing 69 houses and 363 inhabitants.

THURNING, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 6 miles from Oundle, and 75 from London; containing 26 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of Emanuel College, Cambridge.

THURNING, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 4 miles from Reepham, and 116 from London; containing 22 houses and 112 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

THURNSCOE, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Doncaster; containing 38 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

THURROCK, GRAYS, a market town and parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 24½ miles from London, near the river Thames, at the bottom of St. Clement's Reach; containing 83 houses and 677 inhabitants. It consists chiefly of one irregular street, in which is the market-house, over which is the room where the petit sessions are held; the church is an ancient building, in the form of a cross. The market is on Thursday, and is well supplied with corn, which is sold by samples. Fair, 23d May. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

THURROCK, LITTLE, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, ½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 15 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 15*s.*

THURROCK, WEST, a third parish, in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, lying 2 miles west of the foregoing, and 22 from London; containing 100 houses and 819 inhabitants; including the hamlet of Purfleet; and is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

THURSBY, a parish in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Carlisle, and 300 from London; containing 60 houses and 242 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Carlisle.

THURSFORD, a parish in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Walsingham, and 111 from London; containing 55 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.* in the patronage of St. John's College, Cambridge.

THURSLEY, a parish in the hundred of Godalming, Surry, 5 miles from Godalming, and 39 from London; containing 83 houses and 584 inhabitants.

THURSTABLE, the name of a hundred in Essex, lying on the eastern side of the county, and north of the river Blackwater.

THURSTASTON, a parish in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, on the banks of the river Dee, 4 miles from Parkgate, and 194 from London; containing 11 houses and 112 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Chester.

THURSTON, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 5 miles from Bury, and 69 from London; containing 71 houses and 354 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

THURTON, a parish in the hundred of Loddon, Norfolk, 6 miles from Bungay, and 112 from London; containing 22 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

THURWASTON, a township united with Oslaston, in the parish of Sutton, and hundred of Appletree, Derby, 6 miles from Derby; containing, including Oslaston, 42 houses and 263 inhabitants.

THUXTON, or THURSTON, a parish in the hundred of Mitford, Norfolk, 5 miles from East Dereham, and 96 from London; containing 8 houses and 61 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 4*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.*

THWAIT, a township and chapelry in the parish of Millom, Allerdale Ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, on a branch of the river Duddon, and on the borders of Lancashire, 6 miles from Ravenglass, and 290 from London; containing 99 houses and 523 inhabitants.

THWAITE, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aylsham, and 121 from London; containing 17 houses and 93 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.*

THWAITE, a parish in the hundred of Loddon, Norfolk, 3 miles from Bungay, and 109 from London; containing 16 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

THWAITE, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 2 miles from Mendlesham, and 91 from London; containing 15 houses and 129 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 5*d.*

TIBALDSTONE, the name of a hundred in Gloucester, lying on the northern side of the county, South of Evesham.

TIBBERMUIR, a parish in the shire of Perth, Scotland, on the banks of the Almond, and west side of the town of Perth; containing 284 houses and 1386 inhabitants; of whom 166 were returned employed principally in several print and bleachfields; these works are supplied with water by a canal from the Almond, formed as early as the year 1244. In this parish is the ancient castle of Huntingtower, the seat of the Gowrie, or Ruthven family, and the place where James VI. was some time confined by the earl of Gowrie and others; this enterprise is distinguished in Scottish history, by the appellation of the Raid of Ruthven; an extraordinary exploit of the daughter of the first Earl of Gowrie is recorded, called the maiden's leap, from one tower to the other, being 9 feet 4 inches over the chasms of 60 feet to recover her own chamber, when nearly detected in that of her lover, which she performed in safety.

Tibberton, a parish in the liberties of the Dutchy of Lancaster, Gloucester, 4 miles from Newent; containing 37 houses and 254 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 16.

Tibberton, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 3 miles from Worcester, and 115 from London; containing 36 houses and 208 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

Tibberton, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 7 miles from Hereford, and 42 from London; containing 17 houses and 92 inhabitants.

Tibberton, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Edgmond, hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Newport, and 143 from London; containing 50 houses and 289 inhabitants.

Tibenham, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 2½ miles from New Buckenham, and 97 from London; containing 57 houses and 531 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Tibthorpe, a township in the parish of Kirkburn, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 3 miles from Driffield, and 196 from London; containing 22 houses and 132 inhabitants.

Ticehurst, a parish in the hundred of Shoyswell, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 13 miles from Battle, and 43 from London; containing 223 houses and 1436 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

Tichbourn, a hamlet in the parish of Cheriton, and hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 2 miles from Alresford; containing 28 houses and 241 inhabitants.—Tichbourn-house is an ancient seat moated round, and supposed to have been built in the reign of Henry II. from which time a gift has been bestowed on Lady-day, of 2*l.* in bread or money to all who came.

Tickencote, a parish in the hundred of East, Rutland, 3 miles from Stamford, and 89 from London; containing 20 houses and 93 inhabitants. This place is remarkable for its ancient Saxon church, supposed by Dr. Stukeley, to be the oldest church remaining in England. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Tickenham, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, 8 miles from Bristol, and 121 from London; containing 41 houses and 276 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Bristol.

Tickhill, a market town and parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Doncaster, and 156 from London; containing 266 houses and 1104 inhabitants. The church is a large handsome building, and it had a strong castle and fortification, destroyed during the civil wars. This town gives name to a jurisdiction of a very great extent, and to which many manors owe suit and service. About ½ mile from the town is a bath called Possington Well, to which great virtues are attributed, but it is in little repute. Roch Abbey, about 2 miles distant, is situated in a very pleasant valley, having fine walks and plantations laid out by the earl of Scarborough. This is a much frequented spot, during the summer season. To the east is a large piece of water, formed by a rivulet that runs among the ruins, its banks are curiously diversified with rocks and ruins, interspersed with trees; under one of the rocks is the mouth of a cavern, said to have had communication with a monastery that stood near the castle. In a marsh near the town, was a hospital and free chapel, for several priests and brethren annexed to the priory of Humberstone. This town appears to have been a great place for maltsters, as every old house appears to have had a malt kiln attached to it. The market is on Friday. Fair, 21st August, for cattle, provision, and pedlery. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

Ticknall, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, 7 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 229 houses and 1125 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Tickton, a hamlet in the parish of Routh, in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, and liberties of Beverley, 3½ miles from Beverley, and 188 from London; containing 29 houses and 134 inhabitants.

Tid, St. Mary's, a parish in the hundred of Elloe, and parts of Holland, Lincoln, 7 miles from Holbeach, and 102 from London; containing 121 houses and 607 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 6*s.* 4*d* and is in the patronage of the king.

Tid, St. Giles, a parish 1½ mile from the preceding, in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge; containing 82 houses and 535 inhabitants.

Tidcomb, a parish in the hundred of Kinwardstone, Wilts, near Great Bedwin, and 76 miles from London; containing 38 houses and 210 inhabitants.

Tidenham, a parish in the hundred of Westbury, Gloucester, 3 miles from Chepstow, from which it is divided by the river Wye; containing 138 houses and 696 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Tideswell, a market town and parish in the hundred of High Peak, Derby, 5 miles from Buxton, and 160 from London; containing 284 houses and 1351 inhabitants; of whom 647 were returned employed in trade. The town is but indifferently built, but the church is large and tolerably well built, erected in 1356. The name of this town is derived from its ebbing and flowing well, reckoned one of the wonders of Derbyshire. The bason, a receiver for the water, is about 3 feet square, but seems to have had some other receiver within the rock, as the water from the original stream appears to pour in, and forces its way into the bason with a bubbling noise, and when the contracted air is spent within, it then stops for an interval of about 20 minutes in a wet season, but in dry weather the intervals of its flowing are from 3 to 4 hours. The market is on Wednesday; Fairs, 3d May, 18th October, and 1st Wednesday in September. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Litchfield.

TIDI, a river in Cornwall, rising near Leskeard, and passing St. Germains, joins the Lynher, both falling into the Tamar.

TIDMARSH, a parish in the hundred of Theale, Berks, near the Thames, 6 miles from Reading, and 43 from London; containing 24 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

TIDMINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Shipston-on-Stour, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 1 mile from Shipston, and 82 from London; containing 11 houses and 62 inhabitants.

TIDWEL, a hamlet in the parish of Budley, Devon, noted for a warm spring of water.

TIDWORTH, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Amesbury, Wilts, on the borders of Hants, 2 miles from Ludgershall, and 72 from London; containing 55 houses and 240 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.* and in the patronage of the king.

TIDWORTH, SOUTH, a parish adjoining to the foregoing, in the hundred and division of Andover, Hants, 7 miles from Andover, and 70 from London; containing 22 houses and 175 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*

TIERKELLY, a village in the county of Down, province of Ulster, Ireland, 2 miles from Rathfrilland, and 58 from Dublin, noted for a good chalybeat spring.

TIFFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Towcester, Northampton, 2 miles from Towcester, and 61 from London; containing 29 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

TIGHE. See TEIGH, Rutland.

TILBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Stodden, Bedford, 1½ mile from Kimbolton, and 64 from London; containing 40 houses and 219 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.*

TILBURY, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 3 miles from Clare, and 52 from London; containing 26 houses and 168 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

TILBURY, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, situated near the Thames, in the marshes of that angle of land formed by the winding of the Thames, from the Hope to Gravesend Reach. It is 3 miles from Grays Thurrock, but the nearest road from London, is by Gravesend and across the Ferry at Tilbury Fort, 23 miles. It contains 31 houses and 173 inhabitants; several caverns of great magnitude are dug in the cliffs, in this parish. The fort is situated close to the banks of the Thames, opposite Gravesend. It is a regular fortification, first built by Henry VIII. as a block-house; after the damage done to the shipping in the Thames, by the Dutch, in 1667, it was much enlarged. The engineer of these works in the reign of Charles II. was Sir Martin Beckman, who also designed the works at Sheerness. The original design was a regular pentagon, but the water bastion was never built. The esplanade is very large, and the bastions the largest of any in England; they are faced with brick, and are surrounded with a double ditch or moat, the innermost being 180 feet broad, and has a good counterscarp. On the landside are two small redoubts of brick, but the chief strength of this fort on the land side, is, its being able to lay the whole level under water. On the side next the river is a very strong curtain, having a strong gate in the middle called the Watergate, and the ditch palisaded. At the place intended for the water bastion, and which by the plan should have run out into the river, so as to command both the curtains, stands a high tower, erected by queen Elizabeth, which was called the Block-house. Before this curtain is a platform, instead of a counterscarp mounted with 106 cannons, from 24 to 46 pounders, besides which there are smaller pieces planted between them and the bastions and curtains, which are well planted with guns; the interior of the fort, contains all the necessary apartments for the garrison; and it now contains the residence of a Fort Major, with a small detatchment doing duty here; but it is chiefly used as a depot for the recruits of the district. The church is a small building. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with East Lee chapel annexed; there formerly was another chapel in this parish.

TILBURY WEST, an adjoining parish, 2 miles from Tilbury Fort, and is mentioned as the see of a bishop in the time of the Saxons. It contains 36 houses and 201 inhabitants. There are still some traces of queen Elizabeth's camp, formed here in 1588, when the kingdom was threatened by the Spanish armada; two Roman ways cross each other at this place. In 1734, a medicinal spring was discovered in this parish. The living is a rectory, value 20*l.* and is in the patronage of the king, with West Lee chapel annexed.

TILEHURST, a parish in the hundred of Reading, Berks, 2½ miles from Reading and 40 from London; containing 254 houses and 1353 inhabitants, of whom 103 were returned employed in trade. The rectory and vicarage are united, and are rated at 21*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*

TILLICOULTRY, a parish in the shire of Clackmannan, Scotland, on the banks of the Dovan, 12 miles from Stirling; containing 224 houses and 916 inhabitants, including the villages of Earlstown, Coalsnaughton, and Westertown. This parish produces excellent coal, and iron-stone, which are wrought by a mining company, called the Dovan iron company.

TILLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Great Mintern, Dorset.

TILLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Dengy, Essex, 10 miles from Maldon and 47 from London; containing 115 houses and 695 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 25*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's.

TILLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Mary's, Stafford, hundred of Pirehill, Stafford; containing only 3 houses and 29 inhabitants.

TILLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Rotherbridge, rape of Arundel, Sussex, near Petworth, and 50 miles from London; containing 90 houses and 614 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.*

TILMANSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Eastry, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Deal and 70 from London; containing 40 houses and 229 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

TILNEY ALLSAINTS, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Marshland, Norfolk, 8 miles from Lynn and 95 from London; containing 71 houses and 490 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 30*l.* and is in the patronage of Pembroke-hall, Cambridge.

TILNEY ST. LAWRENCE, an adjoining parish in the same hundred; containing 68 houses and 362 inhabitants.

TILSDOWN, a hamlet in the parish of Dursley, Gloucester.

TILSEY, a hamlet in the parish of West Leigh, hundred of Salford, Lancaster.

TILSHEAD, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 10 miles from Amesbury and 87 from London; containing 57 houses and 327 inhabitants.

TILSOP, a village in the hundred of Overs, Salop, 3 miles from Cleobury Mortimer and 134 from London; containing 52 houses and 251 inhabitants, including the adjoining hamlets of Nash and Weston.

TILSTOCK, a hamlet in the parish of Whitchurch, and hundred of North Bradford, Salop, in the road to Wem.

TILSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Broxton, Chester, 8 miles from Malpas and 168 from London; containing 48 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TILSTON FERNAL, a hamlet in the parish of Bunbury, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 6 miles from Nantwich and 170 from London; containing 19 houses and 130 inhabitants.

TILSWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 2¼ miles from Dunstable and 36 from London; containing 38 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

TILTEY, a parish in the hundred of Dunmow, Essex, 3 miles from Dunmow and 40 from London; containing 11 houses and 64 inhabitants. The parish church was formerly the chapel to an abbey of White Monks. It is a curacy.

TILTON, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 2½ miles from Bildeston; containing 33 houses and 140 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

TIMBERLAND, a parish in the hundred of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 5 miles from Tattershall and 125 from London; containing 74 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 2*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

TIMBERSCOMB, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 2 miles from Dunstable and 164 from London; containing 68 houses and 356 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TIMBLE, GREAT, a township in the parish of Ripley, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, near Ripley and 215 miles from London; containing 37 houses and 172 inhabitants.

TIMBLE, LITTLE, a township in the parish of Otley, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, one mile distant from the foregoing; containing 10 houses and 59 inhabitants.

TIMOLEAGUE, a decayed town in the county of Cork, province of Munster, Ireland, seated on an arm of the sea, now choaked up with sand, but formerly navigable.

TIMPERLEY, a township in the parish of Altrincham, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 1 mile from Altrincham and 179 from London; containing 84 houses and 586 inhabitants.

TIMSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Kingsomborne, division of Andover, Hants, 2 miles from Romsey, near the Andover canal, and 75 from London; containing 29 houses and 178 inhabitants.

TIMSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Chew, Somerset, 8 miles from Bath and 115 from London; containing 128 houses and 714 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

TIMWORTH, a parish in the hundred and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 2 miles from Basingstoke and 46 from London; containing 12 houses and 94 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

TIMWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 3 miles from Bury St. Edmunds and 74 from London; containing 19 houses and 145 inhabitants.

TINDAL, the name of a ward in Northumberland, being the south-western division of the county, bordering on Cumberland.

TINEHALLY, a town and county of Wicklow, province of Leinster, Ireland, 38 miles from Dublin.

TINGEWICK, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 2½ miles from Buckingham and 59 from London; containing 133 houses and 642 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

TINGRITH, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 6 miles from Dunstable and 40 from London; containing 23 houses and 116 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

TINGWALL, a parish in the main land of Shetland, united with Weisdale and Whiteness; containing 314 houses and 1863 inhabitants. At the south end of the village, is the ruinous Castle of Scallaway, built by one of the earls of Orkney; there are several fresh water lakes, and the whole is intersected by numerous voes or friths, that no part of the district is upwards of 2 miles from the sea.

TINKLETON, a parish in the hundred of Piddleton, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 4 miles from Dorchester and 115 from London; containing 23 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

TINSLEY, a township and chapelry in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 3 miles from Sheffield and 160 from London; containing 52 houses and 268 inhabitants.

TINTAGELL, a parish in the hundred of Lesnewth, Cornwall, 4 miles from Camelford and 232 from London; containing 16 houses and 649 inhabitants. In this parish is situated the borough of Bossiney. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

TINTERN, a parish in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 5 miles from Chepstow and 136 from London; containing 43 houses and 248 inhabitants. It has a considerable manufactory for iron wire. The remains of Tintern Abbey, founded in 1131 for Cistertian Monks, with its church, still gives a beautiful specimen of its ancient grandeur, and noble gothic architecture. It is a rectory, value 2*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

TINTINHULL, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Somerset, 2 miles from Ilchester and 124 from London; containing 41 houses and 333 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*

TINTINHULL, the name of a hundred in Somerset, lying on the south-eastern side of the county, between the rivers Yeo and Perrott.

TINTWISTLE, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 6 miles from Ashton-under-Lyne and 180 from London; containing 171 houses and 1021 inhabitants, and was anciently reckoned a borough.

TINWALD, a parish in the shire of Dumfries, Scotland, 3 miles from Dumfries, from which it is separated by the Lochar Moss; it is now united with the parish of Trailfleet and contains 197 houses and 980 inhabitants. In the moss, many warlike and culinary utensils of the ancient inhabitants of Scotland have been found. Amisfield House is the seat of the earl of Wemyss; and at Skipnupe was born the celebrated Dr. James Monnsey.

TIPPERARY, a county of Ireland, lying in the province of Munster, bounded on the north-east and north-west, by King's County, and Galway; on the east by Queen's County and Kilkenny; on the south by Waterford, and part of Limerick, and on the west by Galway, Clare and Limerick, being about 52 miles in length, and from 12 to 31 in breadth. It contains 147 parishes 30,700 houses and about 170,000 inhabitants. The river Suir runs the entire length of the county, from north to south, besides which there are many small rivulets and brooks; on the banks of which are numerous bouting-mills, giving employment to a number of hands. The principal productions of this county are cattle, sheep, butter, and flour. The county town is Clonmel, and the other principal towns are Cashel and Carrick. The southern parts are exceeding fertile and well furnished with good buildings, but the north is inclinable to be barren, and terminates in a row of twelve mountains, the highest in Ireland, and called Phelem-dhe-Madina.

TIPPERARY, the town which gives name to the county, 9 miles south-south-west from Cashel and contains nothing remarkable either in building or trade.

TIPTON, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 3 miles from Dudley and 127 from London; containing 834 houses and 4280 inhabitants, of whom 1740 were returned in trade and manufacture, mostly that of the Staffordshire pottery, peculiar to this county. It is a curacy.

TIRLANGTON. See LANGTON, Leicester.

TIRLEY, a parish in the hundred of Deerhurst, Gloucester, 4 miles from Tewkesbury and 108 from London; containing 25 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king.

TIRY, or TYREE, an island of the Hebrides, belonging to the shire of Ayr, Scotland, lying 21 miles west of the island of Mull. It is about 11 miles long and 2½ broad; the whole intersected by many bays of considerable extent. It is so level that the waves are often seen from the one shore, rising several feet above the level of the other. The Duke of Argyle is the proprietor, whose factor has a neat residence on a small island, in one of the lakes. The fisheries as well as making of kelp employ a number of hands. It contains 400 houses and 2416 inhabitants.

Tisbury, a parish in the hundred of Dunworth, Wilts, 3 miles from Hindon and 93 from London; containing 357 houses and 1961 inhabitants. The church is situated in a bottom, between two hills, and had originally an elegant spire; it is still a handsome edifice, but has several times suffered by lightning, particularly in 1742, and 1762, after which the spire was taken down, to prevent further misfortune, but this was not sufficient to secure the edifice, for on the 13th August, 1795, it was again considerably damaged. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* with East Hatch chapel annexed.

Tissington, a parish in the hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, 4 miles from Ashborn and 144 from London; containing 66 houses and 445 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Tisted, East, a parish in the hundred of Selbourn, and division of Alton, Hants, 5 miles from Alton and 52 from London; containing 59 houses and 226 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.*

Tisted, West, a parish in the hundred of Bishops Sutton, and division of Alton, Hants, 2 miles westward from the foregoing; containing 25 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of Magdalen College.

Titchfield, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Titchfield, and division of Portsdown, Hants, 3 miles from Fareham and 78 from London; containing 551 houses and 2949 inhabitants, of whom 400 were returned in various trades. The parish is very extensive, and has a good roadstead for vessels in Titchfield bay, near the mouth of Southampton water; from it, the river Aire passes the town, over which it has a bridge; near it are the ruins of a mansion, which was erected on the scite of a Cistertian monastery. The market is on Saturday; fairs Saturday fortnight before Lady-day, 14th May, 25th of September, and the Saturday fortnight before 21st December. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Titchfield, the name of a hundred in Hants, lying on the southern side of the county, bounded on the west and northwest, by the Southampton water.

Titchfield, a river in Hampshire, which falls into the Southampton water, at Hamble.

Titchmarsh, a parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, 2 miles from Thrapston; containing 127 houses and 569 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 10*s.*

Titchwell, a parish in the hundred of Smithden, Norfolk, 3 miles from Burnham and 127 from London; containing 18 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* in the patronage of Eton College.

Tithby, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 2 miles from Bingham and 123 from London; containing 26 houses and 155 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Titlington, a hamlet in the parish of Eglingham, Coquestdale ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Alnwick and 310 from London; containing 11 houses and 63 inhabitants.

Titley, a parish in the hundred of Wigmore, Hereford, 3 miles from Kineton and 152 from London; containing 47 houses and 290 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the earl of Oxford.

Titsey, a parish in the hundred of Tandridge, Surry, 2 miles from Westerham and 24 from London; containing 18 houses 108 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Tittenhanger, a hamlet in the parish of St. Peter's, St. Alban's, in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, 3 miles from St. Alban's; containing 59 houses and 348 inhabitants. The seat of the earl of Hardwick was formerly a palace, belonging to the Abbots of St. Albans.

Tittenley, a small village in the hundred of Nantwich, Chester, near Congleton; containing 5 houses and 43 inhabitants.

Tittensor, a hamlet in the parish of Trentham, hundred of Pirehill, Stafford.

Titteshall, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 6 miles from East Dereham and 107 from London; containing 46 houses and 439 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* In the Church is a stately monument, to the memory of Sir Edward Coke.

Tiverton, a township in the parish of Bunbury, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 7 miles from Nantwich and 171 from London; containing 74 houses and 377 inhabitants. In this neighbourhood is Beeston Castle.

Tiverton, a borough, market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Devon, situated on the river Ex, near its junction with the Leman, 4½ miles from Collumpton and 163 from London; containing 1221 houses and 6505 inhabitants, viz. 3001 males and 3504 females, of whom 1617 were returned employed in various trades, and manufactures, particularly of serges, kerseys, druggetts, and diapers, for which it has long been noted. This town has suffered much by fire; the last accident of this nature was in 1731, when upwards of 200 of the best houses were destroyed, the damage being computed at 150,000; after this an act of parliament was made forbidding any more houses being covered with thatch, and ordering the removal of all stacks and ricks of corn and straw from the dwellings, with other salutary regulations; since which time the streets have been widened, the buildings erected in a regular manner, and the houses covered with slate and tile. The old church of St. Peter's is a venerable gothic structure, but it not being large enough for the accommodation of the parishioners, a chapel of ease was erected, and made a perpetual curacy by act of parliament. The free-school situated near the east entrance of the town, is a large pile of buildings, with a cupola in the centre, having commodious apartments for the masters, the head-one having a handsome salary, and the privilege of taking as many boarders as he pleases: it sends scholars to Baliol College, Oxford, and Sydney Sussex College, Cambridge, viz. 4 to each college; this excellent foundation was built, and endowed by one Peter Blondel, a rich clothier of the town. Here is also a free English school, founded by Robert Comins, in 1609; also a public charity school, and an extensive hospital and workhouse. It has a stone-bridge, over both the river Ex and the Leman; before the erection of these bridges, it was called Twyford, both these rivers being fordable here. It is a town of great antiquity, and in Doom's day book it is described as being in the king's hands. It was anciently governed by a portreeve and other officers, chosen at the lords' courtleet, but by charter from James I. it was incorporated under a mayor, 12 capital burgesses, and 12 assistants, who elect a recorder, and this corporation alone were at the same time empowered to send two members to parliament, which this town has done ever since. Some mistakes having taken place in the corporation in 1724, concerning the election of a mayor on the charter day (Tuesday after St. Bartholomew) they were re-incorporated by charter of 11th of George I. The mayor for the time being, and the preceding mayor, together with the recorder, are justices of the peace, within the liberty of Tiverton, with power to hold a general quarter sessions of the peace, exclusive of the county justices. Here stands an ancient castle, formerly belonging to the earls of Devonshire, now the seat of Sir Thomas Carew, Bart.; here the earl of Essex retired from the anger of queen Elizabeth; and when Monk was recorder, of this town, king Charles II. had private protection and assistance here previously to his restoration. This town has a public bank. The markets are on Tuesday and Saturday, but the latter is very small. Its fairs are Tuesday fortnight after Whit Sunday, and 10th October. St. Peter's is a rectory, not in Charge.—Dunsford's, Tiverton.

Tiverton, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the north eastern side of the county, around Tiverton.

Tivetshall, or Tetshall, St. Margaret's, and St. Mary's, two united parishes in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 96¼ miles from London, in the road to Norwich, the former containing 44 houses and 295 inhabitants, the latter 38 houses and 294 inhabitants. The rectories, are united, rated at 20*l.*

Tixall, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 2 miles from Stafford and 136 from London; containing 24 houses and 198 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.*

Tixendale, or Thrixendale, a township in the parish of Wharram Percy, Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 20 miles from York and 200 from London; containing 28 houses and 137 inhabitants.

Tiviot, or Cheviot Mountains, are the high hills, on the borders of England and Scotland.

Tixover, a hamlet in the parish of Ketton, hundred of Wrandike, Rutland, 7¼ miles from Uppingham and 82 from London; containing 11 houses and 59 inhabitants.

Tobermorey, a village in the island of Mull, shire of Argyle, Scotland, lately built by the British society for the encouragement of the fisheries, containing about 350 inhabitants. This village was first began to be erected in 1788, and a custom house and post office were established in 1791.

Tocketts, a small village in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, near Gisborough, and 252 miles from London; containing 8 houses and 65 inhabitants.

Tockholes, a township and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Blackburn, and 206 from London; containing 127 houses and 758 inhabitants.

Tockington, a tything in the parish of Oldveston, hundred of Langley, and Swinshead, Gloucester, 6 miles from Chipping Sodbury, and 120 from London; containing 38 houses, and 218 inhabitants. Fairs 9th May and 6th September.

Tockwith, a parish in the liberty of York, Ainstey, east riding of York, 4 miles from Wetherby, and 198 from London; containing 67 houses and 390 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*

Todbere, a parish in the hundred of Redlane, division of Shaston, Dorset, 4 miles from Shaftesbury, and 105 from London; containing 15 houses and 73 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* united with Stower Provost.

Todburn, a hamlet in the parish of Long Horsley, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 7 miles from Morpeth, and 298 from London; containing 5 houses and 20 inhabitants.

Toddington, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 3¼ miles from Dunstable, and 37 from London; containing 360 houses and 1143 inhabitants. The living is a rectory, value 29*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* It was formerly a market town, and it has still fairs on 25th April, first Monday in June, 4th September, 20th November and 6th December.

Toddington, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, near the banks of the Isbourn, 5 miles from Winchcombe and 94 from London; containing 47 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* with Stanley Pontlarge chapel annexed.

Todmorden, a township and chapelry in the parish of Rochdale, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, being a part of the town of Hundersfeld, 9 miles from Rochdale, and 207 from London; containing 346 houses and 2515 inhabitants.

Todnam or Toddenham, a parish in the hundred of Westminster, Gloucester, 4 miles from Moreton in the Marsh, and 80 from London; containing 66 houses and 339 inhabitants.

Todwick, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 10 miles from Sheffield, and 150 from London; containing 39 houses and 177 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*

Toft, a parish in the hundred of Longstow, Cambridge, and 50 from London; containing 54 houses and 208 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of Christ church college, Cambridge.

Toft, a hamlet in the parish of Knutsford, hundred of Bucklow Chester near Knutsford, and 172 miles from London; containing 38 houses and 205 inhabitants.

Toft, a hamlet in the parish of Witham on the Hill, hundred of Betisloe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 5 miles from Stamford, and 95 from London; containing 41 houses and 196 inhabitants.

Toft, a parish in the hundred of Walsheroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Market Raisin, and 151 from London; containing 14 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Toft Monk, or Monachorum, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 3 miles from Loddon; and 108 from London; containing 40 houses and 325 inhabitants; here formerly was a priory of Benedictines, given by Edward the IV. to Kings college, Cambridge, which still retains the patronage of the rectory, rated at 8*l.*

Toftrees, a parish in the hundred of Gallow, Norfolk, 3 miles from Fakenham, and 108 from London; containing 8 houses and 90 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

Toft West, another parish in the hundred of Grimshoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Thetford, and 85 from London; containing 16 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.*

Togston, a hamlet in the parish of Warksworth, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 10 miles from Morpeth, and 301 from London: containing 15 houses and 84 inhabitants.

Tolland, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 9 miles from Taunton and 153 from London; containing 17 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 7*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Tollard Royal, a parish in the hundred of Chalk, Wilts, 6 miles from Shaftesbury, and 107 from London; containing 52 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 1*s.*

Toller Fratrum, a parish in the hundred of Tollesford, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 8 miles from Bridport, and 126 from London; containing 8 houses and 46 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 6*s.* Fairs 29th May, 2d July and 11th September at Rotter Down.

Toller Porcorum, another parish in the same hundred and adjoining the preceeding, containing 73 houses and 340 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

Tollerton, a hamlet in the parish of Rodmarton, hundred of Langtree, Gloucester near Minchinhampton.

Tollerton, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 4 miles from Nottingham, and 120 from London; containing 29 houses and 176 inhabitants.

Tollerton, a township in the parish of Alne, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 10 miles from York, and 209 from London; containing 79 houses and 396 inhabitants. Fairs 26th August.

Tollesbury, a parish in the hundred of Thurstable, Essex, 5 miles from Malden, and 42 from London; containing 107 houses and 850 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

Tollesford, the name of a hundred in Dorset, lying in the division of Dorchester, on the western side of the county, and borders of Somerset.

Tolleshunt, Darcy, a parish in the same hundred, Essex, 4 miles from Malden and 41 from London; containing 82 houses and 548 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 10*s.*

Tolleshunt Knights, another parish in the same hundred, ¾ mile north of the foregoing, and containing 46 houses and 289 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Tolleshunt Major, a third parish in the same hundred, lying ½ mile west of the preceeding, and nearer Malden; containing 45 houses and 292 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

Tolpuddle, a parish in the hundred of Piddleton, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 6 miles from Dorchester, and 113 from London; contajning 58 houses and 279 inhabitants.

Tolskithey, a hamlet in the parish of Redruth, hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, adjoining to Redruth, 264 miles from London.

Tolthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of little Casterton, hundred of East, Rutland, 2½ Toseland, a hamlet in the parish of Great Paxton, hundred of Toseland, Hants, 3 miles from St. Neots, and 59 from London; containing 17 houses and 99 inhabitants.

Toseland, the name of a hundred in Huntingdon; being the Southern extremity of the county, bordering on Cambridge and Bedfordshire.

Totham, Great, a parish in the hundred of Thurstable, Essex, 3 miles from Malden, and 40 from London; containing 98 houses and 528 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l*.

Totham, Little, a township and chapelry in the parish of Goldhanger, hundred of Thurstable, Essex, 3 miles from Malden, and 40 from London; containing 53 houses and 223 inhabitants.

Tothill, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Alford, and 142 from London; containing 12 houses and 72 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l*. 17*s*.

Totley, a hamlet in the parish of Dronfield, hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 7 miles from Chesterfield and 159 from London; containing 48 houses and 206 inhabitants.

Totnell, a hamlet in the parish of Yatminster, Dorset.

Totness, a borough, market town, and parish, in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, situated on the river Dart, about 12 miles from the Sea, and 195 from London; containing 295 houses and 2503 inhabitants. The church is a spacious building, having a lofty tower and 4 pinnacles, above 90 feet high. It has a trifling manufacture of Woollen cloth, but the chief employment of the inhabitants is in the fishery. The town was formerly defended by a strong castle and surrounded by walls, the ruins of which are still observable as well as one of the gates, covered with ivy. It is a borough by prescription, the corporation, consisting of 14 burgomasters, whereof one is mayor, who with his predecessor and the recorder are justices of the peace; besides 20 common council men, &c. It returns 2 members to parliament who are chosen by the freemen of the borough, without respect to residence therein, the number of voters being about 120. The river Dart is very broad at this town, and the tide flows 12 feet at the bridge. A part of the celebrated Roman Fosse-way which passed here, is still observable. The market on Saturday is well supplied with provisions of all kinds. Fairs, Easter Tuesday, 1st May, 25th July, and 28th October. It is a vicarage, value 12*l*. 8*s*. 9*d*. and is in the patronage of the king.

Toton, a hamlet in the parish of Attenborough, hundred of Broxton, Notts, 6 miles from Nottingham; and 120 from London; containing 30 houses and 175 inhabitants.

Tottenham, a parish in the hundred of Edmonton, Middlesex, 5 miles from London in the road to Ware; containing 598 houses and 3659 inhabitants. The church is situated on an eminence, surrounded nearly by a rivulet called the Mosel or Musel, which rises on Muswell-hill. Over the porch is an apartment, originally intended as a vestry room, which was inhabited for 60 years, by one Elizabeth Fleming an Almswoman. The vestry was erected in 1697 by lord Coleraine, who built a family vault therein. Many quakers have taken up their residence in this parish and they have here a neat meeting house.—Here are several almshouses, one of them founded in 1596 by Balthazar Sanchez, a Spaniard, and confectioner to Philip II. of Spain, and who was the first person that exercised that trade in England; he died a protestant in 1602. Near the church is a mansion called Bruce Castle, supposed formerly to have belonged to David Bruce, King of Scotland and earl of Huntingdon. A spring called the Bishops Well, opposite the parsonage house, is said to have performed many strange cures. This parish is divided into 4 wards, viz. the Nether Ward, where stands the parsonage, and vicarage. Middleward, containing marsh-street, and church end. High-cross ward, containing the Hall, Millpage-green, and the high cross; and Wood-green ward, the largest, comprehending all the rest of the parish. At that part called Tottenham High-Cross, the resting place of the corpse of queen Eleanor, formerly stood a column of wood, which was taken down about 200 years since, and the present structure of brick erected in its stead. It is a vicarage, value 14*l*. in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Pauls.—Lysons's Environs of London.

Tottenhill, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 5 miles from Downham, and 90 from London; containing 30 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Totteridge, a township and chapelry in the parish of Bishop Hatfeld, hundred of Broadwater, Herts, near Barnet, 10 miles from London, on the ridge of a hill, whence its name; it contains 48 houses and 280 inhabitants.

Totternhoe, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 3 miles from Dunstable, containing 65 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l*.

Tottington, High and Low, two adjoining townships in the parish of Bury, and hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 3 miles from Bury, and 197 from London; the former containing 227 houses and 1246 inhabitants. And the latter 710 houses and 4314 inhabitants, of which number 3771 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

Tottington, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 3 miles from Watten, and 90 from London; containing 26 houses and 198 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l*. 14*s*. 9*d*.

Totmonslow, the name of a hundred in Stafford, being the northern extremity of the county, divided from Derby by the river Dove.

Towa, a river in Carmarthenshire, which falls into the Cowen or Clear.

Towcester, a market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Northampton, on the banks of the river Weedon, 6 miles from Northampton, and 60 from London; containing 424 houses and 2030 inhabitants, of whom 846 were employed in various trades and manufactures, principally in those of lace and silk. The houses in general are well built, and it contains many good inns. During the time of the Saxons it was a place of great strength, and Edward the elder surrounded it with a wall. Here was an hospital and chantry, founded in the reign of Henry VI. The Watling Street Roman road passed through this town, and it is supposed to have been a considerable Roman station, many of their antiquities and coins having been dug up in the neighbourhood. The market is on Tuesday, and its fairs are Shrove Tuesday, 12th May, and 29th October. The vicarage is discharged from first fruits and tenths, and is in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.— Bridge's Northampton.

Towcester, the name of a hundred in Northamptonshire, lying in the southern part of the county, and to the north of Towcester.

Towednack, a township in the parish of Unylelant, hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, 3 miles from St. Ives, and 180 from London; containing 95 houses and 465 inhabitants.

Towersey, a parish in the hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 2 miles from Thame, and 45 from London; containing 51 houses and 294 inhabitants. The church is a vicarage, not in charge, but was formerly a chapel of ease to Thame.

Townstall, a parish in the hundred of Coleridge, Devon, ¾ mile from Dartmouth, and 204 from London; containing 118 houses and 1014 inhabitants. The church is situated on a hill and has a tower 69 feet high, serving as a land-mark at sea. It is the mother church of Dartmouth, and the vicarage rated at 12*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* is in the patronage of the mayor and bailiffs of that borough, and has the chapelry of Dartmouth annexed.

Towridge, a river in Devonshire, rising about 4 miles from Hartland point, and being joined by the Oke at Idlesly, passes Bideford, and falls into the Bristol channel.

Towthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Wharram Percy, east riding of York.

Towthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Huntingdon, Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, near York; containing 6 houses and 53 inhabitants.

Towton, a township in the parish of Saxton, Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, near Tadcaster, 183 miles from London; containing 20 houses and 96 inhabitants. It is memorable in history for a remarkable bloody battle fought near it in 1461, between the Yorkists and Lancastrians, where it is recorded 36,000 men were left dead in the field, no quarter being given on either side.

Towie, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, on the banks of the Don, 50 miles from Aberdeen; containing 109 houses and 528 inhabitants.

Towyn, a river in Montgomeryshire, Wales, which falls into the Dowy at Remy; also another in Cardigan and Carmarthenshire, which falls into the sea at Towyhaven.

Towyn, a parish in Merrionethshire, Wales, situated on a river of the same name, 11 miles from Barmouth, and 217½ from London; containing 424 houses and 2092 inhabitants. The houses are chiefly built of a coarse stone, and the village has a very respectable appearance. In the church-yard is a huge pillar, supposed to have been erected to the memory of St. Cadvan. Fair, 14th May. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bangor.

Toxteth, a township in the parish of Walton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Liverpool, and 205 from London; containing 323 houses and 2069 inhabitants.

Toynton, High, a parish in Horncastle, Soke, Lincolnshire, 1 mile from Horncastle, and 140 from London; containing 19 houses and 93 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

Toynton, Low, an adjoining parish, containing 9 houses and 49 inhabitants.

Toynton Allsaints, a parish in the hundred of Bolingbroke, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Spilsby, and 130 from London; containing 40 houses and 229 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Toynton, St. Peters, another parish adjoining the foregoing, and containing 55 houses and 245 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.*

Tracey. See Bovy Tracey, Devon.

Tradunnock, a parish in the hundred of Usk, Monmouth, 4 miles from Usk, and 148 from London; containing 23 houses and 142 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

Trafford, a village in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, 3 miles from Chester; containing 43 houses and 247 inhabitants.

Tralee, the shire town of the county of Kerry, province of Munster, Ireland, situated on a bay 144 miles from Dublin. The town is tolerably well built, but has no manufactories of any consequence. The bay is very shallow, and will not admit of vessels of 40 or 50 tons to come nearer than within 1 mile of the town. A considerable trade is carried on here in the herring fishery.

Trallong, a parish in the hundred of Merthir, Brecon, Wales, 5 miles from Brecon; containing 61 houses and 294 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the bishop of St. David's.

TRALLONG, a village in the county of Cork, province of Munster, Ireland,

TRANENT, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, lying on the Frith of Forth, 8 miles from Edinburgh; containing 552 houses and 3046 inhabitants. The town is neatly built and pleasantly situated. The church is an old gothic building, having a square tower in the middle: several collieries are wrought in this parish.

TRANMORE, a township in the parish of Bebbington, hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 14 miles from Chester, and 194 from London, on the road to Liverpool; containing 70 houses and 353 inhabitants.

TRANWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Morpeth, Castle ward, Northumberland, 1½ mile from Morpeth, and 290 from London; containing 13 houses and 50 inhabitants.

TRAQUAIR, or STRATHQUAIR, a parish in the shire of Peebles, Scotland, lying on the south bank of the Tweed, 7 miles from Peebles; containing 113 houses and 613 inhabitants. The surface is rocky and mountainous, some of the hills being 2000 feet above the level of the sea. The river abounds with trout and salmon.

TRAWDEN, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Clitheroe, and 212 miles from London; containing 137 houses and 1443 inhabitants, of whom 660 were returned employed in various trades.

TRAWSFYNDD, a parish in the hundred of Ardudwy, Merionethshire, Wales, between Llanelltyd and Maentwrog, 223 miles from London; containing 275 houses and 1232 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Bangor.

TREADINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 5 miles from Tewksbury, and 100 from London; containing 194 houses and 935 inhabitants. The rectory is very valuable and is divided into 2 portions, rated at 66*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Jesus college, Oxford.

TREBIGH, a small hamlet in the parish of St. Ives, Cornwall.

TREBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 5 miles from Watchet, and 156 from London; containing 19 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

TRECASTLE, a parish in Brecknock, Wales, on the road from Brecon to Llandovery, 179 miles from London, now gone to decay, but was anciently a considerable borough, and in Leland's time there appeared the ruins of a castle. Fairs, 4th April, 2d May, 14th August, 14th October, 13th November, and 14th December.

TREDDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Tewkshury, Gloucester, 3 miles from Tewksbury, and 101 from London; containing 26 houses and 121 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TREETON, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Sheffield, and 160 from London; containing 62 houses and 312 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

TREFDRAETH, a parish in the hundred of Maltraeth, Anglesey, Wales, 8 miles from Bangor; containing 103 houses and 461 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bangor.

TREFFILAN, a parish in the hundred of Ilar, Cardiganshire, Wales, 4 miles from Llansantfraed; containing 46 houses and 222 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. Davids.

TREFEGLYS, a parish in the hundred of Llanidloes, Montgomeryshire, Wales, 7 miles from Newtown; containing 227 houses and 1502 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

TREFRIEW, a parish in Carnarvonshire, Wales, near the river Conway, 2 miles from Llanwrst; containing 70 houses and 301 inhabitants. Fairs, 12th May, 3d September, and 3d November. It is a curacy.

TREGARE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Dingestow, hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 130 miles from London; containing 58 houses and 272 inhabitants.

TREGAYON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Llangefni, hundred of Menai, Anglesea, Wales, 12 miles from Bangor; containg 21 houses and 156 inhabitants.

TREGANNON, a market town and parish in Cardiganshire, Wales, situated in a plain on the banks of the Tivy, 204½ miles from London, and 15 from Aberystwith. Market on Tuesday; fair 5th March.

TREGANON, a parish in the hundred of Newton, Montgomery, Wales, 8 miles from Montgomery; containing 87 houses and 639 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TREGONY, a borough, and market town, in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from Grampound, and 262 from London, on the bank of a small river, which joins the Fale, navigable for small craft from hence to Falmouth. It contains 128 houses and 937 inhabitants. It was incorporated by James I. and is governed by a mayor, recorder, and 7 capital burgesses, and sends 2 members to parliament, who are chosen by the inhabitants, paying scot and lot. This town has a small manufacture of serge. The market on Saturday is only small; fairs, Shrove Tuesday, 3d may, 25th July, 2d September, and 6th November.

TREGUNNO, a hamlet in the parish of St. Breage, hundred of Kerriar, Cornwall, near Helstone.

TRELAWNYD. See NEW MARKET, near St. Asaphs, Flintshire, Wales.

TRELISSICK, a hamlet in the parish of St. Erth, hundred of Penwith, Cornwall, near Marazion.

TRELLECK, a parish in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 10 miles from Chepstow; contains 135 houses and 638 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* united with Penalt, in the patronage of the prince of Wales.

TRELLOCK GRANGE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish and adjoining thereto; containing 19 houses and 140 inhabitants.

TREMATON, a hamlet belonging to Saltash, in the parish of St. Stephens, Cornwall, 1 mile west of Saltash, and 221 from London, on the river Lyner, which falls into the Tamar; the ruins of a castle are still to be seen, formerly belonging to the dukes of Cornwall; this village is said to have been a market-town.

TREMAYNE, a hamlet in the parish of North Petherwin, hundred of East Cornwall, near Launceston; containing 19 houses and 91 inhabitants.

TRENEGLOSS, a parish in the hundred of Lesnewth, Cornwall, near Camelford, and 228 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

TRENT, a parish in the hundred of Horethorne, Somerset, 4 miles from Sherborne, and 120 from London; containing 63 houses and 302 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge.

TRENT, a river, rising in the high lands of Staffordshire, passing through Derbyshire, it enters Nottinghamshire at the south west point, passes Newark to Lincolnshire, where it falls into the Humber, being a course of near 200 miles, and communicating by canal navigation with most of the principal rivers in the kingdom.

TRENTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Staffordshire, situated on the river Trent, 3 miles from Newcastle-under-line, and 146 from London; containing 347 houses and 1857 inhabitants. Trentham-Hall, situated opposite the church, is the family mansion of the marquis of Stafford. It is a curacy.

TRENTISHOE, a parish in the hundred of Braunton, Devon, 4 miles from Barnstaple, and 197 from London; containing 23 houses and 128 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

TRESCAW, one of the Scilly islands, situated to the west of Annet, and containing about 40 families. This island is extremely fertile; near the landing-place are the remains of a castle, built on a rock. A strong battery was erected in 1740 and apartments for the garrison and guard: about ¼ mile distant is the church, a venerable building, and near it are several Druidical stones; on another part of the island are the remains of an abbey, a part thereof being still used as the burying place by the inhabitants in preference to the church yard.

TRESHAM, a tything in the parish of Hawksbury, hundred of Grumbalds Ash, Gloucester, 2 miles from Wootton-under-edge, and 106 from London; containing 55 houses and 257 inhabitants.

TRESHNISH ISLES, a cluster of small islands of the Hebrides, lying 4 leagues west of the Isle of Mull, but none of them are inhabited.

TRESMEER, a hamlet in the parish of North Petherwin, hundred of East Cornwall, 6 miles from Launceston, and 219 from London; containing 26 houses and 129 inhabitants.

TRESWELL, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 4 miles from East Retford, and 141 from London; containing 45 houses and 173 inhabitants.

TEFFIRE, a parish united with Michelchurch, hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, 6 miles from Ross, and 127 from London; containing 23 houses and 116 inhabitants.

TRYFALGA, a parish in the hundred of Lesnewth, Cornwall, 5 miles from Camelford, and 233 from London; containing 20 houses and 100 inhabitants.

TRYFERIAN, a chapelry in the parish of Llanover, in Monmouthshire, in which township is situated PONTYPOOL, which see TREWALCHMAI, a township and chapelry in the parish of Henegiyss, hundred of Maltraeth, Anglesea, Wales, 10 miles from Bangor; containing 43 houses and 238 inhabitants.

TREWEN, a hamlet in the parish of South Petherwin, hundred of East Cornwall, 5 miles from Launceston, and 218 from London; containing 30 houses and 193 inhabitants.

TREWHITT, HIGH and LOW, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Rothbury; containing 17 houses and 94 inhabitants.

TREWHICK, a hamlet in the parish of Bolam, Castle ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Morpeth, and 297 from London; containing 4 houses and 18 inhabitants.

TRENTON, or TRENTON, a parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 3 miles from Watton, and 88 from London; containing 4 houses and 35 inhabitants.

TREYFORD, a parish in the hundred of Dumpford, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 2 miles from Midhurst, and 61 from London; containing 17 houses and 95 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* united with Didling.

TRIG, the name of a hundred in Cornwall, lying on the western side of the County, on the shore of the Bristol channel, and bounded on the south-west by the river Camel.

TRIMDON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kelloe, Easington ward, Durham, 7 miles east Durham, and 254 from London; containing 66 houses and 273 inhabitants.

TRIMMINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Walsham, and 129 from London; containing 34 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* in the patronage of the duke of Lancaster.

TRIMLEY ST. MARTINS, a parish in the hundred of Colneis, Suffolk, near the Orwell haven, almost opposite Harwich, 1½ mile from Llandguard fort, and 74 from London; containing 28 houses and 256 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

TRIMLEY, ST. MARY'S, an adjoining parish, containing 43 houses and 330 inhabitants, and is a rectory, value 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

TRIMPLEY, a hamlet in the parish of, and adjoining to Kidderminster, Worcestershire.

TRING, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Dacorum, Herts, situated at the western extremity of the county, 4 miles from Wendover, and 31½ from London; containing 323 houses and 1621 inhabitants. This late town is exceedingly neat and contains many handsome buildings. The church is a venerable gothic structure, with a square tower, containing 6 bells; the chancel contains many handsome and ancient monuments. Here is a charity-school for teaching and clothing 20 boys. At a village called Little Tring in this parish, rises one of the heads of the river Thames. Tring is rendered remarkable in the history of Herts, for a tragical event that happened here in 1751. A poor man of the name of John Osborn, aged 56 and his wife aged 72 being accused of witchcraft by the mob, were so severely ducked as to occasion their deaths, the poor woman dying in the water and the old man a few days after; for this atrocity, the ringleader, Thomas Colley, was convicted at the assizes, and hung in chains on Marlston-Mere, where the murder was perpetrated. The Roman road which passes here, called the Icknield way, is extremely bad during the winter season. The market is on Friday, and is well supplied with corn; fairs 25th June and 29th September. It is a curacy, united with Long Marston; in the patronage of Christ Church college, Oxford. Salmon's Herts.

TRINITY GASK, a parish in the district of Stratherne, shire of Perth, Scotland, composed of the united parishes of KINKEL and WESTER GASK, situated on both sides the river Erne; containing 139 houses and 769 inhabitants.

TRIP, a hamlet in the parish of Cliff, near Bridgewater, Somerset.

TRIPLOW. See THRIPLOW, Cambridge.

TRIPPAL, a river in Northumberland, which falls into the South Tyne.

TRITLINGTON, a hamlet in the township of Hebburn, parish of Bothall, and ward of Morpeth, Northumberland, 5 miles from Morpeth; containing 20 houses and 89 inhabitants.

TRIVELL, an extra parochial hamlet in the hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, 7 miles from Ross, and 128 from London; containing 12 houses and 69 inhabitants.

TROHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Bisley, Gloucestershire.

TRONE, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Wantage, Berks.

TROSTON, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 2 miles from Ixworth, and 79 from London; containing 30 houses and 247 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* and the patron is the king.

TROSTREY, a parish in the hundred of Usk, Monmouthshire, near Usk, and 146 miles from London; containing 36 houses and 151 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TROTHY, a river in Monmouth, which falls into the Wye below Monmouth.

TROTTISCLIFFE, or TROSELEY, a parish in the hundred of Larkfield, lathe of Aylsford, Kent, 5 miles from Maidstone, and 30 from London; containing 38 houses and 281 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Rochester.

TROTTON, a parish in the hundred of Dumpford, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 2½ miles from Midhurst, and 60 from London; containing 53 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

TROQUIRE, a parish in the stewartry of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, situated on the river Nith, opposite the town of Dumfries, and connected with it by a handsome bridge, at the end of which is a considerable village, called Brigend. It contains 467 houses and 2774 inhabitants, of whom 1300 resided in the village of Brigend, being the suburb of the fashionable town of Dumfries; there are many elegant mansions erected here.

TROSSACHS, certain rugged and stupendous mountains in Perthshire, about 10 miles west from Callander; the scenery amongst them is exceedingly wild and romantic, interspersed with beautiful woods and lakes.

TROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Stapleton, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 10 miles from Carlisle, and 314 from London; containing 24 houses and 129 inhabitants.

TROUGHEND, a township in the parish of Elsdon, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Hexham, and 300 from London; containing 69 houses and 393 inhabitants.

TROUTBECK, a township in the parish of Windermere, Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Ambleside, and 270 from London; containing 64 houses and 310 inhabitants. It takes its name from the small river Troutbeck, over which it has a bridge.

TROUTSDALE, a hamlet in the parish of Brompton, in Pickering lyth, north riding of York, 12 miles from Malton; containing 8 houses and 53 inhabitants.

TROWBRIDGE, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Melksham, Wilts, situated on an eminence by the side of the river Were, a branch of the Avon, 10 miles from Bath, and 98 from London; containing 1018 houses and 5799 inhabitants, viz. 2532 males and 3247 females, of whom 4750 were employed in various trades, and some considerable manufactures of broad-cloth and kerseymeres. The church is a neat building, and has a lofty spire containing 6 bells; over the river Were is a handsome stone bridge. This town had formerly a castle belonging to the duke of Lancaster, and a court for the dutchy of Lancaster is still held about Michaelmas. The market is on Saturday Fair, 5th August. It is a rectory, rated at 20*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* with Staverton chapel annexed.

TROWELL, a parish in the hundred of Broxtow, Notts, 5 miles from Nottingham, and 129 from London; containing 98 houses and 235 inhabitants. The rectory is divided into two parts, each rated at 4*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*

TROWSE NEWTON, a parish in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 2 miles from Norwich, and 110 from London; containing 86 houses and 428 inhabitants.

TROY, a parish in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 3 miles from Monmouth, and 128 from London; containing 43 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* united with Cwmcarvan.

TRULL, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 2 miles from Taunton, and 146 from London; containing 72 houses and 407 inhabitants.

TRUMPINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Thriplow, Cambridge, 2 miles from Cambridge, and 49 from London; containing 60 houses and 494 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

TRUNCH, a parish in the hundred of North Erpingham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Walsham, and 127 from London; containing 61 houses and 351 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is united with Gimingham, in the patronage of Catherine hall, Cambridge.

TRUNDITCH, a township in the parish of Duffield, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 8 miles from Derby, and 134 from London; containing 46 houses and 272 inhabitants.

TRURO, a borough, market town, and parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 8 miles from Grampound, and 257 from London; containing 354 houses and 2358 inhabitants, of whom 557 were returned employed in trade. It is situated at the confluence of two rivers, which form a convenient harbour for small vessels. The streets are regularly built and the church is a spacious Gothic structure. It has a large market-house, and several dissenting meetings. It was incorporated by king John, and its charter confirmed by queen Elizabeth, and is governed by a mayor, 4 aldermen, and 24 burgesses, and a recorder. The mayor is also mayor of Falmouth, and the quayage of goods shipped or landed there, belongs to this corporation. At the election of the mayor, the maces are, by command of the lord of the manor, delivered up by him to the stewards, until a fine of 6*d.* for each house in the town is paid, when they are returned to the corporation. This is a stannary town, and returns two members to parliament, who are chosen by the corporation. The principal traffic is exporting the ore dug from the neighbouring copper and tin mines. The markets are on Wednesday and Saturday, and its fairs are the Wednesday in Midlent week, ditto in Whitsun week, and the 19th November, and 18th December. It is a rectory, value 16*l.*

TRUSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Exminster, Devon, 2 miles from Chudleigh, and 181 from London; containing 26 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*

TRUSLEY, a parish in the hundred of Appletree, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 132 from London; containing 17 houses and 148 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

TRUSTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Alford, and 145 from London; containing 45 houses and 198 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

TRYDDIN, a township and chapelry in the parish of Mold, Flintshire, Wales, adjoining to Mold, and containing 91 houses and 464 inhabitants.

TRYSALL, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 5 miles from Wolverhampton, and 126 from London; containing 99 houses and 529 inhabitants, including the hamlet of Seisdon.

TUAM, a small decayed town in the county of Galway, province of Connaught, Ireland, 20 miles from Galway, and 25 from Roscommon. This place was formerly called a city, and the see of an archbishop.

TUBNEY, a parish in the hundred of Ock, Berks, 4½ miles from Abingdon, and 60 from London; containing 13 houses and 79 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 8*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford; but there is no church.

TUDDENHAM, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Mitford, Norfolk, 5 miles from East Dereham, and 106 from London; containing 76 houses and 415 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s.* united with Honingham.

TUDDENHAM, NORTH, another parish in the same hundred, 2 miles distant from the preceding, and containing 42 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

TUDDENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Ipswich, and 72 from London; containing 42 houses and 205 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.*

TUDDENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Lackford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Mildenhall, and 69 from London; containing 54 houses and 268 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

TUDERLEY, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Thorngate, and division of Andover, Hants, 5 miles from Stockbridge, and 72 from London; containing 37 houses and 209 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

TUDERLEY WEST, another parish ½ mile distant from the preceding; containing 67 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

TUDHOE, a township in the parish of Brancepeth, Darlington ward, Durham, 4½ miles from Durham, and 256 from London; containing 40 houses and 219 inhabitants.

TUDRINGTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Chippenham, Wilts.

TUDY, SAINT, a parish in the hundred of Trigg, Cornwall, 5 miles from Bodmin, and 233 from London; containing 98 houses and 502 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 31*l.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

TUFFIELD. See NUFFIELD, Oxford.

TUESLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Godalming, Surry.

TUFFLEY, a small village in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, near Gloucester, and 106 miles from London; containing 18 houses and 112 inhabitants.

TUFTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Wherwell, division of Andover, Hants, 4 miles from Andover, and 67 from London; containing 28 houses and 133 inhabitants.

TUFTON, a hamlet in the parish of Rainham, lathe of Scray, Kent, near Chatham.

TUFTON, a hamlet in the parish of Nordiham, Sussex, 8 miles from Rye.

TUGBY, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 12 miles from Leicester, and 96 from London; containing 52 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

TUGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, 7 miles from Ludlow, and 150 from London; containing 37 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Hereford.

TUGGLE, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Balmbrough, Northumberland, 3 miles from Belford, and 328 from London; containing 20 houses and 108 inhabitants.

TULLAMORE, a town in King's county, province of Leinster, Ireland, situated on a river of the same name, which passes through the center of the town. It is 46 miles from Dublin. The grand canal also passes near the town.

TULLANSTOWN, a village in the county of Louth, province of Leinster, Ireland.

TULLOW, a town in the county of Carlow, province of Leinster, Ireland, 8 miles from Carlow, and 38 from Dublin.

TULLIALLAN, a parish in the shire of Perth, Scotland, and bounded by the Frith of Forth. The town of KINCARDINE lies in this parish, which see.

TULLICHOLE, a parish in the shire of Kinross, Scotland, united with Fossaway.

TULLOCH, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, united with Glenmuick and Glengairn, which see.

TULLOCH ARD, a lofty mountain in the shire of Ross, Scotland. In ancient times this mountain received great veneration, and like the temple of Janus, of ancient Rome, it indicated peace or war; for the latter, a barrel of burning tar on its summit was the signal, and in 24 hours all the tenants and vassals at Seaforth appeared at the castle of St. Donats, in battle array. This mountain is the crest of the Seaforth arms.

TULLYCLEA, a river of Fermanagh, in the province of Ulster, which falls into Loughearne, 4 miles from Enniskillen.

TULLYNESSLE, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, lying on the north bank of the river Don, 22 miles from Aberdeen; containing 79 houses and 330 inhabitants.

TULLYVALLEN, a village in the county of Armagh, province of Ulster, Ireland.

TUMMEL, a large river in the shire of Perth, Scotland, which, after forming many beautiful cataracts, spreads into a lake, called Loch Tummel, which afterwards falls into the Garry, and thence into the Tay.

TUNBRIDGE, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, seated on the small river Tun, a branch of the Medway, 5½ miles from Seven Oaks, and 31 from London; containing 704 houses and 4371 inhabitants, of whom 1622 were returned employed in trade. Tunbridge is a very flourishing town, and once returned members to parliament. The church is a handsome modern structure. The ruins of its former magnificent castle are still to be seen, which was the scene of many events recorded in British history. Tunbridge is famous for its grammar-school, founded by sir Andrew Judd, lord mayor of London, in 1551: Many of the masters of this seminary have been distinguished for their literary characters. The name of this town is supposed to be derived from the town of Bridges, it having a stone bridge over each of the streams of the Medway; it is governed by three constables; one for the town, and two others for the hamlets of Southborough and Helden, which is a part of the town. The market is on Friday, and on the first Tuesday in every month for cattle. Fairs, Ash Wednesday, and 5th July. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Hasted's Kent.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, a town and chapelry situated in the parish of Speldhurst, in the hundred of Washlingstone, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 6 miles from Tunbridge, and 36 from London; containing 236 houses and 1618 inhabitants, as returned in the parish of Speldhurst, but some part of the town is also situated in the parish of Tunbridge, and may be divided into 4 divisions, viz. Mount Ephraim, Mount Pleasant, Mount Sion and the Wells; the 3 former are the suburbs, and take their name from their situation. Mount Ephraim was once the most fashionable quarter, and had its assembly-room, tavern, &c. but it is now chiefly occupied by lodging-houses. That part called the Wells is the center of both business and amusement, having elegant assembly-rooms, a new chapel and the place of the public parades, called the upper and lower. There are two walks parallel to each other, the former being the principal one is paved with Purbeck stone; from it the lower parade is divided by a range of pallisadoes. A portico, supported by wooden Tuscan pillars, runs the length of the principal walk. Here is a neat little theatre. The chapel is a small building; and the lecturer being paid by a subscription from the summer visitants, service is performed twice a day during the season; adjoining the chapel is a large and commodious charity-school, and there are chapels for various classes of Dissenters. The principal trade here is in that of the manufacture and sale of toys, made of cherry tree, sycamore, &c. and the Tunbridge turnery-ware, finds a considerable mart in most parts of the kingdom. The celebrated springs of Tunbridge were first discovered in 1606, by Dudley Lord North, who had retired into the neighbourhood in the last stage of a consumption; after 3 months use of these waters his lordship's health was quite recovered, and he lived to be 80 years of age. The wells are now enclosed with a triangular stone wall, containing a well paved area, entered by a handsome gateway; over the springs are placed basons, with perforations at the bottom to discharge the overflowing; at the fountain head it is extremely clear and pellucid, having little smell, but the taste is strongly impregnated with iron: the season commences in March or April, and ends as late as November. In the neighbourhood are many pleasant walks and rides.—Guide to the Watering Places.

TUNLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Bisley, Gloucester.

TUNSTALL, a hamlet in the parish of Bishop Wearmouth, in Easington ward, Durham, 2 miles from Sunderland, containing 8 houses and 53 inhabitants.

TUNSTALL, a parish in the hundred of Milton, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 2 miles from Milton, and 39 from London; containing 24 houses and 136 inhabitants. The church is an antient brick structure, and contains some curious monuments. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Canterbury.

TUNSTALL, a village in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 4 miles from Hornby, and 252 from London; containg 22 houses and 124 inhabitants.

TUNSTALL, a village in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, near Acie; containing 9 houses and 43 inhabitants.

TUNSTALL, a hamlet in the parish of Eccleshall, Stafford.

TUNSTALL, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 6 miles from Woodbridge, and 83 from London; containing 60 houses and 296 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 5*d.* united with Donningworth.

TUNSTALL, a parish in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 5 miles from Hedon, and 188 from London; containing 29 houses and 145 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, not in charge.

TUNSTALL, a township in the parish of Catterick Hang, east wapentake, north riding of York, 5½ miles from Bedale, and 228 from London; containing 53 houses and 214 inhabitants.

TUNSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Norfolk, 6 miles from North Walsham, and 120 from London; containing 104 houses and 505 inhabitants. It is a vicarage rated at 18*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* with South Ruston chapel annexed.

TUNSTEAD, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, lying on the north-eastern side of the county around North Walsham.

TURNHOLME, a parish united with Middle Raisin, in the hundred of Walsheroft, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln.

TURNDEN, a hamlet situated partly in the parish of Farnborough and partly in that of Orpington, Kent.

TURSLEY, a township in the parish of Bishop Hamptop, hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 1 mile from Hereford, and 136 from London; containing 46 houses and 246 inhabitants.

TURTON, a township in the parish of North Wingfield, hundred of Searsdale, Derby, 3 miles from Chesterfield, and 148 from London; containing 39 houses and 218 inhaitants.

TURCH, a river which rises on the west side of Montgomeryshire, and running eastward falls into the Tanar; another in Cagmartnenshire, which falls into the Cothy near Llanpymsent.

TURKDEAN, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 2 miles from Northleach, and 84 from London; containing 30 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value 10*l.* in patronage of Christ Church College, Oxford.

TUR LANGTON, a township in the parish of Church Langton, hundred of Gartree, Leicester, 4 miles from Market Harborough, and 86 from London; containing 79 houses and 345 inhabitants.

TURNASTON, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 10 miles from Hereford, and 145 from London; containing 9 houses and 55 inhabitants.

TURNDITCH, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Duffield, Derby, 8 miles from Derby; containing 46 houses and 272 inhabitants.

TURNER'S PIDDLE, or TURNER'S PUDDLE, a parish in the hundred of Barrow, and division of Blandford, Dorset, situated on the river Piddle, 2 miles from Affpiddle; containing 18 houses and 84 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

TURNHAM GREEN, a hamlet in the parish of Chiswick, hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, situated on the western road, 4½ miles from Hyde-park Corner, on the road to Brentford, and contains several neat boxes.

TURNWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Cranborne, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 3½ miles from Blandford, and 107 from London; containing 18 houses and 82 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

TURREEF, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, situated on the banks of the Deveron, 34 miles from Aberdeen; containing 459 houses and 2090 inhabitants, of whom 354 were principally employed in the manufacture of linen yarn, thread, and coarse linens. Turreef is a burgh of barony, holding a weekly market and 2 annual fairs.

TURTON, a township in the parish of Bury, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 4 miles from Bury, and 198 from London; containing 140 houses and 1369 inhabitants.

TURVEY, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, situated near the banks of the Ouse, 8 miles from Bedford, and 58 from London; containing 151 houses and 758 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 16*l.*

TURVILLE, a parish in the hundred of Desborough, Bucks, 3 miles from Stoken church, and 37 from London; containing 72 houses and 376 inhabitants.

TURWESTON, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 2½ miles from Brackley, and 61 from London; containing 39 houses and 211 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Westminster.

TUSTMOR, a hamlet in the parish of Cotesford, hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, near Bicester; containing 3 houses and 31 inhabitants.

TUTBURY, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, near the river Dove, a little before it falls into the Trent, 4½ miles from Burton, and 134 from London; containing 189 houses and 844 inhabitants. Over the river is a neat stone bridge of 9 arches: formerly it was a market-town, and had a castle belonging to the Earls of Derby, near which was a priory of Benedictines, founded by De Ferrars, earl of Derby, about the year 1100: here is a considerable cotton manufactory, and a good charity school, rebuilt in 1789. Fairs, 14th February, 15th August, and 1st December. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* in the patronage of the duke of Devonshire.

TUTNALL, a hamlet in the parish of Tardebigg, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Bromesgrove; containing 38 houses and 400 inhabitants.

TUTTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 2 miles from Aylsham, and 119 from London; containing 33 houses and 225 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

TUXFORD, a market town and parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 12 miles from Newark, and 138 from London; containing 100 houses and 785 inhabitants. The market is on Monday, and its fairs are 12th May, and 25th September. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

TWAMBROOK, a hamlet in the township of Witton, and parish of Budworth, hundred of Northwich, Chester, near Northwich.

TWEED, a large river which rises in Tweedsmuir, near where the counties of Peebles, Dumfries, and Lanark join; taking a north-easterly course, passes the town of Peebles; it is joined by the Etterick, near Selkirk; the Gala, at Galashiels; the Leader, near Melrose; and the Teviot, at Kelso: it then forms, for many miles, the boundary between England and the shire of Berwick, and falls into the German ocean at Berwick-on Tweed.

TWEEDALE, that district of the shires of Peebles and Berwick, watered by the river Tweed. It gives title of marquis to the family of Hay.

TWEEDMOUTH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Holy Island, in that division of Durham called Islandshire, situated at the northern part of Northumberland, and at the end of Berwick-bridge, 340 miles from London; containing 386 houses and 3458 inhabitants. The town is irregularly built, but contains a neat chapel.

TWEEDSMUIR, a parish in the shire of Peebles, Scotland, 36 miles from Edinburgh; containing 53 houses and 277 inhabitants. It was formerly a part of the parish of Drummelzier, but separated therefrom in 1643. There are the remains of several ancient castles.

TWIMLOW, a hamlet in the parish of Sandbach, hundred of Northwich, Chester, 6 miles from Knutsford, and 168 from London; containing 18 houses and 131 inhabitants.

TWICKENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Isleworth, Middlesex, 10 miles from London, on the banks of the Thames; containing 623 houses and 3138 inhabitants. The church is a modern plain building, after the Doric order. The neighbourhood contains many elegant villas, particularly Strawberry-Hill, the seat of the honourable Mrs. Damer, formerly the residence of Horace Walpole, lord Orford, and Colley Cibber. The charming house and gardens known as the residence of the celebrated Pope, were humble and confined while it was the residence of that poet; the principal decorations and additions of two wings, were made by sir William Stanhope, who purchased it on his death, and it afterwards came into the possession of Mr. Ellis, who married a daughter of sir William Stanhope. At the death of Mr. Ellis, improvements of succeeding possessors, have left but little of its originality. Pope and his family lie buried in the church, to whose memory there are some neat monuments. It is a vicarage, rated at 11*l.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.—Lyson's Environs of London.

TWIGWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Down Hatherleigh, hundred of Dudstone and King's barton, Gloucester, 3 miles from Gloucester, and 109 from London; containing 12 houses and 59 inhabitants.

Twineham, a parish in the hundred of Buttinghill, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 3 miles from Cuckfield, and 43 from London; containing 34 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

Twining, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 3 miles from Tewksbury, and 106 from London. The vestiges of a strong Roman encampment appear on an eminence, commanding a considerable length of the river Severn, from which it is distant ¼ mile. This parish has a spring of water reputed to be efficacious in cases of leprosy: the new road from Tewksbury to Worcester, has shortened the distance ¼ mile, and rendered the before crooked and narrow road, now straight and handsome. It contains 114 houses and 792 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

Twinstead, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 3 miles from Sudbury, and 51 from London; containing 33 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Twiston, a hamlet in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 9 miles from Haslingdon, and 212 from London; containing 32 houses and 189 inhabitants.

Twitchin, a hamlet in the parish of North Moulton and hundred of South Moulton, Devon, 4 miles from South Moulton, and 180 from London; containing 25 houses and 145 inhabitants.

Twiverton, a parish in the hundred of Wellow, Somerset, 3 miles from Bath, and 104 from London; containing 105 houses and 764 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 18*s.*

Twycross, a township and chapelry in the parish of Horton-on-the-Hill, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 5½ miles from Atherstone, and 112 from London; containing 64 houses and 319 inhabitants.

Twyford, a hamlet in the parishes of Hurst and Wargrave, hundred of Charton, Berks, near Oakingham, the population of which was returned in the respective parishes.

Twyford, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 4 miles from Buckingham, and 53 from London; containing 51 houses and 296 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Twyford, a township and chapelry in the parish of Barrow, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 5 miles from Derby, and 121 from London; containing 29 houses and 157 inhabitants.

Twyford, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 8 miles from Leicester, and 96 from London; containing 57 houses and 256 inhabitants.

Twyford, a township and chapelry in the parish of Willesdon, hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, 7 miles from London, and 2 miles to the right of Acton, near the Paddington canal, consisting of only 1 farm-house. The church or chapel is a neat little building in which service is performed once a month. The present proprietor Mr. Willan, is now building a very handsome and extensive mansion adjoining the old residence.

Twyford, a hamlet in the parish of Guist, hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 4 miles from Reepham, and 112 from London; containing 13 houses and 53 inhabitants.

Twyford, a hamlet in the parish of North Wytham, hundred of Betisloe, and division of Kesteven, Lincoln.

Twyford, a parish in the hundred of Buddlesgate, Hants, 2 miles from Winchester; containing 102 houses and 871 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*

Twyneholme, a parish in the stewartry of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, situated on the banks of the Dee and Tarff, 4 miles from Kirkcudbright, containing 134 houses and 633 inhabitants. The great road from England to Port Patrick passes through this parish. It is now united with the parish of Kirkchrist.

Twyzell, a parish in the hundred of Huxloe, Northampton, 2¼ miles from Thrapston, and 77 from London; containing 44 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*

Twyzell, a township in the parish of Norham, lying in that detatched part of Durham, called Norhamshire, north of Northumberland, and 3½ miles from Coldstream, containing 52 houses and 284 inhabitants.

Tyd St. Giles, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 5 miles from Wisbeach, and 94 from London; containing 82 houses and 535 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 13*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Tyldesley, a township in the parish of Leigh, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 6½ miles from Newton, and 199 from London; containing 478 houses and 3009 inhabitants, of whom 2109 were returned employed in various trades.

Tyndrum, a small village in Breadalbin, Perthshire, Scotland, on the western military road, 12 miles from Killin; its inhabitants are principally employed in a neighbouring lead-mine.

Tyne, a river which rises on the borders of Scotland, called the North Tyne and another which rises on the borders of Cumberland, called the South Tyne, which unite their streams at Hexham, dividing the counties of Durham and Northumberland, and passing Newcastle fall into the German ocean at Tynemouth.

Tyne, a river in Staffordshire which falls into the Trent at Hanford.

Tyne, a small river in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, rising on the borders of Mid-Lothian, and passing Haddington, falls into the Frith of Forth at Tynninghame Tyneham, a parish united with Steeple, in the hundred of Hasiler, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 6 miles from Wareham, and 116 from London; containing 38 houses and 187 inhabitants.

Tynemouth, a parish in Castle ward,

Northumberland, 10 miles from Newcastle, and 236 from London, at the mouth of the river Tyne; containing 804 houses and 3856 inhabitants. Tynemouth castle was a place of great strength in very early times, and belonged to the earls of Northumberland; it was garrisoned in the reign of queen Elizabeth, and during the Cromwell rebellion, it was again garrisoned and taken by the Scots. Clifford's Fort, a strong battery erected in 1672, commands the mouth of the river. Here are some considerable salt-works, and it is calculated that this port sends 770,000 chaldron of coals annually to London; during the summer season this place is much resorted to as a watering place. There are extensive military barracks. The river at low water is very shallow, and a dangerous sand lies across the mouth of it called the Bar, with several rocks about it called the Black Middins, to avoid which there are light houses erected by the Trinity-house at Newcastle. A priory was founded here very early, but the founder is not known. This house was often plundered by the Danes, and it lay in ruins till the reign of Edward the Confessor, when it was rebuilt by the earl of Northumberland, and endowed as a priory for black canons; it is built of reddish stone and appears to have been erected at different periods. The chief remains are those of the church, at the east of which is a neat little chapel or oratory. The church was at one time made parochial, but being decayed and damaged during the civil war, another was erected and finished in 1668; but the old cemetry is still much used as a burial place in preference to that of the new one. It is a vicarage, value 24*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.*

Tyninghame, a parish united with Whittinghame, in East Lothian, on the banks of the Frith of Forth, 7 miles from Haddington; containing 204 houses and 925 inhabitants. It is remarkable that two extensive woods planted by the earl of Haddington, the beginning of the last century, on the barren links close to the sea beach, are in a very thriving state.

Tynron, a parish in the shire of Dumfries, Scotland, 14 miles from Dumfries; containing 101 houses and 563 inhabitants.

Tyrie, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 38 miles from Aberdeen; containing 257 houses and 1044 inhabitants.

Tyrley, a township in the parish of Drayton, hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, near Newcastle, and 150 miles from London; containing 98 houses and 581 inhabitants.

Tyrone, a county in the province of Ulster, Ireland, bounded on the north and north-east by Londonderry; on the east by Armagh and Lough Neagh; on the south and south-west by Fermanagh and Monaghan; and on the west by Donegal. It is about 44 miles in length, and from 18 to 33 in breadth, containing 35 parishes, and about 28700 inhabitants. The soil is various; in some parts it is exceedingly rich and fertile, and in others rough and mountainous, but on the whole, cultivation has been much improved of late years. Near Dungannon are several collieries, and in its neighbourhood, as well as at Cookstown and Stewartown, are several extensive bleach-fields. The assize town is Omagh.

Tyringham, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Newport Pagnell, and 52 from London; containing 24 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* united with Filgrave.

Tysoe, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5 miles from Kineton, and 80 from London; containing 195 houses and 891 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the earl of Northampton.

Tytherington, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Thornbury, Gloucester, 2 miles from Wickwar, and 114 from London; containing 52 houses and 295 inhabitants.

Tywardreth, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from St. Austle, and 240 from London; containing 132 houses and 727 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Ubbeston, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 5 miles from Halesworth, and 100 from London; containing 36 houses and 177 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Ubley, a parish in the hundred of Chewton, Somerset, 6 miles from Wells, and 127 from London; containing 32 houses and 316 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* and the patron is the king.

Uckerby, a township in the parish of Catterick, Gilling East wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Richmond, and 232 from London; containing 12 houses and 75 inhabitants.

Uckfield, a township in the parish of Buxted, hundred of Loxfield Dorset, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 8 miles from Lewes, and 41 from London; containing 102 houses and 811 inhabitants. Fair, May 14, and is a post town.

Uckington, a hamlet in the parish of Elmston, Gloucester, near Tewksbury; containing 29 houses and 153 inhabitants.

Udney, a parish in the shire of Aberdeen, Scotland, 14 miles from Aberdeen; containing 256 houses and 1242 inhabitants. It contains many limestone and granite quarries.

Udimore, a village in the hundred of Gostrow, and rape of Hastings, Sussex, 2 miles from Winchelsea, and 64 from London; containing 42 houses and 321 inhabitants.

Uffculme, or Uffculme, a market town and parish in the hundred of Bampton, Devon, 3 miles from Collumpton, and 160 from London; containing 356 houses and 1837 inhabitants. Market on Wednesday, and its fairs are the Wednesday before Good Friday, 6th July, and 12th August. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* belonging to the prebend thereof in Salisbury cathedral.

Uffenham. See Offenham, Worcester.

Uffington, a parish in the hundred of Shrivenham, Berks, 5 miles from Wantage, and 64 from London; containing 76 houses and 432 inhabitants. It is a vicarage; value 21*l.* with Balking and Wolston chapels annexed. In the neighbourhood is the celebrated White-horse-hill.

Uffington, a parish in the hundred of Ness, and division of Kestewen, Lincoln, 2 miles from Stamford, and 90 from London; containing 91 houses and 456 inhabitants.

Uffington, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Shrewsbury, and 160 from London; containing 18 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Ufford, a parish in the hundred of Wilford, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Woodbridge, and 80 from London; containing 70 houses and 450 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 5*s.*

Ufford, a parish in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 4 miles from Stamford, and 85 from London; containing 26 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* with Bainton chapel annexed, in the patronage of St. John's college, Cambridge.

Ufton, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Southam, and 85 from London; containing 37 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Ugborough, a parish in the hundred of Ermington, Devon, adjoining Ivybridge, 205 miles from London; containing 160 houses and 956 inhabitants, including Ivybridge, a post town and hamlet to this parish. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.*

Ugford, a hamlet in the parish of South Newton, in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, near Salisbury.

Uggeshall, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 5 miles from Halesworth, and 102 from London; containing 37 houses and 335 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Sotherton.

Ugglebarnby, a township and chapelry in the parish of Whitby, in Whitby Strand wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Whitby, and 242 from London; containing 96 houses and 476 inhabitants.

Ugie, a river in the shire of Aberdeen, rising in two streams, about 20 miles from the sea, when it unites and falls into the sea at Peterhead.

Ugley, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Essex, 5 miles from Bishop Stortford, and 35 from London; containing 62 houses and 304 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the Governors of Christ's hospital.

Ugthorpe, a township in the parish of Lyth, in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Whitby; containing 54 houses and 245 inhabitants.

Uig, a parish in the shire of Ross, Scotland, situated in the south-western district of the Isle of Lewis. It is about 15 miles long, exclusive of the wide entry of Loch Roag, near 13 miles in breadth. Loch Roag is an extensive arm of the sea, interspersed with several large islands, and abounds with excellent anchorage, sufficient for the whole of the British navy. It contains 462 houses and 2086 inhabitants. Near the Loch, in the small village Calarnish, are the remains of a Druidical place of worship, being a circle of obelisks, each about 7 feet high, at 6 feet distance, with another in the center 13 feet high. There are several ranges of stones or obelisks, forming a kind of avenue to the circle; and at Gailaway, is the most entire Danish fort to be met with in Scotland. In 1794, there was living in this parish, a woman who had four distinct breasts. This woman had several stout, healthy children, and suckled them; each of the breasts had regular nipples, and gave milk; the two upper ones were situated under the arm pits.—Rev. Mr. Monro's Statistical Account.

Uist, North, an island of the Hebrides, separated from Benbecula by a narrow streight, dry at low water. The whole island belongs to lord M'Donald, and the parish comprehends the adjacent isles of Boreray, Orinsay, Vallay, Heisker, Kirkbost, Heray, and Grimsay; the whole containing 693 houses and 3010 inhabitants, chiefly employed in making of kelp, and fishing.

Uist, South, another of the Hebrides, belonging to the shire of Inverness, between the isles of Benbecula and Baray, being about 32 miles long, and 10 broad. The parish, comprehending the adjacent isles of Benbe- cuta, Ronay, Eriskay, and several smaller islets, contains 881 houses and 4585 inhabitants.

UKINGTON. See UCKINGTON, Gloucester.

ULCEBY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Alford and 157 from London; containing 33 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* united with Fordington.

ULCEBY, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Barton and 163 from London; containing 89 houses and 413 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

ULCOMB, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorn, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 7 miles from Maidstone and 41 from London; containing 77 houses and 552 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

ULDALE, a parish in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 8 miles from Cockermouth and 300 from London; containing 51 houses and 284 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

ULCESTER, a hamlet in the parish of Wooler, Northumberland.

ULEY, a parish in the hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 2 miles from Dursley and 105 from London; containing 312 houses and 1724 inhabitants, of whom a considerable number were returned as being employed in a manufacture of broad cloth. On the side of Bury hill, appears to have been a Roman encampment. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

ULGHAM, a township in the parish and ward of Morpeth, Northumberland, 4 miles from Morpeth and 295 from London; containing 70 houses and 320 inhabitants.

ULLENHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Wootton Wawen, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 3 miles from Henley-in-Arden and 104 from London; containing 100 houses and 488 inhabitants.

ULLESKELF, a township and chapelry in the parish of Kirby Wharf, in the liberty of St. Peter's, at York, 3 miles from Tadcaster and 186 from London; containing 70 houses and 320 inhabitants.

ULLESTHORPE, a township in the parish of Great Claybrook, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 3 miles from Lutterworth and 86 from London; containing 101 houses and 494 inhabitants.

ULLEY, a township in the parish of Treeton, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5½ miles from Sheffield and 160 from London; containing 39 houses and 196 inhabitants.

ULLINGSWICK, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Bromyard and 130 from London; containing 45 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Hereford, with little Cowarne Chapel annexed.

ULLOCK, a hamlet in the parish of Dean, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Cockermouth, 300 miles from London; containing 48 houses and 222 inhabitants.

ULLWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Swanage, hundred of Rowbarrow and division of Blandford, Dorset, adjoining to Swanage.

ULNESWALTON, a township in the parish of Croston, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, near Chorley, 210 miles from London; containing 87 houses and 453 inhabitants.

ULPHA, a township and chapelry in the parish of Millom, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Egremont, and 302 miles from London; containing 55 houses and 292 inhabitants.

ULPHA, a township united with Methop, in the parish of Beetham, Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Burton-on-Trent; containing 11 houses and 90 inhabitants, including Methop.

ULROME, a township in the parish of Barmston and Skipsea, in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 7 miles from Driffield; containing 25 houses and 143 inhabitants.

ULTING, a parish in the hundred of Witham, Essex, 3 miles from Witham and 34 from London; containing 16 houses and 156 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

ULVERSTONE, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Londsdale, Lancaster, situated near the Leven, 20 miles from Kendal and 270 from London; containing 607 houses and 2937 inhabitants, of whom 333 were returned as being employed in various trades. By means of a canal, lately cut vessels of 150 tons can approach the town carrying on a considerable traffic, in the export of iron ore, limestone, and corn; and in the neighbourhood, are several furnaces and smelting houses. The church stands in a field, a small distance from the town, a white building having a square tower, containing 3 bells. This town has a small theatre. Market on Monday, and its fairs are Holy Thursday, and the Thursday after 23d October. It is a curacy.

UNDERBARROW, a township and chapelry in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Kendal and 263 from London; containing 71 houses and 376 inhabitants.

UNDERDITCH, the name of a hundred in Wilts, in the southern part of the county west of the river Bourne.

UNDERMILBECK, a township in the parish of Windermere, Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 7½ miles from Kendal and 267 from London; containing 119 houses and 500 inhabitants In this town stands the church of Windermere, a large and handsome building, the windows of which contain some beautiful paintings on glass, brought from Furness Abbey.

UNDERSKIDDON, a township in the parish of Crosthwait, Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Keswick and 293 from London; containing 64 houses and 338 inhabitants.

Underwood, a hamlet in the township of Olfcoat and parish of Ashborn, hundred of Wirksworth, Derby, near Ashborn.

Unst, the most northern of the Shetland Isles, about 12 mile long, and 3½ broad; containing 366 houses and 2259 inhabitants, mostly employed in the fishery. This island had formerly 24 chapels, the ruins of which are still observable. The soil is tolerable fertile, and affords excellent sheep feed. Hogs and rabbits are abundant, and the horned cattle of good quality.

Unstone, a township in the parish of Dronfield, hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 4 miles from Chesterfield and 155 from London; containing 69 houses and 352 inhabitants.

Unthank, a hamlet in the parish of Skelton, Leath ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Penrith and 289 from London; containing 37 houses and 215 inhabitants.

Unthank, a hamlet in the parish of Alnham, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Rothbury and 311 from London; containing 6 houses and 24 inhabitants.

Uny Lelant. See Lelant Uny, Cornwall.

Upberry, or Oberry, a hamlet in the parish of Silsoe, hundred of Flitt, Bedford, 9 miles from Luton and 40 from London. Population included with Silsoe.

Upcerne. See Cerne, Upper, Dorset.

Upchurch, a parish in the hundred of Milton, lathe of Scray, Kent, 5 miles from Chatham and 35¼ from London; containing 38 houses and 243 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* in the patronage of All Souls College, Oxford.

Upcot, a small hamlet in the parish of Cheriton, hundred of Wowford, Devon, 9 miles from Exeter.

Uphall, or Strathbrok, a parish in the shire of Linlithgow, Scotland, on the banks of the small river Brockburn, 14 miles from Edinburgh; containing 123 houses and 786 inhabitants. In this parish is a valuable colliery, two freestone quarries, lime-stone, iron-ore, &c. It has a great annual fair in August.

Upham, a parish in the hundred of Bishop Waltham, division of Portsdown, Hants, 3 miles from Bishop's Waltham and 68 from London; containing 65 houses and 345 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

Up. Hatherley. See Hatherley Up, Gloucester.

Uphaven, a parish in the hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, near Market Lavinton, 88 miles from London; containing 87 houses and 430 inhabitants. Fair 18th October. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Upholland, a township in the parish of Wigan, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Wigan and 200 from London; containing 470 houses and 2427 inhabitants.

Uphill, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 7 miles from Axbridge and 138 from London, on the shore of the Bristol channel; containing 27 houses and 144 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 7*s.* and is in the patronage of the king.

Upleadon, a parish in the hundred of Botloe, Gloucester, on the river Leden, 3 miles from Newent and 106 from London; containing 31 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the bishop of Gloucester.

Upleadon, a hamlet in the parish of Bosbury, hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 4 miles from Ledbury and 125 from London; containing 67 houses and 365 inhabitants.

Upleatham, a township and chapelry in the parish of Gisborough, Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Gisborough and 254 from London; containing 61 houses and 237 inhabitants.

Uplime, a parish in the hundred of Axminster, Devon, 1¼ mile from Lymeregis, from which it is divided by a small lake, and 144 from London; containing 126 houses and 549 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Uplowman, a parish in the hundred of Tiverton, Devon, 3 miles from Tiverton and 163 from London; containing 62 houses and 360 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 0*s* 10*d.*

Upminster, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 16 miles from London. Its name signifies a church on the hill, from its lofty situation. It contains 121 houses and 765 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Upnor Castle, Kent, west of the river Medway, near Frendsbury, and opposite Chatham-dock; it was erected by queen Elizabeth for the defence of the Medway, which is the usual rendezvous of the royal navy.

Upperby, a hamlet in the parish of St. Cuthbert's, Carlisle, in Cumberland var., Cumberland, near Carlisle; containing 50 houses and 119 inhabitants.

Upperswell, a small village in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, near Stow-in-the-Wold; containing 15 houses and 74 inhabitants.

Uppingham, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Martinsley, Rutland, 7 miles from Oakham and 89 from London; containing 271 houses and 1393 inhabitants. The town consisting principally of one street, stands on an eminence, from whence it is supposed to have derived its name; the houses are well built, and the streets clean and neat; it has a good hospital and free-school, both erected in 1584. The church is an ancient gothic structure; containing many monuments, some of which are very elegant and of great antiquity. At a place called The Brand, are annual horse races. Market on Wednesday. Fairs 7th March and 7th July for horses, cattle, and cloth. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Uppington, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Wellington and 155 from London; containing 18 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Uppottery, a parish in the hundred of Axminster, Devon, 4 miles from Honiton and 158 from London; containing 150 houses and 795 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

Ursall, a hamlet in the parish of South Kilvington, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 3½ miles from Thirsk and 226 from London; containing 18 houses and 102 inhabitants.

Upshire, a hamlet in the parish of Waltham Abbey, hundred of Waltham, Essex, near Waltham Abbey and 13 miles from London; containing 88 houses and 502 inhabitants.

Upsland, a hamlet in the parish of Kirklington, north riding of York.

Upstreet, a hamlet in the parish of Chislet, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, situated on the river Stour, near the Isle of Thanet, 62 miles from London and 6½ from Canterbury; to the north-east are marshes, formerly covered by the Wantsum, an arm of the sea, which separated Thanet from the main land of Kent.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Blewberry, Hundred of Moreton, Berks, 5 miles from Wallingford and 50½ from Lincoln; containing 47 houses and 217 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Stoke, Bucks, 2½ miles from Colnbrook and 19 from London; containing 165 houses and 1018 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.* united with Chalvey, in the patronage of the crown.

Upton, a village in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, near Overchurch; containing 26 houses and 173 inhabitants.

Upton, a village in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, near Macclesfield; containing 10 houses and 56 inhabitants.

Upton, another village in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, between the rivers Dee and Mersey, near Chester; containing 25 houses and 141 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, 3 miles from Gloucester and 109 from London; containing 123 houses and 621 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of Gloucester.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Tetbury, hundred of Grumbold's Ash, Gloucester, near Tetbury; containing 45 houses and 276 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 6 miles from Huntingdon and 71 from London; containing 19 houses and 137 inhabitants.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Sibbistone, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 4 miles from Hinckley and 103 from London; containing 28 houses and 136 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Well, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Gainsborough and 150 from London; containing 35 houses and 161 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Duston, hundred of Nobottle-grove, Northampton, 2 miles from Northampton and 67 from London; containing 4 houses and 32 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 1 mile from Southwell and 127 from London; containing 66 houses and 329 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, vale 4*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Burford, hundred of Bampton, Oxford, ¼ of a mile from Burford and 73 from London; containing 41 houses and 209 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 4 miles from Wiveliscombe and 160 from London; containing 36 houses and 232 inhabitants.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Caistor, hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 1½ mile from Caistor and 82 from London; containing 8 houses 76 inhabitants.

Upton, a parish in the hundred of North Wa sham, Norfolk, near Acle, 121 miles from London; containing 58 houses and 337 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Hasilor, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Alcester; the population of which was included with that of Hasilor.

Upton, a parish in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, near Pontefract and 180 miles from London; containing 34 houses and 162 inhabitants.

Upton, a hamlet in the parish of Skipsea, east riding of York.

Upton Bishops, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 4 miles from Ross and 125 from London; containing 99 houses and 550 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

Upton Cresset a small village in the hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, near Bridgenorth; containing 7 houses and 53 inhabitants.

Upton Grey, a parish in the hundred of Bermondspit, division of Basingtoke, Hants, 2½ miles from Odiham and 43 from London; containing 52 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Upton Helion, a parish in the hundred of West Budleigh, Devon, 2 miles from Crediton and 182 from London; containing 19 houses and 136 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value, 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

UPTON LOVEL, a parish in the hundred of Heytesbury, Wilts, 6 miles from Warminster and 92 from London; containing 37 houses and 242 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

UPTON MAGNA, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 4 miles from Shrewsbury and 158 from London; containing 95 houses and 482 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* united with Whittington.

UPTON NOBLE, a parish in the hundred of Bruton, Somerset, 3 miles from Bruton and 114 from London; containing 39 houses and 223 inhabitants.

UPTON PYNE, a parish in the hundred of Wowford, Devon, 3 miles from Exeter and 171 from London; containing 46 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

UPTON-ON-SEVERN, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, situated on the banks of the Severn, 10 miles from Worcester and 109½ from London; containing 365 houses and 1858 inhabitants, of whom 285 were returned, as being employed in trade. The church is an extremely neat building, erected in 1758, and has a square tower, containing 5 bells. The town carries on a considerable traffic by barges on the Severn, over which is has a stone bridge of 6 arches. Here are two banking houses, and a good charity school for girls, and the market is on Thursday. Fairs, first Thursday after Midlent, Thursday in Whitsun week, and before St. Matthew's day, and on the 2d September. It is a rectory, rated at 27*l.* and is in the patronage of the bishop of Worcester.

UPTON SCUDAMORE, a parish in the hundred of Warminster, Wilts, 2 miles from Warminster and 100 from London; containing 64 houses and 409 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 17*s.* 1*d* in the patronage of Queen's College, Oxford.

UPTON SNODSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, situated on the river Piddle, 6 miles from Worcester and 107 from London; containing 43 houses and 216 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.*

UPTON WALTERS, a parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 6 miles from Newport and 140 from London; containing 33 houses and 164 inhabitants.

UPTON WARREN, a parish in the hundred of Halfshire, Worcester, 5 miles from Droitwich and 121 from London; containing 56 houses and 342 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*

UPWAY, a parish in the hundred of Colliford Tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 4 miles from Dorchester and 125 from London, at the foot of the Ridgway hill; containing 67 houses and 363 inhabitants. The church is an old building, with an embattled tower, and is a rectory, value [illegible] in the patronage of the bishop of Sarum.

UPWELL, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 5 miles from Wisbeach and 70 from Cambridge, on a navigable river; containing 150 houses and 830 inhabitants.

UPWELL, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 5 miles from Downham and 89 from London; containing 208 houses and 1189 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* united with Welkenby.

UPWALTHAM, a village in the hundred of Box and Stockbridge, rape of Chichester, Sussex, near Chichester; containing 6 houses and 65 inhabitants.

UPWOOD, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 2½ miles from Ramsey, and 66 from London; containing 50 houses and 316 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

URCHFORT, a parish in the hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 3 miles from Market Lavington and 86 from London; containing 210 houses and 899 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* with Stert chapel annexed, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

URE, a river in Yorkshire, rising near Askrig, and passing Masham and Ripon, falls into the Swale, near Boroughbridge.

URIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Colerne, hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, near Chippenham, the population of which was included with that of Colerne.

URMSTONE, a township in the parish of Flixton, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Manchester and 185 miles from London; containing 88 houses and 552 inhabitants.

URPETH, a township in the parish of Chester-le-Street, Chester ward, Durham, 7 miles from Durham; containing 153 houses and 924 inhabitants.

URQUHART, a parish in the shire of Elgin, Scotland, lying on the coast of the Moray frith, between the rivers Spey and Lossie, 4½ miles from Fochaber; containing 228 houses and 1025 inhabitants. The principal proprietor of this parish is the earl of Fife, whose elegant seat, the House of Innes, stands near the Loch Cotts.

URQUHART, or GLENMORISTON, a parish in the shire of Inverness, Scotland, on the banks of Loch Ness; containing 135 houses and 689 inhabitants.—See GLENMORISTON.

URR, a small lake in the shire of Kirkcudbright, about 3 miles in circuit; at the eastern extremity is a small island, on which are the remains of a castle, built by Malcolm III.

URR. See ORR, Fifeshire, Scotland.

URRAY, a parish united with Kilchrist in the shire of Ross, Scotland, on the banks of the Beaulieu and Conan, 12 miles from Invernes; containing 458 houses and 2055 inhabitants.

URSWICK, a parish in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 3 miles from Ulverstone and 273 from London; containing 159 houses and 633 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the parishioners.

Usburn, a parish in Claro wapentake west riding of York, 5 miles from Aldborough, and 203 from London; containing 76 houses and 415 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Usk, a market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, near the centre of the county of Monmouth, and on the banks of the river Uske, 7 miles from Caerleon and 144 from London; containing 152 houses and 734 inhabitants. Its trade consists in a manufactory of Pontypool ware. The ruins of the castle stands on an abrupt eminence to the east of the river, consisting only of the shell of the outworks. The church is of Norman architecture, and originally built in the form of a cathedral; the ruins of the priory to which it belonged are still observable, at the south-east of the tower, and are now converted into a farm-house. The river is remarkable for its salmon, and it has several very productive Weirs in the neighbourhood. The town house is a neat modern building. This town is supposed to have been the Burrium of the Romans. Usk is a borough, and in conjunction with Newport and Monmouth, sends one member to parliament. The market is on Monday. Fairs Trinity Monday and 18th October. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 10*s.*—Coxe's Tour.

Usk, the name of a hundred in Monmouth, lying in the centre of the county, between the rivers Usk and Avon.

Uske, a river in Brecknockshire and Monmouthshire, which falls into the Severn sea, at Newporthaven.

Usway, a river in Northumberland, which falls into the Coquet, below Whitside.

Usworth, Great and Little, two adjoining hamlets, forming one township in the parish of Washington, Chester ward, Durham, 5 miles from Gateshead and 271 from London; containing 259 houses and 1256 inhabitants.

Utkinton, a township in the parish of Tarporley, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 10 miles from Nantwich and 174 from London; containing 80 houses and 458 inhabitants.

Utlicote. See Idlicote, Warwick.

Utterbey, a parish in the hundred of Ledborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Louth and 157 from London; containing 31 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Uttlesford, the name of a hundred in Essex, being the north-western point of the county, around Saffron Walden.

Uttoxeter, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, situated on the river Dove, 6 miles from Abbots Bromley, and 135 from London; containing 586 houses and 2779 inhabitants, of whom 2300 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, principally in the various branches of ironmongery, the town being nearly surrounded with extensive forges. It is situated on a rising ground, and has several good streets, with a large open market-place. It carries on a considerable traffic, by its navigation communicating with the Trent, Thames, Avon, &c.; over the river is a good stone bridge, into Derbyshire. This town is remarkable for the longevity of its inhabitants. The church has a lofty steeple, containing 6 bells, and has a clock with chimes. The market on Wednesday, is noted for its great supply of cheese, butter, hogs, corn, and all kinds of provision. Fairs 6th of May, 31st July, and 1st and 19th September. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

Uxbridge, a township and chapelry in the parish of Hillingdon, hundred of Elthorne, Middlesex, 15 miles from London; containtaining 385 houses and 2111 inhabitants. The town consists of one street, nearly a mile in length; the river Colne runs in two streams at the west end, having a new stone bridge over the main branch; that part of the town in the liberties of the township of Hillingdon, still remains unpaved, but the rest is paved and lighted by virtue of an act of parliament. The church or chapel of ease is a good building, and was erected in the reign of Henry VI.; near it is a very commodious market-house. The churchyard lies at some distance from the church. In a parallel line with the river, running from south to north, passes the Grand Junction Canal, from the Thames at New Brentford, crossing the Colne several times from Cowley to Rickmansworth. Near the canal is an ancient building, called the Treaty-house, from is being the place where the commissioners of Charles I. and the parliament met in 1644. In the vicinity anciently called Heiling Down, from whence the parish derived the name of Hillingdon, are the remains of a camp, supposed to have been thrown up by the Britons, against their invaders, the Romans. In the neighbourhood are many corn mills, giving a great supply of flour to the metropolis, both by land and water carriage. The town is governed by two bailiffs, two constables and four headboroughs. During the summer season, a passage boat arrives daily, by the canal from Paddington, about two o'clock, and returns the same evening, after the plan of the Schuyts in Holland. Fare 4*s.* 6*d.* each person. Uxbridge is noted for the whiteness of its bread, and gives title of earl to the family of Paget. Market on Thursday. Fairs 31st July and 10th October, for corn, cattle, provision, &c. and the latter is a statute fair.—Lysons' Environs of London.

Uxmore, a hamlet in the parish of Checkendon, hundred of Langtree, Oxford, near Nettlebed, 40 miles from London.

Uzzleby, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Market Raisin and 151 from London; containing 13 houses and 56 inhabitants.

VACH, a hamlet in the parish of Chalfont, St. Peter's, near Amersham, Bucks.

VAGUERY, a hamlet in the parish of Cranley, Surry.

VAKE, a river in Cornwall which falls into Falmouth Harbour.

VALE OF WHITE HORSE. See WANTAGE, Berks.

VALE of RED-HORSE. See EDGHILL, Warwick.

VALLEGRIT, a hamlet in the parish of East Allington, Devon.

VANDAL, a river in Surry, which falls into the Thames at Windsor.

VANGE, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 6 miles from Billericay, and 30 from London; containing 16 houses and 130 inhabitants. The water of Old Haven Creek, comes up to this village, on which it has a wharf. It is a curacy.

VAUD, a village in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, near Hereford, and 136 miles from London; containing 22 houses and 125 inhabitants.

VAUXHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Lambeth, in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, on the banks of the Thames, 1½ mile from London. It contains several extensive manufactures of pottery, stone, patent-shot, and several distilleries. Here is that celebrated place of amusement for the metropolis, during the summer season, known by the name of Vauxhall Gardens, originally opened under the name of Spring Gardens, in 1730, by Mr. Jonathan Tyers. The season commences about the 4th June, and closes the latter end of August, when it is open three times a week. The grounds are very handsomely decorated with paintings, originally from the humorous pencil of Hogarth; all the walks and avenues are brilliantly lighted with variegated lamps and transparencies. In the center of the gardens is erected an orchestra, where the concert commences at 8 o'clock, assisted by the most eminent performers, both vocal and instrumental, and finishes about 12 o'clock with a display of fireworks. When London and the suburbs were fortified, a fort was erected here near the Turnpike. Tradition asserts that the notorious Guy Fawkes resided in the manor house of Vauxhall, on the site of which now stands Marble Hall, and Cumberland tea-gardens, but for this assertion there is not any authority. Through the turnpike on the road to Wandsworth, is an almshouse, for 7 poor women founded in 1612 by sir Noel Caron, whose mansion was the present Caron-house Academy. These women must be parishoners of Lambeth, and upwards of 60 years of age. In the neighbourhood of Vauxhall are many handsome residences. At South Lambeth adjoining, is a neat chapel of ease to the mother church.

VAYNOR, a parish in the hundred of Penkelley, Brecon, Wales, near Brecon; containing 177 houses and 889 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the Prince of Wales.

VEARN, a village in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, near Hereford, and 136 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 83 inhabitants.

VLEI, ST. a parish in the hundred of West Cornwall, 2 miles from Fowey, and 237 from London; containing 99 houses and 506 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.*

VELENRYD, a river in Merionethshire, Wales, which falls into the Irish Sea, at Traeth-Richa.

VENNINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Westbury, hundred of Ford, Salop, near Shrewsbury.

VENOTTERY, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 6 miles from Topsham, and 160 from London; containing 21 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.*

VENT, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the South Tyne, at Austin's Moor.

VENTNOR, a hamlet in the parish of Godshill in the Isle of Wight, Hants, near Steephill, on the southern coast of the island.

VERE, a river in Hertfordshire, which falls into the Colne, near Newburn.

VERLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Great Wigborough, hundred of Winstree, Essex, 6 miles from Colchester, and 45 from London; containing 7 houses and 52 inhabitants.

VERNHAM DEAN, a township in the parish of Hursborn Tarrant, hundred of Pastrow, and division of Kingsclere, Hants, 6½ miles from Kingsclere, and 61 from London; containing 95 houses and 459 inhabitants.

VERULAM, the name of an ancient city which stood on the banks of the river Verlam, opposite to St. Albans, out of the ruins of which that town is supposed to have risen—many Roman coins and tesselated pavements have been discovered at various times in the neighbourhood.

VERYAN, a parish in the hundred of Powder, Cornwall, 3 miles from Tregony, and 254 from London; containing 201 houses and 1007 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

VERWIG, a parish in the hundred of Troedyror, Cardiganshire, Wales, 3 miles from Cardigan, and 236 from London; containing 60 houses and 338 inhabitants.

VINCENT, ST. ROCKS. See Bristol.

VIRGINIA WATER, Surry, 3 miles from Egham, on the road to Bagshot, and 24 from London; near it on the left of the road is the shell of a tower, erected about 50 years since by William duke of Cumberland for an observatory, but it was never finished.

VIRGINSTOW, a parish in the hundred of Lifton, Devon, near Launceston, and 210 miles from London; containing 19 houses and 101 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

VOW CHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 8 miles from Hereford, and 143 from London; containing 50 houses and 235 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 9*s.* belonging to the prebend of Putteston, in the church of Hereford.

VOWMYND, a hamlet in the parish of Cusop, hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 4 miles from Hay, and 152 from London; containing 28 houses and 164 inhabitants.

WABBERTHWAITE, a parish in Alderdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, ⅝ mile from Ravenglass, and 287 from London; containing 22 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

WACKERFIELD, a township in the parish of Staindrop, Darlington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Barnard Castle, and 250 from London; containing 22 houses and 94 inhabitants.

WACTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bridenbury, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Bromyard, and 130 from London; containing 18 houses and 90 inhabitants.

WACTON, a parish in the hundred of Depwade, Norfolk, 10 miles from Norwich, and 99 from London; containing 37 houses and 241 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.*

WADBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Pershore, Worcester, 3 miles from Pershore; containing 26 houses and 159 inhabitants.

WADDENHILL, 1 mile from Ivinghoe, Bucks, near the source of the river Ouse.

WADDESDON, a parish in the hundred of Ashendon, Bucks, 5 miles from Aylesbury, and 45½ from London; containing 132 houses and 1040 inhabitants. The rectory of this parish is divided into 3 portions, each having its respective minister, who officiate by turns, and each rated at 15*l.* At Eyethorpe, 2 miles distant, is the residence of the earl of Chesterfield.

WADDINGHAM, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 152 from London; containing 57 houses and 343 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WADDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3½ miles from Lincoln, and 130 from London; containing 137 houses and 674 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Lincoln college.

WADDINGTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Mitton, wapentake of Staincliffe and Ewcross, West riding of York, 3 miles from Clitheroe, and 218 from London; containing 142 houses and 481 inhabitants.

WADEBRIDGE, a village and formerly a market town, in the hundred of Trigg, Cornwall, situated on the river Carnel or Allen, over which it has a bridge supported by 20 arches, reckoned the handsomest and strongest in the county, 5 miles from Padstow, and 238 from London. The population of this place was returned with that of St. Breock, in which parish it is situated. Near it are nine remarkably large stones in a row called The Sisters. Fairs 12th May, 22d June, and 10th October.

WADENHOE, a parish in the hundred of Navisford, Northampton, 3 miles from Thrapston, and 78 from London; containing 41 houses and 257 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

WADDON, EAST AND WEST, 2 small hamlets in the parish of Portisham, near Abbotsbury, Dorset.

WADHURST, a parish in the hundred of Loxfield Pelham, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 5 miles from Tunbridge-Wells, and 40 from London; containing 246 houses and 1677 inhabitants. Fairs 29th June, and 1st November. It is a vicarage value 15*l.* 1*s.*

WADLE, a river in Herefordshire, which falls into the Lug, near Combe.

WADESMILL. See WESTMILL, Herts.

WADON, a hamlet in the parish of Croydon, Surry.

WADSWORTH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, near Halifax; containing 475 houses and 2801 inhabitants, of whom 1185 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

WADWORTH, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5½ miles from Doncaster, and 160 from London; containing 92 houses and 446 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

WAGHEN, or WAWN, a parish in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 4 miles from Beverley, and 180 from London; containing 39 houses and 299 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*d.* belonging to the chancellor of the church of York.

WAISBY, a parish in the hundred of Walshcroft, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 1½ mile from Market-Raisen, and 151 from London; containing 28 houses and 137 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 23*l.* 18*s.*

WAINFLEET, a market town, consisting of 2 parishes in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, situated near a creek of the sea, [illegible] from Spilsby, and 132 from London. The creek is navigable for vessels of small burthen. The town is neatly built, but it has now but one church. The parish of All-saints, contains 96 houses and 506 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 13*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* and is in the patronage of the king. The parish of St. Mary's contains 68 houses and 421 inhabitants; it is a curacy, in the patronage of the governors of Bethlem Hospital. The market is on Saturday. Fairs, 3d Saturday in May, July, and August, and on the 24th October.

WAITBY, a township in the parish of Kirby Stephen, East Ward, Westmoreland, 1¼ mile from Kirby Stephen; and 266 from London; containing 11 houses and 60 inhabitants.

WAITH, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5½ miles from Grimsby, and 165 from London; containing 11 houses and 41 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 2*l.* 14*s.*

WAKE CAUNDLE. See CAUNDLE, Dorset.

WAKE COLNE. See COLNE, Essex.

WAKEFIELD, a market town and parish in Morley wapentake, west-riding of York, situated on the river Calder, 9 miles from Barnsley, 8½ from Leeds, and 180 from London; containing 1721 houses and 8131 inhabitants, viz. 3701 males, and 4430 females, of whom 1657 were returned employed in trade and manufacture. The town is handsome and is beautifully situated, consisting of 9 large streets, meeting towards the church, which is a lofty gothic structure, and has a very high spire. There is also a neat new church or chapel of ease, lately built. The ground and 1000*l.* towards the support of the minister, was bequeathed by Mrs. Newstead. The Calvinists and Methodists, have each a very elegant chapel. The market cross consists of Doric columns supporting a dome, and has an ascent by a circular flight of stairs in the center, leading to a room used as the Town Hall. The House of Correction for the riding, erected in 1770 is a noble building and stands in an excellent airy situation. The free grammar school is a good building, and endowed with many benefactions; there are several exhibitions of considerable value, belonging to this school, for the maintenance of students in the University of Cambridge; and some smaller ones for the students of University College, Oxford, It has also 2 scholarships at Clare-hall Cambridge; the library belonging to this school contains a good collection of books in all languages. The charity school is an excellent foundation for the clothing and instruction of 106 boys and girls. The town has long been noted for its manufacture of woollen cloth and stuffs, and of late years, this branch has considerably encreased its population; many fulling mills are on the banks of the river. The numerous manufactories here and in the neighbouring villages, principally supply the market at Leeds and Huddersfield. A new hall 70 yards long and 30 broad, consisting of 2 stories, has been erected for the sale of stuffs, down the center of each floor is a row of stands facing outwards, for exhibiting the various goods for sale, and the commencement of the market is announced by the ringing of a bell over the hall, similar to the cloth-hall at Leeds. Here is a neat theatre; and about the middle of September are horse races, on a 2 mile course, on Wakefield Outwood, 2 miles distant from the town. The quarter sessions for the west riding of York are held here, the 2d week in January, and every market-day fortnight, petty sessions are held by the justices of the peace. This town has a navigation to Huddersfield, by a canal from the Calder, in a line with the river Colne, to Barnsley by a canal, and to Leeds by the Calder, joining the Aire, where their united streams, fall into the river Ouse at Armin, near Howden. Over the river is a handsome stone bridge of 9 arches, and a warehouse thereon, still exhibits some curious architecture of its origin, when it was a chapel erected by Edward IV. to the memory of his father Richard, duke of York, who was slain near this spot in 1459. A little above the bridge is a Dam, which forms an admirable cascade of some length. The market is on Friday, and there is a considerable show of wool on Thursday. Fair 4th and 5th of July, and 11th and 12th November. The first and third for cattle, the latter is a statute fair, besides these there are every Wednesday fortnight a considerable sheep and cattle fair. The church of Allhallhows is a vicarage, rated at 29*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the crown.

WAKELY, a hamlet in the parish of Aspeden, hundred of Edwintree, Herts, near Standon.

WAKERING, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Rochford, Essex, 4 miles from Rochford, and 43 from London; containing 82 houses and 674 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

WAKERING, LITTLE, another parish ¼ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 27 houses and 232 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 12*l.* in the patronage of the governors of St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

WAKERLEY, a parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, near the river Welland, 7 miles from Uppingham, and 89 from London; containing 41 houses and 194 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

WALBERSWICK, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Blibburgh, hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 1½ mile from Southwold, and 104 from London; containing 32 houses and 229 inhabitants.

WALBERTON, a parish in the hundred of Avisford, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 1 mile from Arundel, and 61 from London; containing 72 houses and 502 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester.

WALBOTTLE, a township in the parish of Newburn, Castle ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Newcastle, and 281 from London; containing 98 houses and 462 inhabitants.

WALBURN, a hamlet in the parish of Downholme, Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Leyburn, and 239 from London; containing 6 houses and 40 inhabitants.

WALBY, a hamlet in the parish of Crosby Ieskdale ward, Cumberland, 4 miles from Carlisle, and 309 from London; containing 7 houses and 36 inhabitants.

WALCOT, a township united with Poulton, in the parish of Misterton, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, near Lutterworth, and 84 miles from London; containing 73 houses and 341 inhabitants, including Poulton.

WALCOT, a parish in the hundred of Aveland, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Folkingham, and 109 from London; containing 24 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALCOT, a township and chapelry in the parish of Billinghay, hundred of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 9 miles from Sleaford, and 125 from London; containing 61 houses and 361 inhabitants.

WALCOT, a parish in the hundred of Happing, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walsham, and 128 from London; containing 26 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is a curacy, under the bishop of Norwich

WALCOT, a parish in the hundred of Williton and Freemanners, Somerset, adjoining to Bath, and generally reckoned a part thereof; containing 2324 houses and 17539 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* See BATH.

WALCOTE, a hamlet in the parish of Cranborough, Warwickshire.

WALCOTE, a parish in the hundred of Pershore, Worcester, near Pershore, and 106 miles from London; containing 41 houses and 239 inhabitants.

WALDEN, SAFFRON. See SAFFRON WALDEN, Essex.

WALDEN, STUBBS, a hamlet in the parish of Wormsley, wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 5 miles from Pontefract, and 175 from London; containing 23 houses and 127 inhabitants.

WALDERSHARE, a parish in the hundred of Eastry, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Dover, and 68¼ from London; containing 9 houses and 65 inhabitants. The church is a small building, and contains several good monuments. The seat of the earl of Guildford is a noble structure, situated in a fine park well stocked with deer, and surrounded with spacious gardens. In the park is erected a very high belvidere, commanding an extensive view: opposite the seat are the remains of West Langdon Abbey. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 8*s.* and in the patronage of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

WALDINGFIELD, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk; 3 miles from Sudbury, and 57 from London; containing 42 houses and 564 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Clare Hall, Cambridge.

WALDINGFIELD, LITTLE, an adjoining parish in the same hundred, containing 75 houses and 338 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.*

WALDITCH, a village in the hundred of Goderthorne, division of Bridport, Dorset, near Bridport; containing 19 houses and 134 inhabitants.

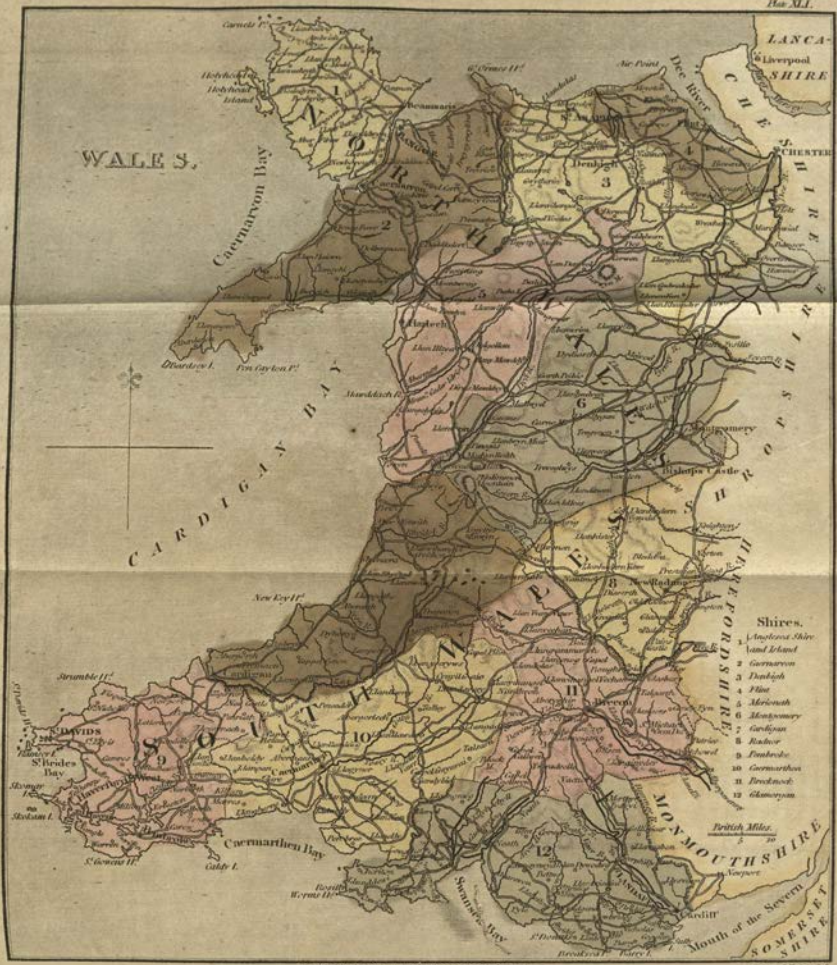
WALDRIDGE, a village near Aylesbury, Bucks.

WALDRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Chester-le-street, in Chester Ward, Durham, 3 miles from Durham, and 265 from London; containing 20 houses and 83 inhabitants.

WALDRINGFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, situated on the river Deben, 4 miles from Woodbridge, and 76 from London; containing 24 houses and 118 inhabitants.

WALDRON, a parish in the hundred of Shiplake, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 6 miles from Hailsham, and 50 from London; containing 157 houses and 752 inhabitants.—It is a reetory, rated at 13*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Dorset.

WALES, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 9 miles from Sheffield, and 158 from Lon-



WALES.
NORTH WALES
SOUTH WALES
Caernarvon Bay
CARDIGAN BAY
Dee River
LANCA-SHIRE
Liverpool
CHESHIRE CHESTER
SHROPSHIRE
HEREFORDSHIRE
MONMOUTHSHIRE
SOMERSET SHIRE
Bishops Castle
Montgomery
Brecon
Newport
Cardiff
Mouth of the Severn
Severn Sea
Caermarthen Bay
St Bride's Bay
St David's
Shires.
1 Anglesea Shire and Island
2 Caernarvon
3 Denbigh
4 Flint
5 Merioneth
6 Montgomery
7 Cardigan
8 Radnor
9 Pembroke
10 Caermarthen
11 Brecknock
12 Glamorgan
British Miles.

don; containing 52 houses and 229 inhabitants.

WALES, a part of Great Britain, bounded on the west and north by the Irish sea, on the east by Cheshire, Shropshire, Herefordshire, and Monmouthshire, and on the south by the river Severn and the Bristol Channel. It is in length about 150 miles from north to south, and in breadth 50 to 80; comprehending an area of 8125 square statute miles, equal to 5,200,000 acres of land; and according to a recent return made to the house of lords, the number of the inhabitants was 541,375, or about 67 persons to each square statute mile. It appears that 900,000 acres are arable, and 2,600,000 in pasturage, leaving 1,700,000 acres in a state of waste, of which quantity about 700,000 acres are capable of being brought into a state of cultivation. The principality of Wales, is divided into North and South Wales, containing 12 counties. The division of North Wales, comprehending the counties of Anglesey, Carnarvon, Denbigh, Flint, Merioneth, and Montgomery; and South Wales, the counties of Brecknock, Cardigan, Carmarthen, Glamorgan, Pembroke, and Radnor. The whole contains 751 parishes, 58 market towns; and according to the returns of the population act, in 1801, 108,053 houses, inhabited by 541,546 persons, viz. 257,178 males, and 284,368 females; of whom 53,822 were employed in trade, handicraft, and manufacture, and 189,062 in agriculture. The amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor, in 1803, was 186,391*l.* which was at the rate of 7*s.* 1½*d.* in the pound. The amount of the assessment under the act granting a tax on property, in 1806, was 3,029,300*l.* Wales sends 24 members to parliament, viz. one for each county, and one for the principal town in each county, except that of Merioneth, in the room of which, two towns in the county of Pembroke, each send one member. The principality of Wales, was long an independent and separate sovereignty from England, and it is strongly marked out by nature as a detached district, being an almost continued range of mountains more or less wild and lofty, and intersected by vallies more or less extensive and fertile.—The language, manner, and customs, are also widely different from those of England. The ancient internal dimensions of Wales have been contracted, by taking from it the whole county of Monmouth, and a part of several of the adjacent English counties. In point of population and fertility, the district of South Wales has by far the superiority over the North; and although the whole is very mountainous, its produce is fully sufficient for its abstemious inhabitants. Those counties bordering on the sea coast have a mild climate, but are very wet; and the interior parts have the usual sharpness of other mountainous regions. The cattle in general are very small, but the flesh is particularly good, and provisions in general are tolerably reasonable. Numbers of goats are wild among the mountains. It has several small ports and harbours for ships, and its principal rivers are the Dee, Wye, Uske, Conway, Clwyd, and Tivy. Wales was originally peopled by the Ordovices and the Silures, who were subdued by the Romans. The ancient Britons having been driven from their homes by the Saxons; it was soon after divided into six regions, each having their own king, till the year 843, when Roderic the Great, became the sole monarch of Wales. At his death it was divided among his three sons, and called North Wales, South Wales, and Powis Land; but the latter portion was soon swallowed up and divided among the other two. Llewellyn ap Gryffyth, was the last prince who exerted himself in the independence of Wales; he was subdued by Edward I. in 1285, and fell in the field of battle. From that time Wales has been annexed to the English Crown, but the union was not complete till the reign of Henry VIII. when the government and laws were formed agreeably to those of England. It is now under the province of York; the bishoprics of St. David's, Bangor, Llandaff, and St. Asaph, and is divided into 4 circuits, viz. the Chester circuit, for the counties of Chester, Flint, Denbigh, and Montgomery; the Northern circuit, for Anglesey, Carnarvon, and Merioneth; the South Eastern circuit, for Radnor, Brecon, and Glamorgan; and the South Western circuit, for Pembroke, Cardigan, and Carmarthen. The average scale of mortality according to the registered burials for ten years, appears to have been at 1 to 60 of the existing population.

WALESBY, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 4 miles from Tuxford, and 140 from London; containing 45 houses and 250 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

WALFORD, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 3 miles from Ross, and 124 from London; containing 152 houses and 728 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.* with Ruardine chapel in Gloucestershire annexed, under the precenter of the church of Hereford.

WALFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Brampton Briant, hundred of Wigmore, Hereford, 10 miles from Ludlow, and 153 from London; containing 37 houses and 187 inhabitants; including Letton and Newton.

WALGHERTON, a hamlet in the parish of Wybunbury, hundred of Nantwich, Cheshire, 4 miles from Nantwich, and 160 from London; containing 45 houses and 211 inhabitants.

WALGRAVE, a parish in the hundred of Orlingbury, Northampton, 4 miles from Wellingborough, and 71 from London; containing 96 houses and 424 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

WALHAM GREEN, a hamlet in the parish.

of Fulham, hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, 2¼ miles from London. It contains several pleasant seats.

WALKERINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 3 miles from Gainsborough, and 154 from London; containing 77 houses and 419 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.

WALKERN, a parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 3 miles from Stevenage, and 31 from London; containing 101 houses and 501 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of King's College, Cambridge.

WALKHAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, 4 miles from Tavistock, and 209 from London; containing 63 houses and 336 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* united with Shittiston.

WALKINGTON, a parish in the division of Hunsley Beacon and Howdenshire, east riding of York, 2½ miles from Beverley, and 186 from London; containing 68 houses and 403 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WALKRITH, a hamlet in the parish of Morton, hundred of Corringham, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Gainsborough, and 152 miles from London; containing 43 houses and 55 inhabitants.

WALL, a township in the parish of St. John's Lee, Tindal Ward, Northumberland, 3 miles from Hexham, and 285 from London; containing 88 houses and 356 inhabitants.

WALL, a hamlet in the parish of St. Michael's, Litchfield, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2 miles from Litchfield; appears to have been a Roman station; it contains 15 houses and 97 inhabitants.

WALLACE TOWN, a village in the parish of St. Quivox, shire of Ayr, Scotland, nearly adjoining to the new town of Ayr, and contains 200 houses and 960 inhabitants.

WALLASEY ISLE, situated in the river Crouch, hundred of Rochford, Essex, opposite Foulness Isle, 5 miles from Rochford, and 44 from London; being about 5 miles long, and 1 mile broad, secured from the sea by a wall of earth.

WALLAZEY, a parish in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 18 miles from Chester, 4 from Liverpool, and 209 from London; containing 49 houses and 274 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 0*s.* 2½*d.* one moiety belonging to the bishop of Chester and the other to the rector.

WALLINGFORD, a borough and market town, consisting of four parishes, hundred of Moreton, Berks; containing 362 houses and 1744 inhabitants; situated on the banks of the Thames, 14 miles from Reading, and 46 from London. The bridge across the river leading to Oxford, is a stately stone structure, 300 yards long, having 19 arches and four draw-bridges. The town is very ancient, and the buildings low, of brick and tile; it was formerly surrounded with walls, and had a castle of great strength; it is also recorded to have had 12 parish churches, although three were only remaining in the reign of Richard II. The churches of All-saints, and St. Peter's, were both demolished at the same time, and the latter only has been rebuilt. Here are 6 alms-houses, a well endowed free-school, a quakers, methodist and baptist meeting: also a market-house and town hall, where the assizes are sometimes held; and the mayor and justices hold the quarter sessions for the borough, which has a distinct jurisdiction. It returns two members to parliament, who are chosen by the mayor, aldermen, bailiffs, and 18 assistants, with the inhabitants of the borough paying scot and lot, the number of voters being about 150; the returning officer is the mayor. The corporation by charter of king James, consists of a mayor, high steward, recorder, 6 aldermen (who are justices of the peace within the borough), a town clerk, 2 bailiffs, a chamberlain, and 18 assistants, who hold the rents and forfeits of the manor, fairs, and markets. The chief trade of this town is in the malting and corn, conveyed to London by water. The market is on Tuesday and Friday; fairs, Tuesday before Easter, 24th June, 29th September, and 17th December. The church of St. Leonard's, is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* and is united with Satwell; St. Mary's is a rectory, rated at 4*l.* and both are in the patronage of the crown; St. Peter's is a rectory, value 6*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*; Allsaint's has no church, and is a sinecure belonging to Pembroke College, Oxford.

WALLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 3 miles from Baldock, and 35 from London; containing 39 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of Emanuel College, Cambridge.

WALLINGTON, a parish now united with Runcton, in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 3¼ miles from Downham, and 87 from London; containing 6 houses and 60 inhabitants.

WALLINGTON, a township in the parish of Hartburn, Tindal Ward, Northumberland, 9 miles from Morpeth, and 300 from London; containing 42 houses and 161 inhabitants.

WALLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Beddington, and hundred of Wallington, Surry, 2¼ miles from Croydon, and 11¼ from London; containing 134 houses and 795 inhabitants. It is pleasantly situated on the river Wandle, and has several extensive calico printing and bleaching grounds, on its banks. It appears formerly to have been a chapelry, the ruins of which are still observable; here passes the Surry iron railway.

WALLINGTON, the name of a hundred in Surry, on the eastern side of the county, around Croydon.

WALLOP, OVER, a parish in the hundred of Thorngate, division of Andover, Hants, 6½ miles from Andover, and 69¼ from London; containing 70 houses and 435 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 27*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*.

WALLOP, NETHER, another parish in the same hundred and division, 1 mile from the foregoing; and containing 126 houses and 556 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* under the sub-chanter and vicars choral of York cathedral.

WALLSEND, a parish in Castle Ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Newcastle, and 280 from London; containing 230 houses and 1312 inhabitants; the greater part of whom are employed in the neighbouring coal mines. is a curacy, under the chapter of Durham.

WALLTOWN, a hamlet in the parish of Haltwhistle, Tindal Ward, Northumberland, near Haltwhistle, and 316 miles from London; containing 14 houses and 89 inhabitants. Its name is derived from its situation on the Picts Wall, the ruins of which are still observable.

WALMER, a small hamlet in the parish of Westbury, Gloucester.

WALMER, a parish in the lathe of St. Augustine, 1½ mile from Deal, and 7½ from Dover; containing 114 houses and 775 inhabitants. It is reckoned one of the members of the cinque ports, and belongs to Sandwich. It has an ancient castle erected by Henry VIII. for the defence of the Downs, in which the lord Warden of the cinque ports occasionally resides. And the small church is a curacy, in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

WALMERSLEY, a township in the parish of Bury, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 2 miles from Bury and 196 from London; containing 358 houses and 2166 inhabitants.

WALMSGATE, a hamlet in the parish of Ruckland, hundred of Hill, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Louth, and 147 from London; containing 8 houses and 51 inhabitants.

WALMSLEY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bolton, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 3½ miles from Bolton, and 200 from London; the population of which was not returned.

WALNEY, ISLE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Dalton, and hundred of Londale, Lancaster; it is situated at the northern part of the county, being about 9 miles in length and 1 in breadth, abounding with sea gulls, and serves as a bulwark against the encroachments of the Irish sea. It has a small chapel and 3 small villages.

WALPOLE, ST. ANDREW'S, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Marshland, Norfolk, 4 miles from Wisbeach, and 90 from London; containing 28 houses and 227 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and is in the patronage of the king.

WALPOLE, ST. PETER'S, another parish in the same hundred, ½ mile from the foregoing; containing 120 houses and 730 inhabitants; and is a rectory, rated at 24*l.* in the patronage of the king.

WALPOLE, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 1 mile from Halesworth, and 101 from London; containing 62 houses and 494 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Stamfordham, Tindal Ward, Northumberland.

WALSALL, a market town and parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 15 miles from Stafford, and 116 from London; containing 1984 houses and 10599 inhabitants, viz. 5274 males, and 5325 females; of whom 3415 were employed in trade and manufacture, chiefly in those of buckles, bridle bits, and various articles of hardware. The church is a spacious building, in the form of a cross, with a neat octagonal spire. It has several meeting-houses, for various classes of dissenters; and a good free grammar-school.—The town is incorporated under a mayor, recorder, 24 aldermen, a town clerk, 2 serjeants at mace. It has a bank. The market on Tuesday is well supplied; fairs, 24th Feb. Whit Tuesday, and the Tuesday before Michaelmas day, chiefly for cattle. There is a peculiar custom in this town, that a certain quantity of bread is given away to every person who will accept of it, on the eve of the Epiphany. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*—Shaw's Staffordshire.

WALSGRAVE. See Sow, Warwick.

WALSHAM, NORTH, a market town and parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, situated about 5½ miles from the sea, 12 from Norwich, and 124 from London; containing 425 houses and 1959 inhabitants.—It has a good free school. The market is on Tuesday; and its fair the Wednesday before Holy Thursday.

WALSHAM, SOUTH, a parish in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, 9 miles from Norwich, near Acle, and 121 from London; containing 77 houses and 500 inhabitants.

WALSHAM-IN-THE-WILLOWS, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 4 miles from Ixworth, and 81 from London; containing 133 houses and 993 inhabitants.

WALSHAM, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, on the eastern side of the county, opposite Yarmouth, between the rivers Thyrn and Yare.

WALSHCROFT, the name of a hundred in the division of Lindsay, Lincolnshire, lying in the northern part of the county, between Market Raisin and Caistor.

WALSHFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Hunsingore, west riding of York, the population of which was included with Ribston WALSOKEN, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge, Marshland, Norfolk, 1 mile from Wisbeach, and 88 from London; containing 130 houses and 705 inhabitants.

WALSINGHAM, GREAT, a market town and parish in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 4 miles from the sea, and 117 from London; containing 208 houses and 1004 inhabitants. This town was much more considerable in former times, when it was greatly frequented by pilgrims, who came here to pay their devotions to a famous chapel dedicated to the Virgin Mary; among other devotees, it is recorded that Henry the VIII. came hither from Balsham, barefoot, with a rich present to the shrine of the Holy Virgin. Here was a monastery of black canons, founded in the reign of Edward the Confessor; part of the abbey walls and arched gateways are still standing. Here likewise was a house for Lepers, now the Bridewell. The church is a handsome building. The land in the neighbourhood is noted for its production of excellent saffron. It has a good free-school; with a market on Friday; and fair on Whit Monday. It is a curacy.

WALSINGHAM, LITTLE, or OLD, a parish 2 miles distant from the foregoing; a pleasant village, containing 50 houses and 289 inhabitants—here also was a house of Grey friars.

WALTERSTON, a parish in the hundred of Ewias Lacey, Hereford, 13 miles from Hereford, and 148 from London, on the borders of Monmouth; containing 35 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Bridge and Petham, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 6 miles from Canterbury, and 56 from London; containing 66 houses and 303 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* united with Petham.

WALTHAM, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Overton, county 6 miles from Basingstoke, and 51 from London; containing 59 houses and 338 inhabitants.

WALTHAM-ON-THE-WOLD, a parish and formerly a market town, in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 5 miles from Melton Mowbray and 109 from London; containing 99 houses and 440 inhabitants. It is situated in a hilly, barren tract. It has a charity-school. Fair, 19th September. It is a rectory, value 15*l.*

WALTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3½ miles from Grimsby, and 167 from London; containing 85 houses and 385 inhabitants. It has a small trade by the canal, lately cut from the Humber to Louth. The church is a large and ancient stone edifice, of Gothic architecture, rebuilt at different periods. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

WALTHAM, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 5¼ miles from Chelmsford, and 34 from London; containing 235 houses and 1,475 inhabitants; including the hamlet of Black Waltham. It is a vicarage, rated at 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Trinity College.

WALTHAM, LITTLE, another parish in the same hundred of Essex, ½ mile distant from the preceding; containing 82 houses and 532 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 11*l.* 10*s.*

WALTHAM ABBEY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Waltham, Essex, 12¼ miles from London, on the river Lea; containing 317 houses and 1837 inhabitants. Its name is derived from its once stately abbey, erected by Harold, son of earl Godwin.—Henry II. afterwards changed the foundation from a dean and 11 secular black canons, to the foundation for an abbot and 16 augustine monks. The succeeding monarchs, granted Waltham Abbey many privileges, and its abbot sat in parliament. The present church appears as only a part of the ancient one, and exhibits a venerable specimen of Saxon architecture; adjoining the south side, is the school room, anciently a chapel dedicated to our lady; beneath which is a charnel-house; some ruinous walls, and part of a gateway adjacent, still shew the remains of its stately abbey. The abbey house was entirely taken down, in 1770. Government have here established some powder-mills; there are also some trifling manufactures of pins, and printing linens. Market on Tuesday: fairs, 15th May, and 25th and 26th September. The church is a peculiar, under the bishop of London.

WALTHAM ST. LAWRENCE. See LAWRENCE WALTHAM, Berks.

WALTHAM BISHOPS. See BISHOPS WALTHAM.

WALTHAMSTOW, a parish in the hundred of Becontree, Essex, situated on the river Lea, near Layton, 5 miles from London; containing 515 houses and 3006 inhabitants; viz. 1413 males, and 1593 females; having 364 returned employed in trade. The church, situated on a hill, is a large and handsome edifice, consisting of 3 aisles. Here is a free school, and alms-houses for 8 poor men and 8 women. In the neighbourhood are several elegant seats and mansions. It is a vicarage, rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WALTHAM WHITE, or ABBAS, a parish in the hundred of Reynhurst, Berks, 3½ miles from Maidenhead, and 29¼ from London; containing 115 houses and 552 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* united with Shottesbrooke.

WALTHAM CROSS, or WEST WALTHAM, a hamlet to the parish of Waltham Abbey, lying ½ mile westward thereof, 5½ from Hoddesdon, and in the hundred of Hertford, Herts. It leads to Brook-street, and Cheshunt; here are the remains of one of those crosses erected by Edward I. in honour to his queen Eleanor. In 1793, it was endeavoured to be removed, in order to place it in the grounds of sir W. G. Prescott, bart. lord of the manor; but it was found impracticable, and it was afterwards repaired.

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 1½ mile from Fenny Stratford, and 46½ from London; containing 12 houses and 79 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

WALTON, HIGH and LOW, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Darebury, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 4 miles from Warrington, and 180 from London; the former, containing 37 houses and 193 inhabitants; and the latter, 32 houses and 271 inhabitants.

WALTON, HIGH and LOW, two adjoining townships forming one parish, in Eskdale Ward, Cumberland, 2 miles from Brampton, and 312 from London; containing 77 houses and 421 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALTON-ON-TRENT, a parish in the hundred of Repton and Gressley, Derby, situated on the river Trent, 4 miles from Burton, and 124 from London; containing 68 houses and 343 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 17*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Liverpool, and 209½ miles from London; containing 114 houses and 681 inhabitants. The living of this parish is very valuable. The rectory, being rated at 69*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* and the vicarage, at 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* under the patronage of the rector.

WALTON, a hamlet in the parish of Kimcote, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, near Lutterworth.

WALTON, another hamlet in the parish of Knaptoft, Leicester, and a third in the parish of Kegworth, hundred of West Goscote, near Loughborough; containing 56 inhabitants.

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsay division Lincoln, near Spilsby, and 135 miles from London; containing 30 houses and 184 inhabitants.

WALTON, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, near Lynn, and 100 miles from London; containing 35 houses and 151 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

WALTON, WEST, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Marshland, Norfolk, 2 miles from Wisbeach, and 87 from London; containing 87 houses and 513 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WALTON, a hamlet in the liberties of Peterborough, and in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 2½ miles from Peterborough, and 83 from London; containing 26 houses and 126 inhabitants.

WALTON, a parish in Castle Ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Morpeth, and 290 from London; containing 59 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, 8 miles from Bristol, and 121 from London; containing 31 houses and 1[illegible] inhabitants.

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 3 miles from Glastonbury, and 130 from London; containing 70 houses and 397 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

WALTON, a hamlet in the parish of Baswick, hundred of Cuttleston, Stafford, 2 miles from Stafford, and 139 from London.

WALTON, a parish in the hundred of [illegible]olneis, Suffolk, situated in the south-eastern [illegible]oint of the county, near Languard Fort, opposite, to Harwich, 74 miles from London; containing 84 houses and 608 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Felixton.

WALTON, a parish in the liberties of York, Ainstey, east riding of York, 3 miles from Wetherby, and 194 from London; containing 40 houses and 205 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALTON, a township in the parish of Great Sandal, in Agbrigg wapentake, west riding of York, near Wakefield, and 185 miles from London; containing 65 houses and 315 inhabitants.

WALTON, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Dungleddy, Pembrokeshire, Wales, 5 miles west from Haverford West; containing 55 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WALTON, WEST, a parish in the hundred of Roose, Pembrokeshire, Wales, 3 miles north from Haverford West; containing 81 houses and 506 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*

WALTON, CARDIFF, a parish in the hundred of Tewksbury, Gloucester, 1 mile from Tewksbury, and 103 from London; containing 11 houses and 62 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of All Saints College, Oxford.

WALTON DEIVELL, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Wellesbourne Hastings, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick.

WALTON PARVA, a hamlet in the parish of Monks Kirby, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, near Rugby.

WALTON-LE-DALE, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Preston, and 213 from London; containing 636 houses and 3892 inhabitants; of whom 1415 were returned employed in trade and manufacture.

WALTON-LE-SOKEN, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 10 miles from Harwich, and 17 from Colchester; containing 44 houses and 221 inhabitants; but was formerly much more considerable, the sea having destroyed the greater part of the village; its ancient church being entirely destroyed, and the remains of coffins and bones observable intermixed with the sea sand. A neat small brick building has been lately erected by subscription, about 300 yards inland; yet the sea seems likely to destroy even the remaining part of the village. To the north of the town, in that part called the Naze, is a lofty tower, about 80 feet high, of brick, originally built by the Rigby family, lords of the manor, as an observatory and tea room; but it has of late years been heightened by the Trinity-house, it serving as a direction to vessels passing this way, or entering Harwich harbour. A neat mansion was erected near it in a tower-like shape, by the last of the Rigby family that held the manor, but it is now suffered to decay, never being finished; and the farm-house adjacent, is only occupied. On the shore at the point, is erected a signal-house, inhabited by a lieutenant of the navy and his assistant, communicating by a chain of signals along the coast. Walton has long been noted for its extensive copperas works. This place as well as Kirby and Thorpe-in-le-soken, were so called from their peculiar privileges, originally granted to French refugees, who established themselves here and introduced several manufactories of cloth, &c. from the Netherlands. It is a vicarage, rated at 9*l.* united with Kirby and Thorpe, and the services performed alternately therewith; of exempt jurisdiction.

WALTON-IN-THE-WOLDS, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 2½ miles from Loughborough, and 107 from London; containing 50 houses and 249 inhabitants.

WALTON-ON-THE-HILL, a parish in the hundred of Copthorne, Surry, 3 miles from Riegate, and 18 from London; containing 41 houses and 204 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

WALTON-ON-THAMES, a parish in the hundred of Elmbridge, Surry, situated on the banks of the Thames, 5½ miles from Kingston, and 17½ from London; containing 267 houses and 1467 inhabitants; including the hamlet of Hersham. Its bridge was erected in 1750, curiously constructed of wood, having 3 arches. Many handsome seats are in this neighbourhood; particularly between this and Weybridge, is Oatlands, the seat of his R. H. the Duke of York, once a magnificent palace belonging to the earl of Lincoln, but destroyed during the civil wars. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WALWARN, a river in Cheshire, which falls into the Lee, near Coppenhall.

WALWICK, CHESTERS; WALWICK, GRANGE, two small hamlets near the junction of the North and South Tyne, in the parish of Chollerton, 3 miles from Hexham, and 284 from London, on the Picts Wall, and appears to have been a Roman station of considerable strength.

WALWORTH, a township in the parish of Heighington, Darlington Ward, Durham, 4 miles from Darlington, and 288 from London; containing 23 houses and 137 inhabitants.

WALWORTH, a very extensive hamlet in the parish of St. Mary's Newington, and hundred of Brixton, Surry, daily increasing with new buildings, and stretching as far as Camberwell; containing a population of 8000 persons. See NEWINGTON.

WALWORTH, a small hamlet in the parish and hundred of Hitchin, Herts.

WAMBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Beaminster, division of Bridport, Dorset, 2 miles from Chard, and 141 from London; containing 22 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

WAMPOOL, a township in the parish of Aikton, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Wigton, and 307 from London; containing 26 houses and 119 inhabitants.

WAMPUL, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the Eden Mouth, near Kirkbride.

WANBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Kingsbridge, Wilts, 2 miles from Swindon, and 80 from London; containing 155 houses and 793 inhabitants. Fair 4th September. It is a vicarage, value 21*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Windsor.

WANDLE, a river in Surry, which rises near Carshalton, and passing by Morden, falls into the Thames near Wandsworth, much frequented by the London anglers.

WANDSWORH, or WANDLESWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, near the mouth of the Wandle, and banks of the Thames, 6 miles from London; containing 720 houses and 4446 inhabitants, of whom 818 were returned employed in various trades and manufacture, particularly that of callico printing, bolting cloths for flour mills, hats, distilleries, an oil mill, bleach-ground, &c. The church is a modern edifice, but the tower is of ancient structure. Here is a neat quaker's meeting, erected in 1787, and two schools for the children of that persuasion. This parish has received considerable benefactions from Henry Smith, Esq. who was buried here in 1627; he was a silversmith and alderman of London; several estates having been purchased by his trustees for several charitable purposes, and have settled 50*l.* per annum on every market town in the county of Surry; and on every parish with a few exceptions, they have also settled an annual revenue of 6 or 8*l.* Garret-lane between this village and Tooting, was the scene of the mock election of the mayor of Garret, held for a number of years at every general election, among the mobility, to the great emolument of the publicans of Wandsworth. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.*

WANGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Lackford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Brandon, and 76 from London; containing 7 houses and 43 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WANGFORD, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Southwold, and 103 from London; containing 53 houses and 477 inhabitants. Adjoining the church, stood a priory of Cluniac monks. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* united with Brandon.

WANLIP, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, situated on the banks of the Soar, 4 miles from Leicester, and 100 from London; containing 21 houses and 103 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WANLOCK, a small river on the borders of Dumfries and Lanark.

WANLOCKHEAD, a considerable village in the parish of Sanquhar, shire of Dumfries, Scotland, on the river Wanlock; containing 890 inhabitants, solely lead-miners: these, like their neighbours at the village of Lead-bills have established a subscription library, and employ all their leisure hours in reading.

WANSBECK, a river in Northumberland, which falls into the Ocean near Seaton Delaval.

WANSDYKE, a ditch in the county of Wilts, crossing the county from east to west, over Salisbury Plains, for many miles together; it is supposed to have been thrown up by the Saxons, as a boundary between them and the Mercians.

WANSFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Thornaugh, hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 6 miles from Peterborough, and 87 from London; containing 24 houses and 148 inhabitants.

WANSFORD, a township in the parish of Nafferton, Dickering Lyth, east riding of York, 2 miles from Driffield, and 199 from London; containing 55 houses and 378 inhabitants.

WANSTEAD, a parish in the hundred of Becontree, Essex, 6 miles from London; containing 159 houses and 918 inhabitants. Many of the houses in this parish are handsome buildings, and the residence of several of the opulent merchants and tradesmen of London. The church is a new structure, erected in 1790; the foundation of which was laid by the late sir James Tilney Long, bart. It is a handsome building, the portico is of the Doric order, the cupola is supported by 8 Ionic columns; the whole of the external being faced with Portland stone.—The pavement remarkable for its beauty and neatness, was brought from Painswick in Gloucestershire; that of the chancel is of the same kind, variegated with black marble dots; the chancel window as well as the circular ones at the west end of the galleries, are of stained glass. The subject of that in the chancel, our Saviour bearing the cross; that on the right of the altar, bearing the royal arms, and on the left, the arms of sir James Tilney Long. The present structure was erected at some distance from the old one, on a piece of ground granted for that purpose, from the park of sir J. T. Long; whose magnificent residence was at Wanstead house, now belonging to sir James Tilney Long, bart. a minor, who is hereditary warden of Epping Forest; but it is occupied at present by the prince de Condè, during the baronet's minority. This ancient manor was originally granted by Edward VI. to Robert Lord Rich; after which it came in the possession of Dudley, earl of Leicester; it then reverted to the crown, and was given by king James to sir Henry Mildmay, one of the judges of Charles I. who forfeited it to the crown. it was then granted to the duke of York, by Charles II.; it was afterwards sold to sir Robert Brooks; but the heirs of that gentleman retiring insolvent to France, it was purchased by sir Josiah Child, bart. great grandfather of the late earl Tilney.—The present edifice was erected by the son of sir Josiah, before he was created viscount Castlemain, and the architect was the celebrated Colin Campbell. The front of this house, is supposed to equal in the beauty of its architecture, any in Italy; the length is 260 feet by 70, and consists of 2 stories. The portico is supported by six Corinthian columns. In the avenue leading from the grand front to Laytonstone, is a circular piece of water, equal in length to the front of the house. On the approach to the house is a marble statute on each side; that on the left Hercules, and on the right Omphale. The garden front has no portico, but a pediment enriched with a bas relief, and supported by six three quarter columns; from this front is an easy ascent through a fine vista to the river Roding, which is formed into canals. Highland-house, is an elegant seat, built of stone, forming a beautiful termination to the vista. Among the various descorations of the gardens, is a curious grotto. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

WANSTEAD, a hamlet in the parish of Southwick, and hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, near Titchfield, WANSTRAW, a parish in the hundred of Frome, Somerset, 5 miles from Frome; containing 75 houses and 325 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

WANTAGE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Wantage, Berks, on a branch of the river Ock, 7 miles from Farringdon, and 60 from London; containing 473 houses and 2339 inhabitants; of whom 943 were returned employed in various trades, and a manufactory of sacking and foul-weather cloth. This place is celebrated in history as the birth place of the great Alfred, and in the time of the Saxons, it was a royal residence; and after the conquest it was made a borough. On the west of the town commences the vale of White Horse, taking its name from the figure of a gigantic horse, cut on the brow of a hill, in a galloping posture, covering near an acre of ground; it is formed by a deep trench cut in the turf, following the outlines of the horse which shews the chalk soil underneath. This is supposed to have been cut as a memorial of Alfred's victory over the Danes, in 871; a white horse being the Saxon standard; a parcel of stones set on edge, about 1 mile from the hill, is shewn as the burial place of some of the Danish kings, many battles having been fought in this neighbourhood; below the horse is a large barrow, called Dragon-hill, supposed to have been another funeral monument. The villagers in this neighbourhood have a custom from time immemorial, of assembling about midsummer, for what they term scouring the horse, when they remove every weed and obstacle that may have obscured its figure, and retire to spend the evening in various rural sports. About 3 miles south are the remains of an ancient Roman camp, called Letcombe Castle.—Market on Saturday; fairs, first Saturday in March, and May, 17th July, and 18th October. It is a vicarage, rated at 35*l.*

8d. in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

WANTISDEN, a parish in the hundred of Plomsgate, Suffolk, 4 miles from Orford, and 86 from London; containing only 8 houses and 79 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WANTSUM, a river forming an arm of the greater Stour, in Kent.

WAPLEY, a parish in the hundred of Grumbald's Ash, Gloucester, 2½ miles from Chipping Sodbury, and 116 from London; containing 39 houses and 296 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7l. 18s.

WAPLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Pocklington, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, near Pocklington, containing only 2 houses.

WAPPENBURY, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, on the banks of the Watergall, near Dunsmore Heath, 4 miles from Southam, and 86 from London; containing 57 houses and 282 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8l. in the patronage of lord Clifford.

WAPPENHAM, a parish in the hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 4 miles from Towcester, and 63 from London; containing 105 houses and 477 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21l. 9s. 8d.

WAPPING, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, on the north bank of the river Thames, and eastward of the Metropolis, and reckoned one of the out parishes thereof; containing 1198 houses and 5889 inhabitants; viz. 2717 males and 3172 females, of whom 1427 were returned employed in trade, mostly those attendant on the shipping of the port of London; such as slop-sellers, ship-carpenters, sail-makers, ship-chandlers, &c. The new docks formed here, have been a great improvement in the angle formed by the Thames; the one called St. George's Dock, is capable of holding 200 sail of shipping, with sufficient shifting room; and another adjoining, called Shadwell Dock, is capable of holding 80 sail. The entrance from the Thames is by 3 basons, sufficient to contain an immense quantity of small craft; and the inlets from the Thames into the basons, are at the Old Hermitage, Old Wapping and Old Shadwell Docks. At the eastern extremity are stupendous warehouses, belonging to the custom-house, although rented of the Dock Company, for warehousing tobacco, and the cellars thereof are appropriated to housing of wines; there are various ranges of warehouses for general merchandize. These docks belong to a public company, having a capital of 1,200,000l. The church is dedicated to St. John, is a plain building, erected in 1790; and is a rectory, under the patronage of Brazen-nose College, Oxford.

WARBLETON, a parish in the hundred of Hawksborough, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 5 miles from Hailsham, and 52 from London; containing 167 houses and 908 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13l. 6s. 8d.

WARBLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere, division of Portsdown, Hants, adjoining Havant, and 66 miles from London; containing 282 houses and 1433 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19l. 4s.

WARBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Ewelme, Oxford, 1 mile from Dorchester, and 45 from London; containing 112 houses and 535 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

WARBOYS, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 4 miles from Ramsey, and 65 from London; containing 143 houses and 943 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 27l. 10s.

WARBRICK, a hamlet in the parish of Bispham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, near Poulton; the population of which was included with Layton.

WARBSTOW, a township and chapelry in the parish of Treneglos, hundred of Lesneuth, Cornwall, 8 miles from Launceston, and 221 from London; containing 52 houses and 350 inhabitants.

WARBURTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Lymme, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 3 miles from Altrincham, and 182 from London; containing 83 houses and 466 inhabitants.

WARCOP, a parish in East Ward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Brough, and 263 from London; containing 112 houses and 770 inhabitants. It has a neat small church, and is a rectory, rated at 9l. 5s. 1d.

WARDEN, a parish in the hundred of Wixamtree, Bedford, 7 miles from Bedford, and 43 from London; containing 66 houses and 455 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WARDEN, a parish in the Isle of Sheppey, lathe of Scray, Kent, 4 miles from Queenborough, and 49 from London; containing only 2 houses and 7 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 24l.

WARDEN, a parish in Tindal Ward, Northumberland, 2 miles from Hexham, and 284 from London; containing 75 houses and 349 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8l. 16s. 8d.

WARDINGTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Cropedy, hundred of Banbury, Oxford, 4½ miles from Banbury, and 79 from London; containing 121 houses and 554 inhabitants.

WARDLE, a township in the parish of Rochdale, forming a part of the town of Hundersfield, in the hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 3 miles from Rochdale, and 200 from London; containing 645 houses and 3298 inhabitants.

WARDLE, a village in the hundred of Edisbury, Chester, near Malpas; containing 17 houses and 115 inhabitants.

WARDLOW, a parish in the liberties of Oakhamsoke, Rutland, 3 miles from Uppingham, and 92 from London; containing 13 houses and 52 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WARE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Broughin, Herts, 3½ miles from Hoddesdon, and 20½ from London, on the river Lea. It consists of one principal street near a mile in length, with several smaller ones intersecting it; containing 557 houses and 2950 inhabitants; viz. 1394 males and 1556 females, of whom 407 were returned employed in trade, particularly in that of malting. The houses in general are well-built, and the church is a noble structure in the form of a cross; in it is a gallery erected by the governors of Christ's Hospital, who had originally a school established here, for the younger children of the charity, but it has been removed to Hertford. In the time of William the conqueror this place was only a small village, and did not attain any consequence till the reign of king John, when the high road to the north, which before went through Hertford, was turned through this town. Its name is supposed to be derived by some historians from a dam or wear formed here by the Danes, by which they kept the water to a considerable height, for the security of themselves against Alfred in a strong fort they had retired to, and from which they were with great difficulty dislodged. A spring near this town augmented by a cut from the river Lea, fills the new river which supplies a great part of the Metropolis with water. It has a considerable traffic in corn and malt, sent to the London market by barges, which load back with coals and other articles. Here are several almshouses, well endowed, and a charity-school. One of the inns in this town, was formerly noted for a remarkable bed, 12 feet square, called the great bed of Ware, said to have been of very great antiquity, but of its origin history does not furnish us. Market, on Tuesday. Fairs, the last Tuesday in April, and the Tuesday before 31st September. In a spot called Lemonfield, many Roman antiquities were dug up, in 1729.—It is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of Trinity College, Cambridge.—Salmon's Herts.

Ware, Gifford, a parish in the hundred of Shebbear, Devon, 2 miles from Black Torrington, and 199 from London; containing 126 houses and 419 inhabitants.

Wareham, a borough and market-town consisting of 3 parishes in the hundred of Winfrith, and division of Blandford, Dorset, situated near the mouth of the Frome, where it falls into Pool Harbour, 10 miles from Pool, and 115¼ from London. It is in a very agreeable situation, on a rising ground declining gently to the south, where it is washed by the Frome; the Piddle passes it at the north, and both meeting together, forms a bay on the east; it contains 378 houses and 1627 inhabitants. The town consists chiefly of 4 large open streets, intersecting each other at right angles. It formerly had 17 churches, now reduced to three; St. Martin's, Trinity Church, and St. Mary's; the last is the principal one, and has a very handsome tower. These three rectories are united, and the rector officiates only in the church of St. Mary's, which was the priory church. The town suffered greatly by fire, in 1762, from which this town has been modernized, and considerably improved; although it appears to have had only 70 houses, according to Domesday book, in the time of William the conqueror; yet he considered it a place of great importance, and erected a strong castle on that part called Castle-hill. Over the Frome on the south, is a bridge of six arches, near which is a commodious quay: there is another bridge of three arches, on the north without the wall, over the Piddle. It sends two members to parliament, chosen by the mayor, magistrates, freeholders, and all who pay scot and lot; number of voters about 500, and the returning officer is the mayor. The charter under which it is governed at present, was granted by queen Anne; the corporation consisting of a mayor, recorder, 6 capital-burgesses, and 12 assistants; the mayor, recorder, and preceding mayor, are justices of the peace, the two first being of the quorum, are empowered to hold their own sessions; the mayor is also coroner of the Isles of Purbeck, and Brownsay, as well as of his own town. The chief traffic here, is the digging of pipe-clay in the neighbourhood, and sending it coastways. Wareham is particularly celebrated for being the place where Edward the Martyr was interred. The present town-hall, and school-houses, were erected on the scite of St. Peter's Church, in East-street; and St. Michael's Church was pulled down, and the ground converted into a garden, in 1756. The parishes of St. Martin's and St. Mary's are consolidated under one rectory, rated at 8*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; and the parish of the Holy Trinity, is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.* united with the former. Market, on Saturday. Fairs, 7th April, 5th July, and 11th September.—Hutchin's Dorset.

Warehorn, a parish in the hundred of Ham, and lathe of Shepway, Kent, 5¼ miles from Ashford, and 60 from London; containing 63 houses and 411 inhabitants. Fairs, 3d May, and 2d October. It is a rectory, value 19*l.*

Warfsley, a parish in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 5 miles from Potton, and 48 from London; containing 36 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge.

Warfield, a parish in the hundred of Wargrave, Berks, 5 miles from Oakingham, and 27 from London; containing 158 houses and 823 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Warfield, a parish in the hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, 2¼ miles from Bridgnorth, and 140 from London; containing 227 houses and 1354 inhabitants.

Warford, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 9 miles from Congleton, and 170 from London; containing 56 houses and 287 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WARGRAVE, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Berks, situated on the Thames, near Henley, 6 miles from Reading, and 34 from London; containing 222 houses and 1154 inhabitants. This was anciently a market town. The late earl of Barrymore had a beautiful seat here, where he also had fitted up a private theatre in the most costly manner.

WARHAM, ALL-SAINTS, ST. MARY'S, and ST. MAGDALEN, three parishes united, in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Great Walsingham, and 116 from London; containing 63 houses and 323 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* and the patron is the king.

WARINGSPOINT, the entrance of the Newry river, so called, about 1 mile north-west of Rostrever, in the county of Down, province of Uister, Ireland. Vast quantities of coals are shipped here; two ferry-boats are stationed to maintain a communication between the counties of Down and Louth.

WARINGSTOWN, a town in the county of Down, and province of Uister, Ireland, situated above the foregoing point, and has a considerable linen manufacture.

WARK, a township in the parish of Simonburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, on the bank of the North Tyne, 294 miles from London; containing 69 houses and 304 inhabitants. Here stood a castle, the scene of much contention between the Scots and Northumbrians. It was demolished in 1460.

WARKLEY, a parish in the hundred of South Moulton, Devon, 4 miles from South Moulton, and 187 from London; containing 52 houses and 291 inhabitants.

WARKSBURN, a township in the parish of Simonburn, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 1½ mile beyond Wark, nearer Bellingham, and 296 miles from London; containing 45 houses and 253 inhabitants.

WARKWORTH, a parish and formerly a market town, in Morpeth ward, Northumberland, situated on the river Coquet, 3 miles from Amouth. It consists of one principal street, containing 93 houses and 614 inhabitants, mostly employed in catching and curing of salmon, and a few at some salt-pans near the sea-shore. The church is a handsome building, having a spire 100 feet high; some of the windows contain paintings on the glass. It has a bridge over the Coquet, near which is an ancient tower. At the south end of the town stands Warkworth Castle, the magnificent seat of the duke of Northumberland, surrounded with walls and a moat, covering an area of 5½ acres. The grand entrance-gate is on the south side between two polygon towers; the keep, or dungeon, forms the north point, in the form of a square, having the angle cut off: near the middle of each face of this square there is a projecting turret the same height as the keep, which is large and lofty, and contains a variety of magnificent apartments; above it rises a high watch-tower. That side of the castle next the street, is ornamented with several figures of angels bearing armorial shields, and the turret is surmounted by a large lion rampant in bas-relief. Although the Percy family have still a large castle at Alnwick, 10 miles distant, this appears always to have been the favourite place of residence for that noble family, and the other appears to have been anciently used as a garrison. About ½ mile from the castle, on the banks of the river, is the Hermitage, formed out of the solid rock and overhanging the river in a most picturesque manner; it is divided into three apartments, called the Chapel, Anti-chapel, and Sacristy; the chapel is modelled and executed after a very beautiful style of Gothic architecture; it is in length about 18 feet, and in width and height not more than 7½; at the east end is an altar, having a cross cut in the wall above it, and in the window the figure of a woman at full length, in a recumbent posture; there is also another figure seemingly weeping over the former, and at the other end is an ox's head. Tradition says this hermitage was founded by one of the Bertram family, lord of Bothall Castle, where he expiated in penance, the murder of his brother. Warkworth has a market cross, but the market has long been discontinued. Fair, 25th April, and 22d November, if on a Thursday; if not, on the Thursday before each. It is a vicarage, rated at 18*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.

WARKWORTH, a township in the parish of Middleton Cheney, hundred of Kingsutton, Northampton, 3 miles from Banbury, and 70 from London; containing 52 houses and 260 inhabitants.

WARLABY, a hamlet in the parish of Ainderby Steeple, Gilling East wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Northallerton; containing 16 houses and 60 inhabitants.

WARLEGGAN, a parish in the hundred of West, Cornwall, 4 miles from Bodmin, and 230 from London; containing 37 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

WARLEY, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 4 miles from Romford, and 16 from London; containing 70 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 14*l.* in the patronage of St. John's college, Cambridge.

WARLEY, LITTLE, an adjoining parish in the same hundred of Essex; containing 21 houses and 169 inhabitants. Warley common, in the neighbourhood, has often encampments in time of war. It is a rectory value 11*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

WARLEY, a township in the parish of Halifax, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, near Hallifax, and 196 miles from London; containing 654 houses and 3546 inhabitants, of whom 2600 were employed in trade and manufacture.

WARLEY WIGORN, a township in the parish of Halesowen, hundred of Halfshire

Worcester, being a detached part of the county surrounded by Staffordshire, 6 miles from Dudley, and 120 from London; containing 129 houses and 718 inhabitants.

WARLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Tandridge, Surry, 5 miles from Croydon, and 15 from London; containing 52 houses and 187 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* with Chelsham chapel annexed.

WARMFIELD, a parish in Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Wakefield, and 180 from London; containing 149 houses and 625 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* united with Kirkthorpe.

WARMINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Northwich, Chester, 4 miles from Middlewich, and 162 from London; containing 56 houses and 346 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

WARMINGHURST, a village in the hundred of East Easewrith, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 4 miles from Steyning, and 45 from London; containing 13 houses and 112 inhabitants.

WARMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Polebrook, Northampton, 2¼ miles from Oundle, and 84 from London, on the river Nen; containing 51 houses and 314 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* with Egilthorpe chapel annexed, in the patronage of the earl of Westmoreland.

WARMINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Oundle, hundred of Willybrooke, Northampton, on the banks of the Nen, 2½ miles from Oundle, and 84 from London; containing 20 houses and 136 inhabitants.

WARMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, near Southam, 78 miles from London; containing 81 houses and 395 inhabitants. It had a priory of Benedictines, to which the church and manor belonged, and in the parish are the appearances of a Roman camp, covering a spot of about 12 acres, supposed to have been the Trefontium of the ancients. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 3*s.* 11*d.*

WARMINGTON. See WARNDON, Worcester.

WARMINSTER, a market town and parish in the hundred to which it gives name, Wilts, seated on the small river Willy, which falls into the Avon at Salisbury, 22 miles from Salisbury, and 97 from London; containing 961 houses and 4932 inhabitants, viz. 2253 males, and 2679 females. The principal trade is that of malting, and a small woollen manufacture. The parish church, situated at the west end of the town, is a spacious and handsome building, with a square tower, containing 6 bells. It has also a neat chapel of ease, erected for the convenience of the parishioners, near the center of the town; there are also two chapels belonging to the Dissenters; a good market-house, and assembly-room; and a free grammar-school for 20 boys. The houses are mostly built of rough stone. This town is not incorporated, but the jurisdiction thereof is under the neighbouring magistrates, assisted by constables chosen annually at the court leet of the marquis of Bath, who is lord of the manor, and who has an elegant seat at Longleat, 3 miles distant. This town is supposed to have been the Verlucio of the Romans. Market on Saturday, well supplied with corn. Fairs, 22d April, 10th August, and 28th October, for cattle, cheese, and pedlery. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 2½*d.*

WARMINSTER, the name of a hundred in Wiltshire, at the western extremity of the county.

WARMSWORTH, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 2½ miles from Doncaster, and 160 from London; containing 47 houses and 254 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

WARMWELL, a parish in the hundred of Winfrith, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 5 miles from Dorchester, and 123 from London; containing 15 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* united with Poxwell.

WARNBOROUGH, NORTH, a township in the parish and hundred of Odiham, division of Basingstoke, Hants, on the banks of the Basingstoke canal, 1¼ mile from Odiham, and 42 from London; containing 84 houses and 427 inhabitants.

WARNBOROUGH, SOUTH, a parish in the hundred of Bermondspit, and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 2 miles from Basingstoke, and 43½ from London; containing 51 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of St. John's college, Oxford.

WARNDON, or WARMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 3 miles from Worcester, and 112 from London; containing 26 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 2½*d.*

WARNFORD, a parish in the hundred of Bishop's Waltham, division of Portsdown, Hants, 5 miles from Petersfield, on the road to Bishop's Waltham, and 60 from London; the population of which was omitted to be returned. In the grounds of the marquis of Clanricard, are the ruins of an ancient mansion, called King John's House, but supposed by some historians, to have been the original church. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

WARNFORD, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Balmborough, Northumberland, near Balmborough; containing 7 houses and 32 inhabitants.

WARNHAM, a parish in the hundred of Singlecross, rape of Bramber, Sussex, on the road to Arundel, 2½ miles from Horsham, and 34½ from London; containing 103 houses and 680 inhabitants. Fair, Whit Tuesday. It is a vicarge, value 10*l.* 1*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Canterbury.

WARNINGCAMP, a hamlet in the parish of Arundel, hundred of Poleing, and rape of Arundel, Sussex, near Arundel; containing 17 houses and 121 inhabitants.

WARNTON, a hamlet in the parish and ward of Balmborough, Northumberland, near Belford; containing 15 houses and 97 inhabitants.

WARREN, two small hamlets in Somersetshire; one near Langport, and the other between Chew and Cheddar.

WARREN, a river in Salop, which falls into the Onney, near Hardwick.

WARREN, a parish in the hundred of Castlemartin, Pembrokeshire, 4 miles from Pembroke; containing 23 houses and 160 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. David's.

WARRINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Lavenden, hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Olney, and 57 from London; containing 14 houses and 72 inhabitants.

WARRINGTON. See WERRINGTON, Cornwall.

WARRINGTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 11 miles from Northwich, on the banks of the Mersey, which separates it from Cheshire, and 173 from London; containing 2258 houses and 10,567 inhabitants, viz. 4780 males, and 5787 females, of whom 4056 were employed in various trades and manufactures, particularly sail-cloth, canvas, fustian, pins, glass, &c. Some of the streets are open, and contain handsome modern buildings, while others are long and narrow, containing mean houses, especially at the entrance of the town. The church contains many ancient and handsome monuments, and it has a neat chapel of ease, consecrated in 1760. This town has an excellent free grammar-school; it has also a large and elegant building, being an academy for the education of youth, particularly in trade and merchandize. Here are also two charity-schools, the one for clothing and educating 24 boys; the other for 26 boys, endowed and founded by a Mr. Waterson, who procured the money by the exhibition of a dancing horse, in various parts of the country. Over the river Mersey is a handsome stone bridge, near which anciently stood a priory of Augustines. The river produces excellent fish. Besides its manufactures of Huckabacks and coarse cloths, Warrington has long been noted for the excellence of its malt, in which it carries on a considerable traffic. It is not incorporated, but is governed by the justices of the peace, assisted by four constables. Here is a bank. Market on Wednesday, noted for fish, provisions, and all kinds of cattle, not inferior to the Leicestershire breed. Fairs, 18th July, and 30th November, which last a week each. The church is a rectory, rated at 40*l.*

WARSLOW, a township in the parish of Alstonfield, hundre of Totmonslow, Stafford, 5 miles from Leeke, and 150 from London; containing 117 houses and 523 inhabitants.

WARSOP CHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 6½ miles from Worksop, on the banks of the Meden, and 141 from London; containing 192 houses and 944 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 22*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*

WARSOP MARKET, a hamlet in the preceding parish, and included therewith, so called from its anciently having had a market. It is divided from Church Warsop by the river.

WARPSGROVE, a parish in the hundred of Ewelme, Oxford, near Wallingford; containing only 6 houses and 25 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 2*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.*

WARTER, a parish in the division of Beacon Bainton, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 5 miles from Market Weighton, and 197 from London; containing 50 houses and 355 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.*

WARTHILL, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from York, and 204 from London; containing 19 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.*

WARTLING, a parish in the hundred of Foxearle, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 3 miles from Hailsham, and 60 from London; containing 97 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 16*l.* 2½*d.*

WARTNABY, a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish of Rothley, hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 108 from London; containing 19 houses and 77 inhabitants.

WARTON, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Kirkham, on the river Ribble, and 225 from London; containing 72 houses and 376 inhabitants.

WARTON, another village in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 7 miles from Lancaster, and 245 from London; containing 84 houses and 397 inhabitants.

WARTON, a hamlet in the parish of Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, near Rothbury, and 307 from London; containing 10 houses and 66 inhabitants.

WARWICK, a parish in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, near the banks of the Eden, and 303 miles from London, near Carlisle; containing 44 houses and 241 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WARWICK, a township in the parish of Wetherell, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Carlisle, and 301 from London, on the banks of the Eden, over which it has a bridge, and is commonly called Warwick-bridge, to distinguish it from the preceding. It contains 40 houses and 217 inhabitants.

WARWICK, the county town of Warwickshire, in the hundred of Knightlow, situated on the banks of the river Avon, near the center of the county, 7 miles from Stratford, 8 from Coventry, and 91 from London; containing 1010 houses and 5592 inhabitants, viz. 2619 males, and 2973 females, of whom 868 were returned employed in trade. The streets are regular and well built, meeting near the center of the town in Hundreds.

1 Hemlingford
2 County of Coventry
3 Knightlow
4 Barlichway
5 Kington

WARWICKSHIRE

in which every Parish & Place is laid down containing upwards of 30 Houses.

British Miles.

Cities	1
Boroughs	1
Market Towns	11
Parishes	150
Houses	40, 847
Inhabitants	208, 190
Acres of Land	679, 760
Arable	200, 000
Pasturage	208, 000
Members of Parliament	6

Cooper del.t et sculp.

Published January 1.1808, by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars London.

an eminence; all the cellars are cut out of the solid rock, on which this town stands, and in many of them are stone reservoirs for holding the water, which is conveyed by pipes from a conduit ½ mile distant. The town-hall is a handsome building of free-stone, supported by pillars, at which the assizes for the county are held, and the quarter-sessions and county courts. Formerly it had six parish churches, but has now only two. St. Mary's is a noble Gothic structure; before the reformation it was collegiate, but at the dissolution Henry VIII. gave it to the inhabitants as a place of worship: in the choir are several handsome brass monuments of the ancient earls of Warwick, buried here, and one of the earl of Essex, the unfortunate favourite of queen Elizabeth. In the entrance of the middle aisle is a handsome marble font, with gilt decorations; on the south side is a beautiful chapel dedicated to the Virgin Mary. The church of St. Nicholas has a lofty spire, the tower of which contains 8 bells. In former times there were many religious houses in this town, but they were rather hospitals than convents, and but poorly endowed; but none of their ruins are now to be seen. Here are three charity-schools, an hospital for 12 decayed gentlemen, one also for eight poor women, and two others for decayed tradesmen. Over the Avon is an elegant stone bridge of one arch, erected about 12 years since, at the expence of the earl of Warwick. On the northern bank of the river stands the castle, on the solid rock, 40 feet higher than the level of the Avon, but on the north side it is even with the town, and has a charming prospect from the terrace. Across the river communicating with the castle, is a stone bridge of 12 arches, and by a stone-work dam, the water forms a cascade under the castle walls. It is supposed to have been originally built by Ethelfleda, queen of Mercia, in the 10th century. William the Conqueror considered this castle of great importance, when he enlarged it, and put it in complete repair, giving it to the custody of Henry de Newbury, on whom he bestowed the earldom of Warwick. During the barons wars, it was nearly demolished by Gifford, governor of Kenilworth castle, but it was soon afterwards rebuilt. In the reign of Richard II. Beauchamp, earl of Warwick, erected a tower at the north-east corner, the walls of which were ten feet thick. By James I. this castle was granted to sir Fulk Greville, who expended 20,000*l.* in its reparation. During the civil wars it was garrisoned by the parliament, and besieged by lord Northampton. In the reign of Charles II. Robert, earl of Brooke, embellished the whole building, and particularly fitted up the state apartments. It is at present one of the noblest castles remaining in England; the whole of the apartments are elegantly furnished, and adorned with many original paintings. At one end is a lofty tower, with a beautiful small chapel. The town is incorporated under a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen, and 24 common council-men. It sends two members to parliament. Warwick was nearly destroyed by fire, in 1694, but by the assistance of parliament, and the generosity of the public, it was soon after rebuilt in the handsome manner in which it now appears. At the Cliff House is recorded to have stood an hermitage, to which the renowned Guy, earl of Warwick, retired after the many valorous exploits recorded of him in this part of the country. In the suburbs was a chantry, erected to his memory by Beauchamp, earl of Warwick, in the reign of Henry VI. with a statue to his memory. This Guy is supposed to have flourished in the reign of Athelstan, and besides the many victories over dragons, wild-boars, &c. is said to have decided the fate of the kingdom, in single combat, with an enormous giant that stood the champion of the Danes, at Mem-hill, near the walls of Winchester, when king Athelstan was besieged. Many curiosities are still shewn in the castle, as belonging to the hero; as his spear, buckler, spurs, bow, and also the slippers of the beautiful Phillis, for whom he performed all these wondrous achievements. Here are annual horse-races, well attended. Market on Saturday. Fairs, 1st Saturday in Lent, 1st Monday before 5th April, 12th May, 5th July, 2d Monday in August, 4th September, 12th October, 8th November, and the Monday before St. Thomas' Day. Here are two banks. St. Nicholas is a vicarage, rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the mayor and corporation. St. Mary's is a vicarage, rated at 20*l.* and the patron is the king.

WARWICKSHIRE, an inland county of England, bounded on the north east by Leicestershire, on the east by Northampton, on the south east by Oxford; on the south-west by Gloucester; on the west by Worcestershire; and on the north-west by Staffordshire, being in length about 50 miles, and in breadth 35. It contains 984 square statute miles, equal to 629,760 square acres, of which about 154,530 acres are in a constant course of tillage; having 190,000 acres arable, and 300,000 pasturage. It is divided into four hundreds viz. Barlichway, Hemlingford, Kineton, and Knightlow; besides the liberties of Coventry: containing 1 city, Coventry; 1 borough, Warwick; and 11 other market-towns, viz. Atherstone, Alcester, Birmingham, Coleshill, Henley, Kineton, Nuneaton, Rugby, Southam, Stratford-on-Avon, and Sutton Coldfield. And 193 parishes, containing 40,847 houses and 208,190 inhabitants, viz. 99,942 males, and 108,248 females; of whom, 91,922 were returned as being employed in trade, handicraft, and manufacture, and 54,756 in agriculture. Amount of money rose for the maintenance of the poor, in 1803, 155,205*l.* being at the rate of 4*s.* 8*d.* in the pound; amount of assessment under the property tax, 1806, 1,901,390*l.* and the average scale of mortality for 10 years, appears to have been as 1 to 48½ of the existing population. Warwickshire is included in the midland circuit, the province of Canterbury, and diocese of Litchfield and Coventry, and sends 6 members to parliament. Its principal rivers are the Avon and Tame; the Avon rises in Northamptonshire, and passing through Warwickshire, forms the boundary of Gloucester and Worcester, falling into the Severn at Tewksbury. The Tame comes from Staffordshire, makes a sweep across a corner of the county, and receiving several of its rivulets, among the rest the Anker, at Tamworth, returns again into Staffordshire. The northern part of the county was anciently almost an entire forest, which is now for the most part cleared and cultivated, yet it still retains something of its original wild character, being interspersed with heaths and moors, and a large tract still bears the forest name of Arden. Much cheese of a good kind is made in the northern part of the county, and it contains coal and lime-stone. The southern portion formerly called the Feldon, is a tract of great fertility, and very productive of corn. This part is watered by the Leam, which joins the Avon near Warwick: between those rivers is Dunsmore heath, now mostly inclosed; the scene of those fabulous stories related of Guy, earl of Warwick. On the borders of Oxfordshire is a low ridge called the Edgehills, noted for the battle fought here between the royalist and parliamentary armies in 1642. It is supposed on the whole that about one fourth of the whole county is under a successive round of tillage, and of the remainder the greater part is meadow and pasture; hence it is principally characterized as a feeding and dairy county, and its breeds of cattle and sheep are of a superior kind. It produces timber of all kinds, but most particularly elm. A considerable quantity of flax is grown and manufactured in Warwickshire. Coventry has long been noted for its ribbon manufacture, but this county derives its principal consequence as a commercial one from the town of Birmingham, by its extensive manufactures of hardware, which carry a superiority in point of quality and cheapness in every market in the known world. Warwickshire also derives great advantages from its canal navigation communicating from Birmingham to Stratford with the Avon, and from Warwick with the Oxford and Grand Junction and the Coventry canals through the north of the county from its junction with the Oxford at Braunston, to Nuneaton, Atherstone, and Tamworth. The seats in this pleasant and fertile county are many. It was anciently inhabited by the Cornavii, and was afterwards part of the kingdom of Mercia. The Roman roads called the Watling-street and Fosseway, passed through this county.

WARDALE HEAD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of St. Bees, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Egremont; containing 7 houses and 31 inhabitants.

WASH, a river in Rutland, which falls into the Welland.

WASHBOURN, a chapelry in the parish of Alderton, hundred of Tibaldstone, Gloucester, 7 miles from Tewksbury, and 15 from Gloucester; containing 16 houses and 89 inhabitants.

WASHBOURNE, LITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Overbury, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 5 miles from Pershore, and 98 from London; containing 8 houses and 59 inhabitants.

WASHBROOK, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 3 miles from Ipswich; containing 42 houses and 278 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Copdock.

WASHBROOK, a hamlet in the parish of Winston, Gloucestershire, 6 miles from Cirencester.

WASHBROOK, a river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Wharf, near Otley.

WASHES, THE, a large and celebrated estuary of Lincolnshire, at the south-eastern end of the county, being under water when the tide is in, and passable by travellers when the tide is out.

WASHFIELD, a parish in the hundred of West Budleigh, Devon, 2 miles from Tiverton, and 165 from London; containing 82 houses and 422 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*

WASHFORD, a small hamlet in the tything of Wemworthy, Devon, on a brook that falls into the Taw.

WASHFORDPINE, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 7 miles from Crediton, and 187 from London; containing 23 houses and 109 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 2½*d.*

WASHINGBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Langoe, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3 miles from Lincoln, near the river Witham, and 132 from London; containing 67 houses and 324 inhabitants.

WASHINGLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Folkesworth, hundred of Normancross, Hunts, near Stilton, and 77 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 95 inhabitants.

WASHINGLEY, a parish united with Lutton, in the hundred of Willybrook, Northampton.

WASHINGTON, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, on the banks of the Wear, 8 miles from Durham, and 269 from London; containing 238 houses and 1190 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 18*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WASHINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Steyning, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 2½ miles from Steyning, and 47 from London; containing 88 houses and 512 inhabitants. It is a vicarage value, 9*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of Magdalen College, Oxford.

WASHTON, a township in the parish of Kirby hill, Gilling west wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Richmond and 238 from London; containing 23 houses and 113 inhabitants.

WASING, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 7 miles from Newbury, and 49 from London; containing 9 houses and 102 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 3*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WASPERTON, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, on the banks of the Avon, 4 miles from Warwick and 87 from London; containing 86 houses and 212 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 5*l.* in the patronage of the rector of Hampton Lucy.

WASS, a township in the parish of Kilburn, Bridforth wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Thirsk and 220 from London; containing 29 houses and 249 inhabitants.

WASSINGTON, or WISTON, a parish in the hundred of Babergh, Suffolk, 1 mile from Nayland and 56 from London; containing 29 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

WATCHET, a sea port and market-town in the parish of St. Decuman's, hundred of Williton and Freemanners, Somerset, on the British channel 4½ miles from Dunster and 157½ from London; consisting of about 140 houses; the population of this town being returned included with the parish, containing together 290 houses and 1602 inhabitants. It was formerly a place of considerable trade, and once sent members to parliament. Its trade is now very trifling, consisting chiefly in freightage of coal, kelp, alabaster, and limestone, in a few coasters. At the beginning of the last century its pier was erected and the harbour cleansed, at the sole expence of the joint lords of the manor, and it is now kept in tolerable repair, by a tonnage duty, granted for that purpose, by act of parliament. Market on Saturday. Fair 25th August.

WATCHFIELD, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Shrivenham, Berks, 4 miles from Farringdon and 71 from London; containing 54 houses and 305 inhabitants.

WATERBEACH, a parish in the hundred of Northstow, Cambridge, 6 miles from Cambridge and 56 from London; containing 114 houses and 553 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

WATERDEN, a parish in the hundred of Brothercross, Norfolk, 4 miles from Burnham and 119 from London; containing only 2 houses and 27 inhabitants.

WATER EATON, a hamlet in the parish of Penny Stratford, hundred of Newport, Bucks, adjoining to Penny Stratford, 45 miles from London; containing 41 houses and 214 inhabitants; through the village passes the Grand Junction Canal, from Stratford to Leighton Buzzard.

WATEREATON, a hamlet in the parish of Kidlington, hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 4 miles from Woodstock and 66 from London; containing 15 houses and 97 inhabitants.

WATEREATON, a hamlet in the parish of Penkridge, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, near Wolverhampton, the population of which was included with Livedale.

WATERFALL, a parish in the hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 7 miles from Leeke and 147 from London; containing 78 houses and 467 inhabitants. It takes its name from the river Hans, which after a course of 7 or 8 miles from its source, here falls into the ground, and continues its course under ground for half a mile, where it joins the manifold. It is a curacy.

WATERFORD, a county of Ireland, in the province of Munster, bounded on the south by Saint George's channel; on the west by Cork; on the north by the river Sure, which separates it from Tipperary and Kilkenny; and on the east by Waterford Haven, which separates it from Wexford, being in length about 46 miles, and in breadth 28; containing 34 parishes, about 18,796 houses and 110,000 inhabitants. This county presents a diversity of soil and prospect, but in general is extremely pleasant, and fertile; producing excellent corn and pasturage; yet in many parts it is mountainous, interspersed with stupendous rocks and precipices. Among the mountains are 4 considerable loughs or lakes, in which are excellent trout and char. Some of these mountains are above 2000 feet above the level of the sea, and on the summits are large heaps of stones, supposed to have been the ruins of some buildings, but without the intervention of mortar or cement.

WATERFORD, a city and sea port town, and capital of the county of the same name, province of Munster, Ireland, 8 miles north of St. George's channel, and 75 miles from Dublin; containing about 55,000 inhabitants. The streets are narrow and confined, and the air reckoned unhealthy, but it has an excellent harbour, commodiously situated for trade, and vessels of the largest burthen can ride up to the quay. It stands on the banks of the Suir, which is a broad, deep, and rapid river, 5 miles from its junction with the Nore and Barrow. Upwards of 70 sail of shipping are employed in the Newfoundland trade, and it is computed that 3000 hogs have been killed here weekly, and cured, chiefly for the supply of the royal navy. Much butter is also exported hence, say 70,000 casks per annum; besides which the commerce in beef, corn, linen, and with the mother country is very great. The white glass and other manufactures are also in a very flourishing state. The quay is above half a mile in length, and of consisiderable breadth. Packet boats sail regularly between this Port, and Milford Haven. Lat 52°. 18′. long. 6°. 54′. west. Smith's Waterford.

WATER GALL, a hamlet in the parish of Hodnill, hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 4 miles from Southam, and 78 from London; containing 2 houses and 13 inhabitants.

WATERHEAD, a hamlet in the parish of Lanercost, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 10 miles from Carlisle, and 314 from London; containing 42 houses and 234 inhabitants.

WATER-LEIGH, a small hamlet in the parish of Nibley, Gloucester, near Wootten under Edge.

WATERINGBURY, a parish in the hundred of Twyford, Lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 5 miles from Maidstone, and 30 from London; containing 137 houses and 817 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

WATER-NEWTON, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hants, 7 miles from Peterborough, and 88 from London; containing 21 houses and 108 inhabitants. Castor in Northamptonshire, distant 1 mile north, is supposed to have been the city of the ancients, called Durobrivae. The church is a rectory, value 6*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

WATER-OVERTON, a hamlet to the parish of Aston, hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 2 miles from Coleshill, and 105 from London; on the banks of the Tame.

WATER-PERRY, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 8 miles from Oxford, and 46 from London; containing 18 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* and the patron is the king.

WATERSAY, one of the Hebrides, lying on the south of the isle of Barray, from which it is distant 1 mile; it possesses an excellent harbour for vessels of any burthen, and is inhabited by 10 families.

WATERSIDE, a hamlet in the parish of Chesham, hundred of Burnham, Bucks, 1 mile from Chesham, and 29 from London; containing 184 houses and 874 inhabitants, including the adjoining hamlets of Latimer and Bottley.

WATERSTOCK, a parish in the hundred of Tame, Oxford, 4 miles from Tame, and 48 from London; containing 24 houses and 114 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 16*s.*

WATER-STRATFORD, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, 2½ miles from Buckingham, and 59 from London; containing 26 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

WATFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Netherby, 1¼ mile from Bridport, Dorset.

WATFORD, a market town and parish in the hundred of Cashio, Herts, on the banks of the Colne. 18½ miles from London; containing 661 houses and 3530 inhabitants, of whom 711 were returned employed in various trades; the town is pleasantly situated on a hill, and consists principally of one street, rising with a gentle ascent nearly a mile; in the center stands the church, an extensive stone building, having a square tower of about 90 feet, with an hexagonal conical spire of 20 feet having a dragon vane on the top. The inside of the church is neatly fitted up, having 3 aisles, and 3 commodious galleries. The church yard contains several curious monuments. The Colne which nearly surrounds the town has several mills on it's banks; but the principal manufactory of this town is the throwing of silk, a very extensive machine being worked by water, and 2 by the power of horses. In the church-yard is a handsome school for 40 boys and 20 girls, built and endowed by Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller; there are also 8 almshouses for poor women. The market place is a long square building. Its name is supposed to have been derived from its situation on the Roman road called Watling-street, at a ford over the Colne, where the road crossed towards St. Alban's. Market on Tuesday for corn and cattle, &c. Fairs Tuesday after Trinity Sunday, and 9th September, a statute fair. In the neighbourhood is Cashiobury, the seat of the earl of Essex, supposed to have been originally the seat of the kings of Mercia. It is a vicarage, value 21*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* Salmon's Herts.

WATFORD, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, near Daventry, and 75 miles from London; containing 60 houses and 356 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king.

WATH, a parish in Hallikeld wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Rippon, and 226 from London; containing 45 houses and 168 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

WATH, a hamlet in the parish of Hovingham, Rydall wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Malton; containing only 2 houses and 19 inhabitants.

WATH, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, situated on the river Dearn, 4 miles from Rotherham, and 162 from London; containing 136 houses and 662 inhabitants, exclusive of the populous townships of Swinton and Wentworth; containing 1500 inhabitants. Here passed the Roman road called Ikenild street. It is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church, Oxford.

WATLASS. See THORNTON WATLASS, north riding of York.

WATLING-STREET, one of the consular highways, made by the Romans for the march of their armies, formed by stakes, and lesser wood between them, called Wattles, to keep up the earth and stones. It begins at Dover, and runs to St. Albans, Dunstable, Towcester, Atherstone, and Shrewsbury, and ends at Cardigan in Wales.

Watlington, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 4 miles from Downham, and 92 from London; containing 74 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

Watlington, a market town and parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, situated on the Chiltern-hills, 14 miles from Oxford, and 45 from London; containing 262 houses and 1276 inhabitants. It has a free school. Market on Saturday. Fairs 25th March, and 10th October, and is a vicarage rated at 12*l.*

Watlington, a parish in the hundred of Battle, and rape of Hastings, Sussex, 1¼ mile from Battle, and 55 from London; containing 32 houses and 211 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 7*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* and the patron is the duke of Dorset.

Wattesfield, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 2 miles from Botesdale, and 87 from London; containing 70 houses and 520 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

Wattin, a parish in the shire of Caithness, Scotland, watered by the river Wick, near the center of the county, containing 210 houses and 1246 inhabitants.—Loch Wattin is a beautiful lake, in this parish 3 miles long, and 2 broad, much frequented by wild-fowl and swans.

Wattisham, a parish in the hundred of Cosford, Suffolk, 1½ mile from Bildeston, and 64½ from London; containing 25 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Watton, a parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 5 miles from Hertford, and 26 from London; on the banks of the Beane, containing 118 houses and 602 inhabitants. It has a charity school, and is a rectory, value 19*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

Watton, a market town and parish in the hundred of Wayland, Norfolk, 19 miles from Norwich, and 91 from London; in a fine open part of the country, containing 148 houses and 693 inhabitants. The church is very small, and the steeple containing 3 bells is round at bottom, and octagonal at top. This town is noted for sending great quantities of butter to the London market. Market on Wednesday. Fairs 29th June, 2d. 4th September, and 28th October; 2½ miles distant is Clermont Lodge, the seat of the earl of Clermont. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*d.*

Watton, a parish in the division of Baintree Beacon, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 8 miles from Beverly, and 192 from London; containing 34 houses and 197 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wattendon, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 4½ miles from Newport Pagnel, and 46 from London; containing 132 houses and 655 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 26*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*

Waveney, a river in Suffolk, forming the boundary between the counties of Norfolk, and Suffolk, from Fen-street to the west of Diss, Norfolk, and passing Harleston, Bungay, and Beccles, falls into the Yare, a little above Yarmouth, from whence it is navigable to Bungay.

Waver,, a river in Cumberland which falls into the Wampul.

Waverley, an extra parochial hamlet in the hundred of Farnham, Surry, near the river Wey, 1 mile from Farnham, and containing 9 houses and 40 inhabitants. It formerly had a handsome chapel, and the ruins of the first Cistestian monastery established in England.

Waverton, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, 4 miles from Chester, and 176 from London; containing 51 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chester.

Waverton, High and Low, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Wigton, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 2 miles from Wigton, and 306 from London; containing 88 houses and 375 inhabitants.

Wavertree, a township in the parish of Childwall, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 2 miles from Prescott, and 199 from London; containing 134 houses and 860 inhabitants.

Waudby, a hamlet in the parish of Elloughton, division of Beacon Hunsley, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 4 miles from South Cave, and 182 from London; containing 5 houses and 29 inhabitants.

Waxham, a parish in the hundred of Hopping, Norfolk, 15 miles from Norwich, and 125 from London; containing 8 houses and 63 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Waxham, a small village in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York in the parish of Owthorne, situated on the coast, 4 miles from Partrington, and 197 from London; containing 9 houses and 61 inhabitants.

Waybourn, a parish in the hundred of Holt, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Holt, and 121 from London; containing 43 houses and 240 inhabitants, and was once a market town. It is a curacy.

Wayford, a parish in the hundred of Crewkern, Somerset, 2 miles from Crewkern, and 133 from London; containing 33 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*

Wayland, the name of a hundred in Norfolk, near the center of the county around Watton.

Weald, two hamlets in the parish of Calverton, hundred of Newport, Bucks, near Stony Stratford.

Weald, the name of a common near Harrow, Middlesex, part of which has been lately enclosed.

Weald, a hamlet in the parish of Seven Oaks, hundred of Codsheath, lathe of Sutton, Kent, 2 miles from Seven Oaks, and 25 from London; containing 90 houses and 487 inhabitants.

WEARDALE, a township in Hundersfield, parish of Rochdale, Lancaster, forming a district of the town of Huddersfield; containing 581 houses and 3220 inhabitants, of whom 971 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture.

WEARDALE, St. JOHN, part of the western marshes of the Bishopric of Durham, towards Westmoreland 268 miles from London; through which the river Weare runs, there are many red deer in this district.

WEARDLEY, a township in the parish of Harewood, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 8 miles from Leeds, and 193 from London; containing 28 houses and 139 inhabitants.

WEARE, a parish in the hundred of Bempstone, Somerset, 2 miles from Axbridge, and 130 from London; containing 96 houses and 433 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Bristol.

WEARE, a river in Durham, which rises from a salt rock, and receiving several small streams, flows by Auckland, Binchester, Brancepeth and Durham, and falls into the German ocean at Sunderland.

WEARHORN, a parish in the hundred of Ham, lathe of Shepway, Kent, 6 miles from Ashford and 61 from London; containing 63 houses and 411 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.*

WEARMOUTH, BISHOP AND MONK. See BISHOP AND MONK, Wearmouth.

WEASENHAM, ALL SAINTS, AND ST. PETER'S, two adjoining parishes in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 6 miles from Swaffham and 99 from London; the former containing 31 houses and 207 inhabitants, and the latter 32 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 10*s.*

WEATHERSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 7 miles from Braintree and 47 from London; containing 264 houses and 1296 inhabitants.

WEATHLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Kinwarton, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Alcester, containing 9 houses and 51 inhabitants

WEAVER, a river in Cheshire, which falls into the Mersey at Rock-savage.

WEAVER, a hamlet in the parish of Churchover, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, on the banks of the Weaver, 3 miles from Middlewich, and 169 from London; containing 28 houses and 129 inhabitants.

WEBTREE, the name of a hundred in Herefordshire, on the western side of the county, bounded on the north by the river Wye.

WEDDICKER, a hamlet in the parish of Arlecdon, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 2 miles from Whitehaven, and 335 from London; containing 6 houses and 34 inhabitants.

WILDHAMPTON, a tything in the parish of Chirton, hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 3 miles from Market Lavington, and 91 from London; containing 33 houses and 178 inhabitants.

WEDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 1¼ miles from Nuneaton and 105 from London; near the Anker; containing 10 houses and 60 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

WEDMORE, a parish in the hundred of Bempstone, Somerset, 5 miles from Axbridge and 126 from London; containing 393 houses and 2122 inhabitants. Fair 2d August. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean of Wells.

WEDNESBURY, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 7 miles from Birmingham, and 124 from London; containing 771 houses and 4160 inhabitants, of whom 700 were returned as being employed in trade and manufactures, particularly of all kinds of edge tools, nails, coach springs, bridle bits, stirrups, and several iron forges, at one of which the iron is melted from the ore. The church is a fine old Gothic structure, supposed to have been built by Dudo, lord of Dudley, in the 8th century, at the time he built Dudley castle; there are also meeting houses for presbyterians, quakers and methodists. This place is reckoned famous for its coal, much valued for smiths work, on account of its extreme heat. Besides the different cast and wrought iron manufactures here, enamel painting is done in the highest perfection and beauty. Market on Wednesday. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

WEDNESFIELD, a township in the parish of Wolverhampton, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2 miles from Wolverhampton; containing 184 houses and 1088 inhabitants. This place is noted in history for the battle fought here in the year 911, when the Britons under Edward the Elder completely routed the Danes; two mounts are still shewn at the place where the dead bodies of the two nations were interred.

WEEDEN BECK, a parish in the hundred of Fawsley, Northampton, situated on the Watling-street of the Romans, and sometimes called Weedon on the street near the source of the Nen, 12 miles from Stony Stratford, and 68 miles from London; containing 148 houses and 750 inhabitants. It is recorded that the daughter of Wulphar, king of Mersia, converted her father's palace which stood here into a convent. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.*

WEEDEN LOYS, a parish in the hundred of Greens Norton, Northampton, 4 miles from Towcester, and 63 from London; containing 34 houses and 387 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

WEEDON, a hamlet in the parish of Hardwick, hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 2 miles from Aylesbury and 42 from London; containing 59 houses and 265 inhabitants.

WEEFORD, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 4 miles from Litchfield, and 115 from London; containing 35 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WEEK, ST. MARY'S, a parish in the hundred of Stratton, Cornwall, 4 miles from Stratton and 220 from London; containing 104 houses and 566 inhabitants. Fairs 19th September, and Wednesday 3 weeks before Christmas. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 10*s.* and the patron is the earl of Bath.

WEEK, ST. LAWRENCE, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 16 miles from Bristol, and 129 from London; containing 33 houses and 221 inhabitants.

WEEK, ST. GERMANS. See GERMANS WEEK, Devon.

WEEK, a small parish adjoining Winchester, in the hundred of Buddlesgate, and division of Fawley, Hants, 63 miles from London; containing 17 houses and 65 inhabitants.

WEEKLY, a parish in the hundred of Orlingbury, Northampton, 2 miles from Kettering and 76 from London; containing 48 houses and 253 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 4*d.*

WEEL, a hamlet in the parish of St. John Beverley, in Beverley liberties of the east riding of York, adjoining to Beverley; containing 16 houses and 96 inhabitants.

WEELEY, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 10 miles from Colchester and 61 from London; containing 62 houses and 387 inhabitants, but since this return of the population was made, this place has much increased, from many settlers brought hither, through the erection of barracks here, within these 3 years, capable of holding 7000 men. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* of exempt jurisdiction.

WEELSBY, a hamlet in the parish of Clee, hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, near Grimsby. The population was included with Cleethorpe.

WEELL, a parish in the district of Bradalbain, shire of Perth, Scotland, lying on the great military road, from Stirling to Inverness, 41 miles from Stirling; containing 266 houses and 1337 inhabitants. The parish is mountainous and rugged, lying on the banks of Loch Tay. Near the church is Castle Monzies, a beautiful edifice in the form of a castle, the seat of Sir John Menzies, Bart.

WEETING, a parish in the hundred of Grimshoe, Norfolk, divided from Brandon, by the little Ouse and 79 from London; containing 63 houses and 368 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of Gonvil and Cains college, Cambridge. It is divided into Weeting All-saints, and Weeting St. Mary's, but has only one church. The mansion of the earl of Montrath, in the neighbourhood is an elegant building; the doors and sash frames are solid mahogany, and the apartments furnished in the choicest style.

WEETON, a township in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 1½ mile from Kirkham and 226 from London; containing 79 houses and 384 inhabitants. Fair, Tuesday after Trinity Sunday.

WEETON. See WYTON, east riding of York.

WEETON, a township in the parish of Harewood, Claro wapentake, west riding of York. 6 miles from Wetherby, and 190 from London; containing 54 houses and 237 inhabitants.

WEETWOOD, a hamlet in the parish of Wooler, Northumberland, from which it is distant 1 mile. Fair Whit Tuesday.

WEIGHTON, or MARKET WEIGHTON, a market town and parish in the division of Beaconholme, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, situated on the small river Foulness, 8 miles from Beverley and 192 from London; it consists of one principal street, with several small ones intersecting it, containing 175 houses and 1183 inhabitants; of late it is much modernized, daily increasing in new buildings. The church is an ancient building, and had a wooden spire; since it has been taken down, the tower has been heightened, and the whole repaired; it contains 6 bells. A canal from the Humber near the mouth of the Ouse is brought within 2 miles of the town to Warren Car. Market on Wednesday, well supplied with corn, the market for which begins at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It is well supplied with all kinds of provisions. Fairs, 14th May, and 25th September, the latter noted for sheep and cheese. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof in York Cathedral.

WEILD, a parish in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 4 miles from Alton, and 51 from London; containing 38 houses and 208 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the earl of Portsmouth.

WEISDALE. See TINGWALL, Scotland.

WELBECK, a hamlet in the parish of Worksop, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, near Worksop; containing 9 houses and 66 inhabitants. Here is the seat of the duke of Portland.

WELBURN, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffs, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, 9 miles from Lincoln, and 124 from London; containing 72 houses and 360 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 19*l.* 16*s.*

WELBURN, a township in the parish and wapentake of Bulmer, north riding of York, 5 miles from Malton, and 212 from London; containing 70 houses and 322 inhabitants.

WELBURY, a parish in Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Northallerton and 230 from London; containing 51 houses and 249 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* and the patron is the king.

Welby, a hamlet in the parish of Melton Mowbray, hundred of Framland, Leicester, near Melton Mowbray, and 106 miles from London; containing 8 houses and 57 inhabitants.

Welby, a parish in the hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, Kesteven, Lincoln, 2 miles from Grantham, and 111 from London; containing 51 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* belonging to the prebendary of South Grantham.

Welch, Bignor, a village in the hundred of Skenfreth, Monmouth, near Monmouth, and 132 miles from London; containing 18 houses and 80 inhabitants.

Welch Hampton, a parish in the hundred of Pimhill, Salop, 3 miles from Ellesmere, and 178 from London; containing 65 houses and 373 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Welch Newton, a parish in the hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, 3 miles from Monmouth, and 132 from London; containing 36 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Welchpool, a market town and parish in the hundred of Pool, Montgomeryshire, Wales, 9 miles from Montgomery, and 177 from London; containing 530 houses and 2872 inhabitants, including the hamlets of Chitterwood, Trewern and Hope; of whom 238 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, particularly flannels and baizes. The town is pleasantly situated on a low hill; the streets are uniform, and some of the houses well built, and is by far the best and largest town in the county. The church is a modern structure, situated at the bottom of the hill, so low, that the upper part of the church yard is nearly on a level with the roof the church. The market house is a neat and convenient structure, and it has a good hall in which the assizes for the county are held. The river Severn passes near the town from Landrinio bridge to Newton, and it has a canal navigation, running nearly parallel therewith from Ellesmere, communicating to Chester. This town is said to have been first incorporated by one of the princes of Powisland; but the present charter was granted by Charles II.—It is governed by 2 bailiffs, high steward, recorder and town clerk, serjeants at mace, &c. The castle, called Powis castle, the remains of which are on an eminence in the neighbourhood, was formerly of great strength and beauty. Market on Monday. Fairs 2d Monday in March, Monday before Easter, 5th June, first Monday after 10th July, 12th September, and 10th November, for horses, cattle, provision, &c. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* with Buttington chapel annexed, in the county of Salop, in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph.

Welch Whittle, a hamlet in the parish of Standish, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 6 miles from Wigan, and 205 from London; containing 25 houses and 127 inhabitants.

Weldon Great, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, 8 miles from Thrapston and 73 from London; containing 72 houses and 364 inhabitants. The market house is a handsome stone building, over which is a sessions chamber. The remains of some Roman buildings were discovered in the neighbouring fields, in the year 1738. Market on Wednesday. Fairs 19th February, 21st May, 20th August and 10th September. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Weddon Little, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, and adjoining thereto; although it is called Little Weldon, as being under the parish of Great Weldon, it is much more populous, containing 90 houses and 491 inhabitants. Near it, a branch of the Nen takes it's source.

Welford, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 5 miles from Newbury, and 61 from London; containing 170 houses and 866 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 35*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* with Wickham chapel annexed.

Welford, a parish in the hundred of Deerhurst, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stratford-on-Avon, and 98 from London; containing 91 houses and 516 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Dorset.

Welford, a hamlet in the parish of Kempford, Gloucester.

Welford, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, on the banks of the Avon, and borders of Leicestershire, 8 miles from Lutterworth and 80 from London; containing 194 houses and 931 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* and the patron is the bishop of Oxford.

Welham, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Leicester, situated on a rivulet that runs into the Welland, 3½ miles from Market Harborough, and 86 from London; containing 17 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

Well, a parish in the hundred Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Alford, and 139 from London; containing 15 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* united with Dexthorpe and Claxby.

Well, a parish in Hang East wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Masham, and 222 from London; containing 78 houses and 368 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.*

Well, the name of a hundred in the division of Lindsay, Lincolnshire, on the west side of the county, divided from Nottingham by the river Trent.

Welland, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 3 miles from Upton, and 112 from London; containing [illegible] houses and 334 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

WELLAND, a river in Leicestershire, and proceeding, east from the boundary of Rutland and Northampton, and passing Stamford, falls into the Foss-dike wash, beyond Spalding.

WELLBORNE, a parish in the hundred of Forehoe, Norfolk, 4 miles from East Dereham, and 97 from London; containing 21 houses and 148 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

WELLCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Hartland, Devon, 4 miles from Hartland, and 219 from London; containing 38 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WELLSBOURNE HASTINGS, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5¾ miles from Warwick, and 89 from London; containing 198 houses and 1096 inhabitants, including the adjoining hamlet of Wellsbourn Mountfort. It was formerly a market town, and is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* united with Walton, in the patronage of the King.

WELLING, a hamlet in the parish of Plumbstead, hundred of Lesness, lathe of Sutton, at Hone, Kent, situated at the bottom of Shooters-hill, 10½ miles from London, on the road to Dartford. The population was returned included with Plumbstead.

WELLINGBOROUGH, a market town and parish in the hundred of Hamfordshoe, Northampton, situated on the river Nen, 7 miles from Northampton, and 68 from London; containing 662 houses and 3325 inhabitants, of whom 348 were returned as being employed in various trades. The houses are neatly built of a kind of red stone, produced in the neighbourhood, similar to Northampton, and modern, the greater part of the town having been destroyed in 1738. The church is a handsome building, and it has a charity school for 40 children. Its name is supposed to have been derived from its ancient medicinal springs, and one called Redwell, was in great repute in the 17th century. Its chief trade is in corn; market on Wednesday. Fairs, Easter Wednesday, Whit Wednesday, and 18th October. It is a vicarage, value 24*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*—Bridge's Northampton.

WELLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 7 miles from Swaffham, and 100 from London; containing 18 houses and 150 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

WELLINGORE, a parish in the hundred of Boothby Graffo, part of Kesteven, Lincoln, 10 miles from Sleaford, and 126 from London; containing 132 houses and 559 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

WELLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 5¾ miles from Hereford and 140 from London; containing 118 houses and 532 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof in the church of Hereford.

WELLINGTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of South Bradford, Salop, situated near the Wrekin, 150 miles from London; containing 1467 houses and 7531 inhabitants. The town is neat, and contains many good houses. The church is a handsome building, erected of late years and supported with cast iron pillars, having window frames also of iron. The greater part of the inhabitants were returned as being employed in working coals and lime, and some mines of iron ore; here are also two furnaces, worked by steam, reckoned the largest of the kind in England. It has a good market on Thursday. Fairs 22d of June, and 17th and 29th November. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 5*s.* united with Eyton Rectory.

WELLINGTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of West Kingsbury, Somerset, situated on the river Tone 7 miles from Taunton; and 150 from London; containing 745 houses and 4032 inhabitants, of whom 2535 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, principally that of serges, druggetts, and an extensive pottery. The town is well built, consisting of 4 streets, the principal one being ½ mile in length. The church is a noble structure, having a lofty tower, containing 8 bells; near it is an hospital for 6 poor men, and as many women, founded by lord chief justice Popham, in the reign of James I. Market on Thursday. Fair, Holy Thursday. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* with West Buckland chapel annexed.

WELLINGTON, a village 2 miles from Lewes, Sussex.

WELLOP, a river in Northumberland, which falls into the Wear at St. John's chapel.

WELLOW, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Somerset, 4½ miles from Bath, and 104 from London; containing 147 houses and 770 inhabitants. Several Roman pavements have been discovered, from which it is supposed to have been a considerable town under the Romans. Fairs 20th May, and 17th October. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*

WELLOW, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 1½ miles from Allerton, and 137 from London; containing 62 houses and 344 inhabitants. It is a curacy, under Edwinstow.

WELLOW, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Thorngate, and division of Andover, Hants, situated on the borders of Wilts, 4 miles from Romsey, and 77 from London; containing 45 houses and 259 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* and the patron is the duke of Chandos.

WELLOW, WEST, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, and adjoining thereto, although situated in the hundred of Amesbury, in Wiltshire, containing 54 houses and 315 inhabitants.

Wellow, the name of a hundred in Somersetshire, in the northern part of the county, south of Bath.

Wells, a parish in the hundred of North Greenhoe, Norfolk, 5 miles from Walsingham, and 118 from London; containing 523 houses and 2316 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Wells, a city, in the hundred of Wells-forum, Somerset, pleasantly situated on the borders of the Mendip-hills, on the small river Wesitire, 15 miles from Bath, and 122 from London; containing 869 houses and 4829 inhabitants, of whom 870 were returned employed in trade. This city is well built, the houses neat, and many of them elegant, and the streets well paved and clean.—The cathedral, the greater part of which as it now stands was erected in 1239 by bishop Joceline de Wells, is a spacious gothic structure in the form of a cross, being 380 feet long, and 130 wide. The entire west front is a pile of statues of most excellent carved stone work, and one of the principal windows contains some beautiful paintings on glass; the cloisters adjoining it are spacious and elegant, and the chapter house in the form of a rotunda, is supported by one pillar in the centre. Two gates with towers, lead into the close; one leads into the cloisters, consisting of 22 houses, and a chapel at the upper end; the vicars dwellings in the close are commodious, but their hall is turned into a music room, in which concerts are frequently held. The deanry is a handsome edifice, and there are several commodious houses for the prebendaries. The episcopal palace is reckoned the handsomest in the kingdom, yet small; and the moat-gate of the palace yet remains. The pious bishop Ken and his lady, were killed here in their bed, by the palace falling in, during the great storm in 1703. The parish church of St. Cuthbert, has a lofty square tower containing 6 bells; that of the cathedral has 8. The town-hall is situated over bishop Bubwith's hospital, which is endowed for 30 poor men and women. Here are several almshouses, and a charity school was erected in 1714 for 20 boys and 20 girls. On the east side of the city is a spacious open market place. The name of this city is said to be taken from a remarkable spring called St. Andrew's Well, rising near the palace, and emitting a copious stream, surrounds that structure, and thence flows through the south-west part of the town. It was first incorporated in the reign of Richard I. and created into a free borough by a confirmed charter of king John, by the title of the master of commonality of the borough of Wells; but in the reign of queen Elizabeth, the corporation was formed, as it now consists, of a mayor, recorder, 7 masters, and 16 common councilmen. It returns 2 members to parliament, elected by the mayor, masters, burgesses and freemen, number of voters about 500. Returning officer the mayor. The chief manufactures are knitting of hose and bone lace. Near the scite of the market cross, stands the public Conduit, the water being brought by leaden pipes from an aqueduct near the source of St. Andrew's Well. The annual races are held in that part called East Wells, without the city liberty. Market on Wednesday and Saturday. Fairs 14th May, 25th July, 25th October, and 30th November. St. Cuthbert's is a vicarage, value 33*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter.—Collinson's Somerset.

Wellesborough, a hamlet in the parish of Sibbistone, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 5 miles from Hinckley, and 104 from London; containing 6 houses and 45 inhabitants.

Wellwick, a parish in Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 2 miles from Partrington, near the Spurn-head, and 195 from London; containing 63 houses and 312 inhabitants.

Welnethan, Great, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bury St. Edmunds, and 70 from London; containing 33 houses and 222 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*

Welnethan, Little, another parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the foregoing; containing 21 houses and 142 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Welney, a parish in the isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, situated among the Fens, 5 miles from March, on the river Wen; containing 48 houses and 265 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Welney, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Outwell, hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 4 miles from Downham, and 84 from London, containing 45 houses and 222 inhabitants.

Welton, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Lincoln, and 140 from London; containing 89 houses and 380 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Welton, a parish in the hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Louth, and 154 from London; containing 18 houses and 101 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* and the patron is the king.

Welton, a parish in the hundred of Fawsley, Northampton, 3 miles from Daventry, and 75 from London; containing 101 houses and 485 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* and the patron is the king.

Welton, a hamlet in the parish of Ovingham, in Tindal Ward, Northumberland, 10 miles from Newcastle, and 286 from London; containing 14 houses and 90 inhabitants.

Welton, a township in the parish of Leeke, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, near Leeke, containing 108 houses and 540 inhabitants.

Welton, a parish in the wapentake of Howdenshire, east riding of York, near Howden, and 184 miles from London; containing 28 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 25*l.*

Welwyn, a parish in the hund[illegible] o[illegible]

Broadwater, Herts, situated on the small river Moran, 5½ miles from Hatfield, and 25 from London; containing 165 houses and 1015 inhabitants. Near the parsonage-house is a chalybeat spring. It is a rectory, rated at 21*l.* in the patronage of All-souls college, Oxford.

WEM, a market town and parish in the hundred of North Bradford, Salop, near the source of the river Roden, 8 miles from Whitchurch, and 172 from London; containing 582 houses and 3087 inhabitants. It consists of one large open street with some smaller ones; the church is a very handsome structure, with a fine chancel and a lofty tower. It has a good free school and 2 dissenting meeting houses. Market on Thursday, well supplied with provisions. Fairs 6th May, 29th June, and 22d November. It is a rectory, rated at 26*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* real value about 500*l.* per annum.

WEMBURY, a parish in the hundred of Plympton, Devon, 1½ mile from Plymouth, containing 81 houses and 393 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

WEMBWORTHY, a parish in the hundred of North Tawton, Devon, 3 miles from Chumleigh, and 190 from London; containing 57 houses and 323 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*

WEMYSS, a parish in the shire of Fife, Scotland, situated on the coast of the Frith of Forth, adjoining the parish of Dysart; containing 537 houses and 3264 inhabitants, including several considerable villages, viz. Water Wemyss, a burgh of barony, having a good harbour, and a considerable trade in ship building; Easter Wemyss, also on the coast, Buckhaven a considerable fishing village. Methil, a burgh of barony, and East and West Coaltowns, as the name implies, inhabited by colliers. Wemyss castle is of great antiquity, but has been greatly modernized, and is celebrated as the place where queen Mary had her first interview with the earl of Darnley.

WENDON, GREAT AND LITTLE, two united parishes in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 2 miles from Saffron Walden, and 41 from London; containing 54 houses and 269 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 17*l.*

WENDON, LOFTS OR LOWTH, a village 2½ miles distant from the foregoing; containing 11 houses and 84 inhabitants.

WENDLEBURY, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 3 miles from Bicester, and 56 from London; containing 33 houses, and 146 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

WENDLING, a parish united with Scarning, in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 4 miles from East Dereham, and 100 from London; containing 33 houses and 239 inhabitants.

WENDOVER, a borough market town and parish in the hundred of Aylesbury, Bucks, 2½ miles from Aylesbury, and 35 from London; containing 264 houses and 1387 inhabitants. It is a poor mean place, and possesses no trade or manufacture of any consequence. It is an ancient borough by prescription, and returns 2 members to parliament, chosen by the housekeepers residing within the borough, not receiving alms, and the returning officers are the constables chosen at the court leet, of the lord of the manor. It has a market on Thursday; and a fair, on the 12th October. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.*

WENDRON, ST. a parish in the hundred of Kerriar, Cornwall, adjoining Helstone, and 280 miles from London; containing 583 houses and 3006 inhabitants; including the borough of Helstone, which is situated in this parish. See HELSTONE. It is a vicarage, value 26*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* with Helstone chapel annexed.

WENDY, a parish in the hundred of Armingford, Cambridge, 6 miles from Caxton, and 43 from London; containing 12 houses and 109 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

WENHAM, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 7 miles from Ipswich, and 62 from London; containing 23 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WENHAM, LITTLE, another parish in the same hundred of Suffolk, 5½ miles from Ipswich, and 63 from London; the population of which was omitted to be returned. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

WENHASTON, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 2¼ miles from Halesworth, and 102 from London; containing 80 houses and 578 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.* and the patron is the king.

WENLOCK, MUCH, or GREAT, a borough, market town and parish, situated in a division of Shropshire, called Wenlock franchise, 8½ miles from Bridgnorth, and 151 from London; containing 467 houses and 1981 inhabitants. The town is ill built, consisting only of two streets, but is a very ancient corporation, and is said to have been the first town that sent members to parliament by a writ from Edward IV. in 1478; when it sent one member, but now, together with Broseley, and Little Wenlock, it returns two, chosen by the free burgesses.—The corporation by charter from Charles I. consists of a bailiff, recorder, 2 justices of the peace, and 12 capital burgesses. This town in the reign of Richard II. was as famous for its copper mines, as it is now for quarries of limestone. In ancient times here was a Cluniac priory, and an hospital dedicated to St. John. The church has a steeple, containing 6 bells and a set of chimes. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

WENLOCK, LITTLE, an adjoining parish to the preceding, and included within the limits of the borough; containing 177 houses and 980 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Wenlock, has a good market on Friday, and its fairs are, 12th May, 5th July, for two days each; 17th October, for three days; and on 4th December.

WENN, ST. a parish in the hundred of Pydar, Cornwall, 5 miles from Bodmin, and 239 from London; containing 66 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WENNINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Chafford, Essex, 8½ miles from Romford, and 20 from London near Purfleet; containing 14 houses and 91 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

WENNEY. See EWENNEY and OGMORE, Glamorganshire, Wales.

WENSLEY, a parish in Hang west wapentake, north riding of York, 2 miles from Leyburn, and 236 from London; containing 57 houses and 237 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood is Bolton Hall, the seat of the marquis of Winchester. Here are also the remains of Bolton Castle, built by lord chancellor Scrope, and gallantly defended by one of his descendants, in the royal cause, during the civil wars. The district of Wensley-Dale, is a very rich and fruitful tract, having the river Eure running through the centre. In this parish resided Henry Jenkins, who died in 1670, at the advanced age of 169.

WENT, a river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Don opposite Marshland.

WENTNOR, a parish in the hundred of Purslow, Salop, 5 miles from Church Stretton, and 160 from London; containing 70 houses and 452 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

WENTWORH, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 4 miles from Ely, and 66 from London; containing 15 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Ely.

WENTWORTH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Wath, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 3 miles from Rotherham, and 164 from London; containing 204 houses and 978 inhabitants. It has a good charity-school, for boys and girls. Wentworth House is an elegant mansion, built much after the plan of Tilney-House, Wanstead; it belongs to earl Fitzwilliam, and was formerly the seat of the earl of Stafford.

WENTBECK, or WENSBEEK, a river in Northumberland, which passes Morpeth, and falls into the Occan at Cambocs, a few miles beyond Blyth.

WENTSUM, or WANSUM, a river in Norfolk, which falls into the Yare below Norwich.

WENVO, a parish in the hundred of Dinas Powis, Glamorganshire, Wales, 5 miles from Cardiff, containing 56 houses and 331 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

WENWICK, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 7 miles from Oundle, and 79 from London; containing 19 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

WEOBLY, a borough, market town and parish in the hundred of Stretford, Hereford 11½ miles from Hereford, and 146 from London; containing 139 houses and 608 inhabitants; many of the houses are well built modern structures, as the town suffered greatly by fire some years back. Here is no trade or manufacture, and it is chiefly noted for the excellence of its ale. The scite of its ancient castle, is now converted into a bowling-green. The town is not incorporated, but governed by 2 constables; it returns 2 members to parliament, chosen by the inhabitants of houses, of 20*l.* per ann. rent and upwards, paying scot and lot, and resident therein 40 days, before the election; returning officers the constables. Here are two good charity-schools, the one for boys and the other for girls. Market on Thursday; and its fairs are, Holy Thursday, and the third Thursday after. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 1*s.* and the patron is the bishop of Hereford.

WEONARDS, ST. a township and chapelry in the parish of Lugwardine, hundred of Wormelow, Hereford, 8 miles from Ross, and 129 from London; containing 103 houses and 465 inhabitants.

WERE. See WEAR, Durham.

WEREMOUTH. See WEARMOUTH.

WEREHAM, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 11 miles from Brandon, and 89 from London; containing 72 houses and 407 inhabitants. Fair, 3d March. It is a curacy.

WERNETH, a village in the hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, near Macclesfield; containing 207 houses and 1132 inhabitants.

WERRAY, a river in Cardiganshire, which falls into the Irish sea, near Arth.

WERRINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 2 miles from Launceston, and 215 from London; containing 95 houses and 489 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WERRINGTON, a township in the parish of Paston, hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, situated on the Car Dyke, a canal, supposed to have been originally cut by the Romans, near Peterborough, and 81 miles from London; containing 69 houses and 372 inhabitants.

WERVIN, a small village in the hundred of Broxton, Cheshire, near Delamere Forest, 3½ miles from Chester, and 183 from London; containing 11 houses and 56 inhabitants.

WESLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Campden, hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, ½ mile from Campden, and 90 from London; containing 23 houses and 128 inhabitants.

WESHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster; the return of which was included with that of Medlar.

WESSINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Heddon-on-the-Walls, Northumberland.

WESTACRE, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 4 miles from Swaffham, and 97 from London, on the river Nar; containing 61 houses and 343 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WESTAL, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Cheltenham, Gloucester.

WESTBERE, a parish in the hundred of Bleangate, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Canterbury; containing 35 houses and 188 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.*

WESTBORNE, a parish in the hundred of Westborne and Singleton, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 6 miles from Chichester, and 64 from London; containing 212 houses and 1549 inhabitants.

WESTBORNE GREEN, a hamlet divided from Paddington, by the New-bridge and Grand Junction Canal, Middlesex, 1½ mile from London.

WESTBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Loveden, and division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 7 miles from Grantham, and 118 from London; containing 39 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WESTBROMWICH, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2 miles from Wednesbury, and 122 from London; containing 1462 houses and 5687 inhabitants; of whom 2780 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the earl of Dartmouth.

WESTBROOK, a hamlet in the parish of Boxford, hundred of Kintbury Eagle, Berks, 3 miles from Newbury, and 59 from London; containing 25 houses and 123 inhabitants.

WESTBURHANT. See BOARHUNT, Hants.

WESTBURY, a parish in the hundred of Buckingham, Bucks, situated on the borders of Northamptonshire, on the road to Brackley, 61 miles from London; containing 55 houses and 308 inhabitants. It has a charity-school. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

WESTBURY, a hamlet in the parish of West Meon, hundred of Meonstoke, and division of Portsdown, Hants, 12 miles from Alton, and 59 from London; containing 4 houses and 35 inhabitants.

WESTBURY, a parish in the hundred of Ford, Salop, 7 miles from Shrewsbury, and 170 from London; containing 195 houses and 1991 inhabitants. Fair, 5th August. It is a rectory divided into two parts, the one valued at 13*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* the other at 11*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*

WESTBURY, a parish in the hundred of Wells Forum, Somerset, 3 miles from Wells, and 124 from London; containing 73 houses and 429 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

WESTBURY, a borough, market town and parish, in the hundred of the same name, Wilts, 10 miles from Market Lavington, and 97 from London; containing 344 houses and 1837 inhabitants. It is supposed to have taken its present name from its situation on the western borders of Salisbury plain, and supposed to have been the Verlucio, of the Romans. The church is an extensive and very fine Gothic structure, erected in the beginning of the thirteenth century. It is an ancient borough, and received its charter of incorporation from Henry IV. and is governed by a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen and inferior officers. It returns two members to parliament, chosen by every tenant of burgage-tenures, in fee for life, or 99 years, determinable upon lives, or by copy of court roll, paying a burgage rent of 4*d.* or 2*d.* yearly, being resident in the borough, not receiving alms; number of voters about 50, and the returning officer is the mayor. The town has a considerable traffic in malting, and a manufacture in broad cloth.—Market on Friday. Fairs, first Friday in Lent, and Easter Monday, and Whit-Monday. It is a vicarage, value 44*l.* 16*s.* with Dilton and Bratton chapels annexed.—Britton's Wilts.

WESTBURYLEIGH, a township in the parish of Westbury, and 1 mile distant therefrom, in the road to Warminster; containing 294 houses and 1475 inhabitants. In the neighbourhood of this village, many Roman coins, and pieces of armour &c. have been dug up.

WESTBURY-ON-TRIM, a parish in the hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, situated on the small river Trim, 2½ miles from Bristol, and 115 from London; containing 114 houses and 638 inhabitants. Here was anciently a college, endowed by Edward III. and rebuilt in 1443, by bishop Carpenter, who assumed the title of bishop of Worcester and Westbury; it was finally destroyed by prince Rupert, during the civil wars. In this parish is a vast chasm, called Penpark Hole, supposed to have been originally a lead mine; rendered remarkable, by an accident that occurred to the Rev. Mr. Newnham, one of the canons of Bristol Cathedral, who fell therein, in 1775, when approaching to examine the depth thereof with a line. It is 215 feet deep. The church is a large building. It is a curacy. Atkyn's Gloucestershire.

WESTBURY-ON-SEVERN, a parish in the hundred of Westbury, Gloucester, 2 miles from Newnham, and 114 from London; containing 286 houses and 1658 inhabitants. It is a vicarage; value 20*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

WESTBY, a township in the parish of St. Michael's, Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 2 miles from Garstang, and 225 from London; containing 112 houses and 622 inhabitants.

WESTCOTE, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 4 miles from Stowe, and 82 from London; containing 27 houses and 127 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

WESTCOTT, a hamlet in the parish of Waddesdon, hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 7 miles from Aylesbury, and 47 from London; containing 33 houses and 231 inhabitants.

WESTCOTT, a hamlet in the parish of Dorking, Surry.

WEST DERBY, a township in the parish of Walton, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 4 miles from Liverpool, and 201 from London; containing 445 houses and 2636 inhabitants.

WESTEND, a township in the parish of Burgh, in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 4 miles from Carlisle, and 306 from London; containing 31 houses and 146 inhabitants.

WESTEND, two small hamlets in Middlesex, one in the parish of Hampstead, the other in Greenford.

WESTEND, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Dauntsey, hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts.

WESTERDALE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Stokesley, Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, near Stokesley, and 242 miles from London; containing 46 houses, and 257 inhabitants.

WESTERFIELD, a parish in the liberties of Ipswich, Suffolk, 2 miles from Ipswich, and 71 from London; containing 23 houses and 187 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

WESTERHAM, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, and lathe of Sutton, Kent, lying on the borders of Surry, 5 miles from Seven Oaks, and 22 from London; containing 261 houses and 1344 inhabitants. The church is a neat building, and over the south door is a monument to General Wolfe, who was a native of this place. Market on Wednesday, and a fair on the 19th September. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* united with Eton-Bridge.

WESTERKIRK, a parish in the shire of Dumfries, Scotland, 7 miles from Longholm, and 20 from Dumfries; containing 127 houses and 638 inhabitants; a considerable number of whom are employed in mining, to accommodate whom, the proprietors have built a neat little village called Jame's Town, pleasantly situated on the banks of the Megget.

WESTERLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Kibworth Beauchamp, near Market Harborough, in Leicestershire.

WESTERN ISLANDS, those which lie between Scotland and Ireland, Westward of Scotland, reaching almost to the Orkneys. See HEBRIDES.

WESTERTON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Andrew's Auckland, Darlington-ward, Durham, near Bishop Auckland, containing 13 houses and 56 inhabitants.

WESTFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Midford, Norfolk, 2 miles from East Dereham, and 99 from London; containing 20 houses, and 111 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

WESTFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Baldstow, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 4½ miles from Battle, and 61 from London; containing 95 houses and 306 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester. Fair 18th May.

WEST FIRLE. See FIRLE-WEST, SUSSEX.

WESTGATE, a township in the parish of St. John's, Newcastle, adjoining Newcastle; containing 87 houses, and 669 inhabitants.

WESTHALL, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Halesworth, and 105 from London; containing 48 houses and 373 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich.

WESTHAMPNETT, a parish in the hundred of Box and Stockbridge, rape of Chichester, Sussex, ¼ mile from Chichester, and 62 from London; containing 59 houses and 400 inhabitants.

WESTHARPTREE, a parish in the hundred of Chewton, Somerset, 6 miles from Wells, and 117 from London; containing 70 houses and 379 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the prince of Wales.

WESTHIDE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Stoke Edith, hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 8 miles from Ledbury, and 129 from London; containing 30 houses, and 160 inhabitants.

WESTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 5 miles from Mendlesham, and 84 from London; containing 96 houses and 199 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

WESTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Gosberton, hundred of Kirton, and division of Holland, Lincoln, near Spalding.

WESTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Southwell, Notts, ½ mile therefrom.

WESTHOUGHTON, a township in the parish of Dean, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 4 miles from Bolton, and 200 from London; containing 566 houses and 3059 inhabitants.

WESTLEIGH, a township in the parish of Leigh, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 5 miles from Newton, and 193 from London; containing 271 houses and 1429 inhabitants.

WESTLEY, a parish in the hundred of Thingoe, Suffolk, 2 miles from Bury, and 73 from London; containing 13 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 9*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.* united with Fornham All-saints.

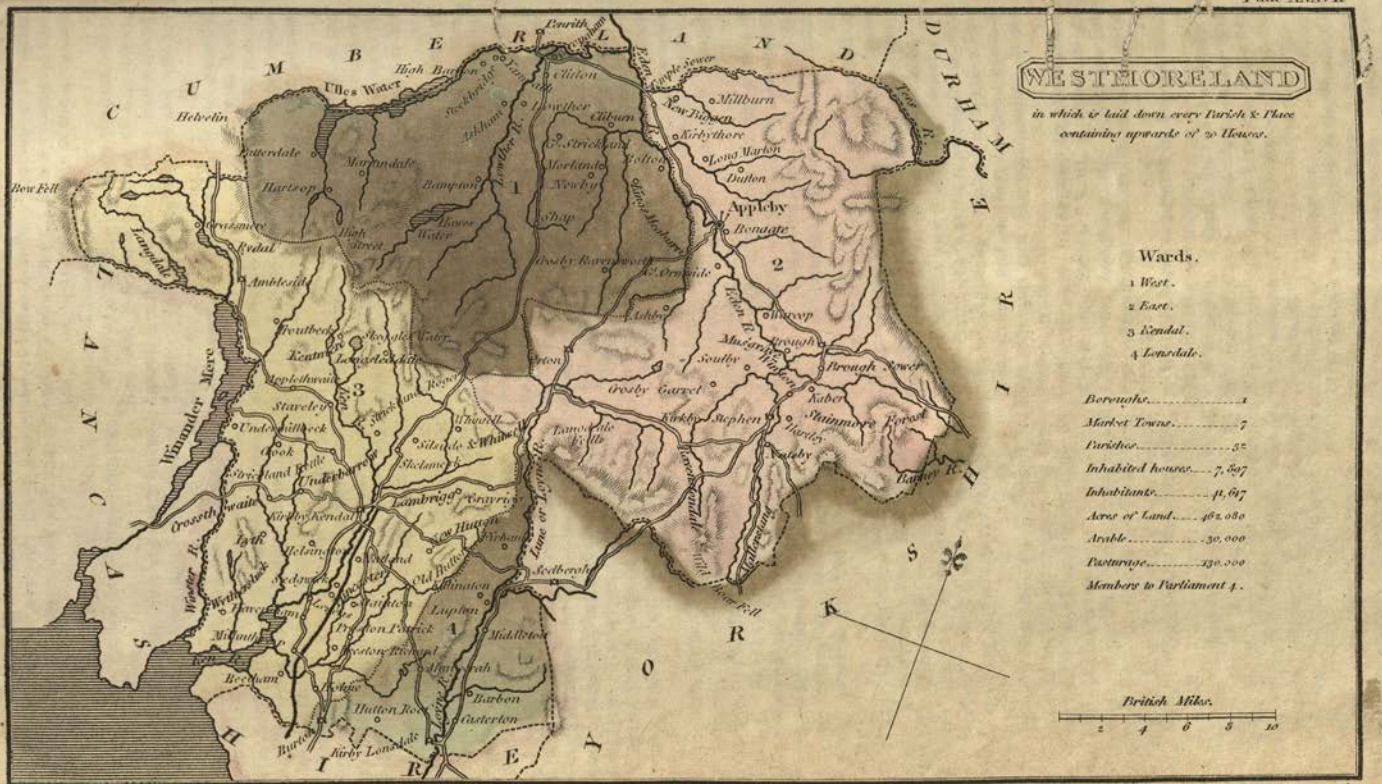
WESTLEY, WATERLESS, a parish in the hundred of Radfield, Cambridge, 5 miles from Newmarket, and 56 from London; containing 18 houses and 126 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 5*s.*

WESTLINTON, a township in the parish of Kirklinton, Eskdale ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Longtown, and 310 from London; containing 110 houses and 549 inhabitants.

WESTMANCOT, a hamlet in the parish of Breden, Worcestershire.

WESTMEON, a parish in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 12 miles from Alresford, and 59 from London; containing 83 houses and 536 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WESTMESTON, a parish in the hundred of Street, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 5 miles from Lewes, and 46 from London; containing 31 houses and 205 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* with Chiltington chapel annexed.



Published Jan.y 1.1808, by R. Phillips Bridge Street Blackfriars London.

Cooper del.et sculp.t

Westmill, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, on the river Rib, 2¼ miles from Braughin, and 29 from London; containing 64 houses and 328 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

Westminster, City, a part of the Metropolis of London, situated in the county of Middlesex, on the banks of the Thames; it is supposed to be named from its Minster or Abbey, lying westward of St. Paul's.—In ancient times it contained nothing remarkable, except its stately abbey, and was situated in a marshy island, called Thorney, surrounded on one side by the Thames, and on the other by a branch of the river called Long Ditch. For many ages it was entirely distinct from London, and the Strand was a road leading thereto, open on one side to the Thames, and on the other to the fields; and is still governed by its own magistrates, and laws distinct from those of the city. It contains 9 parishes, viz. St. Ann's, Soho; St. Clement's Danes; St. George's, Hanover-square; St. James's; St. John's; St. Margaret's; St. Martin's-in-the-fields; St. Mary-le-Strand; and St. Paul's, Covent-Garden; which, together with the precinct of the Savoy, and the verge of the palaces of Whitehall and St. James's, contain 18,231 houses, inhabited by 158,210 persons, being 71,301 males, and 86,909 females; of whom 35,031, were returned employed in various trades. The government of the city and liberties thereof, is under the jurisdiction of the dean and chapter of Westminster, in civil as well as ecclesiastical affairs, and their authority extends to the precincts of St. Martin's-le-grand, near Newgate-street, and in some places in Essex, that are exempt from the jurisdiction of the bishop of London and the archbishop of Canterbury; but the civil part, ever since the reformation, has been in the hands of laymen, elected and confirmed by the dean and chapter. The principal magistrates is the high steward, usually a nobleman and chosen for life; a deputy steward chosen by the high steward; and a high bailiff, nominated by the dean, and confirmed by the high steward: there are also 16 burgesses, and a high constable. Westminster returns 2 members to the imperial parliament, chosen by the householders. The numerous public buildings, churches, squares, charities, &c. will not admit of particular description; but for its most remarkable buildings, Westminster Abbey, Bridge, &c. see the article London.—Lyon's London.

Westmoreland, a county of England, bounded on the north and north-west by Cumberland; on the east by Yorkshire; and on the south and south-west by Lancashire. Its shape is nearly angular, being in extreme length and breadth about 40 miles. The area of the county being 722 square statute miles, equal to 462,080 square acres, having 30,000 acres in tillage, and 130,000 acres pasturage. It is divided into 4 wards instead of hundreds, viz. East, West, Kendal, and Lonsdale wards, containing 1 borough, Appleby, and seven market towns, Ambleside, Brough, Burton, Kendal, Kirby Lonsdale, Kirby Stephen, and Orton; 7897 houses, inhabited by 41,617 persons, viz. 20,175 males, and 21,442 females, of whom 8673 were returned employed in trade and manufacture, and 12,141 in agriculture. Amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803. 17,592*l.* being at the rate of 5*s.* 2½*d* in the pound. Amount of assessment under the property tax, 1815, 425,206; and the average scale of mortality for 10 years, appears from the registered burials, to have been as 1 to 49 of the existing population.—Westmoreland lies in the province of York and diocese of Carlisle; is included in the northern circuit; contains 32 parishes; and sends 4 members to parliament, being 2 for the borough, and 2 for the county. The name of the county is descriptive of its nature, that is, the Westmoreland, a region of lofty mountains, naked hills, and back barren moors, here called Fells. This county is extremely well watered with rivers, rivulets, and lakes. Lake Winander Mere is the most extensive in England, lying between this county and Lancashire, remarkable for its beauty, and the char it produces, a fish peculiar to this county, and a few lakes in Wales. From the Ullerswater flows the river Eymot, joins the Eden, and forms the boundary of the county for a short space. The Eden, which is the principal river, has its source on the borders of Yorkshire, and flows past Appleby. Near the source of the Eden also rises the Lune, a beautiful river, flowing southward, and forming the boundary from Yorkshire. The river Ken flows by Kendal, and discharges itself into the sandy Wash of Lancashire; near its mouth is a cataract. The valleys in which the rivers run, are tolerably fertile, and in the north-eastern quarter there is a considerable tract of cultivated plain; the rest of the county affords only narrow dells and glens of fertility, amidst dreary hills and extended water; in short, three-fourths of the whole county is supposed to lie uncultivated. Neither are its mineral treasures considerable; it wants coal, and the metalic ores it contains either lie so deep, or are so remotely situated, as not to be worth working. Its chief produce is slate and lime-stone. Of the cultivated lands a small part is devoted to corn, principally oats. Many Scots cattle are fattened here, and a number of milch cows kept, supplying the London market with excellent butter. The mountains feed flocks of sheep, and many black cattle. Numbers of geese are bred on the moors, and afford an article of exportation. The Westmoreland hams are in considerable esteem, and forms one of the principal exports of the county. The air is pure and healthy, but in the mountainous parts cold and piercing. Traces of two Roman military roads are still visible in this county.

Weston, a township in the parish of Jarrow

Chester ward, Durham, 1½ mile from Shields, and 280 from London; containing 323 houses and 2903 inhabitants.

Weston, a township in the parish of Runcorn, and hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 12 miles from Chester, and 192 from London; containing 31 houses and 162 inhabitants.

Weston, a township in the parish of Wybunbury, hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 5 miles from Nantwich, and 167 from London; containing 68 houses and 348 inhabitants.

Weston, a parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 3½ miles from Stevenage, and 35 from London; containing 120 houses and 729 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Weston, a parish in the hundred of Elloe, division of Holland, Lincoln, 4 miles from Spalding, and 105 from London; containing 67 houses and 328 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, in the patronage of the crown.

Weston, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 4 miles from Reepham, and 108 from London; containing 48 houses and 365 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

Weston, a parish in the hundred of Bath Forum, Somerset, 1 mile from Bath, and 108 from London; containing 195 houses and 1010 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king.

Weston, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, 8 miles from Bristol, and 121 from London; containing 19 houses and 90 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 3*s.*

Weston, or Coney Weston, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, 4 miles from Beccles, and 106 from London; containing 23 houses and 170 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king.

Weston, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 2½ miles from Otley, and 207 from London; containing 23 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* and the patron is the king.

Weston Baggard, a parish in the hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 5 miles from Hereford, and 130 from London; containing 37 houses and 199 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 15*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

Weston Bampfield, a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish of Curry Rivell, hundred of Catash, Somerset, 5 miles from Castle Cary, and 121 from London; containing 17 houses and 140 inhabitants.

Weston Birt, a parish in the hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 4 miles from Tetbury, and 103 from London; containing 26 houses and 157 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 2*s.*

Weston, Cold, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, near Ludlow; containing 4 houses and 27 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 2*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Weston Colville, a parish in the hundred of Radfield, Cambridge, 7 miles from Linton, and 53 from London; containing 47 houses and 318 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 12*s.* 2*d.*

Weston Favell, a parish in the hundred of Spelloe, Northampton, 2 miles from Northampton, and 65 from London; containing 64 houses and 354 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

Westoning, a parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 6 miles from Dunstable, and 40 from London; containing 76 houses and 410 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 17*s.*

Weston Jones, a hamlet in the parish of Norbury, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 5 miles from Newport, and 140 from London; containing 22 houses and 156 inhabitants.

Weston in the Clay, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 3 miles from Tuxford, and 135 from London; containing 60 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

Weston Lyzard, a parish in the hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 5 miles from Brewood, and 134 from London; containing 42 houses and 324 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

Weston Market, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 5 miles from Ixworth, and 82 from London; containing 41 houses and 273 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*

Weston, North, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Thame, Oxfordshire.

Weston, Old, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 7½ miles from Kimbolton, and 70 from London; containing 39 houses and 258 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Weston on Avon, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 10 miles from Campden, and 94 from London; containing 20 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Dorset.

Weston on the Green, a parish in the hundred of Ploughley, Oxford, 4 miles from Bicester, and 59 from London; containing 59 houses and 350 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, discharged from the first-fruits and tenths.

Weston on Trent, a parish in the hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 76 houses and 380 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

Weston on Trent, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 4 miles from Stafford, and 140 from London; containing 64 houses and 306 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Weston on Welland, a parish in the hundred of Corby, Northampton, 4 miles from Market Harborough, and 84 from London; containing 49 houses and 259 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.* united with Sutton.

Weston Patrick, a parish in the hundred and division of Odiham, Hants, 3 miles from Odiham, and 44½ from London; containing 22 houses and 133 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Weston, South, a parish in the hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 3 miles from Watlington and 48 from London; containing 22 houses and 105 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 2*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of Queen's College, Oxford.

Weston Super Mare, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset 7½, miles from Axbridge and 138 from London; containing 30 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 14*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

Weston Turville, a parish in the hundred of Aylesbury, Bucks, 3 miles from Aylesbury, and 37 from London; containing 72 houses and 497 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 10*d.* in the patronage of All Souls college.

Weston-under-Penyard, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 2¼ miles from Ross and 119 from London; containing 95 houses and 571 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Hereford.

Weston-under-Redcastle, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Hodnett, hundred of North Bradford, Salop, 3 miles from Wem and 172 from London.

Weston-under-Wheathley, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Southam and 87 from London; containing 41 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

Weston Underwood, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Olney, and 55 from London; containing 70 houses and 357 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Weston Underwood, a hamlet in the parish of Mugginton, hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 48 houses and 237 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Weston Zoyland, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 2 miles from Bridgwater, and 139 from London; containing 119 houses and 677 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Westow, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 5 miles from Malton, and 212 from London; containing 57 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

Westport, a parish in the hundred of Malmsbury, Wilts, near Malmsbury, and 96 miles from London; containing 114 houses and 742 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* with Charlton and Brokenborough chapels annexed.

Westputford, a parish in the hundred of Black Torrington, Devon, 6 miles from Holdsworth, and 218 from London; containing 41 houses and 274 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 11*s.*

Westray, one of the Orkney islands, lying 20 miles north from Kirkwall, being between 9 and 10 miles in length, and from 1 to 2 in breadth. The coast is rocky, and has only one safe harbour on the north west side of the island called Pyra Wall. At the head of the bay, which forms the harbour, stands a stately Gothic ruin called the Castle of Noltland, but it was never finished. It is supposed to have been intended as a place of retreat for queen Mary and Bothwell. Westray is also the name of a parochial district of the Orkneys comprehending the isles of Westray and Papa Westray, (which see); the whole containing 232 houses and 1624 inhabitants.

Westrill, an extra parochial hamlet in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, near Lutterworth; containing only 2 houses and 27 inhabitants.

Westruther, a parish in the shire of Berwick, Scotland, lying on the road by Coldstream, 28 miles south of Edinburgh; including the adjoining villages of Wetherley and Hounslow; it contains 163 houses and 779 inhabitants.

Westwell, a parish in the hundred of Bampton, Oxford, 2½ miles from Burford, and 75 from London; containing 27 houses and 139 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ church.

Westwick, a hamlet in the parish of Oakington, and hundred of Chesterton, Cambridge, near Cambridge; containing 7 houses and 33 inhabitants.

Westwick, a hamlet in the parish of Gainford, Darlington ward, Durham, 6 miles from Barnard Castle, and 240 from London; containing 13 houses and 93 inhabitants.

Westwick, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 2 miles from North Walsham and 122 from London; containing 30 houses and 166 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

Westwick, a hamlet in the parish and liberties of Rippon, west riding of York; containing 3 houses and 20 inhabitants.

Westwickham, a parish in the hundred of Chilford, Cambridge, 5 miles from Linton and 53 from London; containing 78 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Westwood, a hamlet in the parish of Hatfield, hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 6 miles from Bromyard and 133 from London; containing 6 houses and 45 inhabitants.

Westwood, a township in the parish of Bradford, hundred of Elstub and Everley, Wilts, 3 miles from Bradford, and 104 from London; containing 95 houses and 446 inhabitants, including the adjoining hamlet of Iford.

Westwood, a hamlet in the parish of Langton Wallis, in Worcestershire.

Westwratting, a parish in the hundred of Radfield, Cambridge, 6 miles from Linton, and 54 from London; containing 110 houses and 541 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Wetherall, a parish in Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3¼ miles from Carlisle, and 301 from London; containing 73 houses and 376 inhabitants. A part of the gateway of its ancient monastery yet remains. Near it are three remarkable cells, formed out of the solid rock, about 40 feet above the level of the river, which washes the bottom of the rock, and are very difficult of access, the only approach being by a perpendicular ascent of about 7 feet; they communicate with each other by a gallery in front. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Carlisle.

WETHERBY, a market town in the parish of Spofforth, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 13 miles from Boroughbridge and 194 from London, on the banks of the Wharfe, over which it has a handsome bridge. It consists principally of one street; containing 237 houses and 1144 inhabitants. On the opposite side of the river is a valuable spring, called Thorpe Arch Spa. It has a market on Thursday; and its fairs are on Holy Thursday, 25th August, and 22d November. The church is a curacy, under the mother church of Spofforth.

WETHERDEN, a parish in the hundred of Stow, Suffolk, 3 miles from Stow market, and 79 from London; containing 60 houses and 346 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the crown.

WETHERMELOCH, a township in the parish of Greystock, in Leath ward, Cumberland, 5 miles from Penrith, and 284 from London; containing 64 houses and 338 inhabitants.

WETHERINGSETT, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 4 miles from Eye, and 85 from London; the population of which was returned included with Brockford. It is a rectory, value 33*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.* united with Brockford.

WETHERLEY, a parish in the hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 2 miles from Atherstone, and 105 from London; containing 82 houses and 383 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.*

WETHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of St. Martin's, Stamford, and hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, adjoining Stamford; containing 7 houses and 34 inhabitants.

WETTENHALL, a township and chapelry in the parish of Over, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 5 miles from Nantwich, and 169 from London; containing 39 houses and 228 inhabitants.

WETWANG, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Driffield, and 202 from London; containing 49 houses and 193 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof in York cathedral.

WEVERSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, situated on the river Wever, 3 miles from Northwich, and 176 from London; containing 162 houses and 1140 inhabitants. The church is a neat building, having a tower containing 6 bells. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chester.

WEXFORD, a county of Ireland, lying in the province of Munster, bounded on the north by Wicklow; on the east by St. George's channel; on the West by Carlow, Waterford, and Kilkenny; and on the south by the Atlantic ocean. It is about 39 miles in length, and 20 in breadth; containing 109 parishes. Its principal rivers are the Barrow and Slaney. This county, though not in general mountainous, contains a large proportion of coarse, cold land and stiff clay: notwithstanding, many parts are very fertile, and produce excellent grass and corn.

WEXFORD, a sea port, and the principal town in the county of Wexford, Ireland, seated at the mouth of the river Slaney, 63 miles from Dublin, and contains about 9000 inhabitants. It was once reckoned the chief city in Ireland, being the first colony of the English, and it is still an extensive and handsome town, having a beautiful and commodious harbour, but will only admit vessels of small burthen. In the town and neighbourhood are several extensive woollen manufactures. The Barons of Forth which adjoins this town, whose inhabitants are descendants of its ancient British colony, still retain the language, manners, and customs of their origin.

WEXHAM, a parish in the hundred of Stoke, Bucks, 3½ miles from Colnbrook, and 21 from London; containing 33 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 14*s.* in the patronage of the crown.

WEY, a river in Dorsetshire, which falls into the sea at Weymouth.

WEY, a river in Surry, which, rising in Hants, passes Guildford, and falls into the Thames at Weybridge. It has been rendered navigable to Guildford and Godalming, and it has a navigable canal from Basingstoke, in Hampshire.

WEYBREAD, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 2 miles from Harlestone, and 97 from London; containing 87 houses and 662 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 15*s.*

WEYBRIDGE, a parish in the hundred of Elmbridge, Surry, situated near the conflux of the river Wey with the Thames near Walton, and 20 miles from London; containing 143 houses and 747 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WEYBRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Acle, in Norfolk, 10½ miles from Yarmouth.

WEYHILL, a small village, 3 miles from Andover, Hants and 66 from London; consisting only of a few straggling houses on a rising ground, but noted for its fair, held on the 9th of October, for all kinds of cattle, cheese, hops, and pedlary, and reckoned the greatest in England, lasting 10 days.

WEYMOUTH, a sea port, borough and market-town, situated in the parish of Wike regis, Dorsetshire, divided from Melcomb regis, by the river Wye, 8 miles from Dorchester and 131 from London; containing 236 houses and 1267 inhabitants. It is a place of considerable antiquity, and has long been a borough town, returning two members to parliament, as well as its neighbourhood. Till within these last 20 or 30 years it was but a small and indifferent built place, but from its late fashionable resort, as a bathing place, it is greatly enlarged, and has many elegant buildings. The most fashionable residences are Gloucester-row, Chesterfield-place, York-buildings, Charlotte-row, Clarence-buildings, St. Alban's-row, and Belle-vue. The church is a low building, and consists of 3 aisles, the altar-piece is universally admired. Weymouth formerly carried on a considerable trade, and was the principal port of the county, but it is now rivalled by Poole; being sheltered by the surrounding hills, possessing a pure air, a fine beach of sand, and a calm bay, formed by a semicircle of more than 2 miles, it is well adapted, as a bathing place; near the centre of the town is a commodious hot salt water bath; there are likewise private cold baths. At the west end of the town is a small town hall, having a bell in its turret. The theatre is neatly fitted up, and has a good company. The public room and hotel stand in the centre of Gloucester-row; the assembly-room is very spacious and lofty, and the interior handsomely decorated; here are also several well furnished libraries; numerous lodging-houses, and every thing that can be adapted for the pleasure and convenience of its numerous visitors. For some years past it has been annually visited by the royal family, which has contributed much to bringing it to its present repute. The late Duke of Gloucester having passed the winter of 1780 at Weymouth, found his health so much improved, that he erected Gloucester lodge, in the front of the bay, which having been since enlarged and improved, is the royal residence during the bathing season. The port is defended by two castles, Sandford, and Portland. The harbour is a tide harbour, but the road has good anchorage in 4 or 5 fathoms. The fashionable promonade is on the Esplanade, being about half a mile long and 30 feet broad. The Lest-out, on the Weymouth side of the river, is another pleasant and much frequented walk, commanding a beautiful prospect of the bay, and Portland isles; near it is the Camera Obscura, and in the vicinity is a battery of heavy cannon, and some cavalry barracks. Two packets are stationed here for the islands of Guernsey and Jersey. At the distance of 1¼ mile from the turnpike, on the left of the Dorchester-road, is the little village of Nottington, famous for its medicinal spring, which has a strong sulphurous smell, though perfectly limpid. It sends two members to the imperial parliament, as well as two from its opposite neighbour, both those boroughs being united into one corporation by queen Elizabeth, chosen by the mayor, aldermen, and bailiffs, and capital burgesses, being inhabitants in the borough, and persons seised of freeholds within the borough. Returning officer the mayor. The market days are on Tuesdays and Friday. It is a curacy.—Lat. 50° 38′ north, long. 2° 25′ west.—Hutchins's Dorset, and Guide to the Watering Places.

Whaddon, a parish in the hundred of Armingford, Cambridge, 3 miles from Royston and 41 from London; containing 37 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

Whaddon, a parish in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, 3 miles from Gloucester and 103 from London; containing 18 houses and 88 inhabitants. It is a curacy, under the prebend thereof, in the church of Hereford. The prebendary being rated at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Whaddon, a parish in the hundred of Melksham, Wilts, 2 miles from Melksham and 98 from London; containing 10 houses and 36 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.*

Whaley Bridge, a township in the parish of Taxal, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, situated on the river Goyt and borders of Derbyshire, 4 miles from Chapel le Frith and 169 from London, leading to Stockport; containing 44 houses and 225 inhabitants.

Whalley, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 8 miles from Blackburn and 211 from London; the village of Whalley contains only 154 houses and 876 inhabitants, but the parish is of great extent and very populous, including the borough of Clitheroe, and numerous townships, having a population of upwards of 40,000 persons. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Whaplode, a parish in the hundred of Elloe, and division of Holland, Lincolnshire, 2¼ miles from Crowland and 96 from London; containing 247 houses and 1271 inhabitants, including the hamlet of Whaplode Drove. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Wharkton, a parish in the hundred of Huxloe. Northampton, 1¼ mile from Kettering and 75 from London; containing 43 houses and 220 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*

Wharram Percey, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Malton and 220 from London; containing 3 houses and 38 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Wharram Street, a township in the foregoing parish, and one mile therefrom; containing 18 houses and 112 inhabitants.

Wharf, a river which rises among the hills in the western part of Yorkshire; it has a very swift and impetuous current, and joins the river Ouse.

Wharton, a township in the parish of Davenham, hundred of Northwich, Chester, 2½ miles from Middlewich and 168 from London; containing 99 houses and 752 inhabitants.

Wharton, a hamlet in the parish of Leominster, hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, near Leominster and 137 miles from London; containing 18 houses and 83 inhabitants.

Wharton, a hamlet in the parish of Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, near Rothbury and 307 miles from London; containing 10 houses and 66 inhabitants.

Wharton, a township in the parish of Kirby Stephen, east ward Westmoreland, 3 miles from Kirby Stephen, and 268 from London; containing 14 houses and 80 inhabitants.

Whatcott, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 3 miles from Shipston, and 66 from London; containing 34 houses and 199 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Northampton.

Whatcroft, a hamlet in the parish of Davenham, hundred of Northwich, Chester, near Northwich, 170 miles from London; containing 10 houses and 85 inhabitants.

Whateley. See Wheatley, Oxford.

Whateley, a hamlet in the parish of Kingsbury and hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, near Tamworth.

Whatfield, a parish in the hundred of Cosford, Suffolk, 2 miles from Hadleigh and 66 from London; containing 34 houses and 199 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 0*s.* 5*d.*

Whatley, a parish in the hundred of Frome, Somerset, situated on a small stream that falls into the Frome, 3 miles from Frome and 108 from London; containing 62 houses and 304 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

Whatlington. See Watlington, Sussex.

Whatton, a parish in the hundred of Bingham, Notts, 2¼ miles from Bingham and 122 from London; containing 73 houses and 308 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Whatton, Long, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Loughborough and 112 from London; containing 119 houses and 612 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Wheatenhurst, a parish in the hundred of Whitstone, Gloucester, 6 miles from Stroud and 108 from London; containing 57 houses and 287 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wheatfield, a hamlet in the parish of South Weston, hundred of Pirton, Oxford, 2½ miles from Watlington and 48 from London; containing 4 houses and 39 inhabitants.

Wheathampstead, a parish in the hundred of Dacorum, Herts, situated on the river Lea, 4 miles from Welwyn and 25 from London; containing 201 houses and 1043 inhabitants. The church is an ancient building in the form of a cathedral. It is a rectory, value 42*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* with Harpenden chapel, annexed, in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

Wheathill, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 5 miles from Bruton; containing 8 houses and 45 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*

Wheatley, a hamlet in the parish of Chipping, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Blackburn, the population of which was returned with Thornley.

Wheatley, a township and chapelry in the parish of Cuddesdon, hundred of Bullington, Oxford, divided from Tetsworth, by the river Thame, over which it has a bridge, 5½ miles from Oxford, and 48¾ from London; containing 154 houses and 685 inhabitants.

Wheatley, a hamlet in the parish and soke of Doncaster, west riding of York.

Wheatley Carr, an extensive parochial village in the hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, near Kirkham; containing 8 houses and 42 inhabitants.

Wheatley, North, a parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 5 miles from Retford and 150 from London; containing 70 houses and 371 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 3*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

Wheatley, South, a parish united with the foregoing, half a mile distant therefrom containing 6 houses and 41 inhabitants.

Wheaton Aston, a township and chapelry in the parish of Lapley, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, situated on a small river that runs into the Severn, 4 miles from Penkridge and 132 from London; containing 106 houses and 565 inhabitants.

Wheeler, a river in Denbighshire, Wales, which falls into the Clwdd.

Wheelock, a river in Cheshire, which falls into the Dane, below Middlewich.

Wheelock, a small hamlet on the banks of the foregoing river, near the Grand Trunk canal, in the parish of Sandbach, from which it is distant 1¼ mile.

Wheelton, a township in the parish and hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Chorley and 210 from London; containing 103 houses and 583 inhabitants.

Wheldrake, a parish in the wapentake of Owz and Derwent, east riding of York, 6 miles from York and 194 from London; containing 88 houses and 493 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of York.

Whenby, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 12 miles from York and 211 from London; containing 19 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Whepstead, a parish in the hundred of Thingoe, Suffolk, 4 miles from Bury St. Edmunds and 70 from London; containing 77 houses and 546 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

Wherstead, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, 2½ miles from Ipswich and 67 from London; containing 30 houses and 237 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Wherwell, a parish in the hundred of the same name and division of Andover, Lammermuir hills, 5 miles from Haddington; containing 130 houses and 658 inhabitants. Near the village of Traquene Law stands Hailes Castle, noted for the residence of queen Mary and Bothwell. On one of the Lammermuir hills, called Priest's Law, are the remains of a very strong and regular fortification.

WHITTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 4 miles from Cheltenham, and 91 from London; containing 39 houses and 194 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WHITTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 1¼ mile from Kirby Lonsdale, and 248 from London; containing 85 houses and 384 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

WHITTINGTON, GREAT, a township in the parish of Corbridge, Tindal ward, Northumberland, lying in a rich cultivated vale, 4 miles from Corbridge, and 282 from London; containing 42 houses and 172 inhabitants.

WHITTINGTON LITTLE, a hamlet in the preceding township, adjoining thereto; containing 4 houses and 20 inhabitants.

WHITTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Oswestry, Salop, 2 miles from Oswestry; containing 228 houses and 1398 inhabitants. It was anciently a market town, and had a castle, a part of the ruins of which are still observable. The living is a rectory, value 25*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

WHITTINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 2¼ miles from Litchfield, and 121 from London; containing 109 houses and 611 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITTINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Peter's, Worcester, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcestershire, adjoining to Worcester, and containing 30 houses and 105 inhabitants.

WHITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Glossop, hundred of High Peak, Derby, near Glossop, the population of which was included with Beard and Ollersett.

WHITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Shilbottle, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Alnwick, containing 13 houses and 64 inhabitants.

WHITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Ovingham, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Corbridge; containing 6 houses and 31 inhabitants.

WHITTLEBURY, a township in the parish and hundred of Green's Norton, Northampton, 3 miles from Towcester; containing 110 houses and 533 inhabitants. Whittlebury Forest, according to survey, is 9¼ miles long, and averages about 2½ miles in breadth, being tolerably well wooded. The wild cat is still to be seen in this tract. Many of the neighbouring townships are allowed a right of commonage in the open coppices. The duke of Grafton was appointed hereditary ranger of this forest in 1685, and he has an elegant mansion here called Wakefield Lodge, originally built by Mr. Claypole, son-in-law of Oliver Cromwell.

WHITTLE-LE-WOLD, a township in the parish and hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Chorley, and 210 from London; containing 216 houses and 1325 inhabitants.

WHITTLESEY, ST. ANDREW'S and ST. MARY'S, two united parishes in the Isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, situated on the Great Bedford Level, 27 miles from Cambridge, and 76 miles from London; containing 734 houses and 3831 inhabitants The parishes are divided by the Whittlesey Dike, and each contains a neat little church built of Stone. White Mere, or the White Sea, is a lake formed by a branch of the Nen, and numerous d k s or drains from the fens lying in Huntingdonshire, between Whittlesey and Stilton. It is about 5 or 6 miles long, and from 2 to 3 broad, abounding with excellent fish, great quantities of which are sent to the London market. The neighbourhood is very rich in pasture, but extremely fowey and unhealthy, few persons continuing to live therein except the natives. The church of St. Andrew's is a vicarage, rated at 4*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king; united with the vicarage of St. Mary's, rated at 19*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

WHITTLESFORD, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Cambridgeshire, 5 miles from Cambridge, and 46 from London; containing 60 houses and 416 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* in the patronage of Jesus College, Cambridge.

WHITTON, a township in the parish of Grindon, Stockton ward, Durham, 6 miles from Stockton, and 254 from London; containing 11 houses and 38 inhabitants.

WHITTON, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Burton, and 166 from London; containing 47 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.*

WHITTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Isleworth, Middlesex, 9 miles from London.

WHITTON, a township in the parish o Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 1 mile from Rothbury, and 305 from London; containing 21 houses and 84 inhabitants.

WHITTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Greet, hundred of Overs, Salop, 4 miles from Ludlow, and 140 from London; containing 11 houses and 62 inhabitants.

WHITTON, a parish united with Thurlton, in the liberties of Ipswich, Suffolk, near Ipswich containing 36 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 6*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* united with Thurlton in the patronage of the bishop o Ely.

WHITTON, a parish in the hundred of Kefenlys, Radnorshire, Wales, 3 miles from Presteigne; containing 21 houses and 109 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. David's.

WHITTONSTALLS, a township in the parish of Bywell St. Peter's, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Corbridge, and 273 from London; containing 49 houses and 258 inhabitants.

WHITWELL, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 4 miles from Worksop, and 151 from London; containing 162 houses and 782 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Rutland.

WHITWELL, an extra parochial hamlet in Easington ward, Durham, 2 miles from Durham; containing 4 houses and 27 inhabitants.

WHITWELL, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 1 mile from Reepham, and 112 from London; containing 67 houses and 313 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.*

WHITWELL, a parish in the hundred of Alstoe, Rutland, 4½ miles from Oakham, and 91 from London; containing 17 houses and 80 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the earl of Gainsborough.

WHITWELL, a township and chapelry in the parish of Gadshill, in the division of East Medina, Isle of Wight, Hants, 7 miles from Newport; containing 64 houses and 405 inhabitants.

WHITWELL, a township in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 4 miles from Kendal; containing 37 houses and 192 inhabitants, including Selside.

WHITWELL, a township in the parish of Crambe, Gilling East wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Richmond, and 230 from London; containing 13 houses and 77 inhabitants.

WHITWICK, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 5 miles from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 116 from London; containing 160 houses and 817 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* united with Thringston and Swannington, in the patronage of the king, as duke of Lancaster.

WHITWOOD, a township in the parish of Featherstone, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Pontefract, and 181 from London; containing 41 houses and 233 inhabitants.

WHITWORTH, a parish in Darlington ward, Durham, 4 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 261 from London; containing 19 houses and 112 inhabitants. It is a vicarage not charged in the king's books, and is in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Durham.

WHITWORTH a hamlet in the parish of Rochdale, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Rochdale; containing 445 houses and 2414 inhabitants, including Brandwood.

WHIXLEY, a parish in Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Knaresborough, and 206 from London; containing 72 houses and 378 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

WHIXO, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 4 miles from Haverhill, and 54 from London; containing 24 houses and 130 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

WHORLTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Gainsford, Darlington ward, Durham, 4 miles from Barnard Castle, and 242 from London; containing 50 houses and 245 inhabitants.

WHORLTON, EAST and WEST, two adjoining hamlets in the parish of Newburn, Castle ward, Northumberland, near the Picts wall, 5 miles from Newcastle; containing 12 houses and 58 inhabitants.

WHORLTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Rudby, Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Stokesly, and 236 from London; containing 121 houses and 544 inhabitants.

WHYKIN, a hamlet in the parish of Hinckley, hundred of Sparkenhoe, Leicester, 1½ mile from Hinckley, and 101 from London; containing 12 houses and 88 inhabitants.

WIBDEN, a hamlet in the parish of Tiddenham, Gloucester, near Chepstow.

WIBSEY, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bradford, Morley wapentake, west riding of York, near Bradford, and population included therewith.

WIBTOFT, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Claybrooke, Leicester, although lying in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Hinckley, and 101 from London; containing 11 houses and 75 inhabitants. The two Roman military roads called the Watling Street and Fossway, meet here. Wibtoft is supposed to have been the site of a Roman station.

WICHNOR, a hamlet in the parish of Tatenhill, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 9 miles from Tamworth, and 124 from London; containing 20 houses and 133 inhabitants.

WICK, a township in the parish and hundred of Pucklechurch, Gloucester, 5 miles from Marshfield, and 107 from London; containing 111 houses and 571 inhabitants.

WICK, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of St. Andrew's, Pershore, hundred of Pershore, Worcester, near Pershore; containing 42 houses and 262 inhabitants.

WICK, a township and chapelry in the parish of Brides Major, hundred of Ogmore, Glamorganshire, Wales, 6 miles from Cowbridge; containing 63 houses and 259 inhabitants.

WICK, a royal borough on the east coast of the shire of Caithness, Scotland, seated at the mouth of a small river of the same name, 15 miles from Thurso; containing 884 houses and 3986 inhabitants, of whom 1015 were returned as being employed in various trades; but the chief branch of commerce is its fisheries. It is governed by a provost, 2 bailies, 7 counsellors, a treasurer, and dean of guild, and joins with Kirkwall, Dornoch, Dingwall, and Tain, in sending 1 member to the imperial parliament. Wick is the county town of Caithness, and the seat of the sheriff's court.

WICK, shire of, see CAITHNESS.

WICKEN, a parish in the hundred of Staploe, Cambridge, 5 miles from Newmarket, and 66 from London; containing 84 houses and 614 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WICKEN, a parish in the hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 3 miles from Stoney Stratford, and 54 from London; containing 71 houses and 367 inhabitants.

WICKENBONHUNT, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 4 miles from Saffron Walden, and 40 from London; containing 24 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.*

Wickenby, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2¼ miles from Wragby, and 147 from London; containing 21 houses and 119 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

Wickenford, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 5 miles from Worcester, and 117 from London; containing 53 houses and 357 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

Wickerslack, a hamlet in the parish of Crosby Ravensworth, West ward, Westmoreland.

Wickersley, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 3½ miles from Rotheram, and 155 from London; containing 55 houses and 275 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 2*d.*

Wickford, a parish in the hundred of Barnstaple, Essex, 7 miles from Billericay, and 30 from London; containing 25 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.*

Wickham St. Paul's, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 4½ miles from Sudbury, and 50 from London; containing 49 houses and 316 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 9*l.* and is a peculiar in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's.

Wickham Bishops, a parish in the hundred of Thurstable, Essex, 3 miles from Witham, and 40 from London; containing 67 houses and 329 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 12*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of London.

Wickham, a parish in the hundred of Titchfield, division of Portsdown, Hants, 3½ miles from Bishop Waltham, and 70½ from London; containing 142 houses and 901 inhabitants. Formerly it was much more considerable, and is noted as the birth place of the famous William of Wickham, in the reign of Edward II. It has a fair the 20th May, and is a rectory, value 8*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

Wickham, East, a township and chapelry in the parish of Plumsted, hundred of Lessness, and lathe of Sutton at Hone, Kent, 10 miles from London; containing 37 houses and 277 inhabitants.

Wickham, West, a parish in the hundred of Chilford, Cambridge, 5 miles from Linton; containing 78 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wickham, West, a parish in the hundred of Ruxley, lathe of Sutton at Hone, Kent, 3½ miles from Croydon and Bromley; containing 75 houses and 436 inhabitants, including the hamlet of Wickham Green. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

Wickham, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 108 from London; containing 25 houses and 105 inhabitants.

Wickham, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Spalding, hundred of Elloe, and division of Holland, Lincoln, adjoining to Spalding.

Wickhambreux, a parish in the hundred of Downhamford, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3½ miles from Canterbury, and 59 from London; containing 65 houses and 411 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 29*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Wickhambrook, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 6 miles from Clare, and 61 from London; containing 145 houses and 1002 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Wickham, Childs, see Childs Wickham, Gloucester.

Wickhamford, a parish in the hundred of Blakenhurst, Worcester, 2 miles from Evesham, and 95 from London; containing 25 houses and 125 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ Church, Oxford.

Wickham Market, a parish in the hundred of Wilford, Suffolk, 4¼ miles from Woodbridge, and 82 from London, on the river Deben; containing 90 houses and 896 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town, and is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* the patron is the king.

Wickhampton, a parish in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Acle, and 120 from London; containing 12 houses and 87 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.*

Wickham Skeith, a parish in the hundred of Hartismore, Suffolk, 3 miles from Mendlesham, and 82 from London; containing 60 houses and 442 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

Wicklewood, a parish in the hundred of Forehoe, Norfolk, 2 miles from Wymondham, and 102 from London; containing 146 houses and 696 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*

Wicklow, a county of Ireland, lying in the province of Leinster; bounded on the north by the county of Dublin, on the south by Wexford and a part of Carlow, on the west by Carlow and Kildare, and on the east by the Irish channel, being about 30 miles in length, and from 15 to 26 in breadth; containing 58 parishes, 11,600 houses, and about 58,000 inhabitants. For the most part it is extremely mountainous and woody, interspersed with numerous rocks and bogs; yet it produces some considerable rich veins of copper and other minerals, and even gold has been discovered, but in too small quantities to be worth the expence of working. This county is well watered, and the vallies are fertile and well cultivated, and the whole affords many beautiful and romantic views.

Wicklow, the county town of the county of Wicklow, seated on the sea shore at the mouth of the river Leitrim, 24 miles from Dublin. It possesses a considerable trade to and from Dublin in various articles of provision. The entrance of the harbour is narrow, and about 1½ mile to the S. E. is Wicklow Head, on which are two light-houses. Wicklow has long been noted for the excellence of its ale.

Wickmere, a parish in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aylsham, and 121 from London; containing 24 houses, and 273 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l*.

WICKTON, a hamlet in the parish of Leominster, hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, adjoining Leominster, and 157 miles from London; containing 17 houses and 100 inhabitants.

WICK UFFORD, a hamlet in the parish of St. Clement's, Ipswich, adjoining to Ipswich; containing 80houses, and 213inhabitants. The population was not returned to government.

WICKWAR, a market town and parish in the hundred of Grumbald's Ash, Gloucester, situated on two streams, over one of which is a handsome stone bridge, 17 miles from Bristol, 5 miles from Wooton-under-Edge, and 111 from London; containing 157 houses and 764 inhabitants. The church is a spacious building, having two ailes, with a lofty tower at the west end, ornamented with pinnacles. Anciently this place was a considerable borough, and is still governed by a mayor and aldermen. Here is a good free school, endowed by one Alexander Hosea, a native of this place. This town has a trifling market on Monday, and its fairs are the 6th April and 24th June, the profits of which belong to the mayor. The living is a rectory, value 18*l*.

WICKWICK, a small hamlet, near Chipping Sodbury, in Gloucestershire.

WIDDIALL, a parish in the hundred of Edwintree, Herts, 6 miles from Royston, and 31 from London; containing 31 houses and 181 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l*.

WIDDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Uttlesford, Essex, 3½ miles from Saffron Walden, and 39 from London; containing 57 houses and 340 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 25*l*.

WIDDRINGTON, a township in the parish of Woodhorn, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, seated on an eminence, 7 miles from Morpeth, and 289 from London; containing 94 houses and 446 inhabitants.

WIDFORD, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 1¼ mile from Chelmsford, and 27½ from London; containing 20 houses and 114 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l*.

WIDFORD, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 2 miles from Burford, and 75 from London; containing only 8 houses and 40 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l*. 14*s*. 2*d*.

WIDFORD, a parish in the hundred of Braughin, Herts, seated on the little river Ash, 4 miles from Ware, and 22 from London; containing 75 houses and 361 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*. and the patron is the king.

WIDLEY, a parish in the hundred and division of Portsdown, Hants, 4 miles from Fareham, and 70 from London; containing 50 houses and 277 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l*. 1*s*. 10*d*.

WIDMER, a small hamlet in the parish of Great Marlow, hundred of Desborough, Bucks.

WIDMORE POOL, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff Notts, 9 miles from Nottingham, and 115 from London; containing 42 houses and 206 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l*. 16*s*. in the patronage of the heirs of the duke of Kingston.

WIDNESS, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Prescott; containing 219 houses and 1063 inhabitants.

WIDWORTHY, a parish in the hundred of Colyton, Devon, 3½ miles from Honiton, and 153 from London; containing 45 houses and 245 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l*. 16.

WIGAN, a borough, market town and parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, situated near the small river Douglas, 12 miles from Prescott, and 200 from London; containing 2177 houses and 10,989 inhabitants, of whom 6867 were returned as being employed in various branches of manufactures. Of late years this town has much increased in population, trade, and buildings; and several new streets have been erected, containing many handsome houses. The church is a stately edifice, the tower of which contains 8 bells. It has also a neat chapel of ease; and in this, as in most of the manufacturing towns, there are several chapels for various classes of dissenters. The town hall was erected in 1720, at the joint expence of the earl of Barrymore and sir Roger Bradshaw. In a field near the Scroles bridge, a sulphureous spring has lately been discovered, said much to resemble the Harrowgate Spa: near it a neat building has been erected for the convenience of those either drinking the waters or using it as a hot or cold bath. There was another remarkable well in existence here some years since, from which issued a sulphureous vapour, causing the water to bubble as if boiling; but it is now lost, owing to the coal works which are carried on near it. At the end of the town is a monument to the memory of sir Thomas Tyldsley, a general officer who served king Charles at the battle of Edgehill, and was killed on this spot, in 1650. Wigan is incorporated under a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen, 2 bailiffs, and inferior officers, and returns 2 members to the imperial parliament, chosen by the free burgesses: number of voters about 200, and the returning officer the mayor. The market is on Friday; and its fairs are on Holy Thursday and 28th October, for horses, cattle, and cloth; and the 27th June for horses and cattle only. The living of this parish is very valuable, and the rector is always lord of the manor. In the king's books it is rated at 80*l*. 13*s*. 4*d*. with Holland chapel annexed.

WIGBOROUGH, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Winstree, Essex, 5 miles from Colchester, and 46 from London; containing 66 houses and 285 inhabitants. The church, standing on a hill, is seen at a great distance. It is a rectory, value 18*l*. 7*s*. 6*d*.

WIGBOROUGH LITTLE, a hamlet in the fore-

Hants, situated on the river Test, 3 miles from Andover and 66 from London; containing 100 houses and 531 inhabitants. It has a small charity school, and a fair, 14th September. The living is a vicarage, value 14*l.*

WHESSOE, a hamlet in the parish of Haughton, Darlington ward, Durham, 2 miles from Darlington and 245 from London; containing 14 houses and 77 inhabitants.

WHETSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Tideswell, hundred of High Peak, Derby, near Tideswell and 160 miles from London; containing 10 houses and 47 inhabitants.

WHETSTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Enderby, hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, near the river Stour, 5 miles from Leicester and 91 from London; containing 128 houses and 589 inhabitants.

WHICHAM, a parish in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Ravenglass and 300 miles from London; containing 42 houses and 235 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.*

WHICHBURY, a parish in the hundred of Cawden and Cadworth, Wilts, 7 miles from Salisbury and 73 from London; containing 23 houses and 132 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Manchester.

WHICHFORD, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5 miles from Shipston and 60 from London; containing 85 houses and 397 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

WHICHNOR. See WICHNOR, Stafford.

WHICKHAM, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, 4 miles from Gateshead and 274 from London; containing 615 houses and 3659 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WHILLIMOOR, a hamlet in the parish of St. Bee's, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Whitehaven, and 307 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 64 inhabitants.

WHILTON, a parish in the hundred of Nobottle Grove, Northampton, 7 miles from Northampton and 72 from London; containing 61 houses and 309 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*

WHIMPLE, a parish in the hundred of Clystoff, Devon, 7 miles from Exeter and 161 from London; containing 79 houses and 483 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* in the patronage of the duke of Bedford.

WHINBURGH, a parish in the hundred of Midford, Norfolk, 3 miles from East Dereham and 100 from London; containing 24 houses and 142 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

WHINFELL, a township in the parish and ward of Kendal, Westmoreland, 7 miles from Kendal and 267 from London; containing 33 houses and 184 inhabitants.

WHINFYLL, a hamlet in the parish of Brigham, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 3 miles from Cockermouth and 299 from London; containing 16 houses and 82 inhabitants.

WHINO, a hamlet in the parish of Thursby, Cumberland ward, Cumberland.

WHIPPINGHAM, a parish in East Medina liberty, Isle of Wight, 4 miles from Cowes; containing 192 houses and 1089 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* the patron is the king.

WHIPSNADE, a parish in the hundred of Manshood, Bedford, 3 miles from Dunstable and 31 from London; containing 28 houses and 140 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

WHISENDINE, a parish in the hundred of Alstoe, Rutland, 6 miles from Oakham and 101 from London; containing 112 houses and 555 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 1*s.*

WHISBY, a hamlet in the parish of Doddington, hundred of Boothby Graffo, parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Lincoln; containing 9 houses and 49 inhabitants.

WHISHFORD, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 5 miles from Salisbury and 85 from London; containing 80 houses and 346 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*

WHISHFORD, LITTLE, a small hamlet in the foregoing parish, and adjoining thereto.

WHISSONSETT, a parish in the hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 3 miles from Fakenham and 105 from London; containing 55 houses and 387 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

WHISTANSTOW, a parish in the hundred of Munslow, Salop, 8½ miles from Ludlow and 151 from London; containing 119 houses and 586 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* in the patronage of lord Craven.

WHISTLY, a hamlet in the parish of Hurst, hundred of Charton, Berks, 5 miles from Reading and 33 from London; containing 116 houses and 616 inhabitants.

WHISTON, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Prescott; containing 196 houses and 1031 inhabitants.

WHISTON, a parish in the hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 5 miles from Northampton and 62 from London; containing 10 houses and 54 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 11*s.*

WHISTON, a township in the parish of Kingsley, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 3 miles from Cheadle and 149 from London; containing 55 houses and 300 inhabitants.

WHISTON, a parish in the wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, near Rotherham, 157 miles from London; containing 151 houses and 672 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

WHITACRE, or QUETACRE, a parish in the hundred of Clavering, Norfolk, 3 miles from Beccles and 112 from London; containing 23 houses and 151 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.*

WHITACRE BURGH. See BURGH, St. Peter's.

WHITACRE NETHER, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 3 miles from Coleshill and 106 from London; containing 72 houses and 360 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITACRE, OVER, another parish 2 miles distant from the preceding, containing 43 houses and 249 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITBECK, a parish in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 5 miles from Ravenglass, and 290 from London; containing 30 houses and 180 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITBORNE, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 3 miles from Bromyard, and 123 from London; containing 142 houses and 770 inhabitants. The bishop of Hereford had anciently a palace here, now converted into a farm-house. The living is a rectory, value 14*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop.

WHITBURN, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, 3 miles from Sunderland, and 278 from London; containing 136 houses and 675 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 39*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WHITBY, a village in the parishes of Eastham and Stoke, hundred of Wirral, Chester, near Chester; containing 29 houses and 170 inhabitants.

WHITBY, a village in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, near Chester, containing 29 houses and 170 inhabitants.

WHITBY, a sea port, market town and parish in the liberties of Whitby Strand, north riding of York, situated at the mouth of the river Eske, 12 miles from Scarborough, and 242¼ from London; containing 1596 houses and 7483 inhabitants, viz. 3271 males and 4212 females, of whom 1139 were returned as being employed in trade. This is a town of great antiquity, and appears to have had a convent founded here in the 7th century, by Oswy King of Northumberland, afterwards burnt by the Danes, but rebuilt with great splendour, after the conquest, and continued till the general dissolution. At present Whitby is a considerable town, and carries on a great trade in coals; there are also several alum works, which employ a number of hands, and it has a large share in time of peace, in the export of various articles of provision, tallow, &c. The houses are strongly built of stone, and here is a convenient custom-house. This town has suffered much from the ocean, particularly in 1787, when a strong new built quay, supporting a pile of buildings, 80 feet above the level of the sea, were destroyed, and the venerable old church, belonging to its ancient convent, standing on a cliff about 30 yards distant was near sharing the same fate. On the east side of the mouth of the harbour, are cliffs nearly perpendicular, some of them 180 feet above the level of the sea. The shore consists of a smooth flat rock, resembling slate, called by the inhabitants a Scarr, being overspread with loose ragged rocks and large stones.—Many curious shaped stones and shells are found in the stratum of the rocks, some of them supposed to have laid there ever since the deluge. The market on Saturday is well supplied with all kinds of provision. The church is a curacy under the archbishop of York.

WHITCHESTER, a hamlet in the parish of Heddon on the Wall, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 9 miles from Newcastle, and 285 from London; containing 10 houses and 57 inhabitants.

WHITCHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 4½ miles from Aylesbury, and 45 from London; containing 97 houses and 646 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 17*s.* the patronage is in the king.

WHITCHURCH, a borough, market town and parish in the hundred of Evingar, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 11½ miles from Basingstoke, and 57 from London; containing 220 houses and 1275 inhabitants, a number of whom are employed in the manufacture of shalloons and serges, and many women in making stays. The town is an ancient borough by prescription, but not incorporated, being governed by a titular mayor, chosen at the Court Leet, of the dean and chapter of Winchester, who hold the manor. It sends 2 members to parliament chosen by the freeholders of lands and tenements, (in right of themselves, or wives), which have not split since the act of the 7th and 8th of king William; number of voters about 70. Here are places of worship for several sectaries. Whitchurch is noted for a trout stream, much frequented by anglers. Market on Fridays, and Fairs the 3d Thursday in June for toys, and 19th October for pigs and sheep. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.—Warner's Hampshire.

WHITCHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Longtree, Oxford, 6 miles from Reading, and 43 from London; containing 108 houses and 577 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the crown.

WHITCHURCH, a market town and parish in the hundred of North Bradford, Salop, 9 miles from Wem, and 160 from London; containing 876 houses and 4515 inhabitants, viz. 2119 males, and 2396 females, of whom 800 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture. Its church is a fine building of the Tuscan order, erected by act of parliament in 1722, on the site of an old gothic structure. The whole is built of free stone, and at the west end is a stately square tower, surrounded by battlements at the top, containing 8 bells; the inside of the church is handsomely fitted up, and contains a fine altar-piece; here is an excellent free school, with houses for the master and usher; also a charity school for boys and girls, and a dissenting meeting-house. Market on Friday. Fairs on Whit-Monday, and the 28th October. The living is a rectory, value 44*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Bridgewater, with Marbury chapel in Cheshire annexed. The living is generally held by some of the younger branches of the Bridgewater family.

Whitchurch, or Filton, a parish in the hundred of Keynsham, Somerset, 4 miles from Bristol, and 110 from London; containing 56 houses and 362 inhabitants.

Whitchurch, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 7 miles from Shipston on Stour, and 76 from London; containing 54 houses and 236 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Whitchurch, a township and chapelry in the parish of Landaff, hundred of Caerphilly, Glamorganshire, Wales, 3 miles from Cardiff, containing 153 houses and 696 inhabitants.

Whitcliff, a hamlet in the parish and liberties of Ripon, west riding of Yorkshire.

Whitcombe, a tything in the parish of Hinton Blewett, hundred of Chewton, Somerset, 10 miles from Frome, and 115 from London; containing 19 houses and 140 inhabitants.

Whitcombe, a parish in the hundred of Colliford-tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Dorchester, and 117 from London; containing 7 houses and 47 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Whitcombe, a parish in the hundred of Dudstone and Kingsbarton, Gloucester, 5 miles from Gloucester, and 100 from London; containing 26 houses and 119 inhabitants.

White, a parish in the hundred of Frustfield, Wilts, 8 miles from Salisbury, and 89 from London; containing 182 houses and 877 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.*

Whiteburn, a parish in the shire of West Lothian, Scotland, 21 miles from Edinburgh, on the road to Hamilton; containing 518 houses and 1537 inhabitants. It is watered by the rivers Almond and Briech.

Whitechapel, a parish in the hundred of Ossulton, Middlesex, being one of the out parishes of the city of London, ½ mile from the metropolis, on the Essex road; containing 3497 houses and 23,666 inhabitants; viz. 11,103 males, and 12,561 females. It is a rectory, rated at 31*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of Brazen-nose college, Oxford.

Whitechapel, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 5½ miles from Parstang.

Whiteford, a hamlet in the parish of Colyton, Devonshire, near Lyme.

Whitechurch, a parish in the hundred of Roborough, Devon, 1 mile from Tavistock, and 206 from London; containing 79 houses and 478 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

Whitechurch, a parish in the hundred of the same name, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 4 miles from Bridport, and 138 from London; containing 172 houses and 932 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 32*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

Whitechurch, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 5 miles from Monmouth, and 127 from London; containing 142 houses and 705 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Hereford.

Whitehaven, a sea port and market town situated in the parish of St. Bees, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, lying on a bay of the Irish sea, 5 miles from Egremont, and 307 from London; containing 1776 houses and 8742 inhabitants, viz. 3548 males and 5394 females, of whom 1650 were returned as being employed in various trades. The town is well built, but in 1566 is recorded to have contained only 6 houses. It owes it present thriving situation, to the improvements in its harbour, during the reign of queen Anne, when several strong and substantial moles and bulwarks were erected, which completely secured vessels from the Corfe rocks. There are 3 churches, St. James, the Trinity and Hold Church: several meeting houses for various sectaries, a public dispensary, charity schools, &c. Besides the extensive coal mines in the neighbourhood, extending 130 fathoms deep, and in many places a considerable way under the sea, there are several copperas works. On the old quay is erected a light house; and the entrance of the harbour is defended by a fort and half moon battery. This port has a Custom-house, with regular officers attached to it, and in the coal trade is reckoned the most eminent in England, next to Newcastle. In March 1793, this town suffered by a storm, when the tide rose 6 feet above its usual height. In the American war, the pirate, Paul Jones, landed here, burnt two small ships on the stocks, and spiked the guns on the battery. The market on Tuesday is well supplied with all kinds of provisions, and it has a fair the 12th August; here are two public banks. The churches are curacies, in the patronage of the Lowther family.—Hutchinson's Cumberland.

Whitehill, a hamlet in the parish of Tackley, Oxfordshire.

White Lady Aston, a parish in the hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 4 miles from Worcester, and 108 from London; containing 45 houses and 266 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.*

Whitesidelaw, a township in the parish of Chollerton, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Corbridge, and 284 from London; containing 98 houses and 182 inhabitants.

Whitestone, a parish in the hundred of Wonford, Devon, 3½ miles from Exeter, and 171 from London; containing 91 houses and 471 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*

Whitfield, or Beaufield, a parish in the hundred of Bewsborough, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 3 miles from Dover, and 68 from London; containing 32 houses and 164 inhabitants.

Whitfield, a parish in the hundred of King's Sutton, Northampton, 2 miles from Brackley, and 65 from London; containing 48 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of Worcester college, Oxford.

WHITFIELD, a parish in Tindal ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Haltwhistle, and 309 from London; containing 72 houses and 393 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

WHITFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Shute, hundred of Colyton, Devon.

WHITGIFT, a parish in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 7 miles from Burton on Stather, and 170 from London; containing 56 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITGREAVE, a township in the parish of St. Mary's Stafford, hundred of Pirehill, Staffordshire, 3 miles from Stafford; containing 38 houses and 217 inhabitants.

WHITHAM, FRIARY, a parish in the hundred of Frome, Somersetshire, 5 miles from Frome, and 104 from London; containing 71 houses and 485 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITEHERN, or WHITHORN, a royal borough in the shire of Wigton, Scotland, situated on the bay of Wigton, where a stream of water falls into the harbour. The town consists chiefly of one street, intersected by several alleys, containing 363 houses and 1904 inhabitants. In the center of the town stands the town-hall, adorned with Turrets and a neat spire. The houses here are neatly built, and a stream of water runs across the main street, over which is a bridge. The town is governed by a provost, 2 bailies, and 15 councellors, and unites with Wigton, New Galloway and Stranraer, in sending one member to the Imperial parliament. There are still some remains of its once stately cathedral, when it was one of the bishoprics in Scotland.

WHITLEY, a township in the parish of Tynemouth, Castle-ward, Northumberland, near Tynemouth; containing 55 houses and 251 inhabitants.

WHITLEY, a tything in the parish of St. Giles, Reading, Berks, 2 miles from Reading; and containing 5 houses and 28 inhabitants.

WHITLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Melksham, Wilts.

WHITLEY, near Coventry, Warwick, a little above the conflux of the rivers Sherborn and Sow, now reduced to only the manor house.

WHITLEY, LOWER, a hamlet in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Bucklow, Chester, 4 miles from Northwich, containing 21 houses and 137 inhabitants.

WHITLEY, UPPER or OVER, an adjoining hamlet in the same parish; containing 45 houses and 283 inhabitants.

WHITLEY, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, 10 miles from Worcester, and 122 from London; containing 73 houses and 425 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WHITLEY, LOWER, a township in the parish of Thornhill, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Wakefield, and 187 from London; containing 151 houses and 819 inhabitants.

WHITLEY, a township in the parish of Kellington Osgoldcross wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Pontefract, and 182 from London; containing 41 houses and 225 inhabitants.

WHITMOOR, a hamlet in the parish of Stoke, hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 2 miles from Newcastle, and 151 from London; containing 38 houses and 234 inhabitants.

WHITNASH, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 3 miles from Warwick, and 88 from London; containing 30 houses and 203 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

WHITNEY, a parish in the hundred of Huntingdon, Hereford, 5 miles from Hay, and 153 from London; containing 44 houses and 199 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 8*s.*

WHITNEY, a hamlet in the parish of Uplowman, hundred of Halberton, Devon.

WHITRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Hartburn, Morpeth ward, Northumberland; containing 2 houses and 10 inhabitants.

WHITRIGG, a hamlet in the parish of Torpenhow, Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, near Cockermouth.

WHITSAND BAY, near St. David's, Pembrokeshire, at the entrance of which lie the rocks called the Bishop and his Clerks.

WHITSOM, a parish united with Hilton, in the shire of Berwick, Scotland, 10 miles from Berwick, and containing 114 houses and 560 inhabitants; but the village of Whitsom, contains only 140 inhabitants.

WHITSTAPLE, a parish in the hundred of the same name, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 7 miles from Canterbury, containing 138 houses and 1205 inhabitants. It is a small port, from whence the city of Canterbury is supplied with coals, and has several trading vessels to London. Here is a considerable oyster fishery. The church is an extensive building. Off Whitstaple is the Puddingpan rock, often dangerous to vessels. It has a fair on Good-Friday. The living is a curacy, in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

WHITSTONE, a parish, in the hundred of Stratton, Cornwall, 4 miles from Stratton, and 218 from London; containing 61 houses and 345 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 11*s.* in the patronage of the University of Oxford.

WHITTADER, or WHITEWATER, a river in Berwickshire, rising in the Lammermuir mountains, on the borders of East Lothian, and falling into the Tweed, 5 miles from Berwick.

WHITTINGHAM, a parish in Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Rothbury, and 311 from London, on the river Alne. It contains [illegible]ses and 512 inhabitants, and is a vica[illegible] value 12*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

WHITTINGHAM, a par[illegible] in the shire of Haddington Scotland, situated among the Plate XXXVIII.

Published January 1.1808, by R. Phillips Bridge Street Blackfriars London.

and Litchurch, Derby, 7 miles from Derby, and 120 from London; containing 108 houses and 580 inhabitants.

WILNE, a hamlet in the parish of Coughton, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Alcester.

WILNECOTE, a township in the parish of Tamworth, hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, near Tamworth; containing 97 houses and 424 inhabitants.

WILPSHIRE, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Blackburn; containing 63 houses and 275 inhabitants.

WILSDEN, a township in the parish of Bradford, Morley, wapentake, west riding of York, near Bradford, and 197 miles from London; containing 189 houses and 913 inhabitants.

WILSFORD, a parish in the hundred of Winnibrigg and Threw, Lincolnshire, 3 miles from Sleaford, and 116 from London; containing 60 houses and 251 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

WILSFORD, a parish in the hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 5 miles from Market Lavington, and 80 from London; containing 35 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 10*s.* belonging to the prebend thereof in Salisbury cathedral.

WILSFORD, a parish united with Woodford, in the hundred of Underditch, Wilts, 6 miles from Salisbury, and 86 from London; containing 23 houses and 99 inhabitants.

WILSTON, a township in the parish of Puttenham, hundred of Dacorum, Herts, 2½ miles from Tring, and 34 from London; containing 61 houses and 276 inhabitants.

WILTON, a parish in the hundred of Grimshoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Brandon, and 80 from London; containing, including the united parish of Hockwold, 132 houses and 616 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of Gonvil and Caius college, Cambridge, united with Hockwold.

WILTON, a parish in the hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, near Taunton, and 145 miles from London; containing 68 houses and 331 inhabitants.

WILTON, a borough, market town, and parish, in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, situated on the river Willy, 3 miles from Salisbury, and 83 from London; containing 344 houses and 2144 inhabitants, a considerable number of whom are employed in the carpet and clothing manufactures, for the former of which it has long been particularly noted. It is recorded by Leland, to have had 12 parish churches; but although this has been doubted by other historians, it was certainly much more considerable before the great western road was turned through Salisbury, and the demolition of its religious houses. At present it is the county town, and sends two members to parliament, chosen by the mayor and burgesses. The corporation consists of a mayor, recorder, and five aldermen, &c. It has a well-endowed free-school, for the clothing, educating, and apprenticing 24 boys: there is also a charity of 30*l.* per annum, for marriage portions, to young women natives of the town; besides several smaller charities. During the time of the Saxons, Wilton was the see of a bishop, created by Edward the Elder, out of the diocese of Sherborne. It has now a market on Wednesday, and its fairs are 4th May, for cattle and sheep, and 12th September, for sheep and horses. Wilton house, the seat of the earl of Pembroke, is the most magnificent house in the county; it was begun on the ruins of a sequestered abbey, in the latter end of the reign of Henry VIII. but not finished till many years after; the greater part of it was finished under the direction of Inigo Jones. The river Willey is formed into a canal before the house, and lies parallel with the road. In the court before the front, is a column of white Egyptian granite, on the top of which is a statue of Venus, brought from the ruins of ancient Rome. In the front of the house is also a statue, of black marble, representing one of the Persian kings. The whole of the avenues, staircases, and chambers, are ornamented with most curious statues, vases, and antiques, collected from all parts of the world, and paintings by the most celebrated English and foreign artists. The furniture is the most magnificent that could be procured, being the production of eminent masters in sculpture and painting. In short, a brief detail of the whole would furnish a volume of itself. Here sir Philip Sidney wrote his Arcadia. The living is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Pembroke, with Netherhampton, Boulbridge, and Ditchampton chapels annexed.

WILTON, a township in the parish of Ellerburn, Pickering lythe, north riding of York, 4 miles from Pickering, and 225 from London; containing 29 houses and 186 inhabitants.

WILTON, a parish in Langborough wapentake, north riding of York, 5 miles from Gisborough, and 256 from London; containing 67 houses and 328 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WILTON, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, situated half way between Jedburgh and Hawick; containing 256 houses and 1307 inhabitants; noted for its manufacture of Scotch carpeting.

WILSTROP, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkhammerton, in the Ainstey of York, 7 miles from York, and 205 from London; containing 15 houses and 92 inhabitants.

WILSTROP, or WILSTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Bridlington, Dickering lythe, east riding of York, 3 miles from Bridlington; the population of which was returned included with Hilderthorpe.

WILTSHIRE, an inland county of England, bounded on the north by Gloucestershire; on the east by Berkshire and Hampshire; on the south by Dorsetshire; and on the west by Somersetshire and Gloucestershire. Its form is oval, being about 54 miles long, and 34 broad, the area of the county being 1283 square statute miles, equal to 821,120 square acres, of which 150,000 acres are supposed to be arable, and 250,000 pasturage. Wiltshire is divided into 28 hundreds, viz. Alderbury, Amesbury, Bradford, Branch and Dole, Calne, Cawden, Chalk, Chippenham, Damerham North and South, Downton, Dunworth, Elstub and Everley, Frustfield, Heitsbury, Highworth, Kingsbridge, Kinwardstone, Malmsbury, Mere, Melksham, Pottern and Canning, Ramsbury, Selkley, Swanborough, Underditch, Warminster, Westbury and Whorlesdown; containing one city, Salisbury; 15 boroughs, Bedwin, Calne, Chippenham, Cricklade, Devizes, Dowpton Heytesbury, Hindon, Ludgershall, Malmsbury, Marlborough, Sarum, Westbury, Wilton and Wooton Basset, and 8 other market-towns, viz. Amesbury, Bradford, Highworth, Market Lavington, Mere, Swindon, Trowbridge and Warminster, the whole containing 304 parishes, 29,462 houses inhabited by 185,107 persons, viz. 87,788 males, and 97,727 females, of whom 39,422 were returned as being employed in trade, handicrafts and manufacture, and 53,517 in agriculture. Wiltshire lies in the province of Canterbury, and diocese of Salisbury, and is included in the western circuit; amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, 148,661*l.* being at the rate of 4*s.* 7¼*d.* in the pound; total amount of assessment under the property tax, 1806, 1,821,783*l.*, and the average scale of mortality, from the registered burials of 10 years, appears to have been as 1 to 56 of the existing population. Its principal rivers are the Thames, the Upper and Lower Avon, the Bourn, the Willy, Nadder and Kennet. The Thames waters only a small part of the northern extremity; the Upper Avon rises near Devizes, and passes Salisbury into Hampshire; the Lower Avon rises to the north west of Malmsbury, on the borders of Gloucester, passing Chippenham and Bradford, and enters Somersetshire; the Bourn rises near Great Bedwin, and joins the Upper Avon, near Salisbury; the Willy rises near Warminster, and also falls into the Avon; the Nadder rises near Shaftsbury, and falls into the Willy at Wilton, and the Kennet rises near Abury, passing Marlborough into Berkshire at Hungerford. The southern part of the county comprehends those chalk hills, called Wiltshire Downs, mostly divided into arable land and sheep walks. The Downs may again be divided into two principal sub-divisions, called Salisbury Plain, and Marlborough Downs; containing nearly 500,000 acres. The soil is chiefly chalk and flint, intermixed with a chalky loam; but there are some very singular sand veins running through a large portion of this district; the climate of these Downs is well known for its coldness and keenness. In this part of the county it is computed that there is annually bred, at least 150,000 lambs, and that the summer stock of sheep, including lambs, is 500,000. The large white long eared pig, peculiar to this district, has long procured this county its deserved character for excellent bacon. The soil of the northern district is not so uniform as that of the southern; the greater proportion of it is a loose irregular mass of flat broken stones, called Corngrate, and often serves for slates to cover houses; the soil above this is chiefly a reddish calcareous loam, with intervening veins of blue clay. Brandon forest, between Cricklade and Malmsbury, is composed of iron clay, to the very surface. The cheese of this district was for many years sold in the London markets, by the name of Gloucester cheese, but it is now found even superior to that of Gloucester, and is well known by the name of North Wiltshire. The manufactures are those of superfine broad cloth, fustians, thicksets, bed-ticking and carpeting. There are in this county a number of ancient camps, and 3 Roman roads. The county sends 34 members to parliament. For its antiquities see ABURY SILBURY, STONEHENGE, &c.

WILTSHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Gretford, hundred of Ness, and division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 3¼ miles from Market Deeping and 94 from London; containing 14 houses and 80 inhabitants.

WILY, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, near Amesbury and 80 miles from London; containing 68 houses and 332 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

WIMBISH, a parish in the hundred of Utlesford, Essex, 3 miles from Saffron Waldon and 45 from London; containing 133 houses and 709 inhabitants. The rectory rated at 12*l.* is a sinecure, and the vicarage rated at 8*l.* with Thundersley annexed, is in the patronage of the rector.

WIMBLETON, a parish in the hundred of Brixton, Surry, 7 miles from London; containing 250 houses and 1591 inhabitants. Its church is a new building of the Grecian stile, erected at the sole expence of the inhabitants (except the chancel) in 1788; at one corner of the church-yard is a sepulchre of brick and stone, for the family of the noted Benjamin Bond Hopkins, esq. Wimbledon Common, which joins to that of Putney, is about a mile square, and was formerly noted for robberies; it has now many handsome residences around it. Earl Spencer has a handsome mansion here; the original house was built by the son of the lord treasurer Burleigh in 1588, and afterwards rebuilt by Sarah duchess of Marlborough, but it was burnt down in 1785. The park and grounds are laid out in great taste, containing an area of 1200 acres. On this common is a well, the water of which is never known to freeze. The living is a rectory, value 35*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester.

WIMBLETON, a township in the parish of Kirkdale, Rydal wapentake, north riding of York, near Helmsley and 220 miles from London; containing 41 houses and 220 inhabitants.

WIMBLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Doddington, Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 3¼ miles from March and 78 from London; containing 97 houses and 557 inhabitants.

WIMBOLDESLEY. See WELMSLOW, Chester.

WIMBORN, ALL SAINTS and ST. GILES, two united parishes adjoining each other, in the hundred of Knowlton, and division of Shaston Dorset, situated on the river Allen, 2 miles from Cranborn and 95 from London; containing 68 houses and 350 inhabitants. This parish although so small has a large alms-house. Near the church is the magnificent seat of the earl of Shaftsbury, who has the patronage of the rectory, rated at 9*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.*

WIMBORN MINSTER, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Badbury, and division of Shaston Dorset, situated between the rivers Stour and Allen, over each of which, it has a bridge, and is 6½ miles from Poole and 100 from London. Its name is derived from its ancient minster or abbey; it contains 647 houses and 3039 inhabitants, viz. 1392 males and 1647 females, a few of whom are employed in a woollen manufacture, but not of any consequence. The minster is a venerable Norman-Gothic structure, having a fine tower in the middle, with another at the west-end. The middle tower had formerly a spire, which is recorded to have been as high as that of Salisbury. The choir of the church has 14 stalls, and till of late years had cathedral service performed regularly on Saturdays, and all holidays. The church is now served by three ministers chosen by the corporation, and the town is governed by two bailiffs; king Etheldred who was slain in battle by the Danes, is said to have been buried in the church; here is a grammar-school, founded by Margaret Countess of Richmond, mother of Henry VII. and augmented by queen Elizabeth. The town has many considerable charitable donations. Market on Friday, and its fairs are, the Friday in Easter week, 29th June and 31st August, and a cattle market beginning on Good Friday, and lasting 7 weeks. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Shaftesbury.

WIMBOTSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 1¼ mile from Downham and 85 from London; containing 50 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WIMESWOULD, a parish in the hundred of East Goscote, Leicester, 4½ miles from Loughborough and 110 from London; containing 176 houses and 788 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

WIMINGSWOLD. See WOMENSWOLD, Kent.

WIMMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Willey, Bedford, 12 miles from Bedford and 62 from London; containing 36 houses and 226 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

WIMPOLE, a parish in the hundred of Wetherley, Cambridge, 4 miles from Caxton and 45 from London; containing 47 houses and 324 inhabitants; here is a seat of the earl of Hardwick, originally built by the earl of Radnor, the park and grounds extend upwards of 3 miles. It is a rectory, value 18*l.*

WIMPSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Whitchurch, hundred of Kington, Warwick, 4½ miles from Stratford-on-Avon.

WINANDERMERE, or WINDERMERE, a parish in Kendal ward, Westmoreland, taking its name from a noted lake of the same name, lying on the western borders of the county, at the foot of the Furness fells, and comprehends the 3 townships of Applethwaite, Troutbeck, Undermilbeck, and a part of Ambleside; the whole containing 1500 inhabitants, with the hamlet of Bowness, included in Undermilbeck, which see. This lake is about 15 miles long, and 1 broad, having very winding shores, being from 90 to 222 feet deep. It abounds with excellent fish, but is particularly noted for its delicate char. The tithe of fish belongs to the rector of the parish, who has a pleasure boat on the lake, and takes a fine from each boat instead of tithe in kind. There are several little islands in the lake, in the largest of which stood an old fabric, called Holmes house, now pulled down, and a curious edifice has been rebuilt in its place. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*—Housman's Tour to the Lakes.

WINCANTON, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Ferris Norton, Somerset, 7 miles from Mere and 108 from London; containing 376 houses and 1773 inhabitants, of whom a considerable number are employed in the manufacture of ticking and dowlas. The church is a neat square tower, containing 6 bells. It has a market on Wednesday, and its fairs are Easter Tuesday, and 29th September. It is a curacy.

WINCEBY, a parish in the hundred of Hill, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Horncastle; containing 6 houses and 44 inhabitants; this place is memorable for a desperate battle fought here in 1643, between the forces of Cromwell and the Royalists, under Sir Ingram Hopton, who was slain, and interred in the church. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.* and is in the patronage of the crown.

WINCH, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 6 miles from Lynn, and 90½ from London; containing 93 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.*

WINCH, WEST, another parish in the same hundred of Norfolk, situated near the river Yar, 3 miles from Lynn, and 93 from London; containing 31 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

WINCHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Bucklow, Cheshire, near Northwich, and 176 miles from London; containing 45 houses and 267 inhabitants.

WINCHAM. See WINSHAM, Somerset.

WINCHCOMBE, a market town and parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, situated at the source of a small brook that falls into the Avon, among the Cotswold-hills, 6 miles from Cheltenham, and 95¼ from London; containing 283 houses and 1256 inhabitants. This is a town of great antiquity, and was once deemed a county of itself, enjoying peculiar privileges. The houses are in general well-built, but the church is the principal building deserving notice; it is a noble Gothic structure, with a tower at the west end, and contains several handsome monuments. In the 8th century, Kenulph, king of Mercia, founded a benedictine monastery here; there are 3 charity-schools, and an alms-house.—The town (or borough as it is called) is governed by two bailiffs, chosen annually.—Until the reign of Charles II. this place was noted for its plantations of tobacco. Here is a bank, and a market on Saturday; and its fairs are the last Saturday in March, the 6th May, and 28th July, chiefly for horses. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* with Gretton and Green chapels annexed.

WINCHELSEA, a borough, market town and parish, in the hundred of Guestling, rape of Hastings, Sussex, 2 miles from Rye, 7 from Hastings, and 67 from London; containing 105 houses and 627 inhabitants.—It has only one parish church, although it is supposed to have had anciently no less than 18, besides a large and spacious harbour about 2 miles distant, the whole of which was swallowed up by the sea in a tempest. That part of Old Winchelsea which was not swallowed up, is now a marsh. The new town which was erected by Edward I. and made one of the cinque ports, was originally encompassed by a wall and the stone works of three of the gates are still standing; but after the town was devastated by the French and Spaniards, and the sea leaving it, it soon fell to decay; so that it presents little more than the skeleton of a town; and out of its three new churches, the chancel of St. Thomas, is now the only one in use. In various parts of the town are spacious stone vaults, and the ruins of extensive buildings. About 2 miles to the northwest, are the ruins of a castle called Camber, built by Henry VIII. in 1539, at the expence of 23,000*l.* it is circular and faced with square stones, with a large tower serving for a keep, surrounded by several smaller ones connected by short curtains. The corporation is entitled to consist of a mayor, and 12 jurats, but this body seldom exceeds 4 or 5; and it returns 2 members to parliament, chosen by the corporation and freemen; the number of voters about 40, and the returning officer, the mayor. The streets stand at right angles, and are divided into 32 quarters. It has a trifling market on Saturday; and a fair on the 14th May.—The living is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*—Lat. 50. 55. 28, Long. 42. 37. East.

WINCHENDON, LOWER, a parish in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 5 miles from Aylesbury, and 45 from London; containing 35 houses and 244 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, not in charge.

WINCHENDON, UPPER, another parish in the same hundred, and 1 mile from the preceding, near Aylesbury; containing 36 houses and 206 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

WINCHESTER, CITY OF, in Hampshire, situated on the banks of the river Itchin, 17 miles from Basingstoke, 11 from Southampton, and 62 from London. It contains 791 houses and 5826 inhabitants, viz. 2767 males and 3059 females; of whom 855 were returned as being employed in various trades. Most of the buildings have an appearance of antiquity, and the streets are broad and remarkably clean. It is about ½ mile long from east to west; about 1½ mile in compass; and contains 8 churches, exclusive of St. Bartholomew's at Hyde. The present cathedral was began in the 11th century, by bishop Walkelyn, but was in part rebuilt by bishop Wickham, in 1394. The choir under the tower, was vaulted in the reign of Charles I. The length of this magnificent fabric, is 545 feet; including the chapel of our lady, 54 feet, and the choir 136. The height of the tower is 138 feet, but it appears from the abrupt manner of its termination, never to have been finished. The altar screen is thought by many even superior to that of St. Alban's. The entrance into the choir is by a noble flight of steps, the breadth of the middle aile. On each side of the great arch of the entrance are recesses, wherein are placed the statues of king James and Charles I. cast in copper. The cross from north to south, is divided from the choir by wooden partitions, carried up to a vast height. The stalls in the choir are of fine Gothic workmanship, but the bishop's throne is inferior to the rest. The stone screen where the high altar is placed, is a neat and delicate piece of Gothic work; but the niches formerly ornamented with images, have now only urns placed therein. At the west end of the church is a painted window, representing the history of the Old Testament, but much defaced. At the east end is also a window with paintings representing the Virgin Mary, the Son and the Father. For many years this church was the place for the coronation of our kings. The east end of the church is terminated by 3 chapels; that on the south is called Bishop Langton's chapel, of curious carved work, containing several elegant tombs. In the centre is the chapel of our lady, in which prayers are read every morning at six o'clock. In this chapel king Philip and queen Mary were married. The new college of this city, was founded by William of Wickham, the warden whereof is appointed by New College, Oxford, also erected by the same pious founder. The building consists of two large courts, con-going parish, and 1 mile distant therefrom, near Mersey isle; containing 10 houses and 75 inhabitants.

Wiggenhall, the name of four adjoining parishes in the hundred of Freebridge, Marshland, Norfolk. St. German's lying on the east side of the Great Ouse, 4 miles from Lynn; containing 92 houses and 448 inhabitant, and is a vicarage, rated at 6*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich. Wiggenhall St. Mary's, lying half a mile distant, on the opposite side of the Ouse, on the road to Wisbeach; containing 24 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 10*d.* Wiggenhall St. Peter's, lies half a mile south of St. German's, on the east side of the Ouse, 4½ miles from Lynn; containing 8 houses and 55 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* in the patronage of the king. Wiggenhall St. Mary Magdalen lies on the opposite side of the Ouse, 6 miles from Lynn; containing 49 houses and 368 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

Wigginholt, a parish in the hundred of West Easewrith, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 5 miles from Petworth, and 51 from London; containing 5 houses and 42 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* united with Gretham.

Wigginton, a township and chapelry in the parish of Tring, hundred of Dacorum, Herts, 1 mile from Tring, and 31 from London; containing 62 houses and 330 inhabitants.

Wigginton, a parish in the hundred of Bloxham, Oxford, 5 miles from Deddington, and 72 from London; containing 43 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

Wigginton, a township and chapelry in the parish of Tamworth, situated partly in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, and partly in that of Huntingford, Warwick; containing in Staffordshire 137 houses and 671 inhabitants; exclusive of 219 inhabitants in Warwick, not returned to government.

Wigginton, a parish in Bulmer wapentake, north riding of York, 4½ miles from York, and 204 from London; containing 42 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Wigglesworth, a township in the parish of Long Preston, wapentake of Staincliff and Ewcross, west riding of York, 4 miles from Settle, and 230 from London; containing 56 houses and 371 inhabitants.

Wiggold, a hamlet in the parish of Cirencester, hundred of Crowthorne, Gloucester.

Wigonby, a township in the parish of Aikton, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 3 miles from Wigton, and 307 from London; containing 32 houses and 127 inhabitants.

Wighill, a parish in the liberty of the Ainsley, of the city of York, situated on a rising ground near the river Wharfe, 2½ miles from Tadcaster, and 192 from London; containing 31 houses and 216 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

Wighough, a hamlet in the parish of Malpas, hundred of Broxlow, Cheshire, adjoining Malpas, and 165 miles from London; containing 3 houses and 19 inhabitants.

Wight, Isle of, lying on the coast of Hampshire, from which it is separated by a channel, varying in breadth from 2 to 7 miles. Its form is that of an irregular lozenge, measuring about 22 miles from the eastern to the western angle, and 13 from the northern to the southern, being 60 miles in circumference; containing an area of 100,000 square acres, of which quantity 75,000 acres may be reckoned in a course of tillage, and 20,000 in pasturage. It is divided into two hundreds, called East and West Medina; 30 parishes; 3 boroughs, Newport, Newtown, and Yarmouth; the whole containing 3598 houses and 22097 inhabitants, viz. 10,824 males and 11,273 females; of whom 2409 were returned as being employed in various trades, and 4377 in agriculture. Its principal river is the Medina, which gives name to its hundreds, and so called from its dividing the island into two nearly equal parts; there are two other small streams, called the Yar and the Wootton. The face of the country is beautifully diversified, and the whole extremely fertile. The basis of the island is a close black clay, extremely firm, and when exposed to the air, becomes hard enough to make whetstones; the higher parts of the island are composed of a vast mass of calcareous matter, and it produces chalk, which is used as manure. The chief grains cultivated, are wheat, barley, oats, peas, and beans; the wheat produced in the southern parts, is about 24 bushels per acre, and in the northern about 18; the production of barley per acre, is averaged at 30 bushels, and oats at 35; hence the exports of grain are considerable, the island yielding 7 to 12 times more than its consumption. The meadow land is extremely rich, and produces from 1 to 12 tons of excellent hay per acre. The Downs stretching across the island from Brading to the Needles, furnish excellent pasturage for sheep, the number fed thereon being computed at 40,000, sending 5000 lambs annually to the London market. The cows are mostly of the Devon breed, though crossed with other sorts; and the Alderney breed are in high repute, as they consume less provender, while they yield as much milk as the English breed, and their cream is of a superior richness. The horses are large and generally black; the hogs are also of a large kind, and make excellent bacon. The cheese in general is very indifferent, and equal in hardness to that of Suffolk. Game is very plentiful in the Isle of Wight.—Timber, which in the time of Charles II. was so plentiful that it is said, a squirrel might travel on the tops of the trees for many leagues together, is now much reduced in supplying the dock-yards at Portsmouth. Among the fossil earth of the district, are ing 26 houses and 146 inhabitants. Both the churches stand in the same church-yard. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the gift of the king, on the nomination of the bishop of London.

WILLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Papworth, Cambridge, 8 miles from Cambridge, and 58 from London; containing 145 houses and 795 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

WILLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Well, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Gainsborough, and 146 from London; containing 36 houses and 191 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WILLINGHAM, SOUTH, a parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Wragby, and 145 from London; containing 36 houses and 180 inhabitants; and it is a rectory, value 13*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*

WILLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, near Beccles, and 110 miles from London; containing 16 houses and 136 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* in the patronage of the king, united with North Cove.

WILLINGHAM ALL-SAINTS. See ELLOUGH.

WILLINGHAM CHERRY, a parish in the hundred of Lawress, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Lincoln, and 137 from London; containing 16 houses and 77 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

WILLINGDON, a parish in the hundred of the same name, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 2 miles from Eastbourne, and 61 from London; containing 58 houses and 347 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Chichester.

WILLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Wixamtree, Bedford, 4 miles from Bedford, and 54 from London; containing 36 houses and 229 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.*

WILLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Tarvin, hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 3 miles from Tarporley, and 175 from London, in the forest of Delamere; containing 14 houses and 84 inhabitants.

WILLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Morlestone and Litchurch, Derby, 6 miles from Derby, and 122 from London; containing 52 houses and 305 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* annexed to the curacy of Repplington.

WILLINGTON, a township in the parish of Brancepeth, Darlington ward, Durham, 4 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 261 from London; containing 35 houses and 169 inhabitants.

WILLISHAM, a parish in the hundred of Bosmere and Claydon, Suffolk, 3 miles from Needham Market, and 72 from London; containing 20 houses and 154 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WILLITON, a hamlet in the parish of St. Decuman's, hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, near Wiveliscombe.

WILLKESLEY, a hamlet in the township of Dodcot, partly situated in the parish of Audlem, and partly in that of Wrenbury, hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 6 miles from Whitchurch, Salop, and 160 from London.

WILLOUGHBY, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Alford, and 159 from London; containing 89 houses and 395 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 39*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

WILLOUGHBY, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, situated on the Grand Junction canal, 4½ miles from Daventry, and 76 from London; containing 65 houses and 319 inhabitants. Many Roman antiquities have been dug up in the neighbourhood. It has a fair on Whit Monday and Tuesday. The living is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford.

WILLOUGHBY-ON-THE-WOLDS, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 11 miles from Nottingham, and 113 from London; containing 70 houses and 355 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

WILLOUGHBY, SCOT, a village, in the hundred of Aveland, and parts of Kesteven, Lincoln, near Folkingham; containing 2 houses and 9 inhabitants.

WILLOUGHBY WATERLESS, a parish in the hundred of Guthlaxton, Leicester, 5 miles from Lutterworth, and 89 from London; containing 49 houses and 272 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* united with Peatling Magna.

WILLOUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Aslacoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Gainsborough, and 150 from London; containing 73 houses and 320 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

WILLOWBECK, a river in Yorkshire, which falls into the Swale at Cundal.

WILLSWORTHY, a hamlet in the parish of Lidford, hundred of Lifton, Devon, 9 miles from Oakhampton, and 204 from London; containing 12 houses and 70 inhabitants.

WILMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Axtane, lathe of Sutton, Kent, ½ mile from Dartford, and 15 from London; containing 96 houses and 520 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

WILMINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Longbridge, rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 4 miles from Eastbourne, and 60 from London; containing 39 houses and 236 inhabitants. On the side of a high hill here is the figure of a man, 80 yards in length, grasping a staff in each hand; it is discovered by a remarkable difference of the colour of the grass. This spot is supposed to have been originally paved with brick, whence the difference of the colour of the verdure. The living is a vicarage, value 8*l.* Fair, 14th September.

WILMSLOW, a parish in the hundred of Macclesfield, Cheshire, 7 miles from Macclesfield, and 174 from London; containing 17 houses and 106 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 32*l.* 15*s.*

WILNE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Sawley, hundred of Morleston taining suits of apartments for the warden, 10 fellows, 70 scholars, 3 chaplains, six choristers, masters, &c. in the centre is an elegant chapel; in the second court are the schools, and a long cloister and enclosures for the diversions of the scholars. In the middle of the cloisters is the library, a strong stone building. Over the door of the school, is a statue of the founder. Contiguous to the college on the west, is a spacious quadrangular building, forming a detached school for commoners, or gentlemen not on the foundation; where they live in a collegiate manner, under the immediate care of the head-master. The college, chapel, and school, were completely repaired in 1795.—The mother church of Winchester, is St. Lawrence; it consists of one large aile, with a lofty square tower, containing 5 bells.—St. Thomas's is an ancient structure, consisting of 2 ailes, divided by round pillars of the Gothic order; the tower is a low ordinary building. St. Maurice's was originally a priory, and consists of two ailes, one of which is very spacious; the tower is strong. St. Michael's, is a low and ancient building, tiled, having two good good ailes, and a tower containing five bells. St. Swithin's, is erected over a postern called Kingsgate, and consists of a large neat room, ascended to by a stone staircase. St. Peter's Cheesehill, consists of 2 ailes, of different sizes, both neat but plain; it has a tower, containing 3 bells. St. John's at hill, is divided into three ailes by round Gothic pillars; the tower is remarkably strong, finished with a turret, containing a clock. St. Martin's Winnall, was rebuilt in 1736, and consists of one aile, having a small tower at the west end, containing 1 bell. Near the cathedral is a college or alms-house, founded by bishop Morley, in 1672, for 10 clergymen's widows. Christ's Hospital, commonly called the Blue Alms, was founded in 1706; besides which there are a number of private charities, and three well-endowed charity-schools. The public infirmary is a handsome edifice, erected in 1759, the ascent to which is by a noble flight of steps. In the High-street is a market-cross, having five steps round it; this place also serves for the fish market. The town-hall, in the same street, is a handsome building, supported by Doric pillars, it is ornamented with a statue of queen Anne. In 1788, a new spacious county goal was erected on the Howardian plan, in the court of which is a neat chapel; there is also a Bridewell for the city, and another for the county; the latter, erected in 1786. The theatre is a handsome structure, built in 1785. There is an annual well attended music meeting, held here in September, continuing for three days, which closes with a ball. Winchester has also its winter assembly, concerts, balls, and every other fashionable amusement. The streets are well paved and lighted, under an act passed in 1770; and a new and commodious market-house, was erected in 1772. Here are two banking-houses. Winchester by the Britons was called Caer Gwent, and after, the Romans were settled here, is said to have become noted for its manufactures of cloth and household linen; during the time of the Saxons, many of their kings resided here. Athelstan granted it the privilege of six mints, and in 660 it was erected into a bishopric, transferred from Dorchester. Its ancient castle is supposed to have been built by king Arthur; in it William II. surnamed Rufus, was crowned. During the civil wars it was mostly demolished by the parliament forces, except the old hall, in which the assizes are still held; in this also hangs what is denominated Arthur's round table, with the names of the knights thereon. On the site of the castle, a royal palace was begun, in 1683; the principal floor of which, is a noble range of apartments, and contains in all 160 chambers; this has often been occupied by prisoners of war, on their parole. Several monasteries and religious houses, were formerly in the suburbs of this city. The plague made great devastations here, in the years 941, 1348, and again in 1668; and at the west end of the town is an obelisk, having an inscription commemorative of those calamities. This city sends 2 members to parliament, chosen by the corporation and free burgesses.—Beyond the river Itchin, east, is a high hill, called St. Giles's, from an hospital whose ruins only are now visible. The markets are held on Wednesday and Saturday, and are well supplied with all kinds of provisions, poultry, fish, &c. Its fairs are the first Monday in Lent, and 24th October, held in the city; on the 2d August, held on Magdalen-hill; 12th September, on St. Giles's-hill. In the cathedral church of Winchester, there are 12 prebends, all in the gift of the bishop of Winchester. St. Lawrence's, is a rectory, value 6*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the king. St. Thomas's, a rectory, value 13*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* united with St. Clement's. St. Maurice's, a rectory, value 7*l.* united with St. Mary Calender. St. Michael's, a rectory, value 5*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* united with St. Swithin's. St. Martin's, a rectory, value 5*l.* all in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester. St. Peter's Cheesehill is a rectory, value 14*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*: and St. Swithin's, a rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* united with St. Michael's, both in the patronage of the king.—Milner's History of Winchester.

WINCHESTER, OLD a hill in the tything of West Meon, where the Romans are supposed to have had a camp.

WINCHFIELD, a parish in the hundred and division of Odiham, Hants, 5 miles from Odiham, and 38 from London; containing 34 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

WINCKLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Devon, 6 miles from Hatherleigh, and 95 from London; containing 211 houses and 1214 inhabitants.

WINCLE, a township and chapelry in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 6 miles from Macclesfield, and 161 from London; containing 65 houses and 352 inhabitants.

WINDER, a hamlet in the parish of Lamplugh, Allerdale ward above Derwent, Cumberland, 5 miles from Whitehaven, and 302 from London; containing 24 houses and 144 inhabitants.

WINDERMERE. See WINANDERMERE, Westmoreland.

WINDLE, a township in the parish of Prescott, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, near Prescott, and 198 miles from London; containing 618 houses and 3252 inhabitants.

WINDLESHAM, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, ½ mile from Bagshot, and 26 from London, on the borders of Windsor Forest. Here the Abbot of Chertsey, in the reign of Edward III. erected Hook-mill, which conveys a donation of 8*l.* to the poor of the parish for ever. The living is a rectory, value 10*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WINDLESTON, a township in the parish of St. Andrew's Auckland, Darlington ward Durham, 2 miles from Bishop Auckland, and 256 from London; containing 36 houses and 196 inhabitants.

WINDLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Duffield, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 4 miles from Derby, and 130 rom London; containing 34 houses and 186 inhabitants.

WINDRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of St. Stephen's, St. Alban's, hundred of Cashio, Herts, adjoining St. Alban's; containing 40 houses and 361 inhabitants.

WINDRUSH, a parish in the hundred of Slaughter, Gloucester, 5 miles from Burford, and 78 from London; containing 58 houses and 317 inhabitants.

WINDRUSH, a river in Oxfordshire, which falls into the Thames, near Langworth.

WINDSOR, NEW, a borough and market town, situated on the Thames, 22 miles from London; it contains 507 houses and 3361 inhabitants, viz. 1458 males and 1903 females. This town has belonged to the crown ever since the conquest, and has of late been much improved; it contains several good streets, some of them lying round the castle. The parish church is a spacious building, situated in the High-street; in which also stands the Guildhall or Townhouse, a neat structure, erected in 1686, supported by columns and arches of Portland stone. On the north side is a statue of queen Anne, and on the south side, that of prince George of Denmark; the inside is adorned with the portraits of many royal personages. Windsor contains many handsome buildings, but its chief pride is its castle, which for more than 700 years has been the favourite country residence of the British Kings. It was first erected by William the Conqueror, soon after the conquest, received additions from many of the succeeding monarchs; and under Edward III. was almost entirely rebuilt: during the mischief and plunder of the civil wars, it became in some degree dilapidated; but it was restored to its ancient state and splendour by Charles II. This noble edifice is situated on a high hill, having a beautiful command of the Thames. On the declivity of the hill is a terrace, faced with a rampart of free-stone, being 1870 feet long; at the end of this walk is a gate leading into the parks, which are 4 miles in circumference, and surrounded by a brick wall. The castle is divided into 2 courts or wards, with a large round tower or keep between them, the whole occupying about 12 acres of land; and having many batteries and towers for its defence. The upper court consists of a spacious square, bounded on the west by the round tower, on the north by the royal apartments, St. George's hall, and the royal chapel; and on the east and south, by the chambers appropriated for the prince of Wales and officers of state. In the centre of this square is an equestrian statue of king Charles II. in the habit of a Roman Cæsar; underneath is a curious engine, to raise water for the castle. The keep or tower, is the lodging of the constable or governor, built in the form of an amphitheatre, ascended to by a flight of stone steps. Here is the guard-room or magazine for arms, curiously arranged. Over the chimney is carved in lime-wood, the star and garter, encompassed with daggers and pistols. The lower court is larger than the upper, and is divided into two parts by St. George's chapel, which stands in the middle, and is reckoned one of the finest Gothic structures of the kind in being; on the north side of this court are the houses and apartments of the dean and canons, and other officers; and on the west side are the houses of the poor knights of Windsor. These poor knights, 18 in number, have a premium of 18*l.* per ann. and annually a gown of scarlet cloth, with a mantle of blue or purple cloth on the sleeve of which is embroidered the cross of St. George. The royal apartments are on the north side of the court, called the star building, from having the star and garter in gold on the outside. The entrance is from the upper ward, through a handsome Vestibule, supported by pillars of the Ionic order, having antique bronze busts in several niches. The grand staircase consists of three flights of stone steps, twelve in each flight. The ceiling is beautifully ornamented with paintings, designed and executed by sir James Thornhill, in the reigns of queen Anne and George I. The first room is called the Queen's Guard Chamber, the ceiling ornamented with the figure of Britannia, in the person of queen Catherine, of Portugal, consort of Charles

II. seated on a globe, bearing the arms of England and Portugal; with many beautiful accompanying paintings: here is curiously disposed, a variety of warlike instruments. The Queen's presence chamber; the ceiling also represents queen Catherine, attended by the virtues, supported by Fame, sounding the happiness of Britain, &c. The Queen's audience chamber; on the ceiling is also the Queen's person, as Britannia in a car, drawn by swans. The tapestry of this room is of a rich gold ground, made at Coblentz, and presented to Henry VIII. The canopy is of velvet; here are also beautiful paintings by the most celebrated masters. On the ceiling of the hall room, Charles II. is represented giving freedom to Europe; and the tapestry represents the 12 months of the year. In this room is a large silver table. The Queen's drawing room, is beautifully decorated with paintings and hung with tapestry, representing the seasons of the year. In the Queen's bed chamber, the ceiling represents the story of Endymion and Diana, from Ovid. The state bed was set up by order of her present Majesty, the inside is of white satin, and the curtains a pale green, beautifully embroidered; it is said to have cost 14,000*l*. The room of beauties, is so named, from being a collection of portraits of the most celebrated beauties in the reign of Charles II.; fourteen in number. The Queen's dressing room, is neatly fitted up, and hung with a tapestry of British manufacture; belonging to this room is a closet, in which is deposited the banner of France, annually delivered here 2d August, by the proxy of the duke of Marlborough, and by which he holds Blenheim-house. In Queen Elizabeth's or the Picture Gallery, are several capital paintings, and it contains a curious amber cabinet, presented by the king of Prussia to queen Caroline. On the ceiling of the King's bed chamber, is a painting of Charles II. in the robes of the garter, under a canopy, supported by Time, Jupiter, and Neptune: the state bed is of rich flowered velvet, manufactured in Spitalfields, by order of queen Anne. The King's drawing-room, represents Charles II. in a triumphal car, drawn by the horses of the sun, attended by fame, peace, &c.; in other parts of the ceiling are the labours of Hercules. Here is also a magnificent glass of English manufacture, being 11 feet by six. On the ceiling of the King's public dining-room, is the banquet of the Gods. The carving of this room is most beautiful, representing fish, fowl, fruit, &c. done in lime wood. On the ceiling of the King's audience chamber, is represented the establishment of the protestant religion, in the characters of England, Scotland, and Ireland. The canopy is of velvet, embroidered with gold. The King's presence chamber, is ornamented with a portrait of Charles II. presented to the four quarters of the world, introduced by Neptune. In the King's guard-room, is a large magazine of arms, very curiously arranged. Here are various paintings of sieges, battles, &c. with a portrait of Charles XI. king of Sweden, on horseback. St. George's hall, is set apart entirely to the honour of the most illustrious order of the garter. The centre of the ceiling is a large oval, wherein is represented Charles II. in the full uniform of the order, attended by the three kingdoms, religion, peace, and various other figures; with the devices, and motto of the order. At the back of the sovereign's throne, is a painting of St. George encountering the dragon, and on the lower border is inscribed "Veniendo restituit rem," alluding to king William, who is painted under a royal canopy, in the habit of the order, by sir Godfrey Kneller; the ascent to the throne, is by five steps of marble.—On the north side of the chamber, is a painting of the triumph of Edward the black prince; and at the upper part of the hall, is a representation of Edward III. on his throne, receiving the kings of France and Scotland, captives. The length of this superb chamber, is 108 feet. The chapel of St. George, was originally a chapel dedicated to Edward the confessor, wherein Henry I. placed 8 secular priests, pensionaries. It was rebuilt by Edward III. and established as a collegiate church, having a dean, 12 canons, 13 minor canons, 4 clerks, 6 choristers, and 26 poor alms knights. This structure owes its present form to Edward IV. and its completion to Henry VII. Here lie interred under the choir, the bodies of Henry VIII. and Jane Seymour; Charles I. and a daughter of queen Anne; adjoining the east end, is a neat building erected by Henry VII. a burial place for himself and successors; a most sumptuous monument was afterwards erected here by Cardinal Wolsey, but he dying at Leicester, was there privately buried. Mass we believe is wrongly said to have been publickly performed in this chapel, by James II.; certain however it is that the chapel lay neglected until the reign of his present Majesty, when it underwent a complete repair, in 1790; and it was adorned with rich carvings in wood, and received a new altar piece, organ, and gallery. The ceremonies of the installation of the knights of the garter, are performed in this chapel with great state and solemnity. In former times the new or knights elect, went in solemn and stately procession to Windsor, attended by their friends, with their servants in the richest liveries, and the procession of the knights from their lodgings in the castle to the chapel, has sometimes been on horseback, but most frequently on foot, as is the custom at present. Windsor was made a free borough by Edward I. and sent members to parliament in the 13th year of the same reign; which it has continued except an intermission from 14th of Edward III. until 25th of Henry VI. chosen by the inhabitants of the borough paying scot and lot. The corporation consists of a mayor, 2 bailiffs, 28 burgesses, 13 of whom are called fellows or benchers of the Guildhall; and of these, 10 besides the mayor and bailiffs, are styled aldermen.—A neat theatre has been lately erected, but it is only opened during the vacations at Eton College. Here are extensive barracks for horse and foot soldiery. On the south side of this town is Windsor Great Park, well stocked with deer, 14 miles in circumference; the entrance is by a road called the Long Walk, near 3 miles in length, through a double plantation of trees on each side, leading to the Rangers Lodge; on the north and east side of the castle, is the Little Park, about 4 miles in circumference; Queen Elizabeth's Walk, herein is much frequented. At the entrance of this park is the Queen's Lodge, of recent erection. This building stands on an easy ascent opposite the upper court, on the south side, and commands a beautiful prospect over the surrounding country. In front is a plot of grass, inclosed by iron palisadoes. The gardens are elegant, and have been much enlarged by the addition of the gardens and house of the duke of St. Alban's, lately purchased by his Majesty. Windsor Forest being a circuit of 56 miles, was originally formed for the exercise of the chace, by our ancient sovereigns; and this is also a favourite amusement of his present Majesty. The market is held on Saturday, in the area beneath the town-hall, and is well supplied with all kinds of provisions, fish, &c. Its fairs are Easter Tuesday, the 5th July, and 24th October. The living is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.—History and Antiquities of Windsor Castle, &c.

Windsor Old, a parish lying to the east of New Windsor, and adjoining thereto; containing 188 houses and 669 inhabitants. This was anciently the residence of the Saxon kings, and that part called new Windsor has chiefly risen since the time of William I. Here are several elegant houses situated on the banks of the Thames. Beaumont Lodge, was formerly the seat of the duke of Cumberland. The Grove House, in the neighbourhood, the seat of lady Onslow, was erected by ——— Bateman, Esq. having bedchambers like the cells of Monks, and also a refectory, and other officers of a monastery, even to a cemetery, and a coffin inscribed with the name of a suppositious ancient bishop. The living is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Windsor, Broad. See Broad Windsor, Dorset.

Winestead, a parish in the wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 1¼ mile from Patrington, and 191 from London; containing 16 houses and 103 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Winfarthing, a parish in the hundred of Diss, Norfolk, 4 miles from Diss, and 90 from London; containing 87 houses and 565 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

Winfield, a parish united with Felton in Somersetshire.

Winford, a parish in the hundred of Hartcliffe and Bedminster, Somerset, 6 miles from Bristol, and 119 from London; containing 105 houses and 641 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*

Winford, Eagle, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Toller-fratrum, hundred of Tollesford, and division of Dorchester, Dorset, 8 miles from Dorchester, and 128 from London; containing 27 houses and 149 inhabitants. It has a fair 10th August.

Winfrith, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Dorset, 7½ miles from Wareham, and 117½ from London; containing 98 houses and 569 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury, with west Lulworth chapel annexed.

Winforton, a parish in the hundred of Huntingdon, Hereford, situated on the Wye, 3 miles from Kineton and Hay; containing 32 houses and 179 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Wing, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 3½ miles from Leighton Buzzard, and 44 from London; containing 201 houses and 993 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Chesterfield.

Wing, a parish in the hundred of Martinsley, Rutland, 3 miles from Uppingham, and 86 from London; containing 60 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* and the patron is the king.

Wingate, a township in the parish of Kelloe, Easington ward, Durham, 5 miles from Durham, and 255 from London; containing 24 houses and 135 inhabitants.

Wingate, a township in the parish of Long Horsley, Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Morpeth, and 299 from London; containing 33 houses and 155 inhabitants.

Wingerworth, a township and chapelry in the parish of Chesterfield, hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 2½ miles from Chesterfield; containing 92 houses and 590 inhabitants.

Wingfield, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Wrotham, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, near Wrotham, and 25 miles from London; containing 39 houses and 286 inhabitants.

Wingfield, North, a parish in the hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 4 miles from Chesterfield, and 148 from London; containing 51 houses and 240 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

Wingfield, South, another parish in the same hundred, Derby, 5 miles from Wirksworth, containing 167 houses and 898 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Devonshire.

Wingfield. See Winkfield, Berks, and Suffolk.

Wingfield, a hamlet in the parish of Chalgrave, Bedford, 3½ miles from Dunstable.

WINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of the same name, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, situated near the river Stour, 6½ miles from Canterbury, and 62 from London; containing 164 houses and 844 inhabitants. Here in the reign of Edward I. Peckham, archbishop of Canterbury, founded a convent for a provost and 6 canons. In the neighbourhood are several handsome mansions. It has a charity school, and its fairs are 1st May and 1st November. The church is a curacy of exempt jurisdiction.

WINGRAVE, a parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 3 miles from Aylesbury, and 43 from London; containing 119 houses and 602 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.*

WINKBURN, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 4 miles from Southwell, and 132 from London; containing 29 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WINKFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Ripplesmere, Berks, 5 miles from Windsor, and 27 from London; containing 258 houses and 1465 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Salisbury.

WINKFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 4½ miles from Harleston, and 96 from London; containing 69 houses and 521 inhabitants. It is a curacy in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

WINKFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Bradford, Wilts, 3 miles from Trowbridge, and 101 from London; containing 54 houses and 290 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*

WINKSLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Ripon, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Ripon, and 222 from London; containing 27 houses and 144 inhabitants.

WINKTON, a tything in the parish and hundred of Christchurch, division of New-forest, Hants, 2 miles from Christ-church, and 95 from London; containing 193 houses and 982 inhabitants.

WINKTON, a hamlet in the parish of Pebworth, hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester.

WINLATON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Ryton, Chester ward, Durham, 5 miles from Gateshead, and 280 from London; containing 568 houses and 3021 inhabitants, of whom 1200 were returned as being employed in various trades.

WINMARLEIGH, a township in the parish of Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 2 miles from Garstang, and 229 from London; containing 41 houses and 243 inhabitants.

WINNALL, a parish in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, near Winchester; containing 15 houses and 80 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WINNERSH, a hamlet in the parish of Hurst, hundred of Sonning, Berks, 4 miles from Oakingham, and 32 from London; containing 64 houses and 329 inhabitants.

WINNINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Budworth, and hundred of Eddisbury, Chester, 1 mile from Northwich, and 174 from London; on the banks of the Wever, over which it has a stone bridge, leading to Leigh; it contains 31 houses and 196 inhabitants.

WINNOO, SAINT, a parish in the hundred of West, Cornwall, 1 mile from Lostwithiel, and 235 from London; containing 116 houses and 671 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter with Nighton chapel annexed.

WINSCALES, a hamlet in the parish of Workington, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, 3½ miles from Workington; and 310 from London; containing 26 houses and 153 inhabitants.

WISCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 2 miles from Axbridge, and 133 from London; containing 163 houses and 922 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 16*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Wells.

WINSCOT, a hamlet in the parish of St. Giles's, near Torrington, Devon.

WINSFORD, a parish in the hundred of Willerton, and Freemanners, Somerset, 5 miles from Dulverton, and 165 from London; containing 91 houses and 503 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of Emanuel college, Cambridge.

WINSHAM, a parish in the hundred of East Kingsbury, Somerset, 2½ miles from Chard, and 140 from London; containing 148 houses and 164 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the dean of Wells.

WINSHILL, a township in the parish of Burton on Trent, hundred of Repton, and Gressley, Derby, 1¼ mile from Burton, and 126 from London; containing 57 houses and 309 inhabitants.

WINSLADE, a parish in the hundred and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 4 miles from Basingstoke, and 48 from London; containing 16 houses and 135 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Bolton.

WINSLEY, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bradford, Wilts, 1¼ mile from Bradford.

WINSLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Kirby Malzeard, Claro wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Ripon, and 226 from London; containing 27 houses and 144 inhabitants.

WINSLOW, a market town and parish in the hundred of Cotslow, Bucks, 5 miles from Buckingham, and 50 from London; containing 219 houses and 1101 inhabitants. It consists of 3 principal streets neat and well built, and has a market on Tuesday, and its fairs, 26th March, Holy Thursday, 21st Aug. and 22d September, also the Thursday before old Michaelmas day, and the succeeding Thursday, being both statute fairs. The living is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WINSLOW, a township in the parish of Bromyard, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 2½ miles from Bromyard, and 128 from London; containing 76 houses and 386 inhabitants.

WINSTANLEY, a township in the parish of Wigan, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 3 miles from Wigan, and 196 from London; containing 117 houses and 631 inhabitants.

WINSTER, a township and chapelry in the parish of Youlgrave, hundred of High Peake, Derby, 8 miles from Wirksworth, and 150 from London; containing 190 houses and 753 inhabitants, the greater part of whom are employed in the neighbouring lead mines. Here is a small market on Saturday, and a fair on Easter Monday.

WINSTER, a hamlet in the township of Undermilbeck, parish of Windermere, Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 6 miles from Kendal, and 266 from London.

WINSTON, a parish in Darlington ward, Durham, 6½ miles from Barnard Castle, and 240 from London; containing 59 houses and 307 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WINSTON, a hamlet in the parish of Bibury, hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 6 miles from Cirencester, and 83 from London; containing 27 houses and 145 inhabitants.

WINSTON, a parish in the hundred of Thredling, Suffolk, 10 miles from Ipswich, and 79 from London; containing 47 houses and 261 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Ely.

WINSTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Miserden, hundred of Bisley, Gloucester, 5 miles from Cirencester, and 84 from London; containing 34 houses and 143 inhabitants.

WINTERBOURNE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Cheveley, hundred of Faircross, Berks, 3½ miles from Newbury, and 59 from London; containing 64 houses and 357 inhabitants.

WINTERBOURNE, a parish in the hundred of Langley, and Swineshead, Gloucester, 6 miles from Bristol, and 117 from London; containing 246 houses and 1592 inhabitants. Fairs 29th June, and 28th October. It is a rectory, value 27*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of St. John's college, Oxford.

WINTERBOURNE, ABBAS, a parish in the hundred of Eggerton, division of Bridport, Dorset, 5 miles from Dorchester, and 125 from London; containing 26 houses and 156 inhabitants. About ½ mile west in the road from Dorchester are several stones placed in a circular form, from 3 to 7 feet high, supposed to have been the remains of a Druid temple. The living is a rectory, value 13*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* united with Winterbourn, Steepleton.

WINTERBOURNE, CLENSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Coombsditch, division of Blandford, Dorset, lying in a vale on the small river Winterbourn, 10 miles from Wimborn. This parish is now much reduced, consisting only of 6 houses and 49 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

WINTERBOURNE, ASHTON, a tything in the parish of Winterbourne, St. Martin's, hundred of St. George's and division of Dorchester, Dorset.

WINTERBOURN, KINGSTON, a tything in the parish of Beer Regis, hundred of Beer, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 2 miles from Beer Regis, and 116 from London; containing 66 houses and 335 inhabitants.

WINTERBOURN, MONKTON, a parish in the hundred of Colliford tree, division of Dorchester, Dorset, 2 miles from Dorchester, containing 10 houses and 82 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

WINTERBOURNE, ST. MARTIN'S, a parish in the hundred of St. George, and division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3 miles from Dorchester, containing 61 houses and 262 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town and had a priory. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

WINTERBOURNE, STEEPLETON, a parish in the hundred of Ugglescomb and division of Dorchester, Dorset, 3¾ miles from Dorchester; containing 25 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* united with Winterbourne Abbas. Fairs 11th November.

WINTERBOURNE, WHITCHURCH, a parish in the hundred of Coombsditch, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 5 miles from Blandford, and 108¼ from London; containing 89 houses and 430 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* In the patronage of the bishop of Salisbury.

WINTERBOURNE, DANTSEY, a parish in the hundred of Alderbury, Wilts, 4 miles from Salisbury, and 84 from London; near the river Avon; containing 26 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a donative under the prebend of Chute, in Salisbury cathedral.

WINTERBOURNE, EARLS, another parish in the same hundred, Wilts, ½ mile distant from the preceding, containing 45 houses and 189 inhabitants. It is a curacy belonging to the prebend thereof in Salisbury cathedral.

WINTERBOURNE, GUNNER, another parish in the same hundred of Wilts, adjoining the preceding, containing 26 houses and 136 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

WINTERBOURNE, STOKE, a parish in the hundred of Branch and Dole, Wilts, 5 miles from Amesbury, and 83 from London; containing 48 houses and 256 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

WINTERBOURNE, MONKTON, a parish in the hundred of Selkey, Wilts, 6½ miles from Marlborough; containing 37 houses and 177 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

united with Averbury, and the patron is the king.

WINTERBOURNE, BASSET, another parish in the same hundred, Wilts, 1¼ mile from Marlborough; containing 24 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen college, Oxford.

WINTERHAY, a hamlet in the parish of Ilminster, Somerset, and adjoining thereto.

WINTERINGHAM, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Barton, and 170 from London; containing 146 houses and 678 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.*

WINTERSETT, a township in the parish of Wragby, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 5½ miles from Wakefield, and 182 from London; containing 26 houses and 133 inhabitants.

WINTERSLOW, WEST, a parish in the hundred of Amesbury, Wilts, 4 miles from Salisbury, and 78 from London; containing 140 houses and 694 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WINTERSLOW, EAST AND MIDDLE, two adjoining hamlets in the foregoing parish, and included therewith.

WINTERTON, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Barton, and 165 from London; containing 174 houses and 773 inhabitants. It is a vicarge, value 8*l.*

WINTERTON, a parish in the hundred of West Flegg, Norfolk, situated on the coast 7 miles from Yarmouth, and 130 from London; containing 54 houses and 378 inhabitants. The soil is extremely rich and light. The church is a handsome structure, but the houses are indifferently built. It was formerly a market town. The promontory here is called Wintertonness, near Yarmouth, on which is a light-house. Fairs 5th July. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* with East Somerton chapel, annexed.

WINTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Candleshoe, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Wainfleet, and 137 from London; containing 41 houses and 221 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln, united with Burgh.

WINTHORPE, a parish in the hundred of Newark, Notts, 2 miles from Newark, and 126 from London; containing 31 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 11*s.*

WINTON. See WINCHESTER, Hants.

WINTON, a small village, 3 miles from Christchurch, Hants.

WINTON, a township in the parish of Kirby Siggeston, wapentake of Allertoneshire, north riding of York, 4 miles from Northallerton, and 230 from London; containing 26 houses and 132 inhabitants.

WINTON, a township in the parish of Kirby Stephen, East ward, Westmoreland, 2 miles from Kirby Stephen, and 267 from London; containing 60 houses and 262 inhabitants.

WINTRINGHAM, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Malton, and 223 from London; containing 48 houses and 229 inhabitants. Fair 14th July. It is a curacy.

WINWICK, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hants, 6 miles from Oundle, and 70 from London; containing 19 houses and 110 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

WINWICK, a parish in the hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Newton, which borough is situated in this parish, and 190 from London; containing 96 houses and 573 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 102*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Derby.

WINWICK, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, 12 miles from Northampton and 77 from London; containing 26 houses and 124 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

WIRKSWORTH, a market town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Derby, 12 miles from Derby, and 139 from London; containing 660 houses and 2978 inhabitants, of whom the greater part are employed in the avocations attendant on the lead-mines in this neighbourhood. Lead ore is found here, under 4 denominations; the largest size is called Bing; the next size Pescy; the third is passed through a sieve in washing and is called Smitham, and the fourth which is caught by a slow stream of water is termed Beleand, and is as fine as flour, and the most inferior in quality. All the ore as it comes from the mine is beaten into pieces and washed by women. The lead is then melted in furnaces, and poured into moulds of various sizes. There are many laws and regulations for the miners here, the district being under a steward and a barmaster; the steward presiding as judge at the Barmote Courts, which are held twice a year; those for the district of the High Peak, at Monyyash, and those of the hundred at Wirksworth. Mill and grindstones are also found in the neighbourhood, as well as veins of antimony. Here are two springs, the one hot and the other cold; so near each other, that a person may put his hands into both at the same time. In 1736, many Roman coins were found near this town. There are six almshouses for 6 poor men, and a free grammar-school. The church has a square tower, containing 6 bells; the town-hall was erected in 1773, the lower part of which is occupied as the butcher market. Market on Tuesday. Fairs Old May day and 8th September. The living is a vicarage, value 42*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.—Pilkington's Derbyshire.

WIRRINGTON. See WERRINGTON, Northampton.

WISBEACH, a sea-port, market town and parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 8 miles from March and 89 from London; containing 1058 houses and 5542 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and the patron is the king.

WISBEACH, ST. MARY, a hamlet and chapelry in the foregoing parish, and adjoining thereto; containing 150 houses and 831 inhabitants.

WISBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Bury, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 3 miles from Petworth and 48 from London; containing 206 houses and 1307 inhabitants.

WISETON, a hamlet in the parish of Clayworth, hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 4½ miles from Bawtry and 150 from London; containing 20 houses and 123 inhabitants.

WISEWALL, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 5 miles from Burnley and 215 from London; containing 63 houses and 349 inhabitants.

WISHANGER, a hamlet in the parish of Miserden, Gloucester.

WISHAW, a parish in the hundred of Hemlingford, Warwick, 4 miles from Coleshill and 107½ from London; containing 36 houses and 218 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 5*s.*

WISLEY, a parish united with Pirford, hundred of Woking, Surry, 7 miles from Guildford and 22½ from London; containing 16 houses and 101 inhabitants.

WISPINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Horncastle and 142 from London; containing 41 houses and 70 inhabitants.

WISSETT, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 2 miles from Halesworth and 104 from London; containing 40 houses and 349 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WISTASTON, a parish in the hundred of Nantwich, Cheshire, 2 miles from Nantwich and 166 from London; containing 47 houses and 258 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.*

WISTASTON, a hamlet in the parish of Amberley, hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 6 miles from Hereford and 140 from London; containing 17 houses and 85 inhabitants.

WISTLETON, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3 miles from Dunwich and 97 from London; containing 138 houses and 661 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WISTON, a parish in the hundred of Steyning, rape of Bramber, Sussex, ¼ mile from Steyning and 49 from London; containing 54 houses and 258 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Thanet.

WISTOUN, a parish in the shire of Lanark, Scotland, united with Robertoun, on the banks of the Clyde; containing 180 houses and 460 inhabitants.

WISTOW, a parish in the hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 3 miles from Ramsey and 65½ from London; containing 48 houses and 315 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

WISTOW, a decayed parish in the hundred of Gartree Leicester, 6 miles from Leicester; containing 2 houses and 15 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the earl of Denbigh.

WISTOW, a parish in Barkston Ash wapentake, west riding of York, 3 miles from Selby and 184 from London; containing 136 houses and 647 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.* belonging to the prebend thereof, in York cathedral.

WITCHAM, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 5¼ miles from Ely and 70 from London; containing 58 houses and 325 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 10*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the chapter of Ely.

WITCHAMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Cranborne and division of Shaston, Dorset, 4 miles from Wimborn and 100 from London; containing 62 houses and 374 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

WITCHFORD, a parish in the Isle of Ely, Cambridge, 3 miles from Ely and 69 from London; containing 44 houses and 294 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Ely.

WITCHINGTON, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 3 miles from Reepham and 109 from London; containing 67 houses and 353 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.*

WITCHINGTON, LITTLE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish; containing 7 houses and 36 inhabitants.

WITHAM, a market-town and parish in the hundred of the same name, Essex, situated on a branch of the Blackwater, 8¼ miles from Chelmsford and 37½ from London; containing 397 houses and 2186 inhabitants. The town is pleasant and many of the houses recently built, being on the great road to Harwich; this town derives considerable benefit from its thoroughfare. It was first built by Edward the elder, son of Alfred the Great, and was given by Edward the confessor to Eustace, earl of Boulogne, as a marriage portion with Goda, his sister; it was afterwards given to the Knight's Templars, who had a preceptory at Cressing, 3 miles distant. Here is supposed to have been the Roman station, Ad Ansam, mentioned in Antonine's Itinerary. The church is a neat Gothic structure, containing many ancient monuments, particularly one of Sir John Southcot, a judge of the king's bench in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. It has a medicinal spring, formerly in great repute. In the neighbourhood are many neat mansions. Market on Tuesday, and its fairs are 14th September and the Monday before Trinity Sunday. The living is a vicarage, value 22*l.* 7*d.*½. in the patronage of the bishop of London.—Morant's, Essex.

WITHAM. See WYTHAM, Berks and Lincoln.

WITHAM, the name of a hundred in Essex, lying in the middle of the county between the hundreds of Hinckford and Thurstable.

WITHCALL, a parish in the hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 3 miles from Louth and 151 from London; containing 6 houses and 66 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WITHCOTT, an extra parochial chapelry in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 8 miles from Melton Mowbray and 96 from London; containing 4 houses and 52 inhabitants.

WITHECOMBE RAWLEIGH, a township and chapelry in the parish and hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 2½ miles from Exmouth and 166 from London; containing 151 houses and 692 inhabitants.

WITHELFLORRY, a hamlet in the parish of Brompton Regis, hundred of Taunton Dean, Somerset, 4 miles from Dulverton and 163 from London; containing 12 houses and 83 inhabitants.

WITHERIDGE, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Devon, 8 miles from Tiverton and 171 from London; containing 176 houses and 875 inhabitants. It has fairs the 24*th June* and the Wednesday before 16th April. It is a vicarage, value 23*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

WITHERIDGE, the name of a hundred in Devon, lying on the northern side of the county, bounded on the west by the river Mole, on the east by the hundred of Tiverton WITHERNE, a parish in the hundred of Calceworth, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Alford and 144 from London; containing 52 houses and 295 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

WITHERNSEA, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Owthorne, wapentake of Holderness, east riding of York, 4 miles from Patrington, and 197 from London; containing 15 houses and 76 inhabitants.

WITHERNSWICK, a parish in the same wapentake, east riding of York, 8 miles from Hull and 183 from London; containing 52 houses and 292 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

WITHERSDALE, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 1½ mile from Harleston and 98 from London; containing 15 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

WITHERSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 1½ mile from Haverhill and 60 from London; containing 82 houses and 424 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 17*s.* 2*d.*

WITHERSLACK, a township and chapelry in the parish of Beetham, Kendal ward, Westmoreland, 7 miles from Kendal and 260 from London; containing 53 houses and 306 inhabitants.

WITHIEL, a parish in the hundred of Pydar, Cornwall, 4 miles from Bodmin and 238 from London; containing 56 houses and 263 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

WITHINGTON LOWER, a township in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 6 miles from Congleton and 167 from London; containing 84 houses and 340 inhabitants.

WITHINGTON UPPER, or OLD, an adjoining hamlet, containing 21 houses and 137 inhabitants.

WITHINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 6 miles from Cheltenham; containing 124 houses and 572 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.*

WITHINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 4 miles from Hereford and 131 from London, containing 81 houses and 384 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 1*s.* 0*d.* in the patronage of the dean of Hereford.

WITHINGTON, a township in the parish of Manchester, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, near Manchester, and 182½ miles from London; containing 133 houses and 743 inhabitants.

WITHINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Upton Magna, hundred of south Bradford, Salop, 5 miles from Shrewsbury and 156 from London; containing 32 houses and 170 inhabitants.

WITHNELL, a township in the parish and hundred of Leyland, Lancashire, ½ miles from Chorley and 212 from London; containing 126 houses and 765 inhabitants.

WITHY BRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Bodington, Gloucester, 5 miles from Cheltenham.

WITHYBROOKE, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 9 miles from Rugby and 93 from London; containing 57 houses and 294 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WITHYCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 2½ miles from Dunster and 160 from London; containing 39 houses and 283 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 25*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

WITHYHAM, a parish in the hundred of Hartfield and rape of Pevensey, Sussex, 5 miles from East Grinstead and 33 from London; containing 130 houses and 1074 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

WITHYPOOL, a hamlet in the parish of Cleobury Mortimer, hundred of Stoddesdon, Salop, near Tenbury.

WITHYPOOL, a hamlet in the parish of Hawkridge, hundred of Willerton and Freemanners, Somerset, 8 miles from Dulverton and 172 from London; containing 30 houses and 144 inhabitants.

WITLEY, a parish in the hundred of Godalming, Surry, near Godalming, 38¼ miles from London; containing 163 houses and 1039 inhabitants. A spring in this parish, at Bonfield, is reckoned efficacious for sore eyes. This place retains its ancient privilege from serving on juries. From Hinchead and Gracewood-hills, are charming prospects of the surrounding country. The living is a vicarage, value 17*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* united with Thursley.

WITLEY, GREAT. See WHITLEY, Worcestershire.

WITLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Holt, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 8 miles from Worcester, and 120 from London; containing 46 houses, and 235 inhabitants.

WITLINGHAM, a village in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, near Norwich; containing 2 houses, and 20 inhabitants.

WITNESHAM, a parish in the hundred of Carlford, Suffolk, 4 miles from Ipswich, and 73 from London; containing 55 houses, and 387 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of Peter-house college, Cambridge.

WITNEY, a market town and parish, in the hundred of Bampton, Oxford, situated on the river Windrush, 11½ miles from Oxford, 7¼ from Burford, and 69 from London; containing 518 houses, and 2584 inhabitants. The town consists of two streets, at the upper end of the principal one stands the church, a handsome and spacious structure, built in a rich style of Gothic architecture, with a fine spire. Here is an extensive free school, having a good library founded by Henry Bex, a citizen of London, in the reign of Charles II. Witney has long been noted for its manufacture of blankets, which employs a number hands, and in the reign of Queen Anne, the blanket weavers were incorporated, under the stile of the master, assistants, wardens and commonalty, of the blanket weavers of Witney, they have also their hall, in which they regulate all matters, respecting the measure, mark, and quality of their staple commodity. There is also an alms-house for widows and a charity school. The market day is Thursday, and its fairs are, Easter Thursday, Holy Thursday, 10 July, Thursday before 10 October, Thursday after September 8, and the 4th December. Here is a bank. The rectory rated at 47*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* is united with the vicarage, value 9*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WITSON, a village in the hundred of Caldicot Monmouth, near Newport, containing 15 houses, and 73 inhabitants, lying on the coast.

WITTENHALL, a township in the parish of Wolverhampton, hundred of Offlow, Stafford near Wolverhampton, and 130 miles from London, containing 511 houses and 3143 inhabitants, of whom 1271 were returned employed in trade.

WITTENHAM, LITTLE, OR ABBAS, a parish in the hundred of Ock, Berks 4 ½ miles from Wallingford, and 50 from London, containing 23 houses and 134 inhabitants. It is a rectory value 17*l.* 10*s.*

WITTENHAM, LONG OR EARLS, another parish in the same hundred, Berks ¼ m. distant from the foregoing, containing 94 houses, and 451 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of Exeter College, Oxford.

WITTERING, a parish in the hundred of Nassaburgh, Northampton, 3 ½ miles from Stamford, and 83 from London, containing 34 houses, and 194 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.*

WITTERING, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Manhood, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 4 from Chichester and 67 from London, containing 25 houses and 202 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

WITTERING, WEST, another parish in the same hundred, and 1 m. distant from the preceding, on the shore of Bracklesham Bay, containing 61 houses and 396 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

WITTERSHAM, a parish in the hundred of Oxney, and lathe of Shepway Kent, 3 ½ miles from Tenterden, and 60 from London, containing 84 houses and 496 inhabitants. It has a fair on May day. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

WITTINGTON, a township, in the parish of Wallsend, in Castle ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Newcastle, and 281 from London; containing 205 houses and 1193 inhabitants.

WITTLESFORD. See WHITTLESFORD, Cambridge.

WITTLESFORD, the name of a hundred in Cambridge, on the southern side of the county, between Cambridge and Saffron Walden, in Essex.

WITTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Budworth, hundred of Northwich, Chester, adjoining Northwich, and 173 miles from London; containing 279 houses and 1531 inhabitants. The market town of Northwich belongs to this township.

WITTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of Houghton and hundred of Hurstingstone, Hunts, 3 miles from Huntingdon, and 62 from London; containing 30 houses and 213 inhabitants.

WITTON, a parish in the town of Droitwich, hundred of Halfshire, Worcester, 118 miles from London; containing 97 houses and 493 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* See DROITWICH.

WITTON, a township in the parish and hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 1½ mile from Blackburn, and 210 from London; containing 86 houses and 461 inhabitants.

WITTON, a parish in the hundred of Blofield, Norfolk, 5½ miles from Norwich, and 115 from London; containing 9 houses and 68 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* united with Little Plumbstead.

WITTON, a parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 3 miles from North Walsham, and 126 from London; containing 38 houses 187 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

WITTON, a hamlet in the parish of Aston, by Birmingham, Warwickshire.

WITTON, EAST, a parish in Hang West wapentake, north riding of York, 3 miles from Leyburn, and 232 from London; containing 80 houses and 383 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

WITTON, WEST, another parish in the same wapentake, 5 miles from Middleham; containing 100 houses and 446 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the duke of Bolton.

WITTON, a township in the parish of Wensley, in the same wapentake and riding of York as the preceding; containing 55 houses and 294 inhabitants.

WITTON GILBERT, a parish in Chester ward, Durham, 2 miles from Durham, and 264 from London; containing 68 houses, and 359 inhabitants. It is a curacy, united with Kimblesworth.

WITTON-LE-WEAR, a parish in Darlington ward, Durham, 3 miles from Bishop Auckland, on the banks of the Wear, and had formerly a castle at the conflux of the Wear with the Lynburne; it contains 74 houses and 450 inhabitants, and is a curacy.

WITTON SHIELDS, a hamlet in the parish of Long Horsley, Morpeth ward, Northumberland. 5 miles from Morpeth; containing 6 houses and 21 inhabitants.

WIVELISCOMBE, a market town and parish in the hundred of West Kingsbury, Somerset, situated on the river Tone, 10 miles from Taunton, and 156 from London; containing 438 houses and 2571 inhabitants, of whom 1542 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, chiefly that of woollen, for which this town has long been noted, such as shrouds, blanketing, kerseys, and baize. Here is an almshouse for 12 poor persons, founded and endowed by sir John Coventry. It is governed by a portreeve. Formerly it had 2 markets weekly, but now only one, held on Tuesday. Its fairs are 12th May and 25th September. The living is a vicarage, value 27*l.* 10*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof.

WIVELSFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Street, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 7 miles from Lewes; containing 70 houses and 442 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WIVENHOE, a parish in the hundred of Lexden, Essex, 3 miles from Colchester, and 54 from London; containing 173 houses and 1093 inhabitants. This place is the port of Colchester, lying on the river Colne, where that river is widened by the conflux of the Roman. It has a regular custom-house and quay, where the Colchester oysters are chiefly barrelled, and sent to the London market. The living is a rectory, value 10*l.*

WIVERBY, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 3 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 101 from London; containing 17 houses and 78 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.*

WIVETON, a parish in the Holt, Norfolk, 4½ miles from Holt, and 124 from London; containing 39 houses and 172 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.*

WIX, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, 4 miles from Manningtree, and 64 from London; containing 84 houses and 573 inhabitants. Here is a small charity school. It is a curacy.

WIXALL, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Prees, hundred of North Bradford, Salop, near Whitchurch, the population was returned included with that of Prees.

WIXAMTREE, the name of a hundred in Bedford, near the centre of the county, between the hundreds of Clifton and Barford.

WIXFORD, a hamlet in the parish of Exhall, hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, near Alcester; containing 23 houses and 116 inhabitants.

WIZE, a river in Cumberland, which falls into the Waver at Holme.

WOBURN, a market town and parish in the hundred of Manshead, Bedford, 8 miles from Dunstable, and 42 from London; containing 277 houses and 1563 inhabitants. The buildings are mostly modern, as the greater part of the town was destroyed by fire in 1729. Its church formerly belonged to a Cistertian abbey, founded in 1145, the chancel of which is disjointed from the church. At the general dissolution it was granted to lord Russell, on the site of which the present magnificent building called Woburn Abbey was erected by the late duke of Bedford. The house forms a large quadrangle, having a handsome court in the centre, fronting which is a large bason of water; the offices are behind the house, and in the principal front is a dome supported by pillars of the Tuscan order. The suites of rooms are fitted up in the most costly manner, and ornamented with admirable paintings, particularly the drawing room, representing the most celebrated battles of Alexander. The park, which is walled, is 10 miles in circumference, containing a great variety of hill and dale, ornamented at the termination of the different avenues with grottoes, Chinese temples, &c. A sheep shearing feast is annually held here, first established by the late duke of Bedford, when prizes are distributed to the various competitors for the most valuable fleeces, and it is attended by the principal nobility and gentry in the kingdom, who patronize this laudable institution. Here is a good free school, founded by Francis the 5th earl of Bedford; and a charity school. Woburn has a market on Friday, principally for butter and cheese; and its fairs are 12th and 26th March, 1st July, and 14th September. The church is a curacy of exempt jurisdiction, under the vicarage of Birchmore.

WOBURN BISHOPS, a parish in the hundred of Desborough, Bucks, 3 miles from Beaconsfield, and 26 from London; containing 293 houses and 1401 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.*

WODENSBURY. See WOODNESBOROUGH, Kent.

WOKEFIELD, a hamlet in the parish of Sulhampstead, hundred of Reading, Berks.

WOKEY, or OKEY, a parish in the hundred of Wells-forum, Somerset, near the Mendip hills, 2 miles from Wells; containing 143 houses and 740 inhabitants. In the lower part of the Mendip hills is Wokey Hole, the most celebrated cavern in the west of England: the entrance is very narrow; and after the length of about 15 feet, it expands into a cavern resembling the body of a church, the parts of which are very craggy, and abound with pendent rocks, from which there is a continual dripping of water; the bottom is extremely rough and slippery, abounding with irregular basons of water; from this cavern there is a passage leading into another of similar dimensions and apperance; from this you pass through another long and low passage, to a third vault, covered with an arched roof, on one side of which, is a sandy bottom about 20 feet broad, and on the other side a stream of water, very clear and cold, about 10 feet wide, and two or three deep; after passing through the rock it descends 40 or 50 feet to a level with the ground, driving a mill near the foot of the mountain, and forming the first source of the river Axe. Wokey Church is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* in the patronage of the sub-dean of Wells.

WOKING, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Surry, situated on the river Wey, 5 miles from Guildford, and 25 from London; containing 276 houses, and 1340 inhabitants. This was formerly a good market-town. It has a fair the 12th September, and is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of lord Onslow.

WOKING, the name of a hundred in Surry, on the western side of the county, divided from Hants by the river Blackwater.

WOKINGHAM, a market town and parish in the hundred of Sunning, Berks, 7 miles from Reading, and 32 from London; containing 415 houses, and 2027 inhabitants, exclusive of a small part of this parish, which belongs to the hundred of Amesbury, in the county of Wilts; containing 60 houses, and 254 inhabitants; in which is also situated the church. It consists principally of 4 streets, meeting in a large area, in which is an ancient market house of wood and plaster. The church is an extensive structure, having 3 ailes, supported within by some handsome pillars of chalk stone, and containing several handsome monuments. Wokingham has a good free school, and charity school; and about one mile from the town is an hospital founded in 1663, for a master and 16 brethren, under the direction of the draper's company. It has also a charity of 50*l.* bequeathed by archbishop Laud, to be paid every 3d year to three maidens, natives of the town, who shall have served one master or mistress faithfully for three years successively; and the other years it is to be applied to the apprenticing 5 boys. This town was incorporated by James I. under an alderman, high steward, recorder, burgesses, and town clerk; and here all the courts for Windsor forest are held. For many years there has been a singular custom of baiting two bulls in the market place, on St. Thomas's day, for which purpose, a small estate was left by Mr. Staverton for the purchase of a bull, to be given to the poor after being baited. The market on Tuesday, is noted for its great supply of poultry; its fairs are the Thursday after Shrove Tuesday, 21st April, 11th June, 10th October, and 2d November. About 4 miles distant, are the vestiges of some Roman entrenchments, called Cæsar's camp. The church is a perpetual curacy, under the dean of Salisbury.

WOLD, or OLD, a parish in the hundred of Orlingbury, Northampton, 6 miles from Wellingborough, and 73 from London; containing 79 houses and 369 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 18*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of Brazen Nose College, Oxford.

WOULDHAM. See WOULDHAM, Kent.

WOLD-NEWTON, a parish in the hundred of Bradley Haverstoe, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Grimsby, and 164 from London; containing 15 houses, and 99 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

WOLDINGHAM. See WOULDINGHAM, Surry.

WOLFHAMCOTE, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 4 miles from Daventry, and 76 from London; containing 85 houses, and 371 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*

WOLFERLOW, a parish in the hundred of Broxash, Hereford, 5 miles from Bromyard, and 131 from London; containing 15 houses and 102 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*

WOLLASTON, a parish in the hundred of Higham Ferrers, Northampton, 3 miles from from Wellingborough, and 64 from London, near the river Nen; containing 154 houses, and 761 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* united with Irchester.

WOOLLEY, a parish in the hundred of Leightonstone, Hunts, 6 miles from Huntingdon, and 65 from London; containing 7 houses, and 60 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

WOLPHY, the name of a hundred in Hereford, lying on the northern side of the county around Leominster.

WOLSINGHAM, a market town and parish in Darlington Ward, Durham, situated on the river Wear, 14 miles from Durham, and 260 from London; containing 388 houses, and 1834 inhabitants. It has a small market on Tuesday, and a fair on the 18th May. It is a rectory, value 31*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WOLSINGTON, a hamlet, in the parish of Newburn, Castle Ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Newcastle, and 282 from London; containing 10 houses, and 57 inhabitants.

WOLSTON, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, and division of Rugby, Warwickshire, 9 miles from Coventry, and 88 from London; containing 117 houses, and 577 inhabitants, including the hamlet of Marston: here was a priory cell to a Carthusian monastery, near Coventry. The living is a vicarage, rated at 15*l.* 10*s.*

WOLTERTON, a parish united with Wickmere, in the hundred of South Erpingham, Norfolk, 4 miles from Aylsham; containing 6 houses, and 34 inhabitants.

WOLSTON. See WOOLSTON.

WOLVERHAMPTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, situated on a rising ground 14 miles from Birmingham, and 130 from London; containing 2344 houses, and 12565 inhabitants, of whom 3356 were returned as being employed in various trades and manufactures; chiefly that of hardware, and noted for its ingenious locksmiths; most of the farmers in the neighbourhood have their forges, where they work when not employed in the field, and take their work to market as regular as other farmers do their corn, whence it is bought up for various ports, and finds a ready market throughout Europe; many of the women are assistants to these manufactures, and work at the file. The buildings are tolerably good of brick and tile, but have a sombre appearance, and the streets are narrow and dirty. It has two churches; St. Peter's collegiate, which has a lofty square tower, embellished with battlements, having 8 bells, a set of chimes, an organ, and also contains several handsome monuments. This church, as well as a convent, was erected about the end of the 10th century, by a Saxon lady, called Wulfruna, from whence the corruption of the word Wolver. An act of parliament was obtained in 1775, for the erection of a new church or chapel of ease, which was finished in a plain neat manner, in 1758, by subscription; but for want of funds, the steeple was not erected till 1776. It is dedicated to St. John. Here is a good charity school, endowed by Stephen Jennings, a native of this town, and lord mayor of London: there are also two other charity schools, the one for 50 boys, and the other for 40 girls. In 1777, the town was paved and lighted by act of parliament. Here are two banks, and a neat dissenting meeting-house. This town has a canal branching from the Dudley and Birmingham canal, communicating also with the Stafford and Worcester canal, or Aldersey, and another branch to the Wyrley and Essington canal, at Walsall. The market days are on Wednesdays and Saturday. Fair the 10th July. The mother church is a curacy under the dean of Windsor, and St. Johns', is a chapel of ease thereto.

Wolverley, a township in the parish of Kidderminster, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 2 miles from Kidderminster; containing 179 houses and 906 inhabitants.

Wolverton, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 1 mile from Stony Stratford, and 52 from London; containing 46 houses and 238 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 1*l.* 3*s.* 8*d.*

Wolves, Newton, a parish in the hundred of Ragland, Monmouth, 5 miles from Usk, and 140 from London; containing 36 houses and 207 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wolvey, a parish in the hundred of Knightlow, Warwick, 6 miles from Nuneaton, and 98 from London; containing 132 houses and 620 inhabitants. It was formerly a market town. The church is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.* and the patrons are lord Coventry, and the prebend of Wolvey, alternately. Fair, on St. Mark's Day.

Wombdon, a village in the hundred of North Petherton, Somerset, 1¼ mile from Bridgewater, and 142 from London; containing 23 houses and 244 inhabitants.

Womborn, a parish in the hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 4 miles from Wolverhampton, and 127 from London; containing 220 houses and 1170 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*

Wombridge. See Wembridge, Salop.

Womwell, a township and chapelry in the parish of Darfield, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Barnsley, and 170 from London; containing 125 houses and 614 inhabitants.

Womensweld, a parish in the hundred of Wingham, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 7 miles from Canterbury, and 62 from London; containing 35 houses and 138 inhabitants. It is a curacy, united with Nonington.

Womersley, a parish in the wapentake of Osgoldcross, west riding of York, 6 miles from Pontefract, and 170 from London; containing 43 houses and 351 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*

Womersley, a hamlet in the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine, near Lyme Regis, Dorset.

Wonersh, a parish in the hundred of Blackheath, Surry, 3 miles from Guildford, and 33 from London; containing 147 houses and 770 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 15*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

Wonston, a parish in the hundred of Buddlesgate, and division of Fawley, Hants, 12 miles from Basingstoke, and 57 from London; containing 115 houses and 564 inhabitants. It has a charity-school. The church is a rectory, value 46*l.* 15*s.* 7½*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

Wonston, a hamlet in the parish of South Brent, hundred of Stanborough, Devon, near Ashburton, on the river Avon, and 199½ miles from London.

Wonton, a hamlet in the parish of Almeley, hundred of Stretford, Hereford, near Kington, and 148½ miles from London.

Woodbaston, a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish of Penkridge, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, adjoining to Penkridge.

Woodbastwick, a parish in the hundred of Walsham, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 115 from London; containing 48 houses and 230 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, united with the rectory of Panxforth, rated at 6*l.*

Woodborough, a parish in the hundred of Thurgarton, Notts, 5 miles from Nottingham, and 129 from London; containing 109 houses and 527 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.*

Woodborough, a parish in the hundred of Swanborough, Wilts, 12 miles from Ludgershall, and 83 from London; containing 51 houses and 326 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Woodbridge, a market town and parish in the hundred of Loes, Suffolk, situated on the river Deben, 8 miles from Ipswich, and 78 from London; containing 590 houses and 3020 inhabitants, of whom 626 were returned as being employed in trade. The principal streets are well built and paved, and the church is a handsome structure, consisting of a nave and two ailes, the roof supported by 10 slender pillars, and 4 demi ones, of the Gothic order; the walls are of black flint: on the north side of the chancel is a private chapel, erected in the reign of queen Elizabeth. On the south side is the vestry room; the north portico is adorned on the front with a representation of St. Michael, the arch-angel, encountering the dragon, in relievo; the tower is 180 feet high, composed of flint-work, in beautiful compartments, and is a distinguished object at sea. Here are also an Independent and Quaker's meeting-houses; a grammar-school, 2 alms-houses, 3 public fire-offices, and 2 banks. The river being navigable for vessels which trade to London, Hull, Newcastle, and the Continent, it has a considerable traffic, and several docks for building vessels, with convenient wharfs and quays. Its name is supposed to have been originally derived from a wooden bridge, built over the road in a hollow way, communicating with two parks, and there is still a house at the foot of the hill called Dry-bridge, supposed to have been erected on the site thereof. The quarter-sessions of the peace for this division are usually held here in an ancient hall, erected in the reign of queen Elizabeth. On the site of its ancient priory is erected a handsome mansion, the seat of Capt. Carthew. The market on Wednesday is well supplied, and its fairs are the 5th April, and 2d October. The living is a curacy.

Woodbury, a parish in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon, 2 miles from Topsham, and 168 from London; containing 263 houses and 1286 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Exeter.

Woodbury, a hamlet in the parish of Beer Regis, Dorsetshire, 6 miles from Wareham.

Woodchester, a parish in the hundred of Longtrees, Gloucester, 2 miles from Stroud, and 104 from London; containing 191 houses and 870 inhabitants, of whom about 40 were returned as being employed in the manufacture of broad-cloth. Here is a well endowed free and grammar school, and an abbey, is supposed have been founded by the wife of earl Godwin. In the neighbourhood is a seat of lord Ducie. The living is a rectory, value 10*l.*

Woodchurch, a parish in the hundred of Wirrall, Chester, 3 miles from Liverpool, situated between the rivers Dee and Mersey. The village contains only 9 houses and 52 inhabitants; but the rectory is rated at 25*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

Wood Church, a parish in the hundred of Blackburne, and lathe of Scray, Kent, 5 miles from Tenterden, and 61 from London; containing 135 houses and 698 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the archbishop of Canterbury.

Woodchurch, a village in the isle of Thanet, being a member of the port of Dover, 5 miles from Sandwich.

Woodcot, a hamlet in the parish of South Stoke, hundred of Dorchester, Dorset, 6 miles from Nettlebed.

Woodcot, a hamlet in the parish of Sheriff hales, hundred of South Bradford, Salop, 2½ miles from Newport, and 138 from London; containing 19 houses and 130 inhabitants.

Woodcote, near Beddington, Surry, supposed to have been a considerable Roman station, now reduced to a single farm-house.

Woodcote, a parish in the hundred of Pastrow, and division of Kingsclere, Hants, 6 miles from Whitchurch, and 60 from London; containing 8 houses and 64 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wood Dalling, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Reepham, and 114 from London; containing 53 houses and 391 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* united with Swannington, in the patronage of Trinity hall, Cambridge.

Wood Ditton, a parish in the hundred of Chieveley, Cambridge, 2 miles from Newmarket, and 59 from London; containing 113 houses and 648 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.* united to the rectory of Newmarket.

Wood Eaton, a parish in the hundred of Bullington, Oxford, 3 miles from Oxford, and 58 from London; containing 15 houses and 73 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 10*d.* in the patronage of Corpus Christi college, Oxford.

Wood Eaton, a hamlet in the parish of Church Eaton, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, near Penkridge.

Wood Enderby, a parish in the hundred of Horncastle, and division of Lindsay, Lincoln, 3 miles from Horncastle, and 136 from London; containing 28 houses and 153 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of Carlisle.

Woodford, a parish in the hundred of Winfrith, division of Blandford, Dorset, 4 miles from Dorchester, and 116 from London; containing 25 houses and 132 inhabitants.

Woodford, a hamlet in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 5 miles from Stockport.

Woodford, a parish in the neighbourhood of Beacontree, Essex, situated on the road to Epping, 8½ miles from London; containing 273 houses and 1745 inhabitants. In the church-yard is a handsome Corinthian column, the shaft being of coloured marble, brought from Italy, and the base and capital of white marble; it is a monument to the memory of sir Edmundbury Godfrey, who was murdered in the reign of Charles II.; and cost 1500*l.* The living is a rectory, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*

WOODFORD, a parish in the hundred of Chipping Warden, Northampton, 7 miles from Towcester, and 66 from London; containing 120 houses and 629 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the king.

WOODFORD, a parish in the hundred of Huxloe, Northampton, 2 miles from Thrapston, and 77 from London; containing 93 houses and 491 inhabitants. It is a rectory, divided into two portions, rated at 22*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of lord St. John.

WOODFORD-BRIDGE, a hamlet in the parish of Woodford, hundred of Becontree, Essex, 10 miles from London, on the road to Chipping Ongar. Here are several neat mansions, and being on an eminence, it has a beautiful prospect. Near the bridge over the Roding, is a pump of excellent water, erected at a great expence, in 1776, for the accommodation of the poor inhabitants.

WOODFORD, LOWER, a parish in the hundred of Underditch, Wilts, 3 miles from Salisbury, and 83 from London; containing 74 houses and 345 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, rated at 13*l.* 10*s.* united with Wilsford, belonging to the prebend thereof in Salisbury cathedral.

WOODFORD, UPPER, a parish in the foregoing parish, 1 mile distant therefrom.

WOODFORD STRANGEWAYS. See STRANGEWAYS, near Dorchester, Dorset.

WOODGREEN, a village in the division of New Forest, Hants, near Lyndhurst, and 88 miles from London; containing 93 houses and 392 inhabitants.

WOODHALL, a parish in the hundred of Gartree, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Horncastle, and 140 from London; containing 25 houses and 145 inhabitants. The church is a vicarage, in the patronage of the bishop of Lincoln.

WOODHAM, a hamlet in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 8 miles from Aylesbury; containing 4 houses and 21 inhabitants.

WOODHAM, a township in the parish of Great Aycliff, Darlington ward, Durham, 8 miles from Darlington, and 251½ from London; containing 35 houses and 166 inhabitants.

WOODHAM FERRIS, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 10 miles from Billericay, and 33 from London; containing 124 houses and 667 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WOODHAM MORTIMER, a parish in the hundred of Dengey, Essex, 1½ mile from Malden, and 36 from London; containing 48 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

WOODHAM WALTER, another parish in the same hundred, ¾ mile distant from the preceding; containing 59 houses and 352 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

WOODHAY, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Eringar, and division of Kingsclere, Hants, 5 miles from Newbury, and 61 from London; containing 170 houses and 803 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 6*s.* with Ashmansworth chapel annexed, in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WOODHAY, WEST, a parish in the hundred of Kintbury Eagle, Berks, 6 miles from Newbury, and 62 from London; containing 22 houses and 109 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.*

WOODHORN, a parish in Morpeth ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Morpeth, and 295 from London; containing 28 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 21*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

WOODHOUSE, a township and chapelry, in the parish of Barrow, hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 2½ miles from Mountsorrell, and 106 from London; containing 108 houses and 668 inhabitants.

WOODHOUSE, a hamlet in the parish of Shilbottle, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Alnwick; containing 6 houses and 29 inhabitants.

WOODHOUSE, a hamlet in the parish of St. Michael's, Litchfield, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 1½ mile from Litchfield, containing 6 houses and 28 inhabitants.

WOODHURST, a hamlet in the parish of St. Ive's, Huntingdon.

WOODLAND, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Ipplepen, hundred of Haytor, Devon, 2 miles from Ashburton, and 190 from London; containing 24 houses and 212 inhabitants.

WOODLAND, a township in the parish of Eyham, hundred of High Peake, Derby, 5 miles from Tideswell, and 157 from London; containing 36 houses and 163 inhabitants.

WOODLAND, a township in the parish of Hope; in the same hundred as the preceding, and 5 miles from Tideswell; containing 38 houses and 239 inhabitants.

WOODLAND, a parish united with Horton, in the hundred of Knowlton, and division of Shaston, Dorset, 4 miles from Cranbourne, and 97 from London; containing 63 houses and 364 inhabitants. Fair, 5th July.

WOODLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Almondsbury, near Berkeley, Gloucester.

WOODLAND, a tything in the parish and hundred of Mere, Wilts, near Mere, and 102 from London; containing 126 houses and 823 inhabitants.

WOODLAND, a hamlet in the parish of Cockfield, Darlington ward, Durham, 6 miles from Bishop's Auckland, and 251 from London; containing 16 houses and 78 inhabitants.

WOODLEIGH, a parish in the hundred of Stanborough, Devon, 3 miles from Kingsbridge, and 204 from London; containing 39 houses and 247 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

WOODLEY, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Sonning, Berks, near Reading.

WOODMANCOAT, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Cleeve, Gloucester, 3 miles from Cheltenham, and 98 from London; containing 54 houses and 192 inhabitants.

WOODMANCOAT, a hamlet in the parish of Dursley, Gloucester, 1 mile from Dursley.

WOODMANCOAT, a hamlet in the parish of Brown Condover, hundred of Mainsbridge, division of Fawley, Hants, 7 miles from Basingstoke, and 52 from London; containing 12 houses and 74 inhabitants.

WOODMANCOAT, a parish in the hundred of Tipnoak, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 4 miles from Steyning, and 47 from London; containing 36 houses and 234 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 1s. 10*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WOODMANSEY, a hamlet in the parish of St. John, Beverley, east riding of York, 1½ mile from Beverley, and 186 from London; containing 32 houses and 229 inhabitants.

WOODMANSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Wallington, Surry, 2 miles from Carshalton, and 14 from London; containing 24 houses and 151 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 7s. 6*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WOODMERCOTE, a hamlet in the parish of North Cerney, Gloucester.

WOODNESBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Eastry, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 1½ mile from Sandwich, and 67 from London; containing 124 houses and 603 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Rochester.

WOODNEWTON, a parish in the hundred of Willybrooke, Northampton, on the banks of the Nen, 3½ miles from Oundle, and 84 from London; containing 59 houses and 268 inhabitants.

WOODNORTON, a parish in the hundred of Eynesford, Norfolk, 5 miles from Reepham, and 117 from London; containing 60 houses and 288 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12s. 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and canons of Christ-church, Oxford.

WOODPLUMPTON, a township and chapelry in the parish of St. Michael's Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 4 miles from Prescott, and 220 from London; containing 239 houses and 1197 inhabitants.

WOODRISING, a parish in the hundred of Midford, Norfolk, 2 miles from Watton, and 93 from London; containing 14 houses and 118 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 18s. 4*d.*

WOODSETT, a township in the parish of Austone, wapentake of Strafforth and Tickhill, west riding of York, 5 miles from Worksop, and 151 from London; containing 30 houses and 123 inhabitants.

WOODSHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Waddesdon, near Aylesbury, Bucks.

WOODSIDE, a township in the parish of Westward, in Allerdale ward, below Derwent, Cumberland, 4 miles from Wigton, and 300 from London; containing 111 houses and 484 inhabitants.

WOODSIDE, a township in the parish of Wigton, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 1½ mile from Wigton, and 305 from London; containing 68 houses and 238 inhabitants.

WOODSIDE, a township in the parish of Shiffnal, hundred of Brimstrey, Salop, near Shiffnal, and 143 miles from London; containing 145 houses and 892 inhabitants.

WOODSIDE, a hamlet in the parish of Elsdon, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 6 miles from Bellingham, and 300 from London; containing 25 houses and 193 inhabitants.

WOODSPEEN, a hamlet in the parish of Speen, hundred of Faircross, Berks, 2 miles from Newbury, and 58 from London; containing 79 houses and 371 inhabitants.

WOODSTOCK, a borough, market town, and parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, situated on a brook which falls into the Isis, 8 miles from Oxford, and 62½ from London, containing 203 houses and 1322 inhabitants. The town is pleasantly situated, and contains several good buildings, and the streets are well paved. The town-house is a modern neat building; here is also a good free school founded in the reign of queen Elizabeth, 3 alms-houses endowed for 3 poor persons, and six more erected by the present duchess of Marlborough. Woodstock is noted for its manufactures of fine wash leather gloves and polished steel watch chains, &c. In the time of the Saxons here was a royal palace, in which Alfred translated Poethius's work on the Consolation of Philosophy. This palace was frequently the residence of our sovereigns till the civil wars, when it was entirely demolished. The parish church is a handsome structure, and has a square tower of stone, containing 8 bells and a good set of chimes. The corporation consists of a lord high steward, recorder, town clerk, 5 aldermen, (one of whom is always mayor,) and 17 common councilmen. It returns 2 members to parliament, the right of election being in the mayor, aldermen, and freemen of the borough, the number of voters about 400, and the returning officer, the mayor. Adjoining the town on the left is Blenheim-house and park, the magnificent seat of the duke of Marlborough. See BLENHEIM. Here are annual horse races. Market on Tuesday, and Fairs the 2d Tuesday after 2d February, 5th April, Whit-Tuesday, 2d August, 3d October, Tuesday after 2d November, and the 1st and 17th December. The church is a curacy annexed to the rectory of Bladon, in the patronage of the duke of Marlborough.

WOODSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts. ¾ mile from Peterborough and 80½ from London, containing 24 houses and 143 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 11s. 3*d.*

WOODTHORPE, a township in the parish of North Wingfield, hundred of Scarsdale, Derby, 5 miles from Chesterfield, and 150 from London, containing 34 houses and 201 inhabitants.

WOODTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Loughborough, hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 1 mile from Loughborough, containing 11 houses and 50 inhabitants.

Woodton, a parish in the hundred of Loddon, Norfolk, 8 miles from Norwich, and 104 from London, containing 54 houses and 417 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Woodville, a hamlet belonging to and in the liberties of Dover, Kent, adjoining to Dover, 72 miles from London, containing 25 houses and 145 inhabitants.

Woodwalton, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, near Peterborough, and 80 miles from London, containing 37 houses, and 198 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 1*l.*

Woodyates, East and West, two small hamlets in the parish of Pentridge, division of Shaston, Dorset, 4 miles from Cranborne.

Wookey. See Wokey, Somerset.

Wool, a township and chapelry in the parish of Coomb Kaynes, in the hundred of Rushmore, division of Blandford, Dorset, 8 miles from Wareham, and 115 from London, on the banks of the river Frome, containing 81 houses and 383 inhabitants. Here is a bridge over the river Frome, and at 3 miles distance towards the sea is Lulworth Castle. See Lulworth.

Wooland, a parish in the hundred of Whitway, division of Sherborne, Dorset, 8 miles from Blandford, and 110 from London, containing 22 houses and 123 inhabitants. It is a rectory not in charge.

Woolaston, a township and chapelry in the parish of Alvington, hundred of West bury, Gloucester, 9½ miles from Newnham, and 126 from London, containing 93 houses and 613 inhabitants.

Woolaton, a parish in the hundred of Broxton, Notts, 3 miles from Nottingham, and 127 from London, containing 150 houses and 838 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, with the chapel of Cossall annexed.

Woolavington, a parish in the hundred of Whitley, Somerset, 4 miles from Bridgewater, and 138 from London, containing 62 houses and 294 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* united with Puriton, in the patronage of the dean and canons of Windsor.

Woolavington, a parish in the hundred of Rotherbridge, and rape of Arundel, Sussex, 4 miles from Petworth, and 53 from London, containing 28 houses and 192 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.*

Woolbeeding, a parish in the hundred of Eastbourne, rape of Chichester, Sussex, 1 mile from Midhurst, and 59 from London, containing 34 houses and 212 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

Woolborough, a parish in the hundred of Haytor, Devon, 1 mile from Newton bushel and 188 from London; containing 165 houses and 1623 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Woolcombe, a small hamlet, partly situated in the parish of Toller Porcorum, and partly in that of Poorstock, division of Bridport, Dorset, 7 miles from Beaminster.

Woolcombe, a hamlet in the parish of Melbury Bule, hundred of Yetminster, division of Sherborne, Dorset, 8 miles from Sherborne.

Wooldale, a township in the parish of Kirkburton, Agbrig wapentake, west riding of York, 7 miles from Huddersfield and 181 from London; containing 506 houses and 2620 inhabitants.

Woolding ham, a parish in the hundred of Tandridge, Surrey, 2 miles from Godston and 18 from London; containing only 6 houses and 33 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wooler, a market town and parish, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, situated on the river Till, near the Cheviot Hills, 31 miles from Morpeth and 323 from London; containing 280 houses and 1679 inhabitants. This town contains several streets, and is much resorted to in summer by invalids, for the benefit of goats-milk and whey. The church stands on an eminence, is a modern building, the old one having been on the opposite side of the river. Market on Thursday, and its fairs are 4th May and 17th Oct. The living is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Durham.

Woolfardisworthy, a parish in the hundred of Hartland, Devon, 9 miles from Bideford and 210 from London; containing 98 houses and 591 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Woolfardisworthy, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 6 miles from Crediton and 186 from London; containing 29 houses and 131 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Woolford, Great, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 3 miles from Shipston on Stour and 60 from London; containing 47 houses and 278 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* in the patronage of Merton college, Oxford.

Woolford, Little, a hamlet in Great Woolford, and 1 mile distant therefrom; containing 39 houses and 229 inhabitants.

Woolhampton, a parish in the hundred of Theale, Berks, 7 miles from Newbury and 49 from London; containing 43 houses and 322 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

Woolhope, a parish in the hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 7 miles from Hereford and 128 from London; containing 127 houses and 672 inhabitants.

Woolley, a hamlet in the parish of Bathwick, hundred of Bathforum, Somerset, 3 miles from Bath and 110 from London; containing 18 houses and 80 inhabitants.

Woolley, a parish in Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Barnsley and 175 from London; containing 93 houses and 565 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Woollos St. a parish in the hundred of Wentlodge, Monmouth, adjoining Newport, and 147½ miles from London; containing 58 houses and 228 inhabitants.

WOOLPIT, a parish in the hundred of Thedwestry, Suffolk, 8 miles from Bury and 79 from London; containing 108 houses and 625 inhabitants. The church is a handsome Gothic structure, but has a mean spire; near it is a spring called our Lady's well. Woolpit was formerly a market town, and is noted at present for its species of white brick, similar to those called Flanders brick. The living is a rectory, value 6*l*. 18*s*. 9*d*.

WOOLSTANTON, a parish in the hundred of Pirehill, Stafford, 1 mile from Newcastle and 150 from London; containing 973 houses and 4679 inhabitants; a considerable number of whom were employed in the various trades and manufactures peculiar to Newcastle. The church is a valuable living. It is a rectory rated at 32*l* 3*s*. 9*d*.

WOOLSTENHOLME, a township in the parish of Rochdale, forming a district of the town of Spotland, Lancashire, 3 miles from Rochdale and 199 from London; containing 280 houses and 1546 inhabitants.

WOOLSTON, a township in the parish of Warrington, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 2 miles from Warrington and 177 from London; containing 92 houses and 542 inhabitants.

WOOLSTON, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2½ miles from Newport Pagnel and 48 from London; containing 21 houses and 113 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l*. 16*s*. 1*d*.

WOOLSTON, LITTLE, another parish in the same hundred, ½ mile distant from the foregoing; containing 20 houses and 103 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l*. 6*s*. 1*d*. in the patronage of the king.

WOOLSTON. See WOLSTON, Warwick.

WOOLSTONE, a hamlet in the parish of Uffington, hundred of Shrivenham, Berks, 4½ miles from Wantage and 63 from London; containing 38 houses and 208 inhabitants.

WOOLSTONE, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Worthen, hundred of Deerhurst, Gloucester, 4 miles from Tewksbury and 100 from London; containing 16 houses and 83 inhabitants.

WOOLSTROPE, a parish in the hundred of Grantham Soke, Kesteven, Lincoln, 4 miles from Grantham and 115 from London; containing 74 houses and 372 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l*. 2*s*. 8*d*. in the patronage of the duke of Rutland.

WOOLTASTON, a hamlet in the parish of Alderbury, hundred of Ford, Salop, 11 miles from Shrewsbury and 173 from London; containing 20 houses and 101 inhabitants.

WOOLTON, LITTLE, AND MUCH, two adjoining townships in the parish of Childwall, hundred of West Derby, Lancaster, 5 miles from Prescott and 198 from London; the former containing 68 houses and 419 inhabitants, and the latter 78 houses and 439 inhabitants.

WOOLVERCOTT, a township and chapelry in the parish of St. Peter's in the east, Oxford in the hundred of Wootton, Oxfordshire, 2¼ miles from Oxford, and 57 from London; containing 64 houses and 341 inhabitants.

WOOLVERDINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 5 miles from Warwick and 95 from London; containing 30 houses and 159 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WOOLVERSTONE, a parish in the hundred of Samford, Suffolk, situated on the river Orwell, 4 miles from Ipswich, and 67 from London; containing 32 houses and 241 inhabtants. It is a rectory, value 5*l*. 8*s*. 7*d*.

WOOLVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge, Lynn, Norfolk, 5 miles from Lynn and 102 from London; containing 14 houses and 114 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l*.

WOOLVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Frome, Somerset, 5 miles from Frome; containing 28 houses and 169 inhabitants.

WOOLVERTON, a parish in the hundred of Overton and division of Kingsclere, 55 Hants, 2 miles from Kingsclere and from London; containing 34 houses and 144 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l*. 2*s*. 8*d*.

WOOLVISTON, a township in the parish of Billingham, Stockton ward, Durham, 4½ miles from Stockton and 252 from London; containing 89 houses and 411 inhabitants.

WOOLWICH, a market town and parish in the hundred of Blackheath, lathe of Sutton at Hone, Kent, on the banks of the Thames, 8 miles from London; containing 1341 houses and 9826 inhabitants, of whom 1363 were returned as being employed in various trades, exclusive of the artificers in the arsenal. The church is a modern building, having been erected of late years by act of parliament. It is a handsome brick edifice. Woolwich is noted as being the most ancient military and naval arsenal in England, and has also a royal dock yard, under the direction of the navy board, as at Deptford. It is recorded in history, that men of war were built here as early as the reign of Henry 8th; and that Queen Elizabeth honoured this place with her presence, at the launching of a ship named after herself. The whole of the works are encompassed with high walls. The ropery here is extensive, where the larger cables are made for the men of war. In the park or gun yard is a repository of cannon of all sizes and dimensions, having upwards of 8000 pieces laid up at one time, for the supply of the army and navy, the ordnance forming the most considerable branch of the government business at this place. In the warren the artillery is cast and proved by the officers and engineers under the board of ordnance. Here is also a laboratory where the mattrosses are employed in making cartridges, charging bombs, grenades, &c. for public service. Here is also a royal academy, instituted in 1741, under the board of ordnance, for the education and instruction of young gentlemen intended as engineers. This institution is under the immediate direction of a governor and lieutenant governor.

This yard has suffered considerably from fire, particularly in the years 1802, 1803, and 1804; but happily without communicating to the magazines. At high water, the river here, nearly a mile over, is called Woolwich reach, having from seven to eight fathoms water; as the channel lies directly E. and W. for about 3 miles, clear of sands or shoals, there is safe anchorage here for vessels of the largest burthen. It is remarkable that a small detached part of this parish lies on the Essex side of the river, in the county of Kent, which had once a chapel, on the site of which now stands a building called the Devil's house. Off the town, are stationed two hulks for the reception of convicts, sentenced to labour, who are employed at the dock yard, and in the warren, and of late have been very usefully engaged in the rigging of the navy; number about 800. Market on Friday. The living is a rectory, value 7*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Rochester.—Lysons's environs of London.

WOOPERTON, a hamlet in the parish of Eglingham, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, 5 miles from Wooller and 318 from London; containing 8 houses and 56 inhabitants.

WOOTON, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 5 miles from Barton, and 164 from London; containing 53 houses 302 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

WOOTON, a parish in the hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 2½ miles from Northampton, and 63 from London; containing 94 houses and 427 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of Exeter college, Oxford.

WOOTON, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Oxfordshire, 2 miles from Woodstock, and 64½ from London; containing 155 houses and 823 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of New College, Oxford.

WOOTON, a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish of Pilton, hundred of Glaston, Somerset, 4 miles from Shepton Mallet, and 120 from London; containing 38 houses and 224 inhabitants.

WOOTON, the remains of a parish in East Medina, Isle of Wight, Hants, 4 miles from Newport, in the road to Brading; containing 4 houses and 38 inhabitants. It is generally called Wooton-bridge, from a causeway thrown across a small river, to detain the tide; at high water it forms a beautiful lake; near it is a singular Gothic house, built by Lord Bolton, now the seat of Charles Shute, Esq. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 16*s.*

WOOTON, a parish in the hundred of the same name, Surry, 2 miles from Dorking, and 25 from London; containing 73 houses and 441 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

WOOTON, a parish in the hundred of Kings Hamford, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 8 miles from Canterbury, and 63 from London; containing 17 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*

WOOTON, a hamlet, in the parish of Wellington, hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, near Hereford.

WOOTTON, a parish in the hundred of Redbornstoke, Bedford, 5 miles from Ampthill, and 50 from London; containing 239 houses and 732 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*

WOOTTON BASSETT, a borough, market town, and parish, in the hundred of Kingsbridge, Wilts, 5½ miles from Swindon, and 88½ from London; containing 279 houses and 1244 inhabitants. It is a mean town, and most of the houses are thatched: though it is a corporation, governed by a mayor, aldermen and 12 burgesses, and sends 2 members to the imperial parliament, who are chosen by the freeholders paying scot and lot. Number of voters about 10, and the returning officer, the mayor. It has a small charity school. Market on Friday. Fairs 4th May, 13th Nov. and 19th Dec. The living is a vicarage, value 12*l.*

WOOTTON COURTNEY, a parish in the hundred of Carhampton, Somerset, 4 miles from Minehead, and 164 from London; containing 49 houses and 345 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of Eton college.

WOOTTON FITZPAINE, a parish in the hundred of Whitchurch, division of Bridport, Dorset, 4 miles from Lyme, and 140 from London; containing 66 houses and 355 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.*

WOOTTON GLANFIELD, a parish in the hundred of Buckland Newton, division of Sherborne, Dorset, 6 miles from Sherborne, and 120 from London; containing 46 houses and 275 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.*

WOOTTON, NORTH, a hamlet in the parish, hundred, and division of Sherborn, Dorset, adjoining to Sherborn; containing 12 houses and 67 inhabitants.

WOOTTON NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge Lynn, Norfolk, 2½ miles from Lynn, and 92 from London; containing 24 houses and 124 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

WOOTTON RIVERS, a parish in the hundred of Kinwardstone, Wilts, 5 miles from Great Bedwin, and 76 from London; containing 69 houses and 313 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of King's college, Oxford.

Wootton, South, a parish in the hundred of Freebridge, Lynn, Norfolk, 2 miles from Lynn, and 99 from London; containing 24 houses and 124 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, in the patronage of the king.

Wootton St. Lawrence, a parish in the hundred of Chutely, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 5 miles from Basingstoke, and 48 from London; containing 70 houses and 548 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Winchester.

Wootton under Edge, a borough, marke town, and parish, in the hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, 9 miles from Minchinhampton, and 108 from London; containing 281 houses and 1587 inhabitants, seated beneath a pleasant and fertile eminence; the town is well built, and has a handsome church, the tower of which is adorned with battlements and pinnacles; in it are several handsome monuments of the Berkeley family. Here is a free-school, founded in 1385 by lady Catherine Berkley; it has also almshouses for 6 poor men and as many women. Here is a small manufacture of cloth. The government of the town is vested in a mayor (who is chosen annually, at the court leet of the earl of Berkeley,) and 12 aldermen. Market on Friday, and a fair on the 25th September. The living is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 10*s.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Christ Church, Oxford.

Wooton Underwood, a parish in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 8 miles from Aylesbury, and 58 from London; containing 29 houses and 212 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Wootton Wawen, or Wavén, a parish in the hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 6 miles from Stratford, and 100 from London; containing 98 houses and 567 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of King's college, Cambridge.

Worcester City, in Worcestershire, situated on the banks of the Severn, 5¼ miles from Droitwich, 111 from London, by Evesham, and 120 by Tewkesbury. It contains 9 parishes within the city, 2237 houses, and 11,352 inhabitants, viz. 4909 males, and 6443 females, exclusive of the 2 out parishes of St. John and St. Michael's Bedwardine and a part of the parish of St. Peter's and St. Martin's; containing 428 houses and 2319 inhabitants. The cathedral was first erected by Ethelred, king of Mercia, in 680, when it was a convent of secular priests; a short time after the conquest, it was laid in ashes by the Welch, but was soon after rebuilt with greater magnificence, though not entirely completed till the year 1374. It is in length 394 feet, in breadth 78, and the tower 162 feet high. On the south side is a chapel of most curious workmanship; both the church and cloysters are arched with stone of a reddish colour; and in the tower are 8 good bells the largest weighing 6600lbs. The window in the west front was rebuilt in an elegant manner in 1789, in commemoration of the honour of his Majesty's visit at the music meeting in 1788, whose throne was placed beneath it: and in 1792, an elegant window was built, at the east end of the cathedral, containing some excellent paintings on glass. The pulpit is octagonal and of stone curiously carved in the Gothic manner with the symbols of the 4 evangelists, and a representation of the new Jerusalem, as described in the Revelations. The altar piece is of plain oak, with a painting in the centre, of the descent from the cross. The chief monument in the cathedral is that of king John, standing in the midst of the choir, but the body was interred under a small stone at the easternmost part of the church. On each side the figure of the king are those of the bishops Wolstan and Oswald. On the south side the altar is prince Arthur's sepulchral chapel, a most curious piece of antique workmanship; it was repaired and beautified in 1791, and consists of 5 orders of images, viz. virgins, bishops, kings, confessors, and angels, ornamented with the various badges of royalty: under an arched roof is the tomb of fine marble. There also are several other handsome monuments, particularly one of Dr. Hough, by Roubiliac. The chapter-house is a large circular room, standing on the eastern side, 60 feet high, the roof resting on a marble pillar; this is now used for a library, and contains many curious manuscripts; the cloysters, where the monks formerly resided, are now inhabited by the dignitaries of the cathedral; the refectory is used as a free-school. Fronting the cathedral is a fine street, exceedingly broad, called the High-street, in which is the Guildhall, erected in 1720. The county gaol, repaired and enlarged in 1795, has 2 large court yards, divided by an iron palisade, and so formed, that the gaoler and turnkey have a view of every cell. The city gaol stands in Friar-street, so called, from a house of Grey Friars, originally therein. Here is also a commodious house of industry, erected in 1784. The theatre is a neat small building, erected in 1781. Here are also several alms-houses and charity-schools, and a public infirmary, opened in 1745. Among the parish churches, 9 within the walls, and 2 without, none deserve particular notice but St. Nicholas's, which has an exceeding handsome spire, and in its parish is a noble free-school, founded by Henry VIII. The bridge over the Severn is of stone, having 5 semicircular arches, erected in 1780. There are meeting-houses here for various sectaries as well as Roman Catholics. Edgar's Tower, a strong portal, was part of its ancient castle, and near it is the register-office. Worcester has every convenience and accommodation in common with most cities, having its public banks, fire-offices, libraries, assemblies, music meetings, &c. Its principal manufactures are those of china and carpets. The present corporation, by charter of James I. consists of a mayor, recorder, sheriffs, 6 aldermen, 24 common councilmen, and 48 assistants; and sends 2 members to parliament, chosen by the citizens admitted to their freedom by birth or servitude, or by redemption: the number of voters is about 1700; and the returning officer the sheriff. This city suffered much during the wars between the houses of York and Lancaster; but the most remarkable event here was the famous battle between the English army, under Cromwell, and the Scotch, in the cause of Charles II. in 1650, when the royalists had 2000 killed and 8000 taken prisoners, most of whom were sold as slaves to the American colonies; after this, Cromwell ordered the walls of the city to be rased to the ground. This city gives title of marquis to the duke of Beaufort. The hop-market is the most considerable during the hop season, in the kingdom, and is governed by guardians, chosen out of every parish in the city. The market-days are on Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, and the markets well supplied with every kind of provision. The following are toll-free: 2d Monday in February, and the 1st Mondays in May, June, July and November. Its fairs are the Saturday before Palm Sunday, Saturday in Easter week, 15th August, 19th September, and the first Monday in December. There are 10 prebends in the cathedral, 9 whereof are in the patronage of the crown, and one annexed to the Margaret professorship of divinity in the university of Oxford. St. Martin's church here is a rectory, rated at 15*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*; St. Peter's a vicarage, 12*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*; St. Andrew's a vicarage, 10*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*; St. Clement's a rectory, 5*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*; St. John's Bedwardine a vicarage, 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; St. Michael's Bedwardine a rectory, 7*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.*; St. Swithin a rectory, 15*l.* 15*s.*; all in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Worcester. All Saints a rectory, rated at 13*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the king; St. Alban's a rectory, value 5*l.*; St. Helen's a rectory, value 11*l.* and St. Nicholas a rectory, 16*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*; all in the patronage of the bishop of Worcester. Lat. 52° 9′ 30″. Long. 2° 0′ 15″ west.

Published January 1, 1808, by R. Phillips, Bridge Street, Blackfriars, London.

Green's Worcester.

WORCESTERSHIRE, an inland county of England, bounded on the north by Salop and Stafford; on the west by Herefordshire; on the south by Gloucestershire, and on the east by Warwickshire; its figure is irregular, but its extreme length may be computed at 30 miles, and its breadth at 20; being an area of 674 square statute miles, equal to 431,360 square acres, having 200,000 acres arable, and 150,000 acres pasturage. It is divided into 5 hundreds, viz. Backenhurst, Doddingtree, Halfshire, Oswaldslow and Pershore, containing 1 city, Worcester, 3 boroughs, Bewdley, Droitwich, and Evesham, 8 market towns; Bromsgrove, Dudley, Kidderminster, Pershore, Shipston, Stourbridge, Tenbury and Upton; the whole containing 152 parishes; 26,711 houses inhabited by 139,333 persons, viz. 67,631 males, and 71,702 females; of whom 30,230 were returned as being employed in trade, handicraft and manufactures, and 38,865 in agriculture: amount of money raised for the maintennnce of the poor in 1803, 87,307*l.* being at the rate of 5*s.* 4*d.* in the pound, total amount of income, according to the property tax act, 1806, 1,309,122*l.* and the average scale of mortality for 10 years, according to the registered burials, appears to have been as 1 to 46 of the existing population. Its principal rivers are the Severn, Avon, Stour and Teme: the Severn enters the county from Shropshire, runs through its whole length, and being joined by the Teme from the north-west, the small river Salwarp from the north-east, the Stour from the north, and the Avon from the south-east, renders the soil extremely fertile. The face of the country is diversified with hill and dale; the vale of Evesham, on the banks of the Avon, as well as the vale of Severn, is a particular fertile tract, in which, besides the usual objects of agriculture, great quantities of vegetables are here grown and sent to the adjacent towns. The products of the county, besides corn and cattle, are fine wool, hops, cyder and perry; the latter, especially, is in great reputation. A large quantity of the whitest salt is made from the brine springs at Droitwich; in the Malvern-hills, there rises a spring of uncommon purity, much resorted to in scrofulous disorders. The air throughout is reckoned very pure and healthy. The antiquities in this county are many. In the time of the Britons it was inhabited by the Cornavii; the Romans comprised it in the province of Flavia Cæsariensis; during the heptarchy it belonged to Mercia, and is now included in the Oxford circuit, the province of Canterbury and diocese of Worcester, and sends 9 members to parliament, 2 for the county, 2 for each of the towns of Droitwich, Evesham, and Worcester, and 1 for Bewdley.

WORDSFIELD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Great Malvern, hundred of Pershire, Worcester, near Upton on Severn.

WORDWELL, a parish in the hundred of Blackburn, Suffolk, 5 miles from Bury St. Edmund's, and 76 from London; containing 6 houses and 40 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

WORE, a hamlet in the parish of Muckleston, Salop, in the road to Chester, and 154 miles from London.

WOREFIELD. See WAREFIELD, Salop.

WORKINGTON, a sea port, market-town, and parish, in Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near the fall of the Derwent and Cocker into the ocean, 311 miles from London; containing 1160 houses and 5716 inhabitants, of whom 1055 were returned as being employed in various trades, principally in the salt works, salmon fishery, and coal trade, there being upwards of 100 vessels employed in the coal trade to and from this port; of late years very extensive and convenient butchers shambles have been erected, being a great improvement to the town. It is a rectory, value 23*l.* 5*s.*

Worksop, a market-town and parish in the hundred of Bassetlaw, Notts, 20 miles from Nottingham, and 142½ from London, near the Chesterfield canal; containing 639 houses and 3263 inhabitants, of whom 727 were returned employed in trade. It consists principally of two streets, and although small, is a very neat town, lying in a pleasant valley near the source of the river Ryton. It was formerly famous for an abbey, founded in the reign of Henry I. for monks of the order of St. Augustine. The church of this abbey is still standing, built in the form of a cathedral, with 2 lofty towers at the west end. Near the town is the noble seat of the duke of Norfolk; the ancient structure of which having been destroyed by fire, in 1761, another mansion has since arisen under the direction of Mr. Payne. The front is 318 feet long. In the centre is a portico, consisting of six very handsome Corinthian pillars; upon the points of the triangle are 3 figures, and a balustrade crowns the building. At the distance of 2 miles, south east, is Clumber Park, the seat of the duke of Newcastle.—Market on Wednesday, well supplied with malt; and its fairs are 20th March, 20th May, 21st June, and 3d October. The living is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

Worlaby, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 4 miles from Glandford, and 161 from London; containing 45 houses and 223 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

Worldham, East, a parish in the hundred and divison of Alton, Hants, 2 miles from Alton, and 46 from London; containing 23 houses and 149 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of Magdalen College, Oxford.

Worldham, West, another parish in the same hundred, 1 mile distant from the preceding; containing 10 houses and 84 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of Magdalen College.

Worle, a parish in the hundred of Winterstoke, Somerset, 7 miles from Axbridge, and 130 from London; containing 79 houses and 422 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* 15*s.* in the patronage of the king.

Worleston, a township in the parish of Acton, and hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 2½ miles from Nantwich, and 166½ from London; containing 46 houses and 269 inhabitants.

Worlingham, Great and Little, two united parishes in the hundred of Wangford, Suffolk, nearly adjoining, 2 miles from Beccles, and 108 from London; containing 24 houses and 168 inhabitants. They are united as a rectory, rated at 12*l.* in the patronage of the king.

Worlington, a parish in the hundred of Lackford, Suffolk, 1 mile from Mildenhall, and 70 from London; containing 50 houses and 326 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Whorlington, East, a parish in the hundred of Witheridge, Devon, 6 miles from Chumleigh, and 197 from London; containing 32 houses and 196 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

Worlington, West, another parish in the same hundred, ½ mile distant from the preceding; containing 26 houses and 158 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

Worlingworth, a parish in the hundred of Hoxne, Suffolk, 6 miles from Debenham, and 88 from London; containing 78 houses and 653 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* with Southolt chapel annexed.

Wormbridge, a parish in the hundred of Webtree, Hereford, 8 miles from Hereford, and 143 from London; containing 17 houses and 86 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

Womergay, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 7 miles from Downham, and 90 from London; containing 37 houses and 224 inhabitants. It is a curacy, in the patronage of the bishop of Norwich.

Wormelow, a hamlet in the parish of Birch, 6½ miles from Hereford.

Wormenhall, a parish in the hundred of Ashenden, Bucks, 4½ miles from Thame; containing 36 houses and 266 inhabitants.—It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.*

Wormesley, a hamlet partly situated in the township of Stokenchurch, and parish of Aston Rowant, and partly in the parish of Lewknor, hundred of Lewknor, Oxfordshire, near Watlington, 1½ mile from Stokenchurch, 6½ from Tetsworth, and 44 from London; the population of which was included with the return of Stokenchurch; here is a neat mansion, the seat of —— Fane, esq.

Wormingford, a parish in the hundred of Lexden, Essex, 5 miles from Colchester, and 52 from London; containing 48 houses and 353 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Wormington, a parish in the hundred of Kiftsgate, Gloucester, 5 miles from Evesham, and 91 from London; containing 14 houses, and 91 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

Wormhill, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Bakewell, hundred of High Peak, Derby, 2 miles from Tideswell, and 161 from London; containing 50 houses and 234 inhabitants.

Wormleighton, a parish in the hundred of Kineton, Warwick, 5 miles from Southam, and 78 from London; containing 28 houses and 149 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

Wormley, a parish in the hundred of Hertford, Herts, 2 miles from Hoddesdon, and 15 from London; containing 94 houses and 445 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*

WORMSHILL, a parish in the hundred of Eyhorne, Lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 8 miles from Maidstone, and 42 from London; containing 23 houses and 157 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* in the patronage of the governors of Christ's Hospital.

WORMSLEY, a parish in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 8 miles from Hereford, and 143 from London; containing 25 houses and 122 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WORPLESDON, a parish in the hundred of Woking, Surry, 2½ miles from Guildford, and 30 from London, near a branch of the river Wey; containing 151 houses and 945 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 24*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

WORSALL, HIGH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Northallerton, wapentake of Allertonshire, north riding of York, 4 miles from Yarm; containing 19 houses and 105 inhabitants.

WORSALL, LOW, a township in the parish of Kirklavington, Langbarugh wapentake, north riding of York, 4 miles from Yarm, near the Tees, and 250 from London; containing 40 houses and 164 inhabitants.

WORSBOROUGH, a township and chapelry in the parish of Darfield, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 2 miles from Barnsley, and 167 from London, on the Great Western Road, in a beautiful dale; containing 170 houses and 879 inhabitants. The church or chapel of ease, is a neat building, founded by sir Robert Rockley, in the reign of Henry III. with a free grammar school; here is also a library, left by Dr. Obadiah Walker.

WORSLEY, a township in the parish of Eccles, hundred of Salford, Lancaster, 7 miles from Manchester, and 191 from London; containing 833 houses and 5062 inhabitants, of whom 3082 were returned employed in trade. At Worsley Mill, in this parish, begins the duke of Bridgewater's Canal, executed under the direction of Mr. Brindley, in 1760; originally designed for conveying coals from his great estate, to Manchester; the course of the canal to Manchester, is about 9 miles; in its way it passes several public roads, by means of arches as well as over the river Irwell, high enough to admit the largest vessels to go underneath, with their sails up. This canal also passes through a hill ¾ of a mile. See CANAL.

WORSTEAD, a market town and parish in the hundred of Tunstead, Norfolk, 4 miles from North Walsham, and 120 from London; containing 147 houses and 650 inhabitants. This place is remarkable for the first introduction of the manufactory of twisted yarn, called Worsted. It has now a small manufacture of stockings and stuffs. Market day, Saturday; and a fair, on the 12th May. It is a vicarage, value 10*l.*

WORSTHORNE, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, 3 miles from Burnley, and 213 from London; containing 66 houses and 443 inhabitants.

WORSTON, another township in the same parish, 1½ mile from the foregoing; containing 24 houses and 128 inhabitants.

WORTH, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Tiverton, Devon.

WORTH, or WORD, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish and hundred of Eastry, lathe of St. Augustine, Kent, 1 mile from Sandwich, near the sea; containing 48 houses and 264 inhabitants.

WORTH, a township in the parish of Prestbury, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 5 miles from Stockport; containing 36 houses and 188 inhabitants.

WORTH, a parish in the hundred of Buttinghill, rape of Lewes, Sussex, 8 miles from Cuckfield, and 32 from London; containing 194 houses and 1501 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

WORTH, FRANCIS, a hamlet in the parish of Netherby, Dorsetshire.

WORTH, MATRAVERS, a parish in the hundred of Rowbarrow, and division of Blandford, Dorset, 3 miles from Corfe Castle, and 119 from London; containing 44 houses and 217 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*

WORTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 3 miles from Botesdale, and 88 from London; containing 142 houses and 784 inhabitants. The rectory, is divided into two portions, the one called Worthan Everard or Southmore, value 13*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*; the other, Wortham Jarvis, or Eastgate, value 15*l.* 1*s.*

WORTHEN, a parish in the hundred of Chirbury, Salop, 8 miles from Montgomery, and 170 from London; containing 270 houses and 1602 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 28*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*

WORTHING, a hamlet in the parish of Betley, hundred of Launditch, Norfolk, 4 miles from East Dereham, and 104 from London; containing 14 houses and 88 inhabitants.

WORTHING, a hamlet in the parish of Broadwater, hundred of Brightford, rape of Bramber, Sussex, 11 miles from Brighton, and 59 from London, on the sea coast. This place in a short space of time, from a few miserable huts, has now many handsome buildings, several of them sufficiently extensive and elegant to accommodate the first families in the kingdom.—The modern buildings are on the coast, but the village extends toward the Downs in a straight line, for about ½ mile. Here are two respectable libraries, and commodious warm baths. This place is much resorted to during the bathing season, by those who prefer quiet to the noise and bustle of Brighton; and there is a facility of bathing here in the most stormy weather, with a level extent of sand for a length of 10 miles. Being surrounded at the distance of about a mile by the chain of Sussex Downs, even in the winter months, the chilling blasts of the northern and eastern winds, are entirely excluded. A fishery is carried on here in the spring, for mackarel, and in the autumn, for herrings. Fair 20th July, for 3 days.

WORTHINGBURY, a parish in the hundred of Maylor, Flint, Wales, 10 miles from Chester; containing 96 houses and 530 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 19*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

WORTHINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Standish, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Wigan, and 202 from London; containing 16 houses and 111 inhabitants.

WORTHINGTON, a parish in the hundred of West Goscote, Leicester, 4 miles from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and 116 miles from London; containing 249 houses and 1096 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WORTHORPE. See WEETHORPE, Northampton.

WORTHY, KING'S, a parish in the hundred of Barton Stacey, division of Andover, Hants, 2½ miles from Winchester, and 69 from London; containing 23 houses and 161 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 22*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Bedford.

WORTHY, MARTYR, a parish in the hundred and division of Fawley, Hants, 3 miles from Winchester, and 59 from London; containing 25 houses and 192 inhabitants.—It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WORTING, a parish in the hundred of Chuteley, division of Kingsclere, Hants, 2 miles from Basingstoke, and 47 from London; containing 15 houses and 120 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

WORTLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Wootton-under-Edge, hundred of Berkley, Gloucester, near Wootton-under-Edge, and 108 miles from London; containing 37 houses and 235 inhabitants.

WORTLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Tankersley, Staincross wapentake, west riding of York, 8½ miles from Sheffield, and 171 from London, on the banks of the Don; containing 166 houses and 846 inhabitants.

WORTLEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Leeds, west riding of York, near Leeds, and 192 miles from London; containing 368 houses and 1995 inhabitants; noted for its produce of tobacco-pipe clay.

WORTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Isleworth, Middlesex.

WORTON, a tything in the parish of Potterne, hundred of Pottern and Canning, Wilts, 8 miles from Trowbridge, and 92½ from London, adjoining Devizes; and contains 58 houses and 326 inhabitants.

WORTON, NETHER and OVER, two small villages in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, near Deddington; the former containing 12 houses and 57 inhabitants, the latter, 9 houses and 53 inhabitants.

WORTWELL, a hamlet in the parish of Reddenhall, hundred of Earsham, Norfolk, 3 miles from Harleston, and 102 from London; containing 55 houses and 386 inhabitants.

WOTHERSOME, a hamlet in the parish of Bardsey, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 5 miles from Tadcaster; containing 2 houses and 15 inhabitants.

WOTTON, a township in the parish of Ellastone, hundred of Totmonslow, Stafford, 5 miles from Ashborn, and 140 from London; containing 47 houses and 239 inhabitants.

WOULDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Larkfield, Lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 2 miles from Chatham, and 32¼ from London; containing 20 houses and 165 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WOXBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Puttenham, hundred of Godalming, Surry, 4 miles from Guildford, and 34 from London; containing 18 houses and 101 inhabitants.

WRABNESS, a parish in the hundred of Tendring, Essex, on the river Stour, 4 miles from Manningtree, and 65 from London; containing 27 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* and the patron is the king.

WRAGBY, a market town and parish in the hundred of Wraggoe, Lindsay division, Lincoln, on the river Witham, 10 miles from Lincoln, and 144 from London; containing 71 houses and 410 inhabitants. It has a well endowed free-school, with a chapel and alms-house, founded by sir Edward Turner, for six clergymens widows. Market on Thursday; and its fairs are on Holy Thursday, and Michaelmas day, very considerable for cattle. The living is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* united with East Torrington.

WRAGBY, a parish in Staincross wapentake west riding of York, 5 miles from Wakefield, and 176 from London; the population of which was not returned to government. It is a curacy.

WRAGHOLME, a hamlet in the parish of Grainthorpe, hundred of South Esk, Lindsay division, Lincoln.

WRAMPLINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Forehoe, Norfolk, 3 miles from Wymondham, and 103 from London; containing 20 houses and 161 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*

WRANGLE, a parish in the hundred of Skirbeck, division of Holland, Lincoln, 7 miles from Boston, and 121 from London; containing 141 houses and 732 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*

WRANTAGE, a tything in the parish of Thorne Falcon, hundred of North Curry, Somerset, 6 miles from Taunton, and 138 from London; containing 31 houses and 196 inhabitants.

WRATTING, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Resbridge, Suffolk, 2 miles from Haverhill, and 60½ from London; containing 46 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.*

WRATTING, LITTLE, an adjoining parish; containing 12 houses and 107 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 4*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

WRAWBY, a parish in the hundred of Yarborough, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 2 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 159 from London; containing 65 houses and 285 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* with Brigg Chapel annexed, in the patronage of Clare-hall, Cambridge.

WRAXALL, a parish in the hundred of Portbury, Somerset, near Bristol, 111 miles from London; containing 76 houses and 540 inhabitants. Has a fair at All Hallowtide, which lasts 6 days. It is a rectory, value 49*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.* with Nailsea and Burton chapels annexed.

WRAXALL, a parish in the hundred of Eggarton, and division of Bridport, Dorset, 6 miles from Beaminster, and 131 from London; containing 11 houses and 54 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* united with Rampisham.

WRAXALL, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 7 miles from Chippenham, and 100 from London; containing 72 houses and 304 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 15*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

WRAXALL, SOUTH, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Bradford, Wilts.

WRAYSBURY. See WYRADSBURY, Bucks.

WRAY, a township in the parish of Melling, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 3 miles from Hornby, and 251 from London; containing 92 houses and 483 inhabitants.

WREA, a hamlet in the parish of St. Cuthbert's, Carlisle, Cumberland ward, Cumberland, 6 miles from Carlisle; containing 22 houses and 118 inhabitants.

WRESSLE, a parish in the wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, situated on the Derwent, 4 miles from Howden, and 185 from London; containing 40 houses and 191 inabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*

WREAY, a hamlet in the parish of Kirkham, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, near Kirkham; the population of which was included with Ribbey.

WRECKLESHAM, a tything in the parish and hundred of Farnham, Surrey, 1½ mile from Farnham, and 39 from London; containing 125 houses and 677 inhabitants.

WREIGHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Rothbury, Coquetdale ward, Northumberland, near Rothbury, and 306 from London; containing 4 houses and 27 inhabitants.

WREKIN, a river in Lancashire, which falls into the Stour, at Cussington.

WREKIN, a noted hill lying to the east of Shrewsbury, in Salop, between the Watling-street and the Severn, 1 mile from Wroxeter, the famous station of the Romans. It consists of a coarse dark grey whin, red on the surface, owing to the oxidation of its iron ore. The most steep side of the mountain, is the eastern, its height being reckoned 1200 feet. Aikin's Tour.

WRELTON, a township in the parish of Middleton, Pickering Lythe, north riding of York, 2½ miles from Pickering, and 228 from London; containing 25 houses and 166 inhabitants.

WRENBURY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Acton, hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 5 miles from Nantwich, and 160 from London, on the river Wever; containing 60 houses and 404 inhabitants.

WRENINGHAM, a parish in the hundred of Humble-yard, Norfolk, 8 miles from Norwich, and 101 from London; containing 48 houses and 366 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* united with Nayland.

WRENTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 5 miles from Southwold, and 105½ from London; containing 100 houses and 522 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 21*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

WRENTHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Wakefield, west riding of York.

WRESSEL. See WRESSLE, York, east riding.

WRESTLINGWORTH, a parish in the hundred of Biggleswade, Bedford, 3 miles from Potton, and 46 from London; containing 56 houses and 330 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and the patron is the king.

WRETHAM, EAST, a parish in the hundred of Shropham, Norfolk, 5 miles from Thetford, and 85 from London; containing 38 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 11*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of Eton College.

WRETHAM, WEST, a parish united with the foregoing, 1 mile distant therefrom; containing 5 houses and 96 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of King's College, Cambridge.

WRETTON, a parish in the hundred of Clackclose, Norfolk, 5 miles from Downham, and 82 from London; containing 39 houses and 264 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

WREXHAM, a market town and parish in the hundred of Wrexham, Denbighshire, Wales, 10 miles from Chester, and 188 from London; containing 580 houses and 2575 inhabitants, of whom 528 were returned as being employed in trade. It is a very fertile and pleasant situation, adjoining the vale royal of Cheshire. The houses in general are well built, and the church is an elegant structure, equal in point of beauty to some of the cathedrals in England; it was collegiate before the reign of Henry VII. when the present edifice was erected on the site of the old one, which was destroyed by fire. It is 178 feet long, and 72 broad; and the tower, which is 185 feet high, is adorned with images and curious carving. The inside of the church is ornamented with a number of monuments, some of them exceeding handsome; there are also several good monuments in the church-yard, a few of which with curious inscriptions. In 1647, this church was made a prison by Cromwell, when his soldiers destroyed the organ. Here are also two large meeting-houses, in one of which the service is performed in Welch one part of the day, and in English the other. It has a neat and convenient town hall, and a well endowed free school. Wrexham is a great mart for flannel, and the manufacturing of this article is the chief employment of the neighbouring poor; and in the vicinity are several manufactories of warlike instruments, particularly a large cannon foundery. Near Wrexham are still some remains of the famous dyke thrown up by Offa, king of Mercia, to prevent the incursions of the Welch. Market on Thursday and Monday; the former, is the principal. Its fairs are 23d March, Holy Thursday, 6th June, and 19th September. It is a vicarage, value 19*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of St. Asaph.

WRIBBENHALL, a hamlet in the parish of Kidderminster, Worcester, from which it is distant 3 miles, separated from Bewdley by a bridge over the Severn; containing 140 houses and 500 inhabitants.

WRIDDLINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Fordington, hundred of Ugglescomb, division of Dorchester, Dorset, near Dorchester.

WRIGGLETON, a parish in the hundred of Kilmersdon, Somerset, 6 miles from Frome, and 111 from London; containing 20 houses and 108 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 5*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* belonging to the prebend thereof in the church of Salisbury.

WRIGHTINGTON, a township in the parish of Eccleston, hundred of Leyland, Lancaster, 3 miles from Chorley, and 211 from London; containing 179 houses and 1140 inhabitants.

WRINEHILL, a hamlet in the parish of Madeley, Staffordshire, 4 miles from Newcastle under Lyne.

WRINGTON, a market town and parish in the hundred of Brent and Wrington, Somerset, 6 miles from Axbridge, and 125 from London; containing 154 houses 788 inhabitants. The town is situated on a small brook, and has a charity school. A considerable trafic is carried on in the growth of Teasles or Thistles, sold to the cloth manufacturers for the dressing of woollen cloth. This town is noted as the birth place of the celebrated philosopher, John Locke. It has a small market on Tuesday, and a fair on the 29th September. The living is a rectory, value 39*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* with Berrington chapel annexed.

WRINGWORTHY, a hamlet in the parish of Mary-tavey, Devon, near Tavistock.

WRITTLE, a parish in the hundred of Chelmsford, Essex, 2½ miles from Chelmford, and 28 from London; containing 278 houses and 1569 inhabitants. Before a bridge was erected at Chelmsford, the ancient road to Colchester, and Harwich, passed through this place, and it had formerly a market. It is supposed to have been built on the site of the Caesaromagus of the Romans. King John had a palace here, some vestiges of which are still to be seen. The living is a curacy, with Roxwell chapel annexed, in the patronage of New college, Oxford.

WRONGTON. See RUNCTON, Norfolk.

WROCKWARDINE. See ROCKWARDINE, Salop.

WROOT, a parish in Manley wapentake, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Gainsborough, and 158 from London; on the border of Notts, containing 41 houses and 210 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* in the patronage of the king.

WROTHAM, a parish in the hundred of the same name, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, 10 miles from Maidstone, and 24 from London; containing 110 houses and 755 inhabitants. The archbishop of Canterbury had formerly a palace here, and the church is a large structure, in which are 16 stalls, supposed to have been for the clergy who attended the archbishop. Till lately it had a market, which is now discontinued. Fair 23d April. The rectory rated at 50*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* has Stansted chapel annexed, and the vicarage is rated at 12*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*

WROTTESLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Tettenhall, hundred of Seisdon, Stafford, 3 miles from Wolverhampton, near the borders of Salop, and 133 from London; in Wrottesley park are supposed to be the vestiges of a British city, with the fragments of many stupendous stones.

WROUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Newport, Bucks, 2 miles from Fenny Stratford, and 47 from London; containing 53 houses and 311 inhabitants.

WROUGHTON, a parish in the hundred of Elstub and Everley, Wilts, 2 miles from Swindon, and 84 from London; containing, 204 houses and 1100 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 31*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

WROXALL, a hamlet in the parish of Honiley hundred of Barlichway, Warwick, 6 miles from Warwick, and 97 from London; containing 22 houses and 156 inhabitants.

WROXETER, a parish in the hundred of South, Bradford, Salop, 5 miles from Shrewsbury, and 156 from London; containing 95 houses and 544 inhabitants. It is supposed to have been an extensive city built by the Britons, the walls of which, at a subsequent period, extended for a circumference of three miles and were 3 yards broad. The living is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 8*s.*

WROXHALL. See WRAXHALL, Wilts.

WROXHAM, a parish in the hundred of Taverham, Norfolk, 6 miles from Norwich, and 115 from London; containing 58 houses and 326 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.* united with Selhouse.

WROXTON, a parish in the hundred of Bloxham, Oxford, 3 miles from Banbury, and 78 from London; containing 136 houses and 613 inhabitants. The living is a vicarage not in charge with Balscot chapel an-annexed, in the patronage of Christ Church college, Oxford.

Wyaston, a hamlet in the parish of Edlaston, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 3 miles from Ashborn, and 137 from London; containing 16 houses and 69 inhabitants.

Wyberton, a parish in the hundred of Kirton, division of Holland, Lincoln, 1½ mile from Boston, and 115½ from London; containing 107 houses and 477 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Wybunbury, a parish in the hundred of Nantwich, Chester, 3½ miles from Nantwich, and 161 from London; containing 61 houses and 278 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 13*l.* 12*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Litchfield and Coventry. The church is a handsome structure.

Wycomae, Chipping, or High, a borough, market town, and parish in the hundred of Desborough, Bucks, 29 miles from London; containing 818 houses and 4,248 inhabitants, of whom 801 were returned as being employed in trade. The town consists principally of one extensive street, with several small ones branching therefrom, on the south side of which runs a small river, which falls into the Thames, two miles below Marlow. There are several paper and corn mills in the neighbourhood, which constitute the chief traffic of the place. The town is governed by a mayor, recorder, 12 aldermen, a town clerk, &c. and returns two members to parliament, elected by the members of the corporation only. Returning officers the mayor and bailiffs. Here is a free grammar-school, and a royal military college. The market on Friday is well supplied, particularly with corn. Fair, 25th September. The church is a large structure, and is a vicarage, rated at 23*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

Wycombe, West, a parish in the same hundred as the preceding, Bucks, and 2½ miles farther on the west road, 31 from London; containing 257 houses and 1,330 inhabitants. The church is situated on an eminence, and is seen at a great distance, erected in 1763, at the expence of lord Le Despencer. On the tower is a ball, which will contain six people. It is a vicarage, value 11*l.* 9*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the king.

Wye, a parish in the hundred of the same name, lathe of Scray, Kent, near the river Stour, 3½ miles from Ashford, and 55 from London; containing 213 houses and 1,200 inhabitants. Formerly it was a market town, but the market has long since been disused. It has a bridge over the Stour, and an harbour for barges. The Wye downs are a ridge of hills, extending from Chatham to the sea between Folkstone and Hythe. Near Wye is Crundel, where many Roman antiquities have been dug up. Its fairs are 24th May, and 24 November. The church is a curacy.

Wye, a river which rises in Cardiganshire, and passing through Radnor, Hereford, Brecknock, and Monmouth, falls into the Severn, below Chepstow.

Wyersdale, North, a hamlet in the parish of Garstang, hundred of Amounderness, Lancaster, 4 miles from Garstang, and 231 from London; containing 106 houses and 571 inhabitants.

Wyersdale, Over, a hamlet in the parish of Lancaster, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancashire, near Lancaster, and 233 miles from London; containing 134 houses and 661 inhabitants.

Wyerstone, or Wyverstone, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 5 miles from Stow Market, and 81 from London; containing 20 houses and 243 inhabitants.

Wyham, a parish in the hundred of Ludborough, Lindsay division, Lincoln, 7 miles from Louth, and 160 from London; containing 13 houses and 83 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 20*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Wykeham, a parish in Pickering lyth, north riding of York 6 miles from Scarborough, and 213 from London; containing 74 houses and 384 inhabitants. The mansion called Wykeham abbey was erected on the site of a Cistertian priory, founded by Osborne de Wykeham in 1153. It is a curacy.

Wykeham, a hamlet in the parish of Ludford, hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsey division, Lincoln, near Louth; containing 4 houses and 23 inhabitants.

Wyken, a hamlet in the liberties of Coventry, Warwick; containing 12 houses and 66 inhabitants.

Wyke Regis, a parish in the hundred of Ugglescombe, and division of Dorchester, Dorset, near Weymouth, and is the mother church of Melcombe Regis. It contains 91 houses and 451 inhabitants. The church is an extensive building, with a lofty tower serving as a land-mark. Near the village is the ferry to Portland isle. It is a rectory, rated at 19*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Winchester.

Wykin. See Whykin, Leicestershire.

Wylam, a township in the parish of Ovingham, Tindal ward, Northumberland, 8 miles from Newcastle, and 282 from London; containing 113 houses and 673 inhabitants.

Wymondham, a market town and parish in the hundred of Forehoe, 9 miles from Norwich, and 100 from London; containing 95 houses and 494 inhabitants. Here was a priory of Benedictine monks, which in 1448 was erected into an abbey, the east part of the church of which was made parochial. Wymondham has a free school founded by queen Elizabeth in 1559, and a charity school. This town suffered considerably by fire in 1615, when 300 houses were consumed, and in 1631 the plague carried off a number of persons. Many of the men, women, and children are employed here in the manufacture of small wooden ware. The market is on Friday, and its fairs are 2d February, 6th May, and 7th September. The living is a vicarage, value 10*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Ely.

WYMONDLEY, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Broadwater, Herts, 2 miles from Hitchin, and 32 from London; containing 39 houses and 200 inhabitants. The ancient manor here is held by grand serjeantry, that the lord thereof shall be cup-bearer at the king's coronation. It is a curacy, in the patronage of Trinity college, Cambridge.

WYMONDLEY, LITTLE, a hamlet in the foregoing parish, ¼ of a mile distant therefrom; containing 35 houses and 169 inhabitants.

WYMONDHAM, a parish in the hundred of Framland, Leicester, 6 miles from Melton Mowbray, and 98 from London; containing 75 houses and 301 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 12*l.* and the patron is the king.

WYNSTER, a river in Lancashire, which falls into the Kenn.

WYRARDSBURY, a parish in the hundred of Stoke, Bucks, 2½ miles from Staines, and 18¾ from London; containing 96 houses and 616 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 14*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Windsor.

WYRE PIDDLE, a hamlet in the parish of Fladbury, hundred of Oswaldslow, Worcester, 2 miles from Pershore, and 105 from London; containing 34 houses and 144 inhabitants.

WYRLEY, GREAT, a hamlet in the parish of Cannock, hundred of Cuttlestone, Stafford, 5 miles from Penkridge, and 124 from London; containing 48 houses and 227 inhabitants.

WYRLEY LITTLE, a hamlet in the parish of Norton Canes, hundred of Offlow, Stafford, near Litchfield.

WYSALL, a parish in the hundred of Rushcliff, Notts, 8 miles from Nottingham, and 116 from London; containing 51 houses and 260 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 4*l.* 11*s.*

WYTHAM, NORTH, a parish in the hundred of Betisloe, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 12 miles from Stamford, and 101 from London; containing 33 houses and 186 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*

WYTHAM ON THE HILL, another parish in the same hundred, 7 miles from Stamford; containing 36 houses and 162 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 6*l.* 1*s.*

WYTHAM, SOUTH, a third parish, 1 mile distant from North Wytham; containing 68 houses and 343 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

WYTHAM, a parish in the hundred of Hormer, Berks, 3½ miles from Oxford, and 59 from London; containing 40 houses and 246 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 7*l.* 2*s.* in the patronage of the earl of Abingdon. Here is an ancient castellated mansion formerly belonging to the abbots, but now to the earl of Abingdon.

WYTHBURN, a hamlet and chapelry, in the parish of Crosthwaite, Allerdale ward, above Derwent, Cumberland, near Cockermouth; containing 23 houses and 137 inhabitants.

WYTON, a hamlet in the parish of Swine Holderness wapentake, east riding of York, 6 miles from Hull; containing 9 houses and 86 inhabitants.

WYVERSTONE. See WYERSTONE, Suffolk.

WYVIL, a hamlet in the parish of Denton, hundred of Winnibriggs and Threw, division of Kesteven, Lincoln, 5 miles from Grantham, and 109 from London; containing 15 houses and 89 inhabitants.

YADDLETHORPE, a hamlet in the parish of Botsford, Manley wapentake, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 6 miles from Glandford Brigg, and 163 from London; containing 16 houses and 74 inhabitants.

YARFORTH, a hamlet in the parish of North Allerton, Gilling east wapentake, north riding of York, 1 mile from Northallerton, and 230 from London, containing 25 houses and 125 inhabitants.

YALDHAM, a hamlet in the parish of Wrotham, Kent, 24 miles from London.

YALDING, a parish in the hundred of Twyford, lathe of Aylesford, Kent, on the river Medway, 4 miles from West Malling; containing 360 houses and 1968 inhabitants. It has fairs on Easter Tuesday and St. Peter and St. Paul's day. It is a vicarage, value 20*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

YALME, a river in Devonshire, which falls into the sea near Plymouth.

YANWORTH, a hamlet in the parish of Hasleton, and the hundred of Bradley, Gloucester, 2 miles from Northleach, and 84 from London; containing 19 houses and 97 inhabitants.

YANWORTH, a township in the parish of Barton, Westward, Westmoreland, 3 miles from Penrith, and 280 from London; containing 37 houses and 198 inhabitants. The leaning tower, belonging to lord Lowther, at Yanworth-hall, has lately been restored to its perpendicular. This massy edifice is upwards of 35 feet high; had been propped upwards of 40 years, and overhung its base 3 feet and 1 inch.

YANETON. See HEANTON, Devon.

YATTON, a parish in the hundred of Avisford, rape of Arundel, Sussex, 3 miles from Arundel, and 63 from London; containing 66 houses and 543 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 10*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Chichester.

YARBOROUGH, a hamlet in the parish of Croxton, hundred of Yarborough, and division of Lindsey, Lincoln, 6 miles from Barton, and 162 from London; containing 8 houses and 43 inhabitants.

YARBOROUGH, a parish in the hundred of Louth Esk, Lindsey division, Lincoln, 4¼ miles from Louth, and 157 from London; containing 37 houses and 182 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 9*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*

YARCOMBE, a parish in the hundred of Axminster, Devon, 7 miles from Honiton, and 150 from London; containing 110 houses and 740 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 28*l.*

YARDLEY, a parish in the hundred of Odsey, Herts, 7 miles from Baldock, and 31 from London; containing 105 houses and 484 inhabitants. In this parish rises the little river Beane. It is a vicarage, value 12*l.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's.

YARDLEY, a parish in the hundred of Doddingtree, Worcester, on the borders of Warwickshire, 4 miles from Birmingham, and 111 from London; containing 359 houses and 1906 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

YARDLEY GOBION, a hamlet in the parish of Grafton Regis, hundred of Cleley, Northampton, 4 miles from Stony Stratford, and 56 from London; containing 96 houses and 446 inhabitants.

YARDLEY HASTINGS, a parish in the hundred of Wymersley, Northampton, 5 miles from Olney, and 60 from London; containing 156 houses and 714 inhabitants. It has a fair on Whit-Monday. It is a rectory, value 13*l.* 6*d.* united with Devington, in the patronage of the earl of Northampton.

YARE, a river which rises in the middle of Norfolk, and passing the city of Norwich falls into the German ocean at Yarmouth. It is navigable to Norwich.

YARKHILL, a parish in the hundred of Radlow, Hereford, 9 miles from Ledbury, and 130 from London, containing 70 houses and 337 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 3*l.* 9*s.* 3*d.* in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Hereford.

YARLESIDE, a township in the parish of Dalton, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, near Ulverstone, and 270 miles from London; containing 102 houses and 599 inhabitants.

YARLINGTON, a parish in the hundred of Bruton, Somerset, 3 miles from Wincanton, and 111 from London; containing 35 houses and 252 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 16*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.*

YARM, or YARUM, a market-town and parish in Langbarugh wapentake, north riding of York, 6 miles from Gisborough on the river Tees, and 244 from London; containing 347 houses, and 1300 inhabitants. The church is a neat modern building and has a beautiful window of painted glass. Here were anciently 2 monasteries both founded by the family of Bruce in the 12th and 13th centuries. Over the Tees is a handsome stone bridge into Durham. This town has a considerable trade by water, particularly in corn and lead to the London market. Market on Thursday, and its fairs are on Holy Thursday, 2d Aug. and 19th Oct. The church is a curacy, in the patronage of the archbishop of York.

YARMOUTH, a sea-port, borough and parish in West Medina, isle of Wight, Hants, 10 miles from Newport and 100 from London; containing 72 houses and 343 inhabitants. The town stands on a bank sloping to the sea, and has evident traces of having been much larger than at present. The church stands in the middle of the town, and in a chapel adjoining is a fine monument of governor Holmes. The castle was built by Henry VIII. on the site of an ancient church, which was destroyed by the French; it is defended by 8 pieces of cannon and has a garrison. This borough sends 2 members to parliament, chosen by the corporation, consisting mostly of out-burgesses, and the returning officer is the mayor. The market-house is a neat building, over which is the town-hall, and it has a convenient quay. A packet daily sails hence to Lymington, which lies opposite. The church is a rectory, in the patronage of the king.

YARMOUTH, commonly called GREAT YARMOUTH, a sea-port, borough, and parish, in the hundred of East Flegg, Norfolk, situated on a peninsula, at the eastern extremity of the county, 22 miles from Norwich, and 124 from London; containing 3081 houses and 14,845 inhabitants, viz. 6463 males, and 8382 females, of whom 1400 were returned as being employed in various trades. It is encompassed on the south and east by the sea; on the north by the main land, and on the west by the Yare, over which is a handsome drawbridge, connecting it with Suffolk; it extends more than a mile in length, and half a mile in breadth, containing 4 principal streets, running from north to south, and 156 narrow lanes or rows intersecting them. It is surrounded with a wall, with 10 gates and 16 towers. The church dedicated to St. Nicholas, is a stately pile, 250 feet long, and, including the aisles, 108 in breadth; the wooden spire, which was 136 feet high, and remarked as appearing crooked in every direction, is now taken down. Near the centre of the town is a beautiful chapel of ease, dedicated to St. George, erected in 1717. The quay, which forms a fashionable and delightful promenade to this now much-frequented watering-place, is near a mile and quarter in length, and in some parts, 150 yards wide; from the bridge to the south gate, it is decorated with a fine range of buildings, among which the assembly house makes a conspicuous figure. The theatre erected in 1778, is a neat edifice, and is erected on the site of a Dutch chapel; here is also an assembly-room and a bowling-green. The bath-house was erected in 1759; it stands on the beach, which is a sinking sand, 3 furlongs from the chapel. The vestibule is a neat, well-proportioned room, having windows fronting the town and the sea. On the right of the entrance are 4 closets, having each a door into the bath-room; this bath is 15 feet by 8, appropriated for the gentlemen, and a similar one is assigned for the ladies. The sea water is raised every tide by a horse-mill into a reservoir, about 50 yards from the baths, whence it is conveyed by pipes. There are also very commodious bathing-machines, but the sand renders them unpleasant of access. Adjoining the north end of the bath-house a public-room was erected in 1788, for a tea and coffee-room. The jetty close to the bath-house, is 110 paces long, and forms an agreeable walk after bathing. The fishermen's hospital is of a quadrangular form, containing 20 rooms on the ground-floor. The hospital school was founded and is supported by subscription. The market-place forms a handsome area. The situation of this town is very favourable to commerce, and there are many ships belonging to the port, in the foreign trade; but the most considerable employment here is its extensive fishery, there being 60,000 barrels of herrings generally taken and cured here in the year. The season commences at Michaelmas, and lasts all October. It has also a considerable coal-trade. The roads lying east of the town, within the dangerous sands and banks of the Offing, are much frequented, but vessels are often cast away there. The harbour is convenient, but will not admit large vessels. Large sums of money are annually expended in clearing it of sand and mud. Among the peculiarities of this place, is the use of a low narrow cart, drawn by a single horse, and well adapted for the conveying of goods through the narrow lanes of this town; but others, on the same construction, more elegantly made, are let for airing to the neighbourhood, and are called Yarmouth coaches, but on passing the sands they have more the appearance of sledges; this is a very uneasy conveyance over the rough pavement of the streets. A sessions is annually held here in the month of September, for the trial of offences committed within the jurisdiction of the corporation. They have also a court of admiralty, for the protection of marine property; and a court for the recovery of debts above 2*l.* and under 10*l.* from the award of which there is no appeal. The corporation consists of a mayor, 18 aldermen, a recorder, and 36 common council-men, and it returns two members to parliament, chosen by the burgesses at large; the returning officer is the mayor. Here are two banks. Market on Saturday, well supplied, and a small one on Wednesday. Its fairs are the Thursday and Friday in Easter week. A barge sails to Norwich twice a week, having good accommodations for passengers. St. Nicholas church is a curacy, in the patronage of the dean and chapter of Norwich, with St. George's chapel annexed. Lat. 52° 55′. Long. 1°. 35′. east. —Swinden's Yarmouth, and Blomefield's Norfolk.

YARNFIELD, a hamlet in the parish of Maiden Bradley, hundred of Ferris Norton, Somerset, 8 miles from Bruton, and 103 from London; containing 18 houses and 101 inhabitants.

YARNSCOMB, a parish in the hundred of Hartland, Devon, 5 miles from Black-Torrington, and 197 from London; containing 70 houses and 358 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 7*l.* 11*s.* 11*d.* in the patronage of the king.

YARNTON, a parish in the hundred of Wootton, Oxford, 4 miles from Woodstock, and 59 from London; containing 38 houses and 215 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 8*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*

YARPOLE, a parish in the hundred of Wolphy, Hereford, 4 miles from Leominster, and 141 from London; containing 114 houses and 523 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

YARROW. See JARROW, Durham.

YARROW, a parish in the shire of Selkirk, Scotland, 9 miles from Peebles; containing 238 houses and 1216 inhabitants. In this parish rises the celebrated pastoral stream of Yarrow, which flowing for 16 miles through Etterick forest falls into the Etterick, near Selkirk.

YARWELL, a township and chapelry in the parish of Nasington, hundred of Willybrooke, Northampton, 6 miles from Oundle, and from London; containing 53 houses and 265 inhabitants.

YATE, a parish in the hundred of Henbury, Gloucester, 4 miles from Chipping Sodbury, and 114 from London; containing 126 houses and 654 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 30*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.*

YATE, a township in the parish of Whalley, hundred of Blackburn, Lancaster, near Blackburn, and 214 from London; containing 174 houses and 1045 inhabitants.

YATELEY, a hamlet in the parish of Crondal, and division of Basingstoke, Hants, 14 miles from Basingstoke, 3 from Hartford-Bridge, and 31 from London; containing 84 houses and 470 inhabitants. It is a curacy.

YATESBURY, a parish in the hundred of Calne, Wilts, 4 miles from Calne, and 83 from London; containing 51 houses and 234 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

YATTENDON, a parish in the hundred of Faircross, Berks, 8 miles from Reading and 45 from London; containing 52 houses and 253 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

YATTON, a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Much Marcle, hundred of Greytree, Hereford, 5 miles from Ross, and 126 from London; containing 165 houses and 1906 inhabitants. In this parish is an ancient camp called Cadbury, and two medicinal springs formerly much celebrated. The living is a vicarage, value 30*l.* with Kenn chapel annexed.

YATTON KEYNELL, a parish in the hundred of Chippenham, Wilts, 4 miles from Chippenham, and 98 from London; containing 75 houses and 353 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

YAVERLAND, a parish in the division of East Medina, in the Isle of Wight, Hants, near Brading; containing 18 houses and 90 inhabitants. Near fresh water gate, is the Hermits Hole, a curious cavity in the culver-cliff immediately over the sea. The living is a rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*

YAXHAM, a parish in the hundred of Midford, Norfolk, 2 miles from East Dereham, and 100 from London; containing 72 houses and 416 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 10*l.* 10*d.*

YAXLEY, a parish in the hundred of Normancross, Hunts, 4 miles from Peterborough, and 76 from London; containing 211 houses and 986 inhabitants. The town is small but well built, and reckoned very unhealthy on account of its vicinity to the Fens. The church is a handsome Gothic structure, having a lofty spire. In the neighbourhood are very extensive barracks, a part whereof are used for the confinement of prisoners of war. See STILTON. This was formerly a market town. It has a fair on Holy Thursday. The living is a vicarage, value 11*l.* and the patron is the king.

YAXLEY, a parish in the hundred of Hartismere, Suffolk, 2 miles from Eye, and 90 from London; containing 68 houses and 382 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 6*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

YAZER, a parish in the hundred of Grimsworth, Hereford, 8½ miles from Hereford, and 143 from London; containing 34 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

YCHLAWRCOED, a parish in the hundred of Wentloodge, Monmouth, near Newport, and 150 miles from London; containing 86 houses and 513 inhabitants.

YEDHAM, a township in the parish of Guiseley, Skyrack wapentake, west riding of York, 4 miles from Otley, and 902 from London; containing 305 houses and 1695 inhabitants.

YEALMPTON, a parish in the hundred of Plympton, Devon, 5½ miles from Modbury, 212 from London; containing 182 houses and 993 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 35*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* with Ravelstock chapel annexed.

YEARDSLEY, a hamlet in the township of Whaley, parish of Taxall, hundred of Macclesfield, Chester, 9 miles from Stockport.

YEARSLEY a township in the parish of Coxwold, Birdforth wapentake, north riding of York, 7 miles from Thirsk, and 217 from London; containing 29 houses and 164 inhabitants.

YEAVERING, a hamlet in the parish of Kirknewton, Glendale ward, Northumberland, 4 miles from Wooler, and 327 from London; containing 13 houses and 68 inhabitants.

YEDDINGHAM, a parish in Buckrose wapentake, East riding of York, 9½ miles from Malton, and 226 from London; containing 19 houses and 115 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*

YELDERSLEY, a hamlet in the parish of Ashborne, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 3 miles from Ashborne, and 137 from London; containing 32 houses and 187 inhabitants.

YELDHAM, GREAT, a parish in the hundred of Hinckford, Essex, 6 miles from Clare, and 50 from London; containing 74 houses and 468 inhabitants. Here are alms-houses for 6 poor men, and the school was formerly a house appropriated for dressing a dinner for poor folks when married. The church is a neat stone building, having a stately embattled Tower at the west end, containing 5 bells. It is a rectory, value 20*l.*

YELDHAM, LITTLE, another parish in the same hundred, Essex, 1 mile from the foregoing; containing 36 houses and 195 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 8*l.* and the patron is the king.

YELLAND, CONYERS, AND YELLAND, REDMAN. Two hamlets in the parish of Warton, hundred of Lonsdale, Lancaster, 2½ miles from Burton, the former containing 38 houses and 196 inhabitants, and the latter 32 houses and 148 inhabitants.

YELLING, a parish in the hundred of Toseland, Hunts, 5 miles from St. Neots, and 52 from London; containing 51 houses and 253 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 14*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.* in the patronage of the king.

YELVERTOFT, a parish in the hundred of Guildsborough, Northampton, 8 miles from Daventry, and 80 from London; containing 120 houses and 526 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 25*l.* 10*s.*

YELVERTON, a parish united with Alphington, in the hundred of Henstead, Norfolk, 5 miles from Norwich, and 108 from London; containing 11 houses and 65 inhabitants. It is a rectory, rated at 10*l.*

YENDON, a river in Staffordshire, which falls into the Churnet at Chetleton.

YEOVERIN, a small village near Wooler, Northumberland, noted for its hill, called Yeoverin Bell, one of the Cheviots, which is 2000 feet above the plain of the village; the foundations of several buildings are still observable on the sides and summit of this hill, supposed to have been either as fortifications or places of worship.

YEOVIL, a market town and parish in the hundred of Stone, Somerset, near the river Yeo, or Ivil, 5 miles from Sherborne, and 121 from London; containing 747 houses and 2774 inhabitants. Many of the streets are wide, and the houses well built of stone and brick. The church is a fine old Gothic structure, with a high tower, containing 6 bells. The market house is an extensive building supported by stone pillars; there are also rows of butchers' shambles. This town was formerly noted for its manufacture of woollen cloth; but its principal mart now is that of leather gloves. It is a corporation governed by a portreeve and burgesses, chosen in the manor court by the steward and homage-jury. Here are some almshouses, founded by John Woburne, minor canon of St. Paul's in 1476. The town is well supplied with water. The market on Friday is very considerable for lean cattle and all kinds of provisions. The fairs are 28th June and 17th November. It is a vicarage, value 18*l.*

YEOVILTON, a parish in the hundred of Somerton, Somerset, 2 miles from Ilchester, and 125 from London; containing 32 houses and 200 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 26*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.* in the patronage of the bishop of Bath and Wells.

YEOVELEY, a township and chapelry in the parish of Shirley, hundred of Appletree, Derby, 4 miles from Ashborn, and 136 from London; containing 41 houses and 192 inhabitants.

YESTER, or GIFFORD, a parish in the shire of Haddington, Scotland, 5 miles from Haddington, containing 159 houses and 929 inhabitants. Yester-house, the magnificent seat of the marquis of Tweedale, and its spacious grounds, are a great addition to the beauty and support of this parish. The village of Gifford, which is a burgh of barony, gives the title of earl to the marquis of Tweedale.

YETHOLM, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland, on the borders of England, 8 miles from Wooler; containing 199 houses and 1011 inhabitants. The town is pleasantly situated on the Bowmont water, which divides it into two villages; Town Yetholm, the property of Mr. Wauchope, of Niddry; containing 500 inhabitants, and the other Kirk Yetholme, belonging to the marquis of Tweedale. It is remarked that this town has long been inhabited by tinkers and gypsies.

YETBINGTON, a hamlet in the parish of Whittingham, Northumberland, the population of which was returned included with Callaley.

YEWTON, a hamlet in the parish and hundred of Crediton, Devon, 1 mile from Crediton.

YICH KENNISH, a small island of the Hebrides, between North Uist and Benbecula.

YOAKFLEET, a township in the parish of Howden, and wapentake of Howdenshire, east riding of York, 6½ miles from Howden, and 160 from London; containing 82 houses and 195 inhabitants.

YOLTON, a hamlet in the parish of Alne, Bulmer Wapentake, north riding of York, 10 miles from York, and 209 from London; containing 10 houses and 50 inhabitants.

YORK CITY, lying at the point where the three ridings of Yorkshire meet, and is reckoned a county of itself, pleasantly situated on the rivers Ouse and Fosse 200 miles from London; containing 28 parishes, 2407 houses, and 16,145 inhabitants, viz. 7018 males and 9127 females, of whom 5478 were returned as being employed in various trades. There are 23 parish churches, besides the minster or cathedral; this stately structure is not only the largest Gothic church in England, but may fairly be allowed superior to any in the universe; it is in length 524 feet, the breadth of the cross circle 222; the height of the lanthorn 180 feet, the breadth of the west front 109 feet, and the east 105. The west front is adorned with 2 beautiful towers, between which over the entrance is a window of fine painted glass. The south tower contains 10 bells, the largest weighing 57 cwt: and on the top of the lanthorn, in the great middle tower, is a turret containing a small bell. The ascent to the south end of the cross is by 3 flights of steps, from this entrance there is a beautiful view of the marigold window, on each side of which are two compartments of windows beautifully painted. Over the door is a dial, on the side of which are images which strike the quarters on two bells. The lanthorn steeple is ornamented with great taste, has 8 windows, and 45 feet high. The choir is divided from the rest of the church by a curious stone screen, over which is the organ, and the front is adorned with statues of all the kings of England from William the Conqueror to Henry VI. There are 32 stalls for the prebendaries, all of fine marble; behind which, on each side the choir, are curious ranges of carved wood-work, adorned with pinnacles. The ascent to the altar is by a flight of 16 steps, and the whole of the body of the church is paved in Mosaic. Many of the ancient nobility, as well as archbishops, were buried here, and some of the monuments are magnificent. The chapter-house is a fine piece of Gothic architecture, it is an octagon, 63 feet diameter, and 67 high, the roof being supported without pillars; the roof is of curious carved work, covered with lead; in the squares of the octagon are windows; some of them beautifully painted. In the vestry-room are several antiquities, particularly a horn, called Ulphus's drinking horn. The south side of the church has a good library. This beautiful structure appears to have been built in the reign of Richard I. the former edifice having been destroyed by fire. The chapter of York, besides the archbishop, consists of a dean, a precentor, chancellor, subdean, 4 archbishops, 28 prebends, a sub-chauntor, 5 vicars,

7 lay-clerks, 6 choristers, 4 vergers, &c. Near the cathedral is St. Michael's le Belfry, a curious Gothic structure, containing several handsome monuments: All-Saints, in the Pavement, has a neat octangular steeple: and St. Mary's Castle Gate was once admired for its fine spire, a considerable part of it was taken down from the damage it sustained by lightening in 1797. St. Margaret's has a singular porch of Saxon architecture. The rest of the churches have nothing to render them remarkable. The bridge over the Ouse consists of five gothic arches, the center one being 81 feet wide and 51 high, so that vessels of 90 tons can pass under it, the river being here nine feet deep. In the reign of Edward III. this city was reckoned as a port, and furnished one vessel with nine men to his fleet. The street from the bridge to the middle gate is large, broad, and open, and contains many handsome buildings. The castle, built by Richard III. is used as a prison; the river Fosse was formerly drawn in a deep moat entirely a round it, the only access being by draw-bridges, the larger of which led to the ancient great gate from the country on the south, the other from the city on the north. About the year 1734 the latter was rebuilt in a handsome manner, and is now the only entrance, except a small postern near the mills. The castle walls are 1103 yards in circumference. On the right wing of the area is a spacious prison for debtors; it consists of one floor, having 11 rooms, 16 feet square, and 12 high. Above these is the same number of rooms, one or two of which are appropriated for common-side debtors; on the ground floor are the gaolers apartments. In the left wing is a handsome chapel. The felons court-yard is down five steps between the two wings. The women felons are kept separate. On the west side of the area is the new county hall, erected in 1777: it is a superb building of the Ionic order. The halls for the trial of prisoners, and causes of Nisi prius, are very convenient at the north and south ends, the entrance being by a handsome portico of six columns. In 1780 an additional building was erected on the east side, having several spacious arched cells, for the confinement of prisoners for petty offences; also apartments for hard labour, and distinct hospital rooms. Without the castle gate, at the extent of the city liberties, are erected the city arms, where the sheriffs receive the judges of assize. Adjoining the castle is a high mound, on which stands the shell of a tower, called Clifford's tower, formerly furnished with cannon and a garrison. There were many convents and hospitals anciently here; many of their ruins being often dug up and converted into the foundations of new buildings. At the foot of the bridge is a very convenient and spacious quay. The Guildhall was erected in 1446, supported on two rows of massive oak pillars. In this hall are held the courts of justice, and, adjoining, are rooms for the juries, and the lord mayor's justice room. The windows are of painted glass. In 1729 a stately and convenient structure was erected on the north end of Coney-street, for the residence of the mayor. The assembly-house, which is situated in Blake-street, was built on a plan drawn by the earl of Burlington. It is 140 feet long and 40 broad, adorned with Corinthian pillars. The theatre is a neat building, erected in 1770. The county hospital, another handsome structure, was instituted in 1740; and a lunatic asylum in 1770. Here are a dispensary, two charity, and several Sunday schools. Adjoining All-Saints church is the museum, a tolerable collection of natural and artificial curiosities. At a mile distance from the city is an open place of ground called Knavesmire, where the races are held, it is flat but very moist, yet by constant draining is rendered convenient for the purpose. The new walk along the banks of the Ouse, is an agreeable promenade, being kept in excellent order, and well shaded with lofty trees. The streets are paved and lighted. York received its charter of incorporation from Richard II. and is the only city in England, whose chief magistrate is honoured with the title of Lord, except London. Its jurisdiction extends over a considerable district, besides the sole conservancy of the rivers Ouse, Wharfe, Derwent, Ayre, Don, and some parts of the Humber. It sends 2 members to parliament, who are chosen by the freemen in general, and who enjoy the privilege of sitting in their scarlet gowns, next the members of London, on the privy counsellors bench, the first day of the meeting of every new parliament. The government of the city is vested in the lord mayor, a recorder, 12 aldermen, 2 sheriffs, 8 chamberlains, 24 common council-men, 22 assistants, a town-clerk, and other inferior officers. The manufactures in the city are only small. The market places of which there are two, called the Pavement and Thursday market, are spacious and convenient. The cross in the former is square with a dome, ascended by winding stairs and supported by 12 Ionic pillars: this was erected in 1672, by Marmaduke Rawdon, a London merchant. The other is used on a Saturday as butchers shambles. On the west side of the market place stands a cross, for a shelter in bad weather. The market days are on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays; and Fairs every Thursday in the year, Whit-monday, 10th July, 12th August, and 22d November. Here are two public banks. The following are the livings in the city of York. All-Saints, North-street, a rectory rated at 4*l.* 7*s.* 11*d.* All-Saints on the Pavement, a rectory, 5*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* St. Cross, a rectory 6*l.* 16*s.*

4*d*. St. Cuthbert's with St. Helen's on the Walls, a rectory 5*l*. 10*s*. 10*d*. St. Helen's Stonegate, a vicarage 4*l*. 5*s*. 5*d*. St. Margaret, a rectory 4*l*. 9*s*. 9*d*. with St. Peter-le-Willows, vicarage. St. Mary, Castlegate, a rectory 2*l*. 8*s*. 6*d*. St. Michael's, Spurrier Gate, a rectory 8*l*. 12*s*. 1*d*. St. Saviour's, a rectory 5*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. all in the patronage of the crown. St Dennis Walmgate, a rectory 4*l*. 10*d*. united with St. George and Nabourn, a vicarage, in the patronage of the University of Cambridge. St. Lawrence, a vicarage, with St. John's, curacy valued at 5*l*. 10*s*. St. Martin's, Coney-street, a vicarage, 4*l*. St. Mary's Bishop hill in 2 parts valued at 5*l*. 10*d*. each. St. Michael le Belfry, with St. Wilfrid, a rectory 2*l*. 10*d*. all in the patronage of the dean and chapter of York. St. Trinity Goodramgate, a rectory 12*l*. 4*s*, 9*d*. and St. Trinity King's Court, a vicarage 8*l*. in the patronage of the archbishop of York, and St. Martin's Micklegate, a rectory valued at 45*l*. 16*s*. 3*d*. Lat. 53°. 57′. 45″. long. 1°. 6′. 4″.—Wests History & Ant. of York.

Yorkshire, a maritime county of England, bounded on the north by Durham and Westmoreland, on the east by the German Ocean, on the west by Westmoreland and Lancashire; and on the south by Chester, Derby, Notts and Lincoln. This county is double the size of any other in the kingdom; being 1[illegible]0 miles in length from E. to W. and 80 in breadth from N. to S. containing an area of more than 6000 square statute miles or 3,698,387 statute acres with a population of 858,892 persons. From its great extent it has been distributed into three divisions called ridings, a name derived from a Saxon word signifying a third part. The North Riding, comprehends the whole northern part from side to side descending to the capital in the center, being a district 83 miles in length, divided from the east riding by the river Derwent, and from a part of the west by the river Ure; it contains 1,311,187 acres of land, of which 442,565 are uncultivated, the remainder being enclosed lands, open fields, woods and roads. Along the coast next the German Ocean, it is very hilly, bleak and cold: the cliff of the coast is from 50 to 150 feet high: and from this the country rises very rapidly, in the space of ½ a mile to the height of 3 or 400 feet. The soil consists of a brownish clay and loam; the hills along the coast abound with alum shale; and there are several works for procuring this mineral. The district of Cleveland on the western side of the eastern moors, has a very fertile clay and a fine red sandy soil; the Vale of York, both in soil and fertility is variable; Swale Dale, on each side of the river Swale, is extremely fertile; the eastern Moorlands, form a wild and extensive tract of mountains, occupying a space of land about 30 miles in length and 14 in breadth; the great height of these moors renders them cold and bleak, and the surface of some of the higher hills, is entirely covered with large free stones, and on others large beds of peat and morass occur, in many places very dangerous to pass. Some of the dales among these moors are extensive, the bottoms being mostly narrow—not above 200 yards across, yet the land is generally cultivated near a mile up the hills. The western moorlands form a part of that long range of mountains, extending north from Stafford into Scotland. Upon these moors are several lead mines, as well as some of coal, the principal rivers in this riding are the Swale, Tees and Derwent; the Swale rises in the district called Swale Dale, on the borders of Westmoreland, flows easterly by Richmond, takes a southerly course, being joined by the Wiske from Northallerton and several other smaller rivers, and falls into the Ure below Aldborough. The Tees forms the northern boundary from E. to W. from Stockton, at its mouth to the northern extremity of Lune forest. The north riding is divided into 12 wapentakes, viz. Gilling east and west, Allertonshire, Langbraugh, Pickering Lythe, Whitby-Strand, Hang, east and west, Hallikeld, Birdforth, Bulmer and Rydall, containing 5 boroughs, Richmond, Scarborough, North-Allerton, Malton and Thirsk 31,512 houses inhabited by 155,506 persons, viz. 74,914 males, and 80,642 females of whom 26,207 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture, and 44,061 in agriculture. Amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, 76,961*l*. being at the rate of 2*s*. 6¾*d*. in the pound.

The East Riding, comprehends the south east part of the county, and is bounded on the north west and north, by the North Riding, on the north east and east by the German Ocean, on the south by the county of Lincoln, from which it is separated by the Humber; and on the west by the West Riding; it contains 810,200 square statute acres, having about 350,000 pasturage and 150,000 arable. That part adjoining the sea extending about 150 miles from the Humber to the north riding, is very bleak and in the spring is very backward as to vegetation; from the Spurn Head to Bridlington, being 38 miles, the shore is low, and the ill effects of the cold winds are not so much felt; the shore for 15 miles round Flamborough head is high, behind which lies the Sheep district of the Yorkshire Wolds, containing upwards of 500,000 acres. The soil is a light loam having a mixture of gravel. The country extending between the Wolds and the Ouse and Humber to Hull, is flat and consists of a stiff clay and sandy loam; from Hull towards the Spurn Head along the side of the Humber, is also flat with a strong soil. As the manufactures in this riding are not so extensive nor the population so numerous as in the other ridings, the produce of corn in this district is fully adequate to its consumption; its exports consist of vast quantities of wool, grain, bacon, butter and potatoes, and great numbers of horses are bought at the York and Howden fairs by the London dealers. The only manufacture

YORKSHIRE
NORTH RIDING
EAST RIDING
WEST RIDING
Flamborough Head
Spurn Head
River Humber
Scarborough
Malton
Pontefract
Rochdale
Burnley
Halifax
Wakefield
Doncaster
Selby
Beverley
Hedon
Hull
Thirsk
Ripon
Richmond
Northallerton
Whitby
Pickering
Helmsley
Knaresborough Harrogate
Skipton Settle
Leeds
Bradford
Otley
Tadcaster York
Howden
Market Weighton
Driffield
Bridlington
Patrington
Hornsea
Barton
Gainsborough
Doncaster
Sheffield
Rotherham
Barnsley
Huddersfield
Dewsbury
Wakefield
Pontefract
Rochdale
Bury Manchester
Stockport
Ashton
Oldham
Saddleworth
Todmorden
Burnley
Clitheroe
Whalley
Blackburn
Preston
Lancaster
Kendal
Kirkby Lonsdale
Sedbergh
Hawes
Reeth
Richmond
Barnard Castle
Darlington
Stockton
Middlesbrough
Guisborough
Whitby
Scarborough
Malton
Pickering
Helmsley
Thirsk
Northallerton
Ripon

in this riding of any consequence is at Wansford for carpets and spinning cotton. In point of trade, Hull is the emporium, from its situation, not only of this county but of several others. This riding has very little wood, and with coal is mostly supplied from Wakefield and Leeds, except on the eastern coast. The east riding is divided into six Wapentakes, viz. Buckrose, Dickering, Harthill, Holderness, Howdenshire, and Ouse and Derwent, besides that part called the Ainstey of the city of York, containing 25,781 houses and 139,433 inhabitants, viz. 67,457 males, and 71,976 females; of whom 22,000 were returned as being employed in trade and 31,538, in agriculture. It contains 3 boroughs, viz. Beverley, Hedon, and Hull. Amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, 68,325*l.* being at the rate of 2*s.* 7¾*d.* in the pound.

The West Riding, is by far the most extensive being 95 miles in length and 48 in breadth. It is bounded on the north by the North Riding, on the east by the East Riding and Lincolnshire, on the south by Derby and Notts, and on the west by Cheshire, Lancashire and Westmoreland. This riding is eminent for the number of its great and navigable rivers; the Ouse which takes its name at York, flows to the Humber after receiving many smaller streams. The Don is navigable nearly to Sheffield. The Calder which divides this riding from Lancashire, falls into the Aire near Wakefield, and becomes a large and rapid river, navigable to Leeds, Bradford and Skipton. The Wharfe has its rise at the foot of the Craven hills, and after a course of about 50 miles across the riding, flows for 10 miles in a line with the Aire and then falls into the Ouse. The face of this extensive tract is very irregular; the northern and western parts are hilly and mountainous, but intersected with numerous vales, while the rest of the district is flat. The whole is almost completely enclosed with stone dikes and hedges. The nature and quality of the soil is various, from a deep strong clay or loam to the worst peat earth. The whole contents of the riding is about 1,568,000 square statute acres having 700,000 acres of pasturage and 350,000 arable. The climate is in general moderate, but in the eastern part it is reckoned unhealthy from its low situation and its damps and fogs. This riding is noted for the extent of its manufactures for which it is admirably adapted in every shape. The raw materials are abundant on every side, it abounds in coals, and its water carriage is the means of conveying its produce not only to the ports of the district but throughout the kingdom, it abounding with many navigable canals as well as valuable rivers. See Canal, Leeds, Manchester, &c. This riding is divided into 9 Wapentakes, viz. Agbridge, Barkston Ash, Claro, Morley, Osgolderos, Skyrack, Staincliff, and Strafforth and Tickhill; it has 5 boroughs, Ripon, Pontefract, Boroughbridge, Aldborough and Knaresborough, and contains 111,146 houses inhabited by 563,953 persons; viz. 276,005 males and 287,948 females; of whom 164,188 were returned as being employed in trade and manufacture; and 55,695 in agriculture. Amount of money raised for the maintenance of the poor in 1803, was 277,050*l.* being at the rate of 6*s.* 2¾*d.* in the pound.

The principal manufacturing towns in Yorkshire, are Leeds, Halifax, Bradford, Wakefield, Keighley, Huddersfield, Pontefract, Sheffield, Rotherham and Barnsley, which see. The whole county contains 13 boroughs and sends 30 members to parliament, pays 24 parts out of 513, for the land tax. Total amount of income, under the property-tax act, 1806, was 7,509,042*l.* It contains 563 parishes, is included in the northern circuit and lies in the diocese and province of York.—Tuke's and Brown's Views of the Agric. of Yorkshire.

Youlgrave, a parish in the hundred of High Peake, Derby, 2 miles from Bakewell; and 155 from London; containing 154 houses and 686 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 9*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* in the patronage of the duke of Devonshire.

Youlthorpe, a hamlet in the parish of Bishop Wilton, wapentake of Harthill, east riding of York, 12 miles from York; containing 19 houses and 130 inhabitants.

Younghall, a considerable town in the county of Cork, province of Munster, Ireland, situated at the mouth of the river Blackwater, 25 miles from Cork. The harbour is very commodious, and has a convenient quay. The houses are tolerably well built, and the town has a considerable export trade, and a good market. A league south east from the haven's mouth, lies the little Island of Chapple. Lat. 51°. 52′. long. 8°. 22′ west.

Yoxall, a parish in the hundred of Offlow, Stafford, 6 miles from Litchfield, and 130 from London; containing 140 houses and 753 inhabitants, formerly this was a market town. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Yoxford, a parish in the hundred of Blything, Suffolk, 3½ miles from Saxmundham, and 94 from London; on the road to Yarmouth, containing 112 houses and 851 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*

Ystradffleur, or Strata Florida, the remains of an ancient abbey, in a most sequestered spot, 6 miles from Llanbeder, Cardiganshire Wales. This abbey was originally founded by Ap Gryffydd, prince of Wales, in 1164. At present nothing remains but a part of the ruins of its church.

Ytton. See Leton, Monmouth.

Yure, a river in Yorkshire, rising in the Cotter mountain, at the north westerne xtremity of the county, and passing Middleham, Ripon, and Boroughbridge, where it is joined by the Swale, and then coinstitutes the river Ouse; on this river is the magnificent cataract called Aysgarth force, reckoned by some to exceed some of the cataracts abroad.

ZEAL MONACHORUM, in the hundred of North Tawton, Devonshire, 24 miles from Bow, and 189 from London; containing 117 houses and 622 inhabitants. It is a rectory, value 17*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* in the patronage of Lord Boringdon.

ZEAL, SOUTH, a hamlet [illegible] in the parish of South Tawton, hundred [illegible]ford, Devon, near Oakhampton.

ZEALS, a tything in the parish [illegible] hundred of Mere, Wilts, 2 miles from Mere, and 104 from London, on the road to Wincanton; containing 85 houses and 387 inhabitants.

ZELL, or YELL, one of the Shetland Isles, north of that called the mainland, being 20 miles long and 7 broad, it contains, including Fetlar, 227 houses and 1389 inhabitants. Its inhabitants are chiefly employed in the fisheries.

ZENNER, a parish in the hundred of Penrith, Cornwall, 9 miles from Penzance, and 299 from London; adjoining the Lands End; containing 117 houses and 544 inhabitants. It is a vicarage, value 5*l.* 5*s.* in the patronage of the bishop of Exeter.

ZETHOLM, a parish in the shire of Roxburgh, Scotland. See YETHOLME.

ZETLAND. See SHETLAND.

N. B. Whenever the Authorities are not quoted it is to be understood that the Author has consulted the Population Tables and other Parliamentary Documents, and has made use of the best Itineraries and most respectable compilations. The descriptions of the counties are taken chiefly from the County Surveys published by the Board of Agriculture, as far as they have yet appeared.

Corrections of errors and communications of omissions and improvements, will always be thankfully received by MR. PHILLIPS, the publisher.

FINIS.

J. G. Barnard, Printer, 57, Snowhill.

00048007

Digitized with financial assistance from the Government of Maharashtra on 21 October, 2015